

surrounds. Whether one takes this path, the other that path.
To go to heaven, as described, are things that not to his salvation; he demands our limbs which are law-abiding and compliant states
To fulfill obligations; only opinions that are finely tinged with zeal Don't contradict the best. A hundred different ones.

new religions and sects, whatever you want to call them, Tzannen - also, to live together in a state, and to make up its members, without their seceding

Opinions that hinder / good things too far away, or they.

to stop all the philic and moral school;
To fulfill obligations, yield to harmony, to the earth.

FHaltung and for the expansion of the whole necessary

. Ludefen N little also religions and Meinen
| N 2 deen,

1

gen, for the good of the state, but for lateral luck
bliss is sought, belonging, so one has of

Not the state, the religions, but the religions.

Leagues let the state be ruled; they even one or the other religion established by law which leads to

The state's smoldering nature; it is necessary. From this erroneous principles created by the clergy, the rulers gave in out of ignorance, that's just how it is. the monster arose, which caused so much bloodshed ser au. brought ways har, mon. unste Hescche on will always be branded. ; a

Until the government of the Kine in vreussen wei *

fee all of Europe, at the good effect of the Tobe

French. For there above all the clergy, which in this Point witforechen were allowed to. their imagined eternal

Probably with the opposing temporal unite well te: fo, must. naturally the Haug after a herd as

It is not enough that many unwary people are against it.

Practice of so illustrious philosophers, written by himself Those who thought more noblely, and tolerant ones: preach Molten could free themselves from their prejudices so little to tear away, so that they always have a certain varnish had to, which was exactly as much as silence. Be. Will you still be the most pathetic among you?

dungen aaf Kenzelg und Lahrpählen angeftelt, nat — 8 j 2a on

|

" = 5

5 of the tolerance to be beamed. No wonder, if'
There was more doubt at a time when the terms:
even more restricted, and the matter is not yet resolved Experience confirmed it. The king's negation
In Prussia, it alone proved that all religions relatives, whose principles and behavior, not to contradict the purpose of the state, just as good Citizens as good soldiers, fine within, and that it
It only depends on wisdom, with which one can heal the limbs governs; for only she has religions without distinction tolerated and accepted, and it is except for this one
The hour, just as little as one is detrimental to the other.
had been, as the dwarf of the state and its fundamental
They didn't suffer in the process. But what is the reason?
I must ask here immediately about the fact that the Ju= the one where the addiction to tolerance is most pronounced, and almost in the whole world, only under certain conditions to be tolerated and thus unequal freedoms with the What do other citizens enjoy? What do I think of the
The reason that this human race, not even enjoys the civic benefits that others
Sects out of the porridge segipists round Li Theil |
will be? 5

With the many EN which ei. today u,

8 raise for the Jews, to give them the citizens=

\

To bring about personal freedoms, one would rarely believe,
These questions should have been answered long ago for that reason= tet fein. Not at all. Instead of them focusing on the.

true reason should be penetrated, which the states and

Thi get, to grant civil liberties to the Jews
gen: fo entertain us rather with that: fie.
us the pressures felt for centuries:

whimpering, inhumanity and barbarity verse:
throw the simple fairy tales from centuries ago
ten of the mob believed, still now to the cause of the trouble kung. to indicate, to make a mere pretext out of the whole thing to pass judgment on the citizens in their constitutions.

merely to view them as human beings, and in the end demand

gen, the Jews for even better citizens: than the Kriz to explain to them the country folk, the young men and guilds, and to elevate them to the dignities of to allow the highest level of service. In doing so, they raise:

Everywhere there was a scream, as if we had been awakened by nothing.
India would have lost these freedoms, -

and bear the laurels bestowed upon them.

enough, with so much pride, as if they with their Writings lit a light, thereby all Governments of Europe would be.

ee

. en

I am against the service, which some agree with.
The handling of this matter should be distinguished, not the Remembering slight things, and I am far from their Deserving laurels, the least. To break off the work,
They must instill respect even in envy.
But nevertheless, I am forced to gesture ben, daß sie bei ihren Unterschätzungen sehr oft über

I think I've driven away from the true point of view.

ten sie sich die Mühehegabe, der Juden Religions-principles, not as they originally were, but how they find it, not how they see their Philophans not believe, but rather as the majority believes,

approximately how to reform oneself according to one's imagination.
but how they must remain, closer and more precisely in consider, and a constitution that is reasonable
If the system has to be used, they would not only the true reason for the exclusion of freedom, and the impossibility of lending them now, found have them; they were also, when they explained them.

testing the states would have been taken into consideration.
ten, discovered that it is not in the ver-holding the princes or their subjects lie Fine, suspect the privileges of denying, but that the reason, which is so evil, and I confess harshly Effects brought about by the Father, only the
A 40 Jews

I = Jews themselves lie / and beni feit breath su
Be naans gelegen habe. b

8 The world may be so deeply forked in barbarity
 1 \ ben de possiglich war: fo konnte fie niemals die Unfuähig . f
 They misjudge the Jews' ability to be true burzers. Their f
 The principles of religion and their strict exercise must
 "to lead the states there of their own accord, to grant them the tolerance | either to fail completely, or at least under
 8 ne who hindered their reproduction, to gefat =
 For the greater their number imagined itself to be, = 1 ie 5 had to be their disadvantage, which arose for her from it. Just as alfo- the cause, i which subsequently brought greater misfortune upon the Jews = its effect lay in the citizens' inability to act;
 had to avoid the original problem, and consequently also — to avoid the unpleasant effects, only in their case
 If not just some, if all nations lie in the past and present world, simultaneous steps like = which they agreed upon/ so the driving force, the 5
 N < fe to excavation. caused, in fact no
 These are figments of the imagination. A community can never be made up of All nationalities will be hated if they do not adhere to the
 . | Hate had made it guilty. Mau gladly gives too much.
 * that prejudice, superstition and stupidity in many =
 r len en mit geviitt er die Juden mehr zu 2 i Best 3,

'pursue, not in brzken, defense in befcht anke. Dief
 The effect was that the main reason was once present.
 It was inevitable. The more the Jews distanced themselves from Fulfillment of the most important state obligations from castles =

"more so, they dealt with it, at the expense of true
 | and to enrich the more useful brush, the more mufle _ also the hatred and the denigration of the causes, in order to

To limit one's ability to wake up. But basically and this is not a separate, accidental original case, which did not originate in the main cause

Witten, and those who, as expected, in the behavior of the Jews lay, so that they would not come into being. Let the world the highest degree of enlightenment, whose fie flbis ict, achieve. In this property, the

To calculate insane needs more precisely, and the need

1. flexibility to rid oneself of such citizens who

50 of so many important stat duties

They will only become more visible. 5 —

Let all the supposed causes against bi ür 2

as against monsters goes to war, through ascent

Alärung, or whatever it may be, disappear.

'The majority of the Jews will be affected regardless now'

As before, unusable parts remain, which one considers...

Tolerance addiction never occurs without violating the

| will make the crooked citizens equal

ae 2 2 6. | Annen.

10 |

Finns. Not because of the behavior of the Christians, but within oneself, one's beliefs and articles of faith

They must begin, they must rebuke themselves, they must reprove themselves, they

72 must go to the field themselves; if the Re

Governments should be enabled to do so.

to keep the Christians equally -fabled. f

Any religious society, if it is tolerated, and even more. when their afflicted limbs, with the other state members, equal privileges were expected~~⁂~~

If ten want, it simply needs to be measured according to that.

that they are not detrimental to the purpose of the state,
not contradicting the best of its time.

This basic principle entitles us to our own attitude. Because when we are in a bourgeois Ders version us no reasonable one, nature every Stats appropriate in the long term and population growth~~⁂~~

nung targeting purpose preempt if not all

Songs fulfill their duties to such an extent that they
with regard to the common good | contribute, so she must soon stop being too fine, too little~~⁂~~ to cease to flourish. Reason and cheapness~~⁂~~

It therefore requires that the Jews also be brought to biefem
To measure standards, as soon as we want to be absolutely precise, that they consistently earn money with the Christian

Citizens in a uniform state are required to advertise.

5 8

According to opposing opinion, it only advertises that arrive, to demonstrate that the religion of the Jews,

It contains such principles, which are related to temporal well-being,

one composed of white orders

States are in contradiction. The speech is therefore here not at all from the virtue that the Jews gave their foundation= sats after able fine can. One gladly gives nn, that divine commandments with the commandments of the law
Ethical freedom and love of humanity / not in contradiction Exactly. But that doesn't prove that ib=

their commandments and their traditions do not give cause=
Sing and negation should be given, not the general

It is best not to worry. It is even less evident that that if they, for the sake of their principles, the rights of People deserve, including the rights of citizens.

We have to earn money. So let's not let them launch us into this yet.

the natural state philosophirt asked, for as long as the | People not according to arbitrary will, but in 'bourgeois' terms

Constitutions must live as long as the ground was= on which they feed, special laws and orders= which makes necessary for their duration and effervescence:
For as long as this continues, one will only have to assume it as a rule.
that the virtue of a citizen is intrinsic to the intended Probably the Seseschast e A must. Only 5 little

You need a little bit of Aden — |

to prove the contradiction they have in the

'Res of bourgeois societies make. and if how it should be done, the application of which the various independent institutions make

| becomes, so the proof must be all the more evident.

step.

The law of the Jews, which they shout to God
hen, works in its entire composition
ai i fe in ug ganz abgefeinderten Volke zu ma

NN j

sees which in their basic needs with the all to contradict the common good, and the one cites as proof how wrong it is
fie. sooner than the Jews to civil liberty to let. Just if they immediately have some erunds add as: (not to fence, not to swear) ch hegen:) so their small number means that they do not to be taken into account and considered.

Principles as contrary as they may be make them large, conspicuous, and damaging separation of the state not those that the Jews make, and replace them
this deviation from its other principles,
"The members originate from the Christian nation"
and are lost beneath them. Nothing.
This prevents her from befriending them. She eat with them, drink with them, marry them off to deal with them, and their behavior, by the way

—“ fo fittlih, and in a word fo gartet dass”
: 109 f Ahfenderung . neither throw nor. fchd

70 -

||| 13

Gen. The great promises which they had made
If the law gives, their separation will increase even more. Would

There really is no direct article of faith that explains everything:
To see what is not Jewish, then this contempt must but from the mere composition of the statute polgen, and its diligent observer must always to have a full bosom without knowing it. The ones who...

for the correct accusation in theory and practice Opposing places that one finds here and there, but not without contrast, do they serve the Jewish Red?

just to a screen / so as not to “

Words refer to Finns.

2 Even if not with dry words in the Law enshrines fencing for every fatherland at the troop bas forbidden war, which to mention not beforehand could be seen, or it was not necessary, since Gothic from the gruesome, horrific murders that one calls wars, even took them over without ever having to

To test the heroism of the Jews: that is how it is

They were told about it in the later laws of the rabbis, who They also consider it sacred, questioned. "Those who..."
Opposite darlezende stelae *) and the pilkahrül,

In our wars, nothing. Because even if the Enemies promise to sleep on Shabbas, so...
The remaining Taze will also not be fought because

Eeoldat too fine and also to follow the Gefes today

It is impossible for days on end; unless the Egyptian wars would become fashionable again, where the enemies
To please the Jews always through the arm of the Lord were defeated. This applies to all present-day states.
Harmful separation and isolation follow the many Holidays and public holidays, which we apply below,
and which one can admire in passing,
that they are no one, except one in the imagination or Bringing salvation and blessings to the province located in the moon can. Except for the severity of the Shabbas, which is not...
The Sha'bas of other nations is, which is a weekly

; and lasts half a day, during which nothing can be thought of nothing that can be done to excuse it may be done, and, who precedes the Christian one, in order to also remember this Being prevented from doing so on that day is also a disadvantage.
liche main separation and separation Ra the Stenge Law concerning food and drink

1.

| Dieg

g every Jew, a city besieged by the enemy, insofar as there is only one person's life there in danger, if, on the Sabbath to defend gen, and N au vn alu

En 15

This is gens, to get a lot of phissical and more alifcher imperfections for the timely to be able to derive it from civic constitutions. This iR enough to be able to rightfully tell the Jews that fie of all friendship, the greatest happiness in human life, indeed with all gratitude, which
The greatest of the virtues will be held. Save, fag
I, you defenders, to a Jew twenty times that Life, and furthermore declares yourself to be his daughter
If you marry him, he will tremble back and answer you.
den: warm, didn't you ever prefer the Ler to me?
ben selbs gensmmen. |
How? To enmity a people with the given [things], do you want to [do something]?
| for citizens just as good as the other nationalities
Brain; you only want the Jews' urban and philic Wildness solely due to the pressures of the war
To attribute to Ren, and thereby the future times, ir those who will feel better than a sleeping potion to use in order not to see or hear. Gar · Don't you want to consider that their behavior is more as half from their separation and isolation originates, consequently originates from their laws? Ge
For them, observation has no bearing on knowledge.
That their pernicious performance throughout the world |

tondes 1 I don't understand how the advertising-obsessed Ver barrel in fine script above the civic freedom of the Jews (p. 25.) their separation and segregation as can look at it as a small thing; since this separation and Separation, however, is the main raven of every state.
fine must be used, because the most despicable Hnvolifens are made from it.

Menities flow. The author says: this
The separation caused by religion is not the only one zige in bourgeois society. All members of the They themselves find after manifold relationships in various s

the separated connections and individual Heine Companies united. Each of them has its own.

bSzisawuche Grundfize, he den fhrigen eigene Gefiu instill prejudices and misconceptions, give them their own circle

"and special motives for action and expression"
education: Each of these connections establishes itself higher here prelims at; and differs from the men sschen ausser ders?elben aaf eine für diese mehr oder wer Niger, a harmful kind. & separates itself from nobility, peasantry.

"German and? Farmer, city dweller and countryman, warrior and unarmed scholars and loan artists and un consecrated. Thus, a guild divides a trade.

Business in the city of believers: of all the rest, and so Christ and Jew part ways and Muslim, the followers of Ali and Osman, the admirers of Pabis and Luther, Soeins and Kal vins, the Portuguese and Polish Hebrews.

I'm responding to that. All the breakups that between the citizen, peasant and nobility, city dweller and farmer, warrior and unarmed scholar and

Lending artists and uninitiated people prevail, find no

Divisions that are associated with the Christian and Jewish Comparing separations would be... Separations that arise from the principles of religion, find from the separations that arise from the institutions of citizens:

f licher Ges²ogtschaften erfien, himmelweit unterfize² |
ben, divisions that arise from articles of faith
They threaten with the loss of eternal happiness.

Since they express the essence of religion, they are...
Changeable, and because they were nothing but through
To bring denial out of man, so
It remains up to the governments if they deal with the best of the state.
incompatible, nothing but measures remain, which protect them from the resulting damage.

The leaps from each other of all other religions,

N find fo groß nicht, als der Eprung der jüdischen Reli² u.
went. One fears that the common religions in tolerant states, and where nn against a fo-alt
2 e

*

,

pe as against the other 1 PER from their separations

They have lost a lot. By being able to,

to move a few steps closer to the state best, fo

would it happen without their supposed well-being uu s²ad, because it mostly only affected prejudice² parts and priestly opinions. Thus, the many

However, holidays are detrimental to commerce.

She shrank them off and lost nothing. If one is a Jew Sides of the grave, something first, one gained it
This side again.

2 separations / those from mountainous areas
Z entfehen, find dem zeiten Wohl mehr beförderlich as detrimental/ and with the eternal glörickeit- have to do absolutely nothing. The nature of states gave

f these establishments their existence, and since they are necessary

What was good and solid had to result in something else.

"The effects are fine, one finds that they which degenerate, and that one class degenerates into another un sadden sucht. Alsdan aber liegk der Fehler nicht in the mere separation, but because the institution was flawed, and because the government didn't approve of everyone to treat each man with equal love and justice wise. Pride may arise in all classes, 5

Oh! No matter how much he wants to, he can never achieve such a thing.
| quaint you he not . and no means left ar ö

— —

goods, to inhibit him. Their own basic principles and Prejudices that each social class harbors in its bosom,
And never detrimental to the salvation of society
It has been. Daily experience teaches us this. In the case of a Wealthy bourgeois girls meet counts and bas

Tons in, to rise up to themselves. None of them. .

- through this connection, the curse may be lifted from both parts of heaven. The sphere of influence of Auntie isn't terrible, and the curse she... speaks out about it when their bourgeois blood is mixed in What would happen is not something to tremble about. No one will.
to cause selenium disturbance if he were to blame that His heirs would have one less cross on their chest.
The proud ensign, "who once a day went into the
He imagines the joy of becoming a field marshal.
Abbot Fichs, when he is hungry, at the craftsman's house taste very good, without the loss of one's bliss.
5 to be allowed to fear. In short, all the same.
These conversions, they may have names like fe Wants are of no importance to the state. It find driving forces for activity and expansion, and because they are necessary for the state, so they can be for it Nor will it be harmful. Enough to convince.
It could be that the separations and demarcations, which among the members of the state, with the trains 3 bungalows

\

er a
"Nations that exist between Christians and Jews,
to compare, and that, if the invented

The state finds the others wholesome, that Bo of the | Stats misplaced.

And so, if you are unfamiliar, it is an 8 between

...the separation of the Jews and other nationalities

from the state, to be found; just as deficient must it It's fine if one can enforce the population duty in a Umbrellas are used to introduce the Jews underneath.
Since the happiness of the states, it is said, lies in the Crowd exists, since one looks so much for the population=

kerung shren muss / fo ist es widersssprechend , davon

. Overly refined, and yet the great salvation, thus from the 8 granted freedom of the Jews, and consequently at their

Any increase that would result would be trampled underfoot.
I don't dare to raise objections here.

chen, still to separate, how many things themselves must unite in a state in order to speak of it to be able to / now he must find his well-being in the crowd

I will not choose the states, nor will I select the states in which the case occurs. This topic will become clear even to the brightest

en

Fehendften heads not. without difficulty. fine, and

perhaps if he listed buildings in the theory

Had he experienced it during application, he would find it to be of such a nature.
one to look at. I prefer it like this "dtleich

“

"admit immediately that all states lack people" prayers, because no one improved the soil until brought to the highest degree of perfection because none of the natural products he could reach, achieved / achieved in the highest possible quality has, because no one has all their own and other people's products, so has been completely and extensively worked on, when he would be possible, and because no one involved in the action...
Advantages afforded to him by his situation and circumstances,

has been driven to the absolute limit.

Sanz correctly follows that it is necessary that States should populate as much as possible.
But this necessity follows not because of its easily summoned Grande, and because ung the Theory does not pose the difficulties that we
The practice reveals this? One will not admit it. must ensure that all the reasons for movement, which are based on the Study room have their insignificance in the application
Will the dung largely turn into nothing? Will one do not have to admit that the very things that were considered...
Reasons for the creation of new reasons for movement 10 peculiar systems and basic principles become, because there must always be obstacles there, which...
Block the way to prevent equal care being given to all Ge to be able to advise, and because the damaged 8

A 1 j N 5 Ber 8

22 0•0 „ 2 2 ur

Conditions and situations require us, other best

Choosing points is impossible in the Be.

völkerung fo ganz blindlings zu Arbeit gehen, und zum .

For example, grant all Jews the rights of citizens, because the sand of a province makes for the best soil

-

1 8

It can be done. No one will notice.

must ensure that people's hands are in the right place find? Or is it agreed that the outermost degree

Care in dealing with something, not its ruin

Will I be in another? Has nature really given everyone States were given equal perfections to give them to allow fd} to present the same purposes? Does this give

there is no essential way of thinking of people/ |

which gave the state more or fewer advantages.

Derinzen can; and may the government exercise its choice do not let it fall on those who are looking for more ≠

Procreation and duty for the best? An example:

The Prussian government takes every care, to populate the province of West Prussia. Did she thereby no further intentions beyond human figures

To have 7 Certainly not. Her gaze is before all things.
focus on what is necessary, and on whatever
The reason for its origin is directed towards something else.

D
— — — 0.

Aferzau IB es, den fie in Aufnahme zu bringen fucht,

z because now the reason for origin and population=

" come;

1.23'
bonmnavg of all other wetland ant is. Han=

: delsteute are found therein the masses, and more than
She wishes, but what about merchants, when they

Products produced by foreigners more than by locals to negotiate. She is therefore seeking men for her purposes.

Those who practice agriculture and crafts. Whether they Lutheran / Calvinist: or Catholic, it's the same to you.

A lot. She only demands? People whose way of thinking to be in accordance with the purpose of the province; Men=

Those who can work, who through their work, it be through agriculture and crafts, the wealth

increase the province, which fulfills its assigned duties without being hindered by commandments of heaven to lead him willingly at all times and hours.

Should the government perhaps not deal with these people?

be very happy; because the changed climate and the new way of life. Whether it has an influence, or because it There may be good-for-nothings among them; Should they be free?

ten must permit those who do not immediately harvest the fruit

If one's end runs, so may; she does not in the slightest | to feel comfortable. If the blessing is not the same for everyone.

If he says that, then the time must come, and if he

If he were lost to his parents, they would replace him.
Ben and descendants. The son of a still so un-and dissolute father, is always a

. e N

B en

AR

24 .

Being from which everything can be made for the state.
But why don't they elect Jews, since this man...

Schengeschlecht i in so numerous quantity, both in the country than is available in the neighborhood! IR about brains

Is it a figment of the imagination or prejudice that is the cause? Is it perhaps the

Beard, or the foreskin, which the government removes

Are you scared? Certainly not. Because their way of thinking is...

does not agree with the general best; because they | not fulfilling all necessary state obligations, also if they want to remain Jews, they cannot, and ©, because the government is not allowed to take measures that would prevent it from doing so.

to be created in accordance with the urgent purpose. 8

If it were possible, says a certain patriot,

To exchange the Jews, that's how it should be done in Prussia.

Always three against one Christ. This exterior

Rung is just too sad! But who can tell people the

Sinn verlieren, den sie Sorge um ihre Mitbürger have. And it's only too right what I still...

must be swept up. All the fruit from the large ones efforts and enormous sums of money that one spends on

Salvation of the province applies, merely through the

b. The behavior of the Jews is stifled. These are not at all

Such empty accusations as this: that they are Christians

They need blood for their Easter celebration. Experience and Observation is key for this. How is it possible, and yet a that

I.

To

/

. a

3,235

that the food level of a province is rising
It is suggested that a confluence of national products and goods could be produced if the Jews were everywhere to walk around the farmer's place, finely won Fruits against foreign ones, often unusable to him

Waren untanfchen, Belder on the proper blessing

He may insist on whatever he wants, impose himself, and there= to carry out the fraud so extensively that they lost their ge=

The renowned, all-seeing SHE was installed. It would be to mwünfchen, that these complaints may be the only ones=

= ten, and that instead of all complaints, a means to do so= who wants to find which would be so created that et

s?ich with the love of humanity of all nations, and at the same time= cher Zeit mit der Zweke und dem N Beten Beten

the governments would tolerate.

Now, let us consider the Jewish community, |

Let them talk. They will ask; we have you id lugelanden, dass die Juden fittlich und phifich ver; 5 poacher finds.” Through an idleness of so much Over the centuries, their nerves have become weakened, and rendered useless for all work.

physical illness which is due to the exact |
Communicating the influence of the soul at all times has so unlucky: |

Ache Hebel arranged in their Semuſthe that they did not

g andert ag through boring spa treatment can become.
| B8ü We

7

mar ne Dr, ER

"We have stated the reason which is morally and physical savagery. of the Jews
'Has. It is not with the Jews, but with the to governments that treat the Jews with a fo druſten
to overwhelm the situation “that they may be preserved |
No other means remains but fraud. But,
We also specified the means that she could use on her body.
and cure Sel, who rescue them from their wildness,
and if not better, as we believe, but geſ

I know that good citizens like the Christians make They should. Above all, they should declare the Jews to be all conceivable freedoms in the state are possible. This will make it possible.
"like a protected stream suddenly filled with air" is done / allow it to penetrate all trades. They

Craftsmen, agriculture, trade, arts and pursue sciences, even up to the highest a Waiters will ask you to rise. Then it was...
Give it another century, just one century. Yours Descendants who are alive at this time shall...

drive that the nerves of the Jews in turn to all Types of work found, and that their souls kräfte, in turn have increased so much that from al len previous e and . ee. |

en if

R r Ä

*

N

U

8 5

La 1 7 27

Will not every government oppose this statement?

f

gen, who in fact are the same as the Jews

advocates have presented either nothing, or

If she wants to be short, she must answer this: With to deeply regret that so many skills,

who deliberately developed from the Jews len, reserved solely for posterity, must!

We wish we had been informed about their usefulness

Usability and usefulness for the present times?

be able to bear witness. Our care must always be more than that.
To heed the present as the future. That we
The happiness of our citizens, for which we are awakening, and

What we possess must always be dearer to us than the future many things that we do not yet possess, and .

something we can't even watch over. It is

Furthermore, it is not yet clear whether we will not, by

we yearn for the uncertain abundance, the scarcity to lose certain things about it, and in the end nothing or own even less.

The Jews, or their defenders, confess

| the government, as we have heard, is too big

Their hardness. From this they derived the previous Belands.

parts of the Indies together and conclude from this how |

Therefore, the impossibility of their improvement. They price en inen dube gebe und Hoch gtund gegen die Mas

N hen,

28 5

Zion, and besides the burials of all free people still the good work of promoting their enlightenment
gen, because they are convinced that these are of good use to the good Bürs must precede. I have been so cheap so far and It was just to always be considered a minor matter
I do what others consider the main thing. I have I can't think of anything else that might be harmful, the really harmful thing.
to view the leadership of the Jews as the cause that the
to make civil liberties unworthy, just like others Always insist on it. I am firmly convinced, that lbr hatred against Christians, their deceitfulness and what

which may otherwise be attributed to them, no property liche modifications of their national character find; I din feft is convinced that the situation in which fie fich befind

the, however, to their guilty imperfections her contributions. I find it hard, they are unswinging Paying taxes to tough people, since if the / tax Ben immediately against the. Christian only moderately fine, they but are only too high because they are solely due to the branch the action, which furthermore restricts them iR, and bem fo viele nachhängen, Erwerb werden muss;
and since the Jews based their behavior against the war on this... can justify this, namely through unlawful ways to acquire what they cannot obtain through legal means was possible. But with all nien n that If I put it down, I must unfortunately deny that the previous situation of the Jews entirely the director's control to attribute to struggles. I'll venture another thought here.

to claim that they are partly from the Tren
N nung arises, which in turn is influenced by their religious beliefs basic structure is brought forth. How can one believe that so many centuries, and so many dar can provide favorable moments within, remain unused, and without heads rising, which will rid themselves of their burdens if not the
The divide lies in religion. We only need to look at...
to remain true to their law, needing only the law
we apply to the temporal well-being of each stat, in order to decide whether this is more than the Re
Governments to exclude their freedoms as a reason

I have given. Certainly, if we are without prejudice. 8

Think about it, and we will be finely sewn.
blame the flock and not the governments
To measure. How can one measure all motives of hatred?
To consider them capable of fighting the Jews? How can anyone still believe that?

Why exaggerate the issue so much? And all alone?
to describe the Jews as angels who do not hate who would have responded, as if through love and He alone bound to the divine will. Void may be very much of their community they viewed through the magnifying glass

. f 5 tet

.

R 30 er =
have tested, and. not all written down may be Stories are true. Only the truth that I | confirmed by so many documents, so entirely with here and 2 rn:

N

— n ' *

because of the patched-together places, to topple over too much.

len, and thereby give more strength to human nature

'to settle, as lies within it, it's a little 11 far ges gone. > |

...more we in the pages Sinauf Reigen, those

; we find the doors to civic rights open, So how the principles of government still apply in the Cradle lay, so there were infinitely many acquisitions

Medium still underdeveloped. Just like arable farming and Craftsmen don't yet have any exclusive advantages.
ten, and all hands could be occupied, so it was so little trade and manufacturing with Ein . loaded onto certain persons. Where from

Did it come about that the Jews never had this opportunity?

used in a noble way, so that they did not reach the Citizens 'intruded, and not immediately other religion'

The regions have become so dominant. And so make tiger and in all countries a consistent prevention

The covering, which would be worth touching, has not been touched.

lay, and could; even if tyrants were everywhere fourth, not have been lying down? And where does it come from?

—

that Diefen Tormurfr. which one in the older pages

| 31

discovered, just as quickly puffing on the new ones, in the middle since the principles in many things are based on religion, in the middle, since the Akerhau the craftsmen and the hand= lung diefe and those excluding freedoms receive have? Just look at most states, indeed, only vbenhin, fo wird man fein eigenes Gef=niß widerle=

must be aware that there are still infinitely many means contained therein

0

ves acquisition lie. One will find that even more many things left over that were not made by qualified people= ten, but may be edited by anyone.

How many manufactured goods don't belong there? And very

Many factories are themselves in the hands of the Indians, j where their faith depends solely on them= enjoyed letting them work. Plenty of opportunity, to strengthen their nerves, and through physical exercises

Improvement to promote the entry of the moral.

So where is it that they also have permission there?

not use them where they themselves are in their power. What?

Aiegt's, dass fie fich alle nur zu einen Lebensarten verfdue

Hen, rather go idly, wander around and go hungry.

For example, the monetary taxes or the prejudices of Christ's fault, which had such an unfortunate effect on her

have that they must scream, not work

They are allowed to do ten things, yet can never work.

Man

1 & 2 > uf R . 75 Bi 0 =
2 8 8 ; ö N . v

They tie our hands and make us |

* Accusation / that we don't use them, says Mr.

Moses Mendelssohn in a fine preface to Manaß
This expression really sounds too harsh; because the Governments don't deserve it. If we're fair...

and want to be impartial and fine, so we will be high

ftens in some countries, in some acquisition means | Teln, but certainly not in all countries, in all near resources true. find. Poland like a country, where the Jews have more than anywhere else unbound hands have. Why is it that they don't use such things?

I don't want to dwell on the accusations here, the demands made on the Jews, that they give this land to the have brought about its downfall. It is only this j all too certainly, and perhaps among all salvation
The best means are to use them if one is to participate in the future election.

would place a Napoleon on the throne. This only alone would perhaps be able to do so many

A large number of Jews are at the service of the state.
I create, and capable through religious means to move in again, which the Jews forbade him

I have failed. At every opportunity, one claims, that freedom works wonders, and yet one can

I can't quite say why they were among the Jews in Poland fine wonder Four. i ka entiulbiget fich hochfstens 5 with it,

.

:33

that laws and institutions are bad, that all nobility and slaves and no middle class

'would be a match. But this leads to a contradiction.
the other. The Seseze may procure fine as they want, so find it not to the degree that not

The property of the Jews would be secured. More It's not necessary to honestly run a business.
ten. The essence of the republic, or that the Arel where it prevails, can lead to trade and honest living.

rung only has an influence in certain respects, and the N
This does not make dogs work in the slightest.

bound. The citizens in the cities find no body.
own. She, like everyone else, can carry as much food as she wants.
Zen and invent as much as he possibly can. About
The taxes certainly cannot be avoided either.

It's difficult. In the villages, everyone can work and bandit as he pleases. The Akerban, which the Ju

The purpose of this is: that they are on the Bo that and whose fruit money wasted, and when they

to edit the Aer felbst, the Eriken els Sklaen bm
They use it up. They do it with the handiwork.

Exactly so, and, do I always only want gentlemen, fine, in that way?

of the times in Canaan. The Jews found here...
“Free as the air in the Alps, and what's more a so is fine audi who is not a " Edellente, we G8 gen

in the services which he gave them, in his power

If one wanted to use the Polish facilities,

They weren't satisfied with the freedoms of the Jews.

to adjust, to change, if one wanted to change these facilities to be based on the general good, as one should, fo
Would the % Jews be no less from Rofen Gift fans?

gen, and their religion, their education and upbringing Alerting is contrary to their will. Thus they are now body and Surgeon for humans and animals. This doctor= would write she herself almost knowledge and with=

Teln from the Imperial City of Hamburg / which are in our Ta=
A universal remedy is known almost every month.

makes, and, which is surprising; that that is If even one more person is sick. What would happen to Ler= men arise when one uses these and other fehdic .

Wouldn't we have to abolish food supplements?

Talents?

Everywhere you can discover cures that restore the body's strength.
their states are so little affected that it is of no consequence to them = much can be done finely, which they do in front of people in their states
You can help. Others have their incomes so much be=

It is a burden that they certainly cannot refuse a certain sum of money.

would happen if the Jews were to point to this or that Warenbeatejtungen wanted to become citizens. But still

Stof haben 1 bora, man unterbrhte Geitft a .

They had never before asked for such requests, from 35

- respected to use every opportunity in other ways

They know, and they never will.

They probably realize that they cannot easily be freed from the personalities.

chen duties, were allowed to get away from them, that one could be free of them would require, in the absence of soldiers, to

to take up the watch so that they can be extinguished.

Geuers and others were stopped / without first reading the Talmud to look up and investigate whether this is the case

be where a person's life can be saved.

Her desire has always been confined to...
that it be tolerated, protected and all conceivable want to enjoy freedoms without compromising bourgeois values Burdens that must be borne by person, Part to take. You probably realize that no state without this can be ordered, but one "follows their religion"

because of that, and their clever saying^z
But in honor of him, who was not intended for all states, to let money bear their burdens.

in 7 ;

E a Maff Erobin Blatt 19 und is. Eine, of the places that all the Jews on the Sabbath
"Work is allowed if a person's life is at stake."
can be saved. If they are not outdated.
is, so is she quite insightful and around her N to be allowed to. 5

| 38 |

How should the princes and governments decide?

with such creatures, which they barely resemble as half-limbs

Can we start looking at the stats? Some of the

They thought as far as they could go, or banished regardless of this, not the love of humanity seems to be compatible. But they have there Lurch believed he could justify that they had their own Happiness is the next one, and the present one is, to be most valued and preserved

It serves this purpose. They wanted to protect themselves from just lawsuits.
their citizens, whose well-being was close to their hearts, on always get rid of, and the places of the story scream about Josephus, who mention some freedoms, which were granted to the Jews among the Romans,
Es konnten für die nicht bis zum Nachahmung ruhrend sein.
Others demonstrated their love for humanity by, |
that they merely tolerated the Jews. They could do more than that.
do not do if they do not have their own OLE at stake
They wanted to seize the opportunity. The inclination towards commercial interests, which always there where they are not yet underway, with blinking opened to learning, and all possible attempts 5 will be made, the riches in a few years
To withdraw gave the princes the best hope of...
to be able to benefit the Jews in this endeavor, since they 29 85 were withdrawn, and their all-seeing bit, Ä
Them

They had to be given liver protection before crises.
But for the most part, they had barely gained a secure foothold, Thus, the citizens had to raise their complaints, and If it was nothing, then inequality had to be included in the equation.
dern, and the imperfection in what one Bir:
what they call "ger" is only too obvious to them. What followed from this? dieses: that the Jews paid high taxes len, and that which they do not physically and morally er
They could not fill or afford, but had to pay with money.
Bad enough. The money flowed into a certain levy.
the ruling coffee, while the Jews their misdeeds
The more people who paid them annually with money, the more continued more freely, without regard for the above.

taken to citizens who had to bear their burdens with tears |
gen and deserve compensation.

Nothing is easier than the governments of barbarians 1 scold, and it is even easier to pick some bits of Wiz in the decrees of the governments against the
To find Jews. But if one were to find those who are so feel it around the surface, and the first best seize what leads them to the existence of a fun Ge

Thanking serves to give the order to add means, with?

to prevent damage: that's how one would · they do that I am bringing this to realize that they are in the middle of their

We would have been without thinking. How do you want to do it?
— C 3 because

.

5 —

3.
for doing, if one sees a custom, over 105

constant passages of people, and especially

a certain class of people who always to cause some harm, exposed. Is. Are you there?

improved if you are so humane,
Regarding your attitude towards harm, either from no one to take something, or to put the bad and the good into one Foot, to treat? Do you believe with this radiant

Love of humanity, that harmful class of people on to improve it once! or the reasons that caused them

Allowing your garden to be harmed, so that it would be free of/rot, and do you believe that if you had some better ges

have power, at the same time all the rest in the world.

to have in order to be safe and secure from them? You will.

You can't claim that. | Of course you must therefore | your love for humanity, above all for yourselves ö

and against your preservation need, and they the suerk

Let those closest to you enjoy it, and your Support your existence and your glory. You must so naturally, the harmful circle of people to try to avert from their garden, or there their

But if you are not able, you must pay taxes.

ben, and moreover higher taxes than others.
gen, because one wants to be fair to her, not the best far away with i the ee he on. can.

90 ee Yews

35

Just 6 little meters now you can see the renovations

resent that they are responsible for the happiness of their states

wake up, and that they swear around in front of many Menden, to protect Jews who went out after robbery, who mowed day and night, by carrying out the

"Gold or silver, or through the pursuit of forbidden N

to their detriment, and that they through imposition

High taxes either prevent the evils, or to seek to recover their damage, Give the Sta ten agreeable means at hand, which fh with ih Let the present best unite. Prove, that for so many centuries the governments all to be guilty. -Prove that the freedoms that their

what they wanted to achieve, not burden and disadvantage of the remaining; be guarantors that all governments a will do the same. You must soon be in your

Exceeded expectations. N
What should one add to the impressions that some to please the Jews, produce, and you (nice - wisely express that it is all about the Christian sermons 5

ger, ,or more clearly, arrive at the baptism / in order to |

Instead of creating good citizens. Would it be about that?

To drive away Wiz with Wiz, one would far more sensitive material in the customs of the Ju~~r~~ find the down. But since nothing is actually done by that, €1 (icden)

5

x —

If we parted ways, it is better to use a sound
A logical refutation, to show the absurdity of it.

Which state has ever possessed the essence of good money:
placed in ceremonies. If there were any.

bat, who thought so, so find fie arbßtentteils davon zu~~r~~

ruß came, and if there are any left who are like that If we think that, then we cannot speak of these, at at least from the Prussian states, which just.

in this respect the pattern of the others had been.

Whether the bears will be sprinkled with water, and the Blessings are pronounced upon them, whether this use is permitted.
vun einen preacher or from a judge or who

It may happen, or it may not happen at all.

It's the same as an enlightened state. It tolerates this.

Its use, because religion brought it here, because he doesn't lose anything in the process, and primarily because

under the commitment to being a truly good citizen

It is hidden. Baptism is not the point here.

but rather that the Jew / by saying; baptizes

me, at the same time says: I obey the state's laws

sezen, I submit to the institutions that their

You have done the best of the state, I afford myself the assigned duties at every hour; I

Serve on the battlefield every day, if you so require.

my 1 em daiu connected are ufw

x | Ir

egg

—

virtuous Jews, these Christians, and if he still so thoroughly corrupted, contrary to Rellen, so Ties will be fer eine in the eyes of the state ul . zn ie

ben, than those three. |

It is claimed that up to the year 418 / .

the Jews in the Roman Empire to all civil and "War offices, until then they enjoyed all civic

Freedoms, and until then they were the best of the

| 4
lyr may always three of your supposed

b | 8 f
15 citizens. From this, one concludes that they are entitled to...

Zee get, dass fie, fo wie fie in ein Zeitraum von 100 Jah=

rerer useful members of society were, fie
es auch noch it fein muss, und noch fein würden, when one considers the white basic principles of a new direction=

"had not left the rung."
I don't realize that much effort is required to slap on.

necessary to counteract the strength of this decision=

ten. Anyone who knows the history of this period

knows, will have to be lent to me, that it is just the time=

fraum was where the earth was blessed with tyranns

was? where reason was most imprisoned, and the various government decisions with each other around the birth of Kamyften, where the concepts of the

— 5 Blessed happiness for the citizens and the states, as well as for: 5
* of a reasonable statistic still in the Em 8

ie C Fe 1

42

5 Weio lay. From this I can conclude that the Jews, their Oruudfäze would like to procure fine, like They wanted nothing to be easier than to establish bourgeois relationships here.

To acquire freedoms. One must even wish for them.
that they did not use this time to their advantage,

to gain a place of glory in history.

Eo wie heut in Tage Frankreich, als es Alsas und o 8 Khringen received the rights of those located therein. J Ju 8
the enfeoffed, and from politics the conquered in all Landern is exercised, the natives read more, when it was intended to do in the future: so too must the Romans, as if they were the Jews under their yogic rule received, not only granting them freedoms, but also and give some. This violence, which one might use What had to be done back then is now a consequence of

Done! I believe even in recent times Jews

| to be able to drive, to accompany the civil offices, especially when you consider the tenants, who always distance themselves from themselves

State officials believe this is too refined, it's below the threshold. Who f

N. will therefore claim that all Jews of the civil liberties were enjoyed so much that they up to state-level fees. Say

I once told you where the sources can be found, from the then a clear concept, to create it, like the "All due respect to civil liberties" and

e

43

Krienegänfter genossen und ausgeübt haben. The Passages from Grigines and Josephus can take, I don't find it sufficient. If we today, the freedoms of the Jews were gathered, so Our descendants would have to go centuries, far away to draw a more thorough conclusion about their usefulness is justified

get sein, als wir es aus dem Josephus und Grigines

to be able to do. Yes, if future written records ler of the hatred of ruling Nazis against the Ju ben eben fe taken would be when some of their early advocates find, so they would give the same reasons.
to use for the enhancement of Indian fame. The Jude Süß, they would say, was in Württemberg a excellent minister; but the hatred of the writings complained
He attacked him, and he was hanged.

Furthermore, it is irrelevant here whether the Jews were good citizens under the Romans:

but whether they are fine. can. It doesn't come.

depends on whether they were included in the constitutions at that time.
to find beings, but whether they are among the present ones Constitutions can be. If they were the best, they would be the best.
the citizens one could encounter at that time,
One can only conclude about the present time from this point onwards.

- | entitled if one uses the same facilities, i in dees

Bern Fe. Alain, with 'Beröber.' takes. 'The true
e Bir

77

Citizens in every state are characterized by their

—

Constitution. And only the constitution will we become must pay attention to say whether the person with fine religious principles as a citizen. into yaffe, If one takes the constitution of each individual duo / in which it lived, away, so there is also no

geitalter, and no state into which it doesn't fit

sen folte. Zizero must immediately be an equally good bur master in Berlin, Vienna and also his It

new, when it was in Rome.

It therefore only needs to be referred to the current page, Anton.
men, in order to declare the Jews citizens, because

Because of their squealer, he would have gone through hør ten times.

Here, inspiration was spoken, not the fundamental constitution.
to be able to fall over the heap; how impossible it But be, they as citizens. Introduce to Finns, do us ten with the craftsmen, with the arable construction etc.

be shown sufficiently.
Alber, why go to the 1st Civilian?
and Milifair services of the Jews to prove, not lie- |

but back to the point in time when they had their own stat made up. Here I thought, the best material must be lie in order to distinguish their usefulness from their true

To convince citizens. They alone probably know that they Beer from a few were allowed to come. If Re

4 2 “
6 if fe * 1 2

so they will find that the glory is in the promised land

Lande, and the time when one can actually say, fie' .

45

wishing to rise to these glorious pages,

were independent citizens merely a fleeting thing?

5 noisy, barely noteworthy times have been.

Not longer than 20 years in a land full of milk

-

and honey to last, and only for 20 years - to be able to protect the power of the unbelievers, without respected the unheard-of heroism and the many Victories of the Ifaelites for centuries fear and Having to arouse fear leaves us feeling very unfull.

Come Zwi! and close military services. Into this See the moment, as if they were later, then Citizens nothing but idlers who enslave themselves

held, who possessed merits, arts and knowledge Sectors, craftsmen, and arable farming were practiced, and what

Even more than that, they had to serve the unbelievers.

to secure their Dafein. Even in the case of the wise

In Solomon's time, everything was so full of useless things.

Jews, that the temple building could not be done except through eternal
N Damned had to be vouendet, Ganz natûr=

The balance of power among the Jews could not be disrupted by any of them.

. duration, and must always be to their disadvantage f

N take over. Do we see, for example, today in the next few days,

The Jews are better off if climate and

“One=

a

%eU

Establishment of Baleftina for the foreseeable future still largely unaffected
stiger war, als allen nördliche Gegenden, fo würden fie izt
Even more would stop being too fine, if they weren't with Christ is mixed up. One should command that no Christ the first to pray in the community, where I may stand by,

If she follows her laws, then it will be doubtful, vb fie will be able to endure over 8 cups without not To lose their salvation. From this one can conclude to close the share that they acquired through the acquisition of their have had and would have had fentig,
If their freedoms were to be abolished, then it would be understandable.
it must be for them / not without the support of disbelief=

to be able to stand on firm feet, so they drive

bnmer noch fort, flich zu Zeiten des ehemaligen |

to tend towards the promised land. In all things merely
Mr. Fine wants, and yet his hands are tied.

Screaming has always been their thing. We through
They only need a foot more freedom.

Linräumen, als fie schon befizen, fo nehmen die Zeiten of Palestine again their beginning, that is: where it

many Jewish masters and even more literal slaves must give. We don't care that Mofes only

He has focused his efforts on arable farming and livestock breeding.

want to found a company, as Michaelis confirms. One

* heal m further he than that this Seseiber fine _

u Star

““ a 4

Stat doesn't want to make it last forever, as has also happened.
iR. For he had to easily realize that a Nieh

Shepherds=Republic not defy the whole world N .
"would, and that their members, if they were among others

Peoples live and maintain their laws in different worlds.

had to resort to all sorts of means to get N can.

Defending the fatherland is one of the most important things in life.
most necessary duties that exist in civic life.
The self-fulfillment must be achieved. For without the fan, fine Society must exist, and one must consider it unworthy.
Name the limbs that break away from it. The Jur

They and their advocates admit this, and they said at the same time, that they themselves find that these stems

They earn money. But they know how to do very well.

to accuse, and what is more, to do what was done before 'strikes to their future military service, which the Go there: all possible hardships of war
to carry, and yet not to leave the room;

to march as far as one wants, and even in all rough Sebirzen around, yes, in greatness and snow, but without moving your feet and moving the room!

let them; yes, they are willing to die for their fatherland, but without losing their lives: in a word, they will lan ihre persen hei der Amte in Gelbe a E

2 | nir

—

48
we are talking about the importance of this project,
Let us first present their defense. It is too
They prove, they say, that the Jews waged many wars.
have led to. If we don't immediately start the wars...

4.

think where the omnipotence of God is always heartfelt

The leader of the Jews was: that is the hero David.

present, the creator of Israeli war art

5 present, whose brave arm Völker the crowd ges IE: has beaten. The Jews have therefore waged wars and many Wars were waged. Now, that is certainly not in the laws.

explicitly included fencing on the Sabbath, but
That goes without saying, and only ill-considered actions...

Clarifier of the law is to blame that the nation of it aA has been brought. Because how can one imagine a fe white gesenzebung than that of Moses is, a gesenzebung bung which aimed at a permanent state, commemorate, without considering fencing at every hour
ten; The state must yes, otherwise the robbery of every spirit .
dels will be. The deity who, at the burning of the Re Publicly, they had their share, that's what happens before so much.
can see. It is likely that the Jews were before never occurred to Babilonian captivity ben, to refrain from fencing on the Sabbath. E
We would find it recorded just once,
15 55 the N made the Sabbath etc. |
ten.

—

N 5

n , 2

ten. And one cannot be inclined to believe that every 2
Volker would have the 7th day with the Jews immediately.

David kept to the customs and traditions of so many.

Sebraeusen under different Vohkern gesokten, without mal to experience the obstacles of the Sabbath. The leading King of the heroic line of David, Zedekiah

As commandant of Jerusalem, he held a siege

from a year and a half. That wasn't possible,

'If the Jews hadn't fought on the Sabbath.'

Jeremiah, who just during the siege knew

Geta would certainly have thought something of that. Hebucads.
Nezar would certainly have been so clever as to realize this.
to serve one's advantage. No, the Jews have not.
fought throughout history. Only after they emerged from the base came into bilonifchen captivity, their freedom recovered, and endured several centuries under foreign rule.
Those who had confessed to subservience were aware of this.
Six lost. No wonder. They
I stood among the Babilonites for 200 years, and just So many years under the Persians. Of course, during the Gentleness and love, with which they treated these peoples, batten fie diese Pflicht aus Dankbarkeit fo theüer als

They should be kept safe if possible. Effect and punishment blew

; not outside for long either. For when the Sirians began

| sen, a =. to pursue, so fled united the Sewi =.

..

fenhafteften with wife and child into the deserts, and |

They hid in underground caves. The Sirians
They persecuted them and imprisoned them on the Sabbath.
but they did not resist in the slightest, and let themselves be...
Happy by the grace of heaven. In their ways

Gen burn. This example soon made the un=

the brave priest Matthias, fighting Ju= the flagger. _ They decided on the Sabbath to fight= ten, as often as they were put into necessity,

a

They did not want to launch an attack on the Sabbath alone;
f fie. wanted to rest when the enemy cowered. At the=

It remained a war article, except for today's one.
remained until the day, and the Jewish interpreters of the Ge=

They still recognize him now. During the conquest of Jerusalem used Pompey's war rules for the Jews= ment so much that he on the Sabbath everything went to bring the walls, and only at the approaches ars allowed it to be done; but without attacking the Jews, because he knew that they would then increase. The youth those who do not include Grotius or Puffendorf knew each other, who had told them that this was under= Taking Pompey's attack was already enough, read= to take over the city without resistance, and despite all the slavery into which they and their Brothers moved/ . must fulfill the laws.

batten BEE, 7 level

x

4

IE St;

— can one aut 88 geschichtschriber

Sofppus prove that even the Jews are not very

a number of them, military services under the Romans taken, fought bravely / and how to be confident,

also on Sabath defenfive and openve gesouchten ha
ben. This virtue, practiced by some, had safely preserved, and the rest were also protected from their

If prejudices had led back, the emperor would have

Bonorius did not send the entire community into the war.

nen, for. declared incapable, and thereby a prejudice established for all subsequent times. RE

These are the reasons for defense which the Jews and their advocates have put forward, or will put forward can. Now allow me to raise the counter-argument.
to counter that. With what they are citing, I find
They didn't get any further at all. One...
I gladly steal that the Jewish laws in their first origin
Consider fencing feated at any hour.
It is admitted that the Jews in their wars before the Babilonian captivity never saw the Sabbath have taken, whether one already wants to wänfhen / one

The hut presented us with such documents, from which one could see the Nature of wars and the hostile nature of war

| wants to identify the article in order to judge from it. One nen, whether the Jews in their wars all the others: Ger:

Da size

—

.

ftcze in besbachten im Standen waren; denn ich ale,

Before fighting on the Sabbath, perhaps less

Obstacle made babe, more than many other things.
Nowadays it's just so incomprehensible when the Macabreans who only defend themselves on the Sabbath, i

Nevertheless, they hunt the armies of the Sirians, rather than the Ju= the many holy sayings lasting whole weeks *
They were able to hold their own in their wars, u

It is further seen that the duty at u to fight through the rule of other peoples and through a tent space lost for 400 years, whether this must already be incomprehensible to many, because

Let us consider the case that the Turks conquered the Hungarians, to overpower a people accustomed to kite-walking.

Will the Turks not subjugate the Hungarians to their will?

Take in armies? Will. It will be with others who also

'not serving, fulfilling the duty on the Sabbath, fighting in the mill' Can't they reproduce? And won't they reproduce during a fo nblreichen in more states scattered mass of people

More than 400 years were needed to develop this idea.
to rot. Meanwhile, since these interjections also had their Oegemeinwürfe utden uten uten, and thus e further e

= is aligned, so let the claim be admitted.

One further admits, ung it too. under the Rö

- some uni Soden book babe, the mahıs

J

*

24

'ö 33

“ —

> probably also at Saböth, fortified and openly ten, whether that says little or nothing. I I trust that nowadays there are a good number of Jews, who basically can no longer find any Jews to pick up the one which every hour, is it defensive or open?

five, fencing should; but I dare to do so because of this but not to claim that all Jews fulfill this duty able And. Yes, in the seven-year campaign there was un?

not among the plundering and ravaging Cossacks not only with impoverished Jews, but also Jewish An Führer, your fatherland was Poland. Whether you only...

ten, if they were attacked, and whether they were injured in the process

They were able to follow the laws of the elderly, I know.
No. But should someone discover their deeds in Silesia or Prussia to their advantage with a Josephinian pen

If they have written it down, one will surely learn something from it.

all Polish Jews for a finished . .

must. 5
However, as much as one gives to the Jews and their - verse j
Even though fencers admitted it, they still had to live with their

The other side, in turn, openly admits that the Jews

Only five fences can be fought on Sabbath. The best the places they used to their advantage in the holy Books, or wherever they want to find them, will be | on unite with it. According to Majamonides Hild 3 1 1

54 | I

Scholz Selmbbath Cap. 3. $. 23: 24: 25. is it over j drastically the duty of every Jew to be free from the enemy besieged city, insofar as it was only one person
Life in danger if, to defend on the Sabbath, and it is not permitted to postpone such things. This position is vulgar. Because the Jews not only the Christians

The ecclesiastical Befege Moses, which did not refer to Jews and the former judicial and divinely ordained constitution

funz refer to, but also those through oral transmission delivery received, or through correct argumentation published conclusions, explanations and Interpretations of these laws are considered divine commandments;
So too must that attracted area, since it serves the purpose of Ohöttlichkeit erfälte Beprän an ft sich trägt, mit including. :la if this place is divine, if, so it must also, even in the event of loss of salvation, unalterably be. For apart from the punishments which the law prescribes, even if one relies on the deviation, agree to weigh) the holy books and the rabbis with them. The Author of the Jewish Fundamentals Rabbi Wolf Abrq Nathan says that the mix in. Sanhedrin m reckon the sins which lead to the loss of salvation to go after oneself if someone is explaining the; Ge
"who opposes the scholars. And Meimonides in 1 Hafchakka Ka n those criminals, nr N

58s

to glide eternally if someone denies the authority, or accepts only some of it, but rejects the rest;

who does not believe the tradition received orally,

which is a change or confusion of the law believes that anyone who does anything against the laws of Vorwiz; who forges his own path, etc. Without Two

One can infer from this that a place which
On the Sabbath, only defensive fencing is permitted, fo soon he would no longer be subject to any transformation.

But what good is it to the states if...?

Can Jews fight defensively on the Sabbath? What Does it help them that this precept came from heaven itself?
Is it being deployed? It would be desirable to have higher beings.

would not have mixed in with it, or they would have told us he opens up why we go against the reason that it gives us have given themselves, and which commands us to do our That

| fine and our happiness on all but you not wi

to confirm, act in that manner. Today

For two days the states cannot carry out their war operations to establish according to this heavenly commandment, without not to fear their downfall. Not all armies,

Not all corps can choose such positions.

in order to be allowed to defend oneself during the Sabbath.

Not all camps are naturally fortified in this way,

as the en of the Deferreichifehen army in Bohemia

m in. was.

.

ige - meer. FF Fu Pr re Zr 5

EN ir i .

5 2 5

2

x

.

8 7 ö N * 5 * f

* ve \ 8 .

Di = 8 1 MM

i 56 2 a

Here, half the army could be made up of Jews.
They existed, and no one was allowed to break the law. At the Prussians, who relied solely on themselves, without Taking care on cliffs and mountains was 5

That's simply not possible. Not like in ancient times where a
The stagnation of the war at the time of the festivals was, will

Even enemies will engage in it; still recruit, because the Sirian armies, before merely dark or Defensively fighting Jews fled, including our current ones.

The enemies flee. The country, the art of war, and the
The mindset of the enemies had to be particularly conducive to this.

finely prepare. Jewish Hussars and light troops; -

d “would be more likely to avoid their own attack, or

The hostile Finns await, alone there the Jews and their scholars have not yet determined what They actually call it an attack, and since they are the opened ones Running ravens, and that right up to the walls.

Pompey's structure brought no attack.
held: fo must also already the change of a Position for suitable and the close approach of the

| Do not consider enemies an attack. According to the Jewish
In essence, someone who shoots or throws would only be attacking.

and commits such acts of violence, which is a man's whose lives are in danger. Then they are right, fh in several, 10 bie on ben lead blood drops u

1

"57

But if the enemies come from near, that

They can grasp the Jews with their hands, and they are...

so that no human life is in danger,

—

They do not resist. We find examples of this, such as... already shown above in the story.

How bad it would be if our fortresses were ordered,
if one wanted to entrust them to Jews. They murder

just so worthless / on such an unworthy the brave N

to disregard the contrary way, as Jerufalem.
The beauties experience such commands all too often ten who act like the Jews; what should happen in the case of fols

They arise, whose courage is inspired by an article of faith.

JTel would be restricted.

Based on this observation, it seems to me that the Ju den and their advocates very clearly the unpopular ones unity of their war article received from heaven

see, and that the time of its usefulness is not sufficient.

I will be back soon. It is possible that he will be going to other happier times, which were entrusted to the Jews |
spoke of his Ro and Schimmel again

could emerge as something new; but that's what we're talking about.

No. We demand war materials that are related to the best members of bourgeois society agree, and which we invent for this purpose, of which 8 tie in ne ie Scheid want to enter, either on?

f | 85 denomm

B
f

5 x
\
i ei . * .
= „ ;
8

taken tremble; or fe irr» the woke

To be a citizen, to renounce. 5

If I'm not mistaken, even the Jews recognize this.

and their advocates, how necessary and essential
It is possible that not everyone can forge their own fine path.

; could, especially if the case arises where fi all

Forces must be united towards a common goal. Alone they

They lapse into an impossibility in their statements=

ness into the other. That which is divine and unbounded
They call prejudices "the law." These prejudices,

They think they will gradually fade away.

If only one had first granted the Jews all freedom to grant. That means, in other words, they would fill the positions.

forgotten in the Talmud, and no longer knowing what

God commanded them, as soon as they had the right

would have to get involved in everything that wealth btingt. But find the places that only To order defensive fighting is based on mere prejudice? How would it be possible that she herself / if she is not worthy of anything 1 would be, their memory should slip away so quickly=

teen, and that one day the multiple freedoms will contribute to it Should they be removed from holy books? I

5 Rather, I believe that by giving more to a community
Civil privileges denied, one should not do such a thing.
= see ohne ihr nicht bie ie daserke Achtung für ihre
=, wu OR: Strunds

3 and 59

The basic principle must be transferred. This is precisely why it is necessary.
also among the members of this community, once again

so much love for their basics and customs arise, especially since they arise with more freedom, so much so.

fewer obstacles / not being able to exercise them, fun-
let. This has always been a part of all religions.
hit. The more the princes used the forms of ei-have participated in one or the other religion, the more Instead, the old kefestiget and nfue were invented.

However, one can readily admit that the Jews who forgets the worn place in a certain time-

Denz only for centuries, as one can demand ges

If the governments live there, they will not get involved.
could, because they knew their strength at every hour have it ready. But also set aside time.
"Set, so I ask if, when the Jews at all times..."
ten and hours, fight the same way as everyone else, therefore all Have the remaining obstacles been removed? How far will they go?

marfchirön, without not calculating their Gefez to must-Phone? Truly not ten miles. The High Priest-fer Hirkanus, who was the Roman general Dolabella

imagined that the law of the Nazis did not allow,
To undertake great marches, as Josephus tells, would Even today, it must find imitators.

If he only has some knowledge of the war, he will be 'ges'.
13 - hailing

I,

.4

86: j 55 . E
Standing, 92 the stomach only all re in the Necessity is dictated, the most disgusting and to enjoy the most reprehensible foods, and that one often

Even in times of abundance, one cannot have everything.

What remains of the Jew when he has his laws,
to break over food and drink, if he has fine sa bath, his festivals and ten other prescribed for him

Customs must be dishonored, and what follows from that?
the entire context of this discussion about war?
This, that the present fords and governments,

They must think no differently than Emperor Honorius.

namely that the Indians, according to their religion, are completely un
I find it k  chtig to perform war service.

To overcome this inability, and the

i . | Schlaftrunf auch hier zubringen, fo fangen die Ju den and its advocates by saying that they are the Solda

They tend to view it as a minor matter. They mean, = nowadays the armies consist mostly of Hire soldiers, and it would be. So there was no interest in it.

even if the Jews do not conduct personal service
ten. The question remains whether, if they were to change their personal... pon in Gelde felten, nicht Gewerbe und Akerbau mehr
It would be advantageous if they found themselves.

Could this be called a theory that worthy of a statesman, sadly enough that ee

—

— —

61

These days, one almost says more oh to foreigners shows love and affection to the foreigners, and that seeks to weaken through patriotism. How if It is surprising that the back-and-forth running around so much will be, since the treatment is set up accordingly if.

If the Romans, out of love for their one local citizens drove far and wide: so neglectful

We'd rather have our own. Since it's during our war...
Versassung very often the same amount if, whether people or wooden machines stand there, and especially since one Everywhere there are more soldiers on the ground than needed.
If the protection of the country were necessary, then one must
Of course, we should accept all foreigners with limited means.
Because if the countries themselves all the soldiers who one considers necessary, should give up, so would hand lung and acreage, which are already suffering more than too much, to go to their graves completely, and finally from the States become a Tartar state. The armies, however, may consist of as many tenants as they wish, so

The native is always characterized by his resistance to AIDS.
countrymen are characterized by heartiness and loyalty, and what else more if, the peasant before the townsman. The | Reason for greater heartiness and loyalty= i

what is brought forward lies, generally speaking, partly in the |

which is influenced by climate, borrowing and walking

62 ze

Life is denied, horny in the oak to the 80th terlande, which through various goods which we possess in the same, and through the blessed days, which the princes give us, is brought forth.

'And if the farmer is worth more to the city dweller possessed by wars, it is because the ab=

The hardened body of the one who raises courage, since the

The other person's softness lowers their courage.
How utterly ill-considered it would therefore be to...
To accept cones, foreign "rental fees would be just as good as a local, and if you do it this way
He is the place of those who were the eighth defenders of the fatherland.
deliver, with: wanted to occupy Jews who only wanted money paid in order to hire mercenary soldiers.

Of course, the Christians had to, by...

| site sacrificed, decrease every year, and against it the Jews during their care and maintenance every year

multiply. What would happen if that were the case?
One could dig up fewer and fewer crescents each year.

What is only insignificant with low forces can
They can become very dangerous when they deteriorate.

, man vom Geld foricht, was die Juden zu Miethsfol

If data is to be provided, one must first demonstrate Ob.
"the rampant advertising of all states,
= and especially in the event of wars, enough rent
: N f

10 4

| we Sz
To get solbaten will be fine, yes, if this would be whether the funds are used correctly, not lie but view it as a tax, and the crises in greater detail
I will excavate a number.
The advantage gained by staying at home
I cannot say whether Jews would arise.

Jews have multiplied in all wars and... enriches. The condition of many Jewish communities before the
 The year 1763 compared to the present day behaves just as it does, like the beggar to the rich man. Even in the case of Future wars will be driven by the spirit of enrichment
 They should stop, they want to choose a way of life.
 ben, which they wanted. Instead of dealing with arable farming and Most people would prefer to employ people in manual labor.
 Chasing after speculation. Serving in war.
 not just those who are in the army, fons including those who remain in large numbers. The old man, who perhaps has two sons in the field, who is in the swine Having earned his bread with a fine countenance, he still has to go the civic guard is deployed, and many other incidents occur.
 Doing things. One could probably say that also "the remaining Inden these duties with tra-They could. Certainly not, because it would mean this and that is contrary to the Law of Moses. By the farmer It's also far to 8. Only the war ges

}

I could take "gesfufren" as an example. Would the Jewish peasants, Jewish servants, and the army wrote servants, horses and wagons out, so would they;

 various things from the Talmud, disobeying them, one Solve it. But the Hussars would not let that stop them.
 return, they would in urgent cases the Hebrews to be forced to erect. The mi only one

If it happened a few times, all Jews would be exiled in the future.
 diminished. As a result, arable farming would suffer more.
 than he has ever suffered from wars and crises.

That would be the end of my involvement with warfare. It
 I would be delighted if someone were to refute me.
 and wanted to prove that the Jews, by retaining idrer: Principles / just as good soldiers as the Kri

They could be. Yes, the joy would be even greater.

It would be fine if the Jews suddenly asked the princes,
-to let them tolerate it. That would be the best way to avoid it.

They complain that the war
Offices were closed. All princes / by the emperor

Sonorius, must consider the accusations.

But why don't they dare to attempt to end the war?
to reopen it. I am certain that the Eight Prussian generals were therefore allowed to...

5 increase if they had the proper measure, The

= a would N with e much more peace

— 2

“R n 3 A .

K r _ SEE" SEE Ze = EEE 20

.

If only in peacetime service, then this would be such an eighth

A fine test, so that one can derive their usefulness from it as could close the remaining stalls. If neither Freedom or time, when nothing in the world is capable would be to abolish prejudices and the laws

the right interpretation appropriate to our times to ges

If only the military could do that.
to the truth of my Sæzer which I already before

I have to save against all objections, so I must
I would like to mention here, quite frankly, what Mr.

Moses Mendelssohn in his preface to the Ma wet thoughts. I am for more, fine reasons not N

To ignore it and to justify myself against it, vers.
bound, since they are only N for those who read them alone.
must arouse much prejudice. If, however, I I am forced to present my reasons to him /

po wird dies doch des hochachtung unschabet fein, which I owe to the merits of this venerable man

I am guilty of it. I make use of his own.
Words. He adds:-
But even if all reasonable people...
gen, the Jews on the rights of mankind track

To grant a share of that share, it will not thereby become 'a.

that * in their current meager garrison,

€ Eon dem

Be at peace. Pe as soldiers! Only 1 year |

-

66 1 |

not only the state, but also that its increase which could even be harmful to him. Also

But I would like to know if the action in question is related to that.
People, or rather the people who handed over their hands

Tre:

The reasons for this are detailed below.
to be considered in Scripture, which nevertheless at that time, it was nothing other than a very limited Admission in England, looking for fine fellow citizens could. Holland alone gives an example, which is here can behave beyond all doubt. Never before has man fi f ich dasselbst ür über die Mehr der Juden be complains, although the means of acquisition are there for them.

| so meagerly paid, and their freedoms almost so little

It is more limited than in some provinces of Germany. —

As one speaks, Holland is an exception here;

because it is an acting state, which therefore acts
You can't have too much of a person! — Good!

How did they attract lungs? How is it that fe some. City in Brabant and the Netherlands, near Genes themselves and perhaps even more excellent gels

However, the propensity to the action of the city of Amsterdam
So very close? Why are they crowding together here on a infertile soil, indeed in a naturally unsuitable environment

habitable Morafte, which brings people together, bil

the Sun, through diligence and skill, into a

* an East

*

Garden of God around, and invent helpers for dlufflichen Subfistenz, üßz we erftärmün?

Nothing but freedom, leniency from the government, fairness

the law/ and the open arms with which they welcomed the People of all kinds, and clothing, opinions, customs,
| To incorporate usage and religion and to protect, and to have it done; find nothing but these advantages, which in Holland the almost overflowing blessing, the abundance of
It has produced good things, which is why it is so envied.

In general, people are useless to the state:

People who are of no use in a country, = this is a language that speaks to me of a statesman unworthy, yet seemingly fine. People can more or less useful; can be this way or that who is occupied with the ecstasy of their fellow human beings and promote their own to a greater or lesser extent. But

No state can overcome the slightest, seemingly useless freedoms.
ner resident, without significant disadvantage, enfe

and no beggar is too Much, not a single cripple completely unusable. Mr. Vohm
Although he attempted to use fine writing in the introduction, to establish a point that the crowd in a country
must not be exceeded without overfilling the tape, and become harmful. But it seems to me that an ir

'e under no conditions here in min

en: | debe

5D

*

Re 1

to take the most careful considerations into account; certainly any amount is sufficient.
Institution that was created to cope with the increase in the number of people contrary to, every measure taken, the ver Increased restraint towards tbun, the culture of the inhabitants / the Determination of people and their enveloping nature goes too far greater disadvantage than the anticipated overcrowding.

- One relies here on the white establishment of the Nature. Let it take its course and guide it through

8. Untimely activity, but no obstacles in the

Away. People hurry to where they find their exit.

come fiodens fi fie multiply and crowd together

together, where their activity has free rein

det: the population increases as long as the genius can discover new means of acquisition. As soon as the

When the sources are exhausted, they stand still of their own accord, and

If you overfill the container from one side, fo
When it from the other side the abundance of Telbfk to expire. Yes, I dare say that the case never occurs, and that there is never an exception

education, or emigration of the people, occurred because of this not the laws or their application. Guilt was

sen. As often as people in any condition,

If things become harmful to people, it is solely due to the Ge = lelen or at their V Borwesern. e

I.

Mm

E

7

5

69

In some other writings, Tar finds the one.
The accusation was repeated: the Jews produce nothing.
In their current form, they are neither farmers,
Artists and craftsmen are also helping nature.

not in their speech, and also give their Products no other form;; but wear and verfezen blos die ropen oder verbefferten, Erzeugniße g the countries from one place to another. They find so merely consumers who are a burden on the producers

"Yes, a big, otherwise insightful head has recently complained loudly about the misuse that the bringer to provide for so many intermediaries,

I have so many useless mouths to feed! The found Common sense, he meant, already teaches that the ö Products of nature and art are sold at a discount

want to take the same part. He grants alfe

To allow construction and crafts.

The result may be well-intentioned, but Wr
The reasons are weak, which the author found so... now and appear irrevocably legible. What does that mean?

oh then

N E77

5 In den Enieneie her maar.

to the states the advice and the well-intentioned warning, either not tolerating the Jews, or giving them land=

7

i

must, the more intermediaries are added, who such not increase, and yet be preserved, so to speak

i —

*

—

*

because, in more refined terms, actually serve bringing and consume? If only he brings forth, who helps to create something tangible, or through his Hands' work improves; so the far-reaching effort exists.

 most and largest part of the state from mere consumption
 ern. The entire teaching and military class brings, Nothing emerges from these principles; if not now

what the books that are written by him, to make an exception. At the Nehrstand itself find first and foremost merchants, porters, landowners and soldiers;

1

To settle the fare for the passengers, and in the end the class will be the so-called bringers mostly from Aker servants and journeymen; for the Landowners and masters rarely tend to the land themselves anymore.

To get to work! Thus, the state would consist of 8

a er TE

* on that admittedly respectable, but still sparse
a part of the people, from people who through their 'Hands work the products of nature, neither before=

. to perfect; that is, from mere means ern, and how? also from useless mouths, which

Will it become a burden to the bringer?

Here the irritability falls into; the eyes, and Since the conclusion is correct (if), the error must be in the
The front sections are lying. And it's eating too! Not just...
5 ed also Thun . n

Not

J.... rr Ei Go a 3 r DB > .

8 ee 9 8 *

FF a 3 71.

Not only those who work with their hands, but also over= main, whoever does something, promotes, causes= N set, facilitated, that his fellow human beings for the benefit of or can provide pleasure, deserves the name of the bringer, and he sometimes earns it for the less movement you have on fine extremities

You will become aware of them. Some merchants who speculative thinking on a fine desk, or on a fine
The design of the reclining chair basically brings more emerges as the worker and craftsman who
The one that makes the most noise. The warrior brings for it brings peace and - certainty. The scholar brings forth; although rarely efs something that comes to mind, but goods that we at least as fecible as this; good advice, instruction, Leisure and enjoyment. Only in the Anyands

The length of a bad mood can be like a wise man, as

Rousseau's idea slipped out that the biscuit baker |

I can achieve more in Paris than the Academy of Sciences. On the happiness of the state, as well as of individual people, belong various sensory and supernatural things, physical and mental goodness

ter, and whoever contributes to their production or improvement comment, on any more, or distant, with in a direct or immediate way something amounts to.

★

S4

1. .

[

72

It is not a mere report to be conceived; the 51 fine raw

| He gave nothing, but brought forth something in return.

I should believe this would shine brighter on the whole funden human understanding, and what in particular the intervening hands and their relation to the prominence

As for bringing and consuming: I trust to claim to me that they are for both, for the producer N both, as for the consumer, not only not after not holy, but when abuse is prevented
will be, most necessary, and almost indispensable;

Yes, that through their mediation the products are needed

N

become more charitable, non-profit and also cheaper, and the producer still makes more profits, and so in the

A stand can be established without excessive effort.
subtle forces; more comfortable and better to live. One

Imagine a worker processing the raw material into

to collect his artwork himself from the farmer, and after he has refined them, even the consumer must undertake; he who has to ensure that he those to acquire a sufficient quantity at a certain time, and this as often as the need requires, to those

Bring a man who needs them at that very time, and and is prompted to take it off him. Compare with him the worker 7 the middleman the raw matter i in Ks gan en according to fbe

—“ur

7 . 2 25 f 5 73 3

nes Vebörfuises and fine side circumstances sold, exchanged or offers on faith, which gives him the improved products decrease, and it takes its effort and care leaves fine, such to the consumer in turn f

to add to your convenient time. How much time and This man does not spare any crusades, which he gives to his art. inen can; however, the more through annuitous wandering sen and dawdling, and a thousand interruptions and Berfirenumgen to which he encumbers or seduces will be wasted. If this is not unequal work more; that is, with the same effort, more produce, and thus grant better prices, and Could they still live more comfortably? Wouldn't that make it possible?

the true industry promotes, and deserves the Zwischenhändler noch ein nutzloser Konsumer genannt zu will you? — These are the reasons for using a middleman |
im kleinen/ find even more obvious if Re
"on the intermediate hand in the large, on the actual
A merchant who sells the products of nature and labor.
It's from country to country, region of the world to region of the world.
Klühret ind derfezt, angewandte werden. Diefer if a true benefactor of the state, of humanity

Gender in general, and therefore nothing less than a useless mouth, which is from the bringer at N

...must be entertained.

— Fri

N...

73 | Ä

I assumed that the custom was... will be prevented. This consists mainly in the fact that that profit-hungry middlemen determine the fate of the
They know how to bring producers under their control: that they Lords and masters complained about the goods. Who?
those, such in the hands of the first bessers down to
to set, and to raise up in their own.
These are great evils that diminish the diligence of the prodigy.

gers, fo wie den Mut des Konsumers zu Boden druße

ken, and those opposed by laws and police Work needs to be done. Not exactly continuously,

Prohibition, exclusion, or inhibition are least of all possible.

"through approved or privileged sole or joint such inversions either promote the evils that one seeks to avert through them,
or produce ones that are even more harmful,
Rather, one should seek out all restrictions, as far as I know.
to reduce the monopolies, advantages and to abolish exclusionary rights, to the slightest extent Buyers with the large commercial building have equal rights.
and to grant freedom; in a word,
the competition among middlemen on all
To promote wisdom, to foster a competition between them excite, causing the price of things to fluctuate.
white e of the 5 of ber one side
N . i = aufs

the state is set, the diligence of fine side effects to enjoy excessive exertion. The

A consumer can live comfortably without extravagance, and

The artist nevertheless finds a finely announced ansfem

men. Only through competition, unlimited freedom;
unity and equality in the rights of purchase and insurance

kaufs find diechee Entzweke zu erreichen / und fonach is the common junk dealer and buyer, the least wandering Jew, who took the raw material from the Landmanne zum Kuyftler, or the processed by brings this to that, to the commencement of agriculture, ö

of the arts, manufactories and trade above all of very considerable benefit. To the advantage of the Landmannes receives the raw material in fine quality.

the, and for the benefit of the artist, as well as for the upbringing;
Taking up art; he seeks the products of industry to spread into every corner, the conveniences of the more useful and general for human life

do. The slightest trade incentive in this area trachtung not merely a consumer, but a nightly

The inhabitants (I mustn't say citizens) of the Sue,
a real game-changer. 5
Don't say I'm a partisan Sachwal -

ter my nn and füche everything to ver

e arößern,

we: 2127175
cheered up, and from the other every consumer in

*

/

7

h 5

*

.

76

larger, which is to their advantage, or to their Ems
This recommendation may suffice. I refer once again to...

on Holland, and on which country could one look forward,

when talking about action and industry, add More readily appointed? Simply through competition and rivalry, through unrestricted freedom and equality.

Rights of all buyers and sellers, regardless of status,

Whatever their reputation or beliefs may be, simply by

These invaluable advantages are inherent in all things.

their value, which exists only between buyer and seller

There is a moderate difference. Both are characterized by Competitors and rivals in a relationship
That's right, it benefits them both.
You can't get anywhere so good and so much, to everyone.

Times of year and day, with low levels of difficulty.
Lust to buy everything and sell everything, N as to Am

"8
I don't think anyone will be in first place.
is advised to visit Mr. Moses Mendelssohn to recant some of his stated principles no, if you talk to him, as he did more than once confessed, focusing solely on Holland. As because, whether one wants to or not, one will give him It's difficult to admit everything. The theory of noticed, genes and consumers will be right
— be.

*

Fine. Also, what is useful / in between hands and their relationship to consumption, and Dedicated to bringing forth, there will be no doubt un

'Terivorfen fine. Because everything is perfectly in harmony with the imagined Holland. But as soon as the map is not with him Holland, but other states before his eyes
If someone has this, they will not agree with the basic principles.
Eo nnen; for they cannot be applied to it.
If Mr. Moses Mendelssohn is justified

believes that Holland will keep all other states, to be praised as a model and for imitation, as soon as of industry and trade, or of the intake of Jews who are in the Nede: so it was previously necessary to prove that the Dutch principles
However, it is not well tolerated with all other states.
Before this happens, Mr. Moses Mendelssohn was unable to address all the objections.
which one can do to humble him. A so-called However, as expected, no proof can be provided.
Nature in a state is determined by the the difference. This difference is more and less essential to everyone's happiness.
The various basic constitutions, which one can see;
built upon, have as a result more and less RUE ae This affects the main reason

N fin

78

add, and from these derive secondary principles.
peculiar of it, Exert itself through all Einrich tungen, and so also in the agricultural sector, crafts Being, activity, etc. I believe that a legislator cannot make a greater mistake, as if he were in fine designs, nature, beings and He loses sight of the basic constitution. He makes either which is only a short-lived law, or it spoils the Bolk. Only a lawgiver as wise as Moses,

Was it possible to give laws in a country that he had never seen before. For this reason I presumably considered our lawyers justified in doing that.

"Right, which was given to the Romans, to the Germans to introduce [something]. How much unhappiness would this cause? have brought about new paths, and how many infinitely new ones

Abominations of legislation on a daily basis
How it arises is well known. This is not the place, to talk about it in more detail. I just want to say...
gen: It is most erroneous and impossible to den eigenthum

The basic principle of a state that, if I consider myself

so expressive may, fine components in turn of other orunbfägen has, another completely verfchies to adapt to those states. How can one be able to to be, to achieve someone else's goal, when one not able to walk the same paths. What beneficial for Hokand if, which is made from a fine whole fen, from its entire basic constitution, follows, must

*

In a certain sense, it can be poison to others. His Principles of action, 3. E. would change if they such completely imitated, the death of their action ensued arfachen. At the same time, the Dutch were through to win this defeat the most. This best It learns through experience. For at the time when Holland grew the most, then the other states came along.

closest to the Dutch system of action. Since from which one began to distance oneself, find the Dutch people apparently had their growth disrupted.

But he himself has been raised several degrees.

Because Holland is a country which has wealth over bit; because this wealth was produced through trade

brought, and because this trade is possible through all possible
When personal freedoms are nurtured, the whole world is inclined to
But especially the merchants, to point to Holland.
They tear down a basic structure, for example their bricks.
lofe freedom, from her system, and presents him at every opportunity, as the only means to to acquire treasures. What was one made of a

Mahler said that he had a nose that seemed beautiful to him,

Did it fit all faces? Or would the poor man en men: when one uses him in order to improve oneself,

on

would point to the foundation of a rich person? With a | Mere praise is not enough.

I investigated thoroughly. In my opinion, it must be

One must first consider the initial basic causes which the quantity of temporal wealth has produced, research fschen/ and take into account all the side circumstances men who contributed to it. If ols then The will to imitate is immediately present in this discovery.

if available, then it still only depends on the "Forces to be able to imitate. N

Nan claims that the intake of people has among the riches of the Dutch, most of the Partly. I can't convince myself of that. The Crowds have really contributed to the wealth at borne; but it is not the main shoot stimulant,

. their flourishing action and other perfections heiten gewass. Man seze Holland als Holland be seek / in other regions; stuff once more as many people are as currently dating,

Increase the freedom / the leniency of the government;

Let the nation be given so much understanding once again,
Thrift and virtue, as they currently possess.
Despite all this, Holland will neither be the Lezige Holland will remain. Yes, let them.

to only visit the Cher and Serlange,

Wem

|

b

0

Sy

TR 981
that from now on it should grow just as it did when

His republican fervor grew: nothing will work like this.

in the world wealthy fine, the current Holland here to bring him. He will be given a meager height.
We can't agree. What good is it, will everyone?

f

Time to show its splendor. But it will be about walk half as slowly; and the height will hardly increase.

Half of the illegible ones are fine. The reason is quite obvious.

tärllich bieser: because today the Dutch eagnet ,

much was lost due to a fine, attractive power, prayed.

and must lose more every day, the more other states
to work against the fine circle of influence;

because all the side circumstances that the outermost part of Holland ever =

gen, and contributed to the greatness, beginning today=

gen, to fall away, and more and more must fall away,
The more effort one makes to tap into the channels= Ben, who provided the money: and because one felt, with in a word, not quite putting the advantages into practice anymore
then, to direct, to expand, to multiply, | otherwise it was a children's game. So it's not the men.

Crowd, nor unlimited freedom, nor the wise and wild government, which the blooming hand= 5

has brought forth lung. For if only in it the driving force would lie, so she knew, so long it would exist=

den and e also remained unalterable and

2 8 = equal to 8

' _

j
* 0

“

They appear equally powerful. One can use those qualities.

to view it only as an aid. Above all, it was

It is the country's location, which can be described as the mother of all can look at the remaining births. The nearby beige

The open sea made shipping possible, and this trade. Both acquired captivating qualities for them.

half of Europe, and therefore Absz and new products,
bie fie to all the world, and even their needs Exchanging incisions they didn't have at exorbitant prices.
could. What could happen under such circumstances?
develop a form of government? None considered worn not that the seed was already there from the beginning, and which already fathered children under the Spanish; no other than the Republican. The Spanish printing press was who merely saw it as an opportunity for complete freedom

fen; for it seems to me that the Dutch also at guti
The government's desire would be brought to fruition have which they had nourished for so long.

Unlimited freedom was a consequence of this.

is in a sense already with this form of government verse'
bound, but beer ran and much other nearby

> would come together, which filled all arteries with it.
People, of which the least may speak, where from the slightest merit of this and that merit rest
Ak u will bear no other yoke than this,

" [1
"5 5 \

| which

.) 50

ra ei ee nrr

which they put on themselves. A war of sorts, which especially states very healing is, which first their mists Having replaced cords contributed greatly to prestige,

To increase the number of people, action, and influence.

This war, since it occurred against all human expectations)
The fact that it was happily completed made it all the more profound.
pressure on the minds. n

The material for the plot and for riches read

Here in large numbers. People were only allowed to come.

hurry to develop it. Without the material, they could fie, fo wenig mit vier Hände, als mit doppelten Ss often achieve what they can with two hands and a reached the head. The land was such that

Restrictions seemed more dangerous than beneficial.
Trade everywhere took the following course:
such a direction that one, one liked fine eyes - execute wherever one wanted, advantages everywhere - blicke. To the population and flourishing activity

Holland's, contributed significantly to the stupidity and one

The fold of the rock urns. I wish I were milder.

Press F 2 5 |

2 When the then Turkish emperor was presented with the War of the Dutch, with whom such powerful spa Niern presented: so he let the map be ben, and moved: that if the case concerned him,.
so he was sent to a good number of trench diggers.
Send to Holland, and N into

Be Meer werfen n. 2

84 ar
to be able to print; alone on the basis of a circumscription,
I can find no softer words to express the same sentiment.
These aforementioned properties manifested themselves in a very sad housekeeping and governmental art.
They didn't know the concept of tolerance; how could they expect others to understand it?
| Means to happiness. Many subjects,

5 E

caused by oppression, they therefore fled with their keynotes, and consequently with new material there to where they had enough freedom and peace) in order to to enrich the state. The improvement of the lands

The economy was not a matter for them. The production... gung of movable goods, and the recording of the near
It was not a state of affairs either. Rather, it promoted one unrestrained introduction, all to luxury ger sufficient goods. One possessed the necessities.

not, and the mere surface is affected. German lands Sistem was right for the Dutch and English who made it. Since many gentlemen in Germany...

reu/ fo were sure that one would unite, to hinder them. The diligence of one, sought to stifle the envy of others. The German Mef

They were nothing but defeats, alien to luxury, the goods exceeding basic needs, which the . Nation through constant scouring, in ever received during a prolonged fainting spell, and it was so good when a - = if

. Sranpe must be eaten; if one does not eat the ground so far can force that Dutch flowers and carnations
They grow within it, yes, if it goes so far that the

when the property of Germany, of a foreign race
Zion belonged. If one didn't find so much flax everywhere?

85

wand erfpinnen kaun, als die Bauern zu Suften und

Shirts are needed to avoid the Hollander;

when one speaks of fine, homegrown barley, Holian

Dutch people with understanding and science
trade, and by the Germans, as not long ago
It is, drawing large sums: one must not even consider it.

the driving forces are astonishing, which are in the Dutch Freedom, in the leniency of their government, and in the Crowds lie; one must rather think about who wonder how patiently the wool is cut^z

to be sheared, and to contribute to it yourself with force, that others can rise above them. Meanwhile, so as in this world, nobody gets rich and great * can, if not others suffer because of it, fe is

17

The tress in turn is this, that nothing is permanent.
The happy times of Dutch growth find over. By others beginning, better sound
'add to heeding by considering the ignoramuses, which nature has made them fall in love, they get to know it better,

the commerce the trade and change through Zunei

8

EU tung

1

3% “2”— |
tongue and support more uplifted: fo has the

It has already had a powerful effect on the nerves of Holland.

Several have suffered from the decay of their factories and written about their trade. But if one also considers this

Even if you didn't want to trust it, it's still the same, believe it.

Because if other states have a lot of similar

To prohibit the production and import of goods, then Naturally, their sales will decrease; they must...

wrestling, despite freedom, despite the lenient government, 5

despite the crowd, despite the upheaval of everyone

Jews. N

However, it is far from the truth that other states—through

Imitation of the Dutch trading system, to 1 should reach their nemesis. A land like Hol land where so much material, so much of its own ineradicable

Sources for trade where there are few brokers

The necessary products are found to restore the balance of actions.

to steer the most advantageous side; there follows the free

Competition among all buyers and sellers arises automatically, since

Itt kein Mensch überzußig / da ist der wenigste Handel, N ude, er mag thun was er will, ein nützlicher Hervort bringer, there are all dealers and intermediaries at right place; ia da is just so excessive, as to ers

It is impossible that the police, to whom they are called,

Masters of price control, work against it. One can

' 1 37

Tann, however, will never derive a system for completeness from this.

build the majority of other states. It was made possible for them to

It wouldn't help if you told them: you have to go there by becoming greater, so that you are unrestrained in all things introduces freedom. The competition among buyers is un

The buyer must be kept free. Dealers and Intermediaries must have equal rights.
must arouse rivalry among them. All people
They must be in the right place where they line up;
No Jew running around, he may trade, with

What he wants, not a beggar, not a cripple, must be crossed.

It should be fluid. He is a useful producer. The

Any abuses that occur must be dealt with by the police.

Licenses should be avoided.

This does not mean that Daft 19 is enough:

individual perfections exist among the Dutch.
those would be those not imitated by other states to become deserved. We find fe sowol in the - Economics, as in the manufacturing sector / and in many other things. If you live in Prussia and Pohl len imitated the cleanliness of the Dutch, and s²himself as much effort was put into improving the soil as the Dutch, so would the well-being be so great Raise the bond of the subjects, as their health u debe win wurde. Her inability, bie fich i EN 4 f bis

“

7

88 „'

Extended to everything, it was already centuries ago² beings and still err. In times past, they brought the peas.

Before, it's lazy fever. This once nourished...
"Sewohnbeit ibr pflegmatifches Temperament, welche

...expressed itself in all things; nowadays one sees

Still the same. If the merchants of the Mo:

82 kingdoms, which, scarcely having felt themselves, to the honor greed and wastefulness result from losing something of the

They borrowed the humility and thrift of the Dutch, fo would be better off with the support of their family, and the Trade throughout the country would benefit.

When other manufacturers, the virtues of the hol

dedicated to rural manufacturers, which were for the poor so good, how to work perfectly for rich people, they would Those at home and abroad, increase their sales.

and when other subjects all go to their fatherland,

tismus in the support and establishment of all things,

those who promote temporal prosperity, like the Dutch=

the last: fo would the whole country in bloating To:

and advised, etc. One still denies far and wide.
less the necessity of freedom. It is all States are recommended, and the story is convincing.

nunns too clearly, how many advantages their existence, and how many disadvantages her absence has brought.
She has to learn everything and she is in the

2 ! vn, neei

3 25 . !
* K.

ee en

89

Most states have unequal access to certain services. In some

The subjects do not know whether they will become monarchs.

belong to the Chinese or republican form of government.

In other matters, and where they expect all freedom, |

must believe that they are under an Asian Re-Formation form fichen. The whole thing resembles a body per, who has all fine limbs free, except for one or two hands, or all the way to the head. Of course.

One member creates obstacles for another.

-Freedom only needs to be introduced to such an extent that when it came to the fundamental disregard of the form of government and the necessary eating purposes according to it. The free f

The unity of a monarchy cannot guarantee the freedom of a
It's a republic. If you combine one with another...

If one wanted to exchange, then the essence of both would have to be different?
hear. Only that which is inherent in every form of government.
Mas of freedom, which extends to all parts

ken must, the temporal embers will come to her e 5

1 which is possible to reach her.

Most states are far from being in. From:

Eight of their wealthy lands at such a height that

They could all do the same calculation. The tent.

The economic welfare of a state is based on the profit

The collection of many movable goods. Wisdom says en that fe. ee Büther after the Orade of the Noche

*

5 who

90° Be 0 |

agility must be improved, because thereby the state Individual families are promoted the most. But Despite all their good intentions, that's just mean-to establish lasting business happiness,
They feel there are far too many obstacles. To overcome these obstacles... to remove obstacles as best they can,
must get too close to freedom in the east. Let that all people are guided by reason, and would always have the well-being of others in their actions the focus of the whole: so they were far away-Niger are deprived of their freedom. Laws and Restrictions would hardly be noteworthy.
But instead, one tries, as much as one can,

the magnificent, superfluous, and foreign thing, to which to prefer natural, essential and native products-hen. The waste with other people's goods has
It has increased so much everywhere that almost the farmer can no longer dooon frees iR. This. Evils find bes-arrers the exposed to monarchies, and it's no wonder, since The citizens receive such strange directions. They grow up without obligations towards themselves, towards others three and the stat to be taught. The purchase-One always aligns oneself with the people. Therefore, be-
He promotes the waxes the most, which give him the greatest
- fan. Burde un und daz find immer ne die
the

—

91 each to make the state most dependent. From this Reasons necessarily arise through introductions, restrictions, etc.
offer for the import of these and those goods, or on:
They were focused on this and that product. The reason is, bamt the import of superfluous goods, not the need-to suppress agile, or state-generated, and This would cause all prosperity to suffer. If some states... ten the balance of action, in general both, as especially, to their advantage, so they must go to three in turn fight with both types, and see

Every year, their subjects hasten to their deaths.
 I don't think they'll be told anymore, _
 Dutch freedom is the way to get rid of the algae
 my and special balance to their advantage u create. The merchant, as already mentioned, trades n not according to patrician principles, not according to the,
 what governments and better establishments consider good ten. He is thinking of his own advantage. He promotes the goods from which he earns the most, and where with him the prevailing prejudice was most evident ten comes. Give him excessive freedom, so He will call on them more and more, and the state only The more trouble he causes, the more he cheats. He does it like the Jews, 5 the middle ones, since they earn more than the Christians, in |
 More about Dru Aalen: Please wan for the Berar
 "An mung

92% \ Ze .
 To prevent the state from changing, better Mirtel old Prohibitions and regulations, so one would certainly become aware of them

len. These are certainly not means according to Dutch law.
 Foot, only by showing that they themselves! from must distinguish this foot, so it is also to the same deit proved that one can imitate these 13 N

“

kuonne. *
 So if I'm talking about an eande, from which I I am certain it deals more with superfluous things than f essential goods, and thereby transport his own disadvantage: so I am to express the wish linked to the fact that there are more producers and producers want to have, It goes without saying that one

so that producers and creators of movable goods
He means; for these bring about temporal well-being.

one stat. All other outputs and productions do not fly in such a sense, which one can use. They find it mean=/ not available until the first They are present. They were completely unreasonable without those.

to be. Just as their number is only one of those, and their Value depends only on those. The God's wage to take, and weigh up who is involved in the emergence=

Production and manufacture of movable goods for most

I have a share, whether it's the meter or Gefele free

he 5 Y

the 833 who could boast most about his merits in doing so, It's superfluous. It's not about making a useful determination of all those who bring forth to bring, who do not use their hands in the process, or not make anything tangible: but whether what one brings out as useful for all state purposes

One cannot deny, therefore, that not that which is useful after a doubt, after a doubt less useful for another purpose, or perhaps even excessive and harmful. If the state is faced with need...

finds it agile to produce movable goods according to

to promote the degrees of necessity: so must

the birth of a Jew, which goes that way, | superficial goods suitable for luxury purposes to be best dern, ihm überfüßes fein. All merchants and intermediaries handler fs much utility, taken abstractly, through Re brings out, find, when they their constrictions not after the same intended purpose of the place

direct, and against him. find, Superficial. ae
Those states that are needy and surplus tongue, which in the previous useless mar, in higher = find

N

Producing goods in large quantities immediately creates a production facility.

e Grade useful. All dealers and zucchini dealers useful. It cannot be denied that 5 ö the purposes of the states were not different.

*

2 5
7

JE =.

*

,

t

He;
I find them so little disadvantageous that one can easily lose out on Ver

You must wish for more. They will thereby only the more sources on the abscess outside were created and the price of things not thereby | own.

If the state fine necessary and over fluctuating

gen, however indispensable goods, except for Lan that must be fetched, so nothing is correct except that the quantity

The merchant and intermediary increase the price of a product, and also unnaße consumers find. One may, in order to to draw conclusions about an entire country, only one city to Pay attention. We can probably ber

- calculate how much cloth a city needs. I'll take that all the cloth is brought in from outside. As soon as . we the number of ells, the shopping and sales

If we know the price, we'll soon find out how much Advantage to the traders and middlemen

One must. Law, the advantage amounts to: 1 000 Rthlt.

If this advantage is divided between two, then these will rather have a cause from which ve fall to N than to increase.

If this advantage is divided among 50, 0 becomes |

"There is ample reason that the goods should be more expensive."
more than cheap must become. Because the little,
v chews on life, will cause fine / the

f ö Price

95

| Price reduced to fee. The Kuständer will still be we lower income to reduce the selling price.

The outflow of goods, determined by the quantity of buyers

What arises makes him more persistent. He knows when he noticed several excesses in fine country, before = excellently with fine co-manufacturer, in order to establish the to discuss the price. The Dutchman burns lie =

Whole piles of cinnamon, so as not to be overwhelmed by excess

Prices are being damaged. Other manufacturers are imitating this.

after they talk to others, and as long as hold as much as is possible for them. Only the diminishing

Absatz, which is caused by diminishing foreign buyers

If this occurs, it can force them to lower the price.

If the traders and intermediaries in all

The intention, as they claim, is to create useful creatures.

If one had done that, one would never need village regulations.

to do, one should not prevent the Bu = bought before the dealers so that the "2 a could increase the price.

If all traders and spearheads are in everything

E challenge, as it is claimed, would be useful, and the

8. If the price of goods had not increased, it would be over fluid, to keep the Jews from migrating. One ver:

This hindered free competition among buyers and sellers.

ie In geriffen Lindern, where the Lanhnußte das |

U
2

u ||

96 2

not find, but they are in other places where the Her-Bringer of mobile Suther, larger abattraction have,
and have this more outside than inside, where one must never take goods into consideration; mo-
Such restrictions are, of course, superfluous.
But where the towns and the peoples therein Producers of movable goods, more through local

as a foreign if Abfay and only through a certain district, and through scheduled market days their family

feed them, and have to pay their taxes where goods and goods make a big difference if, since it is without Contradiction, indeed, how much night axe the Haufirer cause, and how and how to bring about their recovery. Because

Furthermore, that Re fish strive to import foreign goods to sell to the man, yes, while they were running around have the opportunity to purchase completely prohibited goods bring; so they only negotiate the very worst-fien einheimchen Waren. Dabei verklon fie the decline of valuable goods, caused by negligence

and imitation of inferior goods, and. verse

They also reduce the decline and the reputation among foreigners,
By expanding the district of people, them and around the Saturating the city through fraud and elevators, ruining it the markets, and the prosperity of the citizens, which . 1 5 after n and Heleren and after Ber | eo ö j cha ;

ie — 9 nt m

. e = r

97 chafeibeit ihrer. in verkaufen muss / leid Beyond measure and to the point of ruin. The lord tax burdens, which are thereby reduced not to mention him.

* ar

Bohlen is a country where almost all Jews, hand ler and intermediaries find. One should always that traders and intermediaries useful HER
Those who are bearers of things, that's not how you become a person.
to convince them of the insight that it is for Poland and in Absicht of the goods with which they are concerned, were.

They do not direct their creations both towards | the productions of mobile, native nothbu

tiger Gooder, rather on foreign productions

fcher, the need exceeding goods, Da

by adjusting the food supply

Reasons that stem from the production of the first kind of goods
It depends. They also set the price for everyone else.
They were more expensive because of the rampant
Lack of money often results in large gaps in the absciss.
will be. Since the ware is not seduced outside,
So one knows no other way than through intensification and help. People don't reproduce either. there fh: the food stand does not rise. The traders and b Zuifgenblabler ache more predominance, and ver
8 the =

*

no

98uu = 925

- miles the advantage; as I could, that the price

7 things could fall?

to ensure the security of domestic goods
It's good that the number of dealers and middlemen is increasing.
Never learn to raise the price, and the competition that among them arises the price rather degrading /

So it only depends on the quality of the goods.
and whether they are produced in greater abundance can. IR this: so one can certainly assert that the greater the number of traders and intermediaries
The more you learn, the more the price falls, and his
It must reach natural limits. It doesn't hurt anything.
that sales would increase due to lower prices.

Because by producing a fine product~~⁂~~

If he is unable to pay, he will be adequately compensated.

Let us assume that in a country the quantity of butter is produced, and increased by a third

can. Given that the price of butter in the Pros

Vinz is more than half the price he paid in the Capital city if, fo must it worsens on something~~⁂~~

N gen, which brings forth this unnatural price
It's urgent. Customs can't do it properly, because it's a National product. Transportation can't do it either. to be; because 20 or go? Miles to water require the
They do not cost the selling price of the purchase price.

N | ee' um

*

|| 99

to cut off two-thirds of it. It must therefore be attached to other things lie. But one will most certainly You can't be wrong if you consider the butter privileges for the obstacle. As a result, only a few measured themselves.
to buy up all the butter, and in turn against They sell at prices they deem arbitrary. Hand~~⁂~~ Merchants and intermediaries are affected by the purchase in excluded from the province. They depend solely on the privileged individuals. This makes it completely impossible to that the price in the capital would fall, the decline would be increase, and multiply the product in the province~~⁂~~ could be multiplied. "Because the privileged were~~⁂~~ where butter is cheap, to er~~⁂~~ low, and where they skim off the butter when not to increase, but to replace the old high price half know. Therefore, one constantly experiences that when around the capital, such a bad thing about the exit of the cows adverse weather conditions arrive, prices are increased.

the, regardless of where the butter comes from, at No price increase is planned. The poor
The people who are most to be pitied are those who lose their Mother not like the rich in whole Jassern verses write, but from the middleman who pointed out who wants to have the fine 'win', a quarter pound of white ho len 5 a give you the privilege
e 8 2 ten

*

100

ten an overwhelming fortune, and since this was commonly reused in a useless way
If this happens, then the state must always lose.
From this point of view, it is quite possible to still Liele andre in diese Klasse gehörige Dinge vergleichen.
If the domestic goods are not easily one
If it is capable of ervickfäisung, then it will be difficult to fine.
claim that the dealers and intermediaries are more likely They should bring the price down, rather than up. If fie to a strong need for Eins and foreigners
It has become, so nothing will be done to counter the high price.
fen, as a reproduction
Regarding the abuse that results from this,
that the middlemen determine the fate of the producers in their violence, Herten from the prices who the, and thereby the diligence of the producer, so to crush the courage of the consumer: fs

There's no doubt about that. It's just that I'm not sure.
impossible, with Mr. Moses Mendelssohn to claim that the police violence is capable to inhibit evil. The ones aimed at this Polteiankalten, find generally only there, so that they there you will find. And their industriousness is only evident so that She should not be restless. Strictly speaking, one will ger m Abffcht 1585 pan keinen anders Entzwer

; 1

4

f

401

7

bring it out. But it's not entirely due to the police, rather than the impossibility of the evil to discover. As soon as one investigates in which Country? In which city? And at which Goods? Is the police's reputation supposed to be enhanced, so one will be in
At a moment, they realize their inability. Outside Lan Their reputation is not valid. If one considers the Wa must therefore obtain: so the intermediate ones become The trader with the foreign producer undisturbed can do what they want

In this country, the police have all the power, which is a bad thing.

to prevent; only because she is not omniscient, and

Such an offense, either not at all, or X

but it is rarely discovered; so I don't know; how It can be effective. Small towns can benefit from the Po

zei noch vor Äberfehen, noch weit vor kann fie hier certainly fine; but certainly only mostly in Din gen, which we are not discussing here. In large cities ten can express their good will three times less Attach it. The more often she attaches it, the more it will only become That's why it's fine, so that it gets attached.

In the case of factory-made goods, of which this actually refers to the Speech is, the power of the police can least of all 5

able to finely the evils dberntfer preise m vers |

hinder. | |
65 | At

[4

—

As already suspected, with foreign goods,

That's clear in itself. With domestically produced goods, it's permissible.

Never use their reputation on this point.
Encouragement, support, and freedom that the principles of their trade and commerce

mäß is, muss яяя ihr nur die einzige Mittel sein, wo with exorbitant prices. She can in ans her intention, if she wants it, and which is perhaps very Liel contributes to moderate prices, becoming useful. So it is one of the most harmful evils in fabrication, when the fabric

Sold briquettishly by the ell. This evil tears so
It is very clear that one can infer from this the decline of the whole system.

2. Businesses must close. As soon as this hoarding, perpetrated this abhorrent abuse, so the Manufacturer only as much as he sells · He finds in doing so not just the fine profit that belongs to the dealer, fons

but also that means to cut up bad goods,

which the merchant would not accept from him.

This results in abundance, diversity, and

5. Permanent work suffocates. Things that are too cheap Prices and a great deal of trade with foreigners contribute. The shopkeeper and merchant, who belong to the a commerce is highly necessary and indispensable, become apparent through the sale of the manufacturers ruined. Jews deprived them of their rights in the country.

a will

E

! 5 103

If this happens, then it will also require the expansion of their operations.
suffer outside the country because of the manufacturer,

neither the quantity nor the quality, nor the variety can obtain the quality of goods.

Such evils are far more easily avoided, and

They should, as cheaply as possible, leave as much freedom unharmed.
doing so could be avoided with all participation;

9. Simply paying too high a price for a product, because it seems too high to us,
To try to sweep it down by other means would...

Factory farming can be very detrimental. As long as one never one can find a reason why the price of a Goods should be lower, and that can be very Rarely discover, one can never rely on coercion for so long.

Think of N as a means. Since, as expected, the appearance only very remotely similar to the police, not at all like coercion can use apparent means to lower prices to set, one asks oneself, to whom one should address such a direct question can see, to prevent dealers

I am not the master of prices, but rather a middleman.

What to do? Whatever one might invent for this reason will to always agree that exclusion

fung, Einschrnkt, Alleinhandel, ber Eins und Ver

Buy the old evils, endure them / or new ones, . e bring forth. .

104

Mir ik es therefore e ganz mutelch die Gedanken ale
Mr. Moses Mendelssohn to unite. He is everywhere, the free course of things is brought to its knees, in order to

to bring about flourishing commerce. From this

He deduces that no human being, so little Christ as Jew,
In the state, superfluous and unnaze fein konne. Holland is the only example which he gave with the intention of the hand lung and Indufrie, partly for their own proof, divides is set up by other states for emulation. Through This example was strengthened, and through the free course of the Things needed that bring about the happiness of the states

He should bring, according to his theory, earned from: and domestic goods, of what kind fte fei, one

Attention. But Mr. Moses Men confesses... delssohn, that misuses would emerge which the inn befunden , dass sich die Händler und Zwischenhand made them masters of prices. This harmful Evil must be countered by respect and police.
He will be prayed for. By speaking of these evils,

And will say how and by what means, through which

The police use this as a means to "prevent" the prevailing evils.

inside: : fo he does not demand the slight widening

as the free course of things.

I must therefore see once again that I see his Construction . e can, without not Widet
8 N wrüche

' N.

105

To discover sayings. Of the rest, which belongs to the society was appropriate to the subject of my investigation, I have Tutz spoke before. I have my opinion on each one.

contrary to Dermann's assessment, with reasons de set against, and now spinning my main fa again ö

the one I left.

As little as one might think of Holland, with the intention of upending the Jews take, to praise as a model to be imitated,

ee

England can be used for that very little. Both States have focused their primary attention on the
The action is directed at the sea, shipping, and its activities.

The entire basic creation gives them a very special idea.
Uses. Everything unites with them, that fine Abs '
Never take such a strict view of the brother into account.
are allowed to, unlike others. Even if they are in need of men fchen is lacking when they are entangled in wars, fe

They lack it far less than others. That's People are constantly fleeing from other countries, into the intention of taking treasures from them. In war

The influx of people increased even more as the races progressed;
For nowadays, people everywhere are lice-picking.

together, which without the slightest purpose continue to have with them, for a few pennies' maintenance, her

Offering life for sale. The hope for prey and plans.
N is the driving force, fine ss life

106 x ee
to risk life. Furthermore, the Dutch allow and Englishmen their great ignoramuses, themselves whole Buying armies for money. We have more than Once we've had this example, and experience it again in our lives...
snern days, that one should shed the blood of the subjects, ges sold moderate amounts of money.
Andre Staten Finnen I don't have so many advantages
They boast. Nature has provided them with fewer resources.
granted to the Keichthorns. Their helper tribes can They can't always buy it. So they find themselves forced to...
to choose three purposes. They must use their strength, to look solely within oneself, and thus fo Strict and careful management, so that their basic needs are met will not be weakened in any way. i Moreover, it is impossible to foresee what this ste
They grant the Jews more than others. I know not to find the reason why they are doing this elevates itself above others. That it is occasionally involved in trade.

Give the Jews more freedom? That is, for reasons, which I have shown enough of, understandably. By what
As far as real civil liberties are concerned, they grant them not a hair's breadth more than others, and Strictly speaking, even less so whether they Jews can be accepted as citizens much sooner^s ten, like others. For example, if...
= j all

DES . u
all Dutch people were converted into Jews, so would:
because the republic can still exist, for reasons^s
the one I demonstrated shortly before. That can be said

f but ' already in France, Prussia, Austria, Schwer 5 not claiming that and Denmark. HE

The Jews and their defenders always remain,

As expected, the fact that the governments are involved in the 107

The refusal to admit Jews was the fault. In these cases,

In their opinion, it was only convenient to address the incompatibility
The possibility of both nations not to be mitigated, not to be avoided agree not to incite the feelings of a citizen, and to kill the prejudices against each other. They Therefore, they feel the obligation to exercise this to exhort people to their humane duty, and verses long, therefore, that the governments, as it were, hand in hand
They should lay out the mutual prejudices regarding

The entire state tends to go out. They lead

| including an example from Hungary, where one can find the ver^z |

turned poaching Gypsies into hateful people.

Both nations may have many prejudices, 3

All fie. want, so in my opinion it only requires we

Sharpshooter, to discover what really precedes judgment is, and what must remain unchanged;

in order to judge with a sound basis how much the amount of

"see the government to be able to work towards this."
oda \ Ze 8 Was

N

108

As far as the moral judgments are concerned, they are,
which prevail in enlightened states, not to mention worth. They are not usually made from both Not out of gloomy pride, but rather amassed because one has more advantages. Where should the friend be?
Company and confidentiality come into play when the reason is, who creates, fills away. As long as the Jews do not
8. Eat and drink with the Christs, as long as both...
Theiles will not be taken into their families for as long as they remain.
one cannot imagine a bond of more precise union.

All the voting parts which Manassa in fine
The rescue of the Jews is fought against, finds completely the ba;
appropriate to the ancient age by writing, and if the English had no other reasons,

to expel Jews, as those whom Mangafta refuted,

That's something to laugh about, indeed. The English
They naturally had to realize that it wasn't possible in the youth.

the principle was interwoven to slaughter Christian children= ten, or to use their blood for the Easter feast, and So they were always left with middlemen of the same kind.
to eradicate hags. In the English law=
Bung wants to almost completely stop stealing and banging.
They ask more questions than they shed human blood. Since they the first offenses, even under their own nation

mn . like fie from the same round, also on

Out of= 1

eo. 109

Extermination. Their nation should be mindful if they...
Laws and punishments were deemed powerless on this point.
Indeed, the prejudices of the rabble have probably had the least participation in England, to to prevent the naturalization of Jews. The Po= bel mag fo verfinftert fein, als Ir will, fo ist er immer
So clairvoyant, to see the true citizen. One discover without prejudice the immense pride that The Jews were driven to this conclusion because they to be able to count themselves among the people of God/ and in their=
They find promises in the laws, according to which they are the same.
once again in full glory above all peoples ben, emerge.
If this point perhaps relates to the monar=

Chien vertruße, so ist er sicher für die Engländer am incompatible. Theirs, without this deep insight

Afterwards, he must clearly demonstrate the sad consequences.

Eyes that, with a greater increase in the number of Jews,
and consequently with stronger influence on the ent-Deer can. k 1

So little of the prejudices of Manassa that were being fought against can serve as an accusation against enlightened states.

just as little is it the 'famous collection of the ent- 35
- ,beiten Eisenmengerfchen Judenthums. Dier.
N always remains a treasure for future generations.

ö ; ' schende

—

\ x —

me ee, Fr

sneezing side and out of fine sites against the | One can find perfectly unassailable truths among Jews.

So I want to urge the whole world to do what he did in Ab-

not the return to Palestine, and of the oath who tells the Jews to be exhumed. Because of the oath in-
As a special case, I would like to ask the advocates of the Jews to speak out.
to borrow money from 50 Jews, to let themselves be sued, and to all those who have charged excessive interest, to postpone the oath about it. They will thereby either the truth or the untruth of a statement

The claim, the thousand fledged and che people to agree, to be convinced.

I must point out that I do not understand can explain why the Jews swear an oath in Sinai.

It is much harder to bring than before the Christ=

lich judge and that the whole community, if the

A Jew was burned alive in the synagogue, a kind of harbors contempt for him; but this contempt alone never let him blink, as soon as he is before the Christian Rich= ter swore an oath.

Out of fear of being accused of prejudice

I cannot decide about it; I wish

but) that I was taught: what it is, and where one must look for it, that I have lost a person

What

— fi

—

.

Tal æhae, det wider einen Seifen geschwör hat.

Wer nn * N Et Ba une

411

8 the reason fi, 15 one before a 1

I have less respect for a judge than for a young person.

German judges, and that even the laws in important

Matters of guilt that the Sinagogue must swear an oath to;

as if the slightest faults were not the same justice: required, and to give the poor a Guilt could be renounced, were this case

They carry no prejudice, following the religious

'divine Gerzen, so one becomes a whole son'
to make decent money for the future citizen,
In a fine state. With complete equality, with 'the other Christian citizens, of course, had to the

The previous legislation, because of the oaths, where Christ

which has advantages for the Jew, will be eliminated.
The legislator will undoubtedly employ all wisdom in must visit the whole world to enforce their law.

to establish equality, and that even in

E the century where the erosion of prejudice=

partly against Christians before themselves, and not baptizing be tucked away.

1

N

The Christians may wait until 15 to see the day laborer in u

To transform unprejudiced philosophers, so it is said in= only one thing remains, which cannot be saved by anything Let it be eradicated. It will be a thing which is destroyed by 0 the befeifertige ene in the religion 105 through.

the 112 . :

the effect that this separation has on sociability, Friendship, duty, virtue and civil constitution
fung hat , entwiehet; es wird ein Th feiu/ für fo
It is held without cause, which is certainly in the Nature is founded / and thereby all respect is entrusted must serve / if we do not understand people more deeply want to earn more than they deserve.

As for the prejudices of the Jews, he had
They should have explained themselves more clearly beforehand; they should have said...

5 | zen should, which is actually Jewish prejudices name it. Then one would have to conclude from that that one would lose weight.
can, whether the governments possess the assets, they

In extinguish. Because if something from the religious

—

Gesezen is practically created, so I can just say that.
It is not a prejudice to call something that is unchangeable.
We want to touch on some of the most important things, which cause incompatibility, and see what

8. Prejudice prevails.

The Jews are not allowed to associate with the Christians.

5. Don't drink. For the other people...

The fact that the fh do not call them the immediate people of God is due to

This is the reason why they are more familiar, more pleasing and become more friendly towards each other. Their reason

"They may differ as much as they want, so

Endaft fie der unge fo h an einander , dass fie ink

—

113 never think of it, how very much like Jenis

They will deviate from the grave from the group. Already the savages who worship Goezen, and into the Wal
Those who wander around scattered must follow the path of the Ver Seek an agreement if you want to carry out something.
for which individual forces are insufficient. The Greeks Chen and Romer worshipped so many different gods, and one will never be able to prove that this sellige lives suffered as a result, or the reciprocal

They would have to sacrifice friendships over this. Imagine But imagine that God had commanded each of them, to consider oneself unclean in relation to the other, or to him to disdain the drink and food that he had given him offers etc. If you are not immediately confronted with Zwie greed, disunity and persecution in its fullness

to see the magnitude; will one not see that it is un-It was possible to highlight the virtues and the glory /
Bring about things that will amaze us? Impossible.
Can a people who are deterred by religion...? fine forces, whatever their purpose, to unite, thereto bring about great things.
Among the Jews, this separation cannot be considered a precedent.
to call uitge; the prohibition because of pure and unteis -
ner Speisen is in- their divine laws with hair

. words are not welcome. Read about it in the books.

“5 H ; .

g . . 8 8 *
\

*

114 e

Moses according to / as the written word given by God Law, and thus keep the mishnah and the Talmud, its oral laws given by God,

together?: ,fa one will be convinced of it.
"The governments, however harmful these laws are today's citizens may, can, and may hold.
They must not contribute anything to the effects that
To prevent them from arising. They have always been They must attack the root cause. But since they are concerned with... must not concern themselves with the inner workings of religion, (since people) viewed from this side, in the na-living in terrible conditions, they can also use their abilities:
do not use violence in this context. Regarding the Christian re...
Governments also have the added factor that they are using their own resources,
| igion: to accept as true what the Ju-the belief. They are indoctrinated with it from a young age.
The old testament was tortured just as much as with the new. Among the Jews it is even more convincing that 'fie to the repeal of the law, and just as little to the bad effects, for today's bourgeois constitution to catch, to be able to contribute something. The beginning at

"To one or the other, there would always be the 8
Fine, to leave religion. 5
The Jews are not allowed to be soldiers, like
The Christians. The legs of the gods are already visible above:
ee! Te üch

115

She rhymed in the most convenient places, namely at Casath
only able to fight when attacked, although the large Haufe has assumed he will never fence.

However, if there is also a pro from one side
Judgment should prevail, even if it goes so far.
This means that the Jews fight just like the Christians.
must, believe, so they cannot yet from the tos
On the other side, the law, because of the unclean foods, deny. Since this is as little possible in peace as in
It is possible to wage wars: that's how you always get there back to the idea that Jews can't be soldiers.
I can therefore disregard the prejudice which of both Re
It is impossible to understand how religions should prevail, and I can imagine even less that one is too could contribute something to an abscess. Christ will therefore must always maintain the ineradicable opinion that the Jew was an incompetent citizen because he not even capable fine may, fine eioenes a 1
to protect. ae

The Jews have a Sabbath, which is observed by the Sabbath of the Christians is different. They Only those who may be attacked on this day, and when a person's life is in danger fence. They may only do so on this day.
to offer support when a person's life has been saved
..... 82 who

116 , u

-

will be run. All these separations, f much after:

part of them for the bourgeois constitutions, as man during acre construction and craftwork

Darthan will find so few prejudices, as to the Ab=
'Change is a matter of fate. They flow so purely from the gods.'

According to Jewish law, as a stream from the source.
The Jews have, besides their Sabbath, also a lot of festivals and holidays that are associated with the probably cannot survive the citizen's.

You will find them down by the acre construction and the hands.
Workers calculate more precisely. This calculation but will be both by Mr. Michaelis, as from Mr. Buching. Because I am

f calculate below as a cameralist, and there will be quite a lot.
Half a year of holidays come out. Because the mei= of the festivals and holidays of the Jews, of Mese himself was appointed as divine, and the others...

become find, through other things, fo Finnen fie we= the arbitrary rule of the Jews, still Christian Re= depend on governments. One would have to attack the laws.

fen, and that is, as expected, not permissible.
It can even be proven from the Bible, (1 Sam.

| RX, 29.) that the Jews had their own family celebrations ö baben, and can introduce. For Moses has the future possibilities are not excluded, and one has already been looking for him

117

He got one. Now, when the situation arises... the characteristic of being a citizen, to still have some
to create more festivals and holidays, according to Finns fie darüber Kaiser and kings, by virtue of their law= book, tozen. You can say, the king of Israelites are above all kings and no one on this World.

Another if statement, which is more capable of modification
It would be if Hamann were still at the Purim festival.
is beaten. In half a century, it can Perhaps the enlightenment of the Jews has gone so far diehen s=ien, dass sie einsehen, wie Hamann die Prügel cannot feel. The abolition of these annual revenge would be so much cheaper, since one could... provides an opportunity to encounter Christians or non-believers.
to imagine.)

The Jews have a special right, which Concerning mine and yours, which differs from the right given to the citizens of the state
ift; distinguishes. The possession of a so special

On the right, the Jews are treated as little as their defenders
ter für ein Borurtpeil halten da sich fehr viel da = 9383 of

D At the Berlin Jewish community, this

2%" use fchen abfchal fine; inefien an ann dern Orts nech nicht.

*

9 = a

based on their divine yeast. It comes from them.
It never even occurs to anyone to abandon this right?
They even give reasons why the Jews are believing They could be right. But in doing so, they
He forgot the troublemaker and didn't consider what it would do.
gen will, ten kinds of citizens, with ten kinds of rights, one to supply. Mr. Moses Mendelssohn is expressing himself about this in a fine preface to Manassa, the following Form out. Autonomy granted to a colony tet werden fpll, erstrek sich oder auf Zivilfache, or it concerns religion and religious matters. Those They only concern the "mine" and "yours" among the members.
the colony. Everything here depends on contracts.
The rights of property and what depends upon it,
find external rights / can through voluntary Decision and agreement delegated to others and become suitable, and as soon as this is required Under normal conditions, they become ice.
gentum of the one to whom they are transferred, and can
It cannot be taken from him without injustice.

However, here you can focus on the side income men and the colony's contracts among themselves arrive men let. Does she consider it an advantage / the disputes

Weeks of their members according to their own laws and rights

Let the rules decide: this way you can decide from the side.
5 an bee

*

\

j 119

who apparently went unharmed to the government the Jews, like Mr. Dohm, who were quite rich tig noted, both the Christian laws of Moses, which does not refer to Judea and the former court Liturgical and worshipful constitution refer to as the received through oral tradition “or through Correct arguments and conclusions were drawn,
Explanations and interpretations regarding divine Keep the commandments; so they may be allowed to do their
To separate songs among themselves through voluntary agreements bind, their trade according to their own commands and rights.

to sweep them apart and let them decide. Should

Decision by Nubian or Christian judges
What happened? I answer, by official judges.
It doesn't matter whether they were from the Jewish or another region.

depend on the region. Soon the limbs of the state,

whatever opinions they may hold on religious matters than find, enjoy equal rights of mankind; so

Tann, this difference doesn't matter. The Richter was a very conscientious man, and the

To understand the rights according to which he can respect his neighbors
He should speak the law. Think he in. Roligton's sa chen / according to which doctrine he finds, when the authorities deem him fit for the office of judge, and einletz fo müssen feine Rechtsfiche gwaltig fein.

8 24 Trauen

420 8

Do we trust our health, our tremors in a

Doctors, without mentioning the difference in religion to see; why not our fortune to a rich man?

ter. The conscientious doctor, for whom his art is valuable

It will be a criminal who is to be executed tomorrow.
will be, today according to all the rules of his art.
to act, and to seek to free oneself from an evil. Indeed.
So the judge, if he is a human being, will his Fellow human beings, with intent on the goods of this lesson

Bens, justice be served, may they be |

@rundfäzen after, in that future e or Becoming yellow...

Diaas erste, war ich hier dem Herrn mooses men delssohn to answer I am guilty of, concerns the Bei Retention of the Jews' own rights. As soon as one...
If one only thinks of a colony in abstract terms, one will very easily become a Reasons, and even better than those which are merely from sorrow to carry abstractions are, to procure, from which one deres

Retention of own rights and decisions follows gladly. But as soon as you get a colony...

dentl, which citizens fine will want, who will use their strengths with must unite the rest, again a go zes or a state that encloses the colony, and again remembers the duty which is owed to the state

own fine mg, about the healing of finer entrusted N 1 member

“

12

To watch limbs with conviction: that's how one becomes
No fires at all. Maintaining own property.
In the settlement of a colony, an inconsistency becomes subtle.
A law-giver who gives laws to a people,
It may and can give no other laws than those that apply to everyone.
members of his state are common; who are as much as Reaching him is possible if, regardless of effect.
to raise, and a certain property either ö create or obtain.

Had the legislator not made the preliminary ruling, all members the common, not uniform effect,
to give laws that nourish the existing signet:
So he wouldn't need to have any tools with him at all; because he would have to realize that what he wanted to achieve could be achieved through Hundreds of evils lie in separation, was thwarted again. So little Moses in Abs
The religion was able to achieve what it has achieved.
if he does not mean all Jews, on a uniform "We"
There were laws extending beyond the kung; just as little can a secular legislator who still relies on entirely different Taking things seriously means achieving what he wants.
if he does not have common limbs, on the same Effective sweeping measures are given. That everyone

General, must of course also include general effects.
...and then you are also insured.

| 5% that

+

122

that one has stronger forces. However, the Ge

Most of these are understandable, only some are difficult.
forces to be united, consequently nothing but special and to produce general weakness. A regiment
More Pomeranians born in Pomerania must be united
To have the will, consequently to act with Aärkern forces can, as a regiment of thousands of different people, whose beliefs about their country and their upbringing
stick together, and therefore are more difficult to unite.
Property rests on diversity.
ness, which can be found throughout nature. Through

The physical Dafein always contains a germ that affects moral existence, and something here

pre-existing, which gives us an advantage. This ice Genthum can certainly be united into a whole.

the manifold of the whole world a goose zes is. But nothing can degrade it so much, as flawed laws. Besides other requirements, it significant difference in the environment

For any one people, certainly the best means to avoid any [issues/issues] at all.
Property, having no character at all. In the scholars or artists' republic Anden we the crowd

Examples of what I actually wanted to say.
How many things can a legislator take into account?
men, or how many things he has to fight when

-

123

he has a common, uniform effect on the whole people proposing, property-preserving laws
Ben wants to, he will be given the present plan, which he first has chosen the form of government he intends to establish, the nature of the country and the people sufficiently adapted to the Give him a hand; he will get more out of what he can.
before him lies, as from what he finds in others;
Because legislators have so few uniform rules.
for general forms of government, when the doctors a
I have remedies for all diseases.

However, it would be far easier to find the purposes
It is sufficient if the people are, as it were, involved in the legislative process.
must be addressed, as with various old republics arrived. The difficulties arise there on most, where different provinces are under one superior
The main thing will be brought. Furthermore, that the whole thing...
Fezgebung faulty, from the smallest to the largest
If the driving springs are faulty, they certainly lack that which,

Agreement in minds and a unified "we"

Tung must be generated. The contradiction that exists in this, must promote the growth of the state in every possible way suppress. Roman law, which one can find over the head of so many different provinces, and that only What was planned for the Romans doesn't necessarily have to be different.
have a detrimental effect. Here and there, one has...
Din. a lagen

—

*

124 25

They had to build; there were disputes, statutes, and Habits developed. But since they were generally They rarely agree with the major legislative bodies, and rarely to be able to exist before this: thus the drives must be able to exist.
The feathers are constantly being blown out. Therefore, they look we see nothing but perpetual deviations; the,

If we look at them more closely, they are nothing more than

Advantages that can be derived from nature or from what
What lies before us, pulls. To unite small things, Often, centuries are needed. For example, in | the same states not even the different ones
Mas, ell and weight can be made equal, without Respected, thereby causing damage and work.
A quantity is created.
and one must, of course, deal with the gesticulation Fewer and fewer come to an end, since a single empire often has such different legislators, which have very different Equipped with a way of thinking, giving laws. The one builds on the large parts of the seaside environment, the Others to the little one. One gives laws or Suggestions in a province or city that he
One knows, the other gives laws and suggestions about People and province that he had not seen in his life hen bat. All give laws, whether big or small, important

N
NS
/

| 125

to be important and insignificant; but all flicker in the
They never agree completely.

It doesn't hurt that the nature of each province, every city, indeed every village, is different; and that to focus on these differences laws, statutes, etc.
dwellings, can give rise to reasons. Nevertheless,
the true legislation never prevents the ent

The purpose of all this, besides keeping your eyes closed.

She will tear the manifold parts,) which are not enough work can be done, and almost none at all.

have been edited, to bring the true points closer, and
It will achieve complete harmony as a whole.

The right to know what is mine and yours is a major part.

the granting of rights. from in biefs must use them |
lay,

) In it, one has it eo Infreitag in 1 France on brought it the furthest. Almost every trade has it there.
even its statutes, whereby so little of the stat, when art is forgotten. Take that instead Towards Germany. Either one has with them Trades where they were most needed, even none; or one has a way that one considers privileged.

Gien is called. They often last several hundred years.
old. What is the most beautiful thing, so can those in it perverted follies, when they are with reason got into a dispute, no different than through the Roman law will be decided, which I believe I should decide in favor of folly.

—

—

126

| lie, which are concerned with all the intended purposes of the Stats must be unified. Have the rami perhaps Seszeze about Mine and Thine, which we have accepted have no reference to the Romans? not to their Country? Not based on its constitution? What has to do with it?

the more uncertainty, deviation, so infinite Many processes have been produced, more than this? Nothing more than this.
because everyone has a source to draw from at a price ben was, in which all human passions their found food.

As soon as it becomes necessary that rights
about mine and yours with the land, with all inhabitants

nern and selbst with the necessities that a stat after
The way of his form of government has been agreed upon men must; therefore the reason must also be nowhere to be found.

to be, in order to allow a colony to grant itself any and all things
To invent rights over mine and thine, interpretations,

Explanations, renewals and improvements appropriate; consequently, to deny the Majesty's rights. Where Could contracts play a role here? Since what from one side already as a necessary condition present if, all consent of the other part on must lift. It would be so much fine here, as if...

ten the subjects with their negent the contract
. I didn't do any business for several years take,

to take them, to leave them alone. It would
 This, of course, is not exactly detrimental for some states.
 to be, because there are many rulers who have the good will all of their subjects, through useless interference spoil the moment; but nevertheless, a Such a request was neither expressed nor granted.
 will be allowed to. So detrimental are the colleagues here.
 can: so detrimental must they fine, if one Kos Lonie, the retention of one's own rights, and what of that depends on whether it would be granted. Whatever one might do.
 of required conditions. can, is not Remarkable. The conditions will already be... by being cancelled because the state has no other conditions can make things happen, such as the fact that the laws are against him, must be given to all subjects.
 One must always confront evils at their source.
 When one realizes that something is for the against a time without harm, and even with advantage
 len linked. it, and one discovers for the future
 The more damage and disadvantage there is, the more one must the few advantages that are immediately obvious to us, forgotten because of the future disadvantage. The up
 It is very good to argue about something; but if one [it] so that one can arrange things so that there is less uproar or even Legs: if you need them, even better. If I imagine Citizens

Citizens, remember, so I too must remember that one tireless watch and protection over them was cen müsse. How can this be with the Jewish rights?

ten, which are not only interwoven with theology, but are also written in a language that is spoken throughout Lands do not understand the three Christian authorities, arrivals fen? That would be the way to get the Jewish citizens to “neglect. The certainty of this assertion This can be demonstrated even more if one considers the...
a judge's decision is the basis for the decision.

Before I speak of that, I must first make a statement.
the same, which one between the jubilarian rights and Mr. Dohm, who has made statutes, beantworken.
which with Mr. Moses Mendelssohn with intention who agrees with the preservation of Jewish rights, says:
The Indians were thereby separated from the other citizens nothing more separate / than a community that looks for lived according to special customs and statutes.

As many as ever want to like this.
Admit the claim; at least I can relate to that.
not unite. Simply because of the statutes. and Customs included under the laws of the land will be, and Jewish rights are quite different.
State laws are a very special complex.
If one found such a great difference as I found heaven

Dr; . . and

4

e 129
uud Erde. Statutes and state laws signed sich wie Zifche von Kargen, Landesgesetze und Status ten differ from the 1 rights, as Fish and birds.

The laws of a country have — colorful laws;
s on the philistic constitution of a country, in which where we are. And we must have him. Because I I can't live in a house the way I want, son as the house dictates; or I would have to be able to to rebuild it according to my wishes. That's possible.
But not with the world; although very many, especially theologians are thinking about this universe around knead it. Because by shaping the moral structure according to to make sense of it: this also makes it clear,
That they are working on the physical one, since the 8th reason of the first is.

for the sake of the nihish injunction, and for the
to favor advantages that are derived from it can, are a lot of statutes, customs or Small gesezee entstauden; those who may focus on people.
Whether referring to a city or town, or village, always has a ge to know that utility is the basis; and those who like them so numerous and subtly varied, as they wish, yet
You can always find more for the sake of the state. You there One cannot assume existence until they have...
"NO ghnicht"

130 | 8

not at the feet of the highest authority, as it were They have laid down their foundations. They must not take effect until... not considered necessary, wholesome and useful, especially in accordance with the purposes of the state f
Mend will be held. 5
Five other principles than these may and can be established.
If he does not accept the wise state, he will not stop.
too fine a word. He will be the craft institutes.

to seek to prevent the abuse to such an extent that

It requires a certain advantage. So he can admit that Subjects of a country with 21 years of age, majors become, by doing what others do at 25. That's how it is.

 can he admit that in a posh province the married couple to inherit in no other way than if she had children have; however, they were in other provinces without rest. inherit the view. We like so many statutes and special ones.
 If their rights are raised, then we will always discover a very good reason/ that the ents caused the situation, and we will even see some express the wish that they generally wish to be fine.
 Thus, that statute applies, where the spouses...
 inherit no differently than if they had fathered children
 ben, apparently to the population. .
 But what major difference is not found in vn on the Jews 855 Mine and Thine! They | hang |

a N 131

They are very strongly connected to their divine forces.
 men. People who are theologians and legal scholars in They designed it for a person, and with
 The divine sources were brought together.
 It is also not possible for anyone from their can make a thorough decision regarding the law if he does not (which combines both sciences). The Jewish The ores lasted for centuries; “) century
 derte find fie unwakkelbar· und unwälich geweist.
 The reason for this consistency is easy to discover,
 and lies in the eee with the divine.

a: 2 “ Se

Now we recognize only the Talmud.
 for the source of our oral law, which is the ik most of our religious customs and Laws in general. Therefore, one cannot without precise Knowledge of the Talmud and the commentaries
 re the same impossible according to our laws right speak canoe. Ritual law of the Jews, of which Author of the ae writings on Ver occasion and under the supervision of R. Sirschel Levin, Chief Rabbi of Berlin. 178 2nd intro p. 18.

The work according to which today's Jews both in civilian clothes and as ritual items, mostly
"To judge" is the Shulchan Aruch of R. Joseph.
K. with the additions of K. Moses of Israel, which in the fifty-fourth century (in the sixteenth century after Christian times re, manufactured Baden. Ritual law.

m 9 8. 725 1

132 NN Ba

Sense. For this reason, I find it difficult
Also convincing that the Jews, without heresy, to Auf far, their laws should remain capable of transformation.

We may only discuss this with ourselves and our own Consult theologians. The last ones will answer us.
ten must: it is not long ago that we the geiss lichen songs of some poets, and even the insidious ones
fien Ausdürke für inſirrt halten, und um etwas ausgrüt.
Eilben, which we regarded as holy sites, and
We were to be eutrissed, the people were to be incited.
Had Christus either confirmed the Corpus Juris, or ordered to introduce: certainly no one should be aware of this.
| A letter would be lost without human blood.

The Zudischen pseudo-scholars and Theslogans ste

35 still in far greater esteem among the Jewish National. It would be difficult to achieve anything without their will.
to alter and renew something inside; and by which

1. Their will should be guided.

"I believe I have sufficiently demonstrated how great the difference between Jewish rights and Statutes of a country, and in order to determine which are so much

To find equality, to convince even more, so must

I'll point out another difference to them, which they should be aware of.
They were meant to frighten. The Jews have in their stories

N 1 the inhuman N baft fie at their Bes graves

133

Digging never involves a truly accomplished death
I am convinced that, consequently, people are very often buried alive.
ben. The early departure or haste to the grave with to the seemingly dead, so as not to defile himself, provides very sufficient evidence for this. We
We must believe the doctors who assure us that the Death will not occur until we have passed through the Ge=
They have signs of decomposition. Like We have enough sad examples of premature death.
have experienced this under the Christians, and therefore from decrees were issued to the authorities regarding this matter; fo must also such sad companions, and ge:
I know of many more to be found among the Jews.
Fine. This has already been discussed in books and magazines.
Tungen written. If the Jews such things
They have ineradicable laws, and what's more...
If, as future citizens, they have, then they may look after the Opinions of Mr. Dohm and others, not Yu lizei, no one can care about it. What can
One cannot be held accountable for fraud by such laws.
Execute it. The executioner might faint.
Hey, what's there to complain about? It's... nothing more than that someone according to special status= tens and habits are vividly smothered.
7 \

33 So

134 GE

As soon as we have determined and decided whether the Jews in the status of citizens their laws
Keep track of Mine and Yours: for will be of this
The decision depends on whether to use a fig or Indian riches.
ter juteilen fallen.

Mr. Moses Mendelssohn answers the Stage, who should decide? So that: the authorities
Judges, whether Christian or Jewish. I I confess, this answer is very tolerant. But with that It is not aligned. Only in the property, in Wherever the Jews are now located, it makes no difference who decides according to their rights, and whether it is a critical issue be a cher or jubilarian judge. But if we the
To consider Jews in the self-custody of the citizen, when she has been raised into the family; then it goes of a completely different tone. Then the father of

The family is keen to ensure that even the least well-off person receives the same.

May much protection and respect be accorded to him, as to the greatest.
Truly, if we are to maintain the current situation Jewish rights and citizenship are presupposed; so it will be one finds oneself in the awkward position of being able to decide to decide who should be the judge.

i for the citizens, not some, but all of them.
in one place, but everywhere, from injustice
When shooting, it doesn't come down to just one at all.

n > fit

View, as Mr. Moses Mendelssohn suspects: Sesetzt, all judges in the whole country would be equal gifted with great insight: in the city, for example, before the human passions in safety 7 Certainly not,

Is he then, if we threaten him with gallows and wheel?
Then? Exactly so little. Or is it religion that Education, the national temperament? Not at all.
These things may be normal for some people.
elongated and fine; in all cases, one can at most describe them as ala Look at the aids. What is the thick band, which knows how to bind the passions so that the Stat to a fairly high degree certainly ver=

ensures fine citizens do not experience any harm

right? the nature and manner of the facilities that: we to do about it. A coherent presentation iR es, which binds at the flärkfien, and which the wiser and the more precise it becomes, the more likely it is=

135

4

keit ür über richtig Umgang des Ges feze will provide.

As soon as we are able to rectify the injustice easier to discover, so a lot will soon appear and other things that increase the deterrence.

In the institutions, and not just in the [unclear]. [Unclear]

It will be because the judge did not... Religion...

N het. But he will not, if he wants to and can.

bone because of religion, but only for its own advantage 3 4 because of,

136 2 |

Because of, wrong, cheeky. . Would it be possible that the Death could pay the doctors just as well as the Parties could do something to the judge, so we would Far more likely ten unscrupulous doctors than two unjust ones.

Find a judge. Judicial insight can be gained.
Furthermore, not to take them in the proportion as they
Mr. Moses Mendelssohn is taking it. One must the
To take the insight as the state must take it.
In this case, the view of 10 or ac persons is "So much as none, and if they are still so thorough" would be. With him, the lowest must go all the way to the highest, if not of the same height, but to a certain degree equal Simplicity is key. Any other kind of complexity would be impossible.
lich, fine citizens equal and prompt un to let it happen again.
Since I have now assumed that around the Bir to protect against injustice, not just the objection of many not only persons, but also a coherent Attention is required: so I ask, how can We remember judges who dispensed justice from Jewish law.

sezen Speaking about Jewish citizens without us Shouldn't citizens be left to the whims of judges?
"At least I can't find any judges like that where where it would not be the Jewish citizens who are to be pitied.
Wan i krißliche oder züdische Räte an, fo wird

the 137

The state or the upper power is very unformal.

men are informed about the treatment of their citizens
be. For the Jewish laws are in one language.
written, which certainly by the judges of the whole
The country doesn't understand three things. But the law itself is in to appropriate the entire fine scope, in addition to Undoubtedly, even more time will be required than for the in The view of all Roman and national laws is required.
With a few insightful people into the Jewish
It wasn't decided by law. We assumed... men, that the Jewish citizens in all cities and Villages should expand. That's the opinion of everyone.
Defenders of Jews. How do they intend to find a means?
find, so that the Jews in all villages and towns Will equal justice be served? With projects the participation of the highest authority and Weber's
They must not come to steal sight. It is alfe Only two things are possible. Either we have to... decree a special Jewish Ministry of Justice, and in all cities.' 'Apply Jewish legal experts;' or we must introduce that the judges, which to speak about Christian rights, also about Jewish rights chen. The erfie is due to infinitely many schwe Efficiency and cost are not easily achievable. That's the thing.

three are just as difficult and even more difficult to fulfill.
5 3 5 a fine:

*

138 “

to be: The old ones that have already been set in motion cannot be used for that.

take. It would therefore take more than a century.

It may be necessary to get so many people who Jewish rights have been sufficiently studied. In order to
To achieve this, it wasn't just necessary to focus on schools.

Hebrew language instruction reintroduced will be; there would also have to be a special faculty or Special professors will be appointed who will have responsibility for...

Let the law be upheld. These would be the ways, where Here we go again to the old barbarity and stupidity.
transformed, from which we have barely freed ourselves. For the torment with Latin, Greek, and Hebrew fchen language, was otherwise the only obstacle / wel= ches us from the progress in the sciences stayed. Law, we remember judges who the Indian and Christian law combined into one mind=

ben: fo maffen wir sich auch auch dazu ihre Unvolkom=

Remember the world. Not to mention that we

—

among the Christian judges, an indescribable number

They have stimuli because they don't learn what they should,

or more clearly, because our schools and universities

so arranged that they do not learn the truth

can: ,fo would have to increase the blundering even more over hand take, if one still has knowledge of such people

haft Ba feit, die an RN fchal mehr Zeit und Fleiß success

3 ö 1739

"requires more than all other sciences. Therefore
But can't one say that the state has a population of [unclear]?
His coming grows. Rather, it grows the
The greatest Urbel, as one can possibly imagine.

To remove most obstacles
men: so one might say: the Jewish rights
Can be translated into the local language.
I readily believe that this allows one to learn a lot from the Paths; but before one gets that far? A few Millions of Thalers would be required for the bare minimum.
will be used to cover printing, paper and translation costs.
to be able to. This sum cannot be raised by the citizens 5 be recovered by giving them the Geseze sold. It is in itself very unjust that One breaks the laws for the sake of some people, whom one intends to make rich, sold at such exorbitant prices,
and thereby prevents countless citizens from eating fen: In the sale of the Jewish prayer books
Even more injustice would prevail if one were They impose their will on the Christians; for they will be called by them.
no interest, u

When Jewish law is about mine and thine... should be translated: therefore a translation is part of it.
from the Old Testament, the Mischnah, the Babylonian.
and 'reputable Gamara, of the Talmud, until 5 on

on all Rabbinic books. For they are all in the exact context, and a judgment cannot be reached.
To be right, one will find everything in advice.
pull. a

What would that do for geit u Mmübe asia and where would we find the knife sweepers who are in (translated in the true sense.) The German language it is the least suited to this task among all languages.
The * Bu fich fschwerlich vereimis
| =

Finally, the chapel's right to the exit depends on it.
druke ab, der von det Sprache inseparable TFT, and otherwise with the appropriate accuracy
keit to be translated into another language
4 See Introduction to the Ritual Laws.
1 p. 18. Since we have the valid [document] at the wedding Phrases, admittedly somewhat German N to transfer; but as we have sought to to admit, even if you're not insured
I find that the words in the German language go nau of the same meaning and of the same Scopes are like the Hebrew ones, which we know through to make them understood. Yes, in all Traps where the scope and the secondary meaning words of such importance, it is an almost impossible thing, the same with all Loyalty and accuracy translated into another language Translate. Therefore, in all these cases of the original... the part-speaker necessarily ver the basic language must stand. See Rite. Laws of the Jews Introduction.

S, 19th, 20th

141

gen karñnen, and one would see the funniest performances.
experience. There would be no other advice than the superior one.
Sezer had to imitate the cardinals, who were concerned about The election of Anes Pabke did not unite the Finns.
If this happens, then everyone will appear as if they were free.

inspired. In this confusion, one calls out a Na-
men, and so is the one who has the most votes, |

Pope - Since the Jews in their books focus a great deal on To hold inspiration, this remedy might be the
the only way to achieve a satisfactory translation to get there. Another shape would always be the par-the dispute remains, that the translation not be right.

If we now consider the whole topic of jûti- .
If the law and judges repeat, then the law can be enforced.
The salad would not turn out any differently than if the Jews with Retention of their current rights, never citizens will be able to, and that is, if we give them their rights.
let them never achieve equal justice with the Abyss

We can expect that from citizens. I'll leave it to them.
more insightful people, either to join me, or My reasons will be refuted even better. Mebris
I turn back to where I left off, and ask, what other kinds of separations are there, which can be united through more love for humanity.
5 each I

142 a |
I find in fact fine things so important more, which with the presented ones in equal degrees.
These will already give the opponents enough to do.
give if they want to prove that they are part of the commons-business happiness can be united.
However, I must mention one more circumstance,
which I cannot ignore because of the cameralists, and the one that, if there is something prejudice involved / but Very difficult to abolish, it will be fine. Mr. von Justi and others express a great complaint therein that One can give the Jews all the commercial opportunities without any security entrust. They say the Jews are their religion-region after, not stats but only world citizens, and They are all at once in possession of the walking stick to seize, as soon as their promises begin.
take. This puts the states at risk, that this or that fraudster a lot of Jewish Families move out of the country and wealth that the state could weaken. There has already been talk about that.

Examples are available, and we will also provide them for the Bur
The future is not certain.

For my part, I believe that one can never be mistaken.
What might be missing are subtle measures. According to the prevailing to take the opinions of a people, even if These opinions were completely unfounded, let alone if

f ö dat

-

«

143%

“

The people find fine support in holy books.
It is not important that some philosophers or disaffected Jews hold different opinions;

It depends on the large part, on the part of the never so enlightened. But even if we are at to incite the large group, which is the source of this

This belief is: I am certain of this. I will find so much.

which unsettles us. When we see the holy
If we open some of the books of the Jews, we will find in their God-given written law
A number of places that must convince us that the

the greatest part of the Jews had a reason for the arrival of a to expect nes Mefchiah. I would whole Bo

gen anfüllen muss, wenn ich über dies Punkt ums

write constantly, and especially all the opinions

wanted to list which Christian and Jewish teachers
They have agreed. However, I give the following for it.

Places for investigation price: 2 Book of Moses

—

But it is not enough to simply put material into writing.
to find the Jewish laws that reflect the opinion of a future king confirmed; also in the valley Su mud

L

u 144 „

We find places the quantity. Ss belongs to the last Perek of Sanhedt in; and the first Perek

in Aboda Sara there. In the Sakka they promise SGamara even two Mefchiah. One is made from the tribe of Joseph, and the other eye of the man chen inie Davids emerge. Everything fits with that. agree that the promised Messiah as a chief-articles from Moses to the Prophets, and from except for the Talmudics, without the slightest knowledge.

The saying has been perpetuated. The only K. Siller
The opinion in the Sanhedrin is that the Israelites

The Messiah was already being vilified in Hiekla's time would have. But he must be free from all the great outings.

of the Talmud (R. Salomon Jarchi, R. Ifaal Abarbenel, R. Jofevh) bitter reproaches suffer, and One feels naughty, fine words have a better meaning to give. Even if the holy books and their

Explainers and interpreters not in the manner and scope,

wiaie fïch sich der Mefchiah wird üübereingen:

N

So find the Holy Books as well as all the other books,

: Leger of the Bible, and in the esteem of the Nazis.

holy men as Rashi / Abesnera and David Kimchi agrees that the arrival

des en wirklich m N

More

| 143

That's all you need to do.

To unsettle monarchs; that's all that's needed.
not, the commerce in the hands of the Jews for

To explain it half-playfully; that's all that's needed.

in order to be able to claim that the majority of the Jews (so I take their supernatural spirits from it)

(from) never become so embittered, never so loyal to the Fatherlands can be created, unlike others that have no glass.

bensartikel baräber haben, flucht zu müffen, wenn

A fraudster rings the alarm bell. The recent Examples, which the public press confirms,

that new freedoms were granted to the Jews in Jerusalem

ftatte, and therefore many hundreds of families from Pob move to len and other places; find truly not merely the temporal happiness which they in this now to expect despotic lands , or the Dru

kungen who feel in their birthplaces as finely attested. If, however, their escape, which is based on experience, not cautiously.

can make a difference; so they will surely be the ones who get us out

The rotten passages in the holy books are fine. I
I would like to wish that the passage 2 B. Mos. 1,

10. fine prophecy for one or the other state

free, and that the monarchs do not go to their ministers to be allowed to say; like that Al King forced

- "K ward

146 8 ;
was to be done, and yet was not wise enough: See
The people of the Children of Israel are too many and more than
we. Well then, let's subdue them with cunning, so that They shouldn't become too numerous. Because where there is a war...
errabe, möchten fie sich auch zu unsern sschla
gen, and against us e and towards the land
| marriages: n N f

If the Jews and their defenders completely
Good proof about promise and repentance.
Palestine, not to reject, but nevertheless again
rum can claim that the multiple freedoms benefit all | That belief in it will be extinguished: then this can happen.
. no differently than what happened in a few centuries,

And that's already sad enough, so well.
To play. Because earlier and so quickly it lets A nation doesn't always transform itself, as we a poet tells a story in an ode. This poet considers the Jews to be animals, and writes to a Mo

Snoring the art of portraying these animal beings in to have transformed human beings. For that, I want to thank you.
The just heavens await that the monarchs
...never want to possess this art. We would not even
They would soon suffer a lack of sustenance; for they would soon be without support.
know how to convert the entire animal kingdom into soldiers.

Above

147

In general, I wished, with the intention of the Jewish Enlightenment that the most enlightened of the youth with the involvement of Christian advocates, a great deal

Articles, and especially what she presented ben, recorded, such things were happening in the synagogues, and listened to see if all the people would say Amen. That contributed much to their conviction, and much easily give some opportunity for revocation.

The enlightenment and improvements made possible
The expulsion of the Gypsies in Hungary, which is considered a
An exemplary model for all governments sets up, and thereby wants to ask: does the same in The intention of the Jews, fg you will become useful citizens has ben; is very inappropriate. f Weun man Ziegelstreichereien und mühe pilhe has: so a remedy is devised in half an hour,

around a swarm of feral gypsies, reasonable - to make it practical and useful. Would a few thousand di a total of atheists or religious servants, so will which the statesman may need; for they must Whether they like it or not, into the laws

add. It would even (with Mr. Moses Mendels (to speak to a son) a statesman very unliterary fine,

if he doesn't rob the most hideous of the Gypsies
| Gen, not wanting to lay a hand on it, for a fine improvement!

Ka. uvm

5

*

148 eggs

um fo more, since this villain Fine Commandments vdm Heaven has, which is for the purpose of the stateman wi
speak. | 3

Gypsies can't find any Jews.

They received their special laws from God. Jews

They cry out about Tiranini as soon as they have to do something, which contradicts their commandments. Did one want to in brickworks or for fortification, even without that their law would scream as if they were:

They cried out in Egypt. Although Pharaoh called them Muß figgänger and let them work. That this work measured s2ig und geline gewenung s2ei bes2tiget s2ich das by the fact that all the people in the desert again went to his mild government, and after the meat pots who could set them by the fire under him, lustful was,
and to understand God at every opportunity

He gave that he made the Israeli people even worse.

treat him like a pharaoh. All modern states can certainly say the same to Pharaoh, namely that the

The largest part of the Jews go idly, and rather hun more than work. But the principles of the monarchs have changed, and one must not equate Jews with Violence is used for urgent purposes, usefully do. They have been doing it for over seventeen hundred years.
under verfdiebene ae with significant contribution

attitude

=

|| 149

They lived their way of thinking without anything being said
It may have been possible to make them more useful. In a especially supernatural providence, as some believe,
Neither their increase nor their duration was due to any factors.
It lay solely in the generally chosen way of life,
the trade. Since they, like the gypsies, are not considered
If one can act, then one will also further, oneself and their fate must be endured, for a long time their principles, with the N Best N become lighter.

The ecclesiastical authority of the Jews, which is based on vide
Orten fehr s?rgen if, darf s?ich vielleicht noch lieber vote down. Mr. Dohm even demands fine Restriction; the Jews were to be considered future Allow citizens to do everything they want in this regard.

only popular. Mr. Moses Mendelssohn has in the Preface to Manassa: The ecclesiastical power completely.

Rejected, rejected with convincing reasons.
He has already been informed about this in a Christian text.
He was held accountable. He was held accountable in his He found something in his statements which, if he would not know how to justify himself, unfortunately u
I'm going to let myself be guided by that.

= 3 lights

. search for light and * Berlin, at Maurer 1783. f

— “

not one, in white, colorful, Mr. Moses Mendelsson may have spoken, nor to what extent the ab-Creation of church power from Jewish laws
I can justify that. That the house in which we living, not collapsing over one's head, or es nicht Miethe leute einakfchern, ist eine von den vor-

The most important worries, which eliminate all others. The Er-
Experience has taught us enough how much follow-up

Partly the states felt the effects of ecclesiastical power have. One could dedicate an entire volume to it. can fill. The ecclesiastical power of the Catholics has everything that we needed to be holy and fine / under her

They brought drinks, and the Lutherans would do the same.
If they had done that, their entire system would be useful for it.

rerer had been. How many children have not only been because of this?

-

were killed, since the weakened women's rooms

one must do penance before the entire congregation-

ten. Enlightened states have the power of the Church, to restrict as much as possible for their own good They were looking for someone, and they won, and who...

the more the Geisslück
keit sich auf nöberzeugen und auf Brennen muss.

I'm surprised that you don't even notice how much enlightenment depends on the power of the Church, and that one takes note of the Jewish synagogue

the 131

The strictest breeding will be permitted. If under a larger number of the Berlin Jewish community, useful, helpful and enlightened Jews are found det, als fonst wo: fo liegt davon die Ursache nur
in a more subdued, reasonable church community walt. For as soon as a means is available which will help us prevents one from thinking more rationally: this is how it can
It hardly helps us to want to think more rationally.
The overseers, under whom the Jews stood, let
We have many examples of how badly their church...
Sewalt has led to one or the other's disadvantage:
want to be kind. Very often one has seen oneself as a kind of gendthiget gese to consider individual Jews as citizens, and they were released from exile by official orders must save. If we don't learn from experience
If one wants to become wiser, how should this happen?

All ecclesiastical authority is subject to the supreme authority.
subjugated, and can be so far lowered by her
the one you like, because she belongs to the lustful.

of religion. But all outsiders of religion must subjected to the will of the legislative power be, because it has an influence on the general welfare of the people has a fault. It does not happen to religion, s because of the temporary happiness that men to make a state, to combine their will

U

7

159, A

the united, and one of them Beraut to a subject each member to rational guidance.
that which enters society demands or makes this behavior condition, and had to stop being a member of zn to be, if it wished to demand that, because of it, the chosen common purposes should cease.

1 This would happen precisely if the supreme power does not concern itself with the influence which the

The public nature of religion has an impact on the general good,
It might worry. Does one want to claim that God
I myself ordered the ecclesiastical power, and that its principles in relation to the principles of religion inseparable would be, well, so the state will be to thank for such limbs; he did and cannot.

u take in; for he evidently sees that through fie

the purpose that people have on this earth be able to, be hurt, and that she demands something

gen, which is related to reason, which is important to humans higher beings have given "not be able to exist."
Such members may themselves bind the realm to themselves.
Ben, if they find it, where one can practice religion have made it solely for the purposes of humankind; or They may gather together in such a country, 16

that religion is nothing but the purpose of humankind, if "They believe it is possible that such a loaf of laurel is best."
I could

153

"I now turn to the Akerb au/ a Befchäfs tigung, which today is the state, of the greatest, Importance, and of which it was demanded that.
which also happens to the Jews. Yes, one has 0
I sincerely regret that it hasn't happened long ago.

free, by thereby the states losing much wealth

Lohren would have. It is believed that the oats and the barley will be just as wicked under the hands of the Jews diverse, than their money, which they gave to usurious
My intention in this investigation have, go there to show that according to today's Constitutions make it completely impossible for Jews to cultivate acres to permit; if one does not all Brundserfafluns wants to overturn. 4
1 That the Jews in their former promised land
It is well known that they carried out at Akerban.

Every Israelite had to have a piece of acre that he had it worked on by fine slaves and servants.
Akergefeze) the dadei Batt found, and the Abga
We find the taxes that had to be paid from it. in the books of Moses. The Akerban was in this

Lande fogar das Hanptgefhäbie, und der Gefeggeber even founded parts of it that seemed to be the future.

search the whole city for it. The craftsmen — and trade was entirely conducted by foreigners.

Ks The

r

5 2

1354

!

The Sidonians and Tirians came in whole Kartmans.
to Palestine, to sell their raw products to the Jews

'to lose weight, and to meet their other needs instead'

give. The promised land was in a fine location and its

Climate and, completely so, that acre cultivation through Strict religious restrictions did not cause the slightest suffering.

It hardly rained at all during the entire harvest, and one

Thirsts, therefore, because of the Sabbath and feast days, not the Curses spoil, they're useless. Other advantages to ges

Silence. By nature's design, one was thus prevented from free on all sides, and if one considers the democratic re=

decorative form with all facilities is added that one has a complete e with the judi=

religious laws.

From this form of government, from these establishments
tungen, and what depends on them, but find the hay=

tigen forms of government and institutions heaven=

vastly different. Therefore, anyone who complains that... we will not bring the Jews and their laws into our Jezi=

Anyone wishing to admit a member of a nation must either demand 5

that our forms of government and institutions, the Jews should leave just as the Canaanites left them had to give way, "that is, we must give way to our citizens

expel; or we must close our facilities; time customs and traditions 3 and the. Jubilees with their ö Seieien

a

1255

Gestures bineinpaffen waves. The first one I think will
No one should demand more than that, since we have nowadays from the great heroism of the Jews to safety Child, whom they let look before old age. We find ger Know that God will no longer stand before the Jewish armies

will be committed to save one million innocent people to let the other one jump over the blade.
If we want to maintain our facilities, and How do the Jews fit in? Well, that's how it would have been before, eh
When one speaks of barbarity, the rorliegend Einrich=
They should look at the techniques more closely. Because only from these Facilities, we will overcome the difficulties that to happen, to decrease; but from this we will again the disadvantage that we, in the interest of time= lichen happiness increases / in nn in bring have. R
After most and best of ours today.
Budgetary constitutions, means cultivating fields, indeed, Mr.

to own land, and to have the power to

to derive the greatest possible benefit from the country's culture to pull out; but that's not all. A certain degree von Nuzen, who was drawn from the culture of the soil can be, stands with the advantages of the whole Stats in context. The disadvantage that arises hundred nadjläfige Akerslente tutiehen is considered a f ar

158 | ö ö

Werluf is seen as the whole thing, and so it is with many other things, not just production to obtain the fruit. They adhere to every plot of land.
not only monetary contributions, but also obligations that in person, either the lord of the manor, or the country= of the Lord willingly at all times and hours= must be. Among the personal duties, belonging to the lord of the manor: court service, hand= services, transport, which to a greater and lesser extent according to the nature of the plots, but especially of the law and customs of each village theilt find. The most distinguished personal service for the Stat it, apart from other services, although the Military service. According to the rule, none of this applies.
The only one, absolutely fine. - It is: the duty of a

Eden, because every if is a member under the condition of bourgeois society that he gave his life for the Waterland, willing to protect and defend it Sacrifices. Meanwhile, one city before another. more or less security is needed, so one has the Wweegen also various facilities that some - Exclude more or less of the items, make immiss. But the peasantry is the one which the least of which is exempt/ and the one in the must serve most states without obligation. "1 zz It

i 157

It would be superfluous to check the facilities of every province, every city and every village in detail give. The taxes and services are everywhere verfchies In some places, one enjoys a great deal of freedom. Others find the services so bothersome that they are still a long way off. not to be associated with the Egyptian servitude of the Jews They are comparable. All regions agree on this point. agree that the duties, in the intention of the sovereign both, and mostly at the lord's behest must be provided personally; and more 8 It doesn't fit our plans.

If we now consider the Jews, while maintaining their God-given foundation, as today's farmers think; what does the state lose? or what does it lose? for insurmountable obstacles to implementation?

Being a soldier is the first thing that comes to mind for them. falls away. I may not prove this sentence any further; It has been sufficiently proven above. Also regarding the pros object, which aims to demonstrate the heroism of the Jews and to have their military service paid for; may I Don't look here anymore. It's already there. responded, and only a most pathetic and In an unjust state, such a desire can arise. Even more so when he hears about it.

would have |

158

had, would be in fine recipes

to incorporate.

But what should result from this/ if the

ö Sn increasingly the places of those own ma

Those who remain in the service of the war. Explained by many Jews to peasants, and let a single war precede it

If you go over there, you will experience that they, with help their nation the fourth part of the unified

They have acquired goods. Their increase must therefore happily grant, because they are calm and can remain in affluence in large numbers. Since the Financial circumstances of the crisis-ridden owner already through suffer more from the war: so becomes a fine Jewish neighbor,

who can collect with complete ease, not un to leave him to support him for so long, until he has his good lost to him. Besides the wars, there are in the villages there were entirely different means to achieve this

To obtain the possession of the goods. What should happen there?

will be destroyed if at least the

Half of every village consists of Jews? Nothing old.

a stat that grows weaker every year, and must lose more and more of his arms; a

Stat, who, if Likurg were still around, would only was allowed to send a number of his young men to

I to make it airy with a hundred thousand; a state,

159

like the Jewish one, who, out of many millions, is ready to fight.

Jews exist, and with a Roman army of

So, a man, under the leadership of Titus, jokingly to

The groundwork is laid.

But it's not just the flailing arms that are found.
 one cuts off the state by introducing the Jews;
 det; it is not the heroic virtue that one finds in the seeks to extinguish the states by introducing the Jews;
 It is not the dearly bought glory of the states, whom one intends to destroy. No, one also intends to This apparently destroyed the wealth of the state.
 They want to make even cowards sleep with them.
 I will make the lesson. I want to prove it by the number of their ordained by God, and therefore unalterable Sabbath, festivals and holidays, and through the resulting escaping obstacles, which gradually the
 They must overturn the entire constitution.
 2) Did the Jewish peasant or craftsman

52 Sabbath days, which are so strict that fields and the household must be located there. Since of that If 5 days fall on public holidays, they remain = Days 47
 3) Since the Jews celebrate their Sabbath with the sun start the process, and a lot of preparation gen n~~o~~this haben: fo gehtet noch mehr als der | "ar | 47
 Treitas

166 Fr 1
 Si eu — 7 u; . j 47
 Friday afternoon of every week thereafter, because During the harvest, one works in the field until Midnight. 5 half days make 26 days.

 "The Jews on the Sunday of the Christians ar
 To let them work is a completely unseemly thing to do. s~~2~~erung. A national law would not have so much Respect for their own religion, and permitted.
 that the Jews on their Sunday were called out, hawked their wares in the houses, and their oil to make hammers ring! or in the countryside harnessed the cattle to cultivate their field, etc.
 . w. fo one cannot force the Christians
 gen, to get along with the Jews. On Dor
 "Far from and small towns, one also keeps the Sunday is more sacred than in big cities, and if it is not for the sake of prayer, then rest.

Too fine, that would be detrimental to relaxation and rest.
| for the sake of both humans and animals. The Jewish farmer or craftsman is therefore always prevented on the Sunday of the Christians, and what he does on this day will can never be brought to justice.

—

— “33

zo' as \

161

5 / 73

* One must therefore take Sundays and public holidays into account.

Add to Jewish days of leisure days days ss

4) The first day of every month (Rosh Chodesh)
(doshih) is holy to the Jew. Makes 12 days

Each day is only half a celebration

as angefeen by only being in the Sinai

gong comes together, and from the 28 chapters,

v. 11716 is read or prayed; half

But it is day, for agriculture and trade

workers, and generally for the common people whole.

5) Monday and 8 every week

are also considered half holidays,

And if you can work ten times, then there is

he the pious rabble to fast and pray

Opportunity: and one makes entire holidays from that. But because of that, the Akerban as the handicrafts love.

Power Situation 104

6) The Newabrfete Tage a

7) The passafefft “Laze 9

Even if only the first two and the two
The last few days are true holidays, and the four
a 25589
E | middle ≈

16208
NN ö : 255
Niittlern only mean days/ or Chol Hammved be named, and on these days pass≈ to which businesses can be directed:
You can't claim that they are very good.
There were long working days, and that wasn't the problem.
Belief and laziness justify moderation≈
could tigen.

29) The Feast of Weeks * 6 days 2

9) The fifteenth day of the month, damu, a General fasting day: ER Day 1 10) On the ninth day of the month, Abh, but≈ once a general fasting day "day r
Try it once, and let one of them
the Christian farmers or blacksmiths Go hungry for a whole day, and look at the whether he will spend more time praying than working.
The third day of the month, Kir, a celebration≈

Carnival Day "Day r
12) The Reconciliation Feast and Days ≈
13) The Lauberhüttenfeet≈ Days 9

If the Jewish community in the villages pays≈
The eich will likely become: the Zorsts would very much like that.

* 0 NEE > ö i ö 271
muinirt

\ B

163

* * *

.. 5 | i 27 E

They were being rinirt. In Palehina, they were worried.

Don't worry about it. * |

24) The church consecration festival - days

19) On the tenth day of the month, Thebet, a General fasting day 5 Pa Day 1

16) The grasping of ether- "DN

2 The day dune and day 1

283

The e bie man against these holidays

What is capable of doing can only amount to two things=

run. Once, that the Christians also on their Sunday did not work, consequently 32 days were lost; and then,

that the Jews work on many extended half-days= ten could. As for Sunday, if it was with not in the slightest comparable to the Sabbath of the Indians=

Ken. Even though Sunday is God's day of worship

It determines actions; so they rest for that reason.

Not the most essential businesses. Yes, if anything.

If there were no public religious service, the men would...

Even among just days, one day, to inherit.

They had to be young and refreshed. One had to have a

Many things that are only visible from the perspective and the view=

The training depends on the specific day, but can be carried out on the other days.

. a became a work stoppage

s | : 2 thun

164 N

do; or want to have a special day, which which would amount to one thing. The Haas father He conducts a lot of business on Sundays.
pays workers; concludes contracts; he surpluses
the future businesses of the week; he makes orders lungs at this and that neighbor, he does Rei
'fen.' If market day falls on a Monday, fo
He often has to go out on Sundays with his wagon and horses;
He goes to the community meeting to...
to listen to orders; he has fruit chopped, or when He notices that the wheat is getting wet, harvest it; yes, he must perform certain services, both for the landlord, as

The sovereign performs his duties on Sundays. The house

Mother, like all servants, have either their own tuned or work relegated to Sunday, and if you don't work for the father of the house, fo arbei
Each one did it for themselves. All the work that the crack
'Those who perform the service of God have their value,' and if they are brought to bear, then they must
'They are more important than the works of an entire family. Where?'
The Jewish Sabbath, however, does not have this.
for a penny of temporal value. The alernoth Wenpigfien shops are closed today. Wiren
If no Christs were present on this day, then they must ö attend. The mate cu can under dubin gr;
\ ben,

\

the fact that the Indians also celebrate on the four holidays
Being able to work means many days will be lost.
But one the people, and fine inclination towards moderation gang knows; if one understands the politics of religious systems has suidr, and knows from this how much only the festival^z and holidays attracted followers; if one knows, how people hide under the guise of devoted to faith and devotion, to courageous walking;
when you finally know agriculture and understand, that half celebrated, as much as fully celebrated iR: and that Two hours during which I am not allowed to work.
could cause more damage than if I spent three days working tirelessly: that's how one is treated by chores, celebrations^z Don't erase anything during the day. It's: yes, even many.
omitted, and I only want to include some in the weaving pattern.
give · Unfortunately, one has to do something on every holiday,
at least a few hours before the following Billing for workdays. We see it with the Christians.
Monday is still on the mind of the journeyman craftsman.
More than one public holiday, and if not many on Sundays working, so one would consider him a half-celebration^z day for the state must look after.
How many such hours can one not expect?
the Jews according to the proportion of their many holidays^z
ö lum! and how many days will not be covered by that^z 27 + 8 - it

“

166 N | 8 e

How to get by? Next time I'll ask if it will take that long.
There are synagogues in every village; how many holidays are there?
They want to focus on the godly pursuits!

Yes, how many holidays do they want with regard to the...
To seek justice? Two Jewish farmers are arguing.

1. E. about a piece of acre. Who shall decide!
The judge, of course? How far away does he live? Perhaps.
20 miles? From which law book should he decide?

The one? Certainly not from the Christian one; it is indeed twofold. proved) that the Jews must retain their rights
"fen; who would also, if he could / not rather be a

b. divine, as human law book; alfe

From the Talmud; How so, from the Talmud? The bars

Barei should tear down the welfare of the citizens, according to the

How to measure the Talmud? The Talmud and the national law fes should be like the Urweser ber Manicheer around the Vor= Fighting on a train? I can't possibly imagine it.
But who should decide? It's already been said.
the chief judge; which judge decrees
But what about the Talmud, besides the rabbi? Well, so perhaps

The rabbi decides? But that will change the orunds.
Mr. [Name] is not satisfied, fine, or one would have to give him a [something].

They have imposed a despotic silence. Now fo does one make a mixed college out of the village frieze

ster, the cabin crew and cell, and thus
uf. . A . It

But be it as he will: so will the century
must be expiated before justice is served.

The situation of the Jews comes about in such a way that it is not based on one Jewish farmer, eight days are counted annually should, which he had to travel long distances to dedicate to his work must be abbreviated.

Apart from the many holidays that I missed in Anfchlag
I will bring, I ask: Who will replace the country's Damage caused by the strict Sabbath or other
Can holidays arise? Germany is not Pale Stina. Here, the entire harvest is without rain. There every year, and when Germany is made up of Jews Hour, so we often had to spend expensive time 1 Dar
No one can answer me. a

With so much celebrating and holidays, and with the
The strictness of the Sabbath makes it incomprehensibly fine to believe how the Jews have so far in their trade
Can they be able to pass? That is very possible.
Everyone follows the Jews, except for the Re greed, which scheduled market days according to their Sabbath and Holidays changed. They themselves know their business.
always to steer in such a way that their Sesez snrige beobach can be tested. Don't we see that their students ben of Friday afternoon, as well as especially the Saturday evening, after the Sabbath had ended, full

| 2 4 5 Si

168 e

Kristen find. What she lost on this day
Ben, get them with ease in a few hours to bring it back. It is their desire, and it is based on the
For some other things their increase and their Existence based on the fact that they have all chosen trade ben, must choose, and that in the trade the Flexibility lies within them, which they can utilize. There But I am very surprised that Mr. Dohm thinks one would all the unpleasantness of the Sabbath just like that.

how the Berlin Jews know how to avoid which their letters, which they are not allowed to write on the Sabbath,
I wrote it on Friday. But you can also write it on...
Fridays hold back the rain that is expected on Saturday.
What will occur to us? Two hours of loss, can we in agriculture, the profit from a
I can get rid of the whole week. Can I also skip Friday?
to know or replace beforehand that the wheat will be ready for me on
It will ruin Saturdays. Whoever I am on Sunday...
If a horse falls into the pit in the evening, I can see it on Friday.
save days; or can the passage in the Talmud, according to who made Jews do all kinds of work on the Sabbath able to perform when a person's life is at stake can also be tested on the horses, chickens and Sanse, and all kinds of fruit e become?

to

\

169

Many things can be learned from trade.
Sabath avert, which is with the farmer and craftsman man would be absent. If Mr. Dohm also claims that the state is not concerned about the un

Abnormalities of religion, consequently also not about the most tremendous damage that darqus he could cause grows / may worry: as much as one can do about it do not reply.

Let us now consider the damage caused by the
It arises on the Sabbath and holidays. I have previously 282 Sabbaths and holidays were accepted, and

It has been sufficiently demonstrated that they can be considered as a whole as effective
I must accept leisurely days; I have to do this Others are indicated that must actually come into being, and those that weren't included in the billing. I want
Not only these, yes, I want to drive on 83 more holidays-let them, and only accept 200, not even the sheep-to remember him, who arises with the intention of the fruits.

7

"I will not accept any other standard than..."

those whom one would like to see when abolishing the ka has served Tholian and Lutheran holidays; and which the cameralists agreed with. One
He calculates a daily loss of 6 grams per person.

.

Budget. After the craftsman earns more,

and earned more on certain days; after the 23 | Lana

—

170 g kandwirth den Berruf maner Stunde mehr als F und more Thalers can be credited: fo find the accepted
menen 6 Gr. fo billig und verbäißmäßig als postg 1000 people work 360 days a year. I calculate from that year onwards, some bus and public holidays.

 Sundays cannot be deducted from this, since the Ar work on those same things, namely the value of the rest Days when they no longer have any. They now earn daily.
 lich 6 Gr.: so this makes a total of 90000 Rthr. every year.
 So, Jews only work 165 days a year, because it
 They go from 200 days of rest and holidays; if they also Just 165 days a year, earning your daily allowance, that makes the sum of 41000 Rthlr annually: consequently, it loses the state through the 200 holidays, annually against 50,000 Thalers, and that from only 1,000 Jews.
 1000 Christs therefore bring more to the state, annually sooooRthle. And how do the latter populate?
 Not the state before the first. A war that happens daily Earning 6 groschen, one can support a wife and child. I Please think about it and calculate how much of the
 The state wins through the population. The Jew can At 6 grams, only rarely take a woman, and (it is (sad to say) the state helps fine children
 Nothing. No stall receives any real benefit from it.
 They grow among the most troubled preservation.
 8 0 8 tungen

1714

They use the means to combat the problem and run away again. One will say: why not give them all freedom?
 Good: one should first create their terrible ones
 Principles are eliminated; rather, freedom cannot be achieved.
 if the state does not perish, then N

According to that or any other standard
 Can the monarchs still calculate the damage?
 which they hate every year through their excess Jews ben, and how much more they gain if they an whose place Christians sed. These superfluous Jews
 They do, however, pay some taxes; but it is all World known, with what they extort these taxes, where through which they earn such things, and who actually earns them?
 Taxes paid? So one could look better off.
 May: how much the subjects would gain,
 0 and through this in turn the monarch. At 1060
 The entire budget is lost to the excess Jew, at all times.

| several 40,000 Rthlr., and wins if at whose place Kristen finds, several 800 Rthlr. Man

He doesn't want to admit that there really are superfluous ju

He gives it; but it is only too certain. She to the right.

"Finished" just seems like this to me: when you see the sp

ungen their feathers as a nectarousal, and the Gere, who steal Re from the farmer, as an advantageous wanted to credit the consumption. One hundred years ago

. — 345

172 || 5

4b there are almost more writing and chess in Germany

They lied, as farmers. Their production had, of course, some value, like all things in the world,

have value; but it was another question whether they

To bring forth, when the one wove the canvas, who

and made other straw hats, and the third flint stones collected, was not even more useful than that they

day and night, with something occupied, whereby fie fo wenig als der Stat Nuzen batte. Die Ueber

The filling of people, taken as a whole, is never to procure or prevent; but the over

What is fulfilling about one lifestyle and another? And the

It can probably never be more frightening and hideous than when

to the Hapdel. All Jews submit to it;

under the vain pretext that they were in other situations

Things whose hands are tied, regardless of Their employment means find the quantity available.

They have been screaming constantly for 1700 years, like People standing at the spring and calling for water.
Because they consider their gods to be divine, they believe, that it also found their limbs. One can be sure.
to assume that among the Jews of a country, at least two-thirds of the pages are completely superfluous, entirely

— unne~~ze~~ find. We can the trade and the com~~s~~ mercy of every country, insofar as complete oversight, = Ä um

5,173
to Vienna, how much Jews consider useful and fine
can. True merchants, including Jews.
hear, can, febal - an abundance of movable
Goods produced in the country are not enough.

This useful class of people includes far from being the third part of the Jews. One

One can only assume that out of 1,500 Jews, 300 at any given time sufficient, the true and real occupation can be found. Wahrbaftis if 1500 Jews next to the Christians indeed to trade and the comm:

If mercenary services would be useful, what would such a country need? bloom. But 1000 of them will certainly fall to the state.

Lak, and despite their taxes, cause more damage

as an advantage. Trade and commerce be-They don't rest on walking around at all, like the Ju-thinking does. So that everyone can easily provide for themselves.
It's possible, so you have a town every 2 or 3 miles.
and market days were arranged within it, these
In many respects, the order is determined by 1 the Jewish community completely destroyed. Trade, the Commerce, the cities, are solely through them, the Completely exposed to Ruin. One would never better escape.

think, as if the Jewish community as a whole, its er-had to justify food and means of acquisition 2 of them, and in any case, a completely unauthorized and above-

\

174

But sweet, suitable for the land, for night-time use.
They have jobs. All of Germany is calling on them to join their Princes beg for mercy against the usury of the Jews,

and all the public newspapers are reporting on it, how far he penetrated into the soul of the food state-gen is. Not just the civilian employees do it. Oh, the Jews as serfs; not just the nobility and the

The soldier class will be enslaved for many years;
No; it goes so far that the goods of the manufacturer
ten auf deut Stühle schon verpöntet if, und in eini
In some places the farmer already harvests the fruits that only wake up They should, the usurer has assured. What is the

The reason? Idleness, and because two-thirds

The Jews have no other means of sustenance: to seize

To have pleasure, rather than just usury and fraud. My

In my opinion, there are enough ways and means to to avert the evils that threaten the riches of the state so detrimental. The chamberlains of every country, are able to bring harm upon their rulers and PVroyrtheil von zwek drittel überflüssiger Juden, auf das to present the most precise details. Since they are involved in trade and

They can completely overlook the commercial aspects, so they must also to determine in a probable way

It's quite remarkable how many Jews are deemed necessary in this process.
len find, and how much remain, which one can stop

N se R can, A

*

Ä 175

Tann, to increase the wealth of the state, through a wide to be able to increase more useful determinations. To them can be even less hidden, like many factory washing machines.

It is still possible to manufacture them in the country.
The number will be very large in all German countries.
Then they will be able to draw a result from this.
a, which leads to the point where one can increase the number of necessary Jewish causticians and traders be Anne, and the community commit to a lot Factory goods to be erected by Jews if possible to produce sands. This will increase the wealth increase the stats, not the running around,

and they will make a start, the largest of W den usury and fraud ö 7

On the virtue that has been praised, that the
No one will accept that Jews will have to care for their poor alone.
Astonishment. One is certainly surprised by so much.
Fine Nazionale. But the Christians will be given this.
It is not acceptable, since there are enough such people.
have children who, in their youth, were free from no duty or life expectancy for the society autgefchofs
They have. The Jewish community became their virtue. increase by a noticeable amount, and she became des e under a protection fie ftehet, binding

make,

do it if. They'd rather have a RR van and the

—

It would allow the poor to work in it.

It would be desirable if the state could acquire the largest ten part of the Jews are needed as farmers, and the Obstacles that prevent them from doing so, they do not want to Unbeatably fine. Except for those evils caused by Holidays arise, but there are many others that exist.

cannot be overcome by anything, unless one understands all wants to abandon the existing constitution. If ver

a Zutish farmer would have a son or a daughter:

Yes, of course they cannot serve the court.

They closed fine, since there was nobody in the whole village.

Who should fire on the Sabbath, or on other days?

Should one perform work on days of worship?

the farmhand who has to bring in the hay, stay at home

the, or should another person do fine work on this day perform? Should the cow stomach/ for feeding the Livestock and other necessary work, a crisis

liche Shabasfrauen halten, wie izt. the Jews in the cities. hold, 'and from whose existence blessedness Does it depend on an entire Jewish family? That goes on not the country. At certain times one can

There aren't enough people. And what about the...

Should the nobleman provide for his family and...

"keep a Spanish cook,
and

N

a 177
and a special tablet; according to the Law of Moses.
Viruses can't be expected to be harmless? That's unreasonable.
These difficulties would arise when serving in Village events occur. The Jewish servant, the Jewish Maid, could serve no other way than to a Jew^s Schen farmer. But that wouldn't be enough. The
The smallest Jew must stay in the city, because of the law.
to have a Christian benefactor; without this, there is no Lost forever. Don't you think that a
The entire establishment would need even more servants than One single one? Should the cattle be at the Sessezi of Moses?
Take part, or starve and perish. Sol.
and a lot of other things about it are ruined
Ben? Assuming one keeps such honorable servants, which are in charge of the economy. Can it be right-handed?
manufacture? and find other nations made for it to
To be slaves of the Jews. The inconsistencies, the consequences thereof, and the disadvantages that a
The creation of a village is inexhaustible.

One farmer hinders another, fine sons and to marry off daughters, to provide for them^s fen, and consequently to continue to prosper. Are the same valid things, and can a statesman be justified?

tigen, when he claims that one must mas -
Is it possible that the number of Christian farmers is decreasing? Here
. | M it

= J 8 \ '

iR yes apparently the case. The more iäbifche farmers and Servants come to a Christian village / the more the clerical servants and maids the hope dazed to marry, and to support themselves find. Every Jew is immediately an obstacle, a Loathing in the population. A thousand such obstacles.
And gaps inflict wounds on the state. I believe but not that one will say: Christian and Jewish

The population is free for the state to make no difference. It can
So it's not equally fine which nation the other one is against.
Fkeibt. Whether the state is Catholic, Lutheran, or Calvinist

He may be indifferent to what happens; but not that he becomes Jewish. The cause of this does not lie in the Religion, but in the incredible weakness that this religion for the temporal duration of a state brings this up. At the time of the foundation, and when one considered surrounded by barbaric neighbors, it may have been there much wisdom and strength lay within them. That is noticeable.

Peut zu Tage weg. Wenn igt in den meisten Dörfer,

Neither servant nor maid was needed outside
In serving: so impossibility is at the moment, so soon two Jewish peasants are put in there. Because the

To improve the soil of a village by many degrees

fern ist / oder dasselbst other means of acquisition possible find it too far-fetched. Therefore, one can...

— 9

179

Don't hold people back. Diligence and skill will accomplish nothing;
as long as there is no drive in the whole context
The spring is there. If one only focuses on this point...
If one wishes to leave it to the imagination, then one may only say so when the grain has been planted in the fields.
will: if the yield is so plentiful that still very little Jews can live. By law, one brings fifty Jews in a village who were seeking new means of earning a living to create: so one will always get there again, that these Jews are a poison for Christian growth find; by seeking only their own reproduction, an increase that ultimately adds as much to the state as nothing is. g '

One truly cannot grasp it, or does one not want to.
fail to see what the separation of the Jews meant a cruel means lies, the happiness of the hürs to destroy a religious society. Everything that Humans the first cause for their expansion
What is seen is lifted by them. All those which Those who have made their luck may announce how Did they do it? By themselves or by other people?
But how can one create happiness through people?
chen, if there is no contact, no friendship instead fins
det. I don't believe that among all deserving

There are ten people in the city who are the only ones
| ma and

180

and only their et, sch and their merits pe
They had to thank you. If you want to think about it, then you must...
They will always discover a minor cause, the Ge
There was an opportunity to bring them out. This cause, so The distance was always due to the way things were handled. How Many people were no longer alive in an instant.
if they didn't meet with others, not N not
'Would have had friends.'

How many hundreds of people does it hold in one?
fehnichen State not, which is solely through connection Save the dung. They themselves have no temporal suspicion.
gen; but they know themselves through babe of nature.
| to transform into wealth. They stir, they. liked-
They make a choice; they are happy and with Many others to them. But give one part to him.
The Jewish religion: how to be convincingly convinced hen must that gap and impossibility between the
The union was there because the means, which was in the one of the attractive forces would lose if,

ee unb that the state cannot end the advantages,

which he, by having no crossbar, had an effect has harvested it completely; or one has to look at the whole thing
Instead of commemorating Jews. How many thousands of marriages, |
| continue to advertise without the slightest consideration, closed as if one liked oneself; from one side 55 Ber,

,
—

Ä N
Wealth there. A dinner, a walk, brings a [something] to some who have failed forever.
Woman. How many proud people, aged 30 and over?
having striven to break free from all the bonds of marriage, wounded
a DEE so s?ehr, dass fie fogleich alle Eidschwäre zuru&n

take, and the chains of marriage as pure happiness
To look at the quality. This must lead one to admit that Benefits accrue to human society. Good.
But give the Jewish thing to one or the other part
If you understand religion, you will see that the divide and Impossibility lay there; and that the more the Jews
The more the state increases, the less it can afford such problems.
Connections can offer advantages. There is another one.
other types of marriages, which are far more common, and in The number of states in the country amounts to many thousands, and of whom one can say that they are all alone Nature closes. We see that in all classes countless people surrender to marriage without hesitation: - to rely on the least temporal means to last Even sorrow and worry don't stop her.
ab. One must believe that they have more of a love to live as bread. It may be nice to remember what nil: fo has indescribable advantages.
Yes, if those wretched people didn't look after his children.
He already has advantages in that they create new ones.
— M2 Erwer

Y

to acquire means of production that cannot be separately obtained were gangs. But, I beg you, consider a or the other place Jews; then you will find yourselves in To momentarily remember the impossibility of these marriages, and at the same time the wounds inflicted on the state, ge must think; or we will lose the advantages that we can obtain through nature, not by ourselves

to fully remember, to be able to remember unhindered.
as if the state consisted entirely of Jews. One believes it makes a completely new contribution to humanity

by having delivered that the Jews were considered peasants | wants to introduce. Here is also a completely new one.

A contribution to cameralistics; because in all

The obstacles reported by the population have been noted.

I hadn't thought of anything from that perspective, and yet it is Absolutely correct, how indescribable the Strund

The Jews stopped the growth of mankind.

ten. Mon cannot otherwise flourish and to make rich, as if one were to take from the food source

uplifts, and promotes marriages in every way and ers lighter. What will it become if we, at this

The omission also deprives one of what

It does not depend on any wisdom. Can one fi something

Ungrateful memories of well-meaning citizens,

as if they had assets belonging to other citizens, not s anders

| 8 | 183

to flow in differently than only insofar as it pays interest

penetrates, or depends on consumption, So neither through inheritance, nor through marriage, may the Jewish Wealth will fall to the Christians. But to whom?
Do the Jews owe the greatest thanks? From whom?
Have they been preserved? From whom have they received their preservation?
Wealth? From whom did they get the money? From whom?
Justice? They don't have to come from anyone else.
words; as if from the fatherland alone, which came from Christ exists. Good: so reason is allowed its ingratitude.
justify, and deserves it from a Demosthenes to be admired on the Nedner chair, that the Jews gave their fatherland not only their blood, but also also deprive them of their property, and profit from it, by to partake in all the advantages of being a citizen.

In the villages, to which I turn again, will connection, blood friendship and association still far more questions than in the staffs. Own post~~r~~ thinking and knowledge of villages, and their together~~r~~
The loss of the facilities will be so sacred ribbons, nothing other than highly detrimental Imagine. I only want to mention one circumstance. To at certain times or on certain occasions, there
One farmer for another, people and livestock.
If one did not do it and went to the right side Mi proved

N
*

184

He could expect a response, so all Jahke which perish. How is the Jewish one supposed to manage that?
Farmer fulfill; since hundreds of things, from the sides to obstruct the law? The monarch or nobleman deerlangt eine Fuhre; fie fteht an dem jüdifchen Bauer.
Should one first consult the Talmud to find out if the
Is the farmer allowed to harness the horse: or should the monarch...
He'll drive on Friday if he wants to drive on Saturday.
Or should the Christian farmers be forced to do so?

transferred to the Jewish farmer? Does the load hit a Christian farmer, for that is no obstacle. Were he not in large numbers or could not; either the next one for him is friendship, against break-up to relax, or he has a son-in-law. or other relatives in the village, who immediately fine Service undertakes. All such services. fall among Jews, who either never or Not being able to afford it at the right time, gone. For what? How can one keep people, and how can one avoid such hardship? It's fine to demand that the Christian farmer against Ingratitude of the Jewish person, nothing but thanks and gratuitousness. should reciprocate. Pure love of humanity versus:

The Jews? The expression is surprisingly used.

"Needs. Who lacks love for humanity first? The one who..."

Inden or Kristen? Which of the two has in fel

8 | ' | nen

-

rs

According to a law, only one woman of his religion may marry.

Men? Who considers themselves defiled, damned, and Cursed, if he eats with another nationality!?

Mer does not consider it a divine commandment, but rather a fine Va

To die in Terland, like others? No one but the Zus, no religion further than Judaism. This-

Three things alone, when you consider all their consequences

takes, contain far more than just a friend of mankind

Shaft. If one uses this seszeze against neighbors resembles the cannibals and idol worshippers, or otherwise they find the most hideous loads full, may they be too to justify it. But if one compares it to today's comparing national times and customs, and what else

The more is, against nationalities, under whose protection one fielet, from whom one has everything fine; so no one may

Philosophers appear to defend them. 1

Apart from the indicated obstacles, which are located at the introduction of the Jews as farmers, and which depend more on the nature of the facilities And if you show less, many others will come up. There is no Jewish peasant or servant in wars in the staff, to stay on the estate, or at the to use the army, since the horses do not adhere to it. They are allowed to sweep the Mosaic Law if they are at and must summon servants.

® 5 genes, |

186 1 =

Those difficulties, like these, can be overcome. They cannot be overcome with money. The Christian farmers do not find so simple that they should not realize, how to transfer another burden to them by free others. Lawsuits and lawsuits would thereby be avoided. arise in large numbers, and which judge, which Sesez, what reason could wrong such complaints? - give.

Therefore, I cannot understand how one can re governments can be considered barbarians because they are the youth Don't turn them into farmers. You have to... to know no other way than to have traveled through it; or to adopt an ideal in the manner of the villages in Canaan have done where the weather never allows the fruit to ripen. spoil where soldiers aren't needed / where one relies on to the tithe and the skeletal of the sanctuary, no Carriages, services and taxes paid; where there is no

| there is no monarch, no nobility, no chambers, who are concerned about the overall condition of the people- "mern. Andrer Geform und nach heutes wörflichen. Versassungen taken, the Nesultat itself can, if > fh ate statesmen of Europe unite, not ans

the result is: than that the 8 farmers
| I am "a n/a

I:

8% 187

After the construction of the acre, the craftsmen follow. Also
For this, it is demanded that they give a portion to the Jews.
will be. But here too, it will be agreed beforehand.
will have to determine whether the Christian institutions the ebrlichen, or the ebrschen the krisilichen soft

They should. In my opinion, the first one will not be done.
can execute, given that the Jews could on Eu= ropa show even better claims than they on Ka=
naan darthaten. Had they held the old power in hand= Then I have no doubt about it for a moment. We would who rush towards them with open arms, and grace, where not to expect death. The terrible example (Joshua 10:22) of three kings, on whose necks
the Jewish rabble had to trample around, would alone to make a virtue out of necessity to do it, and to comply with everything that was demanded.

Fortunately, this is not the case;
So one becomes the last, or that the Jews

according to today's convenient facilities, choose must. But in doing so, it can be assumed that the stronger or more Christian lichern part, but impossible, even if God bestowed all properties, more will be granted, as insofar as it does not involve fine self-extermination connected if.

he

Es ist wahr, die Handwerker hat die Menge

to be unable to fulfill personal obligations which the farmers have to pay, and it would therefore be in this

5. A characteristic that makes it much easier for Jews to follow their law.

'fulfill, only the craftsmen have in the Most states have in common with the peasant that not only their sons / serve in the field, but they themselves also in

In times of war, one has to take on a lot of duties.

sen, from which even the old man is not excluded.

Yes, they mope in peace, without regard for religious matters

Days and hours; in case of fire danger and other emergencies rush to help those who have fallen on hard times.

These necessary tasks, from which the citizen and un-
. separable duties, can and may be performed by the youth
| which cannot be provided. The reasons are needed.

Not to be repeated. They are in their religion.

Gion, and find already on more than one occasion

It has been presented. Therefore, there is no other council here.

and proposal to fund their services with money to take payment, and thereby provide other citizens with a Klast more to transmit. If the crusaders are in war to be shot dead; that's how one must describe the Jews.

Let them multiply at home in peace and comfort

fen. If the Christians because of their personal services

They suffer from their wealth; that's how one must describe the Jews.

f N beeft

It is possible to collect them. Behold, if that is true
They possessed civil rights, according to which they were granted them. They found in trade for 1700 years, from all perfänlis
They were free from their duties, although this was already related to the Justice was contested. They had, except for monetary contributions.
enjoyed all freedoms in their trade, and enjoyed
They enjoy almost more freedom than the citizens in some countries.
Germans who sacrifice their goods and blood for their fatherland.
But Re is not satisfied with that; they want to be a few steps further; they want the farmer
to attain justice; not merely in deed, but truly in name. One should know it.
to grant completely equal rights to all people
Jaffen. under these completely equal rights of man Today they understand that all noble landowners still left, also a lot of important craftwork both would be available that would suit them just as well-men, than the Christians. Since they in the exercise of their Those who deserve to be protected by religion, so be it.

all the more against all humanity that they do not in the possession of the noble landowners and leases, or some tradesmen, who, for example, own an entire region

"The delivery would have been left unattended," since they were here to observe their religious customs without hindrance
They could. With 5 farmers, they promised to...
Br N very

190 |
very guümpfiche Weise zu Umgang. Einer wollen alle _ And displace the nobility too? Absolutely. They want to.
the Abelichen Landgut, in the Hope, with Jews possess that they will be part of our nobility in a few centuries will be equal in bravery. The possible wars, that might happen within these 200 years;
It will be left to the imperial nobility. As soon as When Jews are granted citizenship / that's how I see it not the slightest difficulty that not the Jews in a short time many noble possessions to himself

They should bring. Go, and what is needed?
They can't lack it. In Holland and other places.
In places where there are Jews, the crowd, where one probably can buy 5 noble estates. All that's missing is... that some princes in Germany are taking the first steps do, and through brilliant writings that they received through the admission of the Jews Shlie noyhereihen, to this = bingefiten advertise. Ä
To even begin to grasp the sad consequences that arise from the | bourgeois: Freedom of the Jews arises Finns, fo
to show that it is absolutely possible, also intentionally the advantage held by the Jews against the Kristen, as much light as is in my power, to ignite: so I must first investigate: by which | 10 the balance tufcen the Catholics and Pro=
The | testan=

7\

191 test subjects lost, or at least why?

Does it lose itself with power?

uls der römische Hof fein Sistem zur höchften Vol=
Having brought about his coming, he lacked the necessary skills.
eternal duration, nothing more than a means to...
to keep from the foundation, which gave him the Zer= leadership could be provided. The people should be alone son ber Tändigen Seliskeit leben. Die Natur war
But stronger. The temporal overcame the eternal.
Trade was probably the most remote cause, which the blood of the Catholic Church from all sides
The harm that. The more it spread, and as one country became increasingly dependent on another,
Rather, it was inevitable to tolerate more enlightened ones.
The. As soon as one does not completely turn away the protesters=
If one could, then one already had enough poison without "
to notice, taken. That was a Mithridates.
It seemed to be just a means of transport of their own Weak. Because the Catholic clergy sought the goat of trade just very much from their slauto remove brothers, as Moses of fine

Ebrærn, who feared the resulting spread of contagious customs.
The effect didn't have to be immediate for that reason.
'fine, because with the first ones it's not like with the first one |
Rut halt in den Gesezen Jag. Wenn fh gleich bei FE the

4

192 =

under Solomon, many things changed for the Jews, and Trade was also introduced to get out of the situation to derive more benefit from Palestine: so it should happen
but always without significantly altering the law to do, and to diminish the limbs; one had to moreover, thereby giving the 1 more jtice tir
5 3 |

By thus making the Catholics so much in 05

allowed in some countries to do so, deterred trade; left hundreds of thousands of Catholics, the unmarried
The situation resulted in many millions every 2 years.
Tonen people were lost; by doing that Remembrance of many saints who arose among the
The people celebrated, and as a result, hundreds of people per year...
More days of unemployment, a fine state, weakness, and Initially, Prokestan was introduced in many countries.
-ten excluded from military service: thus transferred
One should give the protestants everything that increases their numbers, | -had to be built up and expanded. That was precisely where the problem lay.
the excess weight, and partly lies within it However, the celibate state has the most adverse effect.
ö If we now that which is the reduction of the balance of Catholics against Protestants-Ben Zuvege brought it, and still today in individually measures for brinzt / against the Jews hal-

ten:

ÖNE . N

| 193

ten: for it will be if one does not consider all its advantages takes together, immediately appearing as if would be in the same case, especially if man thinks of them as farmers or craftsmen. Alone with nieces. The greater preponderance, which in the

The fact that Jews must fight against the crises is entirely up to them.
solely in religion; but especially in this: that that they do not serve in war; that they keep themselves free from all [unclear] remove heavy work that shortens life;
and that their enjoyment and their other way of life depend on the
The nature of it is which makes it neither a murderer of its
It doesn't affect health or fertility. So, if...
Wars kill hundreds of thousands of Christians, so one loses
The state will at least increase by half a [unit of measurement] in 20 years.

Millions of future souls. Consequently, we must live!

Jews who remain alive should worry about just as much;
more, one would need a precise calculation about this
And so one will be completely convinced, and one will at the same time be forced to do the strange

. &runbfäze which one has so far expected from the reproduction of the Jews have been cherished, to let them go. But it is not merely the death of the Christians through war and the Um lucky breaks in peace, which are superior to the Indians \

There is also the fact that the Jews around

| den Iten Theil fruchtlicher find, als bie Kristen. Eine

N Quantity

15

194 “

Many scholars have documented this fertility in the Bes
The cutting was sought. But it's salsy. She will solely produced by religion and customs. All The basic tenets of their religion tend towards democracy.
tie. The second syllable of her sentence is reduced to an "us" and equality. This leads to...
It has produced a certain unruliness in minds,
in which the Jews as citizens for all current government making these forms very dangerous. As soon as they
To feel power, to be able to act and to govern, that is what one must do.
a small number, already more united
To have the will, and to achieve more than a six
The stronger Christian party. Christ rejects |
All equality for the future, and if the Bertelmann did not act differently against the nobleman.
He can; so he says: there we are all equal. The “os 2: But the Jew says: no, we are right here, s has the slightest still so much, and perhaps more to er wait, as the greatest. One also anxiously anticipates that fine
One Jew has the least respect for the other,
One only acknowledges each other in so far more oh
ilirung, as one must do for business reasons.
Just as one could say that the Jews in the promised land were without and inherited among kings: so we inherit them among the Romans and N iit. SUR hundred years bas ben

oo.

PR

i . 195

ben under various strict and gentle rule lived, but still now they have against the state government ≠
keit has never been so natural and unforced
I learned to show reverence when I was the most unfit of the Kristen testifies to her democratic way of thinking.
I remain silent until this hour in all things.
It was quite foolishly fine to blame again
To be attributed to taxes. One often cites the Joserhus zum Deweise an; but one should still read him Once again. Mau will find enough places, like despicable, the Jews, these heroes and benefactors treated themselves, and how much they resented the ingratitude towards Let other superiors look. So if you're in a Jewish act against his own authority nothing but rebellious spirit - Auffert, where should it come from,
It is better to think against foreigners, foreigners who are in the law to be damned and cursed at every opportunity.

The inclination towards democracy that is in the Jews≠ :
was planted, and still now it works / makes that they also less inclination, too fine to go beyond others, their

Splendor and extravagance in food, clothing and To show the potion against others, and their powers from sides of the body and the wealth deposit there≠

u su Br

No | In

—

|

=

396

In their religion lies the prohibition of some lei unclean foods / that they from contact and gels Genheit, von Verfschmndung, undsequenz von ftan core expenses are avoided. Abstinence from meat.

it an fch fchon bei jeden Mensch ein Mittel zu rei

Nerm blood, for health and fertility. The

—

\

_ a certain part of the Jews tends towards this abstinence
togetherness, and this is further enhanced by the fact that many have the will | is bound by its flesh from many causes more expensive than with the Christians > u
The behavior of the women contributes a great deal to it

| contributes to fertility. Just like this one on frugality

keit and the firing life of men, participation men must / and generally under stricter conditions Breeding as the Christian women stand: so come

There are other secular customs besides bathing, which inszeto daun contribute, Do the eheftand swept ter fein must.

Early marriage is consistently observed in the 92805
gig introduced, and when many transgender Christians un-enters into marriage at 30 and 40 years of age

len, so here too the Jews gain ground.

of the population. Yes, the violence against their children.
if fo befchorgen, dass fie davon immer Vorteile ziehen u and u in their marriage contracts will be on

- the 197

The denouncement has been taken into consideration; however, in the case of The Christians are held too harshly when the daughters...

Men and women don't do what Finns want

Yes, it will depend on the women in Fhntig whether

Whether or not they want to have cattle.

Also, the fact that the wealth always remained among Jews and their families remain if the means for expansion and population. Did the Christians perhaps buy...?

man 20000 Rthlr. together business: so comes a nobleman or councilman and fetches the daughter with the guild de ab. If, however, it is a matter of sorts, with the crises

One disadvantage is that wealth is concentrated in the higher classes.

is fetched: so spending time always seems like who focuses on the whole, and not just a part of it

People, as among the Jews.

From this, it becomes very clear that the larger

Outnumbering of the Jews, with the intention of the population ' and reproduction, decrease before the crises. Since

If it has a basis in religion, then it must always be anabänderlid continue to have an effect, and must then Kir appear more and stronger if the Jews of the citizenry, would be right, and consequently detrimental to marriages would be restricted.

Just like the holidays and public holidays for Catholics.

. baben: fo müssen fie auch, wird man sagen,

N VN = ben

455 ae | 9

(to harm the Jews? Nothing is right except that the

"Stat loses tremendously; but that doesn't mean we can't..."

Means fine, which, if not the state, then the

To sweep away the sorrow of time with songs, they may. dar with harm to whomever they want. In themselves, the festivals were and holidays for the farmer and craftsman

to damage the meifen. For damage occurs during trade.

They don't, because you can avoid them. Alone

Even for the craftsman, the holidays are not a priority.

little to do with the other previously conceived advantages in circumstances that cannot be considered can: unless the discussion is about the loss of the

The whole, but the loss of a single one is.

What would happen to the Jewish craftsman?

fer of thrift is not the ineradicable new Sweeping up trade and profit; what would not the close connection; the underfunding of the Fellow believers are active. One would feel the loss.

which arises from the holidays, not only to be replaced

Knowing; but where from? If not the same: but also in their superiority over the Christian craftsmen

They might even be a leap ahead soon. N

Because, as I mentioned above in the sections, paint.

refute, to appoint, an all-purpose act, a state where a citizen who, who, those documents,

ö 8 ux knows, b

1

[4

199

. * / ” .

knows, and where the foundations of all government for~~r~~ are located men mit fammen paren follen, fo fehr glücklich findet: .

Therefore, I cannot refrain from mentioning the effects here.
show which must arise at a state when two kinds of nation in intention of the expenditures themselves~~r~~ ten stand. I appeal to the support of Holland, an example that was found to be quite agreeable will be. This many years ago, at the Hol~~r~~

The countries almost universally share a similar way of life, which is based on Eparfamily was introduced. Now we find in Holland shows a very large deviation and inequality, ö and it is one of the most founded and numerous

Cart of men and old men, that through the Us Chastity in extravagance, the income of The republic is suffering. Just like the rejection in Holland.
chung in such editions, real disadvantage ver~~r~~ cause: naturally, those states must also ten, wp a far larger part of the subjects, than in Holland, lives only through waste, in the~~r~~

find themselves in the same trap: as soon as there is an increase in

A limb arises that separates from the dominant part.

distinguish with the intention of output. If the Holcountries where waste can cause little harm:

false, the increasing frugality of others must be \

"It seems powerful that many thousands who are from over one

Re. mat

wi. N

Those who once ruled, lived in extravagance, to the gate binauslaufen muss. Vergleicht einen jewishen Kaufman of one hundred baptizing thalers, with a Christ-
A merchant of the same fortune.
Choose the first one from the capital city where the Waste is greatest. So keep the expenses of the first with the expenses of the last to-Together. Continue in place of an Erißli.

To set a Jewish king. What will you do?
Bring her out? Nothing but sad things. Her will come to that point, so that in ice
nem folchen stat, wo die Verschwendung gejeffe Gren-N zen had, and it was necessary, many thousands who who fed on the larger expenditures of the Christians, (must leave the country immediately.) As soon as we
I agree that in this and that state, Waste can have its limits, and necessary if, by which one hundred thousand us so no one may, * be as right as the N

wool,

9 When the Jews in Berlin in the . quarter

Since many houses were bought, losses could result.
of the school fees, the gimnafum of the grey

The monastery no longer exists. The Jews must ten also an annual sum to whose under Grant a stay. See their Bäfings

Courts of the WN b

5 | 201

want to deny that not also through the Jews, who one opposed to the ruling nation, by to practice religiously motivated frugality, a Loss of people will occur, and even more will occur.
must stand, the greater their reproduction becomes. Here
They have once again got stuck in a knot that they cannot change.
as if they were going to be blown up by the sword,

This can be derived precisely from the principles of the Jews.
Miracles explain which one makes of them, that they with their trade, without resorting to illicit means to operate, to get to the point sooner than the crisis sten. The issue. of a Christian family iR around &- larger than the Jewish family's edition. One I only take what is needed first for the children and the family.
are costly / and how little the Jew can expect from it may. It is therefore no wonder that the Jew is with him ner frugality under Christ, which three times more Spend more, and you'll get there faster. But you have to also consider that many thousands of people, including including Jews, who do not reciprocate, and so always in advantages, through the higher output N

to provide for the Christians' maintenance, and immediately

had to leave the city, it transformed into 8 Christ= |

liche Auizabe into a Jewish. u
e Vans

as “

For two reasons, there were also those who gave
To craftsmen be a real trifle / the kristli=
to throw the craftsman off balance.
We do not want to and must not use illicit means.
correspond, and completely different reasons were given to them= against / from which the retreat of the Christians is clear is. The illicit means will already be in N centuries lose, even if not through ö

5 Lack of objects. At the stranger
=: You may proliferate, but not on your brother, 5 B.
Meoss. 23, 20. is a fellow/ which has already distinguished itself through the 'Civil rights are revoked. The Jew can't participate in the war.'
Never regard him as a stranger. He understands.
Down with the foreigners, the Afriians, Arabs, Moabites!
Ishmaelites, Midianites, Cananites, Perizzites, etc. w.
No, the Jew does not see the Christians as being for these peoples.
on; he regards them as his brothers, even though he was already under retains for these brothers that which was intended to be | was given to cruel peoples. Also the kũnf= 'u temporal promises 5 B. Moses 30:3, 4, 5, 7.
...and especially the thought that the curse would curse the brothers N should meet, where the Jews live, so that he=

The last persecuted can never be proud or defiant.

to create, and if something so untamed were to exist
So it must lose its bra, according to the opinion of oo. Mr.

Herin Dohm was only concerned with freedom. He means,
 The Jews would immediately become more enlightened and agreeable.
 become, the more fie fu. from Haudel weaned, a chose a more efficient lifestyle, and their bodies
 more effort at work, in a word: through.
 Nemzern. Dealing with people. What to expect.
 If I want to answer, I want to overpower others, and that will make me turn to the guilds that are currently handling the entry requirements.
 directions are not insignificant. These directions Nungen are very headstrong creatures. They hang throughout Europe, and recognize almost through the Commonly, Phil's Sophie. Her story provides us with many disgraceful performances, which, however little they gave them to their credit, but will prove how much one can rely on their explanations, and how much the body's effort contributes to this
 To eliminate advantages and superstitions. All Monarchs have had the most indescribable difficulty,
 to bring out only the most ridiculous things from them,
 And they're far from finished. What has
 . one must not use violence to avoid Bienne
 to introduce children born in wedlock, regardless of their finer selves could appeal to the Bible. What and how much 'Would it cost to bring in the Jews? The Innum
 To shear him off for that reason would not be justifiable.
 e fein.

fein- Ren Kite dazu ganz andre euürbe als tie because the state can be populated with Jews. In addition... would one be better off choosing the journeyman over can serve. If one immediately brings out that the abolition in some tradesmen, some
 | It would be beneficial for cities and provinces, so they come with the overall goal and the future in mind, many more after parts to the appearance that one would prefer to do it with the old ways

let. If you have a blind person in Holland

The procession of craftsmen is carried out, so the
It is easier to justify oneself than in other countries.

The moral state, which is very much
Its influence on temporal luck is very clearly evident
The craftsman was present. The police are allowed to contact him.
For hundreds of reasons, no tax can be determined.
men, and the goods are indeed at their correct price.
The police can track down the fraudsters; but how little?

* They need their reputation, since nobody knows about fraud.

to complain. Wouldn't there be another driving force?
that which prevented the Boffe, so all Stra would They can't accomplish anything. The interaction, the connection,
They carry a lot of anger and friendship, and at low levels... to maintain order at the 10 stalls.
Ten. Temperament and upbringing provide their good tenth post. An N must be on
To IB

205

serk s2schwer fein, die Schande zn überm inden, dass er to deprive another of work, to commit fraud or deception
He makes very good goods. He would have to be very hard and fine, if he does not heed the incessant gossip
He wanted to. He is already acquainted with the other person.
Goods and blood so intertwined that he could not reproach himself.
could defeat him if he wanted to. This invisible one
But the police, who appear very powerful under Kristen,
This falls away completely for the Jew, since he turns everything around.
ganges, removed from all mixing. That he is one

The Ten Commandments with Christ, he doesn't want to get out do it. Because he can't see or hear, because the Blood friendships among Christians must not be allowed, so
He can also speak about an infinite number of injustices.
Away fine. Quite right, a large one should already have been achieved through this.
Disorder is caused, and both parts through the separation is initiated, with selecten and
1. To compete with fraudulent goods.

Bohemia, where the Jews sold the most fraudulent goods, and, for example, to make glued shoes, everyone must do so.
Serve as a warning. If the crives of the same wa
They are supposed to imitate others and apologize for it.
They point to the Jews and say that they are with More was earned with bad goods than with good ones, and They would halt all permanent work. The police Tann contributes little and nothing to it. At

IB 1 |

Furthermore, the introduction of the Jews would also
- the following should be considered. If we consider the Ju to let them fall back on crafts that they could afford ben, fo kann dies e for other classes of people and be no different than harmful to other trades.

If we consider the Jews to be only in large cities, Hands
Let workers do their thing, so this can also be good for the small Even cities are not without their drawbacks. Here we man alzo Geseze nathis haben; allein Befez ohne Ent Purpose: How can the increase in slavery be prevented?
dern can by giving nothing to a Jewish master
It can be easier than keeping 20 journeymen.
How will one deal with the weekly markets, which throughout the entire country, in almost all cities, on the
The Jews' feasts fall. What all do they not belong to?
for Seseze to include the Jews as craftsmen
to supply, and how many obstacles must not be overcome Unexpected things might happen!
With the intention of the arts and sciences, the Jews throughout Europe, as much freedom as others
I have had it. Among the fine arts, I know of none that They would have been forbidden to drive them, The mechanic for them find most of the time connected with citizenship.

Theological, legal and cameral sciences then R gerefett, die fie nicht haben treis - ee Rn ben

+

207

Ben können, and they themselves put away, because, if one wants to earn a decent living from it, generally speaking, - so that the service is connected. But it is not so probably contempt, hatred, and incompetence, which they derive from excludes from service, rather because one today to day men are required who at all times and They fulfill their duties for hours. But that's not possible with not to the Jew. Already the criminals must judges according to the Jewish public, by being concerned about the Sabbath, the festival and celebration days cannot always appear. As soon as one As who wanted to appoint him as judge: that's how the whole thing would have to be.
Christian audience clamoring for the judges. What This led to errors. The superiors Courts should always have a list of jubilant judges.
and their festivals and holidays with you, so that They evaded the Gesez Moses in their missions could. The chambers, which had become very accustomed to to demand all things in view of this, would who have to lower their pitch and sit down:
if your dear faithful one is not of the kind Shabas or celebration
Have a day. So that businesses in the city don't suffer.
Was no other means than this fine one?
had to appoint Shabbas judges and Shabbas councils. In 5 Intention of the pear pitches at the one which is also the Ju

— . Egg; |

as the newspapers report in some countries, already |

I promised, but I don't remember the slightest thing.

Only the ladies-in-waiting may decide that.
Germany certainly doesn't lack usable resources.

not to waitresses, but to craftsmen

and farmers, and it is very strange that the Jews

already speculating on the higher classes, since They don't have the bottom ones yet. So little of a ver-A responsible gardener should eradicate fine, fruit-bearing fruit trees. will be used to fill the spaces with crab apples, in the j Hope, to besens that the future will bear good fruit-

Gen will be! Just as little will a reasonable state be formed.
the Jews immediately became farmers, craftsmen, never-high-ranking and senior state employees explain inside, without to eradicate.

I conclude this treatise by stating that I have all

Those who judge them, seek to make them as fit as possible.

possible to judge, and in no way to even if I have false principles or errors had amassed. The essential thing will soon become clear.

from the randomly distinguished Finns. I have
I undertook this work for no other reason than alone.
For the sake of truth and the common good, us
The object is important; it is in It interests everyone. Let's discuss it.

unite, and reveal the truth until we see her completely naked; she may now be the Christian

. upper party in shame
Dr 5 * _____ \ 0

7 sting not fine far more useful and . people N

1.

[794277 Traun

D

77

—

Derr rer 7

r

This is a production of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing effort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

Google Books

<https://books.google.com>

Google

About this book

This is a digital copy of a book that had been preserved on library shelves for generations before being digitized by Google.
It was carefully scanned as part of a project to make the world's books available online.

The book has outlived copyright and can now be made publicly available. A publicly available book is a book that...
that was never subject to copyright or whose copyright protection period has expired.
Whether a book is publicly accessible can be determined by...
This can vary from country to country. Publicly accessible books are our gateway to the past and represent a historical and cultural treasure.
and represents scientific talent that is often difficult to discover.

Traces of use, annotations, and other marginal notes contained in the original volume can also be found in this file—a memory.
Remembrance of the long journey the book has made from the publisher to a library and on to you.

Terms of Use

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize publicly available material and make it accessible to a wide audience.

to make them accessible. Publicly accessible books belong to the public, and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this

This work is costly. To continue providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent its misuse.

To prevent commercial parties from doing so, this includes technical restrictions on automated queries.

We ask you to comply with the following guidelines:

+ Use of the files for non-commercial purposes. We designed Google Books for end users and want you to use it.

Use files for personal, non-commercial purposes only.

+ No automated queries. Do not send any automated queries of any kind to the Google system. If you are conducting research via machine translation, optical character recognition, or other areas where access to text in large quantities is required.

If you find this useful, please contact us. We encourage the use of publicly available material for these purposes and can assist you.

It might help.

+ Retention of Google brand elements The Google "watermark" that you find in every file is important for providing information about

This project helps users find more material via Google Books. Please do not remove the watermark.

+ Stay within the law. Regardless of your intended use, you must be aware of your responsibilities.

To ensure your use is legal, do not assume that a book deemed suitable for users in the USA is legal.

Whether a book is publicly accessible, including to users in other countries, is another question.

It varies from country to country. We cannot advise whether a particular use of a specific book is legally permissible.

That is. Don't assume that the appearance of a book in Google Books means it's available in every format and everywhere on the internet.

It can be used worldwide. Copyright infringement can have serious consequences.

Via Google Books

Google's goal is to organize the world's information and make it universally usable and accessible.

Booksearch helps readers discover the books of this world and supports authors and publishers in reaching new audiences.

You can search the entire book text on the internet at |'http://books.google.coml.

eh EEE ET ET EURE

7 8 2

“

*

2 1 l.

8 * 5 ? 5

Kr N j

* * * . t .

7 1 ö

. 50 € AN ' * \

' * _ * ”

= 25 $ 1 . N \ . 8

..

- h

. er N . =

E .. f . * 2 N

85 ' 0 * N 8 a

“ f \ — Bi * * *

— 5 0 1 8

1 5 2 8 * 5 =
5 r ; ,
N st fi 5 ' 5 3 * f N 2 .
5 / * 2
.. - X
' 25 . 2 N 6
- — - ” = * χ *
> 8 — 5 * *
f ! \ ee *
. „ „ . B 5
. x En 5 \ . * \
1 8 1 En
\ £ „ „ „ 8 5 *
> AN . 2 re 1 8 8 1
5 5 „ 1 ar
+ ey
8 5 5 1
18 . 117 .
, 2 EP . ? 2 6 5 *
5 a 5 3 5
' 5
“ 1 *
5 2 ini
5 N „ , \ f 5
.. l ö m > 2 0
— 1 “ Be 7 5 1 rn 5 3 = *

5 5 2 u .
a BR 1 B 0 5 a ö 5
5 ' . 955
80 B . b . .
. 8 . 7 - 8 3
*
“ » “ he g 5 5 j
. 1 re 3 .
“ . 1 1 8 DR .
r * bu a 1
5 . Pe . 8
8 t
* ' 1 5 5 .
5 5 „ dr 8 r
5 : 1

oo.1,.2 ai 25
85 j8f:85a
x.85#7“\,, —8.5U\ a
..3;5x Fee u
55.5 Be Se 55
ö Nj*5g17,,
;ß555.-v.-20?
Pr5g51—13ile98*8PER2'
*a.U.8V*25““—*
i\ .7
f—e8,,Bi5,, *121,,“ ;E,, .Pe
i1:5ESFe,
E;i 85.r.
*.“r*7
\,,.r.-1
x«3on
.e18.A \x:äP52aA1
..5iNat a”* ufx er,
a5.,2.
>.1vi=e,, -0en
..>’“
*#.“,,3 5aöx—585.8
;32\2N 2Euros“15
1>”ni5.5r
*85-u.bu—8
1.:5a.8
2=3.5
—0Nte!;1xi.
5xBi'.
05ä
-8,i5
*..—
3E“
5{AR83
.20,,1

»\„—N
r.&>.01
.7#.4.r*
—k—
N' * Tr
A*
l15 &8228 „
5ey579
Ra: 55 . g Bi; fi , 1
* N8 . . . ; 2:
+ B g = 4 au N 8
188er . . „ . j , i ' af 2 A
"- * x 5
2 * . N — u 1
A er 28 .
' * 5 „ 2 2 Ben “ .
* 1 4 “
5 L . Be
Hi „ 715 > ui
1 . . 8
7 N . 5 7 S * 5 e 5 5 *
= N ; “

“
“

1

. e Er
24
5
We
N"
N5
N
* 4 ” a “
.
B
Ä N

8 5 ;
AP
f 5
! 3 : N
U 5 ö
52 ' 8 * =
;
- * = . N
“5 ö |
an “ ö u
*
1 „ . ö
65 N |
..
:
8
4
5 8 7
— 25

Wee d as

Dürer ret

e

Jews

15 | vdoenn

0 CL P 8 d 1 3 ow, 8
ö overfene Ze
| 1

from.

a Jew

In

in all d benen ger |

September 110.

*

7

0 ur

*

Author of the text:

Against the Jews

Mun Her!

You might be wondering. "Translated by
"A Jew!" — Why not, my Sir? — "I'm dedicated!" — I ask to Second time: why not, sir? — "One
"Jew can't." — I beg your pardon! — "A "Jew, don't flock." — The Jew now wants
But! — "How, without my permit?" —
Well, you're not supposed to do that otherwise.
to consider it so wrong "I hate the Ju
"The." — Mags; I defy your hatred. —
"They're finding." — Fine by me; nevertheless, it stinks.
Not this book. ||
In short, you miss, you come

Don't let go, you will be my patron. And Why did you want to resist so much?
to fight against it tooth and nail?
Who could make more just claims on the
To make a dedication to this book? — Who brought the matter up? You, my
Sir. Who raised the original of these words?
Setting for well-deserved praise and honor? You,
My lord. Who spoke first, and according to the Request for this translation? Again no other than you. Oh my lord, man

That would deprive you of what is rightfully yours, one This writing was indeed robbed of its honor, your beto bear famous names at their head,
If one wanted to be less fair and refined!
"Eisenmengerl" was the name used until now to the Jew whom one wanted to annoy. “ “ will in the future people shout at the Jew, the one wants to annoy. What isn't that for: a Glory is! O my lord, how are you?
It boasts! In all chronicles, besides the after-judgement of war, pestilence, expensive times,
strong winds and hail, will be accompanied by einem NB. noted: “This year |
where did the famous writing against the Jews come from?
"Out." And everything will shout: "Great is the Lord!”

Devout EN man n Kingufegen? “His 9
A century was just against him: bife
Translation... was dedicated to him... 1 egg
I remain

My =, me
e
the Jew.

What might be strange 7 should be that a
A Jew translated a text against the Jews:

He should remember that the most devout Christians
| Theologians often read the most bitter writings
translated and commented on Christianity have. These remained what they were: Christian.
Theologians, and indeed, the translator too is
He remained what he was: a Jew!

It is fitting to judge from the Scripture itself.
not the translator, despite the fact that he cuts it out
ten is. Also — and only a few words, | son of the sweeping: loyalty, although no field Fish, and lightness, were the goal I had presented to me; I hope it at least the greatest to have achieved some. It is possible that some Error occurred: the good geser will

They overlooked them.

Also from Ben's comments, which are here and

Since it's been done there, I should probably ask something.
Mas fic) however, to ask about it, ask them of 10 felöß, Should 1 somem kefer dealt,

to others, however, it seems too fing: so be One might think that the Christian theologians, who Octave volumes of the Antichrists translated, Folio io
They wrote volumes full of comments on it. That's why.
One can surely forgive a Jew for it, if
To ease his heart, he added a few remarks.
sends tongues into the world. What would the reader have thought?
want to do when the notes have become longer would be like the text? But still, one could easily have can do what one would so gladly do at en en bänden thut: einfchläfen. —

One more thing. The author is cash — one I don't know why — the vomiting hand lung only partially absorbed; I have against it by her at least as much as I am moved seemed appropriate to the matter at hand. I mean, that's why.

to express the gratitude of the reader and the author serve. The reader's: for Kotzer speaks as follows.
against the Jews; and the author's own words:
For isn't it better if I give much, than lu
e

5 NO 059 D.

— *

| W. sich auf das Kaifonnement der 1 Diefophen u,
If you don't want to leave, at least believe them if
It is based on history and experience.

The question: whether it is good to deny citizens citizenship to Jews Granting justice is so extremely important that the historical investigation into how they developed in the countries |
have contributed, where one can become a citizen of the stage
The recording should not be unnecessarily detailed. That
The result of our research will not be a complete solution; a certain and undeniable resolution of the Pro

contain problems; by merely analogical verses - Logical reasoning and mere empirical statements neither all

Circumstances, still grasping every possible trap can; however, this investigation will not help us.

at least in our claims more cautiously machen and us against the accusation of e in our judgments fi her,

1. Arrival of the Jews in Egypt.

The Jews are the only people (the Guebern *)
| except for those that one should avoid because of their ge=

) Also Bine dieher probably the Bi geuner to ug ei
A

.. e ee e

(cannot take into account the number of wrestlers) which in each part of the world has its own peculiar retains his character, is a stranger everywhere, and...
never mixed with the local inhabitants.
The origin and emergence of the Jews

= from God, and their reliability, with Jeho vah

and the angels, I will pass over in silence.
They only became a people when Jacob with his family, who settled in Egypt.
Jewish slave named Joseph, was at the HDaushofmeister des ägyptischen Königes sells His master noticed his talents and natural abilities.
che facilities on him and transferred fine private matters to him ,
A similar situation, as the king himself told him, his own had transferred. But the joy was short-lived.
At the time. The minister's wife threw a wrench in the works.
Slaves one eye, the Jew didn't want the hint understand and for that she accused him of having fi) N allowed attacks on her chastity. He was in thrown into the royal prison, which was located in Potiphar's palace was located here. Here he was again | to the prison guard, what he gave to the minister

nen fien, which moreover are true with the Gueber ö

probably one and that people are. S. Grell" man over BR: p. 327.

e | Ai. d. Neberf,

-

u“

fen was: ersäterer entrusted him with the task of   er

View over the prisons. One doesn't know, how long he spent in prison; that but several years must have passed before that, can be deduced from this, because he is a young man   ling of his brothers, was sold, however was over thirty years old, as he told King Pha 

Rao was introduced. His ambition and his

His lust for power had been met with the enmity of a fine bru 

The newcomer, and plunged him into slavery.

He had already spent a long time in prison.

unbred, and even in this state, however much did, found nourishment for fine ambition, when Once two estranged men, one of them a royal

Oberschenk, the other a master baker, on

Arrest came by order of the king. This event
This was a very favorable opportunity for Joseph, to gain prestige and power, so that he might even with the help of the most ardent imagination

No one could have imagined it. Namely |
Those two eunuchs spent several days in custody.
They both dreamed of one thing in the past night.

Dream, which Joseph interpreted to mean that the “Oberschenk’s fine position regained” the Bæ

But he would end up on the gallows. The end=

gang enfach der Auslegung. Bei dieser e
2 2 |

3 4 In, AG

Bett asked Sof the Colonel, if he was like= who had come to be honored would be fine, to turn to him remember, and his against the Pharaoh Erwath=

to do so. The chief cupbearer did promise that, |
Two years passed before he first reminded him of it again. Pharaoh had one for had a terrific dream: in order to explore it, he let
He gathered all the dream interpreters and sages of Egypt to himself.

He came. But nobody could guess his identity.

Jett mentioned Joseph's chief cupbearer, who to interpret his and the baker's dream so well knew. It is likely that the chief

Gift already included. Joseph dealt with E was, but knew fine ambition and therefore was he would never have mentioned it if it weren't for the

The king's unease, and the fear of punishment

had driven Joseph to be a very excellent to praise the dream interpreter. But the Oberschenk blames himself for breaking his promise.

I did not keep to his memory. "If

He, says Morgan, foresaw all the misfortune, 5
what will happen with the future elevation of such an honorable .
The man was finely connected, as he showed.
Success, how well he knew Joseph. This wonder

That was the main cause of the weakening.

9. Morale u) Vol. III. . 11.

Poverty, the elite and Ye: dared the Hegptier 1 s
The story of 1 9 52 arab 2 Wan and os Seph's explanation is known to everyone. "In the

In the next seven years, a | extremely high fertility, fine, but those just fo viele andere fo höchst dñre und unfruchtbare fal .

It was suggested that this earlier fertility
"Not a trace more to be seen, I will become fine." Joseph gave Therefore, he advised the king that he might like any...
. Mugen and an experienced man to investigate, whom he

-to entrust the care of Egypt; dar
He wants to sweep in the corn shepherds (umtleute) and in the next fertile years in Egypt 5

the fifth part of the harvest (the double grain tax be) demand. This could lead to in these years in The King's ramen, such a large quantity of grain, a driven, and split up in the cities, that they still worked on it in the remaining seven years =

nug would have 805 Pharaoh and his servants vowed unanimously here
sen Vorřch, und geřten řich, dass es auf der gan
There is no man in the world as wise as Joseph. He He therefore watched him as his Prime Minister. So be The Jewish prophet and politician came to the government

u and u of the whole . into the aa 2%

6 8 .
Pharaoh said: Well, you, by divine inspiration, Pr
So clever and wise are you that on earth you will find your equal
If you do not have it, then I will give you the rule of my

Give to the house, so that all the people may rise up against you.
Obey your wink and stand above you more finely than I do.
my throne. Accept, he said, the sorrow for all Egypt; ; at these words he drew his
He took the ring off his finger and put it on Joseph's finger.

He threw a Byzantine robe around his neck and hung a a gold chain around his neck. He also let him into drive his second car and pull out in front of him fen: Bend your knees! and gave him power over All of Egypt. Pharaoh also said: I stand by this.

For no one in all Egypt shall oppose your Willing to pick up his finger. Moreover, he gave him the title of Privy Councillor, and gave him Ase nath to the wife, the e of the . 9
n On.

| On such occasions, f ch 5 bare o der fi
no power and kept only his name and Title before; but violence and power, the creation
The task of presiding over it was in Joseph's hands. Even that.
The people placed their greatest trust in him, and practiced ys gave him the concern for his welfare. So we were Suddenly the entire kingdom had power and Noerrfch of a stranger and sold slave

a ven e Like the Jew of this. Look at it used, and to what extent he sees himself as the father of the Va
I have shown terlandes — we will soon see. b

He had hardly this 'unlimited power he'
He stopped, and so he traveled throughout the entire country. He sat grain overseers and other non-commissioned officers, and
- built in the towns of Scheuern and Kornbpden,
And in those seven fruitful years he demanded

all grain stores, Egypt, and [had
She appeared in the cities and brought a huge amount of energy!
A quantity of grain, that he, because it is countless like the sea sand, finally stopping to count

tt. C. 41. V. 3. When those seven years of misery and the need not only Egypt, but also...
The surrounding areas were also affected, so it was
It is necessary to identify the cities and places where Scheu erected, to command and to train soldiers
8. To put guards inside. Would you have this before?
The view was omitted, so it wasn't even possible.
have been, the Egyptians, let alone other Vdl to restrain them, so that they are in a terrible state

Nungersnoth not. The grain stores had accumulated and would have been robbed, The Egyptians would not either their assets, money, livestock and land, even finally surrendered himself and became a slave to that Kdnigs sold when the corn lambs

—

\
*

-

: 8

had not been well-fed and guarded:

Perhaps this is the first example of a unum restricted and completely. e and Tiranei.

As Joseph so filled in | At as saw the riches and treasures of the whole country, and Egypt had submitted, he seized the

At the next suitable opportunity, my fine father and fine brothers with their families and assets into the country, gave them the best and richest province throughout the entire realm and distributed among them the high most prestigious and lucrative offices. He did all this.

a * war, without contradiction, no, even on Be fault and with the king's permission, Jacob nem

I also suffered from a lack of Koru and sent the her fine sons to Egypt to buy grain N

fen. Jo se ph recognized his brothers at first They looked, but they could not see him, for he spoke with them you convey the message of an interpreter. The story lung everything that happened between Joseph and his What happened to the brothers before they recognized him is full of Pathos, touching, and among the most elegant dramatic poems. Finally, he gave himself over to his...

To recognize Brzuðern, and sent Fonigliche Wagen

vach Kanaan, to my father and my brothers

*

,

9
and to bring all their blows to Egypt.

Upon their arrival, the entire colony consisted of the Including Joseph and his two daughters, from seventy-two people; it defends itself
but of its own accord that only the families are included here=

Heads, but by no means all slaves, female slave
5 men, shepherds, shepherds and other servants with their R
Men. Including wives, children and concubines.
were. They were given a whole Egyptian pros

Linz, namely the land of Gosen, which best and most fertile part of the empire, to build there ff themselves and according to their customs and laws to life. This would not have been necessary if the

The total number of colonies should not exceed 72.
The number of people had been [unclear]. In a small village, it would have been [unclear].
- 5 ie were sufficient. |
Jakob came with his whole penis.
I went to Egypt; but Joseph did not fail to to notify the king and five of his brother to introduce the Pharaoh. He asked her, |
What did they eat? We find shepherds, before They answered how our parents were. They he They told him they had come to the country to Living there, well, it's good for them, given the large Drought in Canaan; they lacked fodder for their livestock.
52 e per _ ee.

7

60 ee
en, wit wollen deine Uuterthänen fein. Das ze;

Rand. The king gave them, and so this deed became denkolonie the most fertile area of the country=

cleared out to live in, as had been done previously her Pharaoh spoke to Joseph “Cap.

45. v. 18. re a,

When the Jews called Negüpten Fan

teens, in order not to confuse other people to change, shepherds and shepherds and made it clear that they! were through this

To distinguish between the names of other peoples:

ten. There was never, apart from the Jews, a people;
which called themselves shepherds or sheep farmers

The Egyptians, Arabs, Phoenicians, and other peoples

Four nations had shepherds, i.e., people.

which is related to cattle: or sheep farmer

= fchaff dues; but no nation knows which

which is characterized by the general naming of the shepherds

distinguished, and by which this name has a particular meaning had received a certain amount of consideration. Mon the robberies and destruction of this shepherd Egypt, from its first calm and peaceful Admission, which is granted with the permission of the King
...and it happened to the natives, from their power and War on the Egyptians, after they had...

had taken power over the entire country, and finally from their expulsion after a long and bloody Wars even give news to secular writers.

Manethon, an Egyptian, does an excellent job.

Shift writer, of which there is a mention. Christian

Historians have indeed made an effort.
to prove that those in the history of Egypt

so famous shepherds nothing less than

Jews or Israelites; if one but the Indian historian in so far verse

better than necessary, that he agrees with himself

voice and do not contradict itself: that's how one notices between him and the profane there is such a great difference agreement that they each other e un-terftägen and strengthen. ;

Initially, when Joseph Minister Ade, 8

we, that he was entrusted with sole rule and that all branches of power were transferred to him.

We noticed how well he performed in his position.
— with how much care he spent in the first few years
All grain supplies were gathered, with how much effort he put into piling it up in barns, joke
He secured them and manned them well.

That didn't even have a grain without a fine embezzlement.

or permission to distribute to the hungry people. could be. We further noted at which a precious opportunity. and occasion, the fine whole

>

12 80 |
Family, his Gauzen tribe moved to Egypt.
allotted him the most fertile province of the empire,
supplying him with grain and all the necessities of life.
. bens verfah. The king had said to them, he wanted to share the riches with the Israelites divide Egypt and grant them fertility and to give the land's marrow to their food Chapter 45, verse 18), while the freeborn citizens,
"the Aegpptier, the greatest lack of grain elite
ten. All this happened before the end of the third Hun.

year; namely in the tenth year of the year

Rule. At the end of this year, Joseph, the Jewish finance minister = minister of the king, everything Egypt's money accumulated and in the royal Treasures kept. When, in the next year...
Since there was no more money available, Joseph brought the Egyptians went so far that, in order to avoid starvation, they to die, their horses, sheep, oxen, donkeys and

In short, send all your cattle to the minister instead of the money!

which they brought and converted into grain. After who had given this away, they offered in the following in those years Joseph gave their fields and their porridge bed, because she prefers Pharaoh's slaves fine, than Hagar Gers wanted to die. The magnanimous and free

'a native Jew, who, as is immediately apparent, is fatherly that the dasytyte found, etc., what he offered him,

Alecker and lands, and relocated the inhabitants to distant regions, from one end of the ..
3m different,

"So Joseph bought all the Ladder trees for the Pharaoh."

en the Egyptians thought of, by the latter, through Kungr was forced to give him all their properties had to sell. Thus the land became private property.
The Pharaoh's power: but the people, so long and

"Since Egypt was widespread, he moved them to the two cities." |

Chapter 47, verses 21 and 22.

Our statesman EN exercised this harshness
The cause is clear. He wanted her chastity, which he for the following year, and the Andes remember their lost freedom and the regions, where they had owned fields and herds, through to alleviate the displacement and alleviate the pain, a But the uproar, which perhaps wasn't entirely unjustified

would be, and violent attacks on the Kornspei-

dear, by averting it by destroying the Egyptians scattered. Namely, when they were separated from each other.
and were strangers in every place, so they were Zus alliances and conspiracies, “before which he f ch feared, to be so heavy.

Jezerh traded the possessions of the priests

however not in itself, because it was already from Pharaoh 1

S i

They established themselves in the name of the king in the possession of their

-

14

were fed, and therefore it was not necessary, to buy their lands. Chapter 47, verse 22.

When, finally in the sixth year, the people,

to escape starvation “irrevocably” given to the king in perpetual slavery, and the Inde had convinced himself that it was now impossible
It was likely that the Egyptians would be put in a more desperate situation.
bring, as they now of sorrow and misery
crushed, and deprived of all hope of recovery Having found them, he now gave them seed, which ches he has withheld from them until this timete. This was the secret and the Art, which the Egyptians had for so long in the most terrible way To obtain Nungersnoth, this is the means whose

the prophet and statesman used to
to make his prophecies come true.

He laid a double grain for the Egyptians paid tribute, bought the remainder from them, and sold He cunningly gave them back only as much as they just to preserve their lives

ten. He did not distribute the seed grain among them until as he already possessed their wealth and their livestock and they had sold themselves to him. Had he sold them

If the seed had been given earlier, the need would be averted.
will have come to an end next year, as
And now it happened, when he told them, when their Kerr and

*

ie To 45

Tirann, who permitted agriculture. But that was completely contrary to the intentions of the clever minister, because he wanted to enslave the entire nation.

and aspired to power and prestige.

In that year, but even before, he the

| The Egyptians received seed, Joseph persuaded the Pharaoh, to give a law that would regulate the possessions

the temple and priests were forbidden to sell, and imagined possessions for properties explained which fall neither to the government nor to the King could appropriate it. Through this
The law made the priesthood hereditary and subject to the Dependence on the sovereign or kings freed them - as can be seen from the following.

When, in the fifth year of the famine, the government all |
The lands that the Egyptians acquired were sold but the priests did not relinquish their possessions, because they,
as mentioned, their upkeep from the king-men. Even at the end of the sixth or at the beginning of the seventh year, when the cornbdden almost

They were emptied and the misery still persisted:
lasted "but Pharaoh still took the priests' fields not in possession (because only the Priest's confirmations are not Property of the Pharaoh were, v. 26.) Those Be/

The meetings were prohibited by an irrevocable law.
of the king, inalienable and hereditary,

4.

well ja fonst der Köniz diesünzechen mit demsünzeben Rechte could have taken possession of the fields of the Laymen. But the king had told Joseph in the address.

A fine government, as a sign of fine grace.

the daughter of a high priest was given in marriage.

In consideration of these close ties and close blood ties -

Joseph knew how to bring this about through friendship |

all power and dominion between the priests^{*} *
was divided between the company and the government, and thereby perhaps the reason for the later Egyptians was superstition, to priestly power, magical

Established canons and priests committing fraud. The priests possessed, independently of the king, the considerable st possessions, in which they at that time after succeeded under a fixed and definite law

now they seized the opportunity to give the slave people to preach a new religion and that lamentable people, almost devoid of all reason among the most harmful things, namely the unum^o limited obedience, blind faith and bud to be seduced by the priests. ö
Their wealthy women gave the shepherds funds to provide hands-on learning, and under^o to conduct research and gain experience. She lays ten ficht relies on chemistry, on natural magic and ge^o

a 8 Poücfopbie- The raw and un^o drive

U

5 21

The crowd was amazed by Gabi 1, a man they had never seen before.

* Things, and the priests now came to this quite naturally,

"The beautiful idea of claiming that | those knowledge mysteries revealed to them

i would be. The stupid, simple-minded and slavish Bolk took physical experiments and effects of nature, for wonders, and those artists for their work

"witness to divine omnipotence, for friends and loved ones,"
By the servant of the deity, thus Egypt became mainly through such arts, step by step

For centuries the mother and aunt of all things; u faith. In these Egyptian institutions be

One can already see the basic features of a government

form which Moses carried out after that time, from |
Joseph, however, had already been killed centuries before.

fen were. zte Book of Moses Cap. 12th B.C. 9.

Following this factual summary, all
The unequal status of the estates is now considered proven to be true.
that Pharaoh allowed those shepherds to come to Egypt x invited them, granted them a certain province, ih j entrusted the reins of government to them, and all that power and authority which they later, as between Egyptians and Jews a

The longer, bloodier war arose, the more reluctantly they surrendered.

49. Shaftesbury. Characteristics mise: reflections mise,

e ö
VB

8 5

The shepherds retained their rights with the king's permission.
ale fefte Pluze, in welche sich Kornbdden befaut |
den, and worlber fie Joseph on command and in
In the name of the King, to overseers and commanders had made danten. ·
How long they will get along, and he
| how long did the Egyptians still the yoke of the Hebrews and have patiently tolerated it, or at what time many
The first disputes arose among them — all

Jewish history overlooks these facts:

Writer with silence. He mentions in one Periods of at least two hundred years, I take lich from the last year of the dzuuger year until Mofe's birth;
Only two strange incidents. The first was Jas Kob's death in the seventeenth year after his arrival in Egypt. He was taken to Canaan and He was buried in the family grave there.
His command, which he still gave on his deathbed, te gab, wurde mit der büßen Feierheit ausled and with pomp and circumstance wande put into action, which disher only at The death of a king had taken place. Joseph accompanied his father's body, and with him went all the slaves of the Pharaoh, the elders of his household-ses and all the Elders of Egypt; furthermore, chariots and

N

N 29

une with an eke . . 50. 97

* 8 to 10. |

E ba was 57 years old at the time, and who a
He respected the fact that he held the highest power in his hands, so He was such a king, nothing without knowledge and approval:
to do the king's gung; as from the magnificent
len und leuchtenden Leichenbegangnissee feines verftorz |
Benen's father's story was illuminated. He lived for another 53 years afterwards.
Years; for at his death he was, and going years old. he ae
How long he the waiglie nade, fine 15
to see and enjoy the favor of the people, how many more years the Egyptians would have to go

The Jewish community could have calmly endured it, one can say.

As I said, I won't specify exactly. That much is certain.
know that both the Jews and even Joseph still before his death, his reputation and his power
Lost again. The latter is very strange.
We saw that Jacob's body was covered with great Somp was brought to Canaan, and that he the Egyptians mourned as they mourned their king. Joshua, Ephesians However, he was embalmed in complete silence, without
The Egyptian escort placed on the bier, nir Gends pomp or public mourning. —
As long as Joseph holds the reins of neglect Wim Harr. showed the Istailites, as much as the “2

1 55

20

Westerschicht hunts, no great gu; to Canaan to return. But when he was near death, and saw no probability anymore
that the Jews will continue to oppose the Egyptians in the future
They could control it, he advised them, to look for Canaan aurbyugichen, and = aa ö to drive there.

I don't want to get involved with the 18-year-old.

hold, db Abraham, the ancestor of the Jewish

The shepherd tribe only had Canaan in mind, or

Had he not chosen Egypt instead? In the beginning

When God called him, he was not given a specific region.

promised, 1. B. Mof. Chapter 12. b. 1. Perhaps

Had he stayed in Egypt, the Kir would have killed him.

nig was not expelled from the country because he was through the false pretense that Sara is a fine sister -

Be, regardless of what the fine wife was, the king

had almost led him to adultery; vv. 14 to 20

"The same lie," said the ancestor of the righteous.

later also to King Abimelech, Chapter

20. v. 1 to 16. and with the same success. N

Enough, the Hebrews did not come alone.

against the will of the Egyptians, but even on

J. Wol not a lie, for she was indeed fine

Half-swimmer. 1. Bach 5 Chapter 20. d. 12.

f | . d. u ne

"ee, N 5 er

f the invitation of the king to Egypt, the

the entire nation, the servitude, empowered

They cured all their afflictions, and healed Egypt into a | secular and spiritual rule. How many years 0

as long as they kept the fortresses occupied "is un= known. The historian runs over a period of sixty and several years, and

f merely states that the number of Ifroelites has increased significantly,

all of Egypt was populated, and all power was seized by him.

bow, alone that a new king nothing of Jo=

I knew as Seph; 2nd Book of Moses, Chapters 1b, 7 &

That is, he recognized fine virtues and merits.

not received. The exact time this occurred was unknown.

one cannot prove it, because the historian completely remains silent about it. The new king overreacts.

deten die Negyptier, man müsse das jähifche Volk.

which they surpass in number and strength, practice

list, dartit it does not multiply even more or
It is advisable to deal with the N when war is brewing un ee % V. 9. 10. 8 N

M. 1 05 ollen 1 |

Except for these spirits, the Jewish scripture spread ·
He sheds much light on the secular history.
It shows us, in fact, how the U

—

232
fangs ohne Wberpräch der Ägyptier und auf die

Invitation of the king, they came to Egypt, through which means they secured themselves, through which arts

why they received so much prestige, and why they were so highly regarded by the natives as father of the land and savior he trach" tet uud were worshipped. But as soon as he turned to those Unlucky times come when disagreements arise between...

They are both strangers and natives! 5
| broke, so he told everything superficially and confusingly.

He then stands with himself and with the fragments

N en en Geschichtsberichte i in Widerspruch.

According to his account, the Hir

ten, who hold all power, all firm places 1

had possession of the tze and overran all of Egypt,

from the Egyptians; without war, without sword blow and fight, interruption and under the yoke brought. But if one considers the narrative at hand

kr and compares them with the remains of al

—

ker profaner Geschiscriber: fo weicht fie weit from the truth. If one does this, be

One notices at first glance that the Jew is one certain circumstances: decorated, covered up in a different way, other has been overshadowed.

- From the above-mentioned passage, it is clear that herbor, |

u bie e Hegypike der safe 9 .

“2 *

;

—

who had become stronger than themselves, with great

"7 4
4 x
23 —

They watched with fear and unease. 2. BMKI v. 19.
They decided to do so partly on the advice of their king,

. to destroy the Hebrews, and out of your way to clear, mainly so that they - not to side with the foreign enemies liked. In order to avert this misfortune and, the Pharaoh ordered the shepherds to be kept in check.

| 'Midwives, all newborn Jewish boys around the

To bring life. It is not at all likely, that the Indian mother, by the great hatred both peoples, Egyptian builders should be serves, or that the Jews do not from their own

The nation should have had women to help with the week.

to provide help to others or to support each other to free her from her bandage. Most unlikely=

But it is that two Egyptian midwives not to hide, in order to save all Jewish women in those who were scattered throughout Egypt and fill the land. In the end, they Historians, it is a fact that the order is to do everything.

To kill Jewish boys at birth, Moses

two Egyptian midwives, Siphra and Pharaoh with names, given. With this help, it was possible.

but very badly for the king and the Egyptians.
Pharaoh therefore ordered the Egyptians to renounce all newborn children

!
a
,

to throw the Jewish boys into the river and just this =. newborn female children at the Le to let be. But this edict was just as little followed, because the Israelites were so strong that the Egyptians could not obey the order.

One can see from these two commands that the Egyptians still stuck to their plan, to exterminate and destroy the Hebrews, so as not to
to feed so many strangers who, when leaving...

Breaking a war makes it easy to unite with the enemy! ≠
gen, seize control of the government and the entry-

born either kill or in their own | 1

They could keep their fatherlands under the yoke. That the Egyptians feared such a misfortune must, as the story goes.
scribes bring out. Also writes $ osephus, *) the Egyptians had (ficd) before the Jews because of their great
The exact quantity was not known for certain, and therefore the amount was unknown.
They decided to equip them. One more two...
He derives his tenth reason from the fact that the Jews, according to an old prophecy that spoke about 2 Br fei. Re
However great, but also the power of the Ru a ume, and how baterüste and gray their Ab≠

a 9 bean laura. Ind LU cr.

|| 235

Spruce trees were fine, to clear the huts from the ground.
rot and the land from the looming enemy
free them, so the Jews still managed to retain eight Fig. years after Mofe's birth in it. One knows not how much time before Moses' birth this dispute occurred and these disagreements had their beginnings have; but it is likely that by then from the very beginning, at least thirty to four

Fig. Years have passed. Since that uncertain A.
At certain times, the Egyptians had their old masters and tyrants overcome. The Jews, this now
...no longer lived in fortified cities, did
They obeyed orders and surrendered.
Those fixed places which secure connections - those who were for them prevented the execution of the Orders given because of the child murder. These gruesome regulations that have been in place for several years
vdr Mofes' birth was given, could fa little more than all the Morteile, which the Big from their flat land, the Israelites had, from to dispossess them of their possessions. Under all circumstances.

It becomes clear that the Egyptians were not strongly ge-were enough to carry out their intentions. 6
It was amidst this unrest that Moses was born.
from the death of a daughter of the Pharaoh tet, and suckled by his mother. When he ere

\

3

e > .
growing wap, did the latter lead him to Pharaoh?
Daughter: she treated him like her son. He Instruction was given in all sciences of Egypt.
He practiced in deeds and words, and lived
Forty years at court. In all this time
There is no trace of any such dreams that Moses who had intended to leave Egypt or to lead the people to another country. A to-

The fall of the Wall forced him to flee Egypt.

An Egyptian struck one of the Jews; Moses saw it and | avenged the insult with the Egyptian's death, When |

When he went out the following day, he saw two Jews to quarrel. He asked the one who was fighting with the other.
He did something wrong, so why did he strike him? That one But fearful; "Why do you ask about that? Who has Did you turn yourself against our leader and judge? Do you want to

Are you going to kill me too, like you did the Egyptian N?

"Unbrought, please?" Messas shrieked, and noticed and that the matter had been resolved. When it When the Pharaoh also heard of it, he let him to try to put him on death benches as a murderer Wtheilen. Moses stood and held fish. hei den Midians, here too, ibm painted the Gliuk
wol. A head of priests from the dorti an "nn Names 1 5 u Kane:

5 1 15 er

"87,
Egg to a Che because N (tee in if .
Area. 9
The misfortune of the shepherds n 3 in those times not yet so big that they couldn't still grow a few had hope of reuniting the Egyptians with them

tttrjochen. During the forty-year absence

Moses' name, but her condition worsened from Day after day. The Egyptians had fie fo get weakens that, Had they not found their salvation in N setuht, all of them had rolled over.
Moses set out to remove the fine people from the ean |
to lead dedes Träbfals and fich a kingdom to green
2. the one whose supreme power is in his family or in his
It should be hereditary within a lineage. To achieve this,
He compiled the traditions and fables of the Hebrews.
He invented new ones and decorated them appropriately;
He mainly invoked the promise which God, to the fine fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jas kob had done, to give their descendants the land to hand over to Canaan. Perhaps he wrote that.
first book, in which various wondrous things to be told, merely with the intention of encouraging courage and to incite the fanaticism of the people he had chosen wanted to subdue. If he really was the slanderer of the first book, so he could not do better, as a baffle with stories and wonders

28

fill, thereby making their housing more beautiful.

Courage of this raw and superstitious little full ge

Ban was imposed. 1.
According to the storyteller's account.

rich God the descendants of Abraham the |

| ö line between the Jordan and the middle of the Lünder seas in width, and between Sidon and to the borders of Egypt in the long term. 1. BM

K. 13. b. 18 to 21. This promise was, however,

The promise was fulfilled because the Jews had fulfilled that promise.

Never own half the land.
Only forty years after the time when they were born
According to them, they should take possession of the country.

firmly put a foot in. From these circumstances

It can be assumed that Moses the whole
The Story of the Promise of the Land of Canaan
"just made up to stir the minds of the people" to inflame Israelites. Back then, when he had the time... voted when the country was taken into custody

He didn't believe he should have lived forty years.
He wandered around for a long time with the cloud walls. He had

They imagined the inhabitants of Canaan were whom immediately, as soon as they showed themselves, to the country run out; in this case, fine ver

The predictions were exactly right. The Canaanites were

But a fighter. You he never had; it was

2 ö

N ar erg years before he ae dete ein = .n could.
Moses received great power from God, >
was convinced of the "divine mission" as a matter of principle.
Ato, fine Brader, was given the dignity of a

Prophets and spokesman raised. Both et.
appeared before Phar and demanded that he bring the a Istrians allow vines to ripen for three days through the

To do what was necessary to offer praise to the God Jehovah.
Their true intention to abandon the country must ten fi fie at God's command, the Pharaoh forgfal to conceal. 2. BMK 3 v. 114.
This request was rejected. After the
According to our historian, God then sent many

5 plagues upon the Egyptians and Moses and Aten

Those wonders. The detailed story there from the fifth to the N
Chapter of the second book.
It is noteworthy that Moses and Aron, during her miracles, used a rod or a...
* nes Stockes served, which was based on a similar =
This also applies to the magicians and sorcerers at the court of the Pharas used. Among the businesses of the last tern gehdrte, the king with their art pieces to

to amuse, to earn money from the simple people,

65 in . to those, and to them trickery ne

30 = yes Fe

ter dam name divine wonder and deep Ge.
to feign humiliations. Nobody will be in the rust.
believe, or imagine as possible, that the Egyptian priests and sorcerers. Real Ru:

then or pieces transformed into snakes, animals brought forth, river water turned into blood and have produced frogs which have the whole Earth covered and the houses and buildings filled in would have; — nothing less than we have in Anse | hung dieser Tatfachen, denſelbe Geschichtschreiber, which is Mo fe's and my brother-in-law's wonder attested. It was indeed a miracle, which the Megpptier could not imitate; diefer Unter

The difference proves nothing more than that Mosez |

which in the Egyptian cultures and sciences
then had been taught, those common magicians far exceeded. If this is assumed, then it is obvious that all these wonders are illusions and deceptions

- "trügerischen, waren, oder vom Menschen

gefunden.

One must not overlook the fact that the imagined

Plagues that are sold as miracles are known to be, evils arising from natural causes and inconveniences. When the Nile

the fine floods, in the middle of the inundation

leaving behind bleak lakes and stinking waters, so

7

1

8 . | 221

POP the rot in the burning summertime |

various types of insects and worms, which

who consume the crops, and among people

—

and livestock spread such diseases and epidemics, as the historian recorded it. The Jude tells everything except for the ordinary and wonderful.

over the full circumstances. But whoever understands the spirit of what is considered ten writers, especially those who know Hebrew,

with through her brilliant stories little ger stirs. He knows very well how much they like to do everyday things.

Natural phenomena for the effects of the divine

They claimed omnipotence. They lived and wrote | in the times of ignorance and darkness, where the immutable laws of physics and mora ≠

very little was known about the world government.
They allowed themselves to be led astray by ignorance, by the abere believe and down to the understanding of the people.

Straby wants to make all history writers do this:

They have noticed the main thing, and... trust them all for that reason.

little credibility. "It was a mistake."

most of the old people, writes Pit se, or many≠ Moreover, it was a thoughtless simplicity that they themselves, when they read about the deeds of famous men

| wrote, not thought elegant enough, when they not to beautify the style, poetic file

_ Bions or something similar added, i.e., also,

“

. Y

32

when she fights with the blowing exercises |
mix “). a

Like all miracles, Ben Phata (N) did not move, Moses threatened that Jehovah would come at midnight to plague the Egyptians, and all firstborn children Aegoptens with death, by Pharaoh' Firstborn, who sat on the throne, until the firstborn of the slaves, the donkey drivers and down the animals. But the Jews promised themselves

They didn't see much of this miracle; rather, they thought... on their escape. During the Easter celebration
The Istaelites left in the middle of the night.
Egypt was in such a hurry that they put the leaven in their
* in baking troughs, with removals.
1 We will see later how far the Err j |
Jbl fi himself and the fragments of profane remains true to the writer. That much is clear.
the exodus of the Jews from Egypt with the greatest ten Ele happened, and that neither Pharaoh nor his servants had been notified beforehand. 1. B.
Mark 14:5. The Israelites felt that They could not remain as fishermen in Egypt, but

. 2 Ran in the night they had to.
As 8 You

9E. Balgcbrel Letters on che 12 0 and as | of History. L. III. 8. 49.

| 883
So they set off in the middle of the night.
quickly from the fact that they are listed as 55

once had time to bake bread.

During this sudden and unexpected escape

They imagined a journey of one or two days.
The Egyptians suspected this escape.
They did not, and therefore could not catch up immediately.

and put them down. That this was their intention, and | that the Israelites, not with the permission of the Pha>

rab, but merely to save their lives, the Having fled, it follows from the order of the

"The king, to pursue them. 2. BM Chapter 14."

v. 6. The narrator wants to make the reader believe,

The purpose of the persecution would have been merely to...

to bring back the Israelites and treat the slaves to del, but by no means to kill them. The story
But the writer deviates from himself and from the Truth from beginning to end. After fei

The Egyptians needed at least a narrative.

eighty years, to see all newborn Jewish boys to kill them because the Israelites are too numerous and had become powerful, and because the Egyptians feared they would want to sooner or later seize power and subjugate the natives

bring a yoke; especially if they themselves give them the |

gave an opportunity to engage with the foreign being

“

to connect them. That the Aguptic court already Before Moses' birth, the Jews decided on the death of the Jews.
I have, based on my own. Testimonies of ours

| Confessors; After Pharaoh said to Mo: |

He was accused of being involved with evil and criminal activities.

- avoid herifchen's intentions, and give him the courtyard

It seems clear that it was forbidden and agreed upon.
that Pharaoh murdered the Jews, especially of the male part of the same, decided, because he considered it possible. Chapter 10, verse 9. He could not imagine that the Jews would lose their homeland would seek refuge. Although aj claims Indian historians, Chapter 12, verse 31.

Pharaoh granted freedom to the Ifraelites 1 N to leave the country, and the Jews would have the

It is of interest to the Egyptians to cross the borders of N as soon as possible.
to let; he contradicts himself. But himself, because he

Chapter 14, verses 1 to 5, refers to the king of News of the people's flight has been given,

He immediately gave the order to pursue them.

They came about two during their escape

Day trips far. Since the Red Sea was nearby, and Moses with all its bays and straits and ge was known during the execution, so flattering

the Israelites to save themselves by fleeing,
and thereby escape the impending bloodbath.

The historian recounts that all the cattle of the

* .

|| 85

Egyptians were on the verge of fleeing the Ifraelites perished through a plague and hail.

'Nevertheless, Pharaoh quickly assembled a large army, which with 600 select wagons and was equipped with other wagons and cavalry.
According to Josephus's account, there were 700 wagons.
with 50,000 cavalry men, and furthermore 200,000 men.
Infantry with shields present. The whole story Jung is full of contradictions. For example, when the Israelites with all their livestock through the red

They had gone to sea, and they grumbled against Moses.

and Aron, and thought it would have been better, Jehovah would have taken their lives in Egypt.
men, where they would have been sitting by their meat pots and to be able to eat their fill of bread; now they have in led to the desert, where everyone was gathered and separately separated.
would starve. Chapter 16, verse 3. Alone, where was

Have the sheep and cattle herds remained?

which they drove out of Egypt, and from whom they hadn't lost a single claw; while the 5 sheep, oxen and cows of the Egyptians either fallen or through the mu Bet
en —

If one prefers mferc= history writers

= | ne band fo fieht man non Jewish . B. II. Chapter 6.

5 C2

f

25 |
made a remark confirming that among the Istilites they
Their wish, to rest peacefully and in peace with their loved ones.
tern, riches and herds of cattle Egypt to abandoned, not reached, but rather in one
The escape took place at night in the greatest haste and disorder.
'taken from Egypt to the un escape.

Aurns of this entire narrative yields to the=
that the Hebrews or shepherds were the first out of the Orient came to Egypt, where they without knowledge Gerung, according to the king's wish, the best and most fertile province 'was granted.
Furthermore, it can be seen from this that their prestige is so great.
was that they were given the highest power in the state zanvertrauete, which they applied to this — the to suppress the Egyptians. It further shows that The Egyptians became envious after that time, and the used the most gruesome means to maintain their power to break them, and to reduce their number. Furthermore
'One learns that the shepherds were initially more powerful'
a ren, however, not satisfied with the one assigned to them province, spread throughout the entire empire, and Mine made an effort to seize it. "Because,

— adds the historian, — the Egyptians were
"Neither so numerous nor so powerful." 2. BM
Al v. 9. Finally, we see the Israelites under

Be 1 *

Yocht and in mortal danger law, from which they through a swift, from here e
They escaped unexpectedly. >

This is how the shat squares behave when one fie: of the fabrications, wonders and themselves cleared up contradictory circumstances. Then Manethon and other profane writings agree agree with them where they are from the first

| Arrival of the shepherds, their subsequent occupation

attacks and robberies, and finally of their Tell the story of expulsion or flight. 5 RE
Some historians have to prove it | seeks that those so-called shepherds, whose mass wethon mention thut, by no means Israelites or had been Hebrew shepherds. They have but knew not to specify any nation which distinguishes itself from all other Vol through this naming core excellent and livestock farming as the only Be had driven by activity. That part of the (so-called Mosaic) story, which is a within the limits of nature, sins in Kinficht die diese Hirten mit die Geschichten der Profane people. Josephus denies this disagreement.
mung nicht Hein nicht, fondern will fuch durch diesen to prove incompetence, that the claim of his opponent ners Ap ion, the Jews were all other volumes

40 | 3

Fosephus recounts that the Egyptians had the fur feared. and their extermination ('sohnfcht').

Elsewhere, Schuckford contradicts

Manet hon. He writes that Egypt was with Violence of: weapons conquered. Manethon
But he says: "Since the deity was directed at the Egyptians zuerte, fo erlauhte fie einer agroß Menge pon HBgBremmlingen, to come to Egypt, which fer ee . dae IM en A

| 3 For be faben, wie das Jubengefclct fich 101 5

took, and had an abundance of blows, which she I acquired it through work and diligence. Through their Due to their large numbers, they therefore maintained their safety.
"" at risk. Antiquities B. . K. 3. — Furthermore:

The Egyptians made an effort; the Jews through =>

; "to wear out excessive work; our ancestors
In contrast, all difficulties were attempted to be overcome.
winds. This gave rise to something, which our

"Re Nazton very much wished." Chapter 3. — This et?

What was Josephus' claim, the White One?
gung, that a man will appear among the Jews
will be the one who would overcome the Yegnptier.
This was supposed to be the reason for the order, fine.
They killed all newborn boys. Their own animal, with the intention of completely eliminating the Ifenelites

rats. "Full of terror (because of this prophecy) f

| the king commanded, after the settling of the fine: Nath

«

The words of Josephus confirm that the Hebrews

11

derbe von — in Aegypten |

They were their places of residence. After that time, they were mi

the seats that had been allocated to them not satisfied, flooded and devastated the area, and waged war with the Egyptians. Ends

They brought king and people under their yoke:
Later they fought another long war.
with the Egyptians, and here the shepherds were defeated by the Egyptians. They were made from whom

4 ses, old unborn Jewish children e =

Sex, to throw into the river. Also, they should

—

the Egyptian midwives diligently awaited the births i

Pay attention to the Jewish women. This led him to believe to ensure that the midwives did not...

The royal edict from the kinship
"would set. He also determined the sentence,
'that anyone who would not report the matter,
— along with his entire family.

This misfortune was very close, because the parents 8

not only deprived of their children, but also were even forced to send the helpers to their Death too fine. If He simultaneously into the future

fahen, fo wurde fie ganz untroöstlich, denn fle far hen the certain demise of their existence before Au-gen, because their children were killed, and. the Parents themselves expect their death in a short time

had to. So they found themselves in direst need.

inne g ee ER

33 ee
core unknown, false, and that their History with the history of other peoples about-
I agree. "Undisputed," find fine words of my own.
te, "were the so-called shepherds, if one holds together the various time calculations, our ancestors,' who after their redemption from | Egypt "393 years earlier than Dan left for Egypt
Argos came, and they inhabited this province. Mane-

Tuna therefore has two very important DIN-recorded in his Egyptian history: he-

that the shepherds from abroad to Egypt came; secondly, that their exodus from it in. fas distant times fall that one almost dries him=

Seven years before the Trojan War are counted at
In the first book against Apion. N

Even Schuckford admits that the room=

herdsmen's journeys into the time of the sea
| fallen, oe

"In the fifth year of the Conhar,

which Josephus according to the Manethon Ti= mouse calls — he writes — a large army broke out from an unknown people, in Egypt.

They conquered and devastated Egypt, and set a certain Solatis on the throne, who the Egyptians subjugated, occupations in the cities laid down, and the state offices with fine appointees

**

* *

Occupied. Where they came from is unknown. With the disintegration of the Egyptian empire felt

The Israelites, too, will see the end of their silence. For

Solatis wanted neither from Josepheuoch nor from fine

To know something about regulations. Since the Isfraelites had enriched and multiplied, and the fruit=

It was feared that the inhabitants of the barst province would die

They joined forces with the enemies, who were from could easily invent an idea in the Orient, and Therefore, they were treated in the most cruel way.

But this story of Schuckförd stands '

both with the Jewish and the profane

Shift workers in contradiction. The Nazion, which 5 who, in his opinion, were violently killed in Egypt broke in, existed nowhere but in his brain;

the prerequisite that the shepherds of Atfung with Violence had broken out in Egypt, it in Be had taken a seat and settled down in it, neither agrees with the Maneth on, nor with the holy a historian. The latter writes that Fraeliten had been in number and quantity so taken, would have multiplied and intensified,

that the whole area was full of them; *

=
“

ur > ni and 1 aa er world co

. Vel. Hp. 233" ae

P) 5

40 1
Josephus prophesied, 'bie -Asgppter would have the For

They were feared, and their extermination was desired.
Elsewhere, Schuckford contradicts

Manet hon. He writes that Egypt was with Conquered by the violence of weapons. Manethon but says: "There, the deity on the Egyptians ournte, fo erlaubte fie eine großen Menge bon foreigners coming to Egypt, which

ö . weten Diese dae ur nr 2

N 3 Ds be beben, wie das — fñch aufs .

took, and had an abundance of treasures, which they acquired through hard work and diligence. Through their Due to their large numbers, they therefore maintained their safety.

at risk. Antiquity B. 3. K. 5. — Further:

i The Egyptians made an effort; the Jews through =

"Excessive, exhausting work; our ancestors on the other hand, tried to overcome all difficulties winds. This gave rise to something which was ours=

N re Nazion very gladly wished.“ Chapter 3. — This et “

What was Josephus' claim, the White One?
5. ung, that a man should appear among the Jews
will be the one who would overcome the Aegyptier.
This was supposed to be the reason for the fine order, to kill all newborn boys, their own rats. “, Volir Schrect (because of this addition)

The king commanded, after that. Selachten fine: Nathe

he «

The words of Jo fephus confirm that the Negupe "
had the intention of completely eliminating the Ifrgelites.

Ä 41

Adjudication from the side of the — in Egypt
their places of residence. After a while, they were missing.

the seats that had been allocated to them not satisfied, flooded and ruined this area, and waged war with the Egyptians. Ends

The king and people were led under their banner:
Later they fought another long war.
with the Egyptians, and here the shepherds were defeated by the Egyptians. They were expelled from their geber, all Jewish children born in Henge =

Sexes, to throw into the river. Also followed

—

the Egyptian midwives diligently awaited the births

Pay attention to the Jewish women. This led him to believe to ensure that the midwives do not...

gen Ver wand fchschaft the royal edict aua den Au would set the sentence. He also determined the punishment,

'that anyone who would not report the matter,
that he and his entire family would die.
This misfortune was very hard because the parents
not only deprived of their children, but also
They were even forced to call the assistants to their duties.

Death on fine If they simultaneously into the future

fahen, fo wurde fie ganz untroftlich, denn fle far

ben the certain downfall of their nation before Aus
gen, because their children were killed, and. the Parents themselves expect their death in a short time
They had to. So they found themselves in dire straits.
R vr et 4. 5. L.

1

4 W 8

fortresses were driven out, and finally settled in the large city of Abaris, where they assembled a large army

| had gathered. Here the shepherds were besieged for a considerable time. When they finally resorted to the utmost measures.

Having been brought there, they seized an opportunity to 4

They fled, and thus escaped the wrath of the Egyptians.
animal, which has firmly resolved to N 5 from:
"

These are the words of Manethon, of the dite
The last Egyptian historian. His successors

a richten s?voin accompanies the holy story,

as long as the latter remains within the limits of nature.

The supernatural history of the Jews was known to them.

Not profane ones; but the principle that suffices for us is that man, as long as there are natural causes, from where one can experience appearances, find after

There is no need to look around for the supernatural.

In my opinion, it is clear that the Kirten of Manethon, who were Jews, which during Joseph's ministry to Egypt

came. Josephus, as already noted, confirmed
He expressed his opinion strongly, using explicit words. He...

The only thing that disputes is the narrative that the Jews are full of N. "no, and only he that one

— e. do. against the Apion, 1. 8.

J

13

They had therefore been locked up so that they could

Don't want to infect Egyptians, and a des!

| 1 out of the country I chased N

He maintains that those diseases would be 0 = little, as the vermin were the cause of their displacement

It had been a training exercise. However, the reason he gave was...
. "gives, rather confirms the matter 7). Mo

s²es rath den Juden in s² seinen Gesezefrequenzs

Washing and bathing. This provides remedies against such diseases, which were given to our people

They will be. The Jews probably suffered from These diseases mainly in Egypt, because the

The means which he teaches against it in subtle laws, which were unknown to them at the time. In short,

The Mosaic laws provide the clearest evidence.

to the hand that the Jews with the lowest

-

and were afflicted with the most shameful diseases.

the regulations which govern the choice of food the Purity and impurity, the scratch and the out

The sentence concerns, aims to, this protruding

To stop diseases. They do not betray

It is unclear that the vessel donor—with an impure... and had to do with disgusting people. Moses bes

2 Josephus aa O
0 Zephthas che.

44 | —.
Therefore, what Manethon said about the Mana

The stories of the Israelites are told. Also the Egyptians.
were not free from these diseases, and...

who is therefore despised by other peoples.
Lucretius mentions a disease which

| It was a characteristic of the Egyptians.

*

"(The. Ausfast it a sickness, 18055
nowhere but in Egypt does it exist, and through the e of the au ent stands.)) 5
The priests protected themselves from this through the Ents Colding of certain spelt, especially fish and of the pig's flesh. They also almost washed themselves.

daily. Several ancient writers, e.g. Heros dot, Dio dor of Sicily! and all 55

delusion of this disease:

Ehaeremon, an old Oefschichtfcretber pöd

Niziens, sets the groundwork for the expulsion of the Jus den aus en N . Sm |

ten. He says that the king was given a limp.
brought that he would not be able to sleep peacefully until then.
nen, than until he the detailed ones. Kirten from the
I have created lands 9.
“Lysimachus, another ancient story
. told that the Jews were because of their contagious diseases, their itching and their effects fiatzss, expelled from Egypt; their Ger
But the legislator has given them the right to retaliate.
Right made a duty against everyone, and ih
They gave the advice not to be friends with anyone.

ya halten, flicht guten Rathes übel zu erthel.

and to destroy the temples and altars of other gods

floren. The Jews performed these requirements, as history teaches, at any time, as much as they

was a conscientious consequence. u:

“Among themselves,” writes Tacitus, “they keep...”
based on loyalty and faith, and helping each other.
from: but strangers hate and persecute them.” Dive
There, the hatred of the Jews against everyone is evident.
Non-Jews are generally known, and they don't... prescribed by the legislators. This has led to the Antiochus was moved to deal harshly with them

ren. Juvenal says, „fie nr keinen Reissenden showed the way.
9 Josephus a. 4. O. | 8

—

Non monstrare vias:: endem nisi ssora.
| lenti:i:
Quesitum ed fontem solos deducere verpon

Sat. 14. v. 104. He (Only show them the way, ber. their Faith is; only the circumcised guide

(He goes to the source when he is thirsty).
Ba tells Lyfimachus, on the sixth Days after their escape from Egypt, the Inden, ulcers on their pubic areas were acquired-
meu. This evil has forced her, jam fie= to hold a rest day on the next day. This day, he says.

They called it Sabbath, from the Egyptian

Words of Sabbathosis, which according to his claim= tung diseases from the secret and covered Sharing means 9. The same is also claimed by

Apion, as can be seen from the refutation of the Josephus sees. Justin speaks of the Jews.

The following: “The Egyptians suffered from scabies.”
and on leprosy. They were given the advice to...

Moses with the sick across the borders of

To create Egypt so that the plague would not spread further several infected. He became the leader of the Ber the sacred vessels of the Egyptians; the latter placed follow them, to make them moan with the waf fen in hand, to take it off again; but it was The weather was so bad that she had to turn back.

ten.“) Tacitus agrees with them and assures,
the Jews would be under the rule of Boch o
ris, on the advice of the gods, from Egypt were expelled because, according to the testimony, they were... various historians who mentioned the Egyptians with had been infected with contagious diseases *).

"It should be noted that the Jews at the time of their..."
There were no laws yet regarding the flight from Egypt.
Ben, which instilled in them hatred against non-Jews had made a duty; laws which they had made among themselves to bind together most firmly, from all others
But separate people — which commands them
Len, the Canaanites, by whom she was never insulted have been, to have been done with the greatest cruelty, and even the infants at the mouth of their mothers not to be spared. EN
The stay of the Jews in Egypt 5 1

their subsequent expulsion led to the very important principle: that one has no

) Justin B. 34 PER 7.
WN Histoxiar. Liv. Cap 1.

48 |
a state within a state (statum in statu);
fe; and are proof that the Jews already at the time when their laws did not yet prescribe them to hate the entire muskish sex, the peoples who received them in a friendly manner and They were granted citizenship, so dangerous did it become that one saw oneself, she from the Lands to hunt.

II. The Status of the Jews in Babylonian Egypt Captivity.

| The Jewish kingdom took hold during the time of Jerome f

*

beam his complete end, after two hundred,
had lasted fifty-four years. Because Sal

Manasser conquered Samarid and led the Jews to the Orient; here they scattered,

and neither founded a new kingdom, nor returned

5 These Jews already had a great desire in Palestine to They received service; they mixed. Therefore fiel: back again. The dreams of the rabbis

“on the kingdom of the Jews, which is in the Orient

I will remain silent about the fact that it is alleged to have existed.

soon with the heathens. The prohibition, further in the Temple

The sacrifice of Jesus to Jerusalem was the first cause.

this slope. As Tiglath Pileser to Dan and Sal Manasser at Bethel gave them the golden

—

N

“ri 1 | 49

After the calves had been taken away, they went back again.
to Jerusalem to sacrifice, but they heard, as Holberg notes, so that it will soon be back on because

Their idols had been taken from them. When the Music
When the piece is over, the dancers stop dancing!
However, it should be noted that the disintegration of the judiciary
The realm only happened when they went to Entsa

Condemnation of idolatry, the invitation of Hiskias, in the temple at Feru N al em to 1 accepted had.

After one hundred and twenty rides, it went out.
also the kingdom of Juda. Nebuchadnezzar summoned the

. the largest part of the nation went to Babylon, and left uur paar zurück, zur Wirbetrieb des arbauen -

- He: Part of the Jews turned to Egypt / en adopted the religion of the land and sacrificed to the “Gbtten Aegyptens. When Jeremiah told them this

When accused of cultism, they replied that it was them Nimer only went according to wishes when they had served foreign gods |

Their Loss in the Babylonian Songbook 5

It seems to have been tolerable. Some They held the highest state offices and Waitresses. entrusted. The Jews. kept each one.
but their old, ingrained hatred against all men
fchen, N t fagor. 8 i ® bie Bar,
D

i

30 1

Bylonians deal with them and befriend them
wanted to keep them, or if they suggested to them, to have fun with them, that's what they wished for them.

The Jews praised everything.
the Jelig, "who gave the little children of the Ba-Bylonians threw stones.

IV. The condition and fate of the Jews until

g for the destruction of Jerusalem.
After thirty years, Cyrus (Koresch) gave the Jews, freedom. Upon their return to Jeru-

Salem rebuilt the city and temple Josephus finds the cause of their liberation in the special providence of God, who, as he means that he lured the king's heart to such an extent that he allowed Jews to return to their country when he...

I heard the saying of Jesays. That prophecy of the Isaiah (chapter 45) is, however, the work of a younger man.
writer v). Jo sephus and other Indian spe

Historians go to great lengths to portray their people as a

A nation respected by all foreign peoples

stellen; but who would not know that the Jews we-

in their unwavering faith and we-

9 6. of the author Porphyrius, or last Prös
Promotion and defense of the Christian religion /
E.g.; and fine Hierotles, G. 61 f.

!

!

51

gen ihrer total meishenbass für den Hefen und Discharge of the human vagina

Were they? Temporary pity and character

Weakness sometimes moved the princes to treat them more leniently.

to treat; this mildness drummed damn their Ge shift workers as a result of their services to the Princes out. History gives a much natural one.

The cause of their liberation was that of the ver

Alleged prophecy of Isaiah. The Jews.
(they themselves play on it in their prisons CH. 137.)

It has already been said above that the Jews...

separated themselves from all other peoples, everyone persecuted with hatred, and it became the basic driving force made, all interaction and all community with to avoid other nations. The superstition, to which they surrender in an incredible way |

were, instilled in them an unbearable arrogance and even the dangerous arrogance that they would be the chosen will of God, and all other people

They would have to be wiped off the face of the earth. This Circumstances could easily have affected the circus in its endless activities.
...moving to wars, to let the Jews leave, because they are inherently inclined to revolt and were stubborn. He thought like Ph. arab, wel who wanted to exterminate the Jews so that they could...
Don't forget to use the foreign broadcast?
D 2

83

some and the Bingen residents murder colorful ones. Over
He believed the population of the proud baby.
to have to weaken lons; therefore he dismissed

not only the Jews, but also all the rest

Volker, whom Nebuchadnezzar led there had. The Babylonians were already without external stimulus prone to rebellion; Circus relocated

Therefore, a fine residence after Susa. Under Darius

The government nevertheless allowed the revolt to break out.

Cirus, although very fond of war, he gave but Nebuchadnezzar was in no way inferior to him in politics.
He had transplanted the Jews to his states,

to increase subtle power. Also Cirus would not have let her go if he hadn't... would have considered them bad and restless people,

That they might have their golden and silver vessels

returned, brings to mind and confirms the opinion that the king and the Babylonians withdrew

—

who must have wished for it no less fervently as once Pharaoh and the Egyptians. These They pressured them so much to leave the country that even the gold and silver and the rest of the food assets which they had lent them, and with which the Jews then went on.

After their return, they did build the | Temple reopened, but they were closed until the time

| ze 33

ten of the Maccabees successively defeated the Persians, Masubjugated by Cedonians, Egyptians and Syrians.

Superstition and priestly rule, which dominated the empire undermine and ultimately bring about the downfall of both Paths that had been brought about began again when:

The Persians saw Judea as a new colony never and encouraged the inhabitants to farm
They did not impose taxes on them any sooner,

as two brothers, who were above the priests
'would argue, kill each other in the temple

had. This disgraceful act gave the governor from Syria, which at that time included Judea,

An occasion to demand tribute. Josephus tells the story.

The incident was described as follows: "Bag also laid down..."

fes (the governor) to pay tribute to the Jews

They had to pay annually from the public treasury.

Pay fifty drachmas; otherwise die das nicht be-

Those who had paid were not allowed to make their daily sacrifice to bring about this, and the following incident gave cause for it.

The high priest John had a Brother, named Jesus. Bagoses was. to whom weighed the latter and promised him the high priests would. Fully confident in this promise, he now began. Jesus said something to his brother in the temple more freely to debate, a proper argument ensued, and here Jephthah brought his brother into the form of

>

57

- Kitten, that he was in the air of him. knocked down - ö
This ruthlessness was abhorrent, especially since from a clergyman; even more: such a fellow
The play of godlessness was present among the Greeks as well.
as unheard of among the barbarians. God allowed this Sacrilege not unpunished, "the people lost fine us dependence therefore, and the temple was built by the Persians contaminated. Because as Bagos
On the 8th day, the governor learned that the co-priest had murdered his own brother in the temple, came
He came forward and shouted angrily at the Jews: Your Abe Dare to commit murder in your temple!
to commit a crime? And when they tried to stop him, the
To enter the temple, he replied: How, do you keep me. for more impure than the corpse, which m
Where is the temple? With these words, he went inside.
This gave him the opportunity to get feverish from the Jews.
For years, tribute was paid to the victims.
demanded iz.
As Alexander the Great Toru bela-

gerte, he challenged the neighboring kings and Völker auf, sich zu vergeben und Proviant zu liefert.
But the Jews allied themselves with Darius,
. . en with the N |

9 Antiquil. 'yeah, Li. XI. c. VII.

| nn 55
Out. To punish them for this boldness, that He launched a hostile incursion into Zudaa. But the Residents of Jerusalem threw themselves down to destroy the |

To appease the king's wrath, with women and

(For children's delicate feet.) Josephus writes, in his and his people's manner, grace |

the king's miracle and the prophecy of the Daniel too. Daniel wasn't even alive back then.
not).

After the founding of Alexandria in Egypt, the king wanted to populate the city, and also invited the Indians, to whom he was not alone freedom of religion, but also all rights to a giftand, which he had granted to the Macedonians:
Their flattery, praise, and criticism
Cherries, to which Alexander was so sensitive, contributed primarily to its positive reception:
The anecdote about the ceremonial opening could also be told.
procession of the Jews, which Josephus leads, easily . participate if we only open our eyes to the

5 Jofeb bus ag O.

| The book attributed to Daniel | which contains these prophecies, became one of the Times of Antiochus Epiphanes a

S. des Verk. Porphvrius 1c. p. 448.

*

56 Br

Pull off miracles, and the stories with the Trier endearing, flattering and despicable Ka character of the Jews, and with the vain and raging To keep Alexander's self-absorption together, and then the superstitious little ones and fine Nazionale lie benden Jofephus emendiren. That was the one
- Main reason for their resumption in Egypt.

As Ptolemy Jerufglen and all Ju
After conquering the region, he led a large number of Ju:
they left for Egypt. Most of them let themselves settled in Alexandria, and from that time on they laid fie fi) on trade; they also shared these new ones

gradually, however because of the less favorable

in a similar situation, to a lesser degree those which are in Judaa had remained behind. The Tyrians had hitherto solely authorized all action, and Diefels be to the seas until the city of Elath, and from there through Rhinocura is widespread as far north as Tyre. Ptalema

We built a city on the Red Sea, which

He named himself after his mother, Berenice. There But since the port was too small, they made use of Skiers of the port of Mies Kormis. SO far

They came with their ships, which carried Indian, perfumachen, arabifgpen and Ethiopian goods belaf
These goods were transported on camels.
brought to the zone, then onto the Nile.

36

ship, and transported to Alexanderplatz. This City prof) then the whole Western world with the same goods, and took euro coins for them, which She sent her to India. Did that cause the hand?
lung Alexandriens fo fest Gründung, dass fie fast ft fi eb :
Fang was in their possession for ten centuries, until the Portuguese Vasco di Gama a way to India around the Cape of Good Hope discovered. Just like with the Tyrians, after the construction from Alexandria and after the establishment of the dorm | tigen. Hafens, almost all trade lost, so wür
b the English and the owners of Cape 1
have suffered a major decline in their business;
if it were the Alexander of our century (Bo naparte) would have succeeded in retaining Egypt, and to bring the Red Sea under his control. Ce-lui, writes a famous politician, qui remnit & 24 ans le commerce du monde dans Alexandria;
(ker means Alexander the Great) celui, qui ford
Univers etonne à suivre Timpulsion de son 9 genius; celui, qui trouva le point de communica; tion et. pour ainsi dirs, da jonction à ERurtpef Afrique et l Asia, dest à - dire, au monde alors tonnu; celui: la, dis-je, &tojt un grand homme: 7 when it's still there. Pas ete le general le plus ha;
les gt le meilleur Toltiquis de son n tems, cop:

*

me Ya bad - bien vu Nr, de Montesguieu, qui dit en habile observer: on ayez parle de la valeur de ce derts, parlons =

Prudence 8

After the assassination of Ptolemy of Phi, later Judea came into the power of the Syrians when but Antiochus was defeated by the Romans in 8

The Jews were once again under Egyptian rule. After the death of Ptolemy from Epiphanes

The Syrians, in turn, became champions of the country.

Unheard-of atrocities were committed in Judea, partly from Superstitions are practiced, mainly to... to attain the dignity of co-priest. This, and the un-

The Jews' deep and hostile hatred towards everyone
People, moved the Antiochus Epiphanes,

Jason, who was somewhat less superstitious, to make him a priest of the Holy Spirit. He established in Jerusalem a school "in which the arts and the sciences of the Greeks were taught.

To make the people more humane and cultured,
He used a fine name (his name was Jesus), and his religion, and thereby brought about so much that
The Jews became, in some ways, completely different people.

When they had become somewhat more human and they 2
Once they learned to despise the priests, they also began to

a.

| 2 Esai sur le despotisme, "Londres 1774 5 00

1

' =

the customs of the Greeks and their plays and

To extract flavor from dramas. The un-

The light was there, but it soon went out again. The Prie-

They made every effort to make Jason's reforms a success.

827

to suppress mation, and they finally succeeded.

But now Antiochus decided to... But...

believe to destroy with all their might and the Ju-to make them into human beings. To achieve this,

He confronted the Jews with their superstitions and the Stupidity of her cooking courage before; choosing one out-to keep God's chosen people. — The Jews believed firmly that the High Priest from-taken, no one without risking their life into the 5. He could enter the Holy of Holies. Antiochus sought him to dispel this superstition by he entered without injury, and fresh and healthy came out again, despite being a 'heathen',

To further expose the superstitious, f

He had a sow sacrificed on the altar, and with the Blood the tablets of the law and the holy books.

He did this, as the historians to cite, because he believed that those giggles

Jews were prescribed to hate all people, their

to harm them, and to turn them into the most gruesome ones bring. But what always happened, happened.
gen pBest. The Jews were N ung,

nn}

666 . |
more superstitious than they had ever been. The Superstition gave them strength and resilience, which no one had ever suspected the Jews of. Even Children preferred to endure the most gruesome torture.
gen, a miserable and shameful death, and all possible tortures before eating pork 0
had. Philo and the author of the second Buchs of the Maceabaers boast of this stubbornness
as a great achievement of the nation. When the Ver

When the situation came to an end, the Jews extended their Laws against pigs are being extended even further. They forbidden to herd pigs, this animal at Na to name men, and finally ordered pigs

To abhor meat, including human flesh.

in Distare 8 humana carne suillam, ö JuvrNAL. Sat.

(You 1 between pork and Human flesh is no different at all. °

That persecution led the Jews to the extermination of the Jews. doubt was the cause of their liberation.

Ju das of the Maccabees, and Jonathan, made to become leaders of revolting Jews

the army of Antiochus was put to flight, and went

They entered into an alliance with the Romans. Thus beka men the Jews again kings, among whom Hero o of which the Great one distinguishes himself, which secondly

117

5 7

8 ö 5 . 4

N 5

EN or

geifeaßen den Römer untertvsrñ, aber der

most powerful of the Jewish kings was; only in Abe

From the perspective of his refined family, he was perhaps the unhappy one.

fte. But superstition also affected this journey

That's an end. In place of the prophets Far various sects and fraudsters who Befreer called, and at the “downfall of the RN also met their deaths. e

Herodes won through flattery.
the grace of Augustus, but the Jews were still so despised that even the emperor “My fine nephew Caius praised him for having built the temple of the (who did not consider Jews worthy of sacrifice in it.)
This was a clear and unmistakable time.

of deepest contempt, because the Romans themselves

the worship of God of those peoples would otherwise not be possible
They paid attention to those they had brought under their yoke.
It also did Herod no good that he
Wu had built temples and altars in a slavish manner.

Tiberius forbade the Jews who were in Rome |

lived “beside religious practice, and commanded them, to leave Italy if they do not return within a certain timeframe.

would adopt the state religion by the deadline:
Some Jewish missionaries, who believed

D. Sueton. in v. August. Cap. 9.

were those who served the altar must also abide from the altar.
living, had a woman named Fulvia, who had converted to Judaism, a large She was lured with a sum of money. When her husband, Satu ruinus, who reported this to the emperor, commanded Tiberius, the Jews should immediately leave Italy leave; if they do not convert to the pagan religion

Those who wanted to confess should go immediately to Sardi-
They will not be deported. Josephus calls this
The order was cruel because it affected innocent people.
“5 So,” he says, “four monsters were made half, all Jews were forced to "leave the city." At the | Suetonius reads, but one cannot say that Tiberius did not have all not the cult of the Jews, but also of the Egyptians-Animal verboten and commanded, the sign interpreters, jestersler and miracle worker, as a swindler of the people, from the

to hunt the city; but he had forgiven the latter,

because she promised to refrain from using her art in the future.

hold. Those of the ulb id played fraud seem.

not the true and only cause of their expulsion-
2. To have been bung; if one does not assume Will, Tiberius believed that if
No fraud was committed, nor any butts.
Believing Egyptians, not Jews, fortune tellers and Miracle workers were given. The story seems to confirm this assumption. The increase

The quantity of Lilemange was extremely close to the heart of the Nömers.
Zen, such as the Lex Julia Papia Pop!
paea de' maritand. ordinib. „which. under the Au

The fact that ar guft was given shows very clearly. Under

Under these circumstances it is hard to believe that the Kai

They chased away three to four thousand people.
| should, because three to four of them were fraudsters.

Rather, the Jews were such a people with which the Romans did not want to fill the land with:

Tacitus explicitly adds this. When in Sardinia

a large number of expelled Jews lost their lives
When it had come, the Romans grieved greatly.

little about this loss, because the state through its Death caused no harm at all. "It would be a ge

"It was a bad turn of events for us," he said.
"if they are all affected by the unrest of the climate

The Karen were 9. The one who impressed Karak on the Jews.

22 8 25

to drive them out, while all the religious parties,

the Jewish and her mother, the Egyptian he

They were named and enjoyed equal rights. 5

It occurred to Caligula that Ju-to command them, they should have a fine image in the Aller-to set up near the temple. To those who ) Eel. II. Cap. G.

65

64343 "" 5

He commanded those who lived in Egypt to treat him as to worship a god. The Jews, although in the large

Despite the unrest, worship still prevailed.

arrested, and resolved to bring about the death of idolatry preferable. As great as the emperor was, he had to but to give in to the frenzy of the Jews, and took

Both nonsensical orders were returned.

The belief in abbots "which according to Herod & o- |

which had gained new momentum; generated

such a large number of prophets and saviors,

that, according to Josephus' remark,

would not be finished if one named them-wanted to perform. These jugglers, who

People who were promised freedom only accelerated

| its downfall. Swindlers led the Sus

into the desert, and made them believe that God rescued his people from the hands of the Gentiles.

free will. The governor of Judah, Na:

mens festus, let some such prophets onto the seize and, in order to show the people that they know sent by God, still with the gift of wonder-

Those who were equipped to do so would execute them. Egg
Some such windbags asserted firmly and firmly,
They would be the Messiah. The most dangerous one was... certain Egyptian F ,who thirty-baptized Jews had gathered under his flags, under which

e , e #

\.

*

3

You}

| were four-way, highwaymen. He led te fie aus der Mußte auf den Oelberg, und redente

ihuen before, on a word which he pronounces
The walls of Jerusalem were to fall.

menfallen; he then wanted to go to the city with his wife invade, slaughter the Roman garrison, and establish a new kingdom. — Felix, who

He was in Jerusalem, but he got there first and struck them down.
the rebels were put to flight, and some of them were thrown into flight.
Some of them went to prison, others he punished with the Death. The Egyptian saved himself and fled with ten through the rest. Paul, when he was in the Ges
"He was in prison, had the misfortune of being convicted of..."
looked at that Egyptian. (Acts: Chapter 21, Verse)

38.) In this revolutionary state, it remained Judaea, until Jerusalem was destroyed by Titus.
After that time, it was conquered a second time.

and the Messiah Baruch was executed. Since
At that time, Jews were allowed 5 more in Jerusalem |

a residence.
N Although the provinces because of the shepherd 0

the governors often instigated them, pi wur=

22

the whole people. That bad misfortune will be |
The fact that it concerned the Jews proves that the cause this unheard shepherd in the oral and . |

—

1 E

—

*

*.

1

7

Holberg finds that he must seek out the Jews.
they in their misanthropy and in their particular Stubbornness. "The Jews," he writes, "were

They differed in this from all other nations, that they had a loathing of strangers, and their

They avoided contact with each other. They did exactly that.

with intent on those under whose rule
They were alive. All foreign nations saw this as an insult, and this must be particularly true
the Romans, who rebelled against their vanquished

It is very striking for enemies to behave so graciously.
According to this, the Jews were also by nature tough, rebellious and easily prone to rebellion.

as the whole of history shows."

ar
4 ti

v. Stay of the Jews in the ee and the West. | —

Some since the time of the Babylonian captives and The Jews had spread into several regions N of the Orient, especially in Egypt scattered; after the victory over Pompey, which they also made known to the Romans. The promised

However, the land always remained their center, and

They regarded it as their fatherland, so to speak. After the destruction of Jerusalem, and also when the

2 Ex . A 6

* .

N " N

Plan July out, city and eipit down on build, mistake, mistake, they began, in the West to take their places of residence. *) 8 |

In Babylon, they had Meligious's holidays.
and citizenship. Sa por, the king of f 9 The poisonous Mephistophelean fumes, which the Sur

the ones from the squalid cellars, caves and
As they ascended to the crypts, they were put off by the recurrence.
,aufbaduug of the city and the temple. Main
"But in practical terms, they stopped working again, because they had meanwhile changed their way of life,
were devoted to haggling, to which Judda had helped them because of its location, it offered little opportunity, and Because they loved to wander around. Coming soon
Many Christians and pagans in the promised land 55 had settled there, and they had no hope,
To expel them. Otherwise, the steam would be trapped.

for the fulfillment of Daniel's prophecy. According to

However, more astute theologians considered that it easily occurred to the Turkish emperor men konne, the prophecy through the resurrection to thwart the construction of the city and the temple, so Dielten fie es für beßsser, die Wissagel nicht von to understand the reconstruction, but rather

ten years on the period of the Jewish War,
that is, five years that have long since passed.
This clever explanation makes the prophecy secure against all Turkish emperors.
A. d. V.

E 2 ö

68 on
Persia, but believed Judaism was in contradiction with the duties of man and citizen, and wanted to force the Jews to the

to leave one cult and join another take. He left the choice up to them. This Persecution had its usual consequences: the Jews were still being called and "or en by persecution in.

The government of Zenobia was against the Jews very favorable in the Orient. The queen seems to be at to have intended to confuse the Jews with the Christians to unite the states. She therefore called the Parliamentary Assembly.

lus of Samosata, who believed Christ to be a held a mere human being, to the bishopric of Antioch.

Through this, she sought the main doubt and

—

the main objection of the Jews: that the Ehriften Ab gods would be; to clear the way. But Zenobia died, and that was that. The Jews' luck had been...

The end. The Christians were so strong and powerful, that it was not necessary to amend the article of faith by to renounce the deity Christ. The Jews went then back to Persia.

Under the rule of the first Christian Kai

The Jews had a better lot than the heathens.
Those were granted freedom of religion.

denz diefe, however, were stopped by force.

the Geibmiche religion to N and the Christian to confess. This is proven by many hard 858 gray a laws)

At those times the fl 1
his civil rights; i.e. all Ermerbömitseliftans open to them as to the other subjects; that German citizenship rights had expired after Ans ton in all subjects for Roman citizens ers Hardness had. The cause from the nathsight of the Kaiser, in the matter of citizenship, was the small 0

Number of Jews in each city.
The government therefore noticed little of it. The second
The original point was the prevailing prejudice, which but even in our time many Christians have the fact that the Jews were denied citizenship solely for that reason would be worthless because they do not adhere to Christ believed. The third problem was the bad police.
of those times. The Christian emperors, instead of the same.

| to handle, they preferred to let themselves be drawn into religious strife

Activities. The Jews were tolerated because It was believed that the rights of the citizen had to be protected.
depending on 5 Gunhentbeleantüß and from

Br, SL 12. de Faganor. saerif. et Ne L. 15, 14. 16. etc. Cod. Theodos. L. 1. 2. 7. 10. etc.
Code Justin. "de Pagan. et Sacrific, cf. also of the vetifist Hietocles, © 18.

76 N ö ö „
to his religion. In that, they were completely in agreement.
right; they: but acted against their own grounds barrels concerning the Gentiles. Judaism itself verfannten fie ganz, unerständig es aller bußgerli which contradicts the existing order, and regardless of this, in fine entire circumference, according to the claim on the right"

ZJetäubiger Theologians, e.g., of Blessed Michaelis, with the greatest disadvantages and the finite im

| . the 5 | Be is.

| VI. cee. der due m Brand.

Be. x

=,

Under the great men
Jews already have many privileges. The ones in. Tous Louse were obliged to appear three times in Years before the door of a certain church-len, and then received a slap. Under Ludwig the Pious. received. they so much Mucht and Aefchen; that: fe; France, how formerly Egypt, had been subjugated, when the king had lived. Zedechias, the king's personal physician, represented the position of the "

, ägyptifchen (Jof ephs. He was considered a Black magician and master of the art of magic. He knew the N
King with fine hooves to delight, and fe |

A

7

To enlarge the view so that the admonitions
the bishop and the shouting of the priests, the comrades
They will destroy all of Christianity, nothing bore fruit. He maintained this reputation even un-Karl the Bald, whom he rewarded N
For subtle grace and affection — poisoned.
After that time, the fate of the Jews was very alternately. Under Philip Augustus, They expelled them from France. The reason for their Expulsion was their wealth, for they possessed
In Paris, half the houses are privately owned, and a large part of the inhabitants were in their wages and Brode. That was the natural consequence of the end.
Dentism. The government issued a peculiar

The reason for her proceedings was presented. She disseminated,
The Jews had a young man named Richardt, crucified, and this crime annually repeatedly. The riches of the Jews belonged to the
The tax authorities, and nobody doubted that the Expulsion of the Jews lawful, and the collection
The hung of their goods was justified because the Jews were heretics.
were. Soon afterwards they were recalled, ih
They didn't get the good stuff back, though. It came 45 also only a few to the back.
The French Republic has 1 the a '
Justly granted. It does not seem like an overriding question.

— 727

or supporters of a republic can do fine? Men Those who consider themselves unclean when they are with to bring the French together, want for citizens Held finely, the Jew wants to deal with the writings.
enjoy equal rights, but the duties

He will not share with him. The duty of Christ

I wonder if the Jews are indeed Muslims

To love the Jew is the duty of the Jew.

to hate the Christians. The law-givers. 5

denied · i in their constitutions the prejudice,

that the community and the social meal

with an unhappy class of people, the burger;

lichen. Honor be detrimental; and do not trust in the order.

It is in accordance with nature that the Jew, who minlitest person in bourgeois society, nus nochmuth, superstition and hatred against all

People, who consider it a disgrace to be with the best and most deserving fellow citizens at one table to spit! "With no doubt," says the author of the excellent Heinen writing: "about Jews

—

Ham and Jews,) Rightly criticized the French, that they in a rhapsodic

7

3 philosophical fevers a perfect equality
The estates have wanted him, rightly so.

9 Ben 11 e Eger

= ee

If one considers the execution of such an idea in relation to the Duration impossible; it is rightly believed that Inequalities of the bourgeois status of the people fchen, where not in the concept of human Nature, but in that of bourgeois society
"The equality which after the intentions of the understanders, restored

What should have been done only concerned the removal of all the childhood ailments which are not caused by nature, but were introduced through positive laws

(been.) "And despite all this being right, it looks

One doesn't realize how wrong one is when one believes that it is nothing more than a law required to bring the Jews to the written or to make French citizens equal. It is possible lich, the name of a Due and Palir legally to create 40; it is possible that the grandson of the

| The Marquis no longer bothers himself to be refined neighbor, the master shoemaker for fine gal"

to keep; but it is impossible for the Ju de, fo lange er Jude bleibt, niemals verforsessen kann, that he is a being of a different kind than his fran Zoist fellow citizen. The DAC, the Prince, the Comte, did these properties benevolently or forced to leave; an old law of their fatherland dab fie ihnen, ein neues bebärte fie derfel; fig

*

1

e

Never doubt the authority of the greatest of their base

terlandes, even then not, if they this Ges posit the effects of sheer superiority, the infatuation, or some other cause.

Renunciation of the need for civil rights, which

2. They disliked their father's voluntary departure.

*

lands, refusal to take an oath that would bind them to a would have bound a different order of things, all

if direct or indirect efforts, the

to change laws again; this was all they allowed themselves. With the supposed equality
The situation with the Jews is completely different. They were not the case in France, through to lose something in the new order of things; sis

They could only win. Those had to give their personal...

personal rights within the bounds of general rights | of the nation, to have an equal share with each to recover for the other citizen: this hinge

They contributed nothing, because they had nothing, and

Nobody wanted what they had, namely, their own national law and those arising from it;
the esprit de Corps, Nationalstolz, Separatismus u. s. w.; You have us the rights of the citizen

"Given," said the Israelites, "and you have a

You have fulfilled a duty that has long been incumbent upon you;

We want to make use of that. For the Deeds

*

1'

52 other people. Our fellow citizen Benjamin followed your armies with unsuitable needs;
then, and we will increase your assigns, like the sand on the seashore; but the law of Moses Our main code should remain: We are not to star after your empty count and prince titles but the far more sublime title of the property of
We cannot offer you a deity.
We will follow your laws if they pay the wages
God and our rabbi are not against it.
We want to promote the well-being of your state, if We will not diminish our own by doing so.
want to give you money to meet the needs of the au

give them up, but with our people we can we who belongs to the state at all, or to anyone else

individual citizens, neither for free nor for money the nenn and that is precisely why we also want to, in order to our
'To keep our honor and blood pure, quietly for us live, and neither worry about you, even less should we mix with you; for that
That would be idolatry, and we hate idolatry. This is what I find.
the citizens who made Frank rich through the children of Israel has received, and his liquors like it.
"answer when their supposed equality is violated by This type of citizen suffered a considerable blow has, and will subsequently suffer even more."

A

"Even Hagen the French said that the Jews
the citizenship granted to them, merely to be used for that purpose the, the most profitable often, especially: at to procure the army. The Jew as such, u Tann nowhere but in the theocracy, and of all | separated from other people, to be a citizen.
The future will tell whether the Ban 8 ge ae have. 3

VII. Fate of the Jews in Se.

In Spain, the Jews often find themselves on the...
| were most cruelly persecuted; yet they were nir
dende more numerous, respected and happier, ala in this persecution-ridden country. Under the Government of Alphonse, Alphonse's grandson

Greatly, the Jews subjugated the Spaniards,

like the Hebrews once were the Egyptians under the Mini stewardship. Josephs. The Jews took care of the he most important state affairs, and deal with the highest honorary posts. This is attested to by the Jew Lugath. "Among the Jews," he says, "there were at that time." wise statesmen, among whom Re was particularly prominent Abra Zanelke made famous." 50 e

f 9 "Fra quali vi furono kuomini di gran spirito
e Eonseglieri di stato; corne fu Abravanello. 4

S Holberg, iidifche geschichte, p. 22

'A Jew named Jo fep h, administered all Royal customs. Sons of royal grands wa-his servants; his expense, that of an Ab:
nigs. When he went out, fifty Li- followed him.
Vreebediente; and when he died, the whole
The army escorted the deceased body to Cordua.
The Jew Moses Abriel, a secretary of the Kdnigs, ward zum Vicarius und Präfidenten von Kaftilien raised. Thus all power and all

Rich people in the hands of the Jews. The spas.
| kidneys were almost exhausted by the bloodsuckers, from-pulled and treated like slaves. Finally fin-

They address the unjust usury of the 8 Jews to murmur, and to be sad about their unhappinessto lament such fate. The wealth, the.

Arrogance and the influence of the Jews made one

a very unpleasant contrast to the poverty that

Jurachtfamkeit and the submissive nature of the Spaniards:

They feared, not without reason, that the Jews might... then finally to completely subjugate the Spanish. At Under these circumstances, Ferdinand the Catholic would have

. if she did not need the pretext of religion /

to expel the Jews, and to seize their wealth to master more. The hunger and misery of the 9 S. Holberg aa G. eee

7

Yo.

to accept, or to leave the country.

des Basnage, 30,000 million ducats u with herself. to take away, with which. she looked towards others
They fled to other countries. A large number of Jews remained.

78 2 0 | a

—

Spaniards were so great that he needed the help of the superstition could have been dispensed with; all Spaniards would have joined forces with him if the Jews Wi had performed at the stand. At some Grands |

However, hatred gave way to compassion, whether the Jews

They didn't deserve the latter either. It was stated that

The king was told that the people would refuse expulsion.
the Jews can be attributed solely to the court's greed, because he wanted to appropriate their property. Among these Doubts arose when the court consulted the king's confessor, Named Tureeremata to Council. This one said,
One could reach the same via a slight detour.

Zivee reached them. He advised the Jews to... to leave in the country, but only under the condition

The idea was that they should be baptized. One took [something]
Council, and commanded the Jews in the year 1492, bins
In four months, either the Christian religion
Despite the Spaniards' best efforts, to seize the wealth of the Jews, so
The latter nevertheless succeeded in obtaining insurance.

| but also back again, those who were baptized, and out

They were Christians. They raised their children

art R 79

likewise outwardly to Christians, and brought it through these tricks so far that if not only bourgeois, but even ecclesiastical and episcopal Were clothed. Since the Spaniards and their Priests and clergy considered it sufficient,
If only the Jews would be baptized, then they could
The latter, moreover, remained loyal to the union of their people.
remain and their separation from the other citizens
the more strictly and sacredly they observe were forced to abandon their inner convictions hide. Therefore, the Spanish had no knowledge of the expulsion nor the conversion of the Jews its actual benefit. Because after the Jews had been baptized, i.e., since they to pretend to be Christians, be-They served their rights as citizens, which included they had been leached by baptism, merely to the point of,

to deceive the Spaniards in broad daylight, and through to reduce usury to the beggar's crook. This ver-united forces, namely the secret Separatist-= must of the Jews, which they among themselves firmly entrenched-binds, connected with the same citizenship rights, Spain owes all its misery and all its ar-
'muth, unerwohl der fspanische Antteil von Ameri-ka is the gold mine of all Europe. 95
2 The laziness, indolence and carelessness of the spa-

7

7

-

ga 7 8

This two Zubeiömnns Sat fich von Generation to generation reproduced, monks, nonnen, Kanonici, Biscffe, the highest state officials-

he, even an assessor of the Holy Inquisition, stood 5 2 Part of these Jews converted by force
"The secret Jew Orob ib assures that the
| however vigilant she may be, this deception |

*

(cannot prevent pregnancy.) The rabbis gave = to prevent such frauds from being committed against the Jews.

For example, if the secret Jew in the church...
. Brod in . en heben fahe, 11 fschluss er a 5 en

ner, their ebusiness, and the complete lack of Suduftrie, combined with diligence, thrift
The activity and industriousness of the foreigners, which Those who have settled in Spain are likely to probably closer causes of the great poverty of the 'Spar. u

"never fine; than the fraudulent activities of a number of young people"

the one which opposes the number of actual ones

residents and against those of foreigners, as a whole =

but only Ir insignificant iR;
5 A. d. uche. |
0 If the Shenians didn't come here, clouds would bloom.
to be, so they also didn't have to go south into violence to force into Christenthum. Ste iR find an [eis i

= 5 scbud |
j N. v. Ulber Eee

Ms

S

, ;
1 T *
Se :
. A z + 2
\ ä 81

5 indeed, 510 the 1 on the e Bf, but said to himself: "Woe to those who look at such things."

and believe! " Orobio, who this and "meh.
who told similar examples, and doctor in spa Nien was, confesses of himself, that he secretly 5 to be a Jew. "How often have I befallen a sinner."

"Bowed before Baal" According to his claim
The Spanish monasteries are full of Jews, and Even priests are devoted to Judaism. "Ka-."

noniti, Inquisitors, Bishops, find in the heart Ju the.") Chess Abbas in the Orient took himself before, the Jews because of their abominable usury and because of their outrageous frauds, from which 8

To hunt lands if they are not Muslims

He abandoned his fine intention again, because He noticed that the converts... always in 8 and 5

vn RR of the Jews in Germany.

Already at the beginning of the tenth century

There were many Jews in Germany. "In the eleventh century, they

| fie von einem Priest, Namen Gotts chalk ver=

says, which one will exterminate with > robbers

Ber 5 1 5 „* *

| 9. Limboreh. On: Collat. 01 “05 ©. 102. f.

8

82

wanted. This mob also attacked Christians, and Therefore, Gottschalk was awarded a large Parts of fine pendants, beaten to death. As if by When the Crusades first emerged, they started with the murder of the Jews, in order to gain divine grace= to earn money, and to murder the unbelievers=

to receive excellent support. In the fourteenth century
In the 19th century, Jews gained great prestige.
They leased the public customs duties and devised new ones.
Conditions. The rulers at the time considered it a great merit, to devise such things, sia

They therefore thought very highly of the Jews, and this [became];

the folly and insolent. But they committed the Un-caution, the clergy and the monasteries, at Collection of taxes, not with quite so much

To treat with leniency, like Christian genealogists

They cared for each other. Moreover, they carried out the greatest Wu:
dear, and thereby attracted widespread hatred to. The emperor and the princes, however, took them in Protection, because they needed it for their finances,
And so the exploited people did not dare to speak the truth.
to exhibit fine wetness;
until the plague broke out in 1348, the cause of which was... one blamed the Jews. On this occasion¹ whom she pursues in the most gruesome way. The persecution However, this was not universal. Therefore,

83

that they were welcomed with open arms by other princes were taken. The princes believed that through

These general tenants receive their income from ae |

—

But they forgot that the tribute which the Ju-

whom they had to slay, from these subjects and was especially taken away from those who had it taken away again, de-

9

The princes themselves will not impose any new taxes.
wanted to, because they considered it harsh and cruel.
The emperors retained the right over everyone else, in my opinion.
Princes were supposed to keep Jews; therefore it is said in Schwabenspiegel: "The king gave the Jews

Titus's own in the king's chamber, before

They should still find the Reich's servant, and he will follow for also umbrellas." (Chapter 146, f. 4.) The emperors This right was also granted to the imperial cities and Imperial Estates. Some cities were granted them.

imposed, various therefore requested the Privilege, to be free from the Jews. When that When the emperor fell, several Germans took action.
Princes also imprisoned Jews without imperial permission.

Charles IV declared in 1347:

"that all Jews with body and with property into our

Chamber gehdren and in our power syn, that we can do with it and let it be whatever we want."

In the Golden Bull, he confirmed the Elector but to include Jews. In the full |

F 2

7

—

©

84

order of 1448, Ti. 20, is all Keschssün =
va das ug an Juden z ae

XI. 84am der Bo! in Dot. 94

If the Jews had a fatherland besides Palestine

could have, so Poland would give this honorary name men earn. It is useful to have an eye-opener.

2 gen about it. "The Jews," writes Ha n
They have managed to achieve this in Poland.
2 that they become, as it were, a political body. He watch, and have become completely indispensable to the country they are. They are not only in all those places, where the community was strong enough, Kohele and Sy erected nagogies; those established by the rabbis and Ael

They are not only governed by teften, but also have the whole
Land, in the manner of the religious orders, in province divided into ten, of which one often several Palatinate

| understands itself. Every such province, or the
The foreman of each church held his regular meeting.

The fammenfünfte and Landtage had their elders and elected from among their number a deputy who went to Warsaw, where the deputies of all

Provinces comprise a so-called Generalitat

ten. al es ward ein. Marshal appointed, der

a

2

85

his attachment 6 of the Ministry of Abet and the Jewish nation ruled as chief, its tax determined, and their juteresses at the Republic were true took. Now this marshal's post was indeed, so like the entire general staff, under the government of last king, Stanislaus Poniatovsky, |

abolished, only the Esprit de Corps was

this form of government has reinforced it among them.
already according to their Indian laws in every Stnate, in which they settled "a special constitute the state. The leaders of the Ecclesiastes They constantly maintain their secret correspondence under each other, report to each other in great haste every favorable or adverse incident, and unite their council

Blows and forces for the good of the nation, without that their measures can be discovered so easily.
To make oneself indispensable in the country, or rather their restriction and expulsion very
To make things more difficult, they have partly taken most of the capital N love of the nobility and the clergy in themselves bring, partly the domestic Christians to certainty to render all food sources completely unusable ö known. In view of the first, the other appeared her father's game, which is so often played in other countries
They were looted, which is completely contrary to what one might expect from Poland.
to necessitate means, they thought so. there,

a
on “the Christians into the necessity Ben |

| to support them themselves, and to ensure their preservation

-

| worry if they do not have the most substantial part of it

They wanted to lose their assets. Every Kohele therefore formed a kind of bank and founded They used their credit as best they could. The nobility and the Clergy who were able to win seven percent and | otherwise didn't know what to do with their money,

They offered them money in excess. The coal

They pursued their interests correctly and increased them.

This quickly gained their trust. Initially

| although one was careful enough to distance oneself from the ground

rule of coal for the borrowed capital to provide a guarantee, which this will cover the cost.
more willing that, since they through the enrichment of their Jews accrued such great advantages, and they at

The end did not come to fulfill their promise.
believed he could be forced. After and

But after, since the credit of the Jewish community always
As it grew bigger, nobody thought about a top grade anymore.

5255756544

the, ; that for her real cheeks by far exceeded. If the Christians had now the Ju= restricted, 'so letters would be immediately written

They have that they no longer pay for their interests=

They could, and one would have wanted them completely.

*

; Ä 8
gen, fo ware man nicht nur um die=Intersens, fon=
dern n now a large part! of the ee 90
“

To the second kind, f 0 dete dun ma

To reach the gel, they removed it through external means.
regular increase in lease payments and through Bribery of officials, all Christians from the Breweries and inns, the mills and various other trades, so that in short no only one of the native Christians left in It was possible to pursue such a trade, and that in Gaul, after the Austrian possession assumption, not a single letter to be found in the country was, to which a brewery, inn, upper mill

had been entrusted to kdunen, and many

5 ndthigt fahe, zu diesem Behufe erst . autz
Let Germany come. ee
The anger to lease everything went before to the point that in some places the Christian Baptism was leased to the Jews. Who Since I wanted to have my child baptized, I had to ask the Jew to buy the key to the baptismal font, which he which sometimes proved costly. The Jew demanded many ducats, he let himself be idly dealt with,

and finally took one: upper, to the
The money's preference.

83 | - - £

'The Jews almost seized Weberbied' entire trade. In most German cities. Received ten fie the right to citizenship. They pursued various interests.
Crafts, but only those that do not require too much required exertion of strength; agriculture
However, and all the tedious handling of hiberliex -
They eat the Christians. The undermining,. they eat them.
through the bribery of the powerful and the judicial authorities Knowing how to insure people, put them in a position to to do everything; and one can, without the
To exaggerate the matter, "to claim that the Jews in Poland, after the nobility, the most powerful country They stood out. Incidentally, she found it almost...

everywhere, in home and clothing extremely impure, always intent on deception, and persecuting

among themselves far more violently than they were by the
" 1. be persecuted.") 2,

This is the best refutation of the Jubdenberg To

PP which claim the Jews would Good citizens are created when they are given that They were granted citizenship. In Poland, they all had citizenship.
The rights of a citizen, but the republic would have been able to lan
N 2 Hansen geogr. and Ratif. Night. of the Kingdom.
Galicia and Ledomia, in Boeliner ms
15 large estates, Vol. IV, p. 197 ff. a

En, 832

Ger. bestauden, | so would the Jews go after and after the nobility had been subjugated, just as they were.
nen. so the rest of the people subjected

They did occasionally engage in agriculture -

© 7 But how did they submit to this Gee creates? They used. Christians, who like Slaves had to build the field. SO ei

N ee 3 Bo, Far

5 x Ae of the Jews in because of.
ö gau Ung A were 5 u
formerly, the Jews in the cities and in the countryside.
They had their residence and sy in Pressburg Nagogen. Under the pretext that they were the Hete Hostie derfpottet hten, wurde sie aus der

Scud expelled; the true reason for their expulsion

But bung was their shameful and dirty way.
Dear. They prevented all Christians from rising. a
All trade and commerce was in their hands;
including all their wealth. They lent out money,
and thereby brought all the buildings, vineyards, Aecker and other properties in themselves. To quickly... a
To get there, they pay attention to the judge.
immediately the . after, fohalh fie he 98

that the debtor has no cash on hand.
Since the judge granted them this, they bought
The properties were sold due to a lack of money.
at a lower price than the debt amounted to.
This gave them the opportunity to [do something] the Magistra to make the governors of the province white that they suffered harm every time they saw Christ
They borrowed money. Those people rarely understood it, or They were in cahoots with the Jews. When they but today's town hall, the chapel at the funeral

Nam Chtifti, and other public buildings in themselves

had brought, and almost no one went further than the Jews, money was hard; so they had to, as above: said, leave the city. This Yuswankerung is sufficient.

Binger's actions were not at all advantageous. They let to be located on the so-called castle, quite near the city, and in the surrounding area down, and deprived the city of its taxes, which They otherwise had to pay. They don't haggle.
Alone in all streets, but now they have it too.
secondly, that they were given things and money
pa En Lünfer brings. |

two Jews in Algiers, he
 g. e may the Indians no~~r~~ to own a Gtatftöcke. Sir. to live oppressed and

*

91
 despised, and made their way through the dark color distinguished by their clothing. Overall, they are ignorant, superstitious, and fanatical to the highest degree Grade; they are also cowardly, vile, cunning, fraudulent. Among the most respected and richest
 You can find some who are nothing but lies and

They were deceptive and put together. When their crossing
 The author writes about the Mohammedan faith fer the news and remarks about the Algiers state said the following:) "The f Juben decide to take this step, entwe~~r~~

who sought revenge on their fellow believers, = or to escape a sentence imposed, or finally, for ambitious and selfish reasons~~r~~ ten." But the Algerians are so clever, they know the Jews...
 Their conversion did not in any way grant them the right of mining.
 to grant. They require other qualities, than the mere profession of faith; "for; sets
 The aforementioned writer added that he had such a Renegade possesses excellent knowledge; he lacks it.
 in skill, bravery and courage, and ge~~r~~
 ngen him some complicated ventures, where~~r~~ by rendering a service to the government; thus it will
 "ge den Köloris, oder den eigentlichen Bürger" equally valued "and can lead to * HE
 | 2° Altona 1798. Th. IS 22. e

to arrive. Overall, it is believed that here too Lands, that everyone does best when he is at He remains true to his religion. It is even despised and Shows distrust towards every renegade, and
This is not without reason: because most of these Defectors confess in their hearts neither to
u. aa N BE Pe

Pa:

11. Suden in Boland.

In the land, the Jews lived more safely and for more freedom.

higher than in Holland, where almost all citizens

The conditions were rightly agreed upon. Mainly, keep in mind... fe fich in Amsterdam, Rotterdam and in Hague is drunk. In other cities you'll find few.
or none at all. The freedom whose existence was in those cities
The enjoyment is so great that Uriel Ac ost a said:
"If Jesus had come from Nazareth to Amsterdam,
and the Jews wanted to crucify him again,
No one would be able to prevent this. 2 eu The

to them the Christians their impoverished position, = and Moses Mendels fohn believes the example the Wellune de one. 9 fine Bali, and 9 Helge eie &

. a 98°
and irrefutable proof of blindness of the peoples and especially the princes, who this
They did not imitate this example. These mere illusions!

They won't disappear if you have 10 things, but they're...
shines.

1. Not all Dutch people like the outdoors.
and convinced of the indispensability of the Jews.

We have already reminded you that the Jews, vermd=

ge the close connection to which they are one= other by the provisions of their laws, by their renewing superstition and the cruel treatment ge= are forced to do what they were told by the Christians.

have often experienced the action in a

have mastered böheren Maaße „ als der Wohl=

The journey benefits the Republic. They have often been tempting.
The riches of the Jews provoke the envy of the Christians,) and opened to the princes, the citizens and
The authorities turned a blind eye. As an Amsterdammer Jude the screed of his house with ducats pfla=

star, and silver window bars on fine windows who wanted to put it up, the magistrate advised * of

9) The real reason for their persecution 1 all countries. They were always more diligent, more savvy.
more and more industrious than the natives; f sogluch N
. 155 . .

9444 BF

Define intentions so that the rabble doesn't break into the house

| and wanted to plunder the Jews. ö

Br, the whole of Holland lives by hand!

95 The Jews therefore belong to the class of pros
N dozen citizens. Should the case be about Whether you want to lose weight in the short or long term, the ge= fchäfte fstille fstehen oder sich verkleinern: dann wer; which the Jews degenerate into mere parasites, and uniquely from the industry of the citizens, like Num Meln of the diligence and work of the bees

'years; as is the case in all such states is, which is not supported by the "e be stand. ö

| 3. Holland and England altre in ihten

Only a few citizens ever receive anything because they are from to buy soldiers from other states for cash nurture. There is therefore the fear that the Jews, if they ever become too powerful, the | subjugate the other citizens Un: u fehr duck |

a Although separatism about Jews |

Re in Holland very visible is, so let the similar

be looking for something there, because they are in por

Distinguish between Tugiesian and German Jews.
Both classes despise each other, each is beuzidet
the others their riches and ensures that the other one was not too rich and powerful. Overzealous Gens find. The Portuguese Jews less so, though!

U

|| 2 95

3. Believing; also find them more humane than the others,

Spinosa, Orobio and almost all the famous ones: Jue
They were Portuguese or Spanish.

18. They hold: mainly in the ge named three cities where they took action

They only do business with rich people, fat that they are their main area in the other states.
most pleasant business with the innermost part of the Na sion, at least with the one who > whom e lacks cash. | 1

h. They flattered the Dutch

burch small gifts and alms, which They gave it to the poor. Simple people, who who do not realize the intentions of the clever Israelites ten, and watched their alms distributions, publicly claimed that the Jews exceeded the Honorable [in the first virtues, in welfare

tigkeit and mercy, and it is therefore grey sŷam, such righteous and from all religion
Vushaffe freed people because of their dissimilar

*

whose creed, to be pursued with wetness |

and to deny them citizenship; over ea man the conviction things

in matters of religion according to their own conscience.
6) They referred to such examples.
afterwards 2 en fr. everywhere succeeds 1 88 ie Malice. N

3 if ber portugjefische =

In de Dakortha Althias President of the an Kammer r ae u: e
a. u = RI Schi

— The Jew Yinede a in fine Tefta
They gave the Christians enormous sums. I want from Holzberg's story, the content, fine tea Copy the will. 1. I bequeath to the city
(At Amsterdam) “five tons after my death
1. Golden. 2. I lend the same without interest on a V one and a half million. 3. I give a ‘Every Christian church in Amsterdam on and 1,000 bulges. 4. The. Suyder Church in Amsterdam a guilder. 5. To every Christ orphanages in both cities, 10,000 Tha
ler. 6. To the poor, 40 shiploads of peat. 7. |
To the Waifinkind; which first enters this house.
Let's say 1000 guilders, and the one immediately thereafter
e 5 guilders. 5. The Portuguese Er nagoge in Amsterdam two and a half tonnes Goldes. FR 9. The Portuguese Waiheiihaus
30.00 Thalers. 10. I lend the government against E
Six out of one hundred, ten tons of gold. The interest
They were said to have attacked the Jews in Jerusalem.
Caplal, however, remains the one forever, without

5

7.

.

-

PX

XIII Bowl of the Jews in Gaul. h 5

On the situation of the Jews in this country — from their power and prestige, which made them have subjugated the entire province — by which the Kuntgriffe fie alle Handlung an fi geriffen — how they reduced the peasants to begging, 5

...oppresses the citizens, and the benefits... have misused Joseph the Second: — | all this was written by the author already mentioned above, as an eyewitness and statesman, in his a treatise: On Judaism and Jews, N excellently presented; I therefore refer the reader f on him. te ee

to ever remove such things again. 11. I 1 15
The German synagogue, sooo 12 guilders. My Relatives, Peter Oris, 21 tons of gold, besides house and farm. 13. My left behind Widow of 10 tons of gold. 14. My remaining Relatives 10,000 Thalers. 15. To each of my neighbor, who was at my funeral
If the gang is present, 100 ducats. 16.
Every unmarried male person and female sex who appear therein will be 100 guilders. 17. To each priest in.
Amsterdam and The Hague 100 Thalers, and one each the sexton said Thaler. ©. Schudt Memorab. Jew.
L.. IV. c. 18. De Be 8

In the interest of the notorious states, it was noted Hartmann, that the slow progress of cities and villages mainly for the Jews
"Be measurable." Peter the First of Russia exclaimed.
People from all parts of the world, in his Land; but he absolutely forbade the Jews.

| XIV. Proof that the essence and the Nature of Judaism, the reception of Jews as citizens, stands in opposition.

| So find the Jews, according to the testimony of the Ge

Obtain a layer. Is the youth also being examined?
Denthum closer and more precisely, so one can see that the Jews could not obtain it otherwise, and that if they were supposed to be more humane, necessary to abandon their customs and They must stop being too refined about Jews. Judaism
This contradicts their naturalization, or Rather, Judaism is tearing apart the bourgeois society:
Constitution, and without harm or ruin of the Citizens can deny Jews the privileges of the same.
will not be granted. The essential points of the Judaism undermines sociability; it...
They act as a state within a state, and aim to do so.

L

11

|

1

ab, to give the Jews power and bi to make the remaining citizens their slaves. I will cite the main reasons, nA

The first reason lies in their religion, in their concept of the deity, in connection

dung, in which she believes she stands with the deity

They imagine they are God's special ones.

whose property, finely chosen people “the

The other nations would be expelled by him. They

They therefore claim that they imitate God's example

men, and no community with other people and didn't have to socialize. In the valley mud, a beech tree which is little known to them

steus has just as much authority as the writing ten Moses and the whole Old Testament, who who reiterated and explained these principles.

If God hates all other nations, then pursued, and if he promised to help them

To eradicate the stump and stem: that's how one should treat them

Do not hold Jews responsible for the crime they committed.

following God's example, all other people act, i.e., if they hate them and... ab-shy away. The Jew acquires divine grace, if he does as God does, and has a beto expect his favor. The-

The concepts do not follow solely from quite undeniable sources.

|
,

100

“*

felnden Prämissen, „fordern werden in 1 auseven ordered by oppressive laws. They over They invoke laws whose divine origin...
Christians acknowledge which of them all associates-
Prohibit under penalty of pollution. One |
See, for example, the fifth book of Moses, chapter 7, verse 1.
7th B.C. 16, v. 22nd to 24th Palm 137. b. 10. —.
Jeremiah promises the Israelites that God will save all Nation, out of love for his beloved people,
I will destroy. Chapter 30, verse 11. In the Talmud Liese laws are repeated and the shown.) 2,
II. Already these concepts of God and the on-
The laws enacted seem sufficient to ensure the Jews from the end to the end. But 25

ax 4

"In the treatise. A vada Sage one reads, according to the Translation of Eifenmenger, that it is the Jew who is not allowed to go into the well

- liked to pull out 7. The Gojim Calle. *)
Non-Jews) are not drawn by beauty, (if

95 This 10 is nevertheless incorrect. The Jew does in the ge < "my life as in book language, a precise one difference between Goi N', (barbarus, a heathen, Artheist,) and Arel. (uncircumcised, a "Uncircumcised." Christ, like everyone who...
Believing in a god will never be among the first, always included among the latter. a A, v. I

7

101

to Moses, who himself and the Priesterii the Jesus

.raelites submit, and an eternal thought:

niß ftiften wollte, (sich ihnen nie nord) nicht hinläng
He thought up and wrote them another one so big

A large number of ceremonies were planned, so that he would later * left no room for legislators to Duties of man and citizen to be write. The ceremonial laws make the process...

Interaction between Jews and other people is impossible, because the Jew, without defiling himself, with a not even from a bowl

(they fell into a pit) The reasons for This law contains three: "One does not make a covenant with the idols, and it is forbidden to do this to have pity on the ebbel. "And if no favor of his will be granted him
"show." The second reason is: "It's held back."
not "for his nights." The third: "If one: Goi pulls out, so it is located that one receives him as an idol." Eifenmenger beweler in the second part fine book, that the Jews who do not consider Christians to be their neighbors
nen. "For example," he says, "in all the places where It is said, fine next: there is in the law

Mo sis is an idolater (Gol) not with one

"In the words of Mafe: "if you

"Through your neighbor's sowing you go," will be the announcement.
Note made: through the words: your 8
Next, the seed of the goyim will be taken out.

10 S | 8 N
may. According to these premises, the Mosaic Gefetzen highlights the essential aspects of civic duties, and force the Jew to the sovereign's court
If he feels too weak, put him in secret, and, if he dares to transgress publicly;
ten. These essential duties of the bung
The following are approximately how things go.

1. The Jew may, if he is after judged by the Mosaic laws, never

Being a soldier. I'll pass it over in silence.
"He is not allowed to worship on the Sabbath men. This author also proves in detail "that who Christians are not only devoted to the Goyim[≠] not only to be understood, but also always to be understood.

often the names Edom, Rome, Roman Empire,

the godless Esau, the kingdom of Edom, the

The realm of the accursed Edomites, the Realm of the Fourth Sea Captivity, the godless Roman Empire, occurrence. Bushing writes in the History of the Jews, § 72: "One I cannot agree with the statement that the current religion
The Jews' commandment of hatred and insult the followers and adherents of other religions contain; for the opposite is evident, and

The next person who should be loved is, according to her ancient teachings only. The fellow believer." See ö den nn me mens Merian
| Mi Bi Bi:

U

BP BE . 1403
ten; and just note that his upkeep is for.
It is impossible during the time of war. The Jewish Sol.

Data would have to be given to Christian servants,
which served them, and for which they performed the service

erected, as long as the Jew from time to time is prevented from doing so. They themselves admit that fie in kind find, die der Darung zu verdie[≠]

No, but rather buy from the soldier's granary.
They get rid of them with cash. Do they now give up because of this?

5 E not to understand that the other people around for the sake of the Jews, and find their slaves, which who do all the work in their place, and for themselves

The salvation of the Israelites rages, they must be beaten sen 2— Wouldn't they also be a few years old, if The country should get into war, almost all reasons to pull pieces towards oneself, and gradually the action
tiv citizens surpass in number and wealth, especially since they marry very young, and like
How to breed rabbits? * If in war,
Hartmann rewrites, one hundred thousand Christians:
come, so the state will lose in twenty years
at least half a million new ones Souls. Consequently, so many Jews, who to remain alive, to multiply by the same amount.
But it is not merely the death of Christians through War and the misfortunes in peacetime, which the 4

14 |
Jews have superiority. It will come b nch bn to the point that the Jews for a quarter of the fruit are more fertile than the Christians, who value fertility through religion and customs and through their

Equality is created. Christ despairs of all equality for the future, and if I am the

The beggar does not take revenge on the nobleman in any other way.
can: so he says: there we are all equal. The
But the Jew says: No, here we are equal;

Even the smallest person has so much beer, and maybe Expect more than the biggest. - You can see also that no Jew should be considered inferior to another.

has the utmost respect. One only shows each other such respect.
Far, far more. Attention, than one might expect from the Ge It's because of work. This equality makes, that they also find it less appealing to: to feel superior to others | to raise awareness of their splendor and extravagance in
To destroy food, clothing, and drink against others.
genes and their "forces, from the side of the body and to weaken the state of the assets.
The behavior of women contributes a great deal to it rer fertility. Just like these from the Spar Samaritandom. And the strict life of men. Av.
must participate; and generally under one stricter discipline than Christian women know
So there are other customs besides that; Ber.

103

those, which together contribute to,

that marriage must be blessed. The early...

Marriage is a widespread practice among Jews;
and when many thousands of Christians exhaust themselves with Those who get married between the ages of 30 and 40, so...
Here too, the Jews win at the Bes

| population. From this one can sufficiently deduce the

Predominance of Jews intentionally created by the population and reproduction before the writings decrease.

Since it has its basis in religion, it must be always irrevocably moving forward, and must be considered then appear even stronger and more vigorous if the = Jews would have the right to citizenship, and consequently in "The promotion of marriages would be unrestricted." See above.

Investigation c. p. 196. The damage which the states through the increase of the Jews, he suffering, the aforementioned writer deduces from fol based on the following principles: "With thousands of superficial Jews 'the entire state loses at all times annually a several 40,000 Thalers, and wins if at the

Instead of Christians, several 80,000 Thlr.
Furthermore, how do the Jews pay their taxes?
And who actually has to pay for it? The brave one.
A Jew who neither sows nor reaps; certainly not to but poor Christ, who has the misfortune, whom,
- To fall into Zeben's hands. One can only...

—

106 |

Assume that out of 1500 Jews, 500 always die.

längen find, the true and real occupation can find. If 1,500 Jews next to the useful to Christians, trade and commerce were, what a flourishing such a land must have been. But 1000 of them will certainly be a burden on the state, and

Despite their taxes, they cause more damage than before part. — Trade, commerce, the city te, will be solely through them, the complete ruin from

It was established. One would never discover it better than when the Jewish community as a whole loses its food supply and had to justify acquisition costs; two

A third of them would certainly be completely new.

laubte and überflüssige, dem Lande zum Nachhave sufficient employment. Completely

Germany calls to its servants for mercy.

against the usury of the Jews, and all different

The leaves announce how far he has progressed in the June of the food supply penetrated

is. It's not just the civil servants who are concerned.

Jews as serfs; not just the nobility and the Soldiers will be reduced to slavery for many years; FR

No, it goes so far that the goods of Fabrizio
The edges of the chair are already pledged, and in
In some places on the tree, the fruits are already there, which will only ripen later.

Vöechsen are supposed to be insured against the usurer. What

u

"107

10. The reason for this? Idleness, and because two-thirds of the Jews have no other food
To have the means to breathe air, rather than usury alone and fraud." S. Investigation of whether the bourgeois che freedom den i to ö

= 173.

2. The Jews tremble annually.
and eighty-two holidays, and only the
They work during the fourth part of the year. During this time

Under certain circumstances they would have to completely abandon agriculture each time -
break, as often as a holiday occurs; it falls |

thus into the eyes that the Jews as Oekono humans cannot feed themselves. The objection that fie nichts defless Gegenwart, bei allen ih Earning their bread on days off work is irrelevant, because they based all their business on the Restrict land use, and because every citizen, yes

the government itself, which organizes the fairs and markets

because of the Sabbaths and Jewish holidays

—

lays down, to follow the Jews. This, however, can in other trades and especially in the countryside

The economy doesn't find it flat. N

3. So incapable are the Jews of farming Fb;

They were also so clumsy with the craftsmen.

One overlooks the obstacles which arise from the four

x len holidays of the a originated, and take |

*

.

that a Jewish exile to a Syrian May

Eight should be given into instruction. Take that the Christian craftsman the Jew |

The apprentice was treated well; nevertheless, he will

the other residents of the house, and especially free fellow apprentices and journeymen everywhere in Paths fly. The apprentice is not allowed to eat.

what the master dines with his fine wife and family.

If he does, he eats ham and pork.

at cost nn Negro a bort er et 7

au en

When the master craftsman prepares to go to work, & and says a fine morning blessing while working,

ö fo may he meanwhile the Jewish apprentice no

They give work because the Jew is not allowed to work,

if he has not performed his morning prayer, which |

which must happen at sunrise. The.

(The strap, which he wears around his arm and head.)

e Aa an der an in St au

2

e

59 . find two calfskin straps, Ta called phylim or prayer straps.
rder · Jewish boy reaches the fourteenth year har, Thus, these Tephilim will be given to him under various N
"...given Seiertipfeiten, and he takes them with him into the Grave. In each of them is a small en Kapfel; oine —. die ichen Vor, © 1 working quietly while everything around him falls apart resting, and everyone is cheerful and in good spirits? Much

5

*

The master was easily bestowed upon the hardworking apprentice.
and certainly not make a friendly face, especially since,

if he. the work a . . ver

ee 18

and the story of Abraham's Spee of the Isaac. When the Jew recites his morning prayers he fastens the capsule with his toes
on the arm, above the elbow joint, wraps Wrap the strap seven times around your forearm, and let

a piece of strap hung down to his body.

The second strap is tied together, and can comfortably over the head, in the style of a bandage will be hanged. As long as he prays, he keeps both. Straps in this position. During witness oaths, he holds the Tephilim in hand; solemn Jewish oaths sworn² must in the synagogue, under ceremonies accepted. will be, which are in the rules of procedure described in detail. The Jew swears very Reluctantly, the laws forbid it. That he false swearing, as Mr. Grattenauer

The accusation leveled against the Jews is highly untrue; as a lawyer

One would think that the remark could have been quite...
It was not lost on me that the Jew was very reluctant to...

mum understands oaths, and is accustomed to it when he 109

His laws forbid it. On Fridays with Sunset brings an end to all work.
They want to demand of the apprentice that he be of Sunday as can be directed. Because of the holidays, the Ju may;

*

110 ff. N
often nothing for eight days in a row work, and it may happen that they still will be extended if the school holidays are not observed.
boys only after those of the Lehemkiften RT:

and vice versa. a N

| The Jew and finally spoken of; will | Filed and finally master. He marries, and wants , to earn fine bread with the learned craft.

cb Not throughout the entire process sn

& wanted to, at the swearing-in ceremony to accept the made comparison proposals convenient, if legs
But not too hard for him, of course.

There may be no shortage of examples where Jews, to sometimes, when the subject of the trial is very tempting was, they swore a false oath; alone, if according to Mr. Grattenauer between the speeches art: a single Jew, and, every Jew, Since there is no difference, one would like to, with the intention of false oaths, tempted, the Idioms: the fifth or the tenth Christ, to consider every Cbrift as equivalent.

The repeated accusations of Mr. Gratte
Nauer with the intention of the false swearing of the Ju Therefore, one can brazenly bill fine J u to set the hatred, whose greatness he himself does not vn |
He 2. d. U.

1

*

*

IT.

Will he be able to do this "without deceiving people?"

Not at all. It is not possible for him, as much as to provide for Christian craftsmen and workers, r
I cannot offer them the same price because

Year after year, more than 200 days are missing len: those where he is not allowed to work. Bel Under these circumstances he feels compelled to...
The art of becoming an equally unfair usurer as it was previously with N. Therefore, N
* won. .

In. The third child is the Separa tism of the Jews, which sets them apart from all others separating people, their connection under one other even more firmly, and a state in produces states. Since this divorce takes place in N their laws, which prescribe for the Jews

gen, fie' would be the chosen people of God, all

But the rest of mankind were rejected by him: so it is.
Clearly, their connection with each other is the over This has been to the greatest detriment of the citizens. From The pursuit arises in bourgeois society

| of each individual member, always the whole in to keep an eye on things, and the common good with to combine it with special benefits. It is with I need that the people also learn about the 'refinement of every en member below, If one foresees this

Bea

112

out, so must the Christians, who themselves of their only rarely among close fellow citizens, from the whole bourgeois society but never assistance to er have to wait, necessarily all the Jews luka allow for innovative ventures. However, this would the natural consequence that the Israelites after and after all the action, all the factories and acquire agricultural land, and the culture of the latter to entrust to the Christians as their slaves would. One example will suffice, the RR

5 clear ones to set. N

“Frederick the Second offered the e nebemeh minting of the coin to the richest merchants, and the most respected trading companies; no letter dared to get involved in the matter. The Jew

Ephraim, on the other hand, and fine companions about

They immediately accepted the offered coin, and who did not know what immense riches lay there through which they acquired it? They knew exactly where still old coin types were hidden, and

They were excellent at getting them. Jewish but They traveled through all the provinces to collect old coins.
to exchange them for new ones. With all this nonsense

Not yet satisfied, they joined forces with the youth.

in contact with foreign states.

Näher zu allen Juden, für, für

! 113

Far and wide, only her name resounded. Her boldness was Indescribable, they even dared to venture into the camp.
of the enemies, in order to make money at the risk of their lives.

We rely on this support and assistance.
Throughout the entire nation, the Jew relies on fine Haggling, without Christ having the slightest say in it von realizes, yes, without even a concept of it to have. If one considers this, then
Is it not surprising that the Jews are among all I find such undertakings far more skillful than the Christians. Moreover, the Jew is defined by his Education has become more cautious, and owes its existence to the themselves a part of fine, gathered goods
ter. But more on that later.

IV. The fourth relief consists in that the Jews have no homeland but Palestine, where they all gathered upon the arrival of the Messiah.
They will gather. Consequently, they will find strangers everywhere.
lands, and the land in which they live is in to their eyes a ground which was not at their hearts lies, and which ones they want to suck out.
This hope that the Messiah would come,
It also prevents her from communicating with the other citizens in
He steps 5. 3:

If one considers these basic principles, Pr
Annals of the Jews in the Prussian States, p. 288.
| 9 |

€9

416

The trade is still so complicated, the & en Ja

cobs know how to pull themselves out; a thousand Jutrigues float fine souls before him, among whom he uur wath len is allowed. Where else would it come from that one would have to do that with every difficult undertaking, especially with regard to the Trade, the counsel and assistance of a Hebrew sought? Our princes, to whom so many a gulf

Those who are at duty and in service only feel Too often. The necessity in dangerous trade.

and income-generating companies, for their mediation to insure the situation. To whom else but Israelites?
During wartime, deliveries for the Ar
meen and the provisions of the same, entrusted?
If one does not use them in bill of exchange transactions,
in the coinage industry, in the purchase of metals, the Estimation of the pretenders? Wasn't even the er finding the exchange letters, such an important document convenience means in buying and selling, their Work? — Who among the Christians with all the fine
Fellow believers do not have free rein to retreat.
He knows that he finally turns to a Hebrew,
who usually gave him the final blow of mercy
teaches, but nevertheless, for the oppressive out moment without subtle damage, the embarrassment |
'snatched away... The most artificially conceived pranks and Theft chairs, are they from the factory? Jews have 1

Fe 117

committed. Several pieces of evidence can be found in Zollner's Reading book. And which ones are discovered least often? Those at whose head they stand; only they must not committed against one of their own: fine, Otherwise, something strange must have happened if they were unenfe

They remained covered. It was therefore an extraordinary

Borfall, that a Heckscher was robbed in Leipzig and was murdered without the perpetrator being aware of it one was discovered! But under such well-considered circumstances=

For them it was not possible, since the robbery had been buried -

Ben was and only by chance remained hidden.
'was captured. The speed is unbelievable.'
keit, with which they the best-preserved rooms and Chambers made of empty; incredibly fitting the Appas.
advice on their thieving tools and caution=;
keit when exhibiting their helpers and spies,
Just a few minutes, and Herculean tasks will take place.
accomplished. What comes into their hands is for them.
more there; at least it stands in its first form.
never again the light; they understand the art, their stolen effects. So advantageously to the man bring, and so forth. to. reveal that probably the first Owners bring themselves back. Without bringing themselves back. | same for. to recognize some of its members. Our nation In these arts, he appears as a child against them. Lead Fe also a bold and striking stroke and,

7

*

114 N

So one can easily guess how the upbringing of the young procure information about Jews, how much their teaching affects them

He sucks the Kochmutzh fine with breast milk.

a strong testament to the power of nature and bed

Understanding, which is weakened everywhere, nowhere Banz will be suppressed. In this respect, iR Koch has not lost all hope that the Jews

one day become receptive to civil rights.

The teaching of rabbis also includes the practice is connected; this has the consequence that the Jews are characterized by cunning, slyness, shrewdness, and wit.

fen and Nænken surpass all other people.
Their powerlessness certainly contributes a great deal to this; because there

The gel cannot achieve the necessary strength, and very well

*

The duties of the citizen must be fulfilled. (Study)
based on their laws, the Talmud, and the scriptures
RNabbinen, is the basis of all their knowledge:

*

People's hatred and hatred against all people who are not N
Jews are. It is surprising that the Jews,

Not ten more times with this parenting method
They are worse than they actually appear. It is

Yes, I am returning to her upbringing.

"They pursued their intentions directly because of Man know how fair SAP is, at least the Contempt for all other people is directed; that is its purpose.

tig
all ipre bensklacbeit bahn ob, wie se die ane
dern Mensch, den fie- an RE. nicht beis
To come, to be called by lies and deceit.
The Jewish boy has set the daily example before.
gen, and soon realize that the fox fur
Be a fine dress. From upbringing and under- | Kotzer wants to judge which the Jews will receive.
prove that they are the tige and N
People are. 5

"Even on the ointment it preaches tr, a
The remark that every Nation that lags far behind; so bright is its gaze in time and circumstances, however penetrating their spiesdelves into the finest modifications of objects;
5. Their behavior in the most difficult situations is wise, that their cunning became the standard for scheming people have become if you yourself are aware of your superiority work in caution and over-deception so very consciously, that the highest claim; the. fie. to the most tempted to settle with other peoples, which is that they are from him
He was so shy, like a Jew. I believe

, fig. judge quite correctly, and feel their a
And we feel it too, often; to our great delight Disadvantage. The Jew is and remains a mule =

the one whose bursting, — but. only from the verse
"Rande, . den möglichstst. bejien; Nutzung macht."

9 2

416 „||

The trade is still so complicated, the & en Ja

| s0b8 knows how to pull himself out; a thousand Jutriguem float before his soul, among which he only wath

len is allowed. Where else would fame come from, that one can at every 55

difficult undertaking, especially with regard to the Trade, the council, and assistance from a Hebrew (£) sought? Our princes, to whom so many a Gaus
Those who are in service and stand in the service only feel | too often. the necessity in dangerous trades and income-generating enterprises, for their mediation

To insure the situation. To whom else but Italian elites?
Will deliveries for the Ar be affected during wartime?

mine and the provisions of the same, entrusted to them?
If one does not use them in bill of exchange transactions,
in the coinage sector, in the purchase of metals, the Estimation of the pretenders? Wasn't even the er finding the exchange letters, of a very important note

convenience means in buying and selling, their Work? — Who among the Christians with all the fine
Fellow believers do not have free rein to retreat.
He knows that he finally turns to a Hebrew,
who usually gave him the final blow of mercy
teaches, but nevertheless considers him the oppressive Aue moment without his harm, the embarrassment 9 snatched away. The most artificially conceived pranks and Thefts, and work for them? Jews have them.

a Es try committed. Several pieces of evidence can be found in Eblner's

* 71

Reading book. And which ones are discovered least often?

Those at whose head they stand; only they must not committed against one of their own. Fine.
Otherwise, things must have been very strange if they were unthinkable.

They remained covered. It was therefore an extraordinary g

Incident in Leipzig where a hedge trimmer was robbed and was murdered without the perpetrator being aware of it

nen discovered wardi But in fü bewandten Umzene

For them it was not possible, since the robbery was over.
Ben was and only through the fullness of concealment was torn away. The speed is unbelievable.

keit, with which she the best-kept rooms and empty rooms; incredibly fitting of the apps
'counsel of their thieving tools and the demonstrations

lead in the discovery of their helpers and spies

Just a few minutes, and heart-strengthening work takes place.
accomplished. What could be lost in their sands is for us.
more there; plead at least in your first form never again the light; they understand the art, their to profitably sell stolen items to the man bring, and so: to: reveal that probably the first Own within them again. Brings itself to itself, without five | same for: to recognize his own. Our nation
In these arts, he appears as a child against them. Leads They too are bold and...

7

1198 || 2
lo komnit man ihr doch weit hölsger auf die Spur,
But the prank goes awry in the making. Unwise.
Sell, waste, make a fuss, find the busy traitors of their wickedness, and soon
Does the pergola-wielding justice stretch the avenging
Arm after the entrepreneurs of these daring pieces.
Where does the advantage of the boat come from?

Abraham came before all other Bdlkern.

But? Where from? Tonght es, ER the: e aun Surpassing nations? I'm with the Finns.
Beer drinkers have come across the following reasons. n
1. The very practical education of the Jews:
Their first, only, and most pleasant: employment branch
It is trade, scholarship, art, agriculture;
near the Jew not to order of the deed

The father is a trader, the mother just... 5
The same business. They subscribe to trade fairs and Mörke.

te, or housed in the countryside and small towns
ten around. The young Jew had the first space.
Having outgrown his childhood shoes, he will already be familiar with the Lex.

bensweise feines Vaters und mit den ubthigen Bor keunt niffen to this made known, and del nemli dedicated to his occupation. He cares about nothing.
and alongside it as trade, exchange and money war
Pb and hears of nidytd as trade worthiilen fprtr

5 / k

| 3 One does it to the Aube on fine Maxiz men previously. To have cheated a Christian, extends warmest regards to the father and all companions Joy; yes, it is according to national custom and Custom, nothing illegal involved. As soon as e& denmach, allowing the boy's abilities, will

1

he instructed them in these arts to the best of his ability and gave them

van with all varieties of lift and cabal ber He's made it known. Has he only just completed the good or red year? reached, so the father lets him halfway fich selbst. A vault in a minja door with lead came:

ten, sealing wax, watch chains, needles, staplers,

Buckles and other clinking sounds, however, all n |

of the worst quality, it will be used for his equipment

Given, to try his luck with it. Is he

f careless, and lets himself be swindled out of money and Maare ber triigen, so the father is less kind-hearted than una

Our dear mothers, who helped the unfortunate Sdhachen

Gu liked, move clothes and laundry and...

buy so that he can enjoy the pleasure of a ball or elner Redoute not without drm er ver

"Do not cause him any harm; but let him
Bear it yourself, and gain wisdom through mistakes.

And the treatment begins; he will be available for the following period.

more cautiously, and prefers to turn the sword around. There...
The fraud perpetrated against a worthy person, Vicht's show:

—

120 liches, but rather something meritorious,

That is praise and applause when he dares any dare=
The piece was successfully completed, fine wages, and Therefore, this praise was an incentive for him to receive more and more.

to earn money. He therefore speculates incessantly; smithing= det better and better attacks and drives the Exercises for the V-forces are more practical than in

This can happen to our best schools. Advantage and profit fuel his zeal in a fief-fiastic way;

and the deeper cut — that I felt so prints - into the accumulation of power of fine spirit, must the more lasting the impressions, the better.— Through

He will not become weak even with a good upbringing.
perzärtele, fine shelter procellis et ventis pervia,
and his clothing is usually with the Jah= res time in apparent contradiction; in summer in Palatinate-clad, in winter in summer attire. The

Whether the weather is harsh or pleasant, it's all the same.

much; if a fair or market calls him, he may
He would ignore this small nudge. And leave Mud and snow up to the waist, that's how it must be.
he waded through it, usually in tattered shoes and stockings. an ein en ift a 1 to think. —

2. Now the young Hebrew steps forth, fine Shrige lingsalter an, fo ift auch this , ,fein Denk= N

|

*

121

to maintain the dermdgen in constant tension. The
The lifestyle he now leads is no different from any other.

which he had practiced as a child; he remains in the old |

Tracks; he trades and haggles. Entirely himself

Having been left in care, he may now rely on the support of his parents.

and relatives, however, cannot be counted on. 'Bas.

Father and mother leave him; only his head can to take him in. The parents are also usually in such dire financial circumstances that no

Support can be considered if they also

who would have good will; their common fate

It is poverty and destitution. What child could ED

To desire something where there is nothing to desire? e.g.
Even the female sex isn't doing anything here.

Exception; even this must soon be its own bread and butter.
fear, and also through trade, less so through quiet domestic activity. The peculiarities of it
res Ges²gesgelchts geben s²elbst dlesem s²em so manches Mit² |
. 'a little something to their hand that brings them advantage.'
However, on the whole they make their legal entry²

Because of its drawn nature, not its era. — But what

What does the Jew do now as a youth? What else?
than that he occasionally reveals fine business practices²

tert, and make his life a little more comfortable and ge²
Is it addictive to make things nuttier? On oneself and fine He must build a fine Si. He must

—

He is perfectly fine with himself. He must constantly remind himself of this:

-to go, to win some groschen, to get one to make up for the suffered loss, a threatened to avoid danger. He always has to deal with Calculations of profit and loss were made around - Gen, always on your guard against fraud. In Inside, it always stirs like a raging torrent.
 Monster, and battle is waking and dreaming fine companions. On a fine forehead is the vexation.
 drawn, which torments him, and his gestures say to the observer that his inclinations and desires those who are in a roar. The constant observation of the het most terogenous things and their agreement will give him so it became a habit that he knew the verses and verses.
 Finally, the same thing. Not particularly difficult.
 His neglected upbringing in Consideration of culture with a refined moral sense is also an important contribution to the relief of fine Hessies. For in desperate cases it is him not about right and wrong, but about profit and loss, not because of yellow fever, but to bring happiness to oneself. The inventor of the
 He did not apply the categorical imperative.

tended to find a recording. The finer the machine, the better.

must invest in order to secure an advantage,
 He does himself best in a friendly manner, and thinks about it.

-

They stir in their extremes with him, like Mer

The curve of both sinuses is depicted as united within itself. The

Because of the painful consequences, he probably shies away from it.

To become a thief by profession, but in trade
He appears as a member of this guild. The one before most parteciple. Buying and selling, the ongoing

The exchange rate of money, the value of old, new, out-and domestic coins, the true or fscheiuba-
The price of the goods, the concealment of the errors;
skillful handling in the exchange and a thousand on-whose large and small circumstances retain their Head! In constant tension, and sharp, fine vision.
in the most active thinking and research. Someone senses it.
dder der andere eine Auge gegen den Han- i del, which is not so frequently the case; so verfättg
"A fine choice usually for a trade that cannot be without Effort of understanding is undertaken to catch;
He (0 fid) distinguishes himself when he is being sought.
In those cities where they are especially 5 places allocated for communal living
They are driven, however, to their own profession.
N Hendweikegeschächte, but mostly as a side issue and oime frnberlihe SUNG, since they ie Ber not

e | 123

New advantages for everyone. If only the law would...

Not restricted by lust, but with a fine conscience opened him, Char and Thore. Trade and theft bea

=

14 b

in their element. The greater part hardens trade, and haggles and profiteers with Most possible banishment to satisfy the egg Genetic benefit.—

3. That the nature of society and the environment
| going with certain people also a solid help means for the improvement of intellectual power
No one will deny that it is man.
Christ remains among his equals and finds N neither in domestic interactions nor in the ge ordinary circles of public entertainment fon
A corresponding impetus for thinking and research. Tri Viale conversations about trivial objects, city news
keiten, Kannegießereyen über politike Veranstaltungen, Time savings or waste through play and dance, find our conversations. Rarely Does someone speak of 'fine trade' with regard to on artistic diligence, artistic touches or artistic improvements

. gen; questions or plans that encourage thinking, and rarities. Everything is possible with our large Piles on the old, well-trodden path. But One should fear the Jews. Societies like ours

He doesn't know any of the players — such as the players of Pro Fession excepted — he merely uses the unfree
. = er ie Erverbs. . er mit ir Jus e

“

*

A 125

Dividua of a fine nation, soon to be joined with those of ours
In traffic. Neither of them meant it in any particular way.
good to him; those out of self-interest, these out of | Borurtheil and Mis trust, or because he is a Jew

is. In traffic with the first, force acts against

"Power; one acts; the strings are being asked."

and bids highly anticipated, the best side

= the goods turned outwards and yet flawless discovered; one takes it down to the slightest detail
Not exactly. Whether for cash, and in what;
A higher grade or given on credit will not be calculated commercially but Jewishly, and no
Three left behind. It reigns among them even themselves.
to trust the utmost mischief, and whoever trusts another one
To steal an advantage or dig a pit, of which...
Their feet are nimble, capable of causing harm. — Are fie apart from commercial enterprises in company, so jst
the material of their conversations, trade and gunfire te, and the formal the most profitable way of the same.
Although they are very cautious in revealing things... more connoisseurships and connections; but the more
The attention is more tense, and the speculation... tionsgeist dessen, der zum nehmlichen We Something was suspected. In reporting the facts.
feloR find fie weniger zurhitpaltend-, sboleich bie

126 2 15

The manner of their behavior was shrouded in sacred darkness.
will. Only if several are together for one purpose
If you learn, then there will be instruction and guidance from the most skilled and experienced of the lot.— Traffic and handling of uncut

is no less for the exercise of their sharp sine Profitable. Buying from them will result in errors.
to seek out the Bilauce iu Geldforte and Waa to pull the plug, to slip in counterfeit coins and to take precautions, including those goods and At the same time, money is lost. When selling, this must be done... most useful good for the most expensive price under false
The apparent progress will be made. It will be...

exchanged, changed, relocated; and whoever their measure
He who does not know rimen is deceived in many ways, so clever
He believes he has done it. Complaints are often filed.
and tears were used to elicit sympathy to arouse, and in the end you're betrayed after all
So it goes from one day to the next.
Go to the other one. It would be against the laws of Nature and experience, when the Jew is few 0 sharp, less clever and cunningly fine should.
4. A new motivation to think and Ä Research for him find the pressures and influences
all kinds of afflictions to which he is exposed. Seiz
"My miserable, wretched way of life will be seen by everyone"

*.

Seiuige. Gelbft has the right of personality"

7

N 27

Art is becoming tiresome. His stock often expands.
not over the space of his coat pockets, or whom It comes up high, above that of a moderate satchel. Or carpets, and yet the ratio of fine lbs gifts and costs at markets and fairs, to de nen of the Christian like 4 against 1, and the probability

A real profit in the process, like 1 against 4. If he didn't find it sometimes someone unfamiliar with his manners,

he would be kindly 7 in the first month of his
To bankrupt establishments; and fine Un

5. "He receives, however small he is, little comes to him."

once again so expensive, as the honorable one of

to him the intolerance and brutality of the barbaric Centuries of prehistory, at least half of it Cruelly seized, like a beast of burden he must customs duties apply. The number of cities in and outside

Germany, where he is not tolerated, was not even a place to sleep, is Not small. After all, they're providing him with a residence.

te, fo wird er haufenweise in eigene Gassen zus²am² mengeru²ngt so that he ini fo rather in fine own

Dirt rots alive. Nowhere, — approximately.

with the exception of some of the newer free states — ers

He upholds his civil rights, and... the belief in fine

| bear fchent * Orten N 5 gr

Be ee.

to have roots. It is still praised in dffent² Smallpox as an extraordinary occurrence²
nung, when one overcomes prejudices and the spirit of the times uplifting philanthropist, the daring piece under² takes one of these nations as an apprentice²

men. What abuses has he not suffered?

Places where one notices a delicate existence, exposed?

How mocking, how condescending one treats

= him with the few pennies that were given to him

Earning gives 2. How to throw away, taped

'fine goods 'and how little one offers'

Fine demands? "Everything under the grumpy

Excuse: He is a Jew, even if it is not too

To deny is to say that he has such a humiliating behavior

has attracted men through his behavior, so seizes

—

but anger to thinking and feeling people and reluctance when he is at e ne Au⁸ genzeuge ist.—.

Even the pressure of fine sinusoidal vessels > 5
It cannot be ignored.

The list of forbidden foods is very impressive.
lich, and what he is allowed to enjoy, must

First the rabbinical consecration takes place. On the Sabbath
He is not allowed to do anything that constitutes work.
It looks similar, yet another trip. How enfelnich and: u the N of the great

and

r 129

and small celebrations, and how costly the effort is on the same, in order to more, since he east the most beautiful
f Kchken feiner Mühe entfmü muss, wenn fie wath of the greatest traffic at trade fairs and markets ten occur to me, even fine clothing is still the Subject to the precepts of Moses, the gravity
This law must be passed on to him at the time of his own
Is the constitution stupid, lazy, and cowardly?
have power; now scattered among other peoples
This pressure creates counter-pressure, and it cannot lacking the ability to evade it in various ways,

or to compensate through pleasures of other kinds strives. However, this can occur without stimulating thought.

kruffte nicht geße haen, und fo muss auch die bieße Be

Contribute to developing fine acuity through pressures
no; and there Christians and other religious groups
did not turn with these and similar imprints
The more they have to struggle, the more necessary Success, that they remain far behind them. —
m finally doesn't know k at all.
5. the power of poverty and poverty,
as powerful driving forces of human activity dexterity and inventiveness. Admittedly, if the mouse...

1. Comforts, leisure and enjoyment |

Unaware of the forces of abundance, the power may bifer Triebfedern wol fchlafen und feinem Hange

-

3

e
to inertia, but since the Jewish nation lives among peoples, the Ueherflun and know pleasure, so this case cannot apply to her.

enter. The drive for n must awaken N
V», . aa
It is therefore not to be assumed that the gave in this upbringing and in this suba richt surpassed all others when it came to the Bee Brung der Richter, auf fache Eüfchvüre —
5 unjust usury could be avoided! a
The Jew is called N by everyone

For revenge, he despises everyone; only with the difference that his laws and Regulations that give permission for everyone to do so “Others are missing. The contempt for non-Jews, who he doesn't even count among the people to whom he but because of subtle fainting, outwardly subtle achemung must not fail, increases internally his Galle uur noch mehr, und zwingen ihn, allen Ehr-

To suppress greed, such as the thirst for honor except for those he received from his own nation can expect rewards for fine earnings. Already in feiuer lngend to this guided, he despises in spüen un alle . wenn fie . 5

e[®] German Dina May 1799. 8. 6.

“

N

1

8 A

U

with the highest: that he was one of the number of God's chosen ones are in contact.

His people respect no one who is among the Christians.

has achieved honor to a greater degree than

It respects the most devout Jews. He who respects this people

Her innate pride persuaded her that the Vole

God alone is worthy of respect, and that alone who have the power to bestow honor. Feast of the

Convinced of the principle, the Jew knows of no

Shame if they are not from their own people

that's why he got all the

Castes and crimes, which are not part of his nation

Damage, not to his shame, what am I saying? That he

she even considers it an honor, namely, if he led a Christian, or the state has cheated. Never will one Jew betray another.

to accuse him of bribing the Christian judge have; unless he had thereby bewitched a Jew wore or wanted to harm him. The whole

A lack of honor greatly helps the Jew.

in the case of bribery of a fine judge; he leaves no stone unturned.
Untested, however low and dirty it may be.
to be. No shame in what kind they are.
want, except for the one who misplaced a Jew

The fact that he has it affects him. Bashuyfen writes

Therefore, in a second dissertation: "Authorities
J 2 =

131

{

132 | 85 5
must beware that through the Jews and their so that no Christ would be harmed.

are ready at any moment to assist the judge to make children and blind. In many places they have

The Christians therefore have the proverb: The Christian

It's great to be careful that he doesn't get involved with anyone.
a Jew gets into a trial.

The Jew Nathan Aron was convicted because of feud

He was given the nickname Wetzlar due to his fame; for he drove with judgments and sentences of the Reich chamber A proper transaction in court. After the
The thing was, he took 2000 to for a sentence 8000 guilders, and thereby acquired a fortune of 500,000 guilders. During the visitation of 1771 Subtle bribery schemes became known, but for a long time afterward... not all, because a judge of the Higher Regional Court and some Assessors had already died, therefore one could
The sums they had received were not disclosed.
could mediate. On the Red June Day in 1774, the following was done.
Gendes Juthel against the Na than Aron published:

“that which, because of the Imperial Chamber”

court in the legal matters he substantiated infatuated, even admitted, abhorrent justice corruptions and corruptions of their former comrades Members of the court, also from this disgrace chen Gewerbe und getriebenen Jufizhandel gezo

m

133

genen Gewinnfte, in accordance with the Reich's regulations 5 orders and common rights, the sum of 232,145 guilders for the benefit of the treasury, from his 'Assets, insofar as such things suffice, 'paid;

aubei to further punishment, (as to which he the (three-year Wetzlar arrest is also taken into account) N

still three years to go to Frankfurt for ge delivered to custody, to the local

Magistrate, as the authority of the accused, above
ben, and therein on their own, in whose Erman However, success is at the expense of the Emperor. Fiscal costs under the neck.
ten should be. Incidentally, the Jew Nathan will before. always from the residence of the Emperor. and expelled from the Imperial Chamber Court, and should never again to be detained, ever under some pretext to find oneself personally, or by means of or directly with members of the Higher Regional Court or any other person belonging to this court to maintain some correspondence or contact,

least of all, neither through itself, nor through.

other, some Sollicitatur an dies sehn Reichskan to take over the court, nor with someone about something, whatever it may be,

,fo er at the Visi itationscongress either in writing \ or have orally arranged, (it will then be so)

ches through Reichs vifttations^r or also obrißtrich^r

\

1

13424

(Non-terrell orders given) some opening to do.“ 8). If this happens on green wood,

What would anyone want to advertise on the dry land! 300 go to the young people beniben over.

According to the Ge^r N, the religion of the Jews is based on

h of Moses, and according to the traditions

the rabbis, in external ceremonies, in Body exercises, on washing and bathing, and through this, divine grace is acquired, which

But God's anger and displeasure were appeased.

total and general remission of all sins

and crimes he receives annually on the Versdh^r

Days of celebration; however, under the express condition of condition not to work on this day, but to fast. For so it is written: "On the tenth..."

For ten days of the seventh month you shall fast, and
No one should work unless they are a local or a 5 Strangers among you. For on this day
Prayers are offered for you because of your purification;
For all your crimes you will be forgiven by Jehovah stone will be made. — — That will give you an eternal

=

be an inviolable law that applies to all Shine - which the Iraclites pray once a year. 74

| 2 E. Mofers e on Ds abe iz 1775. Erfter e S. 682.

KB Mof. K. 16. b. 20. . 23. b. 76 u.
Thus, their religion breaks the bonds of morality.

"Through the interpretations of the rabbis if bie 8 8

By virtue of the oath, I was even more scarred. Egg
Some of them teach, an explicit oath I have
They have no power; others give the Jews the Er (permission to say something else with one's mouth)
and to have something else in mind; through this Kunstgriff loses the spoken words, after in their opinion, all effectiveness According to the reasons

The Jesuits' shreds were such secret to Sentences and omissions, (mental reervations)
to the glory of God, permitted each time, as often as the religion
gion, i.e. the Jesuit order, such frauds and tendrils arranged for use. Furthermore, it the Jew views the Christian authorities as an institution, which he won solely because of his physical superiority of the same, and due to his own lack of strength.

then must; therefore, in fine eyes, every oath is [unclear], which which demands a Christian authority, without connection (Liability.) Eisenmenger has his own words the rabbis collected on this matter, and we refer
'for the reader to do so. On this occasion, bes
I only notice that this scholar, during his translation the original places exactly embossed ball N

le ei Ai. bu

N

He therefore by no means deserves the slightly higher rates.
Steiteublicke einige Judenvertwehriker , fo lange fie | not prove that he did not understand the rabbis, or swept incorrectly. This work asked for but so far none of his critics have wanted to be subjected to scrutiny.
When a Jew in the presence of the rabbis and swears an oath at their command, then he shall,
if he pursues the lawsuit against another Jew, precisely emphasized: not to commit perjury, and not to address something differently, something differently to have in mind. Because the rabbi Even during trials between Jews, their fear was evident.
The Israelite wants to swear falsely, so often he expresses,
They clearly indicate how much one is looking forward to may withdraw from a Jew's oath if the Jew...

He was tried with a Christian. In the book

= Schylch an aruch, in dem Theile Chofchen

bam misch pat, Bl. 119. Kolumne 1. Nr. 47.

g. 20. reads in Eisenmenger's n Over fetzing the following admonition formula: "One lets sworn the oath in every language he knew understands, and you have to scare him,

before you let him swear, and say to him:
Know that the whole world is at the same time...

away (and trembled) as the holy one gave God has said: You forte, ben name g

| 132

of the Lord your God not in vain do n. (that is, misuse). If the person f commits all the sins that are mentioned in the law,
'Fo. revenge will be taken on him (alone); but here
The same thing happens to him and his sex.
This is not enough, but he also causes
also that the same was practiced throughout (all) Israel.
will be, while all Ifraelites vouch for one another
are. All transgressions that are written in the law,
Two and three sexes are attributed to humans.
held if he has earned something (that therefore (where no punishment is imposed); but here, therefore Revenge was soon exacted. The false oath consumed him.
including those things which the fire and the
They cannot consume water. If he now ppricht, ich will nicht sschwdren; fo lässt man ihn frei of it, and he gives that for which he is fine Gefell (or Nebenmeussch) has accused. Says
But he, I swear, and my fellow human being (who accused him) desires it; so they say

When standing, to one another: move away from the huts

These godless and insolent ones, we will not let you go.

in your opinion, but in our opinion=
nung and the Wes dena 0 e N
swear." u â% |

RE un f in the new Three, —

* _
4 ;
*
f.
— 2 8

fi .

I —

4 8

N 5 8

fchen Proceedings Code Th. I. Tit. 10. 8. 230. p.
317. Among other things, it states:

"If every other criminal could be repented and Change of heart from God's punishment

Even if someone can be free, the perjurer can still perjure himself through the severest penance, without sufficient compensation,
"No hope of forgiveness." Furthermore: "In the case of a
For every other crime, the criminal is punished more often.

through the patience of the merciful God a

They looked into it for a while; but perjury was followed by "The punishment will be carried on immediately." I want it not to accuse the author of having disregarded my opinion;

considers oaths the most terrible vice, and the verbreakers with intent to commit all other crimes without Compensation for damages promises forgiveness, regardless of the

His principle is terrible, and it makes people...

invites all kinds of crime; but I can not to pass over with silence, that the Richter or rabbi, who speaks to the Jew before the Lord

The oath warns, thereby telling an obvious lie, 8

by following the prescribed formula

cert that the divine punishment for perjurers is Follow the foot. I know very well that that formula

8

bon Mendelssohn her; aber Mendels

f ohn's holy belief in the rabbis was |
one of 8 pearls and politiers umabrig | |

★

| Br 1239

"In every other crime, it finally says

Yet, the punishment only affects the sinner and the others.

to blame, or those who can control the webmaster;
In the case of perjury, however, the whole family suffers.
"Berbrechers zj yes the whole country in which he lives, feels the divine punishment that follows."

This idea is contrary to all justice.

saying, and those chatterers commit blasphemy, 8
when they say God will make innocent people instead

Punish the guilty. Set the Jewish philosopher

we encountered the words of a pagan, which a find appropriate to reason and divinity:
"Truly, you defend the deity admirably."
If you say their power is great, that... weeps someone who is punished for a fine crime by the Death escapes, the punishment extends even to his children,
May he stretch out his grandchildren, his descendants! O one
The gods' remarkable love of justice! Which The state would tolerate the legislator who... wrote that the son or grandson judged should be, if the father or grandfather is has committed a crime 2" 3 If the matter =

0 Deum vos pracchare defenditis " cum dicitur, eam vim Deorum esse; ut etiam, si quis morte poenas sceleris effugerit, expetantur i eae poe- f N naue. A liberis, d nepotibus , a pösterid: O. mi-

140

behaved so badly that God destroyed an entire country because of it punished for perjury committed by a Jew living there, ne

Thus, no crime could be committed against the Christians.
will be done if they completely deprive the Jews of everything refused admission so that no 'innocent person' would be admitted.

including lite. Even the prophet Ezekiel cast

1
r

the Jews this erroneous, proverbial saying =

Opinion there. He says: "What do you want with us?"

As the saying goes: the parents eat sour wine & grapes (Heerlinge), and the children are given the Teeth from that? As true as I live, I speak

The Lord. Jehovah, this proverb is said to be used by the Israelites.
Raelites. no longer in vogue, Whoever ges | who has sinned shall die; but the son shall not the father's guilt, nor the father the guilt atonement for the son, Chapter 18, verses 2, 3, 20.

The Jews' tendency towards injustice is also a factor.

Usury, which, according to the testimony, is very likely worthy historians, always called to them

Tlebt has, if the admission of the Jews is hindering.

The Bertheidiger of the Jews claim that

Judaism is completely innocent of this, and stands

ram ae quitztem Deorum!! ferretne ulla eivitas

rw B

latorem istiusmadi legis, ut condemnarenur;hili-

on a unnepos i pater aut: avus deliquisset?

A @cerg; de. Natura Diomm L. IF e. 36.

\
141 with their usurious love, not at all! in connection;

Their opponents, on the other hand, are of the opinion that we cher, which the Jews formerly practiced, which they still to drive, and for eternity; to drive will drive, is correct completely to the gravediggers, their superstitions,

which would give them the right to the other men

To eradicate them where possible. To hunt. They, the Jews are allowed to exterminate the remaining people;

so they are also allowed to quash them by force

len; for the more of the former comprehends the lesser one.

ter fich. Listen to their defenders. "Who has

5 you have been given the right, says one of them,) the u |
To classify the faults and vices of humankind, and Fraud and usury for the first, most terrible ones.

To explain the state's inverted vice? Considerations
Before you judge, consider that it is in religion which cannot lie to the Jews if they give up this vice excellent. are subject. Their legislator, the withdraw them from all contact with other peoples,

definitely only an agricultural one, not a trading one

The people who wanted to form a society from them were denied to them.

all, including those who are legally entitled under our state laws biggest interest rate; and N.

,

90 Letter to Sen, OCR saves, from some Er

Rumodiern jübifcher Nazion, p. se

142 8 | oo.

fenner, therefore because they: Inden are, quite Ber ' Must deceivers and usurers be fine? Oh, give the Truth, the truth that so easily presents itself, the price, and realizes that it is only in the au _
concluding employment, to which the ruling

The party that condemned the Jews in the trade harbors the belief that they are guilty of the offenses of deception and

Disadvantages of all kinds, more than any other Classes of bourgeois citizens are guilty.)

And if that's still not enough for you, then... and researches the character of other small hands
ler and Tröbler, your commercial Mitchri
sten, which are not under the direct control of the Po |

lizei ftehen, und die mit den Produkte ihrer Fleiſts at the same time conduct business; counts and accounts for their

Fraud and their misdeeds; hold them to the weight of g and according to number, with the fraudulent Untha

ten of the Jews and are . 5

Judge. 8

...for straight logs over the

Ä 5 95 Wins oak IR above already pintängtich dar

that Judaism is a different profession, than the plot allows. If one sifts this to, so it is also proven that the Jews need agile u and a moöffen

A. d. .

eh

I breathe hatred against the non-Jund. This Bere.
Wheidiger would have been better off if he had...
He would not have mentioned the accusation. Moses under added; namely, the Indians, to lend each other money.

—

to demonstrate their naturalization, and the Moss Artheil to dispel the notion that Judaism is the great to lend at usury; but he wrote to them;

immediately and rudely, against the others

To engage in usury against non-Jews. With

The author then introduces an important and very... adverse proof of how unjust and 5
Indentum s²ei. One reads the following law “D “

Don't lend money to your brother at an exorbitant rate; take
He gave neither food nor anything else.

of the thief. Against a stranger you shall | to engage in usury (foenerato), but against your will Brother, do not practice usury; so that Jehovah may protect you.

Collect all your business in the land which you intend to conquer. / 5. BM Chapter 23, v. 19.

20.) In the Talmudic treatise Brava

DE Selisam! The author attributes it to the Jewish

The legislator was so highly regarded that he protected the Jews from

It is permitted to take foreign usury, and yet

Is it even the Christian Prussian under buhanen · released by express laws wor

TE u | = 13
Intention, the underlying reason for the statements of the Jews

11

r Ji a. is called after the Uchrrfczung of the iron men gert "It is permitted to be a stranger to take sluggish and wreaking from the same, as It is written. "You turn to the stranger."

chern. So it is also permitted to cheat the same one,
as if rubbed: if you give your neighbor et

What you sell, nobody buys. You cheat your fine brother.
gen, because in bem Gefetze Most is only forbidden, to deceive one's neighbor or brother." Wes
- Half according to the teachings of the Talmud, the pious and
It shows that just Ifraelites are allowed to contribute amounts.

Eisenmenger in the second part of his writing,

p. 528. An upright and honorable Zude

7 8

does not owe its virtues to the motivic theories and the Bible, but reason and nature.

"Their morality," writes the author of the Abe plot: On the political, religious and the moral constitution of the Jews,

"is still the same one who lived in the land of Goshen
and Canaan had; a morality that condones,

other a" and Good to plunder, other men

fchen

den, V von genden e Binfen zu bin:
S. Dec. d. Law v. 1. Sul, 179% ae " e B. 1. p. 2670 Fe

= 1

| He ö

to despise, and through cunning, malice and Fraud, even to deceive justice. The End.

Isn't this happening now? In what way?

find the German Jews in Vienna and other large cities
. cities to the great treasures and riches

leached, who possess them? How is it possible?

that strangers who do not have the right of citizenship

2. To have had: to have, to have such a large fortune

2 come, and the goods of the nobility and the burghers have seized power? If the honorable ones wanting to acquire some wealth, so belongs in addition, diligence, perseverance and tireless work tigkeit of many years. — The farmer must int

sweat of his struggle to build the field, to fine

.

To pay taxes, and maintain a fine family to be able to — the merchant must be a good speculator^s

to make actions at the right time and with wisdom, and the necessary knowledge of trade in the Genius can combine — the artist must have years

long be responsible for the studio in its art, in order to do so to bring it to perfection, in order to thereby to provide for his family
create - the state official must always be at work Tied to the table, fulfilling fine duties, and days

and provide for fine entertainment at night, — the society

To teach, one must first study for many years, and even then, only if he...
| / |

146

finally, through much effort in a science has brought to some degree of perfection, yet all to use one's inner strength to gain an advantage from it hen, — so all classes — all people must distinguishes itself through industriousness, industry and application their physical and moral strength, maintenance and acquire food, and how rarely they acquire it

Riches? Even the soldier has to, in order to...

to obtain, to give up a fine life. The Jews but they do not work, do not sow, do not acquire knowledge Company, not a trade, defending the fatherland
| not, and yet become rich, will do it without Effort, in a short time; — the few among them, those who pursue a science and trade come against the large number of Jewish merchants in no Consideration, — but the greater part does nothing.
They haggle, profiteer, and swindle; they possess no other knowledge than to falsify the goods,

To broker money, in big things and in small things
To deceive the Scriptures — does nothing but... walking around all day, going into the houses

Listen, young spendthrifts to the beggar's staff
Bringing bad goods to honest people burden, the courts with their usury trials

| sen . e oaths to ur = Ra

2 —

5

1347
Fulisen made malicious attacks leading to the ruin of a family.

give, etc. — It doesn't rain money from the sky.
Heaven, and yet Jews of five are already starting to catch up with each other

ten years ago in Vienna, etc., a small business, marry, and in a few years they have a child.

ö uem anfevolichen Vermögen. With an honest

Candidacy can't be bought so soon.
Ben, and besides, the Jews are running out of resources.
from acquiring such talents. She has do not uphold the freedoms and rights of the citizen, and yet they possess underlying reasons that are good of the nobility, the houses of the bourgeoisie, the capitals

the rentiers. Should anyone disagree with this truth?
Anyone who still has doubts can just get out of their ass.
Convince the judges of where he can be found a large amount of usury, bills of exchange and He will present evidence in criminal proceedings. He will / from this see how Moses through one hundred percent and Poor quality goods, thousands cheated, like Ben= jam in young inexperienced people e&ck and to Grun= directed, like the Levi poor citizens and service=

offered through poor-quality goods and advance payments.
fifty percent sucked dry, like Abraham, Ifaak and not think in a patriarchal way, but Arch-scoundrels find, A respectable man should be one

K2

*

such documents, in which their profits and

Ranke expresses its belief in the best interests of humanity.

to have it printed, in order to also reach the Beffern Jews who... as scholars and artists to all Christendom» join them in a certain way, and form their customs, to convince that the general voice of the people, and the judgment of so many respectable writers about the blatant frauds and scoundrels of their

It was founded by the people. But because this

| Better among them the vices of their nation, from stupid preference and pride will probably damage it further len, — yes, that even some Christian scholars the

to make morally blind, and to become Adpo

N

to raise the words of this people, thereby they make It's just that there's no need for more stubborn, stupid, and malicious people.
daydurch verblock er ihn zum besseressern Kul

tur, and reinforce it in the delusion that it is on walk the right path. This was precisely the great
The biggest flaw in Moses Mendelssohn is that he

his people deliberately in stupidity, ignorance

- heit and reinforced the superstition that he himself

all Talmudic follies were based on the fact that he with | empty abstract hypotheses attacked their heads, instead of the Ga- that nature had given him

Ben would have needed, a pure, healthy people.

e 5 5 Ze i 149 .

healthy morals, teaching their religion from men to cleanse the statutes, their bad terms from the deity who bears a true burden of God to aim to change, to transform their vices ten, and the Jews in general to be human beings do. But he was far from being able to do the vices and The failings of his people should have been addressed, he emphasized.
he put it in it, and intoned the wretched Ge my place of printing, including fine nose
tion would have to suffer, since such things never exist which was certainly not founded in Berlin,
— always radotirte of tolerance, since it is fine
Polk denied such things himself, and through his La who made himself unworthy of it. The writing: “Jerusalem, or religious power and Judaism,” has the seller of the Phæ Don has ruined his reputation. He showed himself in it as the crudest Jew, as the biggest ego

Risten, as the most intolerant people, and lost thereby earning the respect he gained through fine weta had acquired physical speculations — the

However, there were only dead trees without fruit. It is so a ridiculous national pride of the poop-loving psobs

N. phen, on the sophistry of a Mendelssohn

j a great weight on Aegen.— — “But should

[4

*

3 wir detttr uusetn alten. Glauben verkeugien;) ind?

convert to the Ehrhist movement, and to which sect Should we then profess our faith in Christianity?”

"No," the enlightened Jew will object.

It would be folly to demand of you that you should;
profess your belief in another religion that is so good.
her faults are greater than yours — because we are too came to the realization that proselytizing is a
It is a work for selfish hypocrites, and that it never will be!
a good acquisition for Christianity}
if a Jew confessed to it; — that it was the after a great folly of our preachers and The convert of Jews is, and great emphasis is placed on this: to lay down, if they turn a Jew into a renegade does, and thus have created one more hypocrite.

From all kinds of sexes and people and Tongues and heathens, whoever does right is

Pleasing to God, says the Spirit of the Christian Religion. But we have a right to that.
demand; that the Jews change their religion with the Na to seek to harmonize tur and reason,

that they base their morality on the principles of justice
To reduce tigkeit, honesty and loyalty, so that they no longer see us as outcasts, that they
. Hoods close to u, "when they with a

2 ö 8 461

According to local custom, to enter into a community, that let go of their imagined pride, their wi
'to abandon 'refined customs,' and to 'become comfortable in everything'
"to approach that which, according to culture,

belongs to the rules of decency and morality.
"A right to their recognizability and

We are grateful that we can see them in their
to take in isolated states with us, and to them
They show ways and means to earn their living.
"—that we have already given them [something] so far."
have granted, whose associated obligation |
if they did not exercise it. We have a right to...
to them, including those fruits of tolerance and to expect the culture of mankind, you 5

we bestowed upon them, which, however, have so far have not shown. We have a right from to demand of their scholars that they
A people of hatred for Christians, of customs that were foreign to them
To show contempt, to set off, his moral doctrine
according to the eternal laws of nature and reason

form, and thereby give it a lasting basis bestow honor and glory. But as long as the so-called philosophers in Israel, regardless of all their better conviction, they follow those customs.
gen, which is the hatred of the peoples against their people

162 u

Give food, for it is not he

keit, when the paid market criers N

The common rabble imitates them; no wonder, if the barrier they erected is not brought down—will be torn, and through stupidity and Cruelty, deliberately dehumanized people, in in his isolated state, little more than to Tools of usury, of fraud

and the tendril that encompasses all moral feeling—digging, to use is, — because its ground—Sentences against the Goy in him this as no crime—

to attribute to them. The Christians go with the Jews.

Overall, very tolerable, and on

There is certainly less harshness and affection on their side.

want to conquer. Only refine their customs first,

their heart, enlighten their mind, take away their

the abhorrent prejudices of their rabbinical law—

teachers, and the Christians will gladly be their breasts

+

to meet friends and family. A complete reform those pernicious principles which rabbis a led to those harmful uses that led to to distinguish its disadvantage "that senseless Opinions that fuel the hatred of nations

ben — and that shameful morality which all the bonds of e and righteousness on the we Mi, .

* 5
5 a . 5 85 8
7 \ &
* *
U f „
7!
x

We, — is so far the Jews around fo nothwendig ger, since the torch of reason is lit in all nations

shines, and the fog of prejudice dissipates; |

invites human rights, and gives them the law book of nature and reason e according to them 5

"N life should be ordered."

“No,” the defense lawyers of the Zus replied.
den, „whoever judges like this knows the rich, enlightened

ten Jews in Hamburg, Berlin, etc. not “wel-che fiber the dreams of the rabbis laugh. The His comment is irrelevant. If the since philosophy invites all people to enjoy its

The discussion is about whether to grant citizens' rights to Jews.

May one grant? Then one may not hand out.

full of rich people, one must look at the larger number, which are reminiscent of the dreams and sayings of the rabbinen, like to believe in oracular pronouncements of the deity.

>

According to the testimony of history, the Jews have always been despised by all peoples.

drove and fooled. Their tendency to Fraud and usury, their own arrogance and their innate hatred for all people, who-cited as the causes of this, and with al-

'They have every right to. Because it would be unbelievable.
| and celebrate a miracle that all peoples always just

8

7

163

They should have wanted and received the same, if the Jews were not themselves to blame. It is a consequence which a posterzori proved that the Jews of the Bürs
I am not legally able to find you, but you must not be to be agile, so that history can tell you how it should be. paints, because one cannot imagine a Jew without a tendency towards cheating, without ridiculous superstition and without innate misanthropy, one can think. A
A person from this people who did not deceives, does not hate people, and the Superstition is not attached to it, although it is the Namely, but not in fact a Jew. "> Alone, in Be the Judaism on he 2 Wolz ed gives also something higher than that me a creed, which speaks to the ability of nes Menschše zum Bürgerrechte, at least ent should separate. This is just as true as men
A kind-hearted principle makes the heart of author's honor; but he rejects the entire series of previous premises and conclusions, and could against Christians and non-Christians of all kinds, with The same rights are applied. Not so because I believe in the Lord Jesus, or in en Mofes or Muhamed; not because I am of Heaven and hell, or believe in neither.
"be, pray the rosary or the tephllim, me

*

te 265

chen * hand ist er Aler Bürs

contrary to the natural order. Therefore, it is also a priori.
proved that the Jews are incapable of being citizens to become. It follows, then, that if they are of the Those wishing to be entitled to civil rights must first...
To renounce Judaism, to formally separate oneself from the Jews separate, mingle with the fibrous citizens, and the obligations of a citizen ee
al 5). .

The best means to ereliäen md bias 1

daily watering, or sprinkled with warm water
If I let myself be baptized or circumcised — am I a n | better or worse citizen; but, if I
uur not deceive, the people just not hate,
Through my faith I do not harm anyone else —
That's how I'm a good citizen, by the way.
Whether one would call them Jew or Christian. Would one want to do that with every = Ehriften, who is to take the oath of citizenship in the Ve
The handle stands, before — don't ask if he's at I believe in the Holy Trinity, but rather: whether he an upright, diligent, good-natured and peaceful person
To be a loving person: — I think our reason.
Cells would take some time!
A. du 8

) S. the . of the Verfoftert: Ole r Ber.

= a 1799. .

en

166-

The Jewish conquest lies in their history.
hung, which are fundamentally changed
They would have to. They would have to learn the German language;
Hebrew had to be, where not forbidden, at least incorporated.
would be restricted. Then one would have to restrict the youth of the ceremonies and superstitions of various

Peoples tell their stories, as an example and a Proof that all superstition is only found in crude and unexperienced peoples, mostly during the time of the war-truths arose which a clever and wise Niger's fearful head has used. This under-Girls would also have to be judged.
be subjected by those, as future masters-
tern, which largely depends on education and culture.
Are the Jews only just beginning this education?
If they live there, their education will happen automatically.
Perhaps the princes and the heads of the household would have been
The state would be of assistance. Would such a form now be They made the Jews into human beings: that's how they could be seen.
to include among the citizens
But as the Jews are now,
would harm the state itself, and against fine - own entrails, which gave the Jews the "Citizenship was granted. 'The Jews,' said Hu."
ber, the Swiss, in the National Assembly

* *

267

in Arau, „ibn keine Bhrger fein, flange fie | through their laws and customs, from all to separate citizens. For a person who does not who eats and drinks with me, who does not give me his daughter gives to marriage, and whose son does not give mine to marriage; who has a religion that separates him from that separates all people cannot be my fellow human beings.

to be a citizen. But as soon as the Jews do what the constitution, and what the law says about us

dert: fo fallen fie auch Bürger fein,“
Her defenders argue that the
The virtues required for civic rights should be acquired as soon as possible.

would show them if only they first saw the farmer justly granted. But they will never prove it.

can. Experience has taught the opposite.
In Poland and Galicia they enjoyed all rights of the citizen; in gratitude for this they directed States almost perished. During the time of Romans, after the destruction of Jerusalem, wa

ren fie completely in possession of citizenship; ib

However, according to Tacitus' testimony, its national character remained N Always the same one. They called the actual citizens 8 to the point of bloodshed, and betrayed each other. 8 “Anyone who converts to their faith,” he says.

Historian, “it was easier than that

—

"Despise children."

However, one should not yet place all hope on give that the Jews with the time of citizenship

They should be able to become capable. Frederick William the Thirdly, in the edict of September 8, 1801

They have prepared the groundwork, and it now stands with them,

whether they are cleverly advertising the earworm

want. = 5 N 5 |

/

that the Jews not only the right of citizenship, 1105

including civic posts, official offices and have received state benefits, proves

Sp anhem in feinem Orb. Roman. Cap. 25. S.

s also L. 3. Dig, de Decurienib. L. 17. De Excus.

“Tul, L. 5 Cod. de Judaeis L. 2 et 44. Cod.

5 Theodore de Judaeis, =.

| A. d. V.

—Drudfehlen

4

S: 25. 3. 11. for the l. those.

8. 33. 3. F. 6. for stelltten sich vor T won. en

+ a head start. '

= 98. Z. 1. for ru ffi fchen l. vreusffischen, 8 8

1 5 .

. ie 1 8 .

1 4 9 = *
un 1 * your . 2 — * AIR 8 3. 8

*

— 7 —

5. u

"x .

“

“

“ N —

2 8 .

5 8 f 8

5

.

£ * —

.

ö .

REL —

—

x fe

-

8 * >

2 a 4

— 2 “

2 — .

..

7 en

Pe s

2 *

15 5 -

5

5 5

..

- * 8

—

7

.

*

* * u

D

nn.

ee 3

*

5 5 st b5 —

5 *

B 5 3 12

—

F.

er =

VW

4

r

.

5 ad

2 . &, 0

5 *

8 *

4

Pr u . Ir: * 1

l' ö

4 ä ur

* 9 u A

* NL

. um =

= *

N' { * 28

*

5

*

=

*

N

wi * * " * » >
. W 4
. « 4 a *
5 * . * .
5 l
1 * 4
We; .
ien
AN] 0
* 1
% * y * —
4 N 4 \

This is a reproduction of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing effort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

Google Books

<https://books.google.com>

Google

About this book

This is a digital copy of a book that had been preserved on library shelves for generations before being digitized by Google.
It was carefully scanned as part of a project to make the world's books available online.

The book has outlived copyright and can now be made publicly available. A publicly available book is a book that...
that was never subject to copyright or whose copyright protection period has expired.
Whether a book is publicly accessible can be determined by...
This can vary from country to country. Publicly accessible books are our gateway to the past and represent a historical and cultural treasure.
and represents scientific talent that is often difficult to discover.

Traces of use, annotations, and other marginal notes contained in the original volume can also be found in this file—a memory.

Remembrance of the long journey the book has made from the publisher to a library and on to you.

Terms of Use

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize publicly available material and make it accessible to a wide audience.

to make them accessible. Publicly accessible books belong to the public, and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this

This work is costly. To continue providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent its misuse.

To prevent commercial parties from doing so, this includes technical restrictions on automated queries.

We ask you to comply with the following guidelines:

+ Use of the files for non-commercial purposes. We designed Google Books for end users and want you to use it.

Use files for personal, non-commercial purposes only.

+ No automated queries. Do not send any automated queries of any kind to the Google system. If you are conducting research via machine translation, optical character recognition, or other areas where access to text in large quantities is required.

If you find this useful, please contact us. We encourage the use of publicly available material for these purposes and can assist you.

It might help.

+ Retention of Google brand elements The Google "watermark" that you find in every file is important for providing information about

This project helps users find more material via Google Books. Please do not remove the watermark.

+ Stay within the law. Regardless of your intended use, you must be aware of your responsibilities.

To ensure your use is legal, do not assume that a book deemed suitable for users in the USA is legal.

Whether a book is publicly accessible, including to users in other countries, is another question.

It varies from country to country. We cannot advise whether a particular use of a specific book is legally permissible.

That is. Don't assume that the appearance of a book in Google Books means it's available in every format and everywhere on the internet.

It can be used worldwide. Copyright infringement can have serious consequences.

Via Google Books

Google's goal is to organize the world's information and make it universally usable and accessible.

Booksearch helps readers discover the books of this world and supports authors and publishers in reaching new audiences.

You can search the entire book text on the internet at <http://books.google.com>.

ae las ar mamma ,Anne

NO

td

N

1

.

2 55 0 8 * — 4

IR 2 EN 2 A RG

and

Emancipation

of the Jews.

e

Second edition.

ee

Mürnfer

Printed and published by Aschendorff's bookshop.

= 1861.

Digitized by Google

* Persecution of Jews

>»

preface

for the first edition.

The following pages are immediately after the beginning.

the persecution of Jews in the Upper Rhine region, in the interim

Written between February 24th and March 18th, 1848

and later only with a few additions. They have the purpose of "the social improvement plans from the Areas of abstract theories and dangerous experiments on the

Over to the realm of what is practically feasible and proven:

to bring about and to work towards ensuring that the new state

The often-made mistake of "throwing the baby out with the bathwater"

"To pour in" not repeated, but rather cleaned up as well as possible.

What is done. The abandonment of practical experience, History and common sense have led us to which has caused the current confusion. Let us therefore look for... to find Ariadne's thread again, in order to find the exit to win from a labyrinth in which the Minotaur

Taurus of anarchy makes us louder every day and its Proximity announced.

preface
for the second edition.

Twelve years have passed since these pages first appeared.

elapsed. During this time, "the absolute" [period] occurred, through [the passage of time].

no man and national consideration restrained financial power,

1 *

— 4 —

those who, without having to work themselves, enjoy all the advantages of the so-called exploits the freedom of trade and commerce alone, and which Even unprotected and disorderly work, even when left unattended, is oppressive and enslaves" and "the feeling of becoming increasingly unbearable" pressure and future total suppression" by these Power has grown through geometric progression. All calamities do this time: revolution, war, inflation, trade and trade crises are in turn caused by the power of money
It has been used for its growth. It is too has become a huge political and social danger, which in vain imagined or exaggerated behind others seeks to conceal dangers and evils. All "Questions", "cries of pain", "calls for reform", agitations and demonstrations only serve to pressure the governments that Peoples and public opinion of this danger, of to distract from this big question and the realization of the truth

The causes of the general feeling of pressure and insecurity health, as well as the application of the appropriate means of remedy to prevent. False charges are being brought against secular and the spiritual authorities, in order to protect themselves against true accusations to protect. The oppressed peoples will be protected, as is currently the case in Italy.
incited by their oppressors against their protectors and the
His struggle, in turn, as a source of acquisition and the Power expansion exploited at the expense of both sides. With Plutocracy and bureaucracy go hand in hand.
Materialism of the first is the mechanism of the two Ten worthily to the side. Where matter reigns, yields.
The spirit that creates organic forms. Spirit Loneliness is the common signature of money and the Bureaucratic power. Living and vital organisms, such as the churches, the guilds, the cooperatives of all kinds

— Me

They will therefore be affected by both, if they follow their natural instincts.
can, instinctively hated and persecuted.

Napoleonic France is therefore the model state.
all the real money and policemen. It grants the one the necessary external order in order to “earn and to get sneeze,” granting the other unlimited power against all who They do not belong to the ruling moneyed elite. Both are indeed
"Patriots" as a matter of courtesy, but the day after the revolution Whether through lution or annexation, they bring their zeal from the day before yesterday.
through their overzealousness today into oblivion. One he inner self of the Republicans “du lendemain” after the Pa Riser February Revolution, the behavior of the officials after the Viennese and Berlin March Revolt and the “frénesie” which the authorities in Savoy and Nice recently put into the set.

Justice is in the system of materialism.
Plutocracy is not an independent organism for protection of the law and all individual rights for and against

Not just anyone, but a tool coordinated by the police.
to maintain "order" and to collect

Demands. It will therefore, behind the bureaucracy sets, in its sphere of influence extremely limited and through thousands of special laws on the letters.

Bound. Torn from science, the right becomes:
practical experience in the trades, while legal studies, the Legal life alienates, neither drawing sustenance from it
...and can still supply him with nutritional fluids.

Legislation has changed over the last 12 years
Little has been done against, but much for, the omnipotence of money.
Justice has been reformed in their spirit. The small courts and the individual judges, who in their paternal capacity Know how to administer justice, the farmer and the craftsman

2.6

Those that protected against throat-cutting were lifted and large Courts took their place. Justice lies with them.
mainly in the hands of lawyers and the trial Therefore, knowledgeable, wealthy creditors have a right to protection from inexperienced creditors.

Debtors enjoy significant advantages. The bankruptcy and sub-
The system of fasting was changed in the direction of the belief bigger without any regard for the debtor to to facilitate payment. The previous legislation did not not only on so-called prompt justice, but also on the Protection and preservation of the debtor in the food supply Consideration was given to the situation. Now it seemed that only that mattered.
come, the art of driving someone from their home and farm, to train them to the highest perfection. That was the sole purpose.
Care was taken to ensure that the bankrupt was professionally trained by old
Do not incur debts on new, reckless, and frivolous speculative ventures.
tions are prevented. Because the bankruptcy now prevents him.
free of all old debts. The cancellation only to Mild laws against usury were attempted and failed.
only because of the contradiction of Herrnhaus.

Financial operations were carried out in Austria, which
The money men get richer, but the state and the people get poorer.

made. The von Bruck finance ministry resembled a large pumping stations for filling the banker's cash boxes from the pockets of the subjects and at the expense of the state. Domains and Railways were derailed to recoup the money of the bankers to redeem cheaply purchased paper money with heavy silver. Then the stock market let the price fall again and the cheap One: and buying began anew, until the expensive silver= Redemption began again. It was a steady The tax authorities are courting the favor of the stock market, which to capture the smile of a moment with piles of silver and pay in gold and finally achieve "Jewish emancipation"

1

as offerings. That's what the stock exchanges were for. Barone was gracious enough to temporarily list the papers at a slightly higher price, and Austria for a short while in their "independent" liberal To have leaves praised as a land of progress. In short The Austrian Empire was systematically subjugated by the financial powers. exploited. The years 1849 to 1859 were a difficult time for Deft-rich, a precious time that led to the founding of a simple organically structured and limited to the essentials Central authority, which includes the judiciary, the army, foreign affairs matters concerning the Reich's finances and a non-hindering, but all non-profit enterprises, especially the Regional culture promoted through strong support by the Oberauf= View of the internal administration of the individual countries, encompassed, and gave the entire monarchy a solid foundation, would have to be used. In this way, Frederick brought the Great, his city devastated by the Seven Years' War and Depleted land in increased fertility. It was lacking in Austria. not to statesmen to solve this task. The former Minister=President of the Archduke=Regent of the Realm von Schmerling, for example, distinguished himself through the eminent solution of his= a task that was extremely difficult at the time, as a so= and at the same time proven himself to be a loyal Austrian. But such Men are useless. They called for the most important offices, upstarts or limited Heads. In short, that precious time was lost with costly futile and fruitless experiments to gain favor the stock exchange and to reconcile irreconcilable political Enemies. Everything remained unclear and confused, and the fishing

(Through murky waters, it continued undisturbed.)

*) This was written before the imperial patents concerning the new
The design of Austria appeared, which was what we Deftreich

— 8 —

The dangers of this constant growth of the money masters
fchschaft and its looming omnipotence in the social and political sphere Table life is significantly enhanced by the fact that the Money power is largely in the hands of the Jews.
finds, whose wealth during the last twelve years has grown incredibly again. More and more are taking over.
They are of trade, of industry, of the press, of the ground—property and public offices. In positions that were assigned to them Even if they are still inaccessible, they at least have eager Representatives, and mostly those who, although they no longer by religion, but by nationality belong. They tirelessly make use of these achievements.

to his own and the salvation of the world, to the great extent... lasted. Separation of imperial affairs from state affairs.
Affairs of the individual crown lands, establishment of a strong Central authority for the first and granting of self-government the special affairs of the state by the representative bodies of the assembly Zellander: These are sound and excellent basic ideas.
Now comes an intelligent and powerful design. This
Of course, this is hardly to be expected from the old Josephinian bureaucracy.
The scribes will face a reorganization of the state that will change its Rule destroyed and its existence threatened, a persistent pass to oppose siven resistance. The implementation of the Concordat and the free exercise of the rights therein restored to the Church, so such as their vital effectiveness, in teaching and acts of love, encountered the same resistance, which was unfortunately due to the lack of apofto:
lish spirit in a part of the clergy and their weaning was supported by independent activity. The execution of the Imperial patents must therefore not fall into the hands of this bureaucracy.
laid down, but must be entrusted to men who are capable and determined to curb the inhibiting influence of that bureaucracy:

sideways and trust, like the cooperation of all good intentions—to revitalize and maintain active ten in the country. They are found With men like these, “Austria’s star” will soon shine brightly again.
because it is richer than any other state in natural resources and healthy people strength. The magic formula to break their spell is Having found it, we hope that the magic wand will also be present.

— 9 —

in order to make new conquests using them. Through a sharply defined, indelible national character, through religion and political » social organization closely related:
bound, to acquire money through their good, as through their Being exceptionally adept at overcoming their bad qualities, they all use their excellent gifts and great resources on the one hand
A purpose pursued with passion and perseverance. So it is.
they succeeded in granting all the so-called freedoms of the modern liberalism, especially the Ge-advertising, trade, freedom of the press, etc.
the free divisibility and alienability land ownership almost became Jewish monopolies transform.

To hate and despise Jews for that reason would be foolish.
and reprehensible at the same time. A clever and powerful opponent,
He can be all the more certain of his victory the more he despises will be. Arrogant and boastful peasants, who the Ju-to despise them and yet not be ashamed to visit them-gen, fare the easy and safe prey of their humble believers-bigger, which, certain of its eventual triumph, the Be-Patiently endure insults. Be despised and insulted.
Not the Jews, but learn thrift from them.
Sobriety, perseverance and mutual active assistance, and beware of their mistakes. Not Jews-consequences, but rather emancipation from the Jews! | .

To answer the question of how this emancipation brought about and counteracting the absolutism of money power-
These pages are intended to contribute to making an impact.
May they lead to further reflection on the great social

Question, but especially to encourage joint action.

Democracy is taking on a new challenge under the talented leadership of [name omitted].

fe 2

— 10

well-known Schultze~~Delitsch~~ and others of the need of the hand~~Workers and laborers~~ through the establishment of advance associations and associations to procure cheap food with energy~~It promises success. Let's not be discouraged by it.~~ men and let's not give her access to an area which the Christianity has cultivated since its founding.

The times thirst for Christian deeds. When grist~~True men and women with courage, energy and valor~~ trusting in divine assistance to proceed with the work and do not shy away from mostly only apparent challenges~~If you have the necessary skills, the success will exceed all expectations.~~ The history of Christianity offers thousands of examples of this. Prove it, and if God allows his enemies to temporarily prevail, In this way he also shows us what intelligence and determination are. and perseverance, even in a bad situation.

E20

— 2

I. Jewish domination act and Jewish revelations.

The excitement caused by the French February ~~Revo~~
The lution that arose among the people turned in many ways Regions of France, Germany, Bohemia and Hungary unexpectedly turned against the Jews and struck many times into a formal persecution of Jews. Every friend of the Order and the enemy of unlawful violence must be the to deeply lament such excesses. The true friend of the father-However, mere regret will not be enough for the country.

not to turn around, but to raise the question of what to do.
This could happen to prevent repetition and further Dissemination of these violations of rights to prevent harm to persons and property.

To solve this task, it is primarily necessary to... necessary

to investigate the reason for the bifer appearance and in this way a cure for the ailment in the to prepare the root.

One might initially think of religious fanaticism.
And this is indeed the reason on which one can... medieval persecutions of Jews generally date back-has led to. Those excesses alone have, among other things, in the took place in the most "enlightened" regions of Germany, and it can therefore be all the more likely to be religious fanaticism-less the speech than religion itself in a large-
A large part of the local population lost their influence

*

— 2

*

— 12 BR

has. Also, intolerance is the N of the German, especially foreign to southern German.

Venn also, regardless of the people, against the Jews
If there is a revolt, the reason must lie in something else.

The following facts are essentially derived from

from the official reports which were published after the,

presented to the first united state parliament
Memorandum on the Conditions of the Jews
Those who have been reimbursed may be suitable, to shed some light on this important social issue, to
There is no doubt that these are from life.
The basic outlines of the presentation also apply to the upper Rhenish Jews, who in Germany, those persecuted gungen hauptfachlich ausfe stfen sind.

From the aforementioned memorandum and its accompanying text:

The tables added generally result in the following:

Number of Jewish inculpates among the Jewish inhabitants

I, which then receives fi as 12 to 1000, which of the Christian
The proportion of Christian inhabitants is approximately 6 to 1000.
The Jews thus have an inculpate of 83, among the Christians are accused of inculpability in 166 cases. Most crimes

The Jews' actions are based on self-interest and greed.
The court of appeals found the root of the problem in their na tional peculiarity and in its position the Christ opposite: Since crimes were rarely committed by Jews against Jews would be committed. Wages, agriculture and livestock farming ha
The Jews are a prejudice based on the Talmud.
They usually only practice crafts when they have their large Number, as in Posen, forces it, or the work next
The thing is, the sale of the products is the main thing.
Earnings through work, which the German holds in such high esteem,
It holds no appeal for the Jew. f

In the Rhine Province, where the Jews had been since a half a century in which more extensive civil rights were granted are, their states take shape according to the aforementioned here official reports, almost verbatim, in the following White.

8

The Jews are driving in the peace court districts the local rural cantons usually trade in livestock or

They deal in goods and rarely engage in a craft.

or agriculture. They conduct their business in the Rule only small, wandering around in worn-out clothes, to start with rags and old iron.

With established products, this business is completed⁸ extends to meat, household goods and other articles until they gradually move on to larger objects; they find their bill usually with the country folk who live in Er⁸ lack of suitable and extensive credit institutions in their financial difficulties were almost exclusively due to the Jews dependent find. ' Ä

Prejudice occurs most frequently in the livestock trade.

this is evident in the fact that the Jews, apart from the price of cattle, an addition to potatoes, grain, wheat, etc.⁸

condition, and demand deliveries at a time when Prices tend to rise to the highest levels. Now

A balance is demanded and given; the farmer still borrows.

Money in addition, promises the interest and also another

Compensation in the form of fruit. Upon expiry of the received

Ausstands repeats a similar procedure, and so

It continues until the debtor, upon presentation of the statement by the Interest rates on the highly accumulated final bill completely disappeared into the in the hands of his Jewish creditor, to whom it is not

It is difficult to access the real estate through court proceedings or notarial deeds.

A legal document to obtain mortgages. The Subha⁸

Station and the ruin of the debtor is almost never far⁸

The development of these tragic events. Many reasons⁸

Possessions thus fell into the hands of the Jews.
Many rural people have been impoverished. It often turned out... established that by partially retaining the capital simu= Lirte files, sales for resale, intrusion of goods and foodstuffs, etc., the debtor unusually= were heavily pressured and plunged into greater debt than the Jewish creditor had to demand.

According to reports from the Koblenz Regional Court, the

—

3 11

People facing financial difficulties, who are involved in the Ver= aid for the inhabitants of the Moselle and the Eifel mountains only which happens too often, necessarily turning to the Jews and it has frequently appeared in such cases during the court proceedings.
actions show that in a similar way to how he above= believes that usurious oppression has taken place. The Jews are therefore almost a third of those at the peace conference=

involved in legal disputes occurring before judges.

Even in the Trier Regional Court, Jews are generally... the bankers of the peasants, by also the uninsured tend to make advance payments, allow long appointments and do not promise more than the statutory interest rates, since= However, they achieve their main advantage by...

To give fruits, wine, etc. as a secondary gift, which

It is not credited to either principal or interest.
Retail=Trade of spices=Goods and provisions is almost exclusively in their hands, and is therefore also to usury, in which the merchants also use the ab here:

Provided the recipients with accommodation, but for this accommodation Lie≠
Take assumptions that are not taken into account.
The plight of the peasants is usually used to justify a to do business with them or to enforce an existing claim to enlarge. The farmer who cannot pay goes all conditions to initiate legal proceedings to settle a claim; he makes partial deliveries, Advance payments without a receipt, goods that he didn't even own cannot use, at high prices, can be used for cash.
to add to the earlier guilt, even if he has no money

He who needs to sell his harvest before its time and without being able to overlook the price, in order to... to immediately appease pressing creditors. The≠

But he pursues his goal tirelessly, achieving a Hy≠ pharmacy prescription, or even a voluntary judgment and is ultimately in the possession of the subject through the sub-station.
The farmer's like.

The report of the Regional Court of Saarbrücken, which at the extraordinary large number of Upper Rhine Jews, who already knew Napoleon J.

— GE. —

to a ban on their establishment in other provinces
the empire caused, especially precise and comprehensive was able to make perceptions. After this Reports feed the people in the small towns and villages≠
Jews living far away only from small-scale trade. Not a single one.

"pursues a bourgeois trade which involves physical exertion"

gung requires and if, for example, a Jew himself sirs his fields

cultivated, so this only happens through Christian day wages

ner or servants. Most of their business consists of...
Livestock trading, leasing of livestock, sale of goods and Foodstuffs, and in lending transactions. They proceed with an incredible diligence and activity to the Ge Opportunity to find out where to do business. You
They run tirelessly from village to village, from house to house, explore all circumstances in order to...
driving, whether a farmer is caused by circumstances can be done, to buy or to do anything sell.

The impoverished farmer who owns little livestock and land owns three whose farming cannot feed him, who besides that, he also works as a day laborer, cart or those who run another business are most at risk. From Pressed by his creditor, he ends up with nothing.
deres left over, as his cow, his goat, or his horse sell. Is the Jew, as is often the case, himself the urgent creditors, so he accepts the piece as payment instead, otherwise against cash, with which the creditor is satisfied is being digt. It is characteristic that such a Ge
It is usually structured in such a way that the debtor is not entirely is freed from his debt, but the creditor receives a
The right to demand arrears is retained. Here is the Jew buyer.

But it gets even worse if he's a salesman;
Suppose that person has lost his cow or his horse;
For a farmer, happiness is having a milking cow.
possess so much that he is easily tempted to buy it,
if he finds credit. He gladly gives in to persuasion.

—

— 16 —

Believing that he will later find the means to pay.
However, because he is not making a cash payment, he must...

To accept cattle at excessively high prices.

He is given extended deadlines for payment, often from several Approved for years. The promissory notes issued for this purpose
They usually contain the condition that the money is to be deposited into a can be demanded once if a payment deadline from The debtor is not complying... How easily does the distressed, dependent on the influence of the moment
Bauer hopes that he will make the small fixed-term payments
I will perform the service without complaint. The first and second
The payment will be made on time. (Praise be to punctuality!)
The creditor's statements follow the payer's willingness to pay, indicating that...
It doesn't matter which day it is, that it is not so strict.
means it is. The next appointment appears, but not the fault.
ner. With the last stroke of the bell this day, on which If the poor debtor fails to make the payment, he is in the inescapable power of the creditor who does not delay, to announce it to the terrified debtor. He has the Lacking the money he surely expected in his trade,
He has suffered damage, he has had to give up a large profit
He could go to extremes; he is tempted to do so.
and justified, however, he once again shows mercy over justice.
to go. But at what cost? The debtor has Still grain, potatoes, hay, hemp in the house, or on the Fields which serve to obtain new payment deadlines.
Nor can he resist the persuasion that he had old farming implements, horse harnesses, etc., which were his creditors possess or goods with which they have delt, usefully usable, whose price he could afford against a
The new promissory note is readily credited. He pays and performs as long as he is able to, without withdrawing from the
to be able to escape the hardships of his situation. Finally, he is no longer able to pay or perform further. Then The lawsuits and executions begin. For every guilty party
A special judgment will likely be obtained. The execution in The attempt to seize movable property soon proves fruitless. The debtor will

Sn

ee A

forced to sell the creditor land, with which Seemingly mitigating, but not reducing the purchase price clause of the right of repurchase. Finally, the legal proceedings begin.

purchases of the remaining properties. It is the Beginning of the misery, the description of which our a er will be done.

To fully illustrate this unfortunate

"may the pernicious conditions be exacerbated by the substance drawn from the same source"

The fact is that in the Justice of the Peace districts, in where most Jews live, most of the trials and although largely raised by Jews. The poor Farmers and craftsmen who associate with them,
So, in addition to the exorbitant profits, an enormous sum must also be paid.

pay court and legal fees.

So far, the official reports.

The nature and

Show how Jewish financial power spread in wider circles particularly evident in the larger cities. Here is their Activity preferably in stocks and stock market transactions directed. There are respectable men among them who in terms of solidity and integrity in trade and Stock market trading enjoys a well-founded reputation.

The one-sided direction of the Jews and their inclination alone for profitable risks in trade and transport, it is like this.
so great that a real danger to the country not infrequently arises from it.
stood. We experienced this a few years ago, that the Stock market fraud, especially in Berlin, where almost all stock exchanges... senmänner are Jews or of Jewish descent, an extension and reached a level through which the national wealth still bleeding wound, and thousands of Innocent people were robbed of their fortunes. Bankers, Those who did not have 50,000 Thalers in assets subscribed in that ever-increasing competition of passionate ge-Winnssucht sums which exceeded their assets tenfold.

Later, during the general hardship and high prices,
We saw these swindlers involved in the grain trade.
Prices were driven far above their natural level through sham purchases.

8 ö ö 2

* €:
me.

130

— 18 —

The height was increased and exploited by those who enjoyed this mood.
tendentious and exalting greed for profit to the extreme-drove. The beginnings of the first French Revolution, in which only quells the fury of the masses through artificial price increases-rung and unleashed the fight against the Accapareurs and used to handle attacks on the political order has shown to every impartial observer that this is back-blind fanaticism of self-interest alongside the greatest political dangers are also social.
pulls.

Let us further consider the phenomena which have occurred.

in the competition of Jews in other trades ge-as has been shown, it follows that they only exceptionally do so-wise individuals participate through their own productive work, and integrate themselves into
 to limit the rule to the founding of Magato exploit the labor of others. The owner of the Maga-Interest is negotiated at trade fairs, markets, in bankruptcies, etc.
 the fifth material which he, since its secret Miüngel's bills are usually calculated far below the Market prices were achieved. He often uses the following methods to do so.
 Mediation of that well-known type of crook who opposes low deposit, take goods on credit to pick them up later-to resell them at rock-bottom prices, and the Ver-to cheat the buyer out of the remainder of the purchase price. The Ver-
 The processing of this material is largely carried out not by craftsmen, but by other persons-Those who have learned individual manual tasks mechanically. The the tenacious, tireless industriousness characteristic of the Israelites-keit, due to their one-sided lifestyle, often leading to vir-Trained in tuosity, they find this traffic particularly useful-which is beneficial, and makes them suitable to help the Christians in to outpace this traffic. The ones in these magazines Therefore, goods that are offered for sale can be sold more cheaply.
 that, than the actual craftsman is capable of. This and their equally characteristic dexterity in tirelesslichen, hawkishly offering their wares to ridicule-preifen, where the e "mundus vult decipi" is the

— :49- 235

The most widespread application is to guide the quantity, and They increase their sales.

The wealthy, numerous middle class, which formerly in German cities the genuine, honorable citizenry
 What made it special is being increased day by day by this competition.
 more ruined. His workshops are large.
 Partly deserted; and many masters are forced to work at a to beg the owner of a Jewish magazine for work. This The focus will be on the craftsmen seeking work, who sifted through the cleverly exploited N under the ge= reduce the usual daily wage. In a similar way to The country folk will pay these craftsmen with money: and Wan: renvorforschüfse dergestalt in the credit network of their employer entangled in the fact that they were no longer actually free men, but are mindless servants. Yes, that's how we see them. There have even been individual cases known in which masters of clever traders through brilliant conditions and on= Initially attracted by the punctual fulfillment of the same, one from= sufficient customer base abandoned in order to work solely for the dealer work, and afterwards be enslaved in the manner indicated to become. The minority of Christian masters who came from May this unfortunate struggle still bring some relief from better times. Having been saved, there is nothing left to do but do the same, to Saving their own existence, also magazines too green= to contribute to that, the truly German relationship to transform the relationship between master and journeyman into a state of affairs, which fills every feeling person with sorrow. What the German nation in honorability, civic loyalty, family= and genuine sense of freedom through this gloomy transformation The loss is even greater than the destruction of the material prosperity, which this respectable class of citizens enjoys in the proletariat was pressured and they were deprived of civic consciousness. robbed.

In recent times, Jews have been denied the right to acquire plots of land that were previously almost certainly forbidden to them= was determined, in the hope that she herself would dedicate herself to agriculture. dedicate, through the culture of the patriotic e to establish a truly national connection with the people= That hope, too, has not been justified. Instead of cultivating the field, they immediately began to to trade in land, and this is in has become a true national calamity in many regions.

The above information contains only facts. listed, which have their full impact on the experiences of our readers Confirmation will be found, and therefore further details may be needed. Drawings will be dispensed with. That these facts through Since some exceptions cannot be refuted, it requires No implementation. Exceptions prove the rule.

And please don't try to impose your opinion on us,
as if we were blaming this phenomenon on the individual.
Rather, they are the result of a story involving several people.
Ten thousand years and through the origin, the ritual ge-sets, the way of life, the national peculiarity and
The religion of the Jews is conditional. In all these relationships
They form a direct contrast to German Nationality, against German sense and German-sches Wesen, as well as against the German Spirits so closely related to the spirit of the Christian-
The Jews are both a foreign people and a foreign religious society. Its national and religious...
Göser's character has a sharpness of character, as with keiother nations. They possess great advantages and great Mistakes. But we Germans find both equally dangerous.
because we have precisely the opposite flaws and advantages:
Ben. The German is generally honest, loyal, and hardworking:
silly, good-natured and gullible, easygoing, less profitable-
He is considered hedonistic and prone to excess.
how it was created to be operated by the clever, busy, and efficient:
seed, persistent, moderate, but passionate gain-to be exploited by addicted Jews. The German can
It is easier for a Jew to become a German than for a Jew to become German. The Ju-
They are and will remain merely a foreign stake in Our flesh. We do not accuse the stake.
on; but nobody will blame us if

B 91

we cry out in the pain he inflicts on us caused when we perceive with horror-men, like the suppuration after every attempt at healing.
It continues to spread further and further.

It may have been fine for a thousand years, since the first Ju-who came to Germany; only time has passed in the past-
The existing relationships remain unchanged. The Jews are without Doubts have progressed, but on their particular Ways and in their special way. Precisely that-half, because their progress is tied to the path of their character has compressed together peculiarly religious endeavors,

Is their progress more significant and extensive than ever before?
of nations, in whose midst they live. We have seen, that this progress will not be to the advantage of those nations That's enough. Rather, it's the opposite, only in order to... so stark and detrimental it has emerged.

In France, where the Jews have been for fifty years possessing civil and political rights lasts
according to the provisions contained in the aforementioned state documents careful investigations, their national separation continuing undiminished strength, even in Paris, where otherwise the nationalities would change over the course of several They tend to fade over the years. The same experience makes one on the Upper Rhine and in all the Ge inhabited by them genden. After a relocation lasting more than a thousand years.
They have the specific [characteristic] everywhere in the middle of the populations.
Judaism in its own unique way, distinct from the surrounding Na tionality of a separate and closed direction preserved, Dog, although some among them are fighting against it have been kicked, so the same will nevertheless, from the material
The power of Judaism did not support it, unlike in previous struggles.
This type not only remains unsuccessful, but like any other attempt... defense from within against an attack from the outside ending with the strengthening of specific Judaism.

Furthermore, this external simulation of the so-called reform |

Jews largely only a semblance of one, and basically for the Natischen, in the middle of which it takes place, is much more dangerous than the

2

r

ie * = N 7

earlier separation, which therefore from our wiser Ancestors made it a condition of the Jews' stay in the Land was made. Precisely this external simulation makes it possible for Jews to turn to other nations and religions to exert a corrosive influence on religious communities, which gradually in political, social, religious and moral terms seeks to dissolve the relationship into a primordial soup, in order to then to be easily exploited as a raw material.

The behavior of the Jews is most remarkable. observing the newer revolutionary movements pay attention; for it is the simple result of their selfish, alienated from the people and their national interests, lung, their peculiar art, from all circumstances. to draw part. After this, they could, for example, from the nation, the enthusiasm of the Poles will not be affected, since they at the same time it had to be obvious that participation in those revolutionary movements lead to ruin, while loyalty will lead to great advantages. Public Papers have been reported to us in his time that they were in that Berlin— The calculation was not misleading, that they were like in France before through the success of the revolution, as in Poland through the preparation and the failure of the same to great extent He has amassed riches. The near future will be for Both provide more compelling evidence, and has, since these words were first written down, in only delivered in abundance.

In the German political press we encounter other appearances. Here their political voices have emerged, leader of the endeavors of the political and ecclesiastical radicals Kalism is associated with it, and they stand among the latest political Agitation is almost everywhere at the forefront of the instigators. These Its appearance takes place largely in the history of the first French Revolution and its consequences, their explanation. Of political and national passions and exaltation, Undaunted, the Jews at that time were silent and inconspicuous. as always only pursued their own advantage, and have wandered Amid the general excitement, he tirelessly fished in murky waters.

en. U

When the French people during and as a result of fine
The first revolution shattered the crowns of kings and princes, he gained
The Jews removed the precious stones from these crowns. Scepter and Crozier, diadems and mitres passed unnoticed into their shrines. When the possessions of the princes, the spirit-Having squandered their wealth and the wealth of their nobility, they acquired the same.
for a pittance, and sold them either piecemeal for ten times the amount, or gave them up at increased interest.
Lease. The defunct feudal system was replaced by a new, largely Jewish, moneyed aristocracy, which distinguishes itself from the older, mainly due to a lack of humanity and equality-Validity differed from the fate of his subjects.
When war and revolt, government bonds and other pa-
The Jews, who were in their Speculation about the suffering is as little as about the nation.
The popular uprising was disrupted, most of the-
to acquire them themselves, and won millions on Ko-
The nation's most ardent. How the small Jewish merchant experienced the plight of the Farmers and burghers, that's how Jewish bankers used it back then the financial difficulties of the warring states to cope during wartime-wrestling, cash advances, etc. enormous advantages to extort. That's how it came about that the material gain that upheaval mainly affected the Jews
is. The largest part of the Jewish money men who today-to date, the Rothschild family dominates the stock exchanges of Europe.
at the top, acquired their riches during that time-ben, or laid the foundation for it, while many thousands of fa-families thereby of their possession, of their secured acquisition robbers, and have come to beggar's staff.

Similar causes will also be found in our time.
produce effects and it is therefore almost certain-to foresee that the material gain of every

Upheaval which does not include the emancipation of "working classes, from the power of money to The purpose and success depend almost entirely on... would befall the Jews, while they

the damage through clever foresight and skillful maneuvers

En 7

will want to evade it in time. The latest revolution
In France and Germany, different terms are used for this.
Evidential evidence provided. N

When the provisional government was formed, they came the two most influential ministerial offices, the Finance Ministry and Justice Minister into the hands of Jews. The lawyer Crémieux, who served as a member of the previous government
The Chamber of Deputies never enjoyed particular esteem.
had, became Minister of Justice and proclaimed at a celebration
a possible occasion, France has now become Freemasonic
the. La France est devenue maçonnerie. Because it has the motto of this order: Liberty, Equality and Fraternity adopted. Finance Minister Goudchoux resigned.
off, after he so firmly established the intermediate courses of the February days had set up, as Rothschild demanded, who thereby went to various unrefuted newspaper reports millions
They are supposed to have won.
In this way, the Jews simultaneously became masters of the Public finances, and thereby gained an unpredictable Influence on all those who derive their livelihood from the state treasury refer, in particular to the armed people's yeast, mobile called the National Guard, which is of course entirely in the hands of whose was the one who paid her out her, the wealthy Classes extorted through taxes, guaranteed pay.

According to various reports, the influence of the Jews on the provisional government from day to day more clearly, and made itself known throughout the entire administration.

tion in a highly questionable manner. The sinking the course which came about as a result of the revolution, ruin not only the small fund owner, the probably having middle class, which, due to stagnation of Businesses, the general cash crunch and the increased Debts, or, to meet incurred liabilities could, was forced to sell at any price. The row

The rulers of the stock exchange and their henchmen, on the other hand lost only seemingly and nominally, while in the
That they made enormous profits; knowing full well what was to come

u BB

would, they made big sales beforehand, kept their remaining funds, since the need of the moment does not allow stirred, and gradually bought more of the items from ih an arbitrarily determined low course the "Funds of wealthy citizens added. As soon as in this way they as much as possible the bourgeoisie
They had looted the courses by means of the thousand levers, via which they command, rise again, and were rei dearer than ever before. This was stated in the first edition.
This writing predicted it, and its success only confirms it.
This has been very well confirmed. In the capital cities and residences Since 1848, these have been a series of the most beautiful palaces and Country houses passed into the hands of the Jews, others with a level of luxury previously unheard of in private homes
It has been newly built. The Jews feel their money is being used as a tool.
fchist ft ft so ft ...
Look.

The owners fared similarly to the fund holders.
of factories and manufactories. These fell into disrepair after and then stalled; their owners went bankrupt and
The establishments then fell into the hands of those who Fishing in troubled waters.

That is the reason why we are among the Wüh today

Learn to find as many Jews as possible.

Rothschild was once supposed to go to someone who cared about...

niffe expressed concerns about the disruption of European peace, ge-
They said: "There is no war; I'm not giving any money."
to that." And he was right; but with the same reason he could have
He might be able to say: "There is war, there is revolution."
tion, because I'm contributing my money." But now...
Whether he gave it away or someone else did, in any case it is Undoubtedly, such an influence on the surprising-has contributed to the events of our time. For this speak, in addition to the internal and external ones already mentioned Reasons, including many individual circumstances; which account for these major movements have guided them, preceded them or followed them-

=, 196:

followed. This is supported by the fact that it runs through the entire series of events seemingly passing through red fa-the one which has already been proven several times and on a unified approach, on consistent adherence-This system can be closed. This system appears to be based on the
to be based on a practical principle, the honorable Be-rousing the people for freedom and father-to exploit the land for selfish purposes and to a large-scale speculation on the downside use those that increase national prosperity in its
The foundations are shaken. This is the dreadful
The flip side of the stock market scam that started five years ago...
The same side was artificially aroused and exploited.

If the people do not free themselves from this leadership, which leads to...
It is not possible to control a large part of the press.
a separate, understandable way to escape the rule of the
not only to get rid of money power, but it can also be achieved through the presented by clever or self-deceived leaders Building castles in the air and leading people astray will also lead to this.
to have the sad experience that, however through The uprising of 1813 ended the rule of the bureaucracy, so through the uprising of 1848 the far more unbearable coercion-
The rule of the money men was only more firmly established.
has been.

Therefore, we are convinced that it is the Ge-

A feeling of becoming increasingly unbearable pressure and future total suppression
the cause of the social revolts which overall of them have broken out against the Jews. Of course.
The Jews are by no means the only ones from whom This pressure comes from the working classes. It's a lot. more the absolute, through no human and National considerations restrained financial power, which without having to work oneself, all the advantages of the so-the aforementioned freedom of acquisition and trade al-exploits the self and abandons itself

8

Protection and disorderly work are crushing and enslaves.

If we were to take a radical standpoint,
So, with the above declaration, we would also consider the right-have found evidence of the excesses in question.

We alone do not stand by this viewpoint, we hate-
The act of violence, whatever the reason may be.
That is precisely why it is our wish that the cause of that be discovered.
eliminate deplorable phenomena, not by means of new ones Exceptional laws, not by deceptive refusal of the Ar-work on depleted and overburdened state coffers, that beloved information tools, which weaklings used to compensate for their lack of Insight, malicious agitators their lack of good will-
to truly and sustainably help the people, to hide, not through alms, in whatever form one might put them-
the may, but through legal and cooperative Protection of the people's work and property against-Legendary power, cunning, morals: and dishonor of Christian people:
probably a Jewish usurer. N

We would like to briefly attempt to indicate how, according to our Opinion without restriction of true freedom here-most outstanding social evils without injury, well-acquired-could be controlled by rights. If one finds this Be-

Conditions too harsh, well then! So wait until the evil subsides.
prescribes a harder one.

II. Emancipation from the Indians.

I submit the following proposals to judgment.

all those who are able not only to do the same criticize, but also offer something instead of what is not accepted.
To suggest something practically better and more effective.

a) Organization of trades.

J. It is necessary to prevent the trade:
furthermore, driven by incompetent, immoral people, their Earnings withdrawn, the business degraded and the honor of the trades is being undermined; it is not agile, that this highly respected class is just as little like the Civil servants or officers are no longer obliged to...
To tolerate worthy members and lazy elements among oneself;
Furthermore, it is necessary that the public has a guarantee
I am responsible for the efficiency and solidity of the work. This
The objective can perhaps be achieved through the following provisions.

§ 1. Anyone who practices any craft or trade themselves
Anyone who wants to operate it continuously must prove that they have done the same before learned in writing, an exam before a
the members of his trade association elected commission who has so far led an unblemished life.

8.2. Anyone convicted of a dishonorable crime is or by a legally binding judgment of the Provincial College declared unworthy of his trade § 5. of the master craftsmanship becomes, loses the right to operate his business independently.

Trade. However, the trade is obligated to the same trade.
to create an opportunity to act as an assistant to another person to earn his living and entitled to him after one year, the independent practice of his trade by resolution of the Wee of its members such as to allow it.

| II. It is necessary to understand the common spirit of the trades
To awaken and enliven the driving forces, it is necessary to...
to enable them to pursue their interests independently to step in, to free them from the tutelage of officials and give them the feeling of unity, independence and strength to provide protection and defense. Therefore, let us establish:

§ 3. The members and dependents of each Crafts or trades of a city or country districts or several combined trades, form a Guild.

§ 4. Every guild has a board of directors, which is composed of all self-employed business owners and a similar
The number of assistants and journeymen is determined by the election of certain assistants and journeymen.
is chosen.

§ 5. The purpose of the guild is

1. the interests of industry to the state, the Ge to represent the community and other guilds.
2. Their dependents in financial, employment, and other capacities
To support those in need;
3. concerning the honorable business operations of the members, as well as the treatment and performance of his journeymen and apprentices to watch;
4. concerning commercial disputes between family members to decide on the 1st;

to punish minor offenses disciplinarily;

6. through their board or elected members to allow referees to exercise their statutory functions;

7. concerning the exercise of these rights and the means to exercise them
To achieve this purpose, the guild is drafting its statutes.
which, however, does not impose any restrictions on the freedom of trade

ae. 80:

unit for those legally authorized to conduct business
may hold.

III. It is necessary for the state and the communal not only to give them an opportunity, but to enable them to to make it a legal obligation to ensure the expertise of those Ge advertisers, which are considered by their colleagues to be the most advantageous most esteemed members of the trade are recognized for purposes to use legislation and administration to prevent legal and other regulations from being implemented in Ge Advertising materials without the necessary expertise and without proper preparation sufficient consideration of the wishes and interests of the Those involved must be met; higher levels of intervention are necessary.
to form committees for guild affairs, the Ge to give advertisers the opportunity to showcase their best products to distinguish nosses also externally; it is finally necessary
The trades are also ultimately decided by the Bureau
To emancipate democracy; therefore, let us establish:

F. 5. The following are formed in each administrative district:

a) a trade association from each trade;

b) a chamber of commerce encompassing all trades.

2. For the entire state:

a) A central trade association for each trade;

b) a central chamber of commerce for all trades.

§ 6. The trade associations are chaired by the:

guilds of each trade elected,
and have, among other things, the purpose of:

1. To decide on the loss in 195 instances of trade law (§ 2.);
2. to carry out the examinations through commissions a) those journeymen and assistants who have an independent to establish a business, and b) the apprentices who become journeymen or want to become assistants;
3. to form the second instance for all decisions, which in the first instance by the guilds or their representatives states will be reached;
4. at the request of the state and municipal authorities to provide expert opinions on matters relating to their trade,

8 1 ER

which before the decree of all their trade or district
Finally, the relevant orders must be obtained.

8.7. The Central Trade Association is led by elected to all provincial colleges of every trade.
The same applies to the business activities described in § 6, 4.
in matters that do not merely concern individual direction refer to districts.

§ 8. The Provincial Chamber of Commerce elects the Provincial Trade Association of each trade of the Departments as a member, in larger and more important cases:
They recruit two to three members. Their task is:

1. To provide expert opinions in matters which involve more affect other trades;
2. in first instance for commercial disputes more to the guilds or the members of different guilds decide;

3. to oversee the provincial trade schools through committees to oversee and guide.

§ 9. The Central Chamber of Commerce is formed from the Central Trade Colleges formed in the same way as the provincial chambers of commerce from the provincial trade colleges; their purpose is:

1. In business matters involving several or all Businesses throughout the state or in several provinces to meet, to submit their expert opinion, which will be reviewed by all legal bodies. or administrative orders are required;

2. To make proposals for improving trade;

3. possibly the general trade institute, which which has so far failed to fulfill its purpose, through a to lead and supervise the commission, the teachers before strike, and for the reorganization and ongoing to ensure its development.

§ 10. The Provincial Trade Associations and Trades Chambers meet twice a year in the main town of their district; the Central Trade Associations and the Central Trade chamber annually in Berlin.

§ 11. For the validity of their decisions, the following is sufficient:

ir 50,

The essence of half its members. If the Half one, so the assembly is complemented by election. by representatives from the place of assembly or its Surrounding area.

§ 12. A committee, which is located at the meeting place "He has his residence there and takes care of the ongoing business."

In this way it will be possible to regulate trade to protect Benden from bad, ruinous competition, the Community spirit, sense of honor and self-confidence of to raise awareness among tradespeople, and to address complaints about Before-Mouthing and interventions by the state and bureaucracy to remedy this.

Work and industry are given an organism:
give which one they

1. Enables one to help oneself; N

2. the looming threat of a new, overwhelming, all independent, individual activity paralyzing state pre-mouth removed, and

3. to protect the state itself from the unforeseeable dangers freedoms he exposes himself to when he engages in the giant battle with the hundred-headed Hydra of Misery directly and on takes over his own hand. 8

b. Relief funds.

This does not yet address one major problem, which is...
Creditlessness. This affliction, from which the craftsman suffers and the farmer suffers to the same degree, both lead to the Loan sharks, and they are destroying a national fortune.
in possessions and labor, the value of which is the usurious profit ten times more.

To liberate the working classes from this plague
Many measures have already been proposed. However, they are not progressing.
mostly amounts to one dependency creating another, the pressure from usurers through the paternalism of Beto replace officials or landowners. These proposals require-Beyond any refutation. Freedom above all; even the freedom itself.
to ruin oneself if one so desires

u

among others.

I don't want it any other way. So here too, only protection against Superior power and lift. This protection can be: will be sustained by the often-mentioned means of the Aid funds, when these institutions soon come to life, ten, and practical, simple and convenient without narrow-mindedness each. However, it should be arranged that they are free from unnecessary schooling: not to give them an advantage. To achieve this purpose. If sufficient, the following arrangements could be made.

§ 1. A mutual aid fund is established with each tax collection box for Farmers and tradespeople in need of support bound.

§ 2. This is obliged to provide farmers and Ge-advertisers against the provision of such security which who are able to afford them up to ten times the To give the amount of their direct tax to lend if the-
to prove it themselves by means of a certificate from the municipal council, 5 1. that the family fathers, 2. for at least 5 years in "Districts of the relief fund residing as community members, 3.
are blameless, 4. that and for what reasons they are N
through no fault of their own, 5. for what purpose = the loan is to be used, 6. that and from which
For certain reasons, there is a safe prospect of their food supply, to maintain this condition permanently through this use.

§ 3. In order to exercise the right to a second advance payment Furthermore, the establishment of a business must be verified by certified documents.
will be shown that the first one on De re eee ae
The loan was used in the manner specified.

8.4. The loans of the Stötterfaffe will be interest-free.
based on a debt certified by the tax office: | |
The note is recorded in the mortgage register, and a receipt is issued.
deleted by the tax office.

§ 5. The repayment of the loans along with the levies.
This is achieved through surcharges on direct taxes; namely,
unless otherwise stipulated due to special circumstances.
It has been agreed that, by levying double the amount, at Ge-advertisers four times that amount. | N

§ 6. If the tax office refuses the N, then un

18

a Ba am

The loan applicant may lodge a complaint with the district councils.
The complaint is submitted to the district administrator, who then decides...
He immediately dismisses complaints that he considers justified.
to help.

= The losses that occur during accounting specifically to be justified, will be done according to the decision of the state raised through surcharges on direct tax.

§. 8. All farmers who receive these surcharges are entitled to them.
Pay basic tax of less than 10 Thaler, and all class taxes.
Compulsory students of the four lowest grades are exempt.

§ 9. If the losses in a province amount to ei nem 6jährige Durchschnitte mehr als 100,000 Thlr. jähr
If the state parliament can tighten the conditions, then the state parliament can impose a tightening of the conditions.
apply for the rights under Section 2.

c. Establishment of new farms.

If the aid funds become a reality, and not as usual, due to the narrow-mindedness of the executing officers
If the hearings atrophy, they may lead to the point where... to preserve the remaining, wealthy landowners and some who are not yet completely under the control of their dread to free them from it. This alone is not enough to to make amends for past sins. Number rich, sufficient agricultural produce has been available for 50 years. een fe ae Fideikomiffe transformed, partly through cheap zip lifting served to help the rural proletariat

To increase riat. For this loss of true well-being Compensation must be granted to those of noble rank and genuine national strength.

How can this happen?

The government and the National Assembly may

Consider the question, and if it doesn't lead to...

Something better might come to mind, such as the following simple suggestions, which essentially with one of the English Chartists in

Ways of association overcoming the greatest difficulties rigkeiten and with the most blessed success in execution to agree with the brought plan, to connect:

1. The Minister of the Interior is granted a loan of ei

9

air. IB.

One million Thalers for the establishment of peasant farms approved.

2. Several agents will be stationed in each administrative district.
tasked with acquiring purchasable real estate holdings, which are under to have moderate conditions, against approval of a after the success of their efforts to quantify compensation to purchase on behalf of the state.

3. The purchased plots of land are divided into individual farms.
liche places of such size that a peasant family milie can live off the yield, divided, and with the provide necessary farm buildings.

4. These places will then be filled according to the master bid.
ger, namely under the following entries in the mortgage register e conditions apply.

a) The position may not be filled piecemeal, but only as a whole.
zen are sold;

b) only to those who are not already in possession of a

are located on equally sized plots of land;

c) The purchase price can be financed upon request at 9%, credited. and paid off through increased interest payments. become;

d) The contract will be awarded to the highest bidder. the one who is elected by a commission chosen by the district council= sion is recognized as the most capable of managing it.

5. In the same way, the Parzelli is gradually used= procedure for all domains, with the proviso that that instead of the purchase price, in addition to a down payment, an annual Grain rent is taken over.

In this way, the shameful usury of the land= buyer, whom the rural people of many areas now protect and to succumb defenselessly, a stop was made, and the impending doom Growth of the proletariat in the large cities, which to summon the landowners who have become propertyless every year, A dam was built to oppose it.

The above proposals date back to 1848. They were designed to meet the multiple requirements which at that time, in a social-democratic sense, to the state and the legislation for the liberation of the people from money= were directed towards rule, on practical measures for the He= to limit the occurrence of real evils. Since then, in Prussia through the trade legislation, the provincial= Relief funds and agricultural legislation: Some things in this Things are moving in that direction. Unfortunately, agricultural legislation has... Finally, the basic=relief= swindle was sung in, and there= This has enriched the wealthy farmers even more for now, and paved the way for the land buyers as a consequence. For the maintenance, strengthening and increase of a strong= Almost nothing happened to the predominantly agricultural population. To a greater extent, legislation has addressed the issues listed under a. I— III. designated needs of the trade sector on which its content= The desire was “taken into account” by, under the 9th

3 *

February 1849, soon to be approved by the chambers
 Regulation on the establishment of trade councils craft-based business, the examinations of the hand-workers, the conditions of apprentices, journeymen, assistants and factory workers, the support funds and similar schemes-directions, such as the guild fees and charges.
 According to this law, the following are required for professional craft work:
 Only those who are authorized to operate a business are entitled to do so.
 learned from a self-employed master craftsman and before a commission-mission of craftsmen, in which, of course, in bureaucracy-Certainly, a magistrate person presides, the Ge-have passed their journeyman and master craftsman examinations. They can also Afterwards, businesses are obligated by local statutes.
 will be, the aid and support funds of the craftsmen to join a guild. In contrast, joining the guilds is... gen selbst, as well as the establishment of trade councils not whetherligatory, but optional. The latter also from commu-
 Subject to state approval and ministerial authorization.
 The trade councils are also not responsible for managing things themselves.
 to assign and decide, but only to "advise and to encourage." The decision is rather everywhere the state-Reservations are made by the authorities. The trade councils are therefore only available
 to...
 They came about in only a few places and have nowhere has achieved considerable effectiveness.

u BE

In the now prevailing, self-sufficient corpora-However, the hostile "liberal" current in tive life is of
 There is currently no hope for legislation. The tradesman-
 The trades and businesses must instead help themselves.
 chen, and in addition the statutory association law and the even if even the most limited rights granted to them by the trade laws to make good use of the years 1945 and 1949. At This also marks the beginning of something for individual locations.
 have been. The most significant creations of this kind are without Doubts about the Ge- founded by the excellent Kolping journeymen's associations. But they do not meet the need, which ches a cooperative reorganization of the entire

Craftsmen and tradespeople are required. To
 To bring this about, one must consider history and experience.
 to consult with those of earlier centuries and to stray there-ben, the old craftsmen's corporations with the removal of the Abuses of later times and following the preservation-to revive those who have already recovered and those who have recovered.
 Democracy has dealt with this matter with its usual vigor.
 under the direction of the active and insightful Schulze-~~Delitsch~~ already in hand. She has so-called credit-and consumer cooperatives were founded, which aim to improve credit-Loneliness of individual craftsmen through the establishment of Dar-to remedy the situation with loan funds and the assumption of joint guarantees.
 and the workers' need for food, work-material etc. through bulk purchase at cheap pricesto create. All these efforts encompass However, one-sidedly the material well-being of the handwerker and workers into the eye and vernadl f signify the raising of moral powers, the Be-living out the honor of the class and the establishment of the corporate identityven common spirit and sacrificial sense, which in the trades-Cooperatives were prevalent in earlier times. They only ensure for physical needs, not for spiritual needs, and be-restrict themselves, provided that the latter also take into account incidentally find, exclusively on intellectual education. Christliche Handwerks- und Arbeitervereine (craft and workers' associations) can indeed benefit from them.

— 38 —

They can learn some things, but their real role models must be the old trade associations, which represent the entire populationfchen seized and in the community in all its lives-
 They sought to improve and refine the conditions of existence.
 The restoration of class honor is undoubtedly the most powerful thing.
 The most effective means for this purpose. It must come back to that.
 men, that masters, journeymen and apprentices have no higher honor-Knowing stinginess, as the good and capable masters, journeymen and to be apprentices, and also to appear as such to the world appear. Just as the officer looks after his uniform, so must the Craftsman on the traditional costume and the marks of his hand-

Keep the works. No external honor should be more important to him.
as the recognition and award he received from his
He receives comrades. No dishonor may pain him more deeply.
as if he were losing his craft's honor. In every
The association must therefore be a matter of craft or professional honor.
The main section should be dedicated to this. It must be determined in which It exists, how it is won and lost, how the—nossen mutually acknowledge their respect and deference gen, which recognitions and awards to those
Those who have distinguished themselves in a special way will be included.
Another powerful means of revitalizing the cooperative
The public sphere is the spirit. Shared celebrations, shared Elevators with the trade insignia and in the crafts sector Costumes, which all comrades must attend, would be... to contribute significantly to strengthening this spirit of craftsmanship and the Striving for false appearances, just like the inclination to "the master" to suppress the urge to play. For all this, one will be in proven by the old guild statutes and craft rules Find patterns and examples. Creation must be guided by this.
As in all other fields, a thorough study is required.
of the old and proven way. Whoever follows this path... to subject the substance and present the result in a generally understandable way
If he could and wanted to represent it, he would earn a great merit.
for the craftsmen's class and for the entire national community Acquire a development which in earlier centuries was just That's why he was powerful and rich, because he was truly German.

Ze 56, Ze

{her way of ascending from the particular to the general. Before However, in all these endeavors, it is crucial that... that its leadership is in the hands of truly Christian and German leaders.
Safe men rest, since experience teaches that the best Enterprises for the common good by false friends exploited for their own purposes or with apparent zeal leading to practical nullity and infertility.

The first and most respected in the countryside and in The cities may lead by example, especially But those who consider it important to the clergy, it to bring back to the living awareness that man and especially Christ is not a single atom, but

A member of a society ordered by God is one in which Each individual must fulfill their social obligations.
has, which is not the e but the divine law definitely.

This sense of duty is especially evident in the
to revive higher classes and the conviction to create an entrance so that without it any claim to social rights, the longer, the more one's natural Bo which and origin it loses, and that especially the nobility and Christian knighthood in this social struggle for the highest goods must prove its viability, is especially necessary for a healthy social organization to restore it by way of free association, or the same,
where it still exists, against the powerful encroachment of plutocracy and to maintain and secure their satellites.

Through free, church-led association, the social organisms of early Christian times arose, on
They must therefore also be able to be regenerated in this way.
The root and trunk are still viable, and
With careful maintenance, it is probably capable of producing equally mighty branches.
and to grow branches as they did centuries ago.

d. Emancipation from the liberal press.

No one capable of judgment who deals with newspapers and journal-reading, can seriously deny

-

3: AO =

ten, that the so-called liberal press, which is also libera
She serves the power of money. She eats her bread and sings her song.
Under frivolous pretexts, she dutifully fights every Measure which restricts the business of their masters entry can do. Everything that this involves buying or selling, at Loans at high interest rates, at Erlangen external Honor and power, on the parity with the first and

 The most distinguished of the land and in the rule over those
 Those who lack money are hindered, finds support in the liberal
 The pages contain unanimous contradiction. But everything that the Monetary monopoly promotes and increases, as does unanimous agreement.
 The fact that they are being fought is therefore a sure sign that the contested measure beneficial to the common good, the Ab-Solutism is detrimental to the power of money, and vice versa.
 From this follows the practical lesson for governments and peoples, that they are usually on the right track if they do that Opposite of assuming and doing what the liberal Seriously advise them. Of course, assuming that they not through multiple feint maneuvers à la Louis Napo-Leon, let the little baptism happen. Only through such absolute disbelief Ben and the most unconditional distrust of these False prophets of the daily press can be believed to free the people from the oppressive and unbearable situation, actually by a bunch of journalists and their bread-to be patronized by a master in such a way that they are in unison choir, whose heartfelt wishes for public May-to shout out the new and thereby equal the paid theater-Claque stuns the audience and sweeps them away. Je-Dermann knows from his own experience that it is not quite
 It is easy to resist such a current. Almost involuntarily.
 One applauds along and is guided by the logic of the fact-
 The matter of publicly bestowed applause is captured. It—
 It includes character and a firm resolve to stand up against such influences and impressions, especially when they are like this Repeat daily, to arm oneself. But whoever always has it in mind retains the fact that they are the paid wage servants of the moneyed power, who write in the liberal newspapers, will be her sirens-

5

un 41 — R

singing — even if it were a folder — no longer tempt him. He will be lured by black-eyed Jewish boys.
 a healthy common sense and one's own judgment

Don't let yourself be swindled anymore. Then the liberal Lorelei will have her Power lost and can no longer sing of "freedom, Equality and Fraternity" of All (the bankers of the (large gambling den excluded, of course) the "Skipper in small ships" that only go up high and not the Seeing the abyss at his feet, he can no longer wear anything.

In ordinary business transactions, in legal matters,
in cases of illness and other everyday encounters
In life, one only trusts a judgment or advice if...
if they come from an impartial expert
No one relies on people in trade and commerce.
who have an interest opposed to his own, or even seeking their own advantage at his expense. The Jew criticizes the horse which he bought from the farmer and praises
the one he wants to sell him. Who believes that?
Half, that this is good and that is bad? By the lawyer!
No one seeks advice from their opponent. Is he the same?
even the most honorable, blameless and capable Man, he lacks impartiality; he serves my opponent and therefore cannot simultaneously represent my interest and "Take care of my well-being. That's what every healthy person says."
Common sense. The liberal newspapers are now but nothing other than the paid ones
Advocates of money power. The rich Jew Mira In Paris, he buys newspapers upon newspapers in order to...
to influence public opinion in the interest of his speculations influence. Likewise, almost all other liberal newspapers in in the hands of rich capitalists and shareholders, who are to all their editors, staff and correspondents ten categorically demand, in the event of danger of release, that the newspaper in all its parts is edited as it should be best serves their interests. But the healthy Human understanding, which the peasant, craftsman and Ar that Beiter manages his daily business so securely seems to leave him as soon as he picks up the newspaper.

 Caution and mistrust are replaced by...
 Greatest credulity; every word is believed, and I completely forgot that they were mostly cheap wage laborers of the
 It is the moneyed elite who hold the power there. Will this
 It was made clear to the readers and deeply impressed upon them, thus it becomes no one wants to be guilty of folly anymore, at to teach his enemies a lesson. The mischief Trust against the newspapers will awaken and gradually... spread it further and then the aura which the Printed materials, and especially newspapers, still surround us at the moment.
 Of course, as long as there are still nobles, clergy, and teachers, which the poisoned honey of the Cologne newspaper and similar Enjoying these leaves every day as a matter of habit, and feeling there neither through the boredom of their liberal driveling reienicing, even by their open hostility towards the Church sen, as long as these so-called educated people are still dealing with the to flaunt borrowed wisdom, which they drew from such murky sources Having created, there is little hope that in the under circles of common sense about the jour
 The naval bait has achieved victory. It is therefore the
 The question arises whether it would not be advisable, and even obligatory, to... weakness and incapacity to judge due to a certain degree to come to the aid of a church judgment. The simple The "non licet" of St. John still has a great power over convictions and consciences. One
 One can rebel against this power, but not subdue it.
 press; one can do violence to her like Herod, but not without simultaneously driving the sting into one's own soul.
 First of all, it is the responsibility of private individuals to combine their efforts.
 To remove the bad newspapers from their circles, to:
 urge and replace with better leaves. Did they possess
 Those of a church-oriented and pro-popular persuasion only half of the
 The energy and persistence of their opponents, so the Er
 It should not be doubtful.

ae A:

e. The elimination of debt and Borgens.

Unfortunately, common sense isn't always so wise and th—as self-interest. But the purity of its purposes, which The power of good and the sound judgment of the people, who to deceive and beguile, but not to completely eradicate.
 This easily gives the common sense the upper hand.
 Therefore, it is usually possible for people-friendly men to
 It will not be difficult to protect the farmer and craftsman from the to preserve the networks of money people and to profit from them free, if they have nevertheless gotten caught up in it. Estates, such as In The Merchant of Venice, every Shylock gets an Antonio.
 opposite, so the shameful money slavery would soon be over.
 broken. But even without such Antonios and their Much can be done for riches. A constant warning.
 before the descriptions in the official reports communicated ten pitfalls, especially before incurring your first debt, Beware of the activities of usurers, thwart their Plans, when one perceives that they are a victim on the have grain, more frequent, public and strict rebuke of each one nigen, who voluntarily engage in such shameful money entered into bondage, so that it was considered a sin and It is considered a disgrace to incur such guilt
 kontrahiren, formation of associations for the protection of “er, Work against usury for mutual assistance through Providing trusted intermediaries, by combating the false shame, which in times of financial difficulties prefers to turn to Jews, when approached by the neighbor or pastor, be but moreover, the dissemination of general knowledge of the main cause of the insecurity and pressure which is on the Ge:
 Society is burdened with heavier loads year after year. Is that the problem?
 and its reason was only generally recognized, so it was already clear to him large parts remedied, since it mainly relies on one of Established systems of systematically operated deception of the audience. Above all, however, it depends on that on, on the absolutism of money power,

==. A

as the greatest focal evil, the public to draw attention and to his to call for decisive action against it. Waf

The words "fen" and "battle word" are manifold and can be used according to the
 They may differ under special circumstances. It will depend on that.
 More are missing, if only those who are of good will.
 are courageous enough to get to work. I would like to only everyone borrowing and trading with the Ju^{re} to avoid and prevent it if possible; then would have already encountered a large part of the dangers,
 which, according to the reports communicated at the beginning, Rhineland regional courts caused the ruin of so many families have consequences. As these reports show, the first signs are... the clutches of the conflicts that tend to bring about such ruin, Inconspicuous and seemingly harmless. The first trade
 Is the first, the first borrowing the second step. One Therefore, warn against these first steps. Loosen the nets.
 and fetters of dangerous creditors, when they are still weak are. Rescue is then still easy. But even then, when it has become heavier, when he secretly passes by^{re}
 When ruin breaks openly, one should not neglect the rescue.
 to at least make a serious attempt at repayment. Is the debtor
 If one cannot contain oneself, then at least seek the courtyard, that Business, to save the family. No one finds solace in... the words of Cain: "Am I my brother's keeper?"
 and one will find that nothing is wrong with Christian love.
 It is possible. Here, if anywhere, the following word applies above all:

Principiis obsta.

f. Associations, cooperatives and institutes for Promotion of Christian work and the Christian industriousness.

Most existing clubs, cooperatives and associations Institutes apply their activities to the actual works of the Mercy, therefore, physical, spiritual or morally ill members of the Christian community.
 It is important to consider this magnificent act of love in the

+

To add to the direction that the inherently healthy and strong limbs, which only through their isolation weak and vulnerable find, university instruction, support and assistance granting them protection and thereby protecting them both against the body and Soul-corrupting, ruthless exploitation, through which Pluto= cracy as against the other social dangers of today

Time will be secured.

Such club activities for the protection and promotion Christian work offers a field of such inexhaustible potential. of such diversity and immeasurable scope, as is the case with the work itself. We limit ourselves.

to show, using an example, how this field can be used after in our view could be cultivated by following the draft of a statute of an institute= tuts and a cooperative of sisters of the Christian work, communicate.

1. The Institute and the Association of Sisters Christian labor is placed under special protection. of St. Joseph. Its purpose is:

a) innocent girls in lucrative female hands=

| work and skills an excellent Un:

to provide instruction and thereby enable them to to secure their own livelihood and to support their families;

b) these girls from idleness, amusement, cleaning

and lust for approval, as well as before such service:, work= and to preserve other conditions which their Re= endanger religious integrity and morality; |

c) find in piety, virtue and a God and People's pleasing change, through a enjoyed corporate bond, as well as through joint work, ge shared religious practice and shared joy fasten;

d) free, artistic and independent handwork,
which is spiritually and morally refined and through itself grants the worker joy and satisfaction, which he otherwise seeks in vain in sensual pleasure to he

Se A

to use and spread;

e) the mechanized, degrading and demoralizing
to counteract the siren-like factory work.

2) For this purpose, a vocational school will be established, in which teaching is in profitable female hands
work and skills by proven master craftswomen is granted.

3. The first female masters are appointed by the bishop.

from regions where female manual labor ten and skills in which they are to teach,
on a large scale with recognized success.

4. To accommodate the vocational school, first of all rented suitable premises which included a workroom and the mistresses' apartment. As soon as the funds
If the institution allows it, a separate house will be acquired.

5. The internal affairs of the house are managed in equal terms.
In a similar way to the superior of the Sisters of Mercy, which bears the name "Mother Master", and for the first time Appointed by the bishop, later by the Mei sisters female ministers and assistants were chosen, and confirmed by the bishop.

tigt is.

6. Management and external representation

The position is filled by a bishop appointed by the bishop for a term of 6 years:
stand, consisting of a spiritual superior as leader—sitting, a legal scholar and one of the commercial Businesses that contribute to the advantageous purchase of work-mate required for the sale of the institution's products lich find, kundigen Mitglieder.

- 7. A women's club called St. So:

fephs=Verein, formed in the style of St. Vincent; associations, takes the institution and cooperative under its protection, undergoes the investigation of the young girls which suitable for admission to the cooperative, conveyed This intake provides for the discharged, supports the Board of Directors responsible for labor procurement and sales

a A

the products and monitors the sisters' lifestyles outside of schools.

8. The admission of sisters to the vocational school and cooperatives are decided by the board of directors with consideration based on the proposals of the Ladies' Club and with their approval
the superior. MR

9. The sisters break down into students, assistants nen and maesses.

10. The students pay a tuition fee, which is paid by the Board of Directors with the approval of the Bishop, taking into account the type of handicrafts or arts and crafts in which The instruction is given, determined.

11. However, the tuition fee may be, at the discretion of the Board membership was deferred and paid off after completion of the apprenticeship.
become.

12. Assistants are those sisters who one examined by the master craftswomen and approved by the board
A sample found to be saleable was deposited and one from Board members have received the issued training letter. Their work According to the estimates of the masters, who are the Board members can increase or decrease their salaries, and are paid.

13. Private individuals who employ female workers of the institution Those wishing to employ staff should contact the Mother Superior and pay.
to them the wages which are due for the work of the students the institution, but the other sisters themselves falls. Assistants, who are at least considered to be part of the institution. listened for 3 years, was well managed and one of the remaining to the female masters from the board and from the bishop as before have produced a masterpiece that is recognized in its own right, are appointed "Sister-Master" by the bishop.

14 sisters, who were from the work group Members may leave the institution, but some will remain.
the religious community, as long as it re—fulfill religious obligations and not through the pre
They will be excluded with the approval of the superior.

15. Due to inability, inertia, or injury of Any sister can be exempted from cooperative obligations by the board.

— 50 —

Renewal, which is particularly evident in the Lower Rhine region (in Cologne and Crefeld), in Belgium and France have already been achieved find, as well as some outstanding achievements of individuals within us Our lands provide proof of how great and beautiful things can be.
can be created in this area when the again awakened sense for ecclesiastical art and Christian artistic diligence strongly stimulated, existing strengths developed, promoted and be united into an orderly cooperation.

Such an arts industry would cheaply replace our

To furnish churches with beautiful vestments, in the castles our nobility and the residences of the wealthy citizens Gerstand's the changing fashions: and factory goods through to replace us with more lasting, solid and worthy jewelry.

But all of this is the main thing
The gift remains:

Church education for Christian work.
By engaging in the solution of this, the ecclesiastical community
When subjected to a task, it enters into the mechanism on the one hand.
and materialism, which turns people into machines degrades and exploits their powers, but also contrary to the modern school spirit, which teaches people to learn treated as an abstract rational being and its

Perfection only according to the measure of its general

It measures knowledge and thinking skills. This School spirit would like to unite all of humanity into a society.
a group of scholars and philosophers, both major and minor transforming, but in fact it has the opposite effect, by

he has a sense for healthy mental nourishment and for natural things

the individuality of each person, their lifestyle and Development following the demands of life and refinement dulls, dissatisfaction with reality

keit creates and instead of free Christian workers, rebellious ones educates slaves, whose education is in "knowledge" and "the"

"ken" often only represents the vague idea of being capable of higher things called upon and very involved in the distribution of earthly goods

The fact that it has been shortened has resulted in...

he

The church must counter this modern school spirit with a oppose practical educational systems that are based on the "Ability", towards true natural perfection, briefly aimed at making people truly better and happier citizens of this and the future world do. The Prussian school regulations are the worst and the most tangible excesses of this abstract school spirit with Seriousness and success were encountered. But to truly achieve it banish, must attend the schools of general knowledge, church=
Christian schools for Christian work and skilled ability They were compared. Such true people's schools were once the monasteries, especially those of the Benedictines and Cistercians.
They didn't boast, as is done today, about their privileges.
The transformation of culture and civilization. But by doing so,
When they led the peoples of Europe to the Kingdom of God, they gave them
Following the words of their master, they added the rest.
and created that magnificent Christian cultural state which= more of the modern spirit in many important aspects
The relationships have not been promoted, but rather undermined.
In contrast to this modern paganism, the work of The disciples of Saint Benedict began anew, through church education for Christian work.

—— Seventh Edition D

Max Dewar
|| *

Germany, my heart,

Bismarck my reason

My bones to the Emperor,

Rothschild mine — empty wallet

22

Dresden

Printing and publishing house of the Glöb printing company 1891 rural German culture and vagrant Judaism,

Bismarck and Rothschild, never find each other in politics in such a glaring contrast as in the opposite meaningful excitement, caused by the tiny one, by a Prussian written brochure “The Downfall of Austria” in the caused by the entire European Jewish press is. Such monstrous lies are contained in this little prophecy,
So adventurous fantasies have been concocted that everyone Newspaper readers, from the editorial desk to the ministerial bench, a truthful account of its origin and spread and an effect must be desired.

After a thorough review of the fulfill all business publishing requirements in full.

The “little yellow booklet” was, as with all books commercial products, during their completion through printing in the official booksellers' journal, Börsenblatt, and It was announced on April 15th via advertisements.
Since several hundred orders were placed in response to this announcement—as they ran, so the writing was written, in the days of the

1

April 18th to 22nd, in two almost simultaneously produced editions
They were available at all major bookstores, partly by special order.
partly for viewing, sent out. Meanwhile, further Removal due to, first to political bodies in St. Peter's burg, Rome, Paris, London, Copenhagen and New York so—

The aforementioned review copies were sent out, which took a few days to arrive. Later copies were sent simultaneously to Berlin, Vienna and Budapest followed. |

The publisher then turned to other business ventures.
and calmly awaited the effect of his proper
The process is over. A political pamphlet is not a common occurrence.
were driven out in a simpler and more harmless way than this small one,
A typeface comprising only 19 printed pages. It should consist of ultimately, they only become effective through their content; it was
It will be interesting to see how and where this happens first.
would.

In Berlin, all the newspapers remained silent. The "Kreuzzeitung" admitted in a later editorial that she had read the brochure in the flood of political writings that she receives daily
They approached, were noticed, but innocently turned aside.
I laid down. In Berlin, therefore, a place was found for a script, who spoke of the downfall of Austria, absolutely none susceptible soil, not even in such leaves, which, like the "Kreuzzeitung", is run by the German-Austrian Trade agreement with very serious "agricultural" concerns:
They were fertilized. Even the "Cologne newspaper", which always...
Prefers to incubate foreign eggs, remained silent. No German
The leaf stirred.

Even in trusting Vienna, everything remained silent and still. For how could one possibly be still in the carefree "Great"

Vienna" seriously believe in the "downfall of Austria".
Then finally a tapeworm-like movement began in the Press, a rummaging, choking and regurgitating, which is considered
It had to be a sure sign that the sharp instrument had the had struck the head of the evil. But this head belonged to a Budapest Grain-Jewish newspaper, and I maintain, that the crooked limbs on which this head sits, the Pester and the Vienna Stock Exchange are called and that the stomach to this head and to these limbs the polyp-intestine Rothschild is.

As if on a secret command, the ge—sund Budapester Judenpresse, which was comfortable and "German"
"enthusiastic" in the oat-sweet digestive mucus of the trade agreement was held against the — Prince of Bismarck up! Even Budapest, written in Hungarian Pages that were not even written in German Those who had not received a review copy were immediately mobile.

and ready for battle. Here, according to my firm Conviction: A secret sign is alarming!
A flood of vileness poured over the Prince Bismarck. He, who just the day before had still been Hungary's His beloved hero was now called "his greatest swindler".
century", a sodomitic, incestuous man,
Before everyone who possesses an ethical sense of shame, the eyes must be defeated. Yes, the Jews possess a distinctive...
The moneybag's dignified sense of shame.

In Vienna, the brochure "The Downfall of Austria" was published.
"Reichs", although she only expresses historical truths, forbidden. I ask: "Why are the Budapest residents forbidden?" Leaves with their dog-like common—actions against Prince Bismarck in Germany-

Was the land not confiscated? If a
The prosecutor finds that he is prosecuting a delicate poet for incitement intervenes, which in its rhetorical-poetic Drang Eugen Richter wants to knock down a couple,
Should no one else be found to replace Prince Bismarck?
defending himself against some Pest press thugs? The Princes, who for twelve years already had been the dying Austria
With the German weapon shield illuminated in gold, it can Indifferently fine, what Rothschild's dirty press commissions said about write to him, but a German public prosecutor should But to touch the heart, that the man, whose bust perhaps on his desk stands the biggest swindler of his is called the 19th century.

It looks delicious, like the Berlin Jews:
leaves fluttered to help their Pest ghetto brothers.
They don't understand that such a monstrosity could be so successful in Budapest.
which caused quite a stir, although she herself wrote more columns about to write about the downfall of Austria, when the brochure pages counts. They attribute the excitement to plague... . hot Magyar blood (1) back and yet know quite well, that the people in Pest, with whom they, in editorial Telegram cartel standing, putting Prince Bismarck in a bind mill Berliner and Hungarian outrage wanted to bring, against the Magyars with nothing but the crooked saber legs remind us. Andrassuy is portrayed pathetically against Bismarck as Blood witness called upon, while in the brochure "The Under-gang Oesterreichs" that which in Andrassy "useful and dear"

"Werth" was, in contrast to the lifeless Viennese diplomacy was explicitly praised and gratefully acknowledged. But

The Jew simply cannot do anything without lies and deceit, even if he with "his holiest possession", with the diplomatic relics the noble Andrassuy takes to the field.

Especially the Hungarian leaves had the very best slightest cause, out of political outrage Reasons to oppose the brochure. Since it but were, who nevertheless were the very first to discover the un-
The most outrageous noise could only be explained by a financial one.
Speculative interests may have been attracted by them, whose
The amount in the billions can be measured precisely with the moral standard by which the German judges the ugly wants to assess the insults directed at the prince Bismarck was involved in the Hungarian grain press.

For what reasons one might consider the completely innocent
I will blame the princes for the brochure.
I will explain further below and there also defend myself against the Defending the meanness with which the entire political Press, from "Kladderadatsch" down to the "Cologne Press"
"Newspaper," attacked me personally.

The brochure is fully up-to-date with modern standards.
Military technology. It is conceived and constructed as an electric [device/system].
Light projector, used in nighttime naval battles searches for torpedoes with lightning speed. When such a spotlight
The small print has fulfilled its purpose most happily.
Even a courtly newspaper like the "Post" addressed with
In a lisping Polonius-like voice, he asked the government that May "more light" fall into the eerie darkness, in which the German-Austrian trade agreement was discussed was. The leaf, which today is toothless like an old one

The lady-in-waiting whispers, it is the same one who shouts his battle cry:
“War in sight,” the trumpet-like pronouncement of the day just a short while ago
The stock market and the world were shaken. The "Downfall of Defter": “Reichs” would be an equally effective editorial for the “Post” been; but that is the sign of the times, where one Where people used to shoot with cannons, now they sneak around in their socks.

One cannot achieve anything with requests to the current government.
Very little. The overseas elements have heated blood.
In Germany, he implored Herr von Caprivi to send warships.
to send to Chile, and he rejected them with a cold smile.
What the good "Post" was denied, the Bro-fchüre felbstständig achieved: Light in the trade agreement ge—
It creates sight for everyone who has eyes.

The government constantly emphasizes that it is not a human being.
can judge the Vienna Agreements, because no People know her. But she emphasized exactly the same thing when the rib section of Africa against the cliff section of Heligoland was dealt with, and today especially the most knowledgeable people, that the rapidly completed English trade not at a rapidly erected barricade of popular sentiment shattered. From the German-Austrian trade agreement, we know the people enough to support imperial policy with the red or yellow brochure flag shortly before a "false Instra-"Dirung," as Bismarck says, to dismiss. One only lets one Conduct a drastic test. Ask a thousand Berliners, Viennese and Budapest stock exchange and newspaper Jews, whether they belong to the Der:
agree; they will say yes; and just ask.

so many farmers in Prussia, Saxony, Thuringia and South-Germany; they will say no three times. This mood weighs on public opinion like a dark cloud-ball; the government may not legally or morally prevent to prevent a self-employed man in Germany from doing so, through a free speech into this sweltering heat, clear and fresh air create.

It is precisely this sultry weather that Bismarck speaks of,
that he couldn't sleep in her at night. The story has not heard a more moving word in a long time. – Bismarck

Can't sleep in Germany because of worries! The construction^{er} |
The master can't find rest in his own heap! A old man of seventy-seven years, who was in the Parla^{ment}
Ment's feet were sore from standing at Sedan and Königgrätz
His thighs were sore from riding in the saddle, a man who had been riding in front of
For ten years now, like a good plow horse, dead tired at a Collapsing in the sewers, he thought he could at night not to sleep in a country where one is threatened by the brazenly opened window of the Democratic press miles away gleeful snoring of the entire German-Austrian population Jewish community can hear!

It wasn't actually Germany and Austria that were fighting each other.
in the one awakened for the trade agreement, to the utmost irritated "Hungarian" popular sentiment, but Bismarck and Rothschild. Bismarck himself may still suspect not that he suffers from Jewish nightmares at night
He is suffering. He has always been naive towards the Jews.
Because also his opposition to Jewish emancipation before Forty years was not based on living experience, but on a slight Germanic instinct; his state parliament

— 10 —

Those who spoke out against the Jews, however powerful they were, are more out of an untainted Aryan naiveté, as from an indignant reaction against Jewish defilement and
The defilement of Germanness arose, as it is today through A thousand shameful life experiences in every better breast as a reaction of moral conscience with is awakened by a heaven-screaming voice.

Much has been said about Bismarck's relationship with the Jews.
written and spoken, but I believe still That's not right. One must distinguish between two periods within it.
The first one in which Bismarck spoke out against the Jews was,
As I said before, completely naive, she was abstract about feelings.
and not a realistic matter of experience; in the second period
Has Judaism received more friendly words from Bismarck's mouth?
They were heard as defensive words; this happened particularly during the period from 1866-1873, when Bismarck became more refined internally Heartfelt joy, the national Germanness awakens to life

saw. The German, as long as he is living his own life, also likes to let others do it. Every other person, even the most sleazy Jew, lives. No people. is as good-natured as the German; the German alone has He invented the proverb for himself, "he can't fool anyone." "To do harm." Bismarck, too, is by nature kind-hearted. good and good-natured. When he, as he didn't often enough He could explain that he felt completely "satiated" after the last war, so he let he with Germanic bonhomie, with a sincerity without Same, even the poor Jewish devils after the freest To uphold and enforce the right to life. He associated with Lasker. innocent, cheerful, open and courteous, like almost every German once had a period where he called Jews "friends" or perhaps had too friendly a relationship; I can imagine, that Bismarck was responsible for many things to many Jews during these times witty words and many pleasant services, unbiased He was heartfelt and that he was like a hundred: thousands of other Germans gained the kind-hearted conviction, that the Jews are not nearly as bad as their reputation suggests. But a quiet reaction against this Germanic-moral, must awaken within him at precisely the same moment his, in which he opposes the political-economic— "Laisser-aller" reacted.

ge: We

Here, in his case, a profound truth is once again proven true. The word of Rembrandt's German, that the path of all culture of naive nature (instinctive aversion to Jews) through unnaturalness (undisciplined interaction with them) to the refined Nature (artful treatment of the Jews by true state-wisdom) is set aside. The word directed against Lasker Bismarck's "Liberalism is becoming increasingly repugnant to me", Bismarck's state-socialist protectionist tariff policy as Motto placed at the forefront; what he materially accomplished there is spiritually unfulfilled; he will take the full path from they will have only abandoned the Jewish-liberal unnaturalness when he not only economically, but also socially, German— freed from the repugnance of Judaism. He Has Germany learned from Lasker's parliamentary driveline? He looked as if he'd been pulled out of a mud bath; he must have... German culture also from the international stock market in to bring out its folk-like purity. Certainly, that It's an Augean stable job that everyone would spare the elderly prince.

wants to know, but he only needs a stab in the Reichstag to give their word and deploy a hundred thousand brooms vigorously, the German farmsteads, cleaned spotless from the Jewish stock market filth

— 12 —

to sweep, and when the farmer returns to cleanliness, German breath comes, it will happen by itself.
Press, literature, art, and finally
The Reichstag will also be restored.

Everyone knows that Bismarck embodied brilliant forces.
from his inherent inner peace only then in slu Implement the changing movement when the mood of the people makes his temper boil. His innermost nature has as his wife once said of him, more comfort in the silent growth of a field turnip, as opposed to all noise,
The glory and prestige of politics. Dignity among his people.
Everything should be ordered as he himself deems worthy and appropriate—
If he holds masses, he would, as before, as he still would today, the Politics is something people prefer to flee from like the plague. But it has its place.
People's true needs, yes, he immediately feels these.
needs, and because he is physically and intellectually the most educated and magnificent specimen of the German people—art is, so one always sees him as in case of need.
the smartest and the hardest working, the first and the Last on the battlefield. He became a statesman, always.
only if he could no longer find peace as a man of the people.
When Germany wanted to be united, he united it; when it Complaining about papal arrogance, he punched himself in the face.
For years he mingled with the Jesuits for the love of his people; when it
While the free trade sector was starving, he placed full protective tariff pots in front of it;
When it matured into colonial policy, he carried the German flag for it.
to Africa and onward to the South Seas; and when he is inside feels that our people are right to criticize the most hideous Jewish businesses in the country complain, so I do not want to join in its blue Eyes have seen, if he did not look at Jews and Jews—

helper strikes with the same German hedge stake, with which he Frenchmen, Jesuits and Arab slaves who punched traders in the ribs. "What my duty
It is, I always feel it like a pistol on my conscience.
"directed" — that's how he put it when he took over his empire tags=Mandates in a magnificent image. He will already in the swelling of German anti-Jewish sentiment to feel the movement, as the pistol moved slowly but surely against his conscience, and he will, as soon as that Visor correctly positioned, the thundering voice of his German Speaking from the heart.

This moment can't be far off. The inner
The reasons in favor are louder than all the objections.
that Prince Bismarck would not "end up" among the anti-Semites could. Beginning and end were always very irrelevant to him. He | started as a junior knight and is now a member of parliament Freethinker. The main thing is that the prince, when he is in entering the Reichstag, one must create something that is not there,
And we'll wait and see what this thing will look like.
When he was born in Germany, there was no German Reich, and now that he enters the Reichstag, there is no German A party that satisfies him. He told his voters, his Sympathy lay with the old cartel party; but this party has disintegrated; he might as well have disintegrated upon entering the
He could say in politics that his sympathies lay with the Reich.
Charlemagne. He had to create a new German empire.
and he must now, willy-nilly, also create a new German Create party life. | |

If only the gentlemen of Kardorff and Helldorf not to be hitched to a Bismarckian farm wagon,

ee

how far Kleist-Retzow and Bennigsen will go under the Cartel yoke racing apart. The parties with which Those who sympathize with Bismarck cannot be contained within a single framework.

They must be assembled. This must be done under Bismarck's leadership.
Two new parties will be formed, which will focus on the
The keyword "German" immediately links to nationalistic activity.
s²all fly, otherwise in their organization of one^s can remain independent.

For these new parties, simpler and better options seem to be available.
Names not found as:

German Farmers' Party
and

German Citizens' Party.

Through them, all of Germany can be in the city.
and the country is organized in the happiest and simplest way possible.
will be. As leverage, to pull these two quintessentially German parties out of the foreign-sounding party jargon of today, the "Conservatives", the "German Socialists", the "anti-Semitic reformers", the "Christian Social", the "Free Conservatives" and the "National liberals", to clearly and energetically work out, must the anti-Semitic movement serve, which is based on the Duration should not be an end in itself, but only always that.
The means must be to revive a Greater German party life.

Take the place of today's "conservative" groups
a German farmers' party in the Reichstag, that's how it divides by itself the element from the series of "preservatives"
the "state spirit", which in truth, as Bismarck recently said indicated that it had never been conservative, but nevertheless

— 15 —

the greatest despotic arrogance in the German conservative Party life was on full display: the courtly element. People, the more changeable courtiers than those of fixed character
Farmers must come from a truly conservative party.
They should be thrown out as quickly as possible if they not through their tail-wagging nature the entire foundation

a solid, peaceful party life in a permanent state of in-
They should maintain peace and unreliability. I assess These courtiers in the Reichstag numbered 15 to 20 people, who,
if they are even re-elected by their farmers should present themselves as a special “court and sycophantic”
They may establish a “party”. In a conservative German
The Farmers' Party has no business being involved with them; they would be in to plunder them, like parrots among partridges.

What numerically the conservative party has against them=

If Loren went, the German Farmers' Party would be at the aristo=

Catholic center, at the Barons von Schorlemer and von Huene to win three times as much again. The noble Schorlemer
The Westphalian is already, quite rightly, considered today to be
He is called the Peasant King. Prince Bismarck is accused of this in the
The Reichstag performs a joyful and grateful task.
have. If these noblemen, gray-haired in battle, the Catholic and Protestant, baronial and the princely peasants, their political community on God's will to rediscover a fleeting, German field, what then does a eloquent Pharisee, like Mr. Bamberger, a Berlin newspaper=

Gambin, like Eugen Richter, a red cock-rider like Liebknecht,
Is there anything worse to say about German cultural life?

With a German farmers' party of this natural Kraftschlag must completely transform a German citizens' party to feel in solidarity. The declaration proves that she could.

— 16 —

of the "Central Association of German Large Industrialists", which which meant that large-scale industry would rely on industrial Customs advantages which the Austrian trade agreement might would rather forgo granting it than be bound by the contract at the same time, damage to farmers' interests in Germany should be called desirable. Four German Ministers recently received a brochure with thanks—taken, which express the same thought in the following sentences states: “The German industrial worker is obliged to to preserve the peasantry by carrying the grain—to pay customs duties. For this, a Jew in his un-Christian way

Egoism is never the right understanding. In Germany Christian-solidarity principles must prevail. become: that is, practically speaking, the industrial worker may not sue if the agricultural worker High grain tariffs improve people's livelihoods. In an educated state of fifty million Germans Production and Maintaining a balance between consumerism, rural and urban interests can; this happens in the author's opinion, if— against the Jewish Exchange International, the circulation of the German money should be kept as much as possible within the German organization— nism is carried out, therefore, to put it bluntly, through customs— barriers such as those caused by the epidermis prevent entry into the Stock exchange— Shaft vessel of the Rothschild to bleed out. The brochure, written by a man of the people written and therefore deserves more interest than the theoretical economic nonsense of Dr. Barth and the Professor Brentano titled his work: "The Ruin of the Means" stands"). The four ministers, who were responsible for sending the Those who expressed their gratitude in writing are the Prussian Minister of Culture, Count Zedlitz, the Prussian Minister of Trade, Baron von Berlepsch, who Württemberg minister von Mitnacht and the newly appointed Saxon Minister-President Dr. von Gerber, who was appointed by the The small, popular booklet said that it "contained much, which was recommended to receive the most thorough attention from serious politicians "must be." The text appears entirely in the spirit of magnificent letter from Count Moltke to the Scripture— Dr. Dohrn in London for the preservation of the medium She stood, and she claimed, in order to reiterate the given Solidarity between a German farmers' association and a to substantiate the German Citizens' Party that the repeal the grain duties for the farmer of a would have the same tragic significance, as it would for the Craftsmen, the introduction of freedom of trade that was actually the case.

u: l

A German citizens' party, which was represented in the Reichstag to replace the "national liberals" just as much as the The German Farmers' Party, the "Conservatives", would also...

free-trade and pro-Jewish wing of the National to draw liberals into their sphere of influence, perhaps even from numerous elements for the better, more progressive electorate
win. Because if, with the removal of the courtly element, to replace the old cartel parties, which still exist today Bismarck's sympathies lay, two real ones, out of Cartel parties that grew up on German soil are emerging, German farmers and German citizens, then it is Dresden 1891, published by the Glöb printing house. Price 60 Pfennigs.

2

— 18 —e—o

German life is politically completely exhausted, then it is for a German Freethinking Party no longer has a place in consciousness, in the mind
It stinks in the hearts of the people. For, with the exception of the Social democracy, not a drop of German blood left except half of the cartel framework of this most natural of all German Parties remain. What remains outside is the demonstration.
Kratish Jewish filth, with which peasantry and Bourgeoisie, or, what it is, Christianity and Emperor
thum in Deutschland nichts zu sschaff haben.

To prevent this thorough upheaval of our parties by
To add, a sharp German plow is needed, and this Pflug is the anti-Semitic movement which targets the Jewish Opponents, since they know absolutely nothing about agricultural implements
To understand, not to call a plow, but a curse.

Mr. Miquel, too, has acted in this accursed sense.
spoken out, even though he is particularly eager to start a new one to create German party life. He is currently opposing this.
set end, just as he did with his "great financial reforms" have been carried out, which, in contrast to Bismarck's State sympathy for indirect taxes, the theoretical
The profiteering spirit of the most heartless bureaucrat is betrayed.
He wants to live in the philosemitic-liberal spirit of the "National: newspaper" sees the fruit bearer of a new party, which perhaps would be represented by the names Hinzpeter, Bleichröder and Rickert. The fixed center in this party of the court, which

Mr. Miquels is familiar with the stock exchange and parliamentarianism — Slippery as an eel. Perhaps he'll break under these smooth arts, rather.
as he thinks, his ministerial neck, which he has through the paper Pressed tires already up to the Prussian Ministry of the Interior stretches out. The polecat, successor of the lion!

a, Ze

In Miquel's efforts to oust Bismarck's place,
The most earnest efforts are being made to extinguish Bismarck's spirit.
The manner of his replacement should also serve as a justification.
to be horrified. They want a national homun.
To give birth to a child and to kick a living child to death. One will shout "Hurrah!" and "Shh!" at the same time.
To understand these tragic times, the people need no
New poets. The old classics suffice. Schiller has always had a better understanding of people and the national soul, as Wildenbruch. Don't you hear Franz, that newspaper scoundrel?
"Cursed old man, do you want to live forever?!"

Yes, he will live forever. He will live as long as...
Germany grows rye and wheat. Close all doors to it.
Party doors, you cannot close his to him;
For his party is the free German nature, the German
The peasantry, the German people. For the people and the peasants—
The companies are identical, and the German citizen is also one.
Farmer. For there is no true profession that is not peasant—would be. The clergyman, the officer, the industrialist, the Rheder, the writer, they are all peasants. The proof
It is easy to lead by the figures of the day. If Stöcker preaches at court, so he is a builder; Wißmann, when He colonizes, he is a farmer; Krupp, the largest industrialist, is a machine builder; the Hamburgers Woermann and Andreas Meyer, both house guests of Prince Bismarck, find one Shipbuilders, the other way, bridge builders and waterway builders;
a writer who has his own thoughts, like the secret one
The author of "Rembrandt as Educator" is, according to his own account, Stilart is a thinker. He correctly discovered that Luther and Moltke would have been real peasant heads. The poignant

| 2%

— 20 —

The signature "Count Moltke, Farmer" should remain unforgettable here.
And doesn't Bismarck create a divide between Luther and Moltke?
A true schoolmaster figure? The profound slogan: "Germany must become peasantry", contains the Rembrandt book.

In my work "Rembrandt and Bismarck" I have claims that a new [something] can be said to be based on this wonderful intellectual work.
I will link this period of German life. That this period
I do not fear that the main phrase will remain; and that it will
I will not achieve this, and I will do my utmost to ensure it; Everywhere you can see the spiritual seeds sown from this book in to shoot to new heights, although the swarm of Jewish newspapers
The sparrows eagerly snatch up the scattered seeds from the wanted to swallow up German land. Prince Bismarck had the An unknown author called it a ghost that wielded clubs writes; one can trust that the primal power of this memorable work, which one might call a German-secular er can call a building book, a spiritual movement in German will cause a stir in the country, which will also be reflected in parliament:
The peasant party must find its voice. Because what from the Reichstag is not peasant in the broadest sense of the word, That won't be called German in the long run, and not as German.

Everything that is German unconsciously has a constructive,
What is Jewish is a destructive tendency. Therefore, it can in the history of mankind there is no contradiction that would be greater than the difference between the most genuine German and the truest Jew, between Bismarck and Rothschild.

In Bismarck, every nerve has an uplifting, restorative quality.
building drive, as nature itself has it in its basic form possesses a benevolent creative drive. Even when he is overwhelmed by good and right thoughts that have been sprouting in him since his youth and overflows, wanted to hold back, they would surely come to hand in him lungs shoot up. There is a spiritual growth force in Bismarck, which reveals his physical personality even in the calmest of situations Comfort is swept away in ventures in which only the quiet voice of instinct whispers to him that he should I've grasped the right thing. There's something inside him that comes from within him.

wants to come out, like a tree from the earth. His whole being Wesen is heavy marshland, saturated, deeply immersed in God, Profound human dignity and peace. On this magnificent ground
He grows calmly, but surely. Everything he thinks, says, and It is about genius. For genius is nothing other than tranquility, which overflows with activity. Hence the fine "Quieta non".
movere", which was so little understood; therefore fine praise
A statement on Russian diplomacy, which, like no other,
He understands the art of waiting; hence his word that Zanzibar
It would have ripened in our laps; one believes in all These words are echoed by the patient, peasant voice of nature.
hear, the guardian of all life, at the same time a calm friendly waitress for every fruit of life and body is.
Goethe, too, as a poet, was familiar with this self-fertilizing phenomenon.
The peace and quiet that the farmer practices when he lets his field lie still,
like the painter when he lets his painting "dry" quietly, before he continues working on his project. "Politics is a
"Art, such as painting and sculpture," Bismarck asserted.
Even once. And it is an art, not just like that.
Painting, but like all growth in nature, that

Pr rn,
U.N

no I

by a mystical and unfathomable artistic spirit in Every flower, every tree, every human body speaks. Peace.
is not only the first civic duty, the most important thing condition for state prosperity, it is the very origin-
The basis of all earthly existence.

And now let us turn our gaze away from this rural tranquility.
in Bismarck on Rothschild, who like a goldfish on a hundred Telephone and telegraph wires twitch. The life principle
It does not contain the calm growth of a constructive Construction power, but rather the hasty-nervous accumulation of an unstructured monetary systems. The German spirit in Bismarck began with from the age of thirty onwards, to strive upwards in a manly way, the
The Jewish spirit in the Rothschilds was already stirring in their puberty—for years, like a boyish urge, to collect pieces of gold and to be profitably exchanged on the market, like postage stamps. Roth: Schild actually has not only the biggest money, but also—including the largest stamp collection. Imagine a Bismarck who collects stamps and every half hour studied the course schedule! In this antithesis, the fundamental—mental contrast between serious German culture and especially clear in trivial Judaism. The German loves the Nature, and those who love nature, unconsciously live a life that is in accordance with the deepest drives of nature. For the meaningful Weaving of the plant, the animal, the state, the historical and moral growth in the world has No Jew has a calm, friendly disposition. Because the Jew is predominantly critical and analytical, never contemplative and Edifying, preferably materialistic and nihilistic. The
The Russian emperor feels less like a czar, but rather far away.
more than Schleswig-Holsteiners, as German farmers in

— 23 —

a personal contrast to the corrosive, nihilistic Judaism in Russia. Also the German Empress, the good
The genius of the present German Reich is a Schleswig-Holstein native;
It is not exactly considered favorable towards the Jew. And Bismarck recently explained to a delegation that he was "now Schleswig-Holsteiner." Perhaps it is precisely this healthy and the ancient German tribe, the reaction against the Jewish Poison that has entered the German body. The Farmer Bismarck loves nature in its purest, simplest form. Forms, as they appear in the forest and in the field in quiet peace gives; Baron von Rothschild loves nature's loose "culture" in its most excremental forms, as it in the fund exchange and a cynical luxury according to and makes it important. Rothschild eats of yellow gold, Bismarck eats from a clean plate. Bismarck is a natural person.

appropriate, Rothschild an unnatural phenomenon; for farmer | and Jew find pole and counter-pole, positivism and negation in the moral world order. A German farmer who Marrying a Jewish woman is unthinkable; that would mean taking the sickle to God. To sow the young seeds. Friedrich Nietzsche, the erratic He writes sometimes for, sometimes against the Jews, and once said: "I have never met a German in my life who is a "He would have been a friend of the Jews." And recently, he was bashed. a Jew himself the absolute opposite between German and Jewish in that he wrote indignantly: "Better a fool, as a farmer!" In fact, it is also true, as the Germans Folk legends testify that the Jew has always been like a German to the German. A fool appeared. "What does every Jew want?" is a question. which stretches all the way down the Lower Rhine to Holland's pulls, wherever the Jew with his foreign gesture becomes noticeable. Even before Shakespeare's clear mirror's To the eye, the Jew appeared more foolish than tragic; who on Shylock, possessed by Christ's flesh, is finally taken by Graziano. to the general amusement of his own pathos Traveled. Poets are prophets; the Jew in Germany It will end no differently, socio-politically, than Shylock before the Aesthetic justice in Shakespeare. Only it becomes difficult with the difference is that what happened in Shakespeare Graziano performed his tasks with grace, in politics with healthy Peasant power, probably brought about by a Bismarck The Rothschild family now owns 4.2 billion.

He

Mark. A ridiculous sum for every German comfort!
But let the Jew have his insatiable pleasure, if Once the five billion mark is reached, the German will look after his It's good to have some fun too! "Whoever takes my money,
"It takes away my honor," Rothschild declared in writing;
So you're not taking anything away from him by giving him his money.
takes; for to take an honor that consists of money,
No one needs to face a judge who is that clever.
It's like Porzia, trying to create a criminal conscience; a Honor that is identical with money is a contradiction in object.
which cannot be dealt with legally. One can see that... the Jew himself, in the deepest core of his being, as a represents a walking contradiction.

Bismarck's physical and mental stature are clearly and vividly before every eye: his magnificent form bears every child in fine imaginings, such as the female anatomy of Germania. And what physical conception does the Rothschild's world? You don't see him, as you would the Tapeworm not seen in the human body. The "house"

— 25 —

Rothschild is an unconstructed, parity-based something that... from Vienna via Frankfurt and Paris to London on the
The ground is curved, like a curled telegraph wire.
There is neither structure nor life in it, nothing that is in the Earth is rooted, nothing that strives upwards towards God. Bismarck's
The spirit is like a Gothic building; in German style.
rising up in striving lines; from the colorful Windows of a deep soul, illuminated by the divine ray of the Humor is examined; it surges through every corner of the Heartfelt from the organ of a devout Christian: In Trinitate robur!

These are the powers that are at work in the political and cultural sphere.
life is hostile to our time: the insatiable Judaism, which destroys life, and comfortable German—Thum, which creates life. Bismarck is destroyed by this.
It threatens power more than he realizes. In an intimate setting
It might become clear in the place of his heart.
How many insults did he have to endure for his son's sake?

Must, the industrious Count Herbert? What a fuss!
What cruelty, what infamy were at work incessantly in the Jewish press, to give the German people the idea that Count
Herbert could become his father's successor, as a “Streberplan”, as the beginning of a “Bismarck dynasty” to make him unbearable. I believe every German would have done that.
elderly princes, the deep and beautiful joy from the heart grants his son to be under his care until he is able to work to see him flourish in the fullest and most honorable place in the kingdom.
But the Jews and Democrats — which in effect roughly that is — their necks screamed sorely over this friend
A possible possibility. But if the Rothschild children were among them...

— 26 —

the most beautiful countries on earth are being distributed, and...
"Rothschild Dynasty" Rulers of all Russia and Prussia
If it happens, then the whole Jewish press ghetto will open its hands fold and thank God for the blessing that this “house” receives happened!

All of German life should already be contained within the family.
Ovary follicles are gnawed off to protect a parasitic Jew
To secure the money clan's world domination!

Everyone must participate in this struggle of constructive against the destructive forces come into play; for this conflict is not only by political interests, but also by the Nature demands it, and therefore a moral imperative. Nature
The apparent tendency throughout all of creation is to to strive for ever higher and better forms. How Each individual has a clear duty to use their resources wisely.
to proliferate, to purify oneself, and to find a better place in nature's coffin to return him to when he was laid in the cradle, so must
The German people, indeed all of humanity, see themselves as one to perceive the only personality that behaves in a natural, sovereign way has perfected. But if one considers our people from
If one thinks of today as a single human being, it becomes tangible, that the most precious organs in him, brain, heart and lungs
Those of healthy German nature are the darkest and lowest Urges within him, which are particularly noticeable in the area of his wallet.

make, through Jewish influence, so very excited that they to morally and physically destroy all German people—nieces threaten.") The fight against these urges is a moral one.

What role did the Jews play during this moral education?
The conflict that has begun in all European states
I have said that in the text "At Bismarck's" on four pages.

2

A commandment that no one can permanently evade, who loves German cultural life more than just with his words.
In politics, art, science, and social life
The German farmer must regain his rights and honor.
This is a spiritual peasant war, which in the hour
The iron fist of Friedrichsruh's Götz did not help in times of need.
will be missing; whoever will miss all the official demands, "in three Kaiser's name should finally be heard by the mouth of good law
"Hold on," in the Berlichingen style, he should and He will be the "Bavarian Captain"!

The brochure "The Downfall of Austria", which is in their pressing effect, the battle fought in the dark of the Jobbers Rothschild against the peasant Bismarck in broad daylight

(43-47) with many letters and public endorsements interpreted. The Jews may also seriously begin to divide themselves among themselves.
to educate and improve oneself, instead of spreading hatred towards each other like the plague
to avoid. Mr. Rickert recently stated in the Reichstag that the German Emperors turned the Jews into usurers. This speech will be a
A disgrace of the century, a pillory of ignorance to remain.
Does he not know that even Tacitus considered the Jews the most vicious rabble?
has mentioned? Doesn't he know that the Jews in Spain were large?
They owned land but never worked in rural areas? Are they German farmers, when their houses and fields were taken from them during the Thirty Years' War
Were they trampled down, did they become scoundrels? Are Germans, if
If they couldn't live decently, wouldn't it be better to perish honestly?

Were the Jews able to do it? Did the Jews ever even...
Have you begun an ethical self-education? Haven't you always... on the history report card "good" in mental arithmetic and in religion weak?

— 28 —

The fact that it shone is still being discussed in the press today, focusing on the immediate impact.

It is attributed to the inspiration of Prince Bismarck. My
The person is said to have served as a "hypnotized medium". On The "Cologne newspaper" claimed most confidently that only I for the brochure with the "useless" title "liable" be. She already betrays herself through her place of publication and their cover, which was for the earlier "overstretched" Bewer's brochures were "used" as an advertising sheet be, as a work from my pen. With the same right.
Can I, as the author or the intellectual originator of this Cologne article Mr. von Marshall, the State Secretary of the Foreign Office. How he told me about Aeußer-
If someone wants to recognize his qualities, then I recognize him likewise.
How he uses the publishing location Dresden as proof of my authorship
If the shaft attracts, then I draw the place of disposal Cologne and the manner, how he developed his personal acquaintance with the Berlin association to "exploit" the "Kölnische Zeitung" for journalistic purposes white, for his authorship. In addition, there are external features.
peculiarities of spelling. The word "good-for-nothing" came to mind.
in a longer conversation I had with Mr. von Marshall on a Danish steamer in November 1888 led, so vividly that I said to myself at the time, a
The public prosecutor always retains a "legitimate" vocabulary.
Even in a Reichstag speech against social democracy—Did Mr. von Marshall need the word "good-for-nothing" in in a striking way, and it can be found faithfully in the article
The "Kölnische Zeitung" is against me again. Their style is...
The human being. However short the article in the "Cologne newspaper" is,
It is logically structured in such a lack of discipline and laxity. I have
I have rarely read anything that looked so diplomatic and was so sounded flustered). The article begins by saying, "I and only I am to be held accountable for the writing," in which Middle: "It cannot be denied that the author Bismarck" He has heard or read some ideas, which he undoubtedly in has turned their true intentions on their head! If He says only Bismarck can secure Russia's friendship to regain, so the conclusion of "Myself." What a jumble of thoughts! The brochure The intention to return Bismarck to office is being attributed to to help. For this purpose, the author Bismarck's Thoughts that he undoubtedly heard, in their true form Intentions (so presumably the intention to install Bismarck in office) (to lead back), into its opposite (!). Nevertheless but Bismarck's thoughts in a transparent way The intention, however, is misrepresented (!), is indeed Only Mr. Bewer is "liable" for the brochure! I must To be frank, I am ashamed to associate my name with such things. Futilities are seen mixed together.

— 29 —

The same article then states, in a diplomatic tone: The neophytes continued: "The author is not a diplomat, also "If he had had breakfast with Prince Bismarck ten times."

The reason given is that the author did not know that It was Gorchakov who established the Russian-German friendship

*) The "Kölnische Zeitung" replied that Mr. von Marshall in no way related to the article in question. I ant^e I say that I do not believe this claim made by the "Cologne newspaper", firstly, because they combine two blatant untruths in one breath^e secondly, because people in Cologne often don't even know or doesn't even want to know who actually is in cases of denial. lich in the highest person, across the editorial line from Berlin from which he has satisfied his journalistic needs.

— 30 —

that it caused it to wither. This claim is appalling. vague and embarrassed; because the brochure also states not a single syllable that gives cause to mention Gorchakov to speak in this corrective sense. The article writer

The "Kölnische Zeitung" apparently wanted to be a "diplomat" somewhat contrary to the natural logic of the brochure
He offered a "diplomatic" suggestion and knew nothing else to say.
stammering as: "Gorchakov, huh — huh!! Gorchakov, yes, yes, Gorchakov — don't you know Gorchakov, oh, you poor soul?
They can't find a single diplomat, huh — huh! Don't know a single one!
"Hello to our good, terrible Gorchakov! Ho — hooo!"

One proof that I, who was arbitrarily designated as the author who is held "liable" for the brochure, is not a diplomat, It wasn't necessary at all. I'm a writer and As such, I would strive for nothing other than to one day a short poem by Peter Cornelius, rightly for my I could choose my favorite song. If I only listen to the second line... this song especially for the "diplomat" of the "Cologne"
The text regarding the right to amend the wording of "newspaper" reads:

I have no title,

I'm not a diplomat either,

I have no means either,
The situation is desperate!

I'm a bit of a poet,
A little bit of musician,

Such hungry rabble
It fills the entire country.

If only time would come faster,
Where people are valued;
Then many a high position remained.
Probably unoccupied in the country,

3

And would all dogs

And then banished wolves,
It probably remained for me at that hour.
A place as a human being is vacant.

No, certainly, I am not a diplomat and I don't want to be one.
will be. Nevertheless, I have already received high recognition.
found a great diplomat. This great diplomat was none other than the current State Secretary of the Ministry of Education and Cultural Affairs.

Foreign Office, Mr. von Marshall, who accompanied me on board the Danish steamer, which took him to the anniversary celebrations
Christian IX. brought it to Copenhagen, his greatest satisfaction commented on two "excellent" articles which I had read about the Danish constitutional conflict for the — "Cologne Newspaper" had written. In these essays, it was certainly predicted that the Count Holstein-Ledreborg, after which Mr. von Marshall also inquired about it personally with me.
and the one that was then in all German and many Scandinavian Blätter was celebrated as the man of the Danish state situation.
was, unsuccessfully, something like a Danish Herr von Stauffenberg will disappear from the political scene.
Count von Holstein now lives as a private citizen in Switzerland.
And so Mr. von Marshall may have been right,
when he expressed his lively appreciation to me years ago speech, which I thankfully brushed aside, as it had become increasingly difficult for me.

of further discussion about the situation in Copenhagen

No expertise whatsoever was assessed. Since the gentleman However, as he said, my "brilliant writing style" in particular

——.—

I liked it, and I read from fine speeches in the Reichstag that he, B stood in accordance with Bismarckian congruence in German party life,

So I sent him, in remembrance of the friendly encounter.

— 32 —

a copy of my pamphlet directed against Freisinn “Bismarck is getting old!”, for which he wrote in a very friendly manner Letters thanked, which I still possess, and where he used the same handwriting, which is referred to today in the "Kölnische Zeitung" as the term
It is categorized as "overwhelming" and called "very interesting".
In response to the accusation that I was talking about Prince Bismarck
I want to emphasize particularly strongly when I write "overly ambitious" brochures.
answer. It can be difficult for a writer who struggles today to answer.
and has enough worry to find his own independent way, not be indifferent when he is constantly in the most spread leaves for not being entirely mentally competent is given. For weeks, newspapers have been blue on me.
letters were sent, in which not by telegram, Editorials, political correspondence and literature reviews my His mental state would have been portrayed as suffering. Since
For example, a telegram from the Prague “Bohemia” states:
"The 'Vossische Zeitung' (!) declares that Beyer is not serious"
to take;" "we know," continues the "Pester Lloyd",
"that a certain Beyer exists and we also know that he
"He is a fool;" Danish "politics" succinctly calls me “forrykt”; “a Breslau newspaper is pleased that the urkomi
"Beyer again lets us hear something from him"; the "drink:
"furter Zeitung" makes me do a Bismarckian St. Vitus' Dance perform and finally a Berlin Jewish newspaper writes pathos Logically, quite right, my rabies into a "gentle stupidity" ending with the meaning of "end". All these pages have in their political and ethical marasmus no power, a legally valid primacy partly to speak in spiritual or physical matters. But when a “national” newspaper, such as the “Kölnische Zeitung”, with the keyword “the overstretched observer” in these sats

2 2ge

niche choir comes up with, yes, the infernal Jewish press wins a choir leader whose journalistic mouthpiece is thoroughly must be stuffed. In the editorial office of the "Cologne" The very idea that my Bismarck² can be a newspaper itself Writings are "overstretched", not created finely, what again for the "foreign" origin of their article presents a new piece of circumstantial evidence. Because from my "Thoughts on Bismarck," said the "Cologne Newspaper." that they "gave living testimony from a "A worldview formed from broad perspectives," by a Regarding other writings of mine that were "highly noteworthy", she said, that they "healingly put their finger into a deep wound of our national life" and recently the paper wrote, that I am a person of intellect and deep feeling. Also for the essays which I wrote as a former employee of the The "Cologne newspaper" wrote that the "editorial staff and The publisher expressed their appreciation in writing, and the editor-in-chief Dr. Schmits stated verbally that he would As an editor, I can't get enough of my articles which, without changing a single word, were put into print could be. The editorial staff never even considered my Works which extend from the Hamburg customs connection to the foreign policy and high literature extended into one Letters changed. When the "national" newspaper in the Conflict in which I, through my work in Cologne, the slanderous Dr. Brandes did not encounter my When he wanted to step aside, I terminated my relationship with him. graphically and also as an open letter expression my I couldn't justify a good cause, so I made my Argument with Brandes on his own in front of strangers:

35

appearing before rural courts as a private individual, court costs and Enduring prison sentences as calmly as the same-early infamies of the Danish and "German-free-minded" Pages intended for the shallow Jewish writer Brandes They have taken sides against me. I am His Serene Highness. I am sincerely grateful to Prince Bismarck for... during my presence in Friedrichsruh, the painful Memories of this conflict through an appreciative A word to me that illuminated things, proving to me anew how much endearing, noble kindness in this unique,

a patriotic man lives, although I am of his friendly
I would not have needed a word to know that I was right.
had acted.

How can the "Kölnische Zeitung" now be informed by my Talk of intellectual overreach? The explanation is very one-specialist. It's not me who's over it, but the Rhineland newspaper is Regarding Bismarck, tensions are running high. This tension but this stems from the fact that on the telegraph wire between the Wilhelmstrasse in Berlin and the Breitestrasse in Cologne For years and years, some official figure has been sitting there, which with his pressure complaints, the straight line of national Thinking down to the very depths of character weakness presses. No leaf has wavered more over the released Written by Bismarck, when the "Kölnische Zeitung" was published today
He stands as a hero, firm and still like his Cologne monument.
There, tomorrow he'll be running behind the Reich, snarling and thundering.
Dare to come here. When a German returns from abroad turn and look back at the last year's edition of the "Kölnische Zeitung" wanted to inform about events in the fatherland, so He would become seasick until he vomited. How high?

— SB:

I know what Bismarck thinks about this German world newspaper.
his own mouth; so it is not much of a loss if I the Cologne schoolmasters' newspaper expressed the degree of my esteem This point should be particularly emphasized. Perhaps if a a telegram arrives from Friedrichsruh stating that Prince Bismarck's faithful eyes over the black infidelity of these Once the earth has closed, the "Cologne newspaper" will address this.
turn to me, requesting a "rather strained,
but otherwise spirited and emotional" sorrowful articles about death of a grumbling hero. But then I'd rather have the pen.
silently put it down and in my grief no
Take a look where a sentimental clown has fine facial features.
Nerves frayed, to put on a "national" grimace

to put on. |
Besides the "Kölnische Zeitung", there are many other newspapers.
other publications that identified me as the author of the

They attacked the brochure "The Downfall of Austria".
I only want to mention the "Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung" and The "Kreuzzeitung" said two personal and two political things reply. The "Norddeutsche" describes me as a
"a well-known pamphlet writer". If the old Bismarck-Blatt now already from my Bismarck writings
I am full where I only make the weak beginning, so it can be However, he very soon contracted a congestion, in which it completely too much in its subscriber-depleted state
The reasons are likely to be the same. If, out of the 6000 German scripts:
Not a single one of them put pen to paper for Prince Bismarck
If something stirs, then an individual must be doubly active; I feel, that my strength against the immense burden of meanness, which takes advantage of the name Bismarck, exempts itself, 3 *

who

like a weak human hand that throws an avalanche of dirt at
I want to catch it. But still, I want to be defensive.
Remain in position; perhaps one of them will jump for me.
Others agree. If only half of what we know about Bismarck's personality is known.
so much kind and explanatory information would be written down,
as about the ghastly, literary poison uncle, the former Pharmacist Ibsen, yes, his good reputation would be better off.
and the enduring significance of our current literature, which still in contrast to the English and French, the literary aspect is emphasized far more than the national. Drive and inclination also draw me towards purer, than too political thoughts, but who wants to deny the beautiful spirit dreamily contemplating the world, when the most hideous ge Could ghosts spoil his enjoyment of German life? Heavy Literary work exists today in the time of Bismarck
There's plenty of hustle and bustle, a job worthy of the best.
Spirits who contribute to a true national literature want. With Latin verses in the style of Mr. Felix Dahn can inform posterity, who have something tangible about Anyone wanting to read Bismarck won't get much out of him. Shouldn't he also...
Literature contributes its mite, Bismarck's memory
To keep it pure and alive, men like Freytag, Jordan and Dahn, who pretend to be to be the most German of the German writers, their Spirit in writing and word on the scales of public life

The "Norddeutsche Allgemeine" may also throw out an opinion.
my newspaper" will perish miserably from "oversaturation".

I tried to include all the notable attacks on the Princes have been imprisoned without exception since his dismissal.
Every noteworthy word spoken in parliament and in the press has fallen against him, the disapproval of the court,

en BR

I sought to address the embarrassment of the parties in my writings.
to catch defensively, in order to create a reflection of these strange things
Time to record. In this I will faithfully continue.

When Wilhelm II. once celebrated his fifty-year reign
I will be celebrating my anniversary, and hopefully I will be that old too.
no longer be as industrious as the memorable man is today, which one would call the most diligent employee at the "Hamburger" as it's called." In these long decades, I will even the literary impact of my writings better be—learn to judge, as the detached editorial souls of the "Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung". For thorough review
I'll take care of the distribution myself. Even the valiant Major Brand.
in the state of Illinois, which so splendidly granted the prince congratulated him on his last birthday, and gave him a Having received a lovely thank you in verse again," I allowed myself to... please kindly accept what I have to say about the voice recorded events in Bismarck's homeland. Even if the
When the German Crown Prince comes of age, I will be there.
I respectfully inquire of the Court Marshal's Office whether a shipment may be sent to me.
my writings are permitted. Perhaps I am meanwhile doing as material for the leather binding: a pair of old cuirassiers boots on, in which Prince Bismarck wore for hours in the Prussian

*) The prince's poetic thanks are too characteristic for bishops-Marc's endearing naturalness, as if the happy verses were in the Daily press should lose. They read:

Thank you so much, my dear Brand,

Thank you for the greeting you sent.

Her voice, distant, yet strong,

It deeply moved me
To the Mark.

— 38 —

has stood and spoken in the state parliament in order to contribute to the founding to bring about the "parliamentary resolutions" required by the Reich.
Any Englishman would readily pay a hundred-pound note.
to pay for a bound copy. Yes, maybe.
when the powerful Emperor Wilhelm II celebrated his fiftieth anniversary I'm celebrating my government anniversary, but I won't get it again.
like the once revolutionary and now cratered Rudolf von Gottschall the hereditary nobility, but perhaps the "all-
"common decorations," the only order I ever received I want to wear it because it's the only one of all, after which No overachiever strives.

The "Kreuzzeitung" makes me, as the author,
the brochure, the accusation of "breach of trust" against Oesterrich. I reply that the German-Austrian alliance based on a contract whose notice period is so short-
It is common knowledge that a level-headed statesman never goes into the Embarrassment will arise, Austria can manage even without "breach of faith" from the fact that he, despite ten years of instruction by Bismarck, misunderstood federal relationship in grace to dismissed. That Bismarck did not extend the treaty to a longer term
The fact that he completed a period perhaps suggests that he was always a friendly but relaxed relationship with Austria preferred a political marriage for life.

I am replying to the specific Berlin Jewish newspapers Nothing. Words have no effect on them; only [something] helps.
the grey salve of legislation; when everyone in has felt the effects of his profession so clearly on his own body, how I, as a writer, felt that the Jews were legally from the ownership and editorial staff of the public newspapers
They will have to be referred, then the German tree will be on all his professions very soon without any aphids to be. This goal must be pursued legally, and that I will do my utmost to ensure that it is achieved for the press.

work with. |

I close this personal chapter by adding...

Let me emphasize once: Nobody had the right to my Person and through her Prince Bismarck
as the author of the pamphlet "The Downfall" to publicly attack Austria's. In order to deal with the same
I have claimed the "right" to be able to fight with weapons,
Mr. von Marshall as the author of an anonymous
to hold the article "liable" because of "multiple external reasons" to speak convincingly in favor of this authorship." The
The author of the brochure called himself "a Prussian"; against
If the Prussians had been addressed, the replies would at least have been
It had a literary justification. But from the fact that one beyond the logical content of the brochure, according to the searched for the "alleged" author and looked at external, completely uncertain
The signs indicated that he attacked me with insults, goes sufficiently demonstrates that the content of the historical
The brochure does not contain any factual information.
could. ö

Now that the attacks against the unknown author have ended to the most modest degree of any conceivable justification Having been rejected, I confess myself as the author. of the small print. As the most sophisticated sheet in the whole Germany, the "Vossische Zeitung", Prince Bismarck as the intellectual author of the brochure, addressed

I to the "not to be taken seriously" editor of the paper immediately a telegraphic letter stating that the contents of the brochure—fchure, except for two quotations from one of my earlier writings,
"not even in a single line, subject of my investigation"
"The relationship with His Serene Highness the Prince had been." This The letter was published by the "Vossische Zeitung" and further disseminated by the press. But once a Once stupidity has been introduced into the world, ten wise men can help it.

not to remove it again. I declare that Prince Bismarck is just as far removed from the origin of writing as For example, the Austrian Prime Minister. The arrival of one on The copy sent to Friedrichsruh on April 19th was confirmed to me in a letter, according to which I have full Certainty can explain that I still don't know today, whether Prince Bismarck read the brochure or not.

The scripture is, in thought and word, my personal one.
private property. I wrote it and would like to...
Write it again if it hasn't already been written.
It is written in the interest of legitimate concerns. Everyone, for whom it is an uncanny feeling that for years and days the Bismarck's state-run advice was considered superfluous and bothersome.
Declared tactless and old-fashioned, the resolute
To formulate thoughts, to pursue one's political interests independently represented, if he is a master of words or writing.
When Emperor Wilhelm II, in contradiction to his earlier
Teacher, the distinguished historical researcher Professor Dr.
Maurenbrecher in Leipzig explicitly stated that the
The glory of the new empire was not a "parliamentary decision".

— 41 —

but to thank the soldiers and only the soldiers,
It must therefore be replied that precisely this speech by the Emperor
the need for a public raising of diplomatic concerns Questions are attested to. In the public consciousness, it has always been and with Bismarck was fully justified as a higher state leader Worth more than Moltke. The army is a completely new one.
a central instrument that, depending on its use by state authorities is raised in hands, victory or funeral marches will blow. Moltke behaves towards Bismarck like a "From a skilled earthworker to a clever engineer." The
The engineer assigns the location, when and where to begin.
military bloodshovel, the national gold digging is; he chooses an unfortunate political weather-
Time or an unfortunate war zone, that's how it can be,
that even the bravest army is like a rotten shovel handle breaks apart. Of Frederick the Great's army, none remained at Jena.

Barely two corporal buttons together. A statesman

*) "If one wants to apply a comparison to Moltke, for It seems there is someone who can relate to Moltke's clear coldness, to his bloody craft and with the historical necessity of war, in which consumes its life, simultaneously and completely covers it.
Moltke, in contrast to the imperial generals, such as Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon, not a subjective appearance, but a demanded by the spirit of world history and therefore completely objective Nature. As such, it appears like the fine silvery blade of a surgical knife, which with uncanny sharpness and toneless coldness a had a bloody duty to perform. It was a matter of serving the European states.
bodies from the last romantic revolutionary feverish shivers of the to liberate from Napoleonism and the moral sense of duty of the Germans to bestow upon culture commanding power. Never has a physician with sharper
A subtle diagnosis was made when Bismarck, in 1863, diagnosed the unhealthy
The body of Europe in the Prussian clinic, a violent instrument of blood and prescribed iron — and never has a doctor prescribed a better and safer Instrument inserted deep into a sick organism when it

— 42 —

In Bismarck's manner, a new [solution] was created for the despairing king.
just as Bismarck himself abdicated fifty years later preparations for Wilhelm I. through "parliamentary resolutions" created an army even at the last moment of the conflict, with which the imperial crown was won, which Wilhelm II.
today, worn so firmly and proudly on the top of her head. When now the militarily robust force of the people from imperial Munde in its significance for the entire German state and cultural life is given special emphasis,
Thus, every attempt to be state-oriented justifies itself.
the spiritual power of the people, the preponderance due to it to regain it in public discourse.

I did not miss the fact that a certain sentence from the imperial soldiers' speech, which was published in the "Reichsanzeiger"
suppressed, but in the unofficial "Wiener Fremdenblatt" | Surprise of the entire European press, verbatim with:

was divided, immediately in the "Reichsanzeiger" a report after=

Bismarck had Moltke's military sharpness at his disposal. Cold
And Moltke remained silent throughout his gruesome work.
A truly superfluous word uttered; neither pathetic, as the gloomy and tremendous poetry, still sentimental, as the wounds of war should be would have allowed it. Emperor Friedrich recounts in a fine diary, with with what inimitable calm Moltke reacted to the pathetic announcement a French general, that he and his crew with the
as they were about to drop the last stone of his fortress, he replied laconically: "Well
So, in half an hour we will be in possession of the — surrender "Be!" Thus breaks the eerie silence into which the Field Marshal veils, only occasionally a harsh satirical tone, which no other way reaches our ear than the ringing sound of a fine a sharpened knife that unexpectedly encounters resistance, but then "Slicing through a resisting tendon with a shrill coldness."
From my brochure "Bismarck, Moltke and Goethe" (Düsseldorf 1890, Felix Bagel Publishing House), for whose delivery I thank Count Moltke
He personally thanked everyone after Copenhagen.

— 43 —

a suitable publication was found when the brochure
"The Downfall of Austria" for a bombshell—
ung of the Russian-French alliance voting-ung made. This particular passage stated that the emperor on the particular bravery of his troops "at the borders" calculate; the "Reichsanzeiger" introduced the subsequent Publication of this previously suppressed sentence, so that there is no reason to keep this position secret to continue to be subject to European assumptions, as if... not to take her "fully", because she is spoken only as clear proof that the emperor=, politically, despite their professed love of peace
not be blind to the Russian-French
Armaments. Also: | | j

The pendulum of the official Berlin and Vienna press—activity, which was violently set in motion by my brochure=,
The ung was set, remained vertical in the official "Reichs—

“anzeiger” on the looming possibility of a Russian—French war, which are in my brochure was declared to be the most unfortunate eventuality, which German diplomacy and the German people could fall into the hands of the host.

The idea of a Russian-French War must not be popular in Germany, indeed it must not be.
be vehemently rejected as long as the German Domestic peace, albeit with gradual disengagement.
of Austria through statecraft can. A cooperating community of Germany with Russia and Italy liberate Germany from everything acute danger of war and this detachment of Germany

— ©

of the Austrian “friendship” despite the Hungarian
The outcry is completely justified and ripe for judgment, as long as the ver-judete Oefferreich antirusffisch gezückte Säbel in Deut^{sch} land used to get out of the skin of the German farmers
To cut economic straps.

Austria, which for ten years, as Prince Bismarck himself said that his grain speculations with Being coldly and consistently rejected by him would have meant the
Do not use the inauguration of the Lord of Caprivi immediately.
are permitted to implement anti-Bismarckian plans, if the Triple Alliance created by Bismarck was actually worth it to him fuller than the most material Jewish interest.

But it seems that Rothschild's money is in Austria:
The bag weighs heavier than political and moral considerations.
Just like the Parisian Rothschild did to the Tsar
Just as a Russian bond could be refused, so too can the Viennese Rothschild, Austrian diplomacy beyond Bismarckian traditions in uncover—Visible embarrassments are pressing.

The shrapnel-like impact of the brochure “The
The downfall of Austria best proves that it is a

There was something that had to be shot at and that was... could be met. The Hungarian grain Jew, or If you will, the "secret emperor" in Austria, Mr.
Rothschild, it was he who delivered the full shotgun load of my got the brochure stuck in his throat, and it was so bad with the wrong, Jewish instinct found the Friedrichsruh direction, into which he successfully passed through the Budapest Jewish Press hoped to spew fire and flames; Rothschild versus Bismarck.

— 45 —•—

Here is the international influence of Judaism European politics has been so clearly exposed that all peasant forces in Germany and all German national-political in Austria against the
The trade agreement must be brought to the attention of the authorities.
The rural population in Germany relied on Bismarck; it
He was never wrong about him, and he will be now as well.
do not be deceived in him; he himself is never inferior, when he felt the Germanic devil within him, and this
The blonde devil is also mentioned over the gold-armored Rothschild.
triumph, even if this pitch-black Jew is a golden An angel would be.

This black Satan among the iridescent dragonflies
To seize the wings of the stock exchange, a sudden Bismarck is needed.
Bismarck himself once said: "If
If one wants to grasp the stock market, then one must do it immediately with "Take firm hold!" Bismarck had this firm hold Sometimes you have to wait a while, but then he also gets to work.
all the more firmly. He certainly has that heavy, weary calm, but also the lion's lightning-fast fury. Also in the
For a very long time, he played the role of a dormant colonial politician.
before he with both paws, with Wißmann and Woer man, who jumped towards Africa. It seems that he also The way it plays on the Jews against the slumbering ones.
how he kept Stöcker calm despite occasional criticism This confidence is reinforced by the fact that it was allowed to proceed. Certainly, it would be Stöcker was not removed from his post even today.

Bismarck would have remained in a state command position.
would have kept him at his advanced combat post.
to do without initially contacting the national main force

6

to engage. It is a truly German tactic, whose bear-
One should not confuse profound calmness with lame weakness.
In the text: "What kind of course are we taking?" — this one-recommended to all those who are interested in the Inten-Those wishing to instruct the prince — are referred to:
"The worrying philanthropic hysteria, on who is ailing in our age."

May the Rothschild-minded newspapers and parties of today in their opinions regarding a roughly at the
The princes' presupposed "philanthropic hysteria" was not too be sanguine. It could be the world from Friedrichsruh
There are still surprises to come; there lives a man whose Vitality and vigor of the international stock market radicals-
It might be underestimated; even the latter could one day to deceive about where the force majeure of today
It lies in political currents. Good things take time.
have. And likewise, bad things also need time.
to fight to the point where surgery is performed must. Rothschild's international stock market radicalism is taking hold.
only a single historical comparison. But this comparison
It's striking. Just as international, just as excessive, just as profound.
Undermining all Germanness, like Rothschild, was Napoleon I. But as soon as Napoleon reached the point where fine European excess had to tip over,
He immediately found one, as if by a natural law.
natural mortal enemy in national Low German naivety a Blücher. Just as Napoleon had a Blücher, so will the
The excessive Rothschilds find a Bismarck. "I am in
"Born and raised in a Low German-speaking region," he said.
Bismarck recently. Bismarck and Blücher are brothers.

Men of their natural ilk are the best rescuers.
out of unnatural necessity. Germany has already been once before, as today, put in danger by a Jew in mortal danger to be; but whoever was hanged, that was ultimately not the German, but the Jew. In the children's and house-
The story can be read in the fairy tales of the Brothers Grimm.

Once upon a time, there was a rich man who had one.
The servant, who served him diligently and honestly, was there every morning.
The first one out of bed and the last one in at night. Meanwhile
He didn't complain, was satisfied with everything, and was always funny. And when the servant had served for free for two years,
The rich gentleman counted him three hellers after the third year.
up. The good servant, who understood little about money, was Overjoyed with all this wealth, he went leaping and Singing out into the world. Then, on his journey, he arrived at...
An old man asked him for the three hellers, because it Let him be old and the servant be young. And let the servant with his
He gave his entire wealth to good, cheerful hearts.
For this, the old man granted him three more times.
Wishes. And the servant wished for a bird tube, which Everything hits its mark, a fiddle to which everything must dance, and thirdly...
He wished that no one would refuse him any request.

So far, no Jew is involved. In and
The hardworking, cheerful, and kind-hearted person is like something out of a fairy tale.
Germanness described. The servant is the German who with a rich man, Mother Nature, two years around-otherwise plow and sow and finally in the third year three heller harvested from the barren native soil. The male is God himself, who led the servant on the path of mercy puts the heart to the test, and when it does, it

— 48 —

He cheerfully insists, granting him three wishes so that he may go after freedom
May the heart's desire live on. The bird's tube is aimed at the German Hunting instinct, the fiddle, the German love of music and Joy, the request that no one can refuse, directed towards the deep, genuine Bismarckian need of the German language, without to be able to live with quarrels and disputes. The servant has been good.

If he works hard, now he should also enjoy life. That is the wish.
the servant's will and God's will.

But now the Jew comes to the servant, saying I should have been at The devil was written nearby, in the way. The Jew has a long goat's beard and asks the servant to give him one
To shoot a bird that is perched in the top of a tree—
He sings beautiful songs. Thus Loki had Baldur killed by Höðr, the German popular spring, as Bismarck described it in the Reichstag said, shoot. The singing bird that the servant gave to the
The German poetry that shot down goat-bearded Jews is here.
She fell right into a thorn bush, into the scathing criticism of the Itzigpress. But how the Jew got the dead bird out of the
When the servant wanted to clear the thorn bush, he took the fiddle and started playing the violin for the Jew. Miserably stabbed and Torn to shreds, the goat's beard dancing in thorns offered, as yet
Today, when it comes to his fur, give the servant a whole Bags of gold if he would lay down his fiddle. "If you
"So generous you are," said the servant, "so I will gladly join you."
I'll stop making my music, but I must give you credit for that,
You're still doing your dance, so that it has some kind of style.

The German will not give money to his Jews.
to buy it outright, he knows the true price for too good for a Jew; the gold is good, but the Jew is too good.
Even worse, to be paid for with it. He suspects that.

— 49 —

the servant, as well as the Jew, finally received his full He receives his wages. For scarcely had the servant finished with his
The full bag disappeared as the Jew, cursing, went to The judge ran just like this in order to bring a false charge, as today. The good servant was now convicted of attacking Jews.
and dragged into court for Jewish robbery, just like today. The liberal judge believed the fake Jew more.
as the German farmhand. The poor farmhand was Sentenced to the gallows. Now the tolerant Jew ran brazenly.
and chased after the poor sinner, scolding him him: "You bear-skinned creature, you dog-musician," just like Today. The servant calmly went up the ladder with the executioner.

up, but on the last rung he asked the judge, to let him play the violin one more time. The Jew raised a police voice.
A loud outcry: "Don't allow it, don't allow it!"
Just like today. But the servant played his violin, and that's how it all began.
to undulate and to sway and twirl in a wild dance;
Clerks, executioners, and court officers danced, women and Children, but the judge and the best jumped out.
Jew. Finally, the judge, completely out of breath, exclaimed: "I give "Your life!" Then the good servant approached the Jew, who lay on the ground, gasping for air, and said: "Pointy-Boy, now confess where you got the money from, or I'll start to play again!" — "I stole it, I stole it!"
"Stolen!" he shouted, "but you truly deserved it!"
The judge then had the Jew hanged as a thief.

And then the Jew was dead.

Whoever told me this old fairy tale from my childhood

Has it recalled his memory? Is the answer difficult?

4

0

Don't you see professors, judges, Jews, scribes today?

And women dance to a German God's fiddle? Look you the good servant, the German fiddler still

No? 5

Not yet?

So, dear Rembrandtmann, set once more

Turn on your fiddle!

*

In the Berlage of the printing company Glöß in Dresden is published and available for purchase at a price of two marks:

Thoughts on Bismarck.

Political Aphorisms
from

Max Beyer
Fifth unchanged edition.

His Excellency Count Perberk Bismarck writes
To the author: I enjoyed reading your writing.
and she touched me particularly deeply, because there
It emerges that you understand the way you live and your character:

60

have studied my Pater with a warm heart

The "Deutsche Reichsanzeiger" writes: "Apt, surprising,
This brings entirely new perspectives! Beyer is among his most loyal admirers.
Bismarck's to be reckoned with."

The "Bamburgische Correspondent" writes: "Full of delightful humor, original, stimulating, sometimes drastic and sometimes elegant, extremely lively and witty!

The "Rölnische Zeitung" calls the book "a testimony about comprehensive knowledge and a broad perspective Weltanschauung."

"Gt. Petersburger Zeitung": Soothing in subtle warmth witty in his remarks."

The same author published a book by Felix Bagel.
in Düsseldorf:

Bismarck, Mollke and Goethe.
A critical review of Dr. Georg Brandes.
Price per g: 1 Mark.
Field Marshal Count von Moltke sent to the association
Barrels from Berlin to Copenhagen, some hand-drawn thank you notes Lines for sending the brochure. N

The Prussian State and Imperial Gazette questions, whether the Danish literary historian Dr. Georg Brandes is even one such a detailed answer would have been worthwhile; "what the author said about who knows how to describe the relationship between Bismarck and Moltke to Goethe is It was very excellent and deservedly read in wide circles.
become.

The "border messengers" write:

"The Danish literary historian Georg Brandes published a [document/article] last year
He published a pamphlet in which he dared to claim that Bismarck that he was not up to par with German culture, our Moltke the to deny the "stamp of the free man" and to deny present-day Germany
It's unfortunate to call someone intellectually depraved simply because they don't have a Goethe to their name.
A man was found who translated the work into German and a another who published this translation. Well known to our readers.
The author of the brochure "Bismarck Grows Old" was driven by patriotic anger over
He pressed the pen into the hand of this nonsense and punished the cheeky child.
Patron according to duty; also with the literary demands of the vain
He judges the Danes mercilessly. The writing is from An vividly and grippingly written from beginning to end; from a fine
The author, brimming with angry enthusiasm, spouts a great deal of beautiful ge:
thanks and witty ideas."

—

The same author published a book with the Glöß printing company.

in Dresden: , ,

"Bismauck is getting old!"

Price 1 Mark.

A political brochure, of which the "North German All-
The "common newspaper" notes with satisfaction that almost the entire German press reproduced their content with column-long excerpts
I have. The small pamphlet contains the following information:

A statement by Prince Bismarck. — Prince Bismarck and the 99 days. — At ease! — Stand still! — The immediate report. —

"Bismarck is getting old!" — The Chancellor's funeral panorama. — "Deep After-
"Follow Bismarck." — His sons. — The realist and the liberal Worldview. — Bismarck, an erratic bloc. — Alsace, Poland, and North Schleswig. — A Finn. — Spielhagen and Ibsen. — The
The locomotive and the protective tariff. — The hysterical Dr. Bamberger. — Bismarck and the blood toll. — Prussia and Germany, Germany and The world. — Bismarck as an instrument of the liberal world spirit. — His Genius. — Bismarck to Motley. — Kuno Fischer and the "development"
"of freedom," Bluntschli, Kant and Goethe. — German Cosmopolitan-Thum. — The civilians and the regimental band. — The heroes of the advance.
in Hamburg. — Hänel at the climax of pathos. — Rickert in Stage of pathology. — Judge as a political bachelor. — Citizen and statesmen. — The true model progressor. — The real and The ever-living Bismarck system. — When the Chancellor once will die!

In countless German newspapers, as well as in the Danish and Swedish newspapers and the English press received positive reviews in editorials.
discussed. ö

A book by the same author was published by the printing house.
Glöß in Dresden:

"Rembrandt and Bismarck."

Price 1 Mark.

This publication, which has already been reprinted several times within 8 weeks constantly causes the greatest stir in political and literary circles fchen circles.

The "Kölnische Zeitung" holds a lengthy review contrary to the liberal party press, that the document was too rich in content and too witty to be subjected to the usual fund jokes of the can be dismissed by the liberal press.

The "Crefelder Zeitung" writes, although it is on another political positions include, among others, the following: "We as representatives of the
The press forgives the author his harsh words of rebuke against the Germans.
fche Press (especially Bewer takes the "Kölnische Zeitung", which "Post", "Hamburger Nachrichten", occasionally also "Aunt Voss" (on target), because in these judgments, besides some factual accuracy, we find...
Above all, they possess a wealth of magnificent sensitivity and to find artistic creative power. It is practically an aesthetic one.
Pleasure, rich in imagery, so vivid: like color-glowing language of Bewers to listen, to pursue subtle, witty, striking comparisons and the swaying rope of his thoughts reaching into dizzying distance to enter the development for a moment ourselves, until something a primal coarseness of Homeric power and beauty returned to solid ground. Could we consider Bewer's writing, which is actually of an original design, in which content and Form coincides, content and form are strictly distinct from each other,

So we would have to say: Even those who do not like the content of the writing or Even if one were merely indifferent, one should read them for their form, for the wonderfully plastic, warm-hearted, primal style, in which a peculiar poetic nature is revealed. In our smooth, upper In the short term, Bewer's writing is a joy, at least for those who those who have a sense of originality, many will find it aesthetically valuable to guide the appreciation of originality, but hopefully it will guide all readers.
about the first chancellor of the German Empire to a judgment lead, not by the cold-blooded party politician, but by the simple Man and the good German sets the tone."

The "Nossische Zeitung" says, "yes, no German has yet..."
"Written about Bismarck's dismissal" — no wonder the old Auntie lies in epileptic coincidences for an entire column!

His Excellency Mr. State Minister Dr. von

Gerber sent the author of the book published by the printing house Glöb's brochure "The Ruin of the" published in Dresden middle class" by a man of the people (Price 60 Pfennigs) the following honorable handwriting:

"Your Excellency
I offer my sincerest thanks for the kind assistance.
Sending your paper "The Ruin of the Middle Class".
I read them with great interest and...
found that it contains much of what the most thorough Attention must be paid to serious politicians.

With highest regards

Yours most humbled
(signed) v. Gerber."

This brochure contains the information provided by the entire daily team.
press as the most burning question of the present described the situation of the middle class in its most acute form illuminated by national spirit. The writing, which presents entirely new

Practical suggestions for raising the middle class makes, arouses in government, industry, trade and especially
The greatest interest is in craftsmen and workers' circles.

"At Bismarck's" is the title of a book just published in Brochure published by Glöb in Dresden by Max Bewer, in which this intellectual political writing= steller submits a full report on the visit, which he was invited by Prince Bismarck a short time ago was allowed to do so in Friedrichsruh. It is practically he= Amazing, to what a wealth of profound thoughts and observations!
The author's respects were evident from his half-day presence.
was suggested in the prince's retinue. He almost had a
The entire book was filled with it. The reader didn't find it here.
with an ordinary "interviewer", but with a to do with an original spirit, which turned Friedrichsruh into an image reflected, which has all the greater historical value, as it came from a time of the most memorable Bismarck era, from the time of the Bismarck campaign. In a gripping narrative written introduction, which includes the words of friend and foe recognized original power and beauty of the Bewer's

The writing style is presented to a particularly high degree, and is combined with the boldest words took sides with Bismarck's behavior.
Every reader, regardless of their political affiliation, will Bewer for the magnificent depiction of Bismarck's
Be grateful for your private life. — Price 1 Mark.

("Leipziger Generalanzeiger.")

Bewer's book is an indestructible monument to his Heroes, a source from which our descendants have drawn their strength to the present day.
will be created at the latest when they are about the person of the creator of the German Empire, the founder of a new historical period, want to teach.
N ("Palatinate Press.")

üsehrhardt 1939

Published by the same publisher:

Gedanſten über Bismarck.

By Mar Bewer.

Sixth unchanged edition.

Price: 2 marks.

Rembrandt and Bismarck,

By Max Bewer.

The sensational pamphlet was published a month after its release.
already distributed in thousands of copies.

New editions are released weekly!

"Price 1 Mark."

"Bismarck is getting old!"

By Max Bewer.

The most cutting satire on the German liberal party leaders.

Sen Price 1 Mark. lo

At Bismarck's.

By Max Bewer.

This brochure contains the complete report on the overseer.
exciting visit which the author paid to His Serene Highness the Prince Bismarck was allowed to do so.

— Price 1 Mark.

The ruin of the middle class,
From a man from Polke.

This brochure describes what the entire daily press considered the
The most pressing question of the present day refers to the situation of the middle class.
illuminated in the most intense way in a nationalistic spirit.

*Price 60 pfennigs. gr

The Alp called.

* *

Don *,

Diese anonym erschienene, die ruffichen Suftände glall beleuchtende Schrift
It caused ongoing controversy and was banned in Russia.

Price 1 Mark. oo

Her downfall of Oesterreick.
From a Prussian.
This text describes the German-Austrian fought with the fiercest intensity.

SD price 50 pfennigs. 4

Commercial contract

—.

Nietzsche and subtle philosophical dead ends.

By Dr. Bermann Türck.
In this writing by the distinguished

Hamlet explainer Dr. Hermann Türck Nietzsche's philosophy becomes a subjected to devastating criticism.

Price 1.50 Marks. =>

Digitized by Google

BOOKBINDING VRBA

This is a reproduction of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing effort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

Google Books

<https://books.google.com>

Google

About this book

This is a digital copy of a book that had been preserved on library shelves for generations before being digitized by Google.

It was carefully scanned as part of a project to make the world's books available online.

The book has outlived copyright and can now be made publicly available. A publicly available book is a book that...

that was never subject to copyright or whose copyright protection period has expired.

Whether a book is publicly accessible can be determined by...

This can vary from country to country. Publicly accessible books are our gateway to the past and represent a historical and cultural treasure.

and represents scientific talent that is often difficult to discover.

Traces of use, annotations, and other marginal notes contained in the original volume can also be found in this file—a memory.

Remembrance of the long journey the book has made from the publisher to a library and on to you.

Terms of Use

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize publicly available material and make it accessible to a wide audience.

to make them accessible. Publicly accessible books belong to the public, and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this

This work is costly. To continue providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent its misuse.

To prevent commercial parties from doing so, this includes technical restrictions on automated queries.

We ask you to comply with the following guidelines:

+ Use of the files for non-commercial purposes. We designed Google Books for end users and want you to use it.

Use files for personal, non-commercial purposes only.

+ No automated queries. Do not send any automated queries of any kind to the Google system. If you are conducting research via machine translation, optical character recognition, or other areas where access to text in large quantities is required.

If you find this useful, please contact us. We encourage the use of publicly available material for these purposes and can assist you.

It might help.

+ Retention of Google brand elements The Google "watermark" that you find in every file is important for providing information about

This project helps users find more material via Google Books. Please do not remove the watermark.

+ Stay within the law. Regardless of your intended use, you must be aware of your responsibilities.

To ensure your use is legal, do not assume that a book deemed suitable for users in the USA is legal.

Whether a book is publicly accessible, including to users in other countries, is another question.

It varies from country to country. We cannot advise whether a particular use of a specific book is legally permissible.

That is. Don't assume that the appearance of a book in Google Books means it's available in every format and everywhere on the internet.
It can be used worldwide. Copyright infringement can have serious consequences.

Via Google Books

Google's goal is to organize the world's information and make it universally usable and accessible.

Booksearch helps readers discover the books of this world and supports authors and publishers in reaching new audiences.

You can search the entire book text on the internet at |'http://books.google.coml.

IK*

William II,

Romantics

or Hospitalist?

—— . ——

From

*. *

*

Motto:

Male pride before royal thrones!

Zurich 1892.

Publisher's magazine.

(J. Schabelitz.)

Reproduction prohibited.
Translation rights reserved.

Printed by J. Schabelitz in Zurich.

The German people revered Wilhelm I. and Friedrich III.
two men, the creators of momentous events and constructions
They were masters of the great German Empire. Their—
The past was clearly evident, for it belonged to history.
How different it was with Wilhelm II! He had no transition period.
to go through. Hardly had he completed his military, diplomatic and administrative preparation time completed, when he was given the Skill in securing the most powerful place in the European concert of states assigned. He did not know the martyrdom that his father had suffered.
worn, fine father, whose proud manly figure and manly—Strength bled to death in inactivity, while his soul, according to the king—Wilhelm II thirsted for physical activity. He hardly needed it.
Three decades, a whole human lifetime, to be crown prince like his father, who spent his youth, his manhood saw it slip away with dull senses before historical fate intervened.
He threw down his crown, his manhood shattered. Fried—Frederick III was great, but William I was greater! This too is purely personal moments, the historical past, were missing in Wilhelm II. The imperial orb rolled into his hand even before he had found his way into the role of the Crown Prince.

Hence the anxious, timid ignorance of the German
The people's thoughts on the young emperor's psyche when he was with He firmly grasped the reins of power. People had been accustomed to... to have been taught by the Crown Prince for decades. Emperor Wilhelm and Crown Prince Friedrich, both were in full sparkling illumination of the public interest, Prince Wil—Helm's young figure blurred in the twilight darkness.
that light cast. And now he stepped forward with solemnity Face into the brightness of the day, and the German people went forth.

ua

?

to ponder silent, anxious questions about the essence of the new Emperor, about whom so little was known.

In this sudden lack of knowledge, Privy Councillor Dr. G. took action.
Hinzpeter, the emperor's long-time tutor, had the floor.

In a small study, whose diplomatically pinched, breathy-
A persistent, suggestive style reveals much, but more is concealed—
He wrapped himself, laying individual threads of the young Highness's psyche—Zollern merely. "A peculiarly strong individual—" deed, which is not truly changed by anything, even the most powerful resisting external influences, remaining consistent in its own nature—has developed a being of peculiar crystalline quality;
A structure that is maintained throughout all phases of development, in all natural metamorphoses always retains its character has preserved."

Anyone who suddenly rises to a high position of power at a young age is called, without transition period, without preparation time, stands either under the spell of this power or above it. Only the future and its sharp, historically discerning eye will Wilhelm II. could decide whether his ruling power would grant him
the routes prescribed by his government under Hintan—setting his personality, or whether his personality is inherent—willingly gave the state car a direction peculiar to it has. Only assumptions can be expressed, assumptions.
which has a more or less high probability for itself have and made it clear that there are two directions of the young
To control the emperor's soul!

The Hohenzollern dynasty proves itself in the political sphere.
A remarkable evolution. From burgrave to elector,
From Elector to King, from King to German Emperor!
And so it is a firm, time-honored tradition for every Hohenzollern.
sprout, to add something to the large building of fine house history—to add. One doesn't like to add a grain of sand when One dreams of a cuboid stone; one disdains to own one Adding a cuboid stone when building a new dome will or can. As heir to a great tradition, a violent—Wilhelm had to relinquish his power — this is a psychological necessity-

— 5 —

flexibility — all the importance and significance of his dignity and perceive his duties as they did his ancestors had assembled.

It is obvious that the extremely sudden, unexpected, sudden takeover of all ruling power also a strong
To intoxicate the mind with fleeting moments and cloud one's vision
It can. It is understandable, when fully aware of his power.
That powerful mind overestimates itself. This overestimation is This is all the more understandable in a youthful mind, if these two heroes like William I and Frederick III to whom had gangs to whom the entire affection of the people belonged.
While this affection for those figures remained constant
The capital was equal, so it probably passed to her heirs, but without to increase. On the contrary, it must decrease.
for the aura of the parents, which also the first government
The years of an emperor's reign seem to fade with time.
Capital is much easier to spend than to acquire.
New things simply need to be acquired!

* *

*

It is an old phenomenon that every new ruler at
The smooth start of the government sparked hopes that were under refined Previously impossible. A large number of wishes plans and projects that had lain dormant under the old Regime, timidly or bravely tap their way to the light, because they Expect a lot or everything from the new one. The first government
The year of each new ruler is fertile topsoil for Roses and weed wishes. That's why the new lords—always with jubilation, at least with joyful anticipation—Greetings. Everyone is "bien-aimé". Whether a great Elector, a Frederick the Great, William I, Peter the Great,
Cromwell sank into his grave, his significance unaffected.
It was always said: "Le roi est mort, vive le roi!"

And that's psychologically understandable. Every generation.
wants to be led by a ruler who belongs to her, who

u

knows and perhaps shares their attitudes and views.
If a ruler survives his own generation, he flees
in relation to a young, new generation, so controlled
This probably evokes feelings of awe and admiration, but However, internally, a conflict arises between the Old and young generations. For the younger generation
The figure of the present was two generations older.
The grasping and wise Wilhelm I. was already more of a figure of the Tradition, the reverential legend, as the bloody reality—keit. People remained silent when they expressed rejection of modern [things].
social ideas, and then again grateful for the first social policy initiatives of his wise government.
But Wilhelm J. could not be a modern man, because His formative years fell within the first two Romantic periods Decades of this century. Nevertheless, there was a time when in which he too breaks away from the usual conservative government—had the Hohenzollern railway tracks hurled out. As Prince—Regent had withdrawn from the Conservatives, and Men from the old liberal opposition were chosen as advisors.
(1858-1862). But already one year after his accession to the throne Wilhelm J. returned to the conservatives, to Romanticism.
swept.

It is quite a striking phenomenon that the Heirs to the throne very often follow the familiar paths of the old government.
to leave the system and embark on a fresh, new course.
Wilhelm J. proved it, Friedrich III. did as Crown Prince showed that he adhered to liberal principles, but it is on—increase that the old, established tradition also draws him into the
that it would have led back to the usual tracks, at least that's what it suggests.
Bismarck once said: "The course of the Re—
The government of Frederick III, as well as the course of events—nisse from 1858–62 showed that a King of Prussia and The Emperor of Germany did not agree with the principles which one who, as Crown Prince, attributed to him the ability to rule, and when he the Having ascended the throne, he did not hesitate to depart from it.
that would not be the case at all."

1. ==

Every monarchical government creates a series of In-institutions, ceremonies, diplomatic customs etc., which one summarize under the collective term "government system" can and which, over generations, become an unbreakable tradition—dition harden and petrify. A rolling cart, whose Prescribe one path, but absolutely only one path!

Almost all rulers remain within the petrified Re—government systems stand. I know of only three exceptions: Fried—Frederick the Great, Napoleon and Bismarck, who were the old diplomats—ostentatiously left the matic waters and with ingenious return Visibility, a new politics, a psychological politics, were in the works. Otherwise, most rulers limit themselves to... the adherence to the principle of inertia in politics, which itself can force a fire spirit into sleepy resignation. One Think of the unfortunate Joseph II, whose nobility and Man's strength powerless against the rigid government system his fathers were shattered by the weak and good-natured Lud—Wig XVI., whom the speeding government car carried into the
The abyss threw him, without him, and even if he had been a Titan.
That could have thrown a wrench in his plans.

The mental law of inertia manifests itself in subtle, terrible ways.
Power in the high politics of rulers. The son insists.
in the father's course. That is the usual result of all Governments. Only when a new worldview emerges—bears want, a new sex rubs its eyes in astonishment and discovered things that were hidden from the older generation, when New political springtimes that make hearts swell,
Then a time has come when the law of inertia applies in the
When politics loses much of its physical power, then it yearns the younger generation is looking for new political paths, for a ruler who has an ear for the urgent pangs of labor of time. |

A modern ruler! That's what the opposition—
Wart demands, not a ruler who bows before the ro—mantic tradition of his ancestors, the old railway with rolling away old cars; that is what the present demands!

3 *

+

u SB

The modern idea was already present in previous decades
The liberal idea. Now it has differentiated into a liberal and socialist ideas. Bismarck once said the obvious word that no one in the present
There is no one who does not carry a drop of socialist blood in him.
He is a man of the old, the oldest generation. Now he is the modern one, who doesn't just take a drop, but a whole has the lifeblood of socialism in his blood.

Wilhelm II's upbringing was aimed at preparing him to to develop a modern human being. While the high:
Zollern tradition dictated that the soldiers should speak first.
To let come, "the task of education was set,
to give priority to the interest in civic life over the
to provide military support in the growing prince." (Hinzpeter.) He attended the Kassel Gymnasium, the first Bei
This played into the fact that a Prussian prince was on equal footing with commoners.
sat at a school desk; he visited factories, workshops, and mines.
works to see the Germans at hard work, and thought about the "harsh and hopeless existence of the Working-class population. Not at court and not through courtiers.
Having been raised in such a way, he had seen more practical life than any other person.
A Hohenzollern prince before him! At the university, he heard... his lectures were of a very modern nature, in the field of economics.
Experimental physics and chemistry, he was. And yes, he was as modern man is so dependent on the need for social reforms permeated that he once (November 17, 1887) from explicitly expressed his hope that he would succeed,
"closer to balancing unhealthy social contradictions"
to come." Unlike his grandfather, he loves Wilhelm II., not to behave in a romantically exclusive manner, but He establishes personal relationships with the people's representatives.
In May 1889, he mediated in the strike of the Rhenish—Westphalian miner. He is working diligently on the fort—Implementation of the social policy reforms of Wilhelm I. He feels sees himself as a modern-day mouse, in whose blood socialist Drops flow, for he himself admits: "We are going through eventful and stimulating days... A new

The era has begun... I am a child of the modern age!

AM the new, modern, socio-elite in the psyche of
The young emperor simultaneously signifies a break with the high—Zollern tradition. This is extremely important, because it shows that Wilhelm II. intended to replace the old tracks with new ones, to embark on future tracks yet to be built. The first Government decrees gave rise to this assumption, but the
The history of recent events proves a relapse into the Romantic politics, in the tradition of his fathers.

That is what makes it so appealing to the historian and psychologist, that a man sits on the German imperial throne who is known as considered the most modern, most socialist of all rulers of Europe can, whose soul the mighty tradition, the heritage his fathers, the rigid forms of the old government system to fight a significant battle. He himself calls it his time.
a "transitional stage". It is the most complete, most interesting one.
Typical of this transitional period: Romantic and socialist,
Both in one, and neither completely!

M | AK

It is incredibly captivating for any historically trained eye,
to examine the heir of a powerful state, which position these bearers of great traditions have towards the ab—dying old worldview, and to the youthful new worldview occupies. Archduke Rudolf was a through and through A figure living in the old worldview, who romantically
It was enough to care about a pale Madonna face, about a few
To shoot pensive, dreamy girls' eyes dead. The un—happy King Ludwig of Bavaria, who performed Lohengrin on the Throne buried himself from the harsh reality of modernity.
into the solitude of the Bavarian forests, and drove as a lorry—grin on moonlit nights in a boat pulled by a swan pulled. And when the harsh reality of the day confronted him with brutality Faust seized him, broke his tender lyrical heart, and the

za. U: 2

Starnberger=See murmured over the tear-stained, suffering face

A king's last romantic song.

Even in Wilhelm II. there is still a good part of the novel left behind. Ticino. The idea of the absolute violence of his Rule, by virtue of its appointment by God, is a completely more romantic, just as romantic is his preference for the aesthetic—Table remnants of the blond, pale Rococo era, which are again calf-length stockings and minuet revive. This contains a melancholic, poetic trait in the psyche of the young Hohen—Zollern, a tender respect for the silent tradition, before the dying, pale worldview of Romanticism. Even in small, indulgent things, the romantic is documented. A trait of his peculiar character. The old, wise emperor Wilhelm J. wrote, for example, to Lord John Russell, the famous Whig leader, with whom he had hardly any intimate connection personal ties were forged, at the end of a letter (February 18, 1874): "... I remain your sincere Wilhelm."

Frederick III was just as warm, intimate, and humane—simply in his letters. The romantic, who was in the young Hohenzollern scion sometimes wakes up as if from blue dreams, prompted him to write to Moltke, to Germany and the High—Zollernhaus owes so much, in a handwritten letter to write on August 9, 1888: "I remain at your service—" "Affectionate King William." -

Even the purely aesthetic desires of the young emperor Regarding the furnishing of his palace, his railway carriages, to prove his ship's artistic inclinations, from— From the perspective of the Hohenzollern tradition, only battles— Pictures to buy, containing romantic features.

Does the emperor's inner eye sometimes rest in a land, in which the blue wonder flower of absolute happiness As it grows, it stands on the other side and simultaneously with both feet. in the succulent soil of the blood-filled present. He is so Even modern people need to have an open eye and a shows a warm heart for the interests of the day. The international conference for workers' protection, which Wilhelm II. to—fammenberief, demonstrates a degree of socio-political maturity, an original boldness that distinguished him as a modern man and characterized by. Of course, one must admit that the

 The results of that international conference were almost nonexistent.
 were. Bismarck described them as a “single phraseology” — Nevertheless, the suggestion given to Wilhelm II by this is a
 A valuable contribution to sophisticated psychology. Modern is sophisticated.
 Pushing back so-called classical education. Modern.
 This is also his view on the importance of the navy. He knows that the future belongs to the one who controls world trade—prevails, because the future policies of all states must therefore, the focus is on finding new sales markets and food sources.
 advertise to feed hungry mouths. This modern Wilhelm II shares his view of the value of world trade.
 Completely. Including disability and old-age insurance.
 The law is a decidedly bold step into fertile soil—
 future empire, admittedly only one step towards conquering ground, where there would be an entire country to conquer. Modern Ten—Denzen is also shown by the German-Austrian trade agreement in insofar as he proposes a new international peace policy, which is characterized by the Triple Alliance is already pre-formed, inaugurated, in order to form a—Russia is the most significant enemy that cultural Europe has, strategically speaking. and to keep them in check financially. And the latest law Self-assessment is decided upon, an outflow of the in Wil= helmet II. existing sense of justice that every tax—
 The payer is valued according to his economic worth. In any case, one
 A feeling that is not far removed from the social imperative of Ge—
 The legitimacy of democratic parties. AU, that's what modern thinks.
 Ideas that represented one half of Wilhelm II's psyche—senten.

1 8 it

Wilhelm II, fully aware of his sovereign power, and expressed his views on rulership: “To greatness
 Are we still destined, and I will lead you to wonderful days?
 Contrary to... My course is the right one and it will continue.

=,

"Controlled." — The Hohenzollerns were always so...
 People and land merged so seamlessly that every step they took,
 Every policy they pursued was always for the good of the general public.

This was intended. Therein lies a decidedly socialist trait.
a move that aims for the purest and noblest happiness of nations.
Wilhelm II wants to make his people happy and give them glorious days.
counteract this. That is also the innermost tendency of the socialist—Islam. In this respect, it is shaped by this modern view.
The emperor's initial policy of his government. Only —
And that is the peculiar thing about those words — that one is imprinted socialist tendencies in a sovereign way that is romantic is. In general, those words of the emperor grew on the border—area between socialism and romanticism in the emperor's Soul. Modern right-wing socialism is about to bring about the general happiness of nations without first making it complicated and to fully promise; the romantic socialism that the
It represents the boundary between Romanticism and Socialism, it can not to deny oneself a poetic image of the happy ending to imagine the future and then absolutely make the promise to to translate this image into reality. The former does not get into the situation that the latter sometimes finds himself in.
can, one day, be confronted with a reality that does not correspond to the agreed with the given promise. The Athenians also believed according to Demosthenes' report that "everything will be done in two to three days"
"What her heartfelt wish was fulfilled!"

If the future does not live up to the promises of the present fulfilled? . . . Let's hope that the thousands of pale unemployed, which passed through Berlin at the time when the emperor experienced "glorious days" promised not to cast a shadow on the wall of the future...

However, one would be entirely wrong to think of the emperor—word: "My course is the right one," he grumbles. Because to That has always been the opinion of rulers, and it must remain so.
be too! No one will ever achieve greatness who does not themselves from the absolute correctness of fine conduct over-witnesses is. N

Columbus would have been small if he had stayed on his course.

3 11

would have doubted it. Greatness and self-confidence belong in a
The ruler's soul is completely united, even if it is only the
The sheer brutality of a Nero, Philip II, Charles I is! Only that individual rulers so well perceived the current of the times and only felt their autonomy, instead of expressing it openly⁸ speak. Nevertheless, open politics is more diplomatic than diplomacy.

Table politics.

* : *

The era of Romanticism in the German government had
It began. It manifested itself in hostility towards the left.
Parties and in fear of social democracy. There Something unexpected happened. The moment the Romantics in Wilhelm II. took the opportunity of the people—Benningsen explained that the school law had prompted: “The liberal approach to the school law...”

Views have a claim to greater validity than they currently possess! ... However, times may come when our inner development, which is desirable, indeed he⁸ will demand that liberal men who are now
"Fight, then come closer together again."

This opposition between liberalism and socialism is An opposition of the new worldview against the old one. Where
When the socialist tendencies became noticeable in Wilhelm II, they agreed
All left-wing parties are allocated to him, as in the rural community regulations.
and in the commercial contracts, only the appointed representatives
The political romantics, the conservatives, resented. Where the Romanticism from the government spoke out, as with the public school law,
There she found enthusiastic approval among conservatives and Clericalism and the representatives of modernity, the liberals and socialists opposed it. Within the German people
The romantic and the socialist worlds are fighting—viewing a heated fight, a fight that also took place in the
The young emperor's chest rages. It is clear that a prince with such a psyche in such a difficult age as this
The present situation is one that cannot be happy. The serious, harsh one.

— 14 —

The emperor's face seems to confirm it: Two souls dwell, alas, in his breast!

But the reaction, the return to the romanticism of the Prussian
The government is not standing alone. A sharp [action] is underway.

A train traversing all of Europe, a train that will extinguish the flames of the Ortho—Dorie, but also true piety, raise high allows. In Germany, the clergy is gaining powerful influence.
influence on school and public life, a number of religious
A yearning soul converts to some sect or establishes a foundation.
whose new ones.

In Russia, the Tsar is tinkering with the development of fine things.
The wealth is receding more and more.

Freed under the influence of the fanatical Pobjedonozzew
he spared his country the blessings of western culture and degra—
This makes Russia a country of semi-Asian education, respectively.
Lack of education. Religious persecution, anti-Semitism, famines and mass expulsions are the accompanying phenomena of his fanatical, overly romantic politics. In France, Government and clericalism have also grown closer to each other, etc.

This sharply reactionary move is only the latest offshoot.
of dying political romanticism. Perhaps its legacy lurks there, Socialism, to truly inherit its legacy
They can. But Russia is large and the Tsar is far away, very far.
far

Or is what Lassalle envisioned just a dream when Did he prophesy a "social kingdom"? Isn't "king—" "
"Thum" has a little "Romanticism"? And isn't it "social king"?
Is "thum" a subtle contradiction in itself? Do they close themselves off?
"Romanticism" and "socialism" do not mix like fire and Water?

Who wants to know? Russia is big and the Czar It's far...

1

It is beyond doubt that our young emperor has consolidated his power—fullness is understood in a far deeper and more energetic way than Wilhelm J.
and Frederick III. Such an ironclad, definite word, a "regis "voluntas suprema lex" would never have come from the mouth of that person.
come. Only the heir, Wilhelm II, revived this ro—mantic proposition from the era of bygone absolutism

Again. The German people heard this word and shook themselves.
his head, not angrily, but wistfully dismissive.
thought of the painful days of 1848, paindays that Wilhelm J. had lived through and trembled through, to his Constitution and restricted that proud word: "The people's "Willpower is the highest law!"

Romantic ideas cannot be revived, not even once they are old enough.
electroplating. Either all romantic ideas are dead, or they have evolved further, have modernized.
It is a romantic idea, expressed in the words "regis vo-"Luntas suprema lex" is an idea not too far removed from This reflects the absolutist ideas of Louis XVI: "l'état c'est moi" and "car tel est mon plaisir!" In this relapse of Wilhelm II.
Romanticism contains an anachronism, an atavis-Museum. By Friedrich Wilhelm J., the rugged, honest soldier—King and father of Prussia's greatness, Frederick the Prussia's kings considered themselves "the first servants" in large numbers.
of the state and known. They have thereby expressed—
The state, the people as the first, and themselves only described as his first servant. This contains modern anticipation.
Appearance and size! The appearance that a king for his people, and not a people for his king, should be there.
actually already a truth that goes without saying—
It should be degraded to wit and shallowness. Unfortunately, this approach is...
The current political situation is not as bloody as one might think.
But it remains true, eminently true, despite all contradictions.
Yes. A people can elect a king, but a king—
A potential crown pretender can search for a long time before he finds a a "suitable" people is found. The Guelphs, Bourbons, Napo-
The Leonian pretenders to the throne amply demonstrate the droll nature of the situation.
A craving for a throne.

he GE, ze

It is surprising how Wilhelm II came to that particular
A statement could be made, because it directly contradicts:
Sayings about the constitution. As King of Prussia, he needs
He requires the consent of the people's representatives in every one of his laws.
(State Parliament), as Emperor of Germany also the consent-mung of the people's representation (Reichstag), so that "the highest

"Law" consists of the will of the people and the ruler.

This is also contained in this spontaneously uttered statement.

The emperor did not commit any direct violation of the constitution, not

Once the shadow of an attack is even present, the mere presence of it must be enough.

The fact that a ruler's word does not fit the constitution,

like two congruent triangles on top of each other, as a distressing

Symptoms of anxiety are considered. And the anxiety

In Germany, it grows day by day. On March 5th.

In 1890, the Emperor uttered the words, "whoever supports him

To those who wished, he would extend his hand; to those who were not with him, he would leave.

"Smash it to pieces!" Nobody in Germany will be killed because of the will of the ruler as the sole highest [right] according to the constitution

Look at the law, but so too will a true patriot, who considered the Hohenzollern dynasty to be the most industrious of all

Ruling generations admired, in every respect with the

The head of state must be of one mind.

The threat of being "shattered" by the emperor

This unwillingness should worry every true German.

and suppress his own freedom of expression in the

The deepest depths of the heart. It is also not yet proven that the—

those who are not "with" the government on any point who is working against the same! And if our emperor before

Members of the Rhineland Provincial Parliament on May 24

In 1891 he said: "Only one is master in the land, and that is me;

"I will tolerate no other beside me," so no one knows,

Against whom are these words directed, for with the exception of one

The only anti-monarchist social democratic party still has

No one dared to challenge the Hohenzollern heir's right of lordship—access. It must be increasingly disconcerting when

Our emperor repeatedly emphasized his immense power

3 points out that words of resentment are repeatedly expressed against every Opposition emerges. Our emperor threatens everyone who does not in his opinion, to smash; he advises anyone who mis—

be happy, "to dust the German dust off the slippers

"Shake!"

And can Your Majesty be serious about this? Do Your Majesty intend to...
Your Majesty, a German people who nod "yes" when it says "yes"
It should say "no" when commanded to do so.
It? Can His Majesty the modern right of free May—Want to destroy everything just to have peace and quiet? Free—Dearly, there is a peace that lasts forever and is infinite... the Peace and quiet of a churchyard! And do you want Your Majesty a state?
A political dead man? A churchyard of emasculated men, a
An eerie, dead silence? And as the small, pale one says...
Jude Spinoza with his great pantheistic heart? In
In his "Treatise on Politics", doesn't it say the crude—A cruel, iron word: "A state whose peace is maintained by the
The inertia of the subjects is a condition that is similar to the Cattle being herded... can more easily lead to a wasteland than a state.
be named!

But no, that has never been the Hohenzollern way, another one Prussian style! A fiery glare at the Great Elector, at Old Fritz, Emperor Wilhelm J., Bismarck! To them was the fresh, cheerful fight with the opponent on the
A playground of brilliant ideas, a life's work and a passion for love, and So we do not believe in a shattering when we are of a different nature.
Opinions are, and so we remain in Germany, precisely Because we have different opinions! Wouldn't that be unpatriotic—mus, pathetic un-German cowardice and desertion, the
To shake off German dust instead of defending it! No, True masculinity does not flee, it perseveres and fights!

She has her great and beautiful role models in the powerful personalities of the great Hohenzollerns themselves...

zii. A

The much-discussed words of William II: "But if it were Then it's not better that the disgruntled complainers would rather the Germans shook the dust off their slippers and greeted our wretched and miserable conditions to be resolved as quickly as possible Would they move? That would help them, and it would help us too.
"do a great favor with it" — this word will have the effect — cannot induce patriotic zealots to emigrate. If Even though our Germany is not "oppressed", the
The following words of Robespierre contain a profound truth: "One can leave his fatherland if it is happy and in Triumphs are achieved; but one does not flee from what is oppressed! And Even Danton once uttered a beautiful word when he was told advised fleeing abroad: "Can one leave one's homeland?"

"Take the shoe soles with you?" No, indeed, one can Shake off the dust, but not your fatherland!

u: *.

The divide between the romantic and socialist Worldview is clearly reflected in the insecurity of the Re—Government course. Nobody in Germany knows where they stand.
Everyone feels insecure and biased towards the government.
The political romantic laments the social reforms of government, the socialists in the broadest sense of the word whose relapses into the realm of romantic politics. Yesterday Large parties were considered nationalistic because they adhered to the trade agreement.
They agreed, today they are denounced as enemies of the Reich because They, in the public school law, pose a danger to the German people—look. The most extreme conservatism of Stahl, Gerlach, Hengstenberg slowly rises from his short sleep.
and "atheist" has become a term of abuse for all those who are not are of the government's opinion. The Reich Chancellor Caprivi
The insurance company stated that the rate was the same as before, and it is a Things have changed. Years and years ago, a school law was passed by Goßler.
Now, one Zedlitz. And what a difference!

u: 40. 2

And yet, for the psychologist, the reason for this unease lies in:
rest, this flight of appearances and government opinions only in the alternation between Romanticism and Socialism. And because this change came so suddenly, because it abruptly shattered many hopes shattered, hence the "complainers" and "nitpickers" of the director's rung, to whom our emperor excitedly threw down the gauntlet.

But these "complainers" and "nitpickers" will be fully—Aware of their patriotism, they did not put down the gauntlet—take. Nobody in Germany doubts the honest ones.
Government intentions, no one, that the government only that

The best wool. Unfortunately, our emperor doubts the honest ones.
Intentions of the political opposition, the “complainers” and “Mäk—
"ler". There is no German man, no German people's—representative whose opposition does not stem from the view that he is doing and only want the best for the German people. About a
The political question may be favored by the conservatives, the liberals, the Zeutrum, the social democrat, is of the most diverse opinion;
Everyone is fully convinced that his
In view, it is the correct one and aims in the best interests of the people.
For everyone, love for the people is the driving force behind their decisions.
Anyone who wants to deny another person the right to criticize is a romantic in the old sense; someone who calmly accepts other opinions Whether someone tolerates, listens to, overcomes, or not, they are a modern person.
A person who weighs things up according to the social standard of justice.

Yes, it must be asserted, without "complainers", without buxom
Nothing great has ever come of opposition.
A great idea that does not provoke opposition, that does not Causing "nitpicking" and "grumbling" is not a great idea.
Only mediocrity in the realm of ideas finds universal approval.
Agreement. That's why "nitpicking" is — of course not in petty philistine sense — a political and psychological one Necessity. Never was the Great Elector greater than then.
Prussian estates under Hieronymus Rhode and Kalkstein
no one ever "criticized" him more than when old Fritz was bigger.
he found an opposition. The lion is a mouse when he finds no opponents. If he does find an opponent, then

— 20 —

The air reverberates with his roar and his terrible majesty
Look there... every inch a lion! ... All the important ones Characters need change, development. And Where is there a better one than in the struggle with other ideas?
with other opinions?

No, the people's "complaining" is a pedagogical lesson.
ment, a touchstone in the development of every monarch.

But there's more! The Catholic "Cologne People's"
The newspaper rightly says: “With today’s awareness
The nature of nations is incompatible with the ruler's pre-existence.

to see vision, to whom they can confidently entrust everything.
— They want to participate and have a say in the decisions. about their fate.” That is why every “complaint” stems from equal right of love for one's fatherland as any other consent to the government's decisions.

In a small textbook of logic I once read the following Genges' pretty example for the derivation of a special theorem from a general one.

General statement: All people can be wrong.

Caesar is a human being.

Special clause: Caesar can be wrong.

It cannot be stressed enough that true strength fully aware of himself, he can withstand any criticism. Every Another view of the concept of "strength" is of a romantic nature!
The “National-Zeitung” recently emphasized insightfully: “Church and kingship may lead to mystical and romantic interpretations.
View inclined finely, tradition on the one hand, power—
On the other hand, their heads were easier to lift than others.
To lull people into the delusion of infallibility. But nothing.
This could prove more disastrous for them in our time than this one.
Conviction and the vehemence with which N rejects every criticism and rejects any doubt.”

— 21 —

That the Reformation ushered in an age of criticism,
That is what is eternally great about this movement. That this right
The main concern of every person is that criticism remains accessible to the people.
Parliamentarism, which can only be viewed as a concrete—Stimulation of the people's abstract need for criticism. In that respect Any struggle that denies the people's right to criticize will be wanting to care is hopeless, insofar as this right is concerned.
plays out criticism within a legal framework (elections, press, Meetings).

Wilhelm I and Friedrich III never had this popular

The right to criticize has been violated. Not even Wilhelm II, except for the last reluctant comment about the "complainers" and "nitpickers" in the Brandenburg Provincial Parliament. That was a different returns to the realm of romantic politics, Especially since it's not clear who is meant. Complainers are... The Orthodox Christians who were present at Stöcker's dismissal were complainers. are the conservative groups of Count Limburg-Stirum, of Count Mirbach and Lord von Kardorff, complainers are the big industrialists, the Bismarckians, the agrarians, the National Liberals, the Freethinkers, the Social Democrats, the Jews, the anti-Semites... Because at some point, in some... Every party has been displeased about one question at some point. It has always been so, and always will be so! Even our Emperor's. Unwilling words are powerless against the spirit of the age, which is essentially critical-socialist.

Being complacent is an eternal affliction of all states.
For in none is there only happiness and pure contentment!

bl
il.

The main characteristic of romantic politics is, on the one hand, the overestimation of the person or the fear of the same, On the other hand, the underestimation of the idea. The most absolutist The ruler is the most romantic. For example, the The Negro king of Dahomey did not object. He ordered beheadings! It's so incredibly simple! He's just a naive romantic.

who still believes in an idea, a contradiction, a complaint to kill him if he beheads its author. All the great Complainers, Socrates, Giordano Bruno, Huss etc., lost around They risked their lives for the sake of a naive romanticism in politics, but Their ideas lived on, immortal, like eternal nature itself.

And the way I imagine Wilhelm II to be, he is Not yourself a friend of self-confident, honorable masculinity? Doesn't he himself love Prussian straightforwardness and German conviction—loyalty?

Yes, perhaps even our emperor knows that the "no"

Hunting requires more character than saying "yes". "Yes"
Many can parrot it out of fear, out of genuine conviction.
opinion, perhaps from the mass hypnosis that every ruler—exerts will over the people.

Saying "no" is usually the result of a long,
deep, often painful reflection; it demonstrates conviction, Serious, independent thinking! Behind a "no" lies...
Often there's more courage behind it than behind a hundred "yes"s! There's more to it than that.
a reflection on the political problem in question, a Overcoming the hypnotic influence of the government's will,
a breakthrough to an independent opinion, a male-
The same self-assertion... those are the psychological threads.
the "nitpicking".

For thousands of years, Germans were considered particularists.
And he has remained particularist in his views. Thus Many heads, so many opinions, that was the hallmark of the Germans have always been like this. And this independent thinking.
and weighing this uprising of the German people against Certain government opinions, is that political pessimism?
Pessimism? Shouldn't that rather point to idealism?
based on the old German sunny idealism, which is happy, if he lets himself be shot dead or "smashed" for an idea
Can?

It is a generally human characteristic that one feels
He prefers to praise rather than criticize. The child, the Negro, both The reprimand immediately causes great discomfort. But the—

23 u

The attraction of the human race also has this human aspect.
Weakness modified, developed. Yes, it has come to this.
that the privilege of being able to bear praise is reserved only for the has assigned women, a human species to which, however,
This also includes most of the men.

Woman is the epitome of eternal romance, the eternal mountain-Traitor of all romantic traditions. And so it also shows.
the peculiar historical parallelism that with the revival

The awakening of romantic politics also brought about the rule of women.
It gains unexpected scope. The more romantic an age,
The more effeminate, the more effeminate. Romantic politics is quite Tradition, and so is woman; romantic politics is entirely Ver—silence, hints, meaningful blinks, diplomatic evasion bend, complete roundness, finesse, courtesy, calf-length stocking, Minuet. And the woman?

Yes, and the woman? — — — |

The feminine side of a man loves praise. And so they loved it.
even all effeminate, romantic ages the praise, the embellishment embellishment, hyperbole, saccharine effect, while all male—
The socialist era saw the censure, the criticism, the harsh criticism—soberness and strict seriousness. During the romantic
The policies of Louis XIV (XV and XVI) were focused on Paris an impenetrable cloud of powder and praise, meanwhile, to the
The borders caused the people to starve and a quarter of the arable land to fallow.
lay. That was a wonderful time, which Talleyrand, the—most outstanding political romantics to the delighted exclamation prompted: “Anyone who did not live before 1789 does not know the “The joy of life.” Of course, that was also a time when every rebuke had to fall silent before the lightning of the roi-soleil, where all criticism was broken against the walls of the prisons,
in which “public opinion” is neither opinion nor public—was allowed to be. Louis XIV is the principal representative of the Romantics on the throne. Beyond all criticism.
He crushed the enemy's uprising, he destroyed the Jansenism and thus the seeds of an awakening critical Mind. But he loved splendor and magnificence,

as.

Spent 150 million francs on a fine Versailles palace, and when the hungry people came after his home with stones in 1715 Sarge threw, he had a right to do so, because his hunger could not be able to raise the two billion in national debt. Well, as His successor died in 1774, the man with the many loves—fcschaften, who had the classic and cheeky answer to everything:
"Well, the monarchy will last, as long as we live."
Apres nous le deluge!", there the debt burden was at four Billions have been lost. Oh, how instructive all these numbers are!

before the great French Revolution! The court restricted ...and only used 34 million; for the jolly brother of the honest but limited Louis XVI.
The hungry French people still found discarded, ragged things.
14.5 million to pay off his debts. And the Poor Queen Marie Antoinette. I believe she wept when when their court was restricted to only 486 court officials,
He was only allowed 1857 horses and 217 carriages. Wasn't that right?
That was a disgrace for her, for the poor Habsburg woman, who her neck had to be put on the straightening bench. This poor thing beautiful, white neck.

Living it up, spending a lot of money, more money than the revenues amount to, that characterizes the romantic
The policies of the Bourbons. They were able to do this because they had no public—
They had no reason to fear criticism. And where this Traces were shown, they were destroyed, for a feminine time—
Old age can only tolerate praise, only incense.

Our Hohenzollerns were different! Almost always wise limitation of their expenses, efficient accounting and diligent savings. Friedrich Wilhelm J., the most genuine Prussian type, reduced the number of koften upon taking office fine courtly expenses increased by 400%, i.e. from 250,000 to 50,000 Thalers,
But he spent 6 million Thalers to do this in the area through A plague devastated the province of Prussia, affecting 6 cities and 332
He left his son the task of rebuilding villages.
a treasure worth 9 million thalers. There's much more to it than that.
Greater than in the entire Bourbon Empire. So it was.

— 25 —

Frederick the Great. For himself, 200,000 thalers annually, for The state needed more than 40 million thalers.
not shying away from criticism, not the weight of public opinion
There's no need to fear opinions. Nobody who is right for themselves needs that.
Little for himself, much for others.

"% 1

*

In the expression of German public opinion
Every honest German must accept a tremendous step backwards-

Note this. The German conscience is emasculating, becoming un-Germanized. More and more. To be German means to be open, loyal, and honest. That. One cannot judge this based on current public opinion. She claims. On the contrary, she is secretive, dishonest, and cowardly. If you want to hear open German voices, you have to go to the 12th district. and the 16th century, to those times when German identity and public opinion are most vividly expressed— They have lived, testified, and pleaded their case. How bravely they sing! our ancestor Walther von der Vogelweide from the Pope, the "New Judas!" And today a Berlin satirical magazine receives an indictment for mocking the Catholic religion, because it had mocked Trier's rock music a little! Who Today, one dares to compose and publish songs, just like in the old days. 16th century, when a powerful prince said the following to

is pilloried: |
"Oh Moritz, what are you doing?"
Probably in Swabia,
With your fake stuff?
That's a great disgrace for you!
Or Emperor Charles V is mentioned:
Lord God in heaven, stand by us
And punish the emperor's tyranny
And control his rage!

This regression in public opinion is a sign the weakness, the romantic politics of the government, the Cowardice of the German people. And yet the history teaches us—
The story that the great modern idea, the socialist idea...

3

The idea of the future only ever arises in times of freest expression of opinion. Unrest can sprout. Germany has never been greater than under the Hohenstaufen, never did it possess a more powerful universal Expansion and power were greater than under Charles V, and yet they saw those times marked the beginnings of a truly free, public Opinion. You don't need a genius to be a ruler, on the contrary. Partly, average intelligences on the throne always find salvation= syan, never harmful, but the people must learn this from their master— They certainly demand that he has an ear for their opinion, that It is allowed to freely express one's opinion. That is the first modern

A demand that every individual ruler must acknowledge.
Everything else is romantic atavism!

11.

25.

Frederick the Great would have had ample reason to be annoyed about to complain about nitpicking and complaining. When he had coffee and When the tobacco monopoly was introduced, there was a cry of outrage. through every woman's coffee-loving heart, through every man's tobacco breast. But he tucked his fine, mysterious, lonely A philosopher's smile appeared, fulfilling his duty and — he complained No. When he saw a person on a street corner one day— When he saw the pile, he asked about the cause of the gathering. "That "It's a pasquill in honor of Your Majesty," stammered the adjutant. Embarrassed. Again that fine, unassuming smile. "Let him put it down-" "Hang it up so that everyone can read it," he ordered, and drove further. And when Luther, whom almost the whole world was arguing about— Having found fault, he read a pamphlet against himself (1545), and wrote coarse and cheerful: "I confess that I have never heard such angry—" received shortly before my death and almost always gladly and happily read, except for the blasphemy that God could do such a thing is attributed to it. Otherwise, it gently hurts me on the right. kneecap and on my left heels, that the devil... and his scales are so cordially hostile."

Both words convey a truly modern perspective.
from the feeling of power. He is strong, he who does not outrun the opponent—

ee

He who does not wish him away yields; he is strongest who He overcomes him eye to eye. He who fights a battle will, must not be so well-equipped that only the previous
The enemy's flight promises victory; one must prepare accordingly.
that you can also defeat the enemy!

ch m

h

The Hohenzollerns had always been German, i.e.
if one speaks of a brief alliance of the Great Elector with Louis XIV, German rules always applied to them.
Interests, then purely dynastic ones. The Habsburgs were green—
They first need a firm power base before they can serve Germany Interests were at play. Of course, the Hohenzollerns were always involved.
More Prussians than Germans! That's understandable! Even a poor sex, the electors of the poorest German Landstriches. And never are rulers and inhabitants of a
The countries are more closely connected than if they were both
It goes badly, as if they both have to work hard. That has given the Hohenzollern dynasty that austere, frosty air-pressed, which is famous under the name "Prussianism", that train, which is also so extremely likeable because of Austerity, strictness, loyalty, honesty, diligence, duty:
feeling! |

Wilhelm I was naturally more Prussian than German.
But given his venerable form, it didn't come across very often.
to the breakthrough. Frederick III was more German than Prussian;
Hence the warm sympathy he always enjoyed in southern Germany.
Found. Wilhelm II is fully Prussian again, more Prussian than ever.
as a German. Hinzpeter explicitly states: "That in the case of the—thoughtful reception of German history, the Prussian Heroes and triumphs to an even higher degree aroused by warmth and pride, is all the less to be—wonder, as once one's nature, when it reflects on its flaws and advantages are grouped under a general heading should certainly be described as eminently Prussian
"would have to."

— 28 —

Prussianism has always been highly valued.
It had its roots in agriculture and industry. It contains a modern...
The train in it, when the Great Elector, the Soldier King Fried—Frederick William J., the old Fritz of immigration contributed, supported new branches of industry, or even organized them themselves.
let. Frederick the Great gave forty million thalers within twenty years for that.

For the period up to Wilhelm I, the Werth-Estimation of the soldier's status is eminently modern in the context of Senses. But she was, she isn't anymore.

The Prussianism in Wilhelm II also expresses itself in the Emperor
The same name left its mark. Slowly, imperceptibly.
What happens is what insightful diplomats in the North German Confederation...
They foresaw and predicted it. Prussia is growing.
not in Germany, but Germany

It grows into Prussia. That's simply a historical fact.

of royal justice that Prussianism everywhere in Germany—
land gains firm foothold, for Germany owes Prussia un—Finally, much; Prussia, on the other hand, Germany until the year 1866.
Almost nothing. ü

However, a truly Prussian thought begins to to become antiquated, and here is an opposition of the non-Prussian, German elements understandable! It is the overestimation.
of the military!

*

There is no doubt that there is such a warm interest and an a-seemingly strong aptitude for various career interests
Wilhelm II. owned, and in the first line he always was and is a
He was a true Hohenzollern, i.e., a soldier body and soul.
First a soldier, then a citizen, first the leader of the Prussian first a Prussian army, then a king of the Prussian citizens. That was always truly Prussian, truly Hohenzollern Tra—dition gewas, who also loved Wilhelm II with all his heart is resigned. The young prince's upbringing was in vain.

kiss: "DO

aimed at prioritizing civic interests over military ones

to cultivate, but the “innate military interest grew powerfully upwards, until it finds a wide place in dreams, “Acquired thinking and action.” (Hinzpeter.) When he was ten When he was years old, his elderly grandfather had given him to the first He was introduced to the Guard Regiment and reminded that “all Kings of Prussia, independent of their duties as rulers their main focus would have been on the army.” And so The young prince repeated this on several occasions. Words: “The army will never be an army of parliament.” will be. She is and remains the king.” And this exclusive The position remains with the army and is merely the cause. for the overestimation of the soldier's numbers by all right-wingers standing parties.

As the last ray of sunshine greeted his dying father,
Then the grieving son first thought of his army and his Navy. Three days later, on June 18th, the Proclamation “to the Prussian people”.

The overestimation of the soldier's strength is quite...
Unhealthy. It is the most romantic of all contemporary ideas.
and lacks any modern justification. The development from robber-like, gypsy-like mercenary life to standing Hired army, then general conscription simultaneously
a development in the psychological valuation of that army
This has resulted in: underestimation, estimation, overestimation—Estimate. Not as if universal conscription doesn't work miracles-things would have been done, but she was brilliantly conceived in a time, when it came to defending wife and hearth, people and king, when Prussia still had to grow. Now there is no Ge= thanks more to the fact that Germany is territorially—can receive an increase, therefore the activity of the army is only limited to the passive function of defense. Whether here= necessary for three years of compulsory military service and an army of millions “Is,” these are questions that are often discussed. In any case, ver:
serves as a state institution that only serves one possible purpose= defense serves, devouring billions that are solely for consumption

— 30 —

knows and no production of values, not that appreciation of value, as militarism demands. Yes, the worker, the peasant, the craftsman, the merchant, the large-scale industrialist, they all They would have to be valued higher than the soldier in the public's estimation. stand.

The almost banal truth must be repeated here as well. that the army is there for the sake of the people, not the People for the sake of the army.

15 U.

But the people must do this with the means at their command. By legal means, they emphasize: it will remain in the country and to earn an honest living. It will not emigrate — from Patriotism. Wilhelm II could not have meant that in the truest sense. since the government is introducing a law to make it more difficult to Emigration. Our emperor mentioned it in his last speech. Conviction expressed that “our old horse-like disposition⁸ Bach and Deunewitz will not let him down in this endeavor.” That Every honest Prussian hopes so too, along with our Emperor! But the Sieger von Roßbach, who, out of frugality, only paid 200,000 Thalers annually needed for a fine entire court, which in its “anti-Macchiavel” found the wonderful word: “The prince is not the “Absolute master, but only the first servant of his people.” He arranged for each colonist to be sold to him for 200 Thalers, For he said: “I absolutely want it to be governed in this way, that people come into the country and don't run out.” (Voss. Ztg.)

The words spoken by a romanticist political The news of the complainers' departure hit them like a bolt of lightning. aroused deep agreement in all social classes. The pro— Professor Haus Delbrück says about this: “One should not believe that the passionate mood that had been aroused by the speech is, will pass by... Whoever, for instance, of His Majesty about Anyone who reports the effect of the speech differently must be informed by the public. In his opinion, he is a liar and a traitor to his king.

he

“To be branded a lord.” One was used to:

The nature of the right to criticize as a civic right to be regarded as a duty, and now received from the Emperor's side un—to hear willing words. Now is the time for every German A man has come to demonstrate, by legal means, that our
The emperor falsely reported on the wishes and opinions of the
The people. For it cannot be otherwise! Our emperor would have
He would not be able to give that speech if he went over the course.
the German people wish to take, over the currents, which would have been well reported, permeating the German national soul.
And so it is time, when the German people have bad advisors discovered at court, to lodge a veto with millions of votes. None.
Kaiser is able to control the immense machinery of a great state—to see through and untangle the body. In many, many Others must see the points for him and advise him!

And the last [event] testifies to how our emperor is advised.
Speech. The German people have, through assemblies, through their Press, through its parliament to rise up against the means—Moderation and unmanliness had become widespread at court.
A shameless, pushy, servile sex seems to be presenting itself.
to urge the young monarch forward and his masculine
To charm the heart with flattery. One of the most German, or more accurately, by their very nature, Prussian men, Frie-Drich Maximilian Klinger, whose defiant masculinity was no
He knew how to bend his neck, even though he was a Russian prince's servant,
He rightly says: "A man who certainly doesn't flatter."
A very rare man would be able to listen to and endure that.
to be... No one exists or lives without flatterers, and even if...
to a mortal this most strange and harsh fate
I hope he should meet, yes, he should be a flatterer in to find oneself. Perhaps that's precisely why a man who... cannot tolerate flattery, the biggest, proudest flatterer his own self!

Never does a breath of a free German man's word penetrate, that which fell at court before the emperor, into the public eye.
And yet, the belief is justified that our emperor, who himself

He loves masculinity and openness, a brave, free word
That doesn't mean anything bad. It's bad for a ruler if...
He cannot hear the truth, but it is much worse when...
He is not a man who would lay down his life for a free, sir-
A heartfelt word! The powerful Emperor Wilhelm I once said that He stated that he despised flatterers and those who most Loves who told him the truth. But this beautiful sight—

The power of truth before royal thrones seems to be lacking.
to be in decline. Only the people are aware of this.
It's your own fault!

A brazenly displayed servility is becoming increasingly prevalent.
around itself, a servility that tramples masculinity underfoot.
and is grateful for every glance from the ruling class Circles fall away. This servile mentality is even worse.
An atavism from the era of Romantic politics. It is growing.
That's why it's rising again like a mushroom with the new Romanticism!
Even the pious "Reichsbote" (Imperial Messenger) eventually had enough.
and he too once railed against the new servility and against the lack of conviction that pushes its way to the forefront, in order to escape from
the
to be noticed by the government. Neglect of the political Character is the beginning of the end! And so everyone who loves his fatherland, the quiet hope that a Siegfried's—may the sword on the imperial throne be found, which will destroy the slimy Lind—eradicates the worm of unprincipledness among the people. Victory!
Fried, who rides through the red flames, is always rewarded.
finds his Brunhild, i.e., the bronze-armored goddess, who Truth.

Recently I saw my old childhood friend, Marquis Posa,
as I thought about the beautiful word "male pride"
"Royal thrones." "You know," I said, "when I was a rascal
When I was about thirteen, I liked you so much! Come, Tell me your old stories again. It sounds so...
"Sweet as a fairy tale..." And he declaimed it with pain,

to — 979] —

9 a trembling voice, in which it sounded as if from subdued Tears.
...I cannot be a fine servant of a prince... .
Can you tolerate foreign creators in your creation?
...I hear, Sire, how small,

How low you think of human dignity,
Even in the language of the free man only
To see the trick of a flatterer, and I think I know who authorizes you to do that!
People forced you to do it; they had Voluntarily surrendering their nobility, to voluntarily lower oneself to this lower level Downgraded.
How could you possibly cope in this sad situation?
Mutilation – honoring humanity?
One day, this impoverished state will be stingy with its children!
f . . . Enter
The unnatural deification arises,
The one that destroys us, give Freedom of thought . . .

After that word, I heard nothing more. It was just...
It had been a dream image. But I stood up and looked into the Dawn, rising in pale red waves on the horizon,
and saw the veils of the future billowing...

Male pride before royal thrones!
Where to? Where to?

dl. Eu

It was a brave German word that the Pietist said to God:
Fried Arnold in fine “impartial church and heretic”—
he said “history” when he emphasized that there was often much in heretics more piety, love of humanity and fear of God were fostered.
I have, as in the church and official religious communities. Therefore I say that the "complainers" and "dissatisfied" often have far more
Those who possess patriotism are the eternally satiated and eternally content.
And so this writing is also dictated by patriotism.

in M

Epilogue.

I was warned against publishing this brochure.
But I remember that great rulers distinguished themselves through
They never felt offended by genuinely meant characteristics. Friedrich
The Great and Luther have already been quoted. March 2, 1772
The former also wrote to Voltaire: "I am thinking about Satire, like Epictetus; if someone says something bad about you and If it is true, then improve yourself; but if it is a lie, then laugh at it—
Over! I've become a good post horse over time, I'll return to my station and take care of the yappy dogs.
"Not those who bark on the highway." His minister, Count Hertzberg once explained: "Publicity is only for such State administrations are dangerous, which are sinister and subterranean.
"He loves back roads." The creator of England's greatness, Cromwell believed: "Is my government good
To create something that allows it to exist, it has nothing to do with paper—
"To fear being shot." — —

But the most wonderful word comes from the only mo—
derennen and socialist-infused ruler, the Ofterreich had: Joseph II. It says: "Whoever has me and my hand—
The lungs are criticized, showing the good intention to teach me and to do better. Should he thereby disregard the due respect except To set eyes, this may be justified to him because of good intentions—will move ..."

Berlin, March 1–3, 1892.

— . —

This is a reproduction of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing effort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

Google Books

<https://books.google.com>

Google

About this book

This is a digital copy of a book that had been preserved on library shelves for generations before being digitized by Google.

It was carefully scanned as part of a project to make the world's books available online.

The book has outlived copyright and can now be made publicly available. A publicly available book is a book that...

that was never subject to copyright or whose copyright protection period has expired.

Whether a book is publicly accessible can be determined by...

This can vary from country to country. Publicly accessible books are our gateway to the past and represent a historical and cultural treasure.

and represents scientific talent that is often difficult to discover.

Traces of use, annotations, and other marginal notes contained in the original volume can also be found in this file—a memory.

Remembrance of the long journey the book has made from the publisher to a library and on to you.

Terms of Use

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize publicly available material and make it accessible to a wide audience.

to make them accessible. Publicly accessible books belong to the public, and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this

This work is costly. To continue providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent its misuse.

To prevent commercial parties from doing so, this includes technical restrictions on automated queries.

We ask you to comply with the following guidelines:

+ Use of the files for non-commercial purposes. We designed Google Books for end users and want you to use it.

Use files for personal, non-commercial purposes only.

+ No automated queries. Do not send any automated queries of any kind to the Google system. If you are conducting research via machine translation, optical character recognition, or other areas where access to text in large quantities is required. If you find this useful, please contact us. We encourage the use of publicly available material for these purposes and can assist you. It might help.

+ Retention of Google brand elements The Google "watermark" that you find in every file is important for providing information about This project helps users find more material via Google Books. Please do not remove the watermark.

+ Stay within the law. Regardless of your intended use, you must be aware of your responsibilities. To ensure your use is legal, do not assume that a book deemed suitable for users in the USA is legal. Whether a book is publicly accessible, including to users in other countries, is another question. It varies from country to country. We cannot advise whether a particular use of a specific book is legally permissible. That is. Don't assume that the appearance of a book in Google Books means it's available in every format and everywhere on the internet. It can be used worldwide. Copyright infringement can have serious consequences.

Via Google Books

Google's goal is to organize the world's information and make it universally usable and accessible. Booksearch helps readers discover the books of this world and supports authors and publishers in reaching new audiences. You can search the entire book text on the internet at <http://books.google.com>.

IT

HN UH e

5 5 re der |
11 Influence and Power

the

Since Lunderk years (1711-187).

From

Hermann von Scharff=Scharffenstein,
former Second Lieutenant A la Suite of His Majesty King Maximilian II.
of Bavaria and the Imperial Archives=Trainees, matriculated Bavarian nobleman, Holder of the [title] awarded to him by King Frederick William IV of Prussia

golden medal of homage and the medal for art and science
His Highness Duke Adolph of Nassau.

*

*

>“

Second edition

0 4

Stuttgart,

Heinrich Killinger
Book and music publisher.

1872.

* reserved for Anton BNA.

4 (ir 8 3 7
| 2 N bobesd
4 ! L 7 A a * | 1 1
. 2 Dee W n -

73% 977

The secret goings-on,
the 0 Influence and power

the

Judaism in France

feif Rundert years (77—187h.).

From a
Hermann von Scharff (Scharffenstein)

former Second Lieutenant A la Suite of His Majesty King Maximilian IT of Bavaria and Reich Archives, Interns, matriculated Bavarian nobleman, Holder of the [title] awarded to him by King Frederick William IV of Prussia
golden medal of homage and the medal for art and science
His Highness Duke Adolph of Nassau.

ISDN *

—

Second edition.

— —

Stuttgart.

Heinrich Killinger
Book and music publisher.

1872.

Translation rights reserved.

Contents:

Philipp Egalits

The Rabbi's Talisman 1 een

Avis à la branche e ee ;

The Jew Angelucci A

Beaumarchais : . .

The Jew Cerfbeer

Souvenirs of the Marquise of Croquy

Souvenirs d'une actrice .

The Jew Pereyra . ;

Napoleon I came from a Juben family;

A Freemason brochure 5 8

The Jew Stephan Morin; 8 ; i2

The Rite Misraim i ; ; s A ;

The Jew Cremieux.

The Jewish descendant of Napoleon III.

Father Thomas of Damascus

The Jews Emil and Isaac Pereire

The credit mobilizer

The Jews Bachon and Ratisbonne

The Jew Mir ss N

The Jewish Ulm Field

The young Fould as a diplomat

The new Jewish temple in Paris

The blasphemies of Rabbi Fabius in ion

A Jewish murder gang in Caen

The actress Rachel Felir

Count Walewsky

The gossip gang of the Jew David.

Fröderic Lemaitre speaks French Jude

Heinrich Heine, sold to Ludwig Philipp

The Jewish Dr. Koreff

The Jewish musicians Meyerbeer, Halevy and Offenbach

The fake ostrich

Messrs. Eduard Simon and Amadeus Achard (from the Constitution), Louis Ulbach (of the bell), as well as the 1 Kalisch, Kolisch, F. Bamberg, J. Bamberger, Weil,

achauer, Ratisbonne, Goslan, Cohen, Levi and |. w.

They are all people living in Paris and are either French.
or by birth German e Ban en with Sa hand in the acting

8
*

OO 2288

94

IV

The Mainz Jew Levita and the exiled Duke et from Braunschweig i
The Jew J. Dollfuß in Mühlhausen h
The Count of Salignac-Fénélon and fine brother-in-law, who Jaude Victor Hertz, game tenant in e 8 i
The Jew Gerothwohl as Count Croy.
The alleged prince of er ar
A Monster- Process A i F . 8
Jud Jacob, the healing Zouave; . . . A
The Jew le Cerf or Cerfty 5 1
Doctor Henoque, honorary physician of Napoleon III.
The Hoff'sche Malzertract and the l fortißantes
Medals against bleeding 5
Leon Dreher and Moses Hirsch
Once again Cremieux, together with the Jews Gequiros, eren and Gambetta.
The French Jewish Papers 2852;
The Dictator of the Rhone Estuaries g

The Jewish offspring Ay .
The Jewish doctor Hertzfeld
in Grousset 5; j 4
The Jew Marx in London 0 A 4
The Black Cabinet;
The children of Japheth.
Rabbi Isidore
The Abbs Deguerry 9 da Cofta, efenguußbiretor, in Dayas nn Pikard k
Louis Ratisbonne
Fränkel on the run
The Jewish editor Meurice
The May brothers, above handler and General Inter danten of the Commune
The Jew's Horse
Fein An against the Bourbons and Henry V.
Prince August of Bourbon.
The Jewish traitor Deutz
The Jews in Algiers
J. Simon and Renan
The son of Wes Rethfäi Ending.

yes

Regarding Judaism in France,
We have not failed to conduct in-depth studies and We first turned our attention to the family of the dukes.
of Orleans and its relations with the Jews come. It is notorious that the infamous Philip of Orleans, the father of King Louis Philippe, even before the first French Revolution, both in Paris, as well as in London, in which latter city he who was known to spend a lot of time there, much-has come into contact with Jews and that they
It was they who, through every possible means, saved this shameful man.
wicked schemes and intrigues leading to continuous open and secret opposition against the older line of the Bourgeoisie bones provoked. But in particular, they reinforced his in his foolish ambition to seize the crown of France to bring himself and his family; a delusion which
As is well known, this also led to his execution on the scaffold.

His son Ludwig Philipp saved himself, some A after-

Judaism in France.

ze. N

to whom he witnessed the execution of the unfortunate King Ludwig XVI. himself had witnessed it, most cleverly into the Abroad.

The proof that the Jews killed the infamous Philip of Orleans, or, as he called himself: the Egalits, to high treason and all imaginable atrocities, Baron Carl Heinrich gives us insights into the motivations behind these developments. von Gleichen in his "Memoirs", Leipzig 1847. It can be seen from this that the well-known Sched case, Chief Rabbi of England, Philip Egalité one adorned with a talisman of lapis lazuli made a ring as a gift. "Ce talisman devait conduire le prince au trône," it literally says in the Beech. So it was the ring with the talisman that Dukes were given under the pretense that they possessed the magical power to place him on the throne of France. To lead France. Such a ring as the Rabbi Falk gave the check to Orleans, they called it. The Jews Kamaoth, and it was one of their lists to those high lords whom they deemed suitable for their purposes recognized that such rings should be given to replace them. these supposed talismans for the strongest approach to encourage action in the interest of Israel.

Trusting in the rabbi's prophecy, he committed Philipp Egalité soon as a consequence of the same all those nothings, honors which the story of him has recorded has. One can see from the above that it is Jewish. Clever tactics and Jewish intrigues were what spurred him on, to strive for the crown of Louis XVI.

rn,

That with this ring of Falk-Scheck fine Rich-
The nature of his character became apparent soon after the death of the Former King Ludwig Philipp (in the 1950s) the post-
The following announcement appeared in various public newspapers-to read between France and Germany:

"The late former King of the French, Louis Phi-Lipp had received a gift from his fine father, Duke Egalite.
inherited a precious ring, on which the most touching Traditions of the Orleans family were established. This ring adorned the Duke's hand before he saw the guillotine-He rose, he had hidden it from the fine guards—
knew and let him through a girl named Juliette Goudchaux, to convey to his family. When the Duke was no longer there, the schoolmaster of Reichenau wore the future Duke of Orleans and King of France
zofen, the jewel as a memento of fine
Hand. When the hereditary throne collapsed and the charter Although it had been torn to shreds in 1830, the ring remained.
still holding the hand of the ex-king who had him before upon his death, the Count of Paris.
The ring was much too big for the Count of Paris and He couldn't carry it on his finger, so he sent it accordingly, the family jeweler went to Paris to deliver it to his to adjust their hand. The Orleanists didn't have time to do that right away.
learned that the ring had arrived in Paris, when the jeweler unexpectedly received numerous visits in received his establishment, which this Orleanstian
They regarded and silently venerated the relic, but sometimes They uttered words that the police didn't always like to hear.

u

Bert. The pilgrimage to the Ring in Rue Montmartre was stopped; because two policemen were guarding the Street and netirten Everyman who goes into the money worker-People came and went from the establishment. Nobody suffered because of it.
more than the goldsmith Jacques, who suddenly
He lost most of his customers, who were afraid to go there.

to smell of Orleansism, if they do that would visit the establishment. When the ring was already After beginning their return journey to London, the
Mr. Jacques' customers are still out, so that this felt compelled to suspend his payments. He came charged with fraudulent bankruptcy, was jersch freigesprochen und lange in tief Eswente.
The Count of Paris had not immediately heard of the fashion—
The unfortunate man learned of his fate when he decided to to redeem the victim of the Orleans family ring.
He sent the man a substantial sum of money and He interceded on his behalf with Queen Victoria of England, which gave him the wedding jewelry of the Prince Alice ordered it. Thousands of people are now streaming in.
in front of the jeweler's shop window to see the rich
To admire diamonds, which are sure to find the head to decorate the merry Queen of Holland, and praise the humane spirit of a young Princes who, in their own difficult situation, have a heart has preserved for the suffering of others.”

Mr. Jacques, in German: Jacob, who passed through the fort
The Orleans customers remain bankrupt.
He, who was supposed to have been driven to exile, was of course also Jewish.

55

In any case, he made the best deal through the offered-
A magical ring!

In relation to this matter, it was later also brought up that I have yet to learn that Julie Goudchaux, who...
The ring in question was allegedly found on the way to the scaffold.
from whom Philip Egalité is said to have received, a Jewish woman and was the aunt of the Jew Goundchaux, who became a member of the provisional in 1848
government in Paris raised and then finance became minister.

However, in Paris there is a view that the ring
the rabbi, Philipp Egalité, long ago taken from him on his final journey, bought by Jews

and from Julie Goudchaux to Louis Philippe only under the pretext of getting him from Egalité have been handed down, in order to protect themselves and their family thereby falling in love with the Orleans people. Probably, that the words of Falk-Scheck are once again remembered-were brought about, which then also brought these Orleans may have encouraged them not a little, on and on against to conspire one's own relatives.

The Duke of Orleans did indeed rise.
with the Jew's talisman on the throne of France; but he soon descended from it again, about the Jew Cremieux, Fould, Goudchaux, etc.
To make room.

But it wasn't enough that the Jews committed the shameful act Egalité has urged the largest share of to take the first French Revolution; they attacked

E

3

also actively involved in every other way. Through They were especially the shameful pamphlets which man against the unfortunate Queen Marie Antoinette and the royal family of the Bourbons, established, verspreads and mainly circulates — yes, even partly-Wisely composed. In particular, it is a proven fact.

The fact that the first dragonfly, which (already in the year 1771) against this noble martyr, a Italian Jews named Angelucci to the death-had barrels. The book was titled "Avis à la branche espagnole sur les droits à la couronne de France a défaut d'heritiers" and hid under the verthe enveloping form of a political treatise the hideous-most serious accusations against Queen Marie Antoinette. Louis XVI, who was involved in the work had learned and heard that the dragonfly, through the Jews in Paris most eagerly spread, much was read, commissioned the famous Beaumarchais to do the same to the to buy the Jews Angelucci and the remaining ones to destroy copies. Angelucci let himself be guided by Beaumarchais paid 35,000 francs and delivered approximately 4000 copies of the book were printed. Approximately 500 were...

already disseminated in Paris. With the rest of the Print run — over 5000 copies were printed

The Jew disappeared. The [unclear] that spread in Paris Examples sparked a veritable storm against the Königin emerged, were reported by the daily newspapers in Austria. The train was communicated and commented on. Later the Jews the book in Amsterdam again in French and also u ie ®

reprinted and distributed it in Dutch across all of Europe.

They also played a role in the infamous collar trial. The Jews are known to be a truly despicable people. Role. It was the Jew Cerf-Ber, in particular, who the weak and arrogant Cardinal of Rohan always forwards on the path it has once entered. urged. *)

Even back then, the Jews feared the threat. to woo in every way and crowded around then near the newly emerging rulers, played the agitator and the spy and won on This way, the greatest influence. Mr. von Courchamp, Author of the "History of the Lords of Faucigny" and Editor of the "Memoirs of the Marquise of Crequy," writes in the latter work: "The Marquise "was on Tuesday morning (at the time of horror) under

"Robespierre" went to a Jew named Kaiffer
"and lived at number 495 on St. Denis Street."
"This was demanded of her so that she could talk about her
"To discuss matters with the Jew, for he "Hebrew was one of the two hundred chosen ones,

The descendants of the army supplier Cerf Beer, who in They claimed to live in Paris and play a role there even in the Years 1859, with two million francs, creditors of the heirs of to be Cardinals of Rohan. They claimed the same from Prince Camille of Rohan, whose uncle was Princess Char-Lotte, bride of the Duke of Enghien, had inherited, who was from Cardinal had been appointed Universal Heir. A. d. V.

— 8 —

"which had designated the supreme syndicate to appoint judges"
"to be above everyone in accordance with Section 6 of the "Section XI of the Act of 29 Sept. 17."
"This honest judge showed great distrust and "The deepest contempt for all noblemen. On the
"When the Marquise gave her speech, he simply replied: "On verra!"
Which is to say something like: "We'll see what happens."

Even the bloodthirsty Marat was murdered by Jews.
give, who served him as spies and constantly incited them to new murders and atrocities. In one Works which were published in Paris in 1841 under the Title: Souvenir d'une actor; by Mme. Louise Fusil appeared and from which the Frankfurt Conversations-longer excerpts from the journal in 1841, Nos. 84–88.
brought, it is said:

"In October 1792, Talma gave the fine Er-
"General Dumouriez returning to Belgium"
"A celebration. The usual circle of his friends, among "Them, Brissot, Millin, Chenier, etc., were in his "pretty house on Chantierine Street, the Julien
"belonged to and later Napoleon as General Bonaparte "bought it from him, gathered it up, and a lady just touched it."

"Pianoforte, as Marat with three members of the welfare-
"cruise committee, among them Pereyra, the Portuguese"
"A Jewish man entered."

A few chapters later, Madame Fusil, who is under-whose person moved from Paris to Lille, the following Details about this Jew, Pereyra:

"After the siege was lifted, I hurried to Lille."

ur, 2G; Se

let go and go to Boulogne, where Lady M.
I was waiting for you. There were many English people there and the Society quite agreeable, until the arrival of the por-Tugiesian Jew Pereyra, the same one who be- Marat gliding as he celebrated the festival in honor of General Dumou-Riez interrupted. He spoke excellent English and was looking for to gain access to several English houses, which It was not difficult for him, as he was a decent person.
had a lot of understanding and even more cunning.
Meanwhile, I learned that he was a spy for the welfare state.
committee, and warned my acquaintances to do more,
because he always tried to get the gentlemen to drink at the tables knew, while he himself remained cold and composed.

At that time, there was also an emigrant family in Boulogne; I didn't know her at all, but we met.
They often walked together and greeted each other. Pe-Reyra often spoke of them; and when I once seized them
the opportunity, with the intention of learning more about him, easy to throw away: what else will they encounter?
could, even if they were arrested?
"Well, a small thing, they would be shot," ant Pereyra spoke. I was startled, but I said seemingly indifferent: "I thought they would only stay until the Frieheld captive." "Not at all," replied the Jew; "The law concerning emigrants is very bad."
"That's right; and there's no shortage of them here."

Some time later, a Lord of Flahaut, who who wanted to emigrate, was arrested and died on the scaffold; Many others followed him. How large was the number of

to I:

The unfortunate ones are those who were victims of the Jew Pereyra
The number of those who fell is unknown. But it seems there were no to be a small number that the Jew dedicated to the well-being² cited travel committees and denounced them, since Boulogne was too
At that time, a large number of victims fell victim to the scaffold.
traditional.

When Napoleon I later seized power, the state-
The Jew Pereyra vanished from the scene; he was to leave.
da ab in Paris most eagerly as army supplier with trade² have handed over business. Whether they have been closed for a longer period of time.
especially since 1848 in the Parisian stock market world
well-known Jewish brothers Emil and Isaac Pereire, which also boast of Portuguese origin, the
We were unable to find the sons of this Pereyra.
found. But we will discuss this later in this textgoing back to the same ones.

We now turn from the Jews in Paris to the Jews in southern France and France in general, These mostly only occur during the course of the previous
They immigrated there again in the 19th century. King Phi-Lipp V. had, in fact, from Paris, as well as from his
In the rest of the lands in the year 1321, all the Hebrews were exiled.
let them drift, because they are in league with the outcasts² inspired by their fellow citizens and the former
They were to give poison to destroy the Christians.*)

The chronicler of Nangis claims that the king Granada won over the French Jews and these would have encouraged the lepers to teach the Christians poison,

From Provence and Languedoc, the Touraine, from Chinon and Paris fled to Spain, in a classy manner.
"Likely to Aragon and to the island of Mallorca."
But when they were also there in 1492, through the
Those who were expelled by the great Cardinal Ximenes settled
Many went to the island of Corsica, where there was already a
A large number of Jewish people who had previously fled from Florence to this area
There were families.

Only in Brittany, the later French Pro-
Vinz, who at that time still had their own
Where the ruler had been, Jewish descendants remained. The people
He called these people Cacoux, and considered them to be followers of the Nazis.

to destroy them. A Sire de Parthenai wrote to Philip V, that a leper known to him was told by a rich Jew
He said he had been incited. He also stated that the poison was from Human blood, urine, and four kinds of herbs whose names he did not know.
I knew it had been prepared. A consecrated host was still there.
devoted and the whole thing was crushed and put into a sack sews, weighs it down with a stone and then puts it in a well was thrown. Histoire de France by Martin, Part VI, page 547.

Von Thienen=Adlerflycht writes in a fine, interesting way Buche: In the Land Full of Sunshine. Berlin 1861. Page 211:
"Our landlady in Manaco on the island of Mallorca called my= Pigne, a leader, was a Jew. Pigne had reddish hair and He really did seem like a Jew to me. The appearance wasn't right.
without any reason. His ancestors were Jewish, which occurred during the expulsion from Spain under Ferdinand and Isabella fled to this island. Although over time
All who were baptized still form their descendants to this day.
in a sense a settlement of foreigners, which falls under a= to marry others with whom the people do not approve.
which does not recognize the Balearic Islands as the real ones."

— 12 —

They come from lepers, because they mostly suffered from leprosy.

They did not mix with the Britons and far-gradually died out, except for a few.

In Corsica, however, the Jewish population increased in a truly astonishing way. The ones from Spain and Menden Jews were taken from there in the fourteenth century. Florentine pseudo-Christians who fled in the 19th century (secret Jews) were very well received and let to be baptized several times.

Mr. von Courchamps, the publisher of the famous ten Souvenirs de la Marquise de Crequy, which we Having worn them before, she writes about it: "Cherlin, A heraldist and genealogist says that the actual Reason why the island of Corsica has the names of the largest Italian noble families so richly ver-Seeing is a consequence of the expulsion of the Jews, which took place in Florence in 1443. It seems that the majority of these Hebrews, who had been forced to be baptized when they went to They fled to Corsica, where the great names of Colonna, Orfini, Doria, Feretti and Buona-parte wish to include which they, according to the usage at the time, Time from their godparents, who belonged to those old families belonged to, had received. For the very same reason. Even today, one can still see many Jews of Portuguese descent. Lineage which includes the names de Costa, de Pinto, de Capadoce and Menezes wear them. Meanwhile, it is said, that these Florentine Jews in Corsica, because they themselves wanted to Judaize, later partly themselves again."

N

u.

were driven; one must hope that those of their Descendants who remained there, the writings- finally doing it in reality and not just for show have assumed."

This note by Mr. von Courchamps is a far-
 A blow against the family of Napoleon I, of whom one in Ajaccio claims that it is of Jewish origin.
 She used to always be involved in trading businesses-gave, had almost no land ownership and found even even in the last century because of their origin always great difficulties when dealing with old Christians-wanted to connect with Corsican families. That it was with This origin of the. Buona~~parte~~ has its correctness and this was already the case more than fifty years ago in
 The author of this article saw that Germany was known for this.
 Writing, when he was born in Frankfurt am Main in 1862.
 From the Freemasons' perspective, a very interesting brochure.
 It was sent anonymously. It bears the title:
 Judaism in the May, a warning to all German DO DD. In the year 5816.

On page 1, it states verbatim about Napoleon I., when he was overthrown from the throne: "Retribution has taken hold of him seized, and not left to die — the many would have reconciled with him — but rather the cowardly disgrace, so that belief in him may never arise again.
 But the evil that arose under his rule
 It rose mightily, but it did not fall with it; Rather, it has maintained its level. Previously

— 14 —

%

Judaism had already entered the Catholic Church.
 found; the Corsican also led us to the Jews and handed over to them the objects of the temple." And It continues on page 5: "Jews find roses-Crossers. They swear by the Gospel, they bow down.
 standing before the cross, they wear the garment of the Church,
 They celebrate, with Christians, the mark of redemption and remain — Jews." It also says there: "The — I give giving them the opportunity to use their trained bribery system to be applied on an ever-increasing scale and one hundred to disrupt peaceful relations. Napoleon is indeed sitting isolated on a rock in the world ocean, but in the hands

His confidants (the Jews) are pulling the strings of a A connection that extends not only via France, but also via Germany, Italy, Spain, the Netherlands lands &c. &c., widespread and their striving for nothing
It is aimed at something less than a general world-“Revolution.” — And the honest member of the Federal Republic writes further:
Brother Page 13 The following: “From what has been said so far
The following is undeniably evident from what has been said: N

1) There are similar things in Germany as in France.
a secret connection with Masonic forms that under unknown superiors and after non-Masonry-strives for [unclear] purposes.

) Whoever the R.. of O. . and the Sch.. R.
Those who know me will understand me. Note from a Freemason.
This means: Whoever the knight of the East and the Scottish Ritter knows high degrees), he will understand me.

Note by the author of this document.

-

— 15 —

2) The members of this association are large-partly Jews; they work in grades and systems, which only appear to follow Christian rites and Christian traditions
They have symbols.

3) The Jews need Christianity either for mockery, or to cover up secret intentions and Activities. ||

How concerning must this intervention of the Jews be in Masonic connections, when one considers which active participation of this people in the crimes of (First) French Revolution and the Corsican Ufur-

patrons taken, as firmly as it is based on the belief of a future Jewish world domination and what kind of one exercises." Unfortunately, Jewish gold flowed into the hands of so many civil servants.

And furthermore, the booklet reveals:

"In 1807, it was founded in Frankfurt am Main under the protection of the then French-Primate The government, a so-called O, which established its constitution from the great Or. in Paris received, and the Finnish-full name at the breaking dawn (l'aurore naissante). The Jews, from whom this ge-The home club initially went out, they undoubtedly wanted to go through that name indicates that the day of their salvation will be It seemed. Only the young dawn was basically nothing more than a police lantern; for a part of the General Police Personnel (also mostly from (consisting of French Jews) was at the head of the new guild, which, incidentally, showed no decency, to their Israelite children the Ark of the Covenant unlock, and break bread with them and to drink the chalice. The great Or also liked... Paris has every reason, with its learning ability and The daughter's inclination to be content, and as Napoleon the Almighty several German I DO close Although it was allowed to be sown, this Frankfurter remained in quiet possession of fine Trust." |

Napoleon I. was already influenced by the Jews early on. France since the eighties of the previous year 19th century, the leading Jewish lodges had a major say led; aware of his Jewish heritage, he feared he the then still purely Christian German lodges, which as soon as possible in a German uprising against him worked. He was the one who, through the Hamburg Lodges, which already existed towards the end of the last century had been infected by Judaism, the election to Crown Prince of Sweden at Bernadotte, who also He was said to be of Jewish descent and knew how to lead. Jude Leucht from Bernburg, formerly mint master of the Duke there, later through the Jew Süß in Stuttgart-

garden under the name Georg Friedrich von Johnson (allegedly from England) Ducal Württemberg Cavalry captain, entered Jena through Herr von Hund in the so-called Templar Order, lied as its-alleged actual superior in all of Germany, namely also in Hamburg, around and already led to around 1750= He baptized and initiated secret Jews into the lodges there. granted several bricklayers there a previously unknown

=. 4 ge

ten high degree, and stood with Stephan Morin from Paris, also a Jew who called himself Grand Elu, parfait et ancien maitre sublime, Prince Magon etc. w., from Conseil des Empereurs d'Orient et d'Occident ernamed, roamed around Germany and America, in Verbond. After these two swindlers, who had done some They caused a stir and into the French and Hamburgish lodges already contain many bad and Jewish elements Having brought them in, the three Bedarride brothers entered up and founded and established or spread in the lodges, the ridiculous Rite de Misraim. These Brothers Michael, Markus and Joseph were three Jews from Avignon, which served in the army of Napoleon I in Italy acted as an army supplier. Specifically, Michael, Inspector of Deliveries. These villains led their new system, which was divided into ninety high degrees which was divided mostly into Hebrew names, from the secrets of the "Temple of Osiris in Egypt" Here. The great Orient in Paris, where the Jews lost their main influence after the fall of Napoleon. had, however, a kind of Ban over this Jewish system. Nevertheless, he mentions a list of members that Joseph Bédarride still in September 1818: Supreme Grand Conserva-expensive. The members of a branch of this system= mes, „les sectateurs de Zoroaster“,“ complained 1819 on the despotism of the Bedarride brothers, "who are the highest powers in the Rite Misraim= would have been suitable.” (Misraim: Hebrew: Egypt.) Be Ber Judaism in France.

—

re

Darride was now Marchand parfumeur in Paris, and his brothers, his alleged travelers, who also
They founded two lodges of their rite in Switzerland.
Master of the Chair, who was formerly Grand Master of the Grand Orient helvétique was and probably Even though he was also a Jew, he sought to seize power from it.
to tear it apart and declared it dissolved. Meanwhile The Swiss Masonic authorities met men and founded the Grand Lodge of Switzerland, while The rite of Misraim continued to wretchedly eke out its existence. In France flourished with this system despite the prohibition that which had repeated the Grand Orient, but continued. In In 1846, however, his boss, who was Jewish in style, was... who had almost reached ninety years of age, the Grand Conservateur Michael Bedarride, with the editor of the journal Le Globe, the Th. Juge, in a Proentangled, which led to the most delightful revelations and This led some to abandon the Rite Misraim. In Lodges of the same still existed in Lyon in 1860, Paris and other French cities, whose members who were mostly Jews or Christians converted to Judaism.
In the French lodges, the Grand Orient and the
The Jews, dependent on him, worked during the time of Restoration 1815–30 incessantly again on the fall of the Bourbons and for the Buonaparte family. Equally after exile, but even more so after death Napoleon I., the intrigues began to create a Napo to the Leonids on the throne of France.
Ludwig Napoleon, as well as Peter, his older brother, were chosen by the Jews, to give them a new and to offer a golden future. When the latter died prematurely, The first one was quickly added to their lists and Intrigues, introduced and initiated into their Masonic lodges. Ambitious as he was, he made them the biggest Promises. The Jew Cremieux, who was already in in a Parisian Jewish lodge in the 1930s held an influential position and worked in the club with the provincial lodge most zealously for the Jewish offspring Buonaparte, whose origins he knew precisely. He knew, that the people of Israel in France under a second Napoleon would usher in a golden age. N

The Jew Cremieux is from a story that began at the beginning of the

returned to southern France in the last century

Family, which, like the German Jews, their She wrote the name of the place where her grandfather lived. had settled there. Cremieux is a stain. not far from Lyon. The "Jew from Crémieux" went to Paris, to study there, then appeared as a young Advocate. He reappeared, first in Lyon in the company of a gentleman Dr. Dessaix knew; both of them pushed their way into the room. better society.

As early as 1825, Cremieux appeared at the Caffations-court and bought the clientele of Odilon Barrot. Some Prior to this, he had read a brochure: "About a new primary school curriculum" somewhat better Made known. The clever Jew was in southern France. richly traveled from place to place and from city to city, to make his system understandable to the people who understand the schools themselves to develop. That these lectures in a subtle way — it was under the Restoration — against the Bour-

— 20 —

That work has been done on bones is self-evident. However Even back then, he was already bowing down to Louis.
 Philip and Orleans in general. With the help of the
 He won over Parisian Jews right from the start with fine cars.
 riere in Paris a widespread legal knowledge.
 When Louis Philippe of Orleans in 1830
 Having deposed his cousin King Charles X, he urged Cremieux soon moved into close proximity and played the faithful one.
 Servant. He kept this mask until the year 1848. Only when, on February 24, 1848, in the Both chambers appointed the Duchess of Orleans as regent and wanted to proclaim the Count of Paris as king, he threw them off, demanded the deployment of a provisional one—
 [The] government and appointed himself Minister of Justice.
 Around the same time, a folder disappeared from the Tuileries Palace.
 with the most important documents of Ludwig Philipp. About This fact was reported by the Allgemeine Zeitung at the time.
 in detail. On March 2nd, the Minister of Justice Cremieux was solemnly received in the Chamber of Deputies and returned. He had received the information from Abbé Chatel.
 founded “French Church”, a kind of German—Catholicism and half-Jewishness, to reopen.
 Without a doubt, he hoped this would create another bone of contention. to throw them among the Parisians. On March 8, 1848, he received Cremieux, the citizens and brothers of the great Orient, which before him, the one who had entered the Jewish Freemasonry initiated and at the head of the Jewish Grand Lodge

9. —

The standing bricklayers appeared to thank them and to say hello.
 to attribute to him. 0

But shortly afterwards, the demoeratie pacifique the removal of the Justice Minister Eremieux, “because he especially loved his fellow religious people.” who favored this.” The Conversation Paper in Frankfurt
 a. M. soon afterwards published in No. 156 under the 4th.
 June 1848, the following detailed article on the type and wise, how Cremieux subordinates himself to the provisional re-government had smuggled in: “Reported on Cremieux

The Leipzig fashion magazine said the following: It's all coming Gradually everything comes to light, including how some people...
Violence was unleashed. Many were surprised that Cremieux, a not very important lawyer, after the revolution
became a member of the provisional government in Paris—
The. Now we learn how that happened. In the door-joint session of the Chamber of Deputies of 24 February
The names of those who provided the provisional
The government should be formed, with pencil on a sheet of paper.
Pier wrote and Lamartine tried three times to write it.
To restore calm and read out those names; in vain!
The president energetically handled a fine bell, Ledrü-Rollin strained his lungs as much as possible, he could not get through. Then they remembered that of all the voices in the chamber, the most feared im-more of Mr. Cremieux's and that some Deputies always carried a little cotton with them,
to ensure it is too fine, should any creaminess occur.
They are capable of penetrating, someone said.

— 22 —

to him; read the names there aloud. Cremieux showed immediately and willingly, he climbed onto the one standing before him.
He went to the lectern and began. It became truly quiet and he read.
the names compiled by Lamartine. Each
The name was, particularly from the galleries down, associated with greeted with loud cheers. Suddenly, Cremieux stopped.
He paused for a moment and pushed the paper close to the
His face looked as if he couldn't remember the next name.
Read correctly. It was the name Cormenin's, but Cremieux fchob keck dafür den fseinigen unter und pro-
He thus blagged himself up with his stentorian voice to Minister. Imagine the dismay of those who had compiled the list! Nevertheless, that was To not undo what has been done. The name Ere-mieux was of the galleries with just as big a bit-
The case was welcomed as the others, and impossible Could someone step forward and speak to the lecturer on the Accuse Stelle of fraud.
made."

As a member of the provisional government and as Cremieux, the Minister of Justice, acted as if democracy were pacifique darthat, especially for his fellow believers and most likely also for Ludwig Bonaparte, as President of France of Jewish blood and as later emperor. Under him, Judaism reached its zenith. as we shall soon see, the highest level of power and of influence, and God Mammon stood as high as This had not happened since the fall of Jerusalem.

As early as November 1851, Cremieux was already on the case.

3

of Judaism so certain, "that he will establish a dictatorship Ca-Vaiguac's or Lamoricière's were certainly not feared." Several days later, Cremieux spoke of the ill-fated full expedition to Rome;" whereupon the deputy replied Tascherau called out: "You would probably have an expedition to Would you have preferred Jerusalem?

After the coup d'état, to which the Jewish banker If Napoleon III was provided with money, Cremieux withdrew. again, quite far back from the main stage and seemed only as much as possible in the chamber and also in the Secret in the Hebrew sense. He was a Jew, after all. sprouts again stepped to the top of the empire, who ruled entirely in the interests of Judaism.

One of the most peculiar occurrences at the time the government of Louis Philip of Orleans, on which we have to come back again, that was also just Murder of the Capuchin priest carried out by Jews Thomas in Damascus, in which Cremieux played the role The washerman played the role of the horrific murderer, protecting the terrible murderers. took and obtained a firman from the Sultan, which to release the captured Jews immediately commanded. This is truthfully recounted in a in the Imperial and Royal Court and State Printing Office in Vienna in 1860 printed works, which bear the title: "The Holy Places, pilgrimage to Jerusalem, Syria, Lebanon etc.," The following is in the first volume, page 553.

On Wednesday evening, February 5, 1840, the Capuchin Father Thomas, who has been for several years in Damascus, where he practiced medicine and was visited by everyone

— 24 —

The man was loved, in the Jewish quarter. Under the pretext of vaccinating a child, he was taken into the house of Daud Arari, where several Jewish people were gathered. Notables, namely the Khakham (Rabbi) Musa Abu el Afieh, were located. Father Thomas was found, thrown to the ground and by those present held; the barber Suleiman held a large copper Becken to his neck, Daud Arari grabbed a knife, cuts the priest's throat, and Arun Arari, a brother of the first brought about his eventual death. Blood was collected in the basin without any drop was lost, then the body was dragged away from the murder chamber to the wood chamber. There He was stripped of his clothes and they were burned. The body was dismembered, the bones with a Smash the mortar mallet on a stone and the head broken in the same way. The whole thing was in a sack given by the barber Suleiman and by Daud's servant to a house next to Khakham's carried into the existing channels and piece by piece into the gutters thrown.

Seven of the most distinguished Jews of Damascus, all very rich, find the perpetrators of the horrific murder—that, with them the barber Suleiman and Daud's Servants provided assistance; they had given the first one money. spoken, to the second, to promise him at her expense advise. This murder was not committed out of greed, not committed out of personal revenge, but merely to obtain the victim's blood. This blood was brought to Khakham Jakub el Antabi, who put it behind hidden in the books of his library.

When Father Thomas's servant served his master
When he saw that he wouldn't come back, he went to look for him, into the
The Jewish quarter and was treated in the same way-
He acts like his master.

When the authorities, based on collected reports, went to the canal, which formed the quarter of the Jews were permeated, and meat was taken from the same piece of meat.
a kneecap, a piece of heart, remnants of a skull,
other bone fragments, and parts of the cap of the priest. Through ten European and Turkish Doctors determined that these bone fragments were human.
Her remains were... She was solemnly buried.
Carried and buried in the Capuchin church.

During the course of the Governor-General Scherif
The Pasha-led investigation has the perpetrators
It was stated that this murder was connected to the Khakham Jakub el Antabi had arranged to meet to get a bottle of people's to procure blood, because one needs it for the celebration of the cult.
need, since the use exists, such blood under to mix the unleavened bread, not for the people, but for a few particularly zealous individuals. On Evenings of the Feast of Unleavened Bread remain the Khakham at the oven; zealous people send
He gives him flour, from which he bakes bread; he himself kneads the Dough, without anyone knowing that there is blood underneath.
mixes; then he sends the bread to those to whom the flour
Heard of it. The Jews of Baghdad also had such bread.

— 26 —

to fulfill their religious duties from him

That's enough. That is the secret of the great Khakhams.
(chief rabbi), who alone possesses knowledge of this
The thing and the way of using the blood have.

In this story there is not a single word that does not refer to official documents.")

When this double crime became known in Europe, tremendous outrage arose against his fa-
national originators and generally against a sect, which has been accused of such atrocities at all times and was found guilty in court several times-den ist. ö b

Cremieux, Vice President of the French (Jews-)
The consistory did not hesitate to defend the evils.
to take the blame upon himself, and did not hesitate to do so in a published in the "Journal des Débats" on April 7, 1840-all the letters mentioned, everything odious in this matter, the one-to attribute rivers to the Christians in the Orient.

At the outermost borders of Asia as in Europe
People waited with impatient anticipation for the announcement.
course of a trial that concerns those mysterious rumors-dissolutions should spread light, which in all years-have left behind hundreds of bloody traces.

Sixteen Jews were involved in the murder of the Father Thomas and his servant were intertwined; two

) See the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to Paris the verbal proceedings and the court records concerning the
The double murder of Father Thomas and his servant Ibrahim Amarah.

— 27 —

died during the proceedings; four received clemency.
Expulsion for revelations made; the other ten were sentenced to death by the Sherif Pasha.

The execution was to take place immediately after the announcement-
The judgment follows: but since Syria was then-Rade from the Egyptian troops under Ibrahim Pasha was occupied, so the Frenchman demanded and obtained

Consul, that the process may lead to the general's approval.
The notification was submitted.

Meanwhile, Jews from all countries were intriguing to Favor of the saints and martyrs, that is, the Mö-the one from Damascus; enormous sums were given to the Be-offered to consular officials and witnesses; thousands of gowns and a consular service to a certain Khabil Sednaui); five hundred thousand Piasters to the Lord Chubli from the side of the rabbis, to amend the
The death penalty and the non-acceptance of the translations
the Jewish books and the one by Rabbi Musa Abu
The explanations provided by el Afieh were included in the minutes of the to obtain the necessary procedures, etc.”); a sack of silver coins was given to the same Chubli by the Mehiri family Farkhi, in which the servant of Father Thomas was murdered had been sent to me” *); even a young scribe
At the French consulate, they searched through the Aneroffer to bribe with five hundred bags. The Jews ) Letter from the French Consul to Sherif Pasha under

No. 28.

) Letter from the same to the same, No. 28 fgde.

%) The same letter.

— 28 —

In Europe, two of their own, the gentlemen, hurried to Montefiore and Cremieux, to send to Mehemet Ali, to request the release of the guilty. In seinem in the “Journal des Döbats”
Cremieux had written letters regarding these horrifying Murderous acts said: “If the Jewish religion in this White commands murder and the shedding of human blood,
So let us rise in moderation; Jews, philosophers, Christians, Muslims, let us destroy this barbaric!
fchen cult, the assassination and killing to rank who raises a divine commandment; let us destroy him ourselves.
in the people who practice it!” As Cremieux
When he came to Egypt, he would have had the most beautiful opportunity-

have, either the revision of the process of fine religion to desire fellow countrymen so that their innocence would be proven before all Eyes would be recognized, or else a barbaric and blasphemous worship in the people who practice it practiced having them destroyed if they were truly guilty were.

Instead, the envoys of the euro-
A Prussian Jew from Mehemet Ali addressed one to the governor—
New legal document from Syria containing the following content:

"From the presentation and the request of the gentlemen
Moses Montefiore and Cremieux, who came to us are as envoys of all Europeans who have joined to the re-
We have learned from the religion of Moses that They wish for the release and safety of those Jews fchen, which on the occasion of the investigation into the Ge-Story of the one in Damascus in the month of Zilhijeh 1255

— 29 —

missing Father Thomas and his servant
Ibrahim were arrested or are on the run.
have been.

"And since it is with regard to a large number of people..."
population would not be quite right to their requests and desires to strike them down, so We, the captive Jews in, command To establish freedom and provide full security for the fugitives to grant their return. You will therefore extend the hand-workers at their work, the merchants at their trade-del lassen, so that everyone can deal with their usual pro—occupy yourself with fession; and you will have every possible measure—rules are taken to ensure that none of them, wherever it may be be, become the object of ill-treatment, so that they may fully and enjoy complete security as before, and one Leave them in peace in all things.

"This is Our will."

On September 5, 1840, after receiving this decree,

Sherif Pasha placed the Jews condemned to death in Freedom, and with that, the “story” of the priest Thomas's murder comes to an end; God's peace and grace. Be with him! —

We are now returning to the new empire and find Cremieux, who lost his position as Minister of Justice into other hands, related to Judaism by marriage had laid down, as a zealous advocate again. In doing so, he He maintained the position of a Meï in the mason's robes from the chair, was a member of parliament, and had at all * involved in every possible matter.

In 1852, it happened that a fine Na-

2. Be

male cousins, if not relatives, also a Jew named Cremieux, a serious scandal in the Parisian newspapers were abuzz because he had betrayed his own fine wife. couples, or rather, had formally sold. About that. wrote the Constitutionnel of February 6, 1852:

“We already have some details about the Candar process was given to solve which a certain Cremieux against his wife and the Lord of Castillon had. But before the Correctional Court it was It has been proven that this Cremieux fine wife, Hortensia Marx had sold it to Mr. von Castillon. A formal instruction was then given by the same Government. Proceedings were initiated against him and it turned out that the 2c. Cremieux fine own wife, who at that time still was unfit for prostitution. 2 Cremieux, however, had not appeared!”

We can discuss the scandals of this process more thoroughly. I can't reproduce it. But it turned out, that a sale had truly taken place like never before in in a more cynical way. The Tribunal condemned the 2c. Cremieux in contumaciam to five years in prison and a fine of 1,000 francs payment, as well as ten years of police surveillance.

This Cremieux should, however, in the last instance,
It was not known exactly through what influence, entirely to have been acquitted! —

On November 23, 1851, the then already very Jewish-dominated Allgemeine Zeitung in Augsburg the Minister of Justice, Cremieux, a “knight without fear”

— 31 —

and rebuke.” Some time later (1856) he argued this garlic knight for a merchant in Aix-en-Provence of Provence, which only then loaded its ship's cargo had assured when he was telegraphed from Kon-Stantinople experienced its downfall. Since the code pénal diesen „Misuse of the Telegraph“ nit vor-Once he saw it, his client was freed.

Around this time, the brothers suddenly appeared-Emil and Isaac Pereire, about whom we know nothing, whether they are the sons of the spy of the hideous Marat are in Paris with larger financial plans. The same were probably friends with the Rothschilds and had the lawyer Cremieux as her first legal advisor-elected, founded the Credit Mobilier and proclaimed its solidity and the great things to be achieved through it Profit by the French and German Jews-
Leaves out into the whole world. One of these beautiful asses
A small article from the year 1864, which the Frankfurt Di-
The following was brought about by daskalia in 1864:

(A soirée at Pereire's.) A few days ago
Mr. Isaac Pereire gave a presentation at his magnificent hotel in Faubourg St. Honoré in Paris, a musical soirée;
Here's a sample of the cost estimate: Miss Adeline Patti 10,000 francs (the "child" is quite delightful-(real progress); Mr. Mario 6,000 francs; Mrs. de Meric-Lablahe 4,000 francs; Mr. Delle Sedie 3,000 Francs; Mr. Sivori 3,000 francs.” Shortly afterwards there were the shares of Credit Mobilier in a way that is completely unfamiliar to the layman inexplicable house movement understood. And with sol

— 32 —

chemical and similar scams were used to defraud the French

“oven and even the “good Germans” ever deeper into the stock market. The shares of Credit-Mobi-They reached a fabulous height. But look, almost around
At the same time, it was already learned (under the 28th of October).
1864) from Paris:

"Something has been happening at the local stock exchange for the past few days."
a panic among the holders of shares of Credit Néèerlandais — which with the Credit-Mobilier here in the most intimate connection stands — seized. (Veran—)
The disappearance of the director of this [company/organization] has led to this.
Society given (the same one went to America), by spreading the rumor that Mr. Mendel had the company's cash and books were not in the best condition.
Order was left behind. However, it has emerged from the Investigations reveal that Mr. Mendel has no connection whatsoever.
to accuse him of embezzlement, and his disappearance is um fo.unbesichtli. He has, however, for fine rights—nung 1,500,000 francs borrowed from the company, and Shares were deposited for this purpose, which, admittedly, are at today's price.
sold, would not be sufficient, but also no alarm—
resulting in significant losses for society
can. The fall in the Credit mobilier Néerlandais
In addition to the cause just discussed, the surrounding area will also be considered.
sände zu schickt, dass dershl zu viel von öftreichi fchen 1864er Loosen und von dem als unververkauflich be Esterhazy-Galantha-Anlehen, who had acquired loans, knew Esterhazy-Galantha.”

That Mendel was a Jew is self-evident. He had with the credit mobilizer of the Pereire brothers in confessed to the most intimate relationships. Under the 27th. It was only in June 1867 that the following was learned about the scandalous bankruptcy of Credit mobilier N&erlandais:

"There's another trial pending, which"

A worthy addition to the long line of financial scandals~~en~~ dalen is, which in recent times have been uncovered.

This is a lawsuit filed by a certain gentleman.

Raffard against the liquidation commission of the after hardly Nieder-, which perished after five months of existence has initiated proceedings at the rural credit bank. It is merely a matter of... for the reimbursement of 86,000 francs, which the

The aforementioned has invested in shares of this company; alone

The trial is therefore of far greater importance, as in the case of a judgment favorable to the plaintiff

all other shareholders with the same claim~~en~~ would step forward. Founders and leaders of this company were Messrs. Pereire and almost all the Ver~~en~~

Board members and dignitaries of the Credit~~en~~Mo~~en~~ bilier. Against these gentlemen, the plaintiff's lawyer brought charges. gers, Master Laurier, a, according to the "Gazette des Tri- to judge "bunaux", truly merciless Plaidoyer los. The shareholders' tale of woe is the an old one that always remains new. The company was launched to the sounds of drums and cymbals, and after one can acquire the shares with a substantial premium. expensively distributed among the people, then abandoned. "What "had been received?" asks Master Laurier, among others. 800,000 shares of the Dutch Loan, on which

270 francs had been deposited, representing a Judaism in France. 8

— 84 — =

Value of 21,600,000 francs, received in cash were. But what is mostly made of these 21.5 million? They've been in the coffee shop. of the Dutch credit into the following values- Converts: 2000 pieces of the Southern Railway, a Spanish package. Mo-biliers, 3000 Italian Mobiliers, 6000 Petites Voitures and there's a sample of all the good papers included. It had to be a package of Mexican bonds, everything Values that come from the portfolio of French credit - mobilizers had arrived. Why this maneuver? That's because Credit Mobilier's businesses already were such that not only his money, but also His credit was exhausted. Therefore, they were relying on the Thoughts drift, besides the motherland a kind of To establish a financial colony, which would be connected with this through mysterious ties were connected." The legal The grounds for the lawsuit were based on Article 41 of the Dutch Constitution. country commercial code. The company's registered office was in Amsterdam.

At the beginning of 1866, the "Wanderer" newspaper advertised for a new member. Paris on Credit Mobilier itself:

"The incident involving Mr. Pereire during the Share doubling and the unusual form in which it is achieved the general meeting was convened, the The government has been convinced that it is not It is possible that the enfant gate of the leading circles still to allow things to continue as they are for longer. The State Council has therefore resolved to make entirely decisive decisions regarding... To allow surveillance measures to take place; and will probably the shareholders at the next meeting. general assembly, which takes place on the 15th, a this regarding the government's decision announced who The. A small inquiry was held between lawyers. and ministerial officials, which also included some lawyers the opposition was called upon, and the They unanimously agreed that the government not only entitled to take the initiative, but also required to do so

He is obligated. The emperor himself is said to be very disliked.

about the recent coup d'état by Mr. Pereire-spoke and personally ordered the measures, which are to be taken against Credit Mobilier."

But neither the State Council nor Napoleon III, that something against the Jews so dear to him, with whom he
On the contrary, it surrounded itself ever more closely, and which Unhappy France is being sucked dry more and more.

Finally, trial after trial against the Pereire brothers, about which the Jews have not yet been informed.
German newspapers in hand at the beginning of January
They reported in 1867:

"A very repugnant process is harassing the gentlemen" Pereire. It is a stock market game, whereby the share price of the real estate company rose should be driven. The Pereire gentlemen served using a straw man who had approximately 800,000 francs
lost and, of course, did not pay the difference.
A partner of the stock exchange that was thus damaged
The agent is now suing the gentlemen for his share of the losses.
Pereire files a complaint and demands a judicial investigation.

— 36 —

Messrs. Pereire complain about extortion and They are resisting the investigation. The public prosecutor says it amounts to a few million for the Pereires more or less not; but it concerns their Honor, and their honor commands them, to bring about the investigation.
to summon. The investigation will therefore take place.
must, and their result can be predicted, since the
The public prosecutor has already presented strong evidence to support this.
that it was played on behalf of Pereires. The
The disgusting consequence is that more and more people-sons on any trial against Messrs. Pereire will speculate, which a large audience of Envious and busy interested parties their ambition
even less than she can forgive her wealth.
Mr. Mirés drank this poisoned chalice; but strangely enough, under the support and approval of of widespread sympathy, so that he could say: I I survived it happily, but the others who survived it... first have to survive,"

And under January 6th, it continued in this Subject: | |

"The tribunal delivered a fine verdict in the matter today."

Crochard and Pereire. Despite the efforts of the Ad~~re~~

The directors of Credit Mobilier, represented by their lawyers, ordered the Court, the conclusions of prosecutor Lepel~~re~~

accordingly, the examination requested by the plaintiff

"The investigation yielded the following result:

"Paris, August 1, 1867. The trial against the

Mr. Pereire and all the administrative councilors of the

— 37 —

Credit Mobilier has ended. Messrs. Pereire and

As is well known, comrades had, although the Credit Mobilier already completely bankrupt and in the Compagnie Immobiliere had opened up, with the publication of a

A second series of shares was issued based on a false balance sheet.

After the Advocate General of the Court of Justice Dupre-Lafalle confirms the original part of the trade tribunal had requested, which the Pereire and the other administrators of the Credit

Mobilize, specifically in terms which brandmar~~re~~

ken, to reimburse them for the 120,000

Shares of Credit Mobilier (second issue) paid

Having convicted the defendant of money laundering, the court today ruled as follows:

Judgment delivered: Although the Court acknowledges that the General meetings of shareholders on January 1st and took place in full order on March 12, 1866 and

He explains nothing about the fact that the meetings were held in accordance with regulations.

the less so Messrs. Emil and Isaac Pereire, Sal-

Vador, Galliera and Beast are responsible, if at all.

not for the entire number of shares. To the shareholders

Compensation and interest are due; the amount is... to be determined. The gentlemen Michel Chevalier, Bus~~re~~

Fiere, Selliere and Griebinger were appointed by the responsible-

"Non-verbal affidavits." N

To bring these grand deceptions back to approximately...
To cover it up, newspaper advertisements were used.
the Pereire, namely through Isaac Pereire in Paris, to flaunt his wealth. This also happened in en se.

Germany and some German Jewish newspapers brought the
The following note:

“About 15 years ago, a very young and very poor little Jew to Paris with the firm intention, to make his fortune. It brought with it a mathematical genius,
a generally faulty mind and few scruples, how both could best be utilized. Soon it was Pereire — so it was called — Roth's rival shield, and today he is, although his main creation Credit Mobilier turned over, a man of 200-300 Millions.” Soon after, a Viennese youth organization reported... denblättchen: “Isaak Pereire owns properties in and around Paris, besides the many millions he earned through his credit has acquired furniture, several houses and land houses. One of them is located on the boulevard.
Malherbes and gives him 20,000 francs annually.
“Pensions are being phased out.”

From the so-called "officials" of Credit Mo-
The Pereire brothers' buildings burned down in 1867.
Several people carried out similar incidents, taking large sums of money with them. Thus...
Suddenly, the following was said at the time:

"Once again, a high-ranking official from Paris is
The financial company went through it. A Mr. Bachon General Secretary of the Societe Immobiliere (it belongs Pereires) has withdrawn half a million from the
"Made dust." And further, it was heard that...
Time:

“Paris, February 17, 1867. Mr. de Ratisbonne, Ge
The general collector of Chalons, left behind a

Passive masses of four million have fled.
The state treasury is involved with 1,500,000 francs.
Since the aforementioned person, currently in Basel, is a relative of the house Fould is, so Mrs. Benoist Fould has "Declared ready to cover the deficit." But neither that House Fould, whose head was the finance minister Napoleon III.
Neither Mrs. Benoist Fould nor he covered the deficit.
The fraudster wasn't investigated at all, and he concealed the fraudulently obtained state and other funds in America.
The article had simply been thrown into the world,

about the escape of the Jew Ratisbonne (Regensburg), which is not even called de (of) Ratisbonne, somewhat less to let odious appear *).

Just like the Jews Bachon and Ratisbonne, they made there are many Jews who are connected with the two Perieres-They were connected. But they themselves, despite the Credit Mobilier, through which many good French people around their entire fortune had come to them, always new spe-Speculations and thereby drew half of France to the most sacrilegious.

) This Ratisbonne is an old Alsatian Jewish family.

Abbé Ratisbonne came from this family, who about thirty years ago
The appearance of the Holy Virgin has occurred several times over the years.
you wanted to have. The Jesuits in Rome acted as if they had given him
They gave him faith and took him into their monastery, then released him.
However, very soon again from the same source. He also wrote — or
He may not have written "The Life of Saint Bernard" either.
His brother, who remained Jewish and a banker, will probably the Lord General of Chalons, whom Napoleon III.
discovered and placed it well on Fould's pronoun. A. d. V.

On February 15, 1863, the Cologne newspaper published tung the following message:

Great amusement arose at the Paris Stock Exchange for-Havas's Turin dispatch: "Mr. Pereire a Parfaitement bien réussi dans ses négociations financières. Le brigandage continues." This: "bri"gandage" was of course referring to the robbery scene in Unter-Regarding Italy, it was appropriate at the time and for a long time afterward.
on the magnificent deceptions of the Parisian Jews, and in general, the financial ventures of Hebrews. We will come to the Jews later. Pereire going back in detail, if we start from the year 1870
will speak, but mention Isaac now.
Pereire from the sixties wrote the following:

"Paris, June 13. After the one in Blois to appear-"
The "France Centrale" reported on a conflict.
between Isaac Pereire and Pouyer Quertier; the Ver-
The reason for this is the strong attacks which the latter in the legislative body recently against the credit Mobiliser and his administration had been organized. One I hope, however, that the matter can still be resolved.
could." Isaac Pereire was careful not to mention the Pouyer-Quertier, a skilled pistol shooter, who now Finance Minister in France is and the last definitive peace treaty in Frankfurt in May 1871 with-signed, to demand, exploited before as after Frank-rich and Germany and laughed silently at the fools who put their money into fine bad pa- .
Piere stuck.

.

= 4

A very similar phenomenon to the two Ge-Brothers Pereire, is also the Jew Mir ès, who is equal-if Paris and all of France through every possible means-has exploited financial speculation. About him
This was written around 1855:

“Twenty-five years ago, Mr. Mires was still not the elegant rich banker who bought the most beautiful apple-mold and the dearest passions had, but He was rather a poor Polish (2) Jew who did not once had the accent grave over his e, but already he was pregnant with such grand plans that he to provide little care for mortal bodies could — in short, Mires suffered from plica polonica (Sour cherry braid).“ So this man had a sour cherry braid. Israelite brought to Paris! What fine financial As far as operations are concerned, it would be too much trouble for us. full, subjecting them to a thorough examination want. However, we must state that even with sei= in papers and speculations, or rather in their shares etc., Nobody got rich, indeed, very many rich people have become poor. A highly peculiar thing= The comedy was a real thing, which this Jew performed before our very eyes, often posing as an opponent ner of the Rothschild bank, while he but deep down she completely agreed with him. So For example, he openly opposed James (Jacob) Rothschild, when he used the Italian church property as collateral for wanted to take out a loan. It was written about this. The following came from Paris in the sixties:

— 42 —

"The six Rothschilds are about to become a to meet at a conference in Paris to discuss the An= occasion concerning the goods of the Italian clergy keit, which they are known to want to take as collateral, to be= advise. It seems that she is almost entirely alone with it. want to deal with it. The clerical party, of course, sets everything in motion. in motion to conclude this agreement to thwart. This act by Rothschild is seen as a to portray him as spiteful, and points out that he I probably won't offer my hand if one considers the goods the Israeli communities in Italy, which are now focusing on The sum is 1,200,000 francs, which is what they want to achieve. Very sharp. Mirès, who is also known to be Jewish, is fighting against the Rothschilds on this occasion. Mirés, the, as is known, always a staunch opponent of Rothschild's was and it is in its case, in which the Rue Laf Fitness also had its good share, and it became even more so. ist, seeks in a letter he sent to the "Press" aims to demonstrate that Rothschild did not undertake this operation he could do that, because otherwise he would subject the Jews to new persecutions. There is a risk of Christians excluding Mires. He first points out in his article that the financial Rothschild's personal omnipotence, which was achieved through the Pereire and Mires was broken immediately after the empire would have been fully restored again since 1856. Mr. Mires implores Rothschild not to oppose Judaism to the matter of Catholic church property wrap. "But even then," Mirés pressed on, "when it comes to a bond which was guaranteed by holdings will be, which is independently owned by the Italian government, and belong to a corporation which by the overwhelming majority of the French and Italians Liener is formed, calls him fine property as Israel He should keep his distance. Rothschild must not leave any area. Motives and under no pretext into the Catholic to spread a feeling in France that is in a given Moments can explode against his fellow believers. Could he refute the unjust and cruel accusation? eaten, with which the death of Jesus Christ the Jewish Race has covered the area for eighteen hundred years? Could he want to reawaken these feelings by... Church property without the consent of the Holy Father seized power? Will the Rothschild family seize the Un to act wisely, to defy this responsibility, in to whom they accept church property as collateral? The Be The population fondly remembers the points of complaint, which she has or believes she has, particularly against People whom she considers very rich. We Jews in this happy France, the only country in which that we are not truly strangers, we want to show through our Devotion to the common good proved it far from maintaining our equal position in the That deserves; and may our gratitude extend its thanks-

— 43 —

pressure find in our reverence for all through the
An enormous majority of the French revered things.
Mr. von Rothschild must pay homage to this idea, and if he gives his consent to get involved in these matters
If he mixes today, he will be sure that the previous one

— 4 —

Pope approval for this transaction is available.
“That is.” Mires then issues a few more admonitions.
to Rothschild and specifically asks him not to forget, that the popes in the Middle Ages were the protectors of the Jews were, and that Pius IX was to blame for the fact that Lord von Rothschild, when he visits Rome, is no longer in the ghetto
I need to live there. So far the letter from Mirès, from which I wouldn't have even mentioned to you if He did not cause an unusual stir in Paris would have.” This letter from Mires was for France and Europe is being led astray, as if there were still Jews
there would be, which with the most regrettable, but also much slightly the cleverest and finest of the popes, the one after the Statements by the Marquis of Consolini himself, from among Jews
It should be a tribe, have pity. Under the table that Mires eagerly participated in all Italian loans, quarreling then mingled with the other Jews and married already advised on April 21, 1855, his eldest daughter to the youngest son of the Minister of Justice, Baroche (Baruch), a descendant of Jews and a secret Jew, who Napoleon III. soon after a fine avenue - Koren had, so that in beautiful France the right was entirely in Jewish hands. A younger daughter of Mirès married a Prince of Polignac. If this Diana von Polignac, the friend of the unfortunate Queen Marie Antoinette, who sent the Jews to the scaffold
Had they brought them, they would probably have been even more shocked by it.
- Death awoke fine and cursed her offspring.
Regarding the quarrels of 1865

— 45 —

already estimated to have assets worth many millions.
The following was learned in 1867:

"Paris, June 15. The talk of the city today is..."
a new scandal, which the passionate Portuguese (2) Jude Mires caused it. He himself started last night at the Lyrique Theatre, before the curtain rose-went, after some heated words, suddenly started with fei-a walking stick at a gentleman (the son-in-law) (of Cremieux). He lay down in a regular-a proper parade, and so the speechless spectators enjoyed it.
a more or less academic addition to the opera.
Imagination. Contrary to the Homeric order, the Physical violence preceded by verbal abuse,
The insults came later. The opponent Mirès called for a ceasefire.
five minutes in a stentorian voice: "Sir, you
"They're a scoundrel!" to which he quickly replied with the He replied: "And you, sir, are a "Scoundrel!" One can imagine the astonishment of the many.
Strangers think of Mr. Mirès and fine manners.
didn't know them yet. It wasn't long ago that Mireés caused a very similar scandal at the Musard concert had."

The Cologne newspaper reported the event on June 8, 1871.
The death of Mirées, which took place in Marseille, is described as follows:

"One of the characteristic characters of the second Kai-
The empire has gone there. Jules Mirès, famous famous for his dizzying entrepreneurial spirit through fine processes and famous for the renowned an-

7

he,

The measures he took to put things out of joint together the yielding walls of his palaces of happiness.

Hold on, — is no more. At the damning primalpart, to which the second empire irrevocably fell, Mire also had his fine part. He was a true son.
 finer, the dizzying pursuit of profit and Ge—no wasted time, certainly not by a higher or a lower degree of honesty, but at most through less favorable treatment of Lannian happiness, from the contemporary competitors on this steeplechase different. Born in Bordeaux on December 9th.
 In 1809, he rose from the humble beginnings of a sensal, which he as early as 1848, he was the founder of the well-known railway ticket office, which brought him rich profits and whose management he has held alone in his hands since 1853, which he kept. Of the numerous businesses he was involved in,
 What fell was probably the Roman railway with accompanied by the most scandalous side circumstances. Only the approach-
 The annexation of Rome to the rest of Italy saved this Companies facing inevitable bankruptcy. Be-Legal proceedings began as early as 1861.
 attacks against Mires, whose interesting episodes are in the
 have been sufficiently covered in public newspapers.
 His latest speculation was the negotiation of the Turkish fchen bond. He died at his daughter's, Madame's.
 Rozan, widow of Prince Alphonsus of Polignac.
 The "Constitutionnel", whose co-owner he still remembers from the time when he took over the "Presse", dedicates an honorable obituary to him, which, however,

— 47 —

There was by no means a corresponding echo in the rest of the press.
 finds."

Justice Minister Baroche died on November 4, 1870.
 on the island of Guernsey, where he had fled.
 He was the son of a Jew named Baruch. Napoleon III.
 had his fellow tribesman, this secret Jew,
 with a leap from simple lawyer to minister promoted.

The Augsburg Allgemeine Zeitung wrote under the apotropaic readings of the late Dr. Kolb at the beginning of the second empire:

"Mr. Baroche, who reads the soul of the master, is making an effort to plan workers' barracks, cités ouvrières, to discover." Later, regarding the assassination, it was said to the Russian Emperor:

"Paris, June 8. The interrogation of Berezovsky, with the Minister of State Rouher, the Minister of Justice Baroche and the Russian General Shuvalov were present, stated that Berezovsky killed the Emperor of Russia wanted."

Pereire, Mirès, Baroche etc. w. were all out Jewish tribe and immediately upon the establishment of the empire at hand. Also. James Rothschild was immediately rushed over, and it was soon learned about him:

"Paris, December 18. The Emperor is today with Georges-François. Follow and court state to Compiègne to the great Hunts have ended. After yesterday, Baroche all Berthier. Thoughts of the Senate Commission regarding the Constitutional amendments to the law concerning the law - throws to silence, the latter itself to the unknown. He had changed the Commission's assumption, was the reason for the further postponement of the departure disappeared. From the members of the diploma The tish corps find only those envoys to Compiègne have been invited, who already have their new credentials have handed over the letter of approval. Upon departure of the Emperors were magnificent at the railway station. nothing was prepared. There was neither military nor Police were deployed. Shortly before 1 a.m., Mr. von arrived.

*

— 48 —

Rothschild, and a few minutes later announced.
Numerous shouts of "Long live the Emperor!" rang out.
The coming of the emperor. Immediately after his entry into the
The emperor handed the carriage to the Lord of Rothschild.
the hand to help him get on board. In The emperor's entourage also included the princes.
cess Mathilde and a rich Spaniard, Lord of Montijo, next to his daughter, Miss von Montijo, who was at Hof enjoys great favor. Monday takes place in Com-Piegne had a great hunt and Tuesday a brilliant one Ball instead."

Ludwig Napoleon married the beautiful Montijo; but Despite her sincere Christian piety, unable to put a stop to the Jewish activities.
The Jewish banker Fould was named after the state-prank, for which he had given the money, finance-minister. As such, the General Newspaper article written on August 15, 1853:

"Fould is commissioning paintings for sixty thousand francs in

— 49 —

painting the new grand opera, which is finished and at Be-
The lighting looks so bad that everything else is...
"It needs to be redone."

Some time later she writes under Paris, 12.
April: "Mr. Gustav Fould, son of the Finance Minister, has arrived in Marseille; he is accompanied by the
Mr. Lavoix, who was on a scientific mission is tasked with the Levant. These two gentlemen have They embarked for Athens on April 9th; they intend to Visit the Orient and travel via the Danube principalities to return to France. Since the young Fould, according to the manner, as the government newspapers report on this mission, as the main character, so a political figure could probably appeara more nuanced purpose among these so-called scientific
"Hide the tears." |

So, Mr. Fould's "little boy" became,
Although by no means a diplomat, he traveled at state expense.
sent; the finances were squandered for twice the amount.
painted opera decorations, and the Jewish gentlemen Pereire, Mires and others always knew what time the bell had struck.
had.

This glory, however, did not last long. Lord
Finance Minister Fould fell ill and had to resign his high-ranking position.
He resigned his position. At the beginning of March 1858, he was visited by...
Napoleon III. and obtained from him, as can be seen from the following-
According to reports, a three-hour fainting spell.

"You learn more about a discomfort which the French emperor during his stay in Biarritz was attacked. He was with his mother-in-law, Judaism in France. 4

he 5

Countess Montijo, and Mr. P. Mérimé to Tarbes traveled to visit Mr. Fould. Immediately Upon returning, he suddenly collapsed unconscious.
had similar attacks of Ohn before makes it possible to survive, but this one was of a more serious nature.
Character; despite all the efforts of the three present
Doctors only restored his consciousness after three hours.
gradually returned. It was then given to the emperor.
He advised more exercise; he should also all intellectual Avoid exertion. He therefore also gave a preliminary resignation.
the plan to, upon his return from Biarritz, still to visit some cities in central France." Not quite Long after that, Fould died and it was said:

"Paris, October 14. The funeral took place this afternoon."
Retirement celebration of former Finance Minister Achille Fould with great pomp and circumstance, initially in the (Protestant) Oratory Church. (The case is in front of...)
for a long time already from Israelitism into the Protestant-(They had passed away from the church.) They stopped at the cemetery.

The Justice and Culture Ministers will give speeches, as well as a ver
"Teter of the Academy of Fine Arts."

When, after the death of Finance Minister Fould, the balance sheet of his assets was drawn up, and they found, except the magnificent palace in Paris and the castle at Tarbes, over twenty million in cash, in-Mortgages and government bonds. One of his close relative, Mrs. Emden, also a Jew, which became rich through and under his financial management was, had the castle at Roquencourt near St. Germain

= |

She acquired Laye. Another had large estates.

Bought in Belgium. All the cousins and aunts, which Mr. Fould possessed in abundance, had become rich
The same still exist in Judaism. Also, Mr.
Gustav Fould, the diplomat mentioned above, for whom The father created his own missions, which are still sometimes mentioned in go to the synagogue.

Since we're talking about the synagogue,
We also want to mention that the New Jewish temples in Paris, opened on April 1, 1852. was inaugurated with great solemnity. Have the young people... to send him into April in a foolish manner
Do they want to? Certainly, for how they built their synagogue on this site
The Fools' Days opened, so they themselves stormed into madness.
and arrogance, dreaming of world domination, and the same.
taking possession of itself, into April, the
Their silly Talmud predicted it for them. Despite everything.
They despise money and all influence, and Napo Leon, "the great Kochem, has gone bankrupt to England"
land." |

The Synagogue, Rue Notre Dame de Nazareth,
It is built in the Byzantine style, inside — like The Allgemeine Zeitung announced at the time — splendid with chandeliers of silver, adorned with precious stones
She has silver candelabras.

and gold-threaded curtains. Mr. Isidor is her Chief Rabbi.

At the inauguration on April 1st, the Fools' Day,
A hymn was performed, complete with choir and organ solo by the Jupresented by Halevy (H. Levy). The following were present:

— 52 —

James and Nathaniel von Rothschild; furthermore, the gentlemen
Javal, Joseph Halphen, L. Königswarter, Vieyra, der Chief of the General Staff of the Paris National Guard, Furtado, G. Halphen, Cerfbeer, Dreyfuß, F. Ullmann
u. s. w.

What had been preached, the General said
The newspaper didn't mention it, but probably knew.
some of it. It will have been a similar speech. like those which the Jewish preacher August Fabius in Lyon on the Jewish New Year after the birth of Christ held in 1842. It was printed at that time.
appeared and bears the title: N

"yOffrande au Dieu de l'Univers. Par Au-Guste Fabius. Lyons. Imprimerie de Marle ainé, successor de Deleuze. Rue St. Dominique
13. 1842.0“ |

The whole speech, or rather the whole brochure, large-Octavo, 47 pages, is a fundamentally continued windphemic insult of Jesus Christ and the positive Christianity and, in contrast, the most arrogant, with-a survey that degenerates into sheer absurdity Jews. Already on the second page, the speaker says:
"Radiant with holiness, we come this day together." (En ce jour, nous venons, tout rayonnant de sainteté.)

On page 15 it says: "Our God is the living one God, the Jehovah, who was, who is, and who will be,
not a god born of yesterday, not a dead one

God, not a corpse-like God (et non un Dieu né d'here, not un dieu mort, not un dieu cadavéreux.) " N :

On page 20 it says: "Moses could easily have to gain divine prestige, but he did not possess that human weakness, which leads to fraud and the Hod)- "Mutt brings sacrifice." A self-evident truth Example.

Page 21: "The faith of Israel is not blind Faith; it is a faith founded on the holy vows. nunft. The faith of Israel is not like those others. Religion (comme cette autre religion), which has a bornen, a dead, a corpse-like god!

"It is not like that other religion which says: "There is no salvation except through the Church."

"It is not like that other religion whose foundation the most ridiculous reason in the world is (dont la base est tout ce qu'il ya de plus yidicule), the reason for which an injustice against reason, to which it (this) other religion, that is, the Catholic one,) promises: "Ver= "Unnft fschweige, Wahnsinn rede!"

"It (the faith of Israel) is not like those other ones Religion whose followers worship a so-called god= to be drilled into, in order to then let him die, a material god, a lying god!" (Elle n'est Pas comme this religion dont les sectateurs font naitre a soidisant Dieu pour le faire mourir, un Dieu matériel, un Dieu homme, un Dieu men-songer.) |

Se BA ee

"And why? The Göttinger service can be more refined."

Do not rid yourself of errors, because paganism
 Gods invented, born out of material love, Gods who possess all the passions of humankind, in in which man can see himself reflected, can recognize himself again (où l'homme se mirait, se reconnaissait); and for Christianity, in the manner of paganism, has the
 The need to create a god-man, a man a terrestrial god, a god in human form, the human possesses the same passions (qui avait les passions de homme); and in this God they worship themselves, In him they deify their passions (ils divini-saient leurs passions)..“

"Until then, yes, until then the madness will be over."
 come, the one God, the creator of the world, from to add, and for him a god born of yesterday, born in fornication, can also be born in adultery, a add (and of immorality, of adultery peut-être! . . .)“

"One can rightly criticize Christianity for..."
 To apply the words of Isaiah: (Isaiah 1:2) "Listen, you Heaven, hear it, O earth; for the Lord
 He talks. I raised and nurtured sons,
 But they despised me."

"Passion became their (the Christians') God; Since then, everything has become a passion. One had the need for some moral laws for this religion to summon, without which no one can command; one took everything from the Old Testament that it offered in terms of morality.

9

found in the new; one connected with the philosophy, took the good that was found in her and pursued it.
 The philosophers to the utmost, burned them alive;
 They declared war on Israel, they set the fires on Israel.
 human passions against a religion of peace
 Then, the flag of Christianity was planted,
 — in whose name so many millions of people died were strangled; and all this, they say, for the glory of God.

The situation of their religion, whose followers are trying to assert themselves (dont les sectateurs osaient encore venir publier effrontément): That is the religion of Peace!

"For peace! Yes, there where you carry out your executions"
Complete! Of peace! Yes, even where death reigns!
Peace! Yes, there, where there are no more people.
to murder." (De paix! là où il n'y avait plus d'hommes à assassiner!)

All literal. We want to know what the Jews who would say if it were done in this way by a
...from the Christian pulpit against the Jews! Outrage!
And murder! — Now that Fabius says: it seems they are There were some righteous people who read the Scriptures-
"We wanted to accustom them to gentler customs," he continues:

"But fine (Christian) nature, at the moment Suppressed, it soon broke free again; and Throughout the centuries, the world has been under its Hand to suffer deeply. Underground, in caves, in darkness.
They fabricated their murderous lightning and Spitting, invented under the pretext of lies"

— 56 —

whose crimes brought death upon the earth, and this right into the heart of the 19th century, right in the middle into our days!

The rabbi is alluding here to the aforementioned murder.
Jewish history in Damascus. (Regarding our above)
We will also mention the report on Paris here.
published by Achille Laurent in two volumes Documents from the trial, in which the murder of the Father Thomas through the accused Jews completely men legally established it.)

But help what can help; the rabbi scolds

about Thiers, who was in the representative stand of the French Nation desecrated (because he revealed facts about the trial) (presented in the stands).

The rabbi says: "The whole story in Damascus
Kus can be nothing other than an infernal invention.
Loyola's school, to make it all the easier to find lust more to be able to do that." (Tout ce drama de l'histoire de
The difference between the two of us is not the same as in-Infernal invention of the Loyola school for assassiner plus à l'aise.) i

So the Jesuits forged the Damascus-open blade to cut off the heads of the Jews-Hit it! Interesting find!

And so it continues, becoming ever more witty. Here's to the next one!
The blame is placed on the suites. But what did the Jesuits with the trial records and the confessions of the
To create murderers in Damascus? They should...
They become lightning rods. It's a popular method.

u SE

from certain quarters, to put the Jesuits forward. Oh, a pretext that soon crumbled, these Jesuits, a Too thin a fortress wall to conceal the truth behind it to be able to hide.

Let's not dwell on love any further.
the rabbi's exhortation in full; and let us bring Regarding the characterization, only his comparison of the Jew remains.
thumbs with Christianity literally: "Vous avez donc:" ö

Pour PI's Raélitisme. Pour le Christianisme.
A drapeauvierge de tout crime, A drapeau de sang.
(A flag, clear of everyone (A bloody flag.)

Crime.)

Le Dieu un. Un Dieu composé.
(The One God.) (A composite God.)
Un Dieu créateur. A dieu créé et non.

(A creative God.) (A created and born (renowned God).)

The source of all morals. Un dieu non de l'immoralité.

(One God, the source of all things (One God, born in fornication.)) Morality).

A Dieu vivant, a Dieu de paix. Un dieu mort, un dieu cadavé-
(A living God, a God of peace.) (A dead, corpse-like God.)
A Dieu de vérité. A Dieu de mensonge.
(A god of truth.) (A god of lies.) L'amour du prochain, la justice, Une religion de persécution.
la vertu. (A religion of persecution.)

(Love of neighbor, justice, truth, virtue.)
The reason in its highest form. La raison bannie.
(Reason in its highest form (Reason banished.) Momentum.)

— 58 —

Pour l'Israélitisme. Pour le Christianisme.
Liberty. Constraint.
(Freedom.) (Constraint.)
A religion of sentiments. A religion of violence.

(A religion of feelings.) (A religion of violence.)
A religion without mysteries. A religion deep in mysteries.
(A religion without mysteries.) A religion full of mysteries.
Une foi éclairée.

(An enlightened faith.) (A blind faith. Except (No salvation for the Church.)

And so it continues about Christianity, “in which Reason blindly bows before so many follies must, until she is suffocated.”

Then the rabbi proclaims happiness and peace.
of humanity, if it (understands itself with the help of the Jewish literature that opens the eyes of the masses
Christianity will have been cast off, and he exclaims:

"No more blood baptism, no more [unclear],
but the baptism of the heart!

Then comes a challenge to the kings of fine nation, which is kind, so benevolent: all
To equate Jews with Christians.

Then the attacks against Christianity continue unabated.
Thum went off and started yelling.

And at the end the rabbi says:

“A vous, Chrétiens, votre homme divinisé, votre foi aveugle, your drapeau de sang!

A moi, mon Dieu vivant, ma loi de feu, ma
foi raisonnée, and mon drapeau de l'unité et de la "Paix!"

=. Big a

"For you, Christians, your idolized human being,
your blind faith, your bloody flag!

"For me, my living God, my radiant law, my rational faith, my banner of unity and of peace!" N

This speech was given in Lyon on the day

Rosh Hoshanah, September 5, 1842.

This is how the rabbis in France speak,
where they are emancipated.

What a web of lies spun by the Jewish teachers!
thrown upon Christianity! Every Christian
The heart must be shaken by such disgrace and An outrageous audacity, charged with Christianity.

This self-assured lie, this distortion of all Christ
The real truth is personal self-instruction.
The punishment of those who speak the lie.

Are they also written elsewhere, such as in France?
Livable typesetters, Christian printers and booksellers
To offer hands to emancipated hatred? Will that Is Judaism more moderate elsewhere? Are there in This speech does not encompass all Jewish traditions.
Has hatred been kept alive until very recently?

Thus we have a piece of modern Judaism ge-See: We let the Jews speak! From all
The Talmud's fairy tale has this modern Judaism

Retaining only one substance; that is burning hatred.
against Christ, the Lord and Savior, the hatred against Christianity. In this speech it was openly expressed.

*

— 60 —

chen, what it is aiming for and where it is going with the Christianity should come.

"Wouldn't it be time to give the blind masses a hearing?"
(to open the eyes of Christians) for the happiness of the world?"

This is the formula in which the rabbi of Jewish literature the task of de-Christianizing the Predetermines the dimensions. Indeed, according to this plan

They work with great consistency.

Just like the Jewish rabbi Fabius in the who has spoken in the speech outlined here, speak likewise the Jews in Paris, throughout France, in Germany, Yes, throughout the world, and thereby cause the people to apostasy from the Christian faith.

The “Archives Israelites” in Paris, like the Jewish newspapers in Germany are working diligently to ensure that Such blasphemies are spread everywhere. Hand Going hand in hand with this is an Israeli association, which Universal Alliance. This was written in the Jewish Papers: 5

"In Paris in 1860, high-ranking Jews..."
an Alliance universelle founded, whose purpose is, for the equality and moral progress of their
to work with fellow believers, those who are in their
To suffer the characteristics of being Jewish, to receive effective help to allow, and to support any writing that is appropriate, to bring about such results. The association has already in several countries the suppression of those Ge-sensions were pursued and achieved, which are in accordance with the principle of contradict civic and political equality and

— 61 —

are opposed to religious freedom; he has the
The situation of Israelites in the East and West, — in Morocco, Persia, Syria and Serbia — where to the light beams of civilization have not yet penetrated,
He monitored his fellow believers and protected them from persecution.
protected and opened the paths to their intellectual development lung through the establishment of schools.
The “Alliance” already has 5000 contributing members today.
Members, and their number is growing every day.
Adolphe Cremieux is their president, Munk and Frank find their members, Rothschild, Erlanger, Königswarter, Javal, Isidor, Bloch, Albert Cohn are sitting in Board members. The speech that Cremieux gave at the general meeting

The "Alliance" meeting was held on November 29th.
hat, is a new chef-d'oeuvre of this famous Masters." |

"And about one of the main founders, the Grand Rabbi-Biner Ullmann, wrote the Cologne newspaper on May 8th.
1865, that at his funeral "only Jews were allowed into the
The report states that the synagogue has been approved.
literally:

"Today the funeral of the Chief Rabbi took place"
all Jews in France, Mr. Ullmann, ftatt.
The funeral procession consisted of approximately 2000 people;
However, they were all Jews, and neither the authorities still represented by the National Guard. Into the synagogue.
Only Jews were admitted. After the
The Chief Rabbi of Paris gave a speech and the Having fulfilled the remaining religious formalities, the

3 2

The funeral procession to the Montparnasse churchyard is underway.
The first-class funeral procession was led by two horses.
pulled. The corners of the shroud were pulled by the Baron von Rothschild, Gustav Halfen, Cerf Beer and Anspach carried. The number of rabbis in vestments
The number amounted to eighteen. All Parisian Afraelites of Significance was present. The Portuguese Jews, like Mires, Pereire and others, attended the funeral service=
He didn't attend. Cremieux was also absent. On the church= court, which is separate from the Christian one, arrived,
There was singing and speeches for over an hour, and Lamentations were sung. They stood before the churchyard.
many Israelites, women and men, who read and prayed. Not one of the women entered the church.
Court. Cohen (of France) gave a speech in which he praised the pious life of the deceased, and the high position which the Israelites in France held take, emphasized."

What the Jew Cohen said about the prayer chair

may have been thundered down against Christianity.
We would have liked to hear that. On every occasion.
The Hebrews are trying to erase their Judaism.
So, at the so-called great reconciliation festival in September,
September 1866, where it was literally said from Paris:

(The Reconciliation Festival in Paris.) The "Evening"
"Moniteur" presents an engaging account of the "Grand Pardon" (Feast of Reconciliation) of the Israelites in Paris. On the afternoon of the 19th, a large crowd surged.
Crowd of devout Israelites in the streets of Notre Dame

— 63 —

of Nazareth and Lamartine into the prayer houses. Whole Hordes of lovely maidens with their mothers in white, elegant clothing, old men, young men, young people.
Young people and children hurried to the holy service. At this
The official newspaper grants the New Year's occasion days of the Israelites, a fiery praise. "The Jewish A calendar is much more logical in this respect.
than the Christian one, in that the Jewish New Year is not to a sad time begins, when the tree is leafless
And the sun without warmth is where nature mourns.
and under the shroud of snow and ice frozen, but at a time when nature bestows its gifts generously provides grain, fruit, and wine, and the invites people to enjoy the fruits of their labor."
There are currently approximately 30,000 Israelites living in Paris;
the number of worshippers visiting the synagogues
The above-mentioned holy festival is expected to draw almost 20,000 people.
"Persons are valued."

One can imagine how many of these 30,000
Parisian Jews participated in all revolutions in Paris.
tteiltten, as they had been in the fifteen years that had passed, the feitwhich have passed, have in turn increased, and how They are working against Christianity there. The members-the Alliance have universal, as they themselves are.
know their connections all over the world and can so slightly in a similar way to Mr. Fabius on the to have them work and preach throughout the entire world. At the

The tip of this existing in Paris and from there everything
The leading Jewish community is headed by the board of directors of the Jewish General Consistory of France: Mr.

=, Be

Worms von Romilly ist Präsident (where did the Jew get his the title of nobility?); Cremieux is Vice President; Cerf Beer (from the family known from the Rohan trial), Anspach, M. Maas, Halphen, Raphael the Elder (he was perhaps "General Raphael", who was under the clean economy of the Commune appeared,) are Members and M. Pollak is Consistory Secretary, etc.

They even interfered in decidedly Christian affairs.
The Parisian Jews had already moved in twenty years ago.
We mean the so-called German aid association, at whose top was already known to the Jew Albert Cohen before Be at the beginning of the second empire. One whose
The work and zealous acts of charity of the Jews for this A collection of laudatory, very detailed articles can be found in from the Allgemeine Zeitung of March 28, 1853, from Paris.
The entry for March 16th reads verbatim: "Unfortunately The club's cash register shows, instead of an increase in its annual income has decreased; it has been declining since the last week.
in the few years of its existence, from the maximum of 23,000 francs to a minimum of 5000 ge fall; but fortunately, it is likely that this will happen.
primarily a consequence of poor organization and not
The consequence of declining participation is... even worse.
would it affect the club's financial situation if not the great, universally proven benevolence
The meaning of a people who also have a homeland among us, if even if we don't have a fatherland that has proven itself.
The Jews are really gathering fiery coals for the

to Ge

The Germans are the chief, for they always find victims.
for their charitable purposes." After these arrogant rudeness, which they directed at the Germans in Paris

"Thrown cheekily in the face," says the general.
Newspaper with emphasis on the concert, which the Directorate of the German Relief Association (the Jew Albert) Cohen, an agent of Rothschild) for the best of the same.
have undertaken and in which Ferdinand Hiller, Ries, Selig-Mann, Alkan and Telessen helped to... to praise them properly — all Jews.

But look: not long after, in "the "Beautiful France" again the most cunning bankruptcies Jewish people before: The Didaskalia, which otherwise very who was friendly towards Jews, recounted on October 24th.
1856, that, apart from the fraud of Pereire and associates, many great scams by Waa
There have been recent purchases in Paris and namely Mr. Moritz Kahn in Rue St. Denis
I have committed such a scandalous bankruptcy.

Already on February 13, 1851, the Con-
The news bulletin announced that an optician named Schlesinger (Jew) glasses "as a remedy for venvarious eye diseases" sold, which is why he was accused of Sentenced to a fine of 15 francs by the juvenile police court had been. So things went merrily in Paris and elsewhere.
cities of France continued until September 1868, and Many, many people came through e to the begging staff.

But in September 1863, the Ladich Bank was founded in 1863.

Judaism in France.

— 66

Hirsch House in Strasbourg with one million liabilities Bankruptcy and attracted a lot of poorer people who
They had entrusted their savings to it.
put the head of the house prisoner in the town hall;
But one fine day, he was there along with the
The security guards escaped to America. The Alliance uni-

Verselle probably helped him over there!

The most horrific incident, however, which occurred between in the years 1850 and 1860, i.e. in their glory of the second empire, under the second Jewish descendant Napoleon III.'s assassination was the murder of the Jew~~s~~ liers Pechard, which took place in Caen in 1857. Fran~~s~~ Swiss and German leaves (and also the Didaskalia in Frankfurt am Main, July 10, 1858) reported on this:

"The French newspapers are reporting on the Ver~~s~~ breakers, which occurred during the night of August 29th to 30th murdered the jeweler Pechard in Caen in 1857 and be~~s~~ robbed. This robbery-murder was carried out by an organized group. A gang of robbers and thieves was executed. The same consisted of twelve men with their concubines and Children: Seligmann Gugenheim, called Meyer, Israel May, Salomon Ulmo, Mauschel Ulmo, Bernhard Mayer, Johann Minder, called Graft, Emil Bloch, Joseph Lambert, JB Laurent, J. Kaiser and Anton Con~~s~~ durier. Seligmann Gugenheim had already been to earlier He had been sentenced to twenty years in prison."

The pro-Jewish Didaskalia tells of this robbery~~s~~ murder, as already mentioned, in their issue of July 10th. 1858, but conceals the fact that more than three-quarters of the

— 8 —

Criminals, as can easily be seen from their names. is, Jews were.

In what way did Chief Rabbi Isidore deal with the children of that Gugenheim were accepted, as shown in the following. A report, undoubtedly influenced by the friends of Alliance universelle brought to many German newspapers became:

"A side piece to Mortara. Of the three Main defendant in the murder trial Gugenheim, the home of the merchant Pechard in Caen to life imprisonment, whose concubine to temporary imprisonment Sentenced to forced labor. The children from Gugenheim with this concubine, were reported to the prefect of the handed over Calvados, which they received in the municipal orphanage accommodated. Here the children were (Gugenheim is)

(Jew) was soon baptized and converted to Christian religion=

She taught. Now the Chief Rabbi in Paris, Isidore, reclaimed by the prefect to be in to be educated at an Israeli institution. The President fekt therefore inquired at the ministry, and the
The government has ordered the children to be taken away because they are Jewish.
parents originating from the chief rabbi, as the "spirit-to deliver the leader of their parents' religion."

One can see from this, as from many other examples... to conclude that Napoleon III, of his origins, probably aware of this, he formally instructed his ministries to...
Jews are too refined to please. The children of the Jew Gu-Genheim became so, although their mother was notorious
She was a wise Christian and she was baptized and already Christian.

— 68 —

had received religious instruction, the rabbi about=

give. But the children were affected by the conviction.
the parents have fallen under the general care of the state and to treat abandoned children equally, therefore also was baptized according to Catholic canon law.
the Jewish community had and made claims to them
If she wanted to, she had to take charge of her upbringing, even before they were placed in the orphanage. But they
They had to become Jews, by the will of the rabbis.
Many children in France have become adults in this way.
Judaism was forced. Others were through Ge= gifts and promises to enter into the same.

This prompted it. Other adult Christians were also... through marriage to a Jewish person seduced. Finally, there are many half-Jews in France, that is, many Jews who only pretend to be Christian= observe customary practices, but in secret, because they

to be of Jewish descent, to adhere to Judaism and are at his beck and call in everything. The author of the Text: "The Jews in Frankfurt am Main" (Zurich) (1870) recounts several anecdotes of such secret Jews in Germany. That in Spain the Jews during their expulsion by Cardinal Ximenes more-who were baptized on the surface, but secretly remained Jews, is a historical fact.

») On the secret Judaism in Spain, whose predecessor= Being present and existing, the German Jews until Mr. Ullmann, who had always denied it very recently, brought this up. in Frankfurt am Main at a meeting of the local association for History and Antiquities in February 1868 the following spicy Communication, when he spoke about the origin of the Frankfurt Jewish community The family name "Spanier" was used to express his opinion. He quoted verbatim. as follows: "According to an oral tradition The story began in 1519, when King Charles J. conquered the German lands. Imperial crown when Charles V received it, the Jews in the empire fearful Be= worry, as they feared that something similar would happen against them, as that action is being taken against their fellow believers in Spain, that At that time, Jews were forbidden to enter under penalty of death. was. Nevertheless, there were many Jews in Spain who outwardly although they separated from their ancestral religion, in their innermost being But because of the compulsion, hearts were all the more devoted to her. remained and hoped for the time when they would be free from this constraint. could be released. This concern now, that one could also act against the The fact that Jews in the Reich wanted to proceed as they had in Spain prompted the The Jewish community in Frankfurt should not wait idly, but to send an embassy to Spain. Two brothers found ready to undertake the journey, they dressed according to the local customs. fit and set off, accompanied by the blessings of the Ge: My people, from there. They arrived safely after the Spanish capital city; but only now did they think about the solution to the question, which had probably troubled her on her way: How to the

08

When the Jewish actress Rachel (Rahel Felix), who like to be baptized in Christian society.

How to reach the emperor? Her good skills allowed her to succeed in the market.
to Madrid in a buyer with different habits—
They recognized a secret Jew whom they were following, discovered each other and, since he was the imperial fool, secretly... were brought to the emperor, who listened to their pleas.
showed and signed a letter of protection for all Jews in the Reichsnetze. With that, they then addressed various complaints in Frankfurt, where they were soon recognized at the gate of the Judengasse.
and with the words: "The Spaniards have arrived!"
"Spaniards are here!" was the greeting from young and old.
They retained the name "Spaniards" for all time.
they had been called Cohen until then."

— 70 —

saw, saw, once said in a purely Jewish soirée,
The rumor is that she wants to become Catholic because Ma-Dame Recamier intended to appoint her as his heir,
The Jewish woman said: "She wants to make me her heir,
"She doesn't have anything herself!" "It's true, she doesn't have anything herself."
"Nothing!" exclaimed the Jewish baron, at whose house the
An evening gathering had taken place. "Stay with us,
My child, the whole thing is a lie, she herself...
nothing!"

The Augsburg Postzeitung reported on this Rachel on July 2, 1850, the following communication from Berlin: "The French Jew Rachel has her well-known shameless greed once again blatantly betrayed-tigt. By the king's grace, she had six Performances at the local opera house receive free admission.
and received all the income, which, however, was against the
The results from previous years were very moderate. On Monday, the comedian was asked to perform at the Palaistheater-dam a performance before the imperial, royal and to give to other princely realms. They He only wanted to understand that "besides those to be..."
"hopeful diamonds and other gifts" her still a cash fee of 2000 Thalers for this one evening would be granted. The king, rightly outraged by This insolence, she was ordered to leave immediately without further ado.

play — she still had her sixth performance here in Berlin before — to leave Berlin; and is she with the pathetic gang she led with her, already departed." (See below, however.)

LOOK.

This note, which was published in several newspapers, However, forgetting to make the Augsburg All- A few days later, a report about the gleaming-zenden gifts which the great artist received in Berlin from Emperor of Russia and King of Prussia he- had to hold.

On October 11, 1850, the Frankfurt newspaper reported... Conversation sheet: The following about this, their up-contained in Berlin:

"As is well known, the King of Prussia," recounts one Berliner Zeitung, the opera house on the performances Rachel gave it to her free of charge. The artist had besides the significant sum of 1500 Thalers for a performance at the Palais in Potsdam, in Berlin a He had taken in 15,400 Thalers. As Papa Felix, Rachel's father, this sum in the royal treasury Upon receiving the payment, he asked: where was the amount for the king's repeated presence at the opera house Be? The king now has another one for the five-time Be- such as his rent-free borrowed property of Rachel 150 Friedrichsd'or sent to Vienna."

At that very time, she had the audacity to a bouquet of white carnations (which is a representation of the lily coat of arms of the Bourbons). a follower who fled from Paris to Berlin in 1830 The accusation leveled against Charles X. was not to be lifted at all.

The following anecdote about her is also characteristic. The Christian actress Marie Dorval was her She had been a teacher. When she died, her granddaughters sent

A precious, bound keepsake for the Jewish woman.
Bible with the inscription: 4 Rachel. Souvenir of the little girls from Marie Dorval. Oct 13 1849.
But Rachel sent the Bible back and said the outrageous wish to have something else~~≠~~ hold, for example, a piece of jewelry or something similar. The Fa~~≠~~ But Milie Dorval was very poor and had the gifts, which their honorable mother of his time of high
He had already sold all of what he had received from princes and cities.
She possessed only one thing left: the filthy laurel wreath.
which Marie Dorval from the city of Marseille to had received a gift. The poor girls let Now erase the inscription from the same and send~~≠~~ ten the Jewish woman's laurel wreath. She kept it.
Likewise. The Jew Saphir recounts in his Parisian Letters themselves this anecdote, although he played the game of Jew exalted above all. |

This Rachel Felix had a relationship with Count Walewsky, an alleged son of Napoleon I and a pol-Nischen Countess, already early a tender relationship~~≠~~ ties. When he visited her one day, she showed him an old guitar, which Papa Felix had just bought in had purchased it on their behalf, and said: "This is the guitar, which I played with as a little girl in the
"I sang around the streets!" The romantically inclined
The Count asked her to give him the same as a memento of this first
To give her youth. After much pleading, she agreed.
softened him and gave him the guitar in exchange for a bracelet.

3

in diamonds, which had long caught her eye~~≠~~
had been stung.

Before Eugenie, who was elevated to Empress, even Montijo brought little Loulou into the world, or much-

Rachel had not brought anything more into the world (?).
allegedly gave birth to a son to this Count Walewsky.
Parisian newspapers wrote the following about this in 1853:

"Shouldn't the question of heredity be the universally debated issue?"
If France wants to obtain the desired solution, it cannot avoid it.
Pretenders should be embarrassed, for in this they rise up Moments from one side, demands that are half
It borders on seriousness, half on jest. One knows that Count Walewsky, French envoy to the English Hofe, a natural son of Napoleon the Great, is;
It is also known that Walewsky has a natural son has, whose mother is Miss Rachel. And the daughter Israel misses no opportunity to use this living witnesses of the Bonaparte dynasty, a boy of about six years, as pretenders to the crown to showcase France's. The high security authority, which is no less represented in artists' salons
as in the political circles of the capital, Miss Rachel, however, was asked to repeat the pretenses.
"To refrain from making dental jokes."

The Jewish woman thus presented her son as a pretender ten, until Bonaparte's police, which is the origin of the
Those who don't know the Napoleons put an end to their activities. Egg
Some time later, Rachel left the leaves
To spread rumors that Count Walewsky wanted to marry her.

— 74 —

From the mother's side, at least out of nobility
But this never occurred to counts of mixed race.

Out of anger and rage that he hadn't given her the
When she wanted to do what she wanted, she fell ill and coughed. Then
The famous Italian actress Ristori appeared up and filled all of Europe and the New World with her fame. This rival put her in a very difficult position.
Horror, since the same is a similar charlatanic
She didn't need to trumpet or shout things from the rooftops.
and radiated far more fame than she had. When the Ristori Rachel had appeared in some roles and far surpassed it in brilliance and success.

Had the Jewish woman fallen from envy on June 7, 1855 in
He had cramps and was constantly ill ever since. Soon
Her son died then. A kind of breast and neck swelling.
Addiction quickly led her towards death. She went, into 'Hope for recovery, after Egypt, where they were in 1858 died.

In Germany, Rachel had her first appearance in 1850.
with their pathetic troupe of actors, whom they at This resulted (compare above) in a pure intake of 260,000 Fred. was raised. To fill the houses, She hadn't shied away from the meanest advertisements in to have all newspapers indented. In Frankfurt am Main.
For example, she had it spread out at that time, in Grombach in Nassau's almost 100-year-old aunt is still alive from her, who wanted to see her as "Phaedra" in the evenings. and will be in the theater. They really perceived it very numerous "Gojims" arrived in the evening.

— 75 —

Foreigners' Lodge, an ancient toothless Jewish woman, who was a had received a free ticket, but not at all with Rachel was related.

When Miss Rachel died, at the funeral...

The increase in her estate in June 1858 was no less significant.
like 14 different daggers put up for sale. With
She probably celebrates the Haman festival with one of them every year.
have. — f N

The leader of the clique in the Pa
In the time of Rachel, there was a certain David, a Jew. He was assigned a few dozen other Jews who were kept according to his wisdom sung paid applause to clap. f

Frédéric Lemaître, one of the most accomplished actors of the theatre at the Porte St. Martin and in Frank He was rich and opposed this gossipmongering gang. He knew including all the tricks and schemes by which they gained their

He always exalted people, the Jews. He made the Claque and the Jews everywhere are ridiculed. In the “Bohémiens de Paris” (the Gypsies in Paris) but He explained it so excellently to the Jews of Mazari that the amount of truth in the image truly revealed
 He was seated. In this role, he wore a... long hooked nose, a fiery red wig, and yodeled with greatest truth in French. The Ju~~s~~ the thwarted, however, the further performances as soon as possible~~s~~
 The play's struggles. —

At that time there was an abundance of German and French writers in Paris, which reviews,

— 76. =

Reports, features, etc. for all possible German German and French newspapers wrote and everywhere their Jewish poison against the Christian Church and the Christian community~~s~~ They spewed out a liberal upbringing. One of the most notorious was at least Heinrich Heine, who, as is well known, King Ludwig Philipp was formally paid to over Reports praising him and his government were published in the to write for German newspapers. But not only that. he always tells us the most outrageous lies about the fa~~m~~ milie Orleans served up, also about himself and his He lied most shamelessly about his own Jewish family. In second volume of the “Etudes sur PALlemagne” by French Jew Philaret Chasles, who at the Description of his trip to Germany in September~~s~~
 September 1856, resorting to the most despicable things against us
 What makes it funny is that we find a letter from Heinrich Heine, who told Chasles the following web of lies:

"I arrived in Düsseldorf, a city, in the year 1800."
 born on the Rhine, who were from 1806 to 1814 by the
 It was occupied by Frenchmen, so that in my youth I
 I breathed French air. My first education
 I received it at the Franciscan monastery in Düsseldorf. Later
 I came to the gymnasium of the same city, which at that time It was called Lyceum. I went through all the grades, in to whom one teaches humanities, and me in the upper grades, where Rector Schallmayer Philosophy, Professor Kraß more classical poets, Professor Breuer Mathematics and Abbé Dauloin French Rhetoric and Poetics presented, excellent. These men still read, with

a l

The exception was the first one, a Catholic clergyman, who took special care of me, I believe because of the My mother's brother, the Privy Councillor of Geldern, who was his university friend, I think also because of that. my grandfather, the Doctor of Geldern, one famous doctor who had saved his life.

"My father was a merchant and quite a savant. Liked. My mother, an excellent woman, lives still in seclusion from the wider world. I have a sister, Mrs. Charlotte von Geldern, and two brothers, one of whom was Gustav von Geldern, (He bears my mother's name) Dragoon officer in the service of His Majesty the Emperor of Austria; The other, Dr. Maximilian Heine, is a doctor in the renowned... Saxon army; etc."

The Jew Heinrich Heine behaves as one might see, in this letter to the Jew Chasles, as if his mother, or rather also her father and brother, from the would have been the noble family of the Lords of Geldern. They are, however, only the descendants of a certain Jewish Jakob van Geldern, who was nothing at all, but a Jew who came to Düsseldorf from Geldern, and so he was called "the Jew Jakob van Geldern". From a book published in the 1920s, which the title: Panorama of Düsseldorf, written by Wilhelm Helmi, it is evident that the Jew Jakob van (from) Geldern in Düsseldorf in the year 1709, under the Government of Elector Johann Wilhelm of Bavaria-Neuburg, the founder of the Düsseldorf paintings-

to IB: a

Gallery, exempt from Jewish tribute and escort fees was. The grandson of this Jew was the so-called Dr. van Geldern, about whom we learned in our youth² time of the Electoral Bavarian Privy Councillor Reylandt, a most honorable gentleman, was informed, that he was Jewish in Düsseldorf in the years 1780–1800 Barber, or barber, had been. The brother of Heinrich Heine, who he² thought dragoon officer, used to call himself, when entering² joins the Austrian army, of his own volition² perfection and by means of two papers from Düf² Seldorf, in which the a had been changed to an o, “von Heine²Geldern.” This was then expressly forbidden. It only became so in modern times. before² retain the crime one has committed by a Jewish family with the ancient name the Dukes of Gelderland had decorated, to legalize² Siren. In February 1867, the always money-needy Austria the former officer “Gu²ftav Heine,” Owner of the Viennese “Fremdenblatt,” which for years the subservient servant of the Re² government plays games and only works very cautiously against them, into the hereditary knighthood of the Austrian Emperor-states. And on November 11, 1870, it was learned with the greatest astonishment that the Austrian Re² The greed had not been ashamed to use this Gustav Heine “with permission to use the name Heine²Geldern in the Austrian baronial estate to raise.”

—

=,

In Austria, anything is possible! How many Jewish Barons: Werthheimstein, Wodianer, Königswarter, Te²

Desco and similar products already exist there! Since ancient times!
Austria has exonerated all Jewish traitors of its former self.
always ennobled by different fatherlands. The first Esterhazy, whose fatherland Hungary knows, was allegedly called Estoras, but was descended from Neomir, the son of the King Casimir of Poland, and the Jewish woman Esther. Esther Hazy literally means: the cottage of Esther.
The Esterhazys have waited a few hundred years, until they went bankrupt. When But true descendants of Jews then immediately...

makes over one hundred thousand honest Christians go there · |

I thought of it.
What Gustav Heine-van Geldern now further

When he meets, he has a Viennese Jewish woman named

Kaan to his wife, who was very rich. Her sister Sarchen was once supposed to be the Austrian officer and Chamberlain to Archduke Joseph, Count O.; to marry; that is to say: the poor, somewhat narrow-minded count was
I had been flirted with her; but when it came to the eve of my bachelorette party... the future gentlemen-in-law Abraham and Heinrich
They called him "Mr. Brother", and the smell of garlic when the whole company stunned him, the nobleman went
The Hungarian hurried home and shot himself in the head.
the head.

Heinrich Heine's other brother is his
He went to Russia to work as a surgeon, there under

— 80 —

the Jews of Petersburg were drummed up and He eventually obtained the title of Court Councillor with money.
Austria and Russia – anything is possible!

That Heinrich Heine in a formal declaration from the year 1848, which the Allgemeine Zeitung in printed in the supplement to No. 144, his work for Ludwig Philipp and the sub-sub ...

The fact that the vention was recognized is a fact. The number Moreover, in the same year 1848, 122 brought from him a lavish eulogy for the "first Austrian Organ for Judaism;" from which one must recognize, that he was probably always secretly Jewish, always for the Judaism worked, and this more or less openly. admitted it. . g

The small print: "H. Heine and the Neuifraeli- "Tism" by the Frankfurt Jew Dr. Hermann Schiff, which is featured in the booklet "The Jews in France" furt a/ M." (Zurich 1870) is drawn and which the Jews of the Pitti Palace in Florence were quite warmed= The fact that they have made a bedding also confirms this. —

A similar appearance to H. Heine, only... cleverer and always sneaking into the highest society= The Breslau Jew Dr. med. Koreff. About him — his stay in Berlin and Paris — reported the Jewess Ludmilla Assing to Varnhagen from Ense's= The most praiseworthy of the deceased writings, Leipzig 1870. But it is good that the memoirs of the former Mün= Lang, the director of the Reich Archives, clarified the following:

The estranged Princess Hardenberg lived with Dr. Koreff, a Jewish genius, was born in Breslau. accused the princess of an overly confidential agreement= s?neisses with Mr. Koreff; they should be with each other have made the plan to use a non-smoking medical procedure Treatment to bring about the prince's death and to... then to seize his inheritance.

This Jew Koreff was at Hardenberg's in 1816 Wish converted to Christianity in Dresden, and the Prince-Chancellor had therefore sent him an appeal. position given in his cabinet. But he was, as Lang testified earlier, with his wife, who also with Jewish blood related, they became very intimate. This was added to that.

Furthermore, in 1821 a Bro-

She appeared, which bore the title: You triumph inévitable and prochain des principes constitutionels en Prusse, who appointed the Jew Koreff as author should have. Koreff left soon after, from the prince.
Hardenberg was dismissed very unfavorably, from Berlin to Paris, where he, like the Jewish law professor Gans in Berlin writes, “returning to a rather distinguished Practice was achieved.”

However, his favorite pastime was writing.

i.e., through the public newspapers, discord among the Sowing Christian seeds. Meanwhile, he practiced medicine and quackery everywhere.
around, crowded into many a distinguished house and researched and reported the conditions in the clever
In the best way, so that those then in Paris from all sides approaching Jewish bankers would come au fait.

Judaism in France. 6

— 82 —

Heine, who already knew Koreff as a student in Ber-Lin had seen him and soon after also went to Paris came, made him his acolyte, and led him into the Jewish world. The two Jewish geniuses They then forged many a hate article together for the Allgemeine Zeitung in Augsburg and other “kosher” Leaves. '

In the midst of this activity, it happened to Koreff,
that he was cured by a magnetic treatment distinguished Scotsmen accused of charlatanism and was sued for defrauding the Scotsman.
Pay 40,000 francs in spa costs! His distinguished Most of his patients subsequently abandoned him.
died in 1851.

The third leaf of the clean Jewish-German clover Blattes in Paris was the musician Mayer Beer, who knowingly and with the intention of harming the opera

had "the Huguenots" write poetry and create the music for it. This reignited the old conflict between Catholics and protesters deliberately back into the liveliest Er= introduction and thus, from Paris, attacked the greater most well-behaved, fine bad deeds well aware, into the world-gears in. The entire Jewish community of Europe stood He stood faithfully by his side. There were no more cheerful Evenings for the same, as if they were the protesters and Catholics saw each other shoot each other to death, and that could hear "piff, paff, puff".

The Jew Jakob Mayer Beer was the son of a Jewish money changer in Berlin Jakob Herz Beer and of Mrs. Amalie Beer, née Lipmann Mayer. This Dame was criticized in all Jewish newspapers because of her alleged benevolence was always so extraordinarily praised, as if they annually bestowed the greatest riches upon the She would forgive the poor of Berlin. Yet she was so uneducated, that in 1852 she met an acquaintance of ours with the words: "Visit me in the PerBeniums= invited someone to the theater.

8

Like their son Jacob, who called himself "Giacomo" at an early age called it, he started it to promote himself and his music from the entire press, the entire Jewish community and up to all possible art experts and non-artists= To be praised, that's what the Conversations was about= Leaf in Frankfurt a/M. on September 27, 1842 following Genetic anecdote.

"Before Mayerbeer became so famous, there was..." he was on the best of terms with Rossini. In 1825, when the first performances of the "Crocato" take place The following bet was made between the two Ton= setzern stäft. Mayerbeer sscheinen besorget wegen der Erfolgs. He had been given the hall in the grand opera house. in Paris, alongside the choirs. At one of the last Rossini said to him during rehearsals: "Well, you are preparing yourself a beautiful triumph." "Between us, Caro amico, "" swept Mayerbeer away, ""I am very afraid that I "I'll fail, I'd bet." "Oh, what, you want..." "Just kidding, I bet the opposite." "You?" "My "Word of honor!" "Do you want one hundred Louis d'or?" "It "That applies." "See you tomorrow then." "See you tomorrow evening."

ss, 84.

On the day of the performance, Rossini had a blocking order. He sat on the balcony of the grand opera house. He was against it. His habit was elegantly dressed, with a neat hairstyle, wearing a jabot and yellow gloves; he had never been seen in such a way before. He saw the elevators. He applauded at every piece. He did, and the audience followed suit. The chic The decision regarding the "Crociato" was never in doubt. The next morning, Mayerbeer sent him the hundred Louisd'or along with a letter of thanks."

This clean story judges itself. Mayerbeer was rich and could easily pay. How Some unfortunate Christians, richly gifted and full of talent, may have been sacrificed to such Jewish bets and in the ground and have been driven on the ground!

Even Spontini, the noble, magnanimous Spontini, had to step down from the conductor's chair in Berlin to attend to the "To make room for the Jews Jakob Mayerbeer.") Conradin

The Augsburg Allgemeine Zeitung reported in May 1844 under the title "Musical Season in Paris" Reports by H. Heine, in which this paid Hebrew the Componiflen the Vestal Virgin was mocked in the following way:

"He (Spontini) cannot console himself with the fact that he has long since "Dead is and the ruler's staff has passed into Mayer's hands "Beers. This, the deceased claims, has supplanted him." "from his Berlin, which he always loved so much; and who from "Pity for former greatness who has the patience to listen to him, "can learn in minute detail how he has already read countless files "Fambles to expose the Mayerbeer conspiracy."

In this and similar veins, the Jew Heine continues about to set off with the noble Spontini. That the great composer the a, OR .

1

Despite numerous fine connections and of his great talent his opera "The Night Camp in Granada" will not be performed at the Paris Opera. He brought about a fall and therefore died of a broken heart. Bellini had long since met his end with poisoned pies. Rossini, who no longer wanted to work, left the Both Jews, Mayerbeer and Halevy, willingly agreed to the tactics. Stock of the Paris Conservatorium and the Grand Opera.

Regarding Mayerbeer's musical abilities and As far as the musical value of his operas is concerned, then we do not decide to pass judgment on it~~s~~ give. But what is the tendency of the libretto of the As far as Meyerbeer's operas are concerned, we have long known this. It was clear where it was aimed. Through the whole world The Jew recalled the "Huguenots" that had been played out and replayed, as we already said, to the old unfortunate dispute between the Catholic and Protestant churches and He thus cleverly fueled hatred against Catholics. The audacity of Catholic priests on the stage to To call for the murder of protesters could only be... originated in the brain of a vengeful Jew. It is supposedly notoriously fine that Mayerbeer to the Librettist Scribe, who usually wrote the text to who produced fine operas, always the subject and whole

Jewish conspiracy against the Christian state and the Christian The church, as we know from a reliable source, had seen through it, was a thorn in the side of the Jews and their descendants, and they...

They therefore tried to ridicule him in every way. (Author's note)

He used to provide scenes for them, so that even the Libretto “of the Huguenots” mostly by himself originates from. In his "Robert the Devil" he had Mayerbeer already had criminal nuns dancing, Through the “Huguenots” he incited Christians against each other. and in the “Prophet” he then brought the whole The unclean economy of the Anabaptists is remembered. In doing so, he mocked in many ways, namely but through the trial he brought the shameful ones to justice, which allows one to observe the customs of the Catholic Church. In the large masses of the semi-educated have Mayerbeer's Operas, and in particular "The Huguenots", the hatred and the disrespect towards the Catholic Church also Reawakened and significantly enhanced. The memory to the St. Bartholomew's Day Massacre, which is partly depicted in this opera- The fact that this is attributed to Catholic priests was to the A true sacrilege against Catholicism. But How much fame and money does this Jewish music have, whose Intentionally, very few people looked through it, the whole Cohort of Jewish swindlers registered. How did we the Jews and Jewish comrades the works of Mayer- Beer was smashed and raised to the heavens. And How much money has been lost through these scams? who put the honest Christians in the Jew's sack have been!") ) In Mayerbeer's heyday in Paris, it was, as the Writer Gutzkow tells where the famous Börne, in the Jewish quarter Thume Baruch, where he spent his favorite hours. Whether

Let us now consider the Jew Halévy for a moment. His real name was Samuel Levi, but he called himself

Years ago, also with this name on a Clafour excerpts from his opera Guido and Ginevra, the appeared at the home of the Jew Moritz Schlesinger in Paris. Soon after, however, he beautified it and baptized himself. Jacques Eli Fromenthal Halévy. Beared this name and he continued to do so until his death. The tendency of The opera libretto of this Haloy is the same as that of the Mayerbeerschen. Halevy's "Jew" has essentially contributed to the acceptance of Jews in Europe. How "Gray," like "shade," like "raised" are the same in it. how contemptible the cardinal is! draws. And what tendency does the opera pursue by Halevy "Ahasuerus, the Wandering Jew?" She does that Judaism is interesting, and Christians are bad. So The same applies to all his works.

Despite the fact that they only have very little musical talent. Because of his value, Napoleon III protected him. the most decisive thing. When he died in 1862, it was written the two great men spoke Hebrew to each other, or The text tells us about what else they talked about or discussed. Unfortunately, no news from the barrel of the "Uriel Akosta". — A daughter Mayerbeers later became Catholic. Why she did so, That's one question. Another one has a Baron von Korff named. He advises: "We all must become nobles!" jokes Pius Alexander. Wolf.

) The opera "The Eternal Jew" by Halevy, libretto by Scribe, was first presented in Paris on April 25, 1852. grand opera performed.

—

— 88 —

the encyclopedia on March 29: "The

The future of the Halevy family is completely secure.
The woman receives a pension of 34,000 francs.

Another one from Napoleon III, around this time very pro-
The Jewish musician Strauss (the successor)
Musard's, the former director of the Court Opera Balls in Paris), who cleverly exploited his name and faithfully for the one who died in Vienna at the end of 1849-and the truly German waltz composer Johann Strauss from gave or, depending on the circumstances, for his son. Also He was appointed conductor of the Tuileries Orchestra by Jewish intrigues and played almost only — German and French Zösisch — Jewish music.

A far more dangerous individual is every one-
if the Jew Jakob Offenbach from Cologne a/ R., which opened a children's theater in Paris a decade ago guided us and has since then provided us with everything we could possibly need from there-Litid filth flooded. Just as Mayerbeer sent he libretto's into the world, which religion and the
to ridicule the state and to undermine its respect especially to tear saints from the hearts of the people.
He also used a Jew as a libretto writer.
edges settled. Mr. Hector Cremieux is, if we don't to err, the son, or at least a relative of the "Knight Without Fear and Reproach" of the General Newspaper. His works, "Orpheus in the Underworld,"
"The Grand Duchess of Gerolstein" etc. are so cheeky,
It is outrageous and immoral that one can witness the immersion of The Parisian population probably understands this when one considers,

— 89 —

that it has been nourished with such poison for years will.

Besides these Jews, there are also a lot of Mu-Jewish people in Paris, who in the same way through songs and larger performances for and against Judaism Christian values are at work here. Felicien David is one of them.

from the Jewish artist family, which was under the first republic, yes, like under the Jewish offspring Napoleon I. pushed his way to the front. The Levi, Stern, Rubin~~er~~ Stein, Mareczek, Strakosch and Ullmann, who, all German or French Jews, to call themselves "little In Paris, there is a legion of people who signify "Napoleon". They sing and play in the hall of the Jew Hertz daily. of Mayerbeer and Halevy and other Jews denzibse Machwerke. “)

Because now the Jews in France have made~~r~~ their works flood all of Europe and their Composers therefore have much influence on the casting of the undifferent positions at the grand opera and at the ) Characteristically fitting for Parisian music as well. The joke was published in the tabloid on January 11, 1841. told:

"The following novelty was introduced in Brno a few days ago~~r~~ del erschienen: „An Sie.“ Gedicht von A. Jeitelles, in Musik composed by Moscheles, dedicated to Baroness Eskeles, published by Fleckeles. The assessment of this in the "Moravia" is I(ud) Scribeles signed it." Jeitelles, Moscheles, the Eskeles and the Fleckeles are all Jews or descendants of Jews. But Scribeles is the honest Moravian, who is concerned about the entire Jewish clan made it funny. A. d. V.

— 90 —

Conservatorium wins, as we see there as well at some German court theatres as much as possible Jews who are singers and actors, good placed. In this way these Jewish Indians arrived~~r~~ videos over the heads of many Christians from far and wide~~r~~ greater talent and knowledge to fame and always to a lucrative position. The two Pattis, who the Jude Ullmann presents Jewish women. The Lucca There is a Jewish woman in Berlin; and it's the same everywhere. But Of all the German court theaters, none is so tolerant of Jews.

blessed, like the one in Stuttgart. The first tenor Sontheim (Sontheimer?) is a Jew. The second tenor, Braun, which has an extremely croaking voice and constantly He trembles, he is Jewish. The one with extremely small, unclean Mr. Robicek, a gifted bass voice, is Jewish. Mrs. Mar Low is also said to be of Jewish descent; Madame Ellinger She is Jewish. The choir director is Jewish. The musician Director Abenheim is Jewish. There are a... at the ballet company. Lots of Jewish women, etc. |

That they are doing everything possible to even after death, through something "completely extinguished" To shine with "certified" qualities is self-evident. So "This was written in 1864 on the death of Jakob Mayer." The following:

Mayerbeer always carried a piece of paper with him, which his last will and testament regarding It contained his funeral arrangements. This document was for wrote about the case that he was affected by a sudden or ge= would have been affected by a violent death, and assured the=

— 91 —

to whoever found it with him, the sum of 1000 Thaler too. One of his daughters has it in his west. Bag found. It contains the provision to his earthly remains, wherever he may have died, to transfer them to Paris, to keep them there for four days= let them and then take them to his birthplace, Berlin. transport.

The Jew was thus publicly exhibited in Paris. and a lot of nonsense was made of it. For four days they streamed summon all Jews and Jewish comrades to be with him= wonder. Then a Parisian newspaper reported, which is almost exclusively occupied by Jews:

"This afternoon at 1 p.m. the mortals were Mayerbeer's remains ceremoniously moved to the North Station= leads. An endless stream of sufferers followed through through densely packed rows of people, past the richly decorated ten hearses. All the notables of the art world,

At their head Rossini and Auber, representatives of the court and all higher circles, the Prussian legation, Deputations of the Academy, the theaters, etc. were he-seemed to be paying their last respects to the deceased.
to demonstrate on French soil. Then the chief held
The rabbi gave a speech and the carriage was closed.

A few days later, reports from Berlin began:

"The solemn burial of Mayerbeer's body in the family crypt in the cemetery of the Berlin Jewish community-
The meeting of the local community took place on May 9th at noon.
The mortal remains of the deceased master were on Arrived here in the afternoon on the 7th and settled into the apartment.

— 92 —

The funeral of the deceased, at Pariser Platz No. 6, was held.
was located there. At noon on the 9th of this day, the
A large and well-attended funeral gathering took place.
In a room decorated entirely in black, a man rose up, surrounded by an abundance of exotic plants, a Kata-Falk, on which the coffin stood; the same, with a covered in a black, silver-decorated blanket, it gleamed in a wealth of richly flowering wreaths (the queen, as well as the Princess Friedrich Karl had for jewelry wreaths for the coffin; six candles surrounded the coffin, six candelabra, the catafalque, and a chandelier cast its bright rays down from the ceiling onto the Coffin.

From 11:30 a.m. onwards, the mourners gathered entourage; at its head we noticed the Prince-George of Prussia, and also the commandant of Berlin, General von Alvensleben, the Minister of the King lichen Hauses Freiherr von Schleinitz, the General- In-Tendants of the Royal Court Music Count Redern, Envoys, Deputations of the theatres and artists' societies, etc.

At 12 o'clock the deputation of the Jewish Municipal council, which sent the funeral attendees from Bres-Rabbi Dr. Joél, appointed by the lamentable, to the bereaved led to this. Immediately afterwards, these latter ones appeared: the wife, three daughters, son-in-law and the two nephews of the deceased, and the celebration began with a Funeral chorus, which Mayerbeer originally wrote for mixed voices and on this occasion the music director Radecke for had set male voices. The singing was by 298

performed by the soloists of the Royal Opera.
Dr. Josl's memorial address concluded with a song.
followed the speech, which struck a chord with all those present-made the most impressive impression.

Now the coffin was taken by the leaders of the Funeral cooperative lifted into the hearse,
And the train formed up as follows. Ahead of them marched... under the leadership of music director Wieprecht, the association
nigten Musikcorps falles in Berlin
Cavalry regiments, 120 wind players; the musicians tru-gen veiled marching batons, the wind players veiled instruments mente. The funeral march from the was played alternately.
Beethoven's A-flat major sonata and a funeral march Blown by Wieprecht. In this section of the train
The damage caused by the Dybbøl storm was also noticed.
celebrated music master of the 8th (Leib)- Infan-Territorial regiment, which moved from the battlefield to Berlin had come to pay their last respects to the deceased-white. The musicians were followed by, representing the General Intendant v., who was not in Berlin at the time.
Hülse, the royal Kapellmeister Taubert with a Laurel wreath on a kiff; followed by the Capell-Master Dorn with the order's pillow, surrounded by the Kapellmeister Radecke and the concertmasters Hubert Ries and Leopold Ganz. Soon he'll be coming with Pal-men decorated hearses, on both sides the young-Members of the royal chapel, carrying palms.
Behind the hearse walked the mourners, the Son-in-law of the deceased, Cavalry Captain Baron Korff,

— 94 —

and his two nephews, Jules and George Beer; in that The members of the royal chapel, the royal...
Theater-Deputations, including the Director of the Imperial Opera, Perrin, from Paris. Finally, a long one.
Row of cars etc. wu f. w.”

The one married daughter, who was the cavalry captain von Korff, who had married on March 18, 1858, received from the well-disposed Frenchman Mayerbeer at that time their Brautstat was completely exiled from Paris and (she was (became a Christian) an extremely precious bridal veil from there in the finest Pointe d'Alengon. The nephew, Julius Beer received it in January 1864, most true-probably as a result of the use of the “Jews in Pallast Pitti,” without having earned anything in return, the Order of Saint Maurice and Saint Lazarus. He stands, just like Mme. Mayerbeer and also Georg Beer, nor in Judaism.

The whole clique of Jewish writers in Berlin
And Paris scattered, and still scatters, the "horror" daily.
Kochem” incense. Since the editor of the Constititunal, Eduard Simon, is a Jew and the Jew Amédée Achard edited the feature section of this paper, so the articles of the same came about through translating Juall of them from Paris to us in Germany. —

There are a lot of German Jews in Paris, who only dealing with reports on the conditions there for Germans Newspapers are employed. Kalisch, Kolisch, Felix Bamberg and J. Bamberger, Simon, Weil, Levy, Levita, Cayla,

I

Kaula, Julius Cohen, Dachauer, David, etc.

They are called

In 1864, Kalisz said: the spokesman in Paris German Gymnastics Club, Mr. Kalisch, invited the Duke of Coburg-Gotha, the gymnastics exhibition on March 12th at to live there. And it went on to say:

On November 11, 1865, Schiller's birthday, The local German gymnastics club is entering a field. Kalisch, . Bamberger, Simon, Levyson et al. will give lectures hold.

These four gentlemen mentioned here are all Jews. Does it require an explanation why these Germans... Jewish men in Paris at the head of the gymnastics club stand?

In August 1865, the Jew Hollander, Bureau Head of the Ministry of the Interior, like Eduard Simon, the editor of the Constitutional, by Napoleon III. awarded the Legion of Honour.

One particularly ardent opponent of the papacy was... also — like all Jews — a certain Armand Levy, from a Parisian Jewish family. It was said of him on September 15, 1861 in the Cologne newspaper:

“Paris, September 13. As the definitive author of the well-known brochure: "The Emperor, Rome and the King

Mr. Armand Levy is now called “of Italy”, who a few years ago was one of the candidates for the Parisian Deputies: Election was. The second brochure, which he now, probably also with a certain degree of The official inscription, which is to appear, means: “circular letter to the bishops of France.” She would be far from decisive= held as the first.”

*

This Jew was, just like Jules Simon and other Jews, also already as deputy= They were beaten, but despite all the machinations of the Jews It failed temporarily at that time.

But the German and French writers Jews — not content to have a Jewish offspring on the to have the imperial throne of France — wanted a real one= true Jews at the head of a company made up only of Jews formed government and therefore worked more or less open to the communist republic. They were doing Napoleon III. used all his power to wage war with Germany, hoping that this would either help him and to stand even more firmly, or to overthrow him and to take one's place.

But let's not get ahead of ourselves. In the year In 1866, the French Jew Leon Gozlan died; and the

The Jewish translators in Paris soon brought us the following

*

a report about this secret Jew. Regarding his It turned out that he had been baptized, although he had always pretended to be a Jew. It The following was said about him:

One of the most famous Parisian personalities was the brilliant writer Leon Gozlan, who these days He has gone home to his fathers. To his fathers? That's still the question. Because Gozlan was known to be a born Jew and was supposed to be Jewish to be buried according to a ritual, as his son-in-law had a

he

believed he had discovered an ancient baptismal certificate from 1805
 and the handwriting on the already printed death notice added a note stating that the Catholic Church had agreed with the Ver-would show the deceased their paid honors. Since then Many efforts have been made in the church in question.
 to Marseille the original act of involuntary religion to find the change of the witty novelist. Nir
 There is a trace of this to be discovered. Gozlan is supposed to
 He was two years old when the act took place.
 He himself never spoke of it in his life, with fei-
 He avoided any such discussion with his Catholic wife.
 Chung, his daughter knew nothing about it either. Gozlan
 He was a reserved character, from whom few could learn anything.
 could become. He always seemed somewhat mysterious.
 to have on one's mind; was it that incident from his
 a childhood or any other anxiety that may have affected him burdened: Gozlan was rarely seen with a cheerful face.
 His biographers wanted to tell the story of the Jewish boy from Marseille.
 descended from an Algerian family, especially since a colony in Algeria, the name he adopted Gozlan is wearing it. According to another account, his name was very German:
 Löb (Löw, Leon) Reader Götz.

This article was apparently written solely to...
 Gozlan, a Jew who was by no means a great genius and whose sole merit consisted of the fact that he was overall, in the newspapers, through novels and through pleasure and Funerals and other things that made Judaism shine, still

To scatter incense at death.
 Judaism in France. 7

— 98 —

An even greater trumpeter of Judaism, refpective des Geschlätze über den zweite Kaiser Franf-
 The so-called Abbé was of Jewish descent, a member of the Reich.
 Bauer, a baptized German Jew, who was at the court of Napoleon

Leon III attained an influential position. About
The Cologne newspaper wrote about this secret Jew
End of 1867:

“Abbé Bauer comes from an Israelit family, from Pest family who moved to Vienna. In 1848
He joined the Vienna Academic Legion when whose representative he — actually he dealt with Painting — going to Paris to study at the French School dentition went to the common freethinking In to represent interests. After the bloody end of the
The Viennese Revolution prompted him to seek help from his family.
to remain in Paris initially, since his name was also on the Windischgrätz proscription list was emblazoned. Thus it remained While in Paris, he occupied himself with painting for a time, However, she was particularly fond of plastic studies, such as... modern Babylon easily becomes accessible to the ambitious Disposition made. During this time he made the acquaintance-a group of ladies from the Faubourg St. Germain, which brought him into the aristocratic circles of this district led to places where he quickly felt at home. These
The new environment soon brought about a significant inner change.
Transformation into a farmer emerged; and he made the way from Babylon to Jerusalem with borders of fanaticism with fervent zeal. He converted to the Catholic Church.
over and entered a monastery in southern France.

— 99 —

to receive the barefoot Carmelite monks, in which he spent several years there. The immense mortifications, to which the faithful prophet here underwent,
However, they caused so much damage to his health, that the family who were notified of it, although An
He tried in vain, putting his efforts into practice; until it fell into his hands.
His brother, who lives in Madrid, succeeded (he is an associate there).
of the House of Weißweiler, i.e., representatives of Rothschild), through Roman and Spanish high influences Bauer's Ent to effect dismissal from the order. From the Car-meliter “déchaussé” became an abbe as which he soon developed a great talent for public speaking, which was not which went unnoticed for a long time. Last year he was appointed to the assistant preacher in the Tuileries Chapel, where he had been since obtained a position as a clergyman in a very short time has."

So says the Cologne newspaper. We add I still remember from my own memory that it was not just me, like the Jewish correspondent of the Rheinische Blatt indicates to visit the Parisian student body~~s~~ delte, but that the revolutionary Bauer in 1848 as Envoy of the blood-red government in Vienna by Robert Blum was sent to Paris to deliver dispatches there by~~s~~ to be handed over personally, which the Jew Schwarzer wrote had and which were addressed to the Jew Cremieux. Instead of returning to Vienna, as was his duty Had he stayed in Paris and been baptized, later under the guise of a Catholic priest to fill the position of rabbi under Napoleon III.

— 100 —

See. Through the late Chief Rabbi Ullmann He had already been privy to the secrets of Judaism long before. introduced before he was baptized. Not honest high dignitaries of the Catholic Church, but Spanish Clergy of Jewish descent, respectively secret Jews, ver~~s~~ mediated the disavowal of the order with Pius IX, himself, like the Marquis of Consolini in "Pio nono "Un ebreo" claims to be of Jewish descent, namely a Descendant of the Jewish Mastai family.

Apart from the spot in the Tuileries Chapel, the Jew was Bauer was also a preacher at St. Roque in Paris. For these positions he invented the praise-pregnant book: Napoleon III and Europe in 1867.

When the imperial throne of the second Buonaparte to When things started to wobble, Abbé Bauer went on a recuperative trip. to Florence, where he is currently located. and with the entire Jewish clan of the Pitti Palace is in the best of agreement.

An equally, if not even more, despicable character
ter, like this farmer, the Flavius Josephus of the second Imperial, is the Jew Ernst Renan, who he
He has dared to create a completely falsified "Life of Jesus" according to to write from alleged Jewish original sources and before a few years in all languages from Paris in to spread it throughout the world. Napoleon III did, however, remove him from his position.
as a consequence of his fine position as a teacher of Hebrew fchen language at the Collège de France, but kept him secretly upright, until he himself was deposed from the throne fell.

— 101 —

About the whole hustle and bustle of this Jewish scion Buo
The honest Hungarian Eduard Horn writes some things about naparte.
Time before the terrible fall of the usurper in his
The balance sheet of the French Empire.

"Immediately after his installation as President of the French Republic opened by Louis Napoleon — free not with their own resources, but with people's resources — that the most extensive wholesale business ever to have taken place on Earth-See. Both by land and by ship.
were sent to Italy, to Crimea, to Algiers, Me Xico, China, Madagascar, even after the most hidden Angles of our celestial body countless soldiers as missionaries of liberation and civilization, of Nationality law, the principles of 1789 and similar French domestic products were exported; however,
In the French ports, soon only corpses were found, Cripples, deficits, debts, glory fever, servility
the nation, brutality of the “mustachios” ship.

In accordance with the provisions of the Commercial Code
The crowned Grand Master had the matter reviewed annually by a fine financial advisor.
Commissioners organize a review of their business; but This balance sheet was merely a sham, as the direct-tors of fraudulent stock corporations of the world before-

do. Because the six budgets, which are drawn up annually-be presented, namely the ordinary, the extraordinary= ordinary, the original, the corrected, the main= and the supplementary budget, are provided by the official

— 102 —

Financial geniuses to a pocket-sized ball and be used games, back and forth, in a jumble and all over the place thrown, so that apart from the finance minister and his Secretaries: Nobody knows the true financial situation of the imperial business is known.”

Eduard Horn only calculates the sums of money which invested in the business; he does not calculate the costs incurred through The military and civil service economy wasted labor= power, not the one estimated at one and a half million, Men sacrificed to war and garrison duty=
life. Nevertheless, a billion is listed in the booklet.
a billion to a burden under which even an ironclad One's conscience would have to collapse if, indeed, in that States whose main pillars are an imperial throne=
The discourse should be about morality and faith, in leading circles as if there were any conscience at all.

Horn, in his detailed assessment, first considers the five-ten years from 1852 to 1866. He divides them into three Sections of five years each. During the first period...
The total expenditures of the empire amounted to [number] [units].
9,643, 778,793 francs or annual average
1,928,755,758 Fres. In the second section, of Between 1857 and 1861, 10,213,760,472 Fres. were produced, so
An average of 2.0 22,752,094 francs are spent annually.
The years 1861 to 1866 required 11,134,809,436
Fres., so in each year 2, 226,961,987 Fres. In Total 30,992,348,701 francs.

In the second period, 570 million were spent, in The third 1491 million spent more than in the erften. Since 1866, France had 300 million annually to raise more than in the first year of the emperor's reign empire, and this first year already far exceeded the previous one Schwenderian period of the July Dynasty, whose fall on their part mainly through the squandering of the people was caused by sweat.

And yet, the costs of the empire are still...
Not listed for a long time. Let's calculate what Horn unfortunately... has failed to do so, averaging only 500,000 annually.
Man as if armed, so they go annually
183 million, or 2,745 million in fifteen years Francs lost. The one and a half million through the Military operations cost the lives of fallen soldiers according to the
The lowest estimated value for the country is 13,688 million.
Fres. And the values destroyed by the wars.
The interest burden is part of the national debt, which was incurred before the
The number of coups d'état amounted to 242 million annually, rising to 606.
Millions have risen. And now Magne has another one.
A bond of 440 million, thus an increase in the Interest rates of around 20 million per year have been announced, and Everyone knows that the bond is just a drop in the ocean.
The hot stone is that they should increase state spending.
It must be covered, or at least doubled. Thus Expensive is a way to save society!

So the partly self-owned Jewish property reported itself
Berlin stock exchange newspaper during the discussion of the Booklet. Nevertheless, they participated when, at the beginning of the a new bond issued after the last Franco-German war England and France attempted to acquire a large number of German-

Jews are involved in this, which is in the lucky places of the Na
They placed blind trust in Poleon III.
Jews Georg Güterbock and Gustav Heinrich Levita,
Consul of the Sandwich Islands, in Berlin and Julius Kulpp and Mayer St. Goar in Frankfurt am Main, which as signatories and from Prussia a They were implicated in a lawsuit. They were left alone, even though they already had... had been partially imprisoned, but was soon able to walk again.

The goods stand had not been set up because he was ill.
reported; and Levita, originally a Mainz Jew,
had asserted his position as consul.
From a Levite related to this Consul and is also a Jew born in Mainz, it was written 1868:

"From Paris, March 1. In one of the last seats
A legal case was brought before the local court of appeals.
arose, which has attracted interest in other circles. The in Paris no less than in Germany because of his Duke Karl of Brunswick was known for his eccentricities.
entrusted the local lawyer, Dr. Julius Levita, with the Representation of his interests in a very considerable an American matter. It was about a sum of approximately 5 million Swiss francs, which an American railway company owes the Duke and for their collection, various lawyers have already been hired.
were set in motion. The authority which the
The grant that Duke Levita bestowed upon Lord Levita was an unlimited one.
regarding the matter itself; only it was expressly stated the reservation was made that the Duke personally would...

— 105 —

to settle amounts owed to previous representatives.
It was precisely this clause that caused the efforts to fail.
Levita's; because the American lawyers refused the release of the documents necessary for conducting the legal proceedings Documents, as long as they have not been paid for in return.
Although their demand is nothing less than Although he was driven, the Duke refused in a fine mood.
They were liable for paying these lawyers and strictly enforced this.
against Levita a lawsuit for payment of damages
A sum of 50,000 francs. The Court of Appeal not only dismissed this claim, but also convicted in
On the contrary, the Duke was ordered to pay a fee of 5000 francs to Levita, by simultaneously investing in the

For reasons of decision, the Duke in a not exactly in a flattering way, he implied that he had through his stubbornness most likely by five million

Franconia has become poorer.”

This Levite fled, one of the first Jews, right away.
at the beginning of the war from Paris to Switzerland.
As a child from Mainz, he probably knew the strength of Preu-ßens, and had done enough "in his trials" to
For a while, without empty speeches that always were full of French-German jeering, to get out of to rest.

Emil Pereire also set out, as early as the beginning of June,

accompanied by three immense fourgons full of silver and gold, on his way to Geneva, where he, as the Even though war was still a distant prospect, already a pretty

—

— 106 —

had rented a villa to escape his in Francedelten treasures to recover.

Some wealthy older Jews who were with Mires also and the Pereire family who had made their fortunes left soon after Paris, to travel to Germany and Bel-They went to flee and there they kept their swindled millions.
to secure. In Brüssel they had the mayor Ans-Bach, relatives of the Conseiller de Cassation Ansbach

in Paris, their fellow tribesmen; and in Germany, "especially in Berlin," there were a lot of secret Jews in large places, which they greeted with jubilation—took.

Roon's war minister apparently refrained from doing so. wisely, the Landwehr officers of Jewish descent at Beginning of the war against France, he entered service. to move in. The Berlin Jewish newspapers reported on this. A great shouting ensued. But Herr von Roon remained silent. — he knew why!

When the Germans entered Alsace, they spat the French Jewish newspapers Fire and Flames and incited the population of Mühlhausen against the troops up. They were expelled from Mühlhausen by Worker gangs, behind which Jewish factory owners were hiding, who had formally guided such things. When the bathing area...

*) Mr. von Magnus, for example, Prussian envoy of a certain era at the court of Emperor Max of Mexico, who at his death gang arrived so late, and Mr. Balan, formerly Prussian Ge The ambassadors in Brussels are of Jewish descent. Regarding the latter, he said... Bettina: "He is a Jew from the French colony in Berlin."

—

*

— 107 —

The troops soon returned in increased numbers, and 50,000 Franks demanded conscription, the magistrate sent from Mühlhausen on October 11, 1870, the rich The Jewish Johann Dollfuß was offered 28,000 francs. The Baden commander magnanimously granted the plea of the Jew. In gratitude for this, he had it spread that He wanted to emigrate. On March 31, 1871, it was reported:

"From Mühlhausen the following report is received by the Lower Rhine Curia:"
It is assured that the famous Alsatian house Dollfuss wants to emigrate to southern France, along with his machines, equipment, etc., and his all personnel, consisting of more than 6000 workers exists. Mr. Johann Dollfuß, head of this large house, He is said to have inquired in Toulouse whether the Garonne sufficiently strong and pure waterfalls have been required for the fpe-
The central industry of spinning mills and calico factories.
The only possible answer was affirmative. (Presumably a
A warning shot; if not, then Germany will be subjected to this scam.
(Being able to endure lust.)"

But Mr. Johann Dollfuss did not emigrate.
He probably knows that he is on the blossoming banks of the Garonne no poor Alsatian workers finds, who at six in the morning their "potato-stamps" (that is, pounded into a porridge and only with Water-boiled potatoes) into the factories of the Jews bring them along and heat them up themselves on their steam engines,
These are also available for breakfast, lunch and dinner.
He can afford to pay. He also knows that it is a... so good a business it is to manufacture in Alsace, as from

— 18 —

there, like the Jewish Dreyfus brothers in Weißenburg and Havre, unfortunate Alsatian emigrants with high concession of the French Ministry according to to ship over to America.

When the brave Baden and Württembergers later facing the Garibaldians, the mill-
The population, seduced by the houses, still has a desire to enjoy this.
to join cowards. She didn't know, of course, that the old cheeky fellow Garibaldi had long been from a German Jewish woman was guided and accompanied, which goes by the romantic name Elpis Melena in writes for the German Jewish newspapers and, if possible, against the Pope, the Catholic Church and Germany incites hatred. Her full name is Betty Sara Schwarz.
and is a Jewish woman from Frankfurt.

Because we were just talking about a Jewish woman from Frankfurt
Speaking of which, we would also like to mention that the envoy Napoleon III. during the former German Confederation, Count von Salignac-Fenelon, a Jewish woman from Frankfurt, to
She had a wife. She was a Miss Hertz by birth.
Her sister was the wife of the deceased Karl von Rothschild and mother of the current head of the Frankfurt Houses, Karl Meyer Rothschild. Her brother's name is Viktor Hertz, usually called Baron, is a game-tenant in Wildungen.

Benazet (Hebrew, Ben Azet, meaning the son of the Azet) was a French Jew and gambling tenant in Baden-Baden. Most of the hazard gamblers in our
The bathers are German or French Jews.

— 109 —

What now for the Count of Salignac-Fenelon?
As far as that's concerned, his family only adopted the name Fenelon... appended so that the insignificant name Salignac would be more brilliant. His father had one from Reinach from the Alsace as a wife and was the envoy of his time Napoleon I at the Darmstadt court. As such a
He arranged for the redemption of the Jews as chamberlains.
at the Prince Primate's residence in Frankfurt and received for it (see "The Jews in Frankfurt" by Bender) from the himself a gift in the amount of 35,000 guilders.

The Count of Salignac, the son who married the Jewish woman
Hertz, whom he married, had several children with her.
One daughter married Baron von Kübeck, who
He was the Austrian envoy to Florence at the time.
With her always red-rimmed eyes and the long
With her droopy nose, she looks truly Jewish. Her brother, the young, promising offspring of the former Bundestagsende and the Jewess Hertz, was with Jules Favre as Legation Secretary to the definitive peace agreement
That's it in Frankfurt am Main, and now I know what to do next.
Jews, to whom he is so closely related, and for whom
The Jewish community in general, all secret articles of the treaty,

Almost as good as the official ones. —

What swindlers are there among these French Jews?
and there are noblemen allied with Jews, of which there is one
For example, the so-called Prince of Crouy Chanel.
There exist two persons who are unlawfully Know the ancient name Croy and Crouy, as well as one the count~~r~~ and the other the prince~~r~~

— 10 —

title, enclosed. The Count of Croy~~r~~Chanel is an Indian from Frankfurt am Main named Joseph Gerothwohl, son of the merchant Menke Simon
Gerothwohl himself and Jette Gerothwohl, born
Falk. He married an impoverished woman in France.
alleged noblewoman named Croy-Chanel, the sister of another individual, the so-called Prince of Crouy~~r~~ Chanel. N'

The esteemed police councillor Nover in Giessen has
in-depth investigations into the Gerothwohl, which the
The name of the fine woman had been made. The Jew
According to the "Police Telegraph", Gerothwohl was therefore Year II, dated June 6, 1856, concerning Schwin~~r~~
deleien and name and title usurpation for two months
Sentenced to prison, and this verdict was upheld in all instances.
confirmed.

In the 1870s at the publishing house in Zurich
published small pamphlet: The Jews in Frankfurt
On the Main River, it says on page 51 (excerpt from the police report).
Telegraph, Year II, 20 September) about the
both Crouy:

It is also interesting to see from the same (namely the)
Reports by Police Councillor Nover) further police matters
Information about the Croy-Chanel family draws on
can, which also consist only of swindlers
appears to be of Jewish origin as well.
— the name and coat of arms of the ancient family de

Croy presumed to do so. It literally says:

"There is an old noble family of that name, which fine lineage from the Hungarian king Andreas III. derives the origin of the fact that it is the predikat "de Hongrie" and the central shield of the Hungarian Royal coat of arms, covered by the Hungarian crown is, leads. Gerothwohl's father-in-law, forest inspector in Laon in France, and his sons belong to this Genders, however, are not included, and are not authorized to... to bear the title of count. They have acquired it from that ancient count's family unlawfully usurped, whose-half a trial was being conducted against her."

— 11 —

In this respect, the imperial ruler of the state. procurator in Laon in his reply dated the 23rd. June 1857, literally said: "Gerothwohl est appelé" souvent Comte de Croy-Chanel, nom qu'il n'avait pas plus le droit de porter que son beaupeère lui-même, qui l'avait usurpé d'une des plus illustres Families of France." 0

Moreover, the above report in the police report states⁹ Telegraph highlights that the eldest son of Forstinspek⁹ Tors, whose first name is Heinrich, and who has been with the company since 1844. Peczel lived near Pest in Hungary, and furthermore, that whose second son is named August and lives in Paris, rue Montholon No. 24, lived. Finally we see from the fact that his daughter, Emerentia Franziska Paulina, who addressed a gentleman who called himself "Marquis".

9 According to this, this family would have been in the Gotha genealogy⁹ could not find a place in the pocketbook of the count's houses. Note from Police Councillor Nover regarding the above communication.

— 112 —

Ferrières - Sauveboeuf was married in 1855
 sentenced by the court for fraud and deception
 Laon was sentenced to five years in prison and that she died in the prison at St. Lazare in Paris. To the
 The oldest brother of this family succeeded, it is not known.
 By what means, recognition as a magnate in Hungary
 to obtain. The other brother, August, still wanted to higher up. He is the one who has been mentioned several times recently.
 imagined adventurer, who called himself Prince of Crouy-Chanel calls. We reserve the right to change this magnificent disappearance lers, who had the audacity to claim to be a descendant of to geriren the illustrious house and the one now in Frank-
 rich is serving a three-year prison sentence, under
 to examine the "Jewish swindlers" in more detail
 think. It goes without saying where this Jew
 The ancestral castle "Chanel" may be located there. The left one
 The main tower of the Citadel of David in Jerusalem was Cha-
 (na) nel called. |

The sons of the Jew Gerothwohl, who in a small towns near Friedberg in Hesse under the name
 Those de Crouy who were baptized Catholic were in Rollduc in Belgium, also named, in a pension. They play probably already under the same name somewhere.
 Role.

Besides that presentation, we have in France and Italy via the so-called Prince August of Crouy
 The following very interesting insights were obtained.

The French writer Regnault mentions in fine "History of the eight years 1840–48" of an-

— 113 —

alleged Marquis of Croy-Chanel, the Louis Buo-Naparte will soon take over the management of his journal "Das Kapital".
 I withdrew it again because the same person had turned it over to the police in Louis.
 I sold Philips.

The prolific German writer Max Ning, probably
He is also Jewish, mentions a Baron von Croy
Chanel, which owns a newspaper in Bonaparte's interests
I have edited it. Both are the same alleged prince or Prince August von Crouy-Chanel, who soon after the loss of the income he received from Napoleon III.
had referred to the Hungarians residing in Paris
fchen Emigranten keck&schlich und fie für fch zu knew how to win. Even the clever and insightful one General Klapka was deceived by him and for him taken over. He knew neither his own nor his own.
clean Mr. brother-in-law, the Jew Gerothwohl, Ante-Cedence. He didn't know that the Jewish gentlemen in France, in Italy and in Hungary the Hungarian Throne&Pretendancy of the alleged prince August supported and that one of his brothers in Hungary as a result of Jewish connections already became Mag was stamped with the name.

The "Lombardia" in Milan, which was frequented by many Jews being served, soon brought the following pomp articles that are liable:

"General Klapka had during his stay Several meetings took place in Paris with both the Prince Napoleon as with the ex-Hospodar of the Moldavia, to Prince Vogorides. The prince

Judaism in France.

x

had on his part confidential and almost uninterrupted sub talks with the Prince of Crouy&Chanel before his Departure for Genoa." a

The 1st August of Crouy went to Florence at that time,
to be at the court of the false and unequal “)
Dukes of Piedmont his claims to the riches

and to stimulate the allodial holdings of the House of Este.
In March 1862, the throne claim of the Crouy=Chanel has already gone so far that Ge=General Klapka felt compelled to write in the Parisian "Presse"
The following defense should appear: ;

"To the editor-in-chief of the "Presse." My Lord! An incident that could lead to malicious interpretations.
let's give, it compels me to consider the position of the Hungarian-to clearly depict the emigration. A French nobleman=The man, Prince Crouy of Hungary, offers his accommodation.
support for the liberation of the fatherland of his ancestors
drive. Since our cause, that of freedom, is for all.
Nations are a community, so we will always treat everyone the same.
Friend who wants to connect us, brotherly uptake. However, since the traditions of the de Crouy family to presumptuous friends or malicious enemies=have offered this knightly old man as a present tendencies to set up, and thus the patriotic work
the Hungarian emigration gave an adventurous air
To give, it is my duty to declare aloud that

The House of Sayoyen originates only in unequal lineage.
origin of the old Princes of Carignan.

— 15 —

We, the Hungarians abroad, unanimously protect against any private interest and against all pretenders, whoever they may be, from the battlefield of
They want to make freedom an arena for personal ambition.
We only recognize the will of the nation.
Our thoughts and our efforts have only
one purpose: to give the nation back to itself.
and to enable them to freely determine their own destinies
to be able to dispose of it. May the Prince de Crouy in Frank-rich Hungary awaken new sympathies and in the ent=at parting moments, we join our flag; we will know how to appreciate his feelings. In the
However, if his presence is not sufficient for the fulfillment of the obligation...

His mission could cause embarrassment, will
we appeal to his loyalty, and we are convinced that He will listen to us. Approve 2c. Turin,
March 27, 1862. Georg Klapka."

But the Prince Crouy-Chanel, the French
Edelmann, "the noble knightly old man," as he was called by the General Klapka, the fraudster's brother, was named Forières, the brother-in-law of the Jew Gerothwohl, was able
not resisting the urge to even acknowledge his ancestry
to demonstrate the purpose of Attila, the Hun king, and the purpose moderation of his accession to the throne in a brochure "The
to present "Sons of Arpad" (Paris 1862). In doing so, it fits
It pained him that he could not pay the printing costs,
and saw for themselves the French and German Jewish newspapers were forced to report on this under the heading of June 23rd.
Paris to report: ö

— 116 —

"The pretender who has recently emerged, Mr.
v. Crouy-Chanel, who called himself Prince August of Hungary calls itself, and is concerned with the crown of Saint Stephen so very hardworking, he had a trial to go through these days, who the majesty of his dynasty and the sanctity of fine inalienable legitimate rights were unpleasantly affected.
A paper merchant named Krantz had, in fact, told him
Credit delivered the paper on which he, with attachments help from a former people's representative, Mr.
Germain Sarrut, in a brochure "The Sons Arpad's" his unadulterated descent from Attila, the great Hunnic king, and the expediency of his throne presented the ascent. However, the paper was not presented.
pays and the paper merchant was hit with his Ford
The appeal is admissible. The court convicted Mr.
v. Crouy-Chanel for the payment of 2817 Fred. 40 c.
for the paper supplied to him by Krantz." Later, in 1863, Crouy published this brochure under the title: "The legitimate right of the Arpadi or the expectancy of the Princes of Crouy-Chanel on the Hungarian King translate "thron" into German and have it published in Chur by Leonhard

Heat printing. N

This writing, which is made from a fabric of the un-

The most shameful lies consist of and entirely invented Latinswho compiled the documents was killed by pestilence.

spread throughout Hungary by Hungarian Jews,

However, it found very little favor among the Magyars and Belief. N

Nevertheless, the brazen swindler dared to do it in

— 117—

Years 1865, even a letter to the Emperor of Austria-to judge His Majesty.

The same was dated from Turin, was from the Austrians-

It was reprinted several times in Reichish Jewish newspapers and read:

In excerpt form with some commentary:

Turin, September 19. Prince Crouy-Chanel has addressed a letter to the Emperor of Austria,
which can serve as a model of divine crudeness.

After the prince triumphantly announced that the Ge-grant the exemption of the Duke of Modena from the
not recognized by law, and thus not by the sovereign state.
vulnerability would have dealt a severe blow, he says.

continued: "This judgment is therefore the death sentence of your predecessors."

alleged divine legitimacy, because it is the presumption

rejects your paid scribes, who represent the peoples

like herds of domestic animals, which the emperor-

A lord can sell beautiful, ringing pieces of silver.

...Your rule in Hungary, Sire, exists without legal basis.

The basis of their existence, and since they have no right to exist

If it has this, it must collapse under itself, despite the brutal violence of the bayonets, which occurred during a battle-

day, if she doesn't break on her own, under the pressure of

will break public opinion, this absolute master-

shepherd of modern times through press, electricity and

Steam. Public opinion, therefore, will change with its time.

even in Hungary this judgment of the royal court-

to bring to fruition the courts of Modena, which your

Usurpation, proven by that of your royal cousin,

"Subjects to the sovereign equality of laws." The one — 118 —

The alleged prince demands from the emperor as his "last word" "nung" the convocation of a Hungarian Reichstag, and He means: if this does not happen, the Czar of Russia could no longer cope with the Hungarian Revolution can. i

But look, while the swindler seeks the kingdom= thümern des Haus fes Este und nach der Krone von Ungarn While fishing, it turned out that he was in France. He committed fraud, and that he was formerly honest Men through flattery and promises to had led to fraud. This was stated in the Frank= furter Didascalie of October 7, 1866 as follows:

(A monstrous trial.) On September 25th and 26th A trial was held before the Assassins of the Seine Department, who has already made a name for himself on many occasions, is negotiating. The former treasurer appeared before the jury. of the Sous-Comptoir des Chemins de fer, Delamothe Berthomé, and the printer and speculator Dupray de la Maherie, Both accused: The former, a part the funds entrusted to him amounting to 3,180,000 Franken through embezzlement and forgery during that time= space embezzled from April 1862 to May 1866, The latter, driven to these embezzlements and the by far the largest part of those stolen by Berthoms= to have knowingly spent the sum for oneself. There is also a third defendant, who in total 177,000 francs of this sum, also probably knowing how Berthoms obtained it, in had received him. This third defendant, who

— 119 —

preferred to stay on the hospitable soil of Italy

Waiting for the outcome of the trial is the famous Prince Crouy Chanel, the “descendant of Attila and Arpad the Great, most legitimate heir to the crown of the Saint Stephen and the lying estates of the former Duke of Modena,” for whom he is currently still is conducting a trial before the Italian courts. It even seems that the aforementioned prince is the unfortunate Berthomé, who up to the age of 60 used the pattern had been a reliable and honest cashier, led to the first embezzlements through the Promise, in the event of winning the Italian trial should be, the goods of the House of Este with him to their len. Dupray de la Maherie, the later by Crouy-Chanel Having become acquainted with Berthomé, he exploited the rich source to satisfy fine speculations and wastefulness lust in the magnificent way indicated above out. Incidentally, during the course of the process it turned out that it emerged that, to the severe detriment of the shareholders of the Sous-Comptoir, the cash register control only in a very It was conducted in an inadequate manner. There is no other way to explain it. It is impossible to explain that only after a period of time A deficit of over three million francs over four years. was established. Dupray de la Maheérie became seven-year forced labor, Berthomé, for whom the Ge allowed for mitigating circumstances as sworn, to five years Prison and each sentenced to a fine of 1000 francs theilt. In addition, both have contributed 3,180,000 francs in solidarity. to pay the Sous-Comptoir and the costs.

— 120 —

A special [action] will be taken against Prince Crouy-Chanel. Contumacial proceedings initiated.”

On June 13, 1867, it was once again stated in German Newspapers:

"Paris, June 8. The 74-year-old Prince Franz Clau" bins August de Crouy-Chanel, descendant of the Arpad family, Heir to the Crown of Saint Stephen and the title like the goods of the House of Modena-Este, appeared yesterday, after he had already been in contumaciam earlier-had been judged before the jury, in order to

to be held accountable for complicity in an under-Abuse of more than three million francs, perpetrated
to the detriment of the Sous-Comptoir des Chemins de fer.
Specifically, he is to be summoned by the already convicted cashier
This company desires significant sums and he
have to hold on, even though he knew that the same one would do this obtains sums of money unjustly. The jury...
They recognized him, despite the eloquent defense of the Advocates Nogert St. Laurens, as this co-accusation, with the admission of mitigating circumstances, culpable, and the
The court sentenced him to three years in prison.

Some time before, the Italian Ge
raise any claims at the highest instance
the allodial land of the illustrious house Este for not existing
The documents provided were deemed to be false.

Hungarian emigration has since become “the knight”
“Gentle old man” rejected his claims to the
The Hungarian throne now passes to the children of the Jews Gerothwohl, who bore the name "Gerothwohl"

—

— 121 —

de Croy=Chanel“ were baptized Catholic. Their uncle,
The King of Hungary, as far as we know,
No offspring. —

Jews also practiced medical fraud shortly before the collapse of the Second Empire. The following is the literal translation of an epistle which was written in September 1867 concerning the Jewish Zouave Jacob in appeared in various Parisian journals and some fools
rin and seduced many a fool, this Jew Jacob
also to follow:

"(Jacob, the healing Zouave.) Still today
 Signs and wonders occur, and Voltaire's Paris
 and Rousseau's sees itself amidst the industrial del-
 contemporary physical games transported back to earlier times
 of Cagliostro and St. Germain of infamous memory.
 Of course, the level of modern miracles is evident
 The ensuing power of the great French Revolution, and
 The principle of equality allowed the highest nobility and lowest working class simultaneously participate in the Deeds of a man known as "Jacob,
 le zouave guérisseux" recently left the whole of Paris in suspense received. Trombone player in the Versailles Zouaves Regiment, Jakob had already experienced this last year when he was in the camp.
 of Chalon, his wonderful healing power for the Suffering humanity has proven itself through the outflow
 of an electromagnetic fluid — and one knows,
 What a misuse of the word "fluidum" in sol-
 The things that are being done — revealed. In Ber-Sailles had the also gifted fine medical Be-

— 12 —

The treatments for emotional distress were continued with such success that the
 The reputation soon spread as far as Paris. And when the healing Zouave one day, at a friend's house, the Boilersmith Dufaget in La Roquette Street in Working-class district of St. Antoine, eating, even the sick housemaid by laying her hands on I don't know which-
 After the paralysis was freed, the rumor spread with thousands.
 and a thousand tongues reported the wonder throughout all Quarters. The gifted trombonist, who played before the lame,
 No longer able to help the crippled and sick of all kinds knew, felt compelled, by his regimental commander
 to request two mornings off work per week, in
 to whom he was permitted to stay in his friend's house
 to pursue his medical profession in Rue la Roquette.
 High influences granted him this permission. Entire Caravans of sufferers now confronted the unseen.
 barren house of the boilersmith, and sick of all
 Society classes wanted to be treated by the musician.
 deln lass, who smashed the crutches of the lame, them

looked into her face and shouted at her: "Go; I want
"It!" He then walked briskly away. Little
The faithful, whose number increased daily, told us this.
Day grew: especially since Count Chateauvillard, one of the belonging to the first families of the Faubourg St. Germain,
to the magnetic Jacob the basement of his house,
at the corner of St. Lazare Street and the Tour des Dames, made available so that he could attend there
Even the early morning hours have an impact on the fashionable world
Its electrical fluid could flow out.

— 123 —

always on the hunt for spicy mysteries
The so-called "small press" of the capital seized control of the promising material, and relied on the expense of the Zouaves, who quietly played his trumpet during his service hours
continued to blow, a whole legend unfolded, which one
It would hardly have been enough to bring dishonor to a half-saint.
In both the upscale and working-class neighborhoods, this took place
The number of sick people was increasing; Jacob was forced to here as there, similar to the Parisian omnibus.
This happens, to issue tokens to determine the order of
to stand firm against those pushing and shoving. Many often came three times.
and four times from afar, to no avail
to wander back, since the serial number is still...
She never let them get their turn.
The fact also drew wider attention from the press.
It became known that he had recently suffered a stroke.
paralyzed Marshal and Senator of France,
Forey, in his distress, also turned to Jacob,
that he then went to the country estate of the ailing high-ranking official,
to Bourg-la-Reine, and there to the paralyzed man
by a simple: "Go away, Mr. Marshal! I
wants you to leave!" the use of his limbs
I have reproduced it in the old way. That's when one had...
A miracle! Who would deny it? Some atheists
Writers called it a scandal; they demanded
an examination to either award an honorary diploma of Faculty for the healer, or the prohibition of a
A swindle that brings shame to the century,
to obtain: meanwhile certain circles were already preparing to

in Jacob a divinely sent messenger of grace
to look, who has come in this time of great need
be, to bring to the memory of mankind through an example to recall how strong the spirit can also be in Weaknesses, and the like.

Suddenly, like a bomb, it crashes into the fore and Against, the entire circle of the residence completely fulfilled, a letter from the Marshal's adjutant, Captain Bidault, who announced to the astonished world that his
The boss is by no means cured, that the miraculous power
the Zouave's actions at Forey proved ineffective.
The healer's method is probably capable of treating any potential to increase the latent willpower of the sick person so that a
immediate effect on paralyzed limbs achieved will be. The Marshal, through Jacob's fine supports be-robbers, have laboriously moved twenty paces away
towed. After such extreme exertion, however, the
The old state of helplessness has returned and the
The sick remained paralyzed, just as before. As always.
In France, once again the whole world had the initiative.
waited for the government's initiative to take the matter to the next level.
To bring clarity. Given the current state of affairs.
There was certainly no shortage of people here who would have helped the
The government has been accused of allowing the Zua
Let him have his way, if he really wants to heal.
would have understood, as those who criticized it, when
the government restricts "personal freedom", and
to the miraculous trombone player any further holiday-would have refused approval. The latter, of course, is...

now it has happened, and the man of the electromagnet
fchen fluidums, with his oval face, which boldly
curved nose, high forehead, red, thick

Barte, the full, sensual lips and the slightly forward
over bowed heads, whose ensemble strongly resembled the
The Semitic form is remembered, is, and will remain provisionally in assigned to the Zouaves Barracks of Versailles. "The seat
"The restrictions are lifted," announces the impatient One Leave a note for the desiring people in front of the now always ge closed front door of No. 80 in Rue la Roquette;
and the bakers, sausage vendors and wine tavern owners of the
They curse the high authorities who have ruled the surrounding area.
now such a rich source of income is blocked. The
But Zouave Jacob is the hero of the day in his Regiments. Admired by his comrades, he holds he considered himself a divinely gifted nature, which he naively Enough is established through a judicial investigation.
to want. But the good Parisians let their faith be denied.
do not assume that the fluid will emerge victorious from this Trials will ensue; for the children of Lutetia
They have always understood how to be both skeptical and believer at the same time.
Time too fine"

Besides Jacob, the healing Zouaves from among the Jews
In Paris, there were still a lot of medical professionals.
Charlatans of Jewish descent, of whom, however, only the
at least had studied medicine, but all of them
Doctors were called and their healing arts, as well as their miracles
medium, daily in the most diverse journals praise. For example, one could read: "Le Cerf's lichens

— 110 —

title, enclosed. The Count of Croy-Chanel is an Indian from Frankfurt am Main named Joseph Gerothwohl, son of the merchant Menke Simon
Gerothwohl himself and Jette Gerothwohl, born
Falk. He married an impoverished woman in France.
alleged noblewoman named Croy-Chanel, the sister of another individual, the so-called Prince of Crouy Chanel.

The esteemed police councillor Nover in Giessen has
in-depth investigations into the Gerothwohl, which the

The name of the fine woman had been made. The Jew
According to the "Police Telegraph", Gerothwohl was therefore Year II, dated June 6, 1856, concerning Schwindeleien and name and title usurpation for two months
Sentenced to prison, and this verdict was upheld in all instances.
confirmed.

In the 1870s at the publishing house in Zurich
published small pamphlet: The Jews in Frankfurt
On the Main River, it says on page 51 (excerpt from the police report).
Telegraph, Year II, 20 September) about the
both Crouy:

It is also interesting to see from the same (namely the)
Reports by Police Councillor Nover) further police matters
Information about the Croy-Chanel family draws on
can, which also consist only of swindlers
appears to be of Jewish origin as well.
— the name and coat of arms of the ancient family de

Croy presumed to do so. It literally says:
Ves gives an old aristocratic lineage of the name,

— 11 —

which fine lineage from the Hungarian king Andreas III. derives the origin of the fact that it is the pre-dikar "de Hongrie" and the central shield of the Hungarian Royal coat of arms, covered by the Hungarian crown
is, leads. Gerothwohl's father-in-law, forest inspector in Laon in France, and his sons belong to this Genders, however, are not included, and are not authorized to... to bear the title of count. They have acquired it from that ancient count's family unlawfully usurped, whose-half a trial was being conducted against her."

In this respect, the imperial gentleman of stateprocurator in Laon in his reply dated the 23rd.
June 1857, literally said: "Gerothwohl est appelé" souvent Comte de Croy-Chanel, nom qu'il n'avait pas plus le droit de porter que son beau-père lui-

Möme, qui l'avait usurpe d'une des plus illustres Families of France.“) ö

Moreover, the above report in the police report states
Telegraph highlights that the eldest son of Forstinpek
Tors, whose first name is Heinrich, and who has been with the company since 1844.
Peczel lived near Pest in Hungary, and furthermore, that whose second son is named August and lives in Paris, rue 'Montholon No. 24, lived. Finally we see from the fact that his daughter, Emerentia Franziska Pau-Lina, who addressed a gentleman who called himself "Marquis".

9 According to this, this family would have been in the Gotha genealogy could not find a place in the pocketbook of the count's houses.
Note from Police Councillor Nover regarding the above communication.

— 12 —

Ferrieres - Sauveboeuf was married in 1855
sentenced by the court for fraud and deception
Laon was sentenced to five years in prison and that she died in the prison of St. Lazare in Paris.
The oldest brother of this family succeeded, it is not known.
By what means, recognition as a magnate in Hungary
to obtain. The other brother, August, still wanted to higher up. He is the one who has been mentioned several times recently.
imagined adventurer, who called himself Prince of Crouy=Chanel
calls. We reserve the right to change this magnificent disappearance=
lers, who had the audacity to claim to be a descendant of
to geriren the illustrious house and the one now in Frank=
rich is serving a three-year prison sentence, under
to examine the “Jewish swindlers” in more detail=
think. It goes without saying where this Jew
The ancestral castle "Chanel" may be located there. The left one
The main tower of the Citadel of David in Jerusalem was Cha-
(na) nel called.

The sons of the Jew Gerothwohl, who in a small towns near Friedberg in Hesse under the name
Those de Crouy who were baptized Catholic were in Rollduc in Belgium, also named, in a pension. They play probably already under the same name somewhere. Role.

Besides that presentation, we have in France and Italy via the so-called Prince August of Crouy The following very interesting insights were obtained.

The French writer Regnault mentions in fine "history of the eight years 1840–48 of an-

=: 5:

born Marquis of Croy-Chanel, the Louis Buonaparte will soon take over the management of his journal "Das Kapital". I withdrew it again because the same person had turned it over to the police in Louis. I sold Philips.

The prolific German writer Max Ring, probably He is also Jewish, mentions a Baron von Croy-Chanel, which owns a newspaper in Bonaparte's interests I have edited it. Both are the same alleged prince or Prince August von Crouy-Chanel, who soon after the loss of the income he received from Napoleon III. had referred to the Hungarians residing in Paris fchen Emigranten keckûschlich und fie für sich zu knew how to win. Even the clever and insightful one General Klapka was deceived by him and for him taken over. He knew neither his own nor his own. clean Mr. brother-in-law, the Jew Gerothwohl, Antecedence. He didn't know that the Jewish gentlemen in France, in Italy and in Hungary the Hungarian ThronePretendancy of the alleged prince August supported and that one of his brothers in Hungary as a result of Jewish connections already became Mag was stamped with the name.

The "Lombardia" in Milan, which was frequented by many Jews being served, soon brought the following pomp-articles that are liable:

"General Klapka had during his stay
Several meetings took place in Paris with both the Prince Napoleon as with the ex-Hospodar of the Moldavia, to Prince Vogorides. The prince

Judaism in France.

x

Me

had finely detailed confidential and almost uninterrupted under-talks with the Prince of Crouy-Chanel before his Departure for Genoa.

The 1st August of Crouy went to Florence at that time,
to be at the court of the false and unequal “)
Dukes of Piedmont his claims to the riches
and to stimulate the allodial holdings of the House of Este.
In March 1862, the throne claim of the Crouy-Chanel has already progressed so far that Ge-General Klapka felt compelled to write in the Parisian "Presse"
The following defense should appear:

"To the editor-in-chief of the "Presse." My Lord! An incident that could lead to malicious interpretations.
let's give, it compels me to consider the position of the Hungarian-to clearly depict the emigration. A French nobleman-
The man, Prince Crouy of Hungary, offers his accommodation.
support for the liberation of the fatherland of his ancestors
drive. Since our cause, that of freedom, is for all.
Nations are a community, so we will always treat everyone the same.
Friend who wants to connect with us, brotherly uptake. However, since the traditions of the de Crouy family to presumptuous friends or malicious enemies-have offered this knightly old man as a present
tendencies to set up, and thus the patriotic work
the Hungarian emigration gave an adventurous air
To give, it is my duty to declare aloud that

The House of Sayoyen originates from an unequal lineage.
origin of the old Princes of Carignan.

— 15 —

We, the Hungarians abroad, protest unanimously.
against any private interest and against all pretenders,
whoever they may like, from the battlefield of
They want to make freedom an arena for personal ambition.
We only recognize the will of the nation.
Our thoughts and our efforts have only
one purpose: to give the nation back to itself.
and to enable them to freely determine their own destinies
to be able to dispose of it. May the Prince de Crouy in Frank-rich Hungary awaken new sympathies and in the ent-at parting moments, we join our flag; we will know how to appreciate his feelings. In the
However, if his presence is not sufficient for the fulfillment of the obligation...
His mission could cause embarrassment, will
we appeal to his loyalty, and we are convinced that He will listen to us. Approve 2c. e
March 27, 1862. Georg Klapka."

But the Prince Crouy-Chanel, the French
Edelmann, "the noble knightly old man," as he was called by the General Klapka, the fraudster's brother, was named Forières, the brother-in-law of the Jew Gerothwohl, was able
not resisting the urge to even acknowledge his ancestry
to present attila, the Hun king, and the two-moderation of his accession to the throne in a brochure "The
to present "Sons of Arpad" (Paris 1862). In doing so, it fits
It pained him that he could not pay the printing costs,
and saw for themselves the French and German Jewish newspapers were forced to report on this under the heading of June 23rd.
Paris to report:

— 116 —

"The pretender who has recently emerged, Mr. v. Crouy-Chanel, who called himself Prince August of Hungary calls itself, and is concerned with the crown of Saint Stephen so very hardworking, he had a trial to go through these days, who the majesty of his dynasty and the sanctity of fine inalienable legitimate rights were unpleasantly affected. A paper merchant named Krantz had, in fact, told him Credit delivered the paper on which he, with attachments help from a former people's representative, Mr. Germain Sarrut, in a brochure "The Sons Arpad's" his unadulterated descent from Attila, the great Hunnic king, and the expediency of his throne presented the ascent. However, the paper was not presented. pays and the paper merchant was hit with his Ford The appeal is admissible. The court convicted Mr. v. Crouy-Chanel for the payment of 2817 Fres. 40 c. for the paper supplied to him by Krantz." Later, in 1863, Crouy published this brochure under the title: "The legitimate right of the Arpadi or the expectancy of the Princes of Crouy-Chanel on the Hungarian King translate "thron" into German and have it published in Chur by Leonhard Heat printing. N This writing, which is made from a fabric of the un The most shameful lies consist of and entirely invented Latins who compiled the documents was killed by pestilence. spread throughout Hungary by Hungarian Jews, However, it found very little favor among the Magyars and Believe. " Nevertheless, the brazen swindler dared to do it in

— 117—

Years 1865, even a letter to the Emperor of Austria to judge His Majesty.

The same was dated from Turin, was from the Austrians It was reprinted several times in Reichish Jewish newspapers and read: In excerpt form with some commentary:

Turin, September 19. Prince Crouy-Chanel has

addressed a letter to the Emperor of Austria,
 which can serve as a model of divine crudeness.
 After the prince triumphantly announced that the Ge-
 grant the exemption of the Duke of Modena from the
 not recognized by law, and thus not by the sovereign state.
 vulnerability would have dealt a severe blow, he says.
 continued: "This judgment is therefore the death sentence of your predecessors."
 alleged divine legitimacy, because it is the presumption
 rejects your paid scribes, who represent the peoples
 like herds of domestic animals, which the emperor
 A lord can sell beautiful, ringing pieces of silver.
 ...Your rule in Hungary, Sire, exists without legal basis.
 The basis of their existence, and since they have no right to exist
 If it has this, it must collapse under itself, despite the brutal violence of the bayonets, which occurred during a battle-
 day, if she doesn't break on her own, under the pressure of
 will break public opinion, this absolute master-
 shepherd of modern times through press, electricity and Steam. Public opinion, therefore, will change with its time.
 even in Hungary this judgment of the royal court-
 to bring to fruition the courts of Modena, which your Usurpation, proven by that of your royal cousin,
 "Subjects to the sovereign equality of laws." The one

— 18 —

The alleged prince demands from the emperor as his "last word"
 "nung" the convocation of a Hungarian Reichstag, and He means: if this does not happen, the Czar of Russia could no longer cope with the Hungarian Revolution
 can. |

But lie, while the swindler seeks the Reichthümern des Haus fes Este und nach der Krone von Ungarn While fishing, it turned out that he was in France.
 He committed fraud, and that he was formerly honest Men through flattery and promises to had led to fraud. This was stated in the Frankfurter Didascalie of October 7, 1866 as follows:

(A monstrous trial.) On September 25th and 26th

A trial was held before the Assassins of the Seine Department, who has already made a name for himself on many occasions, is negotiating. The former treasurer appeared before the jury. of the Sous-Comptoir des Chemins de fer, Delamothe Berthomé, and the printer and speculator Dupray de la Maherie, Both accused: The former, a part the funds entrusted to him amounting to 3,180,000 Franken through embezzlement and forgery during that time= space embezzled from April 1862 to May 1866, The latter, driven to these embezzlements and the by far the largest part of those stolen by Berthomé= to have knowingly spent the sum for oneself. There is also a third defendant, who in total 177,000 francs of this sum, also probably knowing how Berthoms obtained it, in had received him. This third defendant, who

— 119 —

preferred to stay on the hospitable soil of Italy
Waiting for the outcome of the trial is the famous Prince Crouy Chanel, the “descendant of Attila and Arpad the Great, most legitimate heir to the crown of the Saint Stephen and the lying estates of the former Duke of Modena,” for whom he is currently still is conducting a trial before the Italian courts. It even seems that the aforementioned prince is the unfortunate Berthomé, who up to the age of 60 used the pattern had been a reliable and honest cashier, led to the first embezzlements through the Promise, in the event of winning the Italian trial should be, the goods of the House of Este with him to thei= Len. Dupray de la Maherie, later by Crouy-Chanel Having become acquainted with Berthoms, he exploited the rich source to satisfy fine speculations and wastefulness lust in the magnificent way indicated above out. Incidentally, during the course of the process it turned out that it emerged that, to the severe detriment of the shareholders of the Sous-Comptoir, the cash register control only in a very It was conducted in an inadequate manner. There is no other way to explain it. It is impossible to explain that only after a period of time

A deficit of over three million francs over four years.
was determined. Dupray de la Maherie became seven years of forced labor, Berthomé, for whom the Ge allowed for mitigating circumstances as sworn, to five years Prison and each sentenced to a fine of 1000 francs.
theilt. In addition, both have contributed 3,180,000 francs in solidarity.
to pay the Sous-Comptoir and the costs.

— 120 —

A special case is being brought against Prince Crouy-Chanel.
Contumacial proceedings initiated.”

On June 13, 1867, it was once again stated in German Newspapers:

"Paris, June 8. The 74-year-old Prince Franz Clau" Dius August de Crouy Chanel, descendant of the Arpád dynasty, Heir to the Crown of Saint Stephen and the title like the goods of the House of Modena-Este, appeared fed, after he had previously already been in contumaciam ver-
had been judged before the jury, in order to
to be held accountable for complicity in a sub-Abuse of more than three million francs, perpetrated
to the detriment of the Sous-Comptoir des Chemins de fer.
Specifically, he is to be summoned by the already convicted cashier
This company desires significant sums and he
have to hold on, even though he knew that the same one would do this obtains sums of money unjustly. The jury...
They recognized him, despite the eloquent defense of the Advocates Nogert St. Laurens, as this co-accusation,
with the admission of mitigating circumstances, culpable, and the
The court sentenced him to three years in prison.

Some time before, the Italian Ge
raise any claims at the highest instance
the allodial land of the illustrious house Este for not existing
The documents provided were deemed to be false.

Hungarian emigration has since become “the knight”
“Gentle old man” rejected his claims to the

The Hungarian throne now passes to the children of the Jews Gerothwohl, who bore the name "Gerothwohl"

—

— 121 —

de Croy=Chanel“ was baptized Catholic. Her uncle,
The King of Hungary, as far as we know,
No offspring. —

Jews also practiced medical fraud shortly before the collapse of the Second Empire. The following is the literal translation of an epistle which was written in September 1867 concerning the Jewish Zouave Jacob in
appeared in various Parisian journals and some fools=
rin and seduced many a fool, this Jew Jacob
also to follow:

"(Jacob, the healing Zouave.) Still today=
Signs and wonders occur, and Voltaire's Paris
and Rousseau's sees itself amidst the industrial del-=
contemporary physical games transported back to earlier times
of Cagliostro and St. Germain of infamous memory.
Of course, the level of modern-day miracles is evident...
The ensuing power of the great French Revolution, and
The principle of equality allowed the highest nobility and
lowest working class simultaneously participate in the Deeds of a man known as "Jacob, le zouave guerisseur" recently left the whole of Paris in suspense received. Trombone player in the Versailles Zouaves Regiment, Jakob had already experienced this last year when he was in the camp.
of Chalon, his wonderful healing power for the Suffering humanity has proven itself through the outflow
of an electromagnetic fluid — and one knows,
What a misuse of the word "fluidum" in sol=
What is being done in such a way — revealed. In Ver= Sailles, the so-called gifted one, had his medical Be=

The treatments for emotional distress were continued with such success that the
The reputation soon spread as far as Paris. And when the healing Zouave one day, at a friend's house, the Boilersmith Dufaget in La Roquette Street in Working-class district of St. Antoine, eating, even the sick housemaid by laying hands on I don't know which-
After the paralysis was freed, the rumor spread with thousands.
and a thousand tongues reported the wonder throughout all Quarters. The gifted trombonist, who played before the lame, to no longer help the crippled and the sick of all kinds
knew, felt compelled, by his regimental commander
to request two mornings off work per week, in
to whom he was permitted to stay in his friend's house
to pursue his medical profession in Rue la Roquette.
High influences granted him this permission. Entire Caravans of sufferers now confronted the unseen.
barren house of the boilersmith, and sick of all Society classes wanted to be treated by the musician.
deln lass, who smashed the crutches of the lame, them
looked into her face and shouted at her: "Go; I want
"It!" He then walked briskly away. Little-
The faithful, whose number increased daily, told us this.
Day grew: especially since Count Chateauvillard, one of the
belonging to the first families of the Faubourg St. Germain,
to the magnetic Jacob the basement of his house,
at the corner of St. Lazare Street and the Tour des Dames, made available so that he could attend there at ge-
Even the early morning hours have an impact on the fashionable world
Its electrical fluid could flow out.

always on the hunt for spicy mysteries
The so-called "small press" of the capital seized control of the
promising material, and relied on the expense of the Zouaves, who quietly played his trumpet during his service hours
continued to blow, a whole legend unfolded, which one
It would hardly have been enough to bring dishonor to a half-saint.

In both the upscale and working-class neighborhoods, this took place
The number of sick people was increasing; Jacob was forced to
here as there, similar to the Parisian omnibus.
This happens, to issue tokens to determine the order of
to stand firm against those pushing and shoving. Many often came three times.
and four times from afar, to no avail
to wander back, since the serial number is still... never let her get her turn. Then...
The fact also drew wider attention from the press.
It became known that he had recently suffered a stroke.
paralyzed Marshal and Senator of France,
Forey, in his distress, also turned to Jacob,
that he then went to the country estate of the ailing high-ranking official,
to Bourg-la-Reine , and there to the paralyzed
by a simple: "Go away, Mr. Marshal! I
wants you to leave!" the use of his limbs
I have reproduced it in the old way. That's when one had...
A miracle! Who would deny it? Some atheists
Writers called it a scandal; they demanded
an examination to either award an honorary diploma of Faculty for the healer, or the prohibition of a
A swindle that brings shame to the century,
to obtain: meanwhile certain circles were already preparing to

— 124 —

in Jacob a divinely sent messenger of grace
to look, who has come in this time of great need
be, to bring to the memory of mankind through an example
to recall how strong the spirit can also be in Weaknesses, and the like.

Suddenly, like a bomb, it crashes into the fore and Against, the entire circle of the residence completely
fulfilled, a letter from the Marshal's adjutant, Captain Bidault, who announced to the astonished world that his
The boss is by no means cured, that the miraculous power
the Zouave's actions at Forey proved ineffective.
The method of the healer is probably capable of addressing the potential to increase the latent willpower of the sick person so that a
immediate effect on paralyzed limbs achieved will be. The Marshal, through Jacob, his supporters be robbers, have laboriously moved twenty paces away-

towed. After such extreme exertion, however, the
The old state of helplessness has returned and the

The sick remained paralyzed, just as before. As always.
In France, once again the whole world had the initiative.
waited for the government's initiative to take the matter to the next level.
To bring clarity. Given the current state of affairs.
There was certainly no shortage of people here who would have helped the
The government has been accused of allowing the Zua-
Let him have his way, if he really wants to heal.
would have understood, as those who criticized it, when
the government restricts "personal freedom", and
to the miraculous trombone player any further holiday-
would have refused approval. The latter, of course, is...

— 25 —

now it has happened, and the man of the electromagnet
fchen fluidums, with his oval face, which boldly
curved nose, high forehead, red, thick
Barte, the full, sensual lips and the slightly forward-
over bowed heads, whose ensemble strongly resembled the
The Semitic form is remembered, is, and will remain provisionally in assigned to the Zouaves Barracks of Versailles. "The seat-
"The restrictions are lifted," announces the impatient One-
Leave a note for the desiring people in front of the now always ge-closed front door of No. 80 in Rue la Roquette;
and the bakers, sausage vendors and wine tavern owners of the
They curse the high authorities who have ruled the surrounding area.
now such a rich source of income is blocked. The
But Zouave Jacob is the hero of the day in his Regiments. Admired by distinguished comrades, he holds
he considered himself a divinely gifted nature, which he naively
Enough is established through a judicial investigation.
to want. But the good Parisians let their faith be denied.
do not assume that the fluid will emerge victorious from this Trials will ensue; for the children of Lutetia
They have always understood how to be both skeptical and believer at the same time.
Time to be.

Besides Jacob, the healing Zouaves from among the Jews
In Paris, there were still a lot of medical professionals.
Charlatans of Jewish descent, of whom, however, only the
at least had studied medicine, but all of them
Doctors were called and their healing arts, as well as their miracles
medium, daily in the most diverse journals
praise. For example, one could read: "Le Cerf's lichens

— 126 —

pomade infallibly cures every form of lichen
"Beating" is considered by the most renowned doctors to be the Solely helping means recognized and has wonderful Successes achieved."
; This Jew le Cerf is the descendant of the notorious tighten Cerf or Cervy, actually Mayer Hirsch, well during the time of King Jerome of Westphalia in Kassel, a Jewish barber or beard puller is. Since this business, however, is among the unbelieving French...
Zöisian Jews, who inhabited the despicable court of the former assistant Hieronymus Bonaparte decorated, was in poor condition because no one knew their origin should be experienced and they all like to be from distinguished French
If they wished to be considered of Roman descent, then he turned to to an easier and more pleasant one: he became a spy.
the French police. As such, he betrayed her the Baron Dörnberg's conspiracy thus brought a
A large number of brave German men plunged into the deepest misfortune.
When the throne of the miserable "Jewish boy" () to When things started to wobble, Cerf fled to Paris and He lived there by selling quackery to Jews who,
As is well known, many are covered in lichen. His

The reigning Grand Duke of Hesse is in possession of a Miniature portraits of King Jerome, which this weakness ling, in his time, the Hessian envoy at the court in Kassel, presented it as a gift to Count von G., the elder.
The old count always said, turning to his son: "Jerome
He had all the appearance of a Jewish boy!

His son and grandson continued this business and he
They fill the world with their disgusting advertisements.

A very similar person is the alleged doctor.
Henoque, actually named Enoch. He is a nearby relative of the Jewish Mr. Commercial Councilor He still, who was held in high esteem in Wiesbaden at that time Werthen Kreisen has played no small role.") This
Dr. Henoque calls himself "the Emperor's first honorary physician". from France" and fabricates a mouthwash, "which It eliminates all bad breath and leaves your breath pleasant.
prepared."

These Jews Cerf, Henoque, etc. are all together always ready to do everything possible in the capital of Fraukreich to undertake lichen charlatanic cures, as white land of the Jewish doctor Koreff such undertakings, and Unfortunately, there are always enough narrow-minded people who...
to listen to them and their promises of miracle cures
to give gifts and to be treated by them.

Also, the actions of Jews in England and of Jews in

The Jews in Wiesbaden always had dealings with the Parisians Jews had many curious connections. Under the date June 11th.
In 1864, the Frankfurter Journal reported: "Paris, June 8th. The local banker Emil Berld, son of the Privy Councillor of Commerce Berl in Wiesbaden, who met with the countess a few days ago du Tremblier de Chavigny married, is, according to certain information
"After, raised to the rank of count by the emperor." A member
The long-time editor of this Jewish family in Berl was also of the Frankfurt Oberpostamtszeitung, Hofrath Berl, grandfather of the well-known communist Jean Baptist von Schweitzer.

You can see how much good comes from Israel!

Germany manufactured miracle cures Hoff's malt~~er~~ extract and Morrison's pills are found in abundance in Paris~~er~~ lichen paragraph. However, it is primarily the so-called “pastilles fortifiantes”, which were introduced in 1869 and They were very common in Paris in 1870.
manufactured there by German Jews and by French Jews were expelled and are to suffer “a multi-year ordeal.”
"A proven remedy for a damaged sexual system."

Let us turn away from this abhorrent thing~~er~~ digen hustle and bustle, to look at the comical thing which Parisian Jews at the beginning of the war of 1870 with attempted the greatest audacity and impudence.

Just like the German Jew and optician Schlesinger fine times, as we have already reported, in Paris eyeglasses had sold, which infallibly called every eye disease~~er~~ len should, so a Jew Levi let shortly before the end~~er~~ March of the Paris Garrison on the Boulevards in 1870 to offer medals made of tin, which infallibly “every
"They should stop the bleeding." They were with unknown persons.
letters and with a snake which is coiled around a
A staff wound around it, adorned. Even the most capable
It was impossible for language experts to decipher the letters, similar to Hebrew script, a word to to form and decipher. The letters should be a~~er~~ were somewhat similar to the characters which the ring of Rabbi Falk Chek, which contained his Time to see Jakob the jeweler.

The medals were met with disbelief by the French.
However, they attracted very few buyers and disappeared.

soon, when they undertook to rescue the unfortunate Germans to expel workers, etc., from Paris and formally to launch a witch hunt against them. In this treisben were notoriously the French Jews for-immediately very active and incited hatred against everything that of German, but not German-Jewish origin.

For the most part, German Jews were allowed to live peacefully in They stayed in Paris. They were saved by their French faith.
bensgenossen stets für „Alsässer“ Ausgabe und, wo es concerned, in the interest of all Judaism turns. A German Jew named Fränkel, from whom We will discuss this in more detail later; he even became a member. of the Commune. He was primarily the one who later, after some other service at the International in London, the arrest of the Archbishop of Paris most zealously allegedly operated.

But we do not want to interfere with the course of events.
not to anticipate, but only to follow, and therefore report truthfully: when the news of the victory of

When the Germans arrived in Paris near Weissenburg, they dispersed.

the rabble gathered in Richelieu Street and had Not bad, I'd like to visit the French currency exchange offices there.
To plunder Jews. At the Jewish shop of Leon Dreher and Hirsch cheered the wild pack because a House clerk, intentionally or unintentionally who should have shouted the words: "Wissembourg est
A revenge from Sarrebruck, live the Prusse!"
But the clever Jewish boss of the exchange office had
The shop was immediately closed and covered with porridge.

Judaism in France.

— 130 —

written: Fermé jusqu'à la prise de Berlin. So a private telegram from the "Bund" newspaper in Bern inquired. He and his big-nosed clerks had, in their fear, assured that they were all French, Alsatians from Birth, except for that one who says vive la Prusse!

 called, but long since through the back door of the house ran away. After these fine tirades of the Ju-the and after giving some to the leaders of the pack
 He had been pressed five-franc coins into his hand, and it went on.
 The crowds gathered on the boulevards, where then instead of the Jews are a lot of other people than alleged Germans were grabbed and dragged into prisons were. From there, the almost powerless Re- dispatched guerrilla her in the state as one has just set her up-had grabbed, into prison, to the railway and after Germany. It goes without saying that the Germans Jews immediately at the outbreak of the movement their German Christian officials were dismissed and that even The Rothschild brothers did not fail to do this.
 These facts are in Independence, in Frankfurter Journal, im Berner Bund indeßen žon Enough has been discussed, and we'll leave it at that. Soon.
 now that the unfortunate German Christians have massedwas expelled from Paris, and soon after Then came the Battle of Wörth, won by the victorious Germans.
 armies won, Emperor Napoleon III was defeated at Sedan.
 captured, and the Empress fled to England was, began in which a long siege was in sight
 Paris has a formal Jewish government.

— 131 —

Cheeky Jude Cremieux pushed his way to the front again.
 ground and threw himself up to the minister. Beside him the Jew Gambetta, like the Jews Alphonse Esquiros, Pereira, Vieyra, etc. But these gentlemen Jews were very reluctant to welcome the arrival of the Germans to wait for armies before Paris, and only left their Christdear colleagues therein. Under the 13th of September
 In 1870 the Minister of Justice Cremieux went to Tours, with his officials, an excess of French Jews, whom he had already met during his earlier time as minister in the ministries, namely the Ministry of Justice, towards - had introduced the decree of the government in Paris.

Regarding which it read: The government charge Mr. Cremieux, minister of justice, de veiller au gouvernement des départements non envahis avec l'assistance de délégués de chaque ministre.

The Jew Cremieux now addressed those in question. Departments a brilliant proclamation, in which he the population of the same called upon: "to stand up against the invasion to raise up the strangers, to give them an insurmountable to put a dam against it and, according to the principles of the year True to form in 1792, to destroy the Germans!

After he shot himself on October 30, 1870 the position of Admiral Fourichon as Minister of War Having done this, he sent the Jews Esquiros and Gambetta, the secret order, all legitimist-minded people in high positions, prefects, etc., without further ado to discontinue.

He himself then appointed one of his creatures, the

— 12 —

Jew Pereira, to the prefecture in Orleans. When the victorious and wise General von der Tann entered this city took, he left the Jewish prefect in his Guarding the house almost like a prisoner. Despite that... long it was the Jew Pereira, connections with Cremieux to entertain, slowly advance the Army of the Loire and — given the little haste which the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg showed — the brave Bavarians from the France to drive back the scum. The Jew Alphonse Esquiros (author of "The Montagnards", in which the hideous The murderers of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette portrayed as exceedingly noble people) innkeeper meanwhile in Marseille with almost unrestricted Power. Gambetta issued law upon law, horrifying the most honest people in their positions and worked for the projected future Jewish kingdom, or rather, for one consisting solely of Jewish-formed government.

Württembergische Blätter behaupteten um die Zeit, under February 13th, Gambetta is the grandson of a Jews A. Gamperle from Munderkingen in Württemberg mountain. This was at the beginning of our century, to During the Continental System, I emigrated to Genoa.
I myself traded in surrogate coffee and, after who changed his German name to Gambetta transforms, himself with an Italian Jewish woman Married. Always in connection with German Jews, Gambetta also has a German one now, in February 1871.
a Jewish private secretary. But this Jew had the well-known thefts at the armory depot in Mainz directed where many thousands of captured Khafsepot rifles were taken had been brought from France. From Mainz

— 133 —

They went to Stuttgart and from there via Trieste transported back to France. Notoriously is that in Stuttgart in the month of January 1871 a
A very well-known Jewish family, who were married to the secretary Gambetta's, which bears the same name, suddenly with "Children and all" were taken in, under the Ver thought he had forwarded the Mainz rifles. They
But I was lucky enough to soon be back against Caution.
to be dismissed; for the rich Jews in Stuttgart-gardens should be at the court of King Karl of Württemberg Berg has two relatives by marriage who are at every opportunity to energetically advocate for them and the Jews accept at all. A While these clever thefts took place in Germany had taken place, and the German army went from victory to victory Step, Gambetta ran a business in France after Her-
He summoned Garibaldi, who with the Munde accomplished the greatest deeds, in reality
but was beaten everywhere. This talkative man
It is, as far as we know, not of Jewish origin,
But he had been the tool of the for many years.
Jews. As a companion, she had already... for some time a German Jewish woman named Ms. Esperanza Schwarz was assigned which novels writes and composes his bombastic proclamations, refp. respectively, always designing. She calls herself with a Greekized Name Elpis Meläna. It appeared in 1865 (?).

— 134 — i

She wrote a novel for Mauke in Jena under the title Title: "The Young Stilt Walker." Whether it contains...
We do not know what her lover is talking about; but it
We have been told that "the Jewess Schwarz the
The main reason is that Garibaldi conquered France in the year
"I offered my invaluable services in 1870."
he and his gang really let loose and had a proper time
The Jewish woman could, of course, be told that she would be sent home.
cannot be predicted!

While outside, outside the metropolis of Paris,
the Jews Cremieux, Gambetta, Esquiros, Pereira and | w.
etc. to the best of his ability, intrigued and commanded, worked the Jewish community within the besieged city best for the dissolution of all ordered states. With all Types of food which you should avoid before the Bela Having invested heavily in the gerung, the Jews drove the most hideous usury. Their newspapers Press, Coche, La Sociale, le Rappel, etc., incited hatred in every way.
against Germany. People like the brother of Actress Rachel, the Jewish theater director Ra phael Felix, (who founded the theater in 1865)
Lyon was so badly managed that on August 1, 1865
a formal uprising broke out against him,) laid Ge Wearing the uniform of the National Guard, they gave speeches from horse down and tried to reach the unfortunate population to upset even more. Even the shameless courtesan and English Jew Kora Pearl, who was the Jew Offen bach in 1869 to the Theater des Bouffes

What Paris had brought spread.

★

— . 135 —

On October 31, 1870, this was reported.
Messalina, that she the English flag — the large Coat of arms of England — on their house in the Rue Chaillot had it raised. The inhabitants of the
The people of the street immediately protested to the English envoy.
He argues against it because the flag represents a state, whose strict morals were known. Meanwhile, “the Embassy Secretary Woodhouse temporarily granted the Jewish woman her Will, because he first had to understand international law 9 in order to
to find a precedent!

During this and similar incidents, from the side
The Jew Alphonse Esq had been one of the Jews in Paris Quiros, the friend of the Jew Cremieux, to the Admini-strateur supérieur du département in Marfeille - thrown. By decision of the same dated October 13.
In 1870 the legitimist Gazette du midi was founded for im-suspended by him. On the same date, seque

He confiscated the possessions of the Jesuits and ordered them to within Leaving France in three days. Towards the end of October.

He even made the audacious attempt to name the Rhone Departments of France, or rather of Paris, entirely unabto make it dependent. He appointed himself "Dik".
Tatar of the RhoneMouths!

But this would turn out badly for him; for the
was first astonished by his outrageous audacity and then The outraged population of Marseille soon forced him to place his power in the hands of one of Paris to lay down the newly appointed prefect and into his former

Nothing to resign. But the French complained about that. Jewish newspapers soon responded with the following words:

Marseille. Esquiros has resigned, “the death and the desolation in his heart,” as he said in his farewell speech. The proclamation states, in order not to use the pretext for citizen-to wage war. This also applies to Marseille, ühn- Just like in Paris, the Republic over the Commune, the political forces have triumphed over the social revolution. Wear it. For how long! That is still the question.

While Jud Esquiros was arbitrarily in Marseille After switching on the gears, Mr. Cremieux also let himself be helped, One edict after another against Germany, against the To unleash Jesuits against the clergy, etc. The high-ranking state officials, whom he knew to be opponents of Jewish persecution and conservative in their thinking, He had him imprisoned without charge or investigation.

Among other things, on November 11th he ordered the Arrest of the President of the Civil Tribunal in Toulon, of an already old man, who had a reputation for being to belong to the legitimist party. Next to the same, he had he in the south of France a lot of smaller and higher remove the officials from their posts and switched under the guise of justice and e Completely arbitrary.

Meanwhile, the Germans marched confidently. On and on, and Paris finally fell. However a moment of extraordinary weakness caused the Graß Bismarck's peculiar leniency: Paris only partially to be occupied, and thus to the Jews and the To give free rein to the rabble of this city.

The consequence of this course of action was the formation of the Commune, in which, in particular, many Jews who became active and joined the same raised. One of the most important of this Commune. With One of the members was the Jewish scion Assay, who was everywhere in front of urged Rigault to arrest the unfortunate man as soon as possible. Archbishop Darboy's ecclesiastical motive. That the Jew Vieyra Having been Chief of the General Staff of the National Guard, As we have reported before, he served as its general. already a certain Lavöstine in his time, who perhaps was a German Jew named Löwenstein. At the The colonel of the 88th Battalion soon also stood in Commune. of the National Guard named Oak Leaf, an Alsatian A Jew, held in the highest esteem. The Jewish Doctor Herzfeld was appointed by her as "Director of the Outpatient Clinics" named. At the beginning of April, this Herzfeld complained, only to To sow discord, the occupation of Mont Valerien at the Commune accused of "not respecting its flag!" On April 5, Pascal Grousset, "Delegate for the foreign affairs," to the foreign powers a statement in which he "requested recognition of the direction of the Commune requested and greetings and brotherly regards of the Commune offers all nations."

Around the same time, at the beginning of April, the German Jew and revolutionary (from the year 1848) Marx on The London-based "Daily News" wrote: "That he already in February in London with Blanqui and Assay the current

fx

— 133 —

The claim that I prepared a revolution in Paris is not true. However, they both had him in London around this time. visited and the journals in Versailles claimed, Marx was already appointed Secretary General of the International representatives for England and Italy have been appointed. Be that as it may, what is certain is that the German Jew Marx in London all the threads for the formation of the Commune in the Hand held and the Lemberg Jew Leo Fränkel two once sent him to Paris with papers because he wanted to survive.

of the black cabinet, which knew all letters that went to The documents for the Commune arrived in Paris by post, opened by the Jews Simonet, Marseille and Prost left out which board members of the same were. Fränkel was immediately after Marx's letters were handed over to him as a member raised the Commune and distinguished himself in it through very particular worthlessness and urges to The capture of the unfortunate clergyman. He stood at the head of one of the Jewish lodges, which was founded in March in the city held public parades in costume and their They planted emblems on the ramparts. The Rite Mis-Raim, as we already know from the Jews Beédarride donated, distinguished itself in particular. From it
The "Association of the Children of Japheth" is also said to have emerged from this.
gen fein, which consists only of Jews and to just following the Freemasons' demonstrations of that time contributed to the hate speech against Germans.

"Association of the Children of Japheth for Mutual Un-Support and charity. Paris, March 10, 1871.
Mr. Editor! The Association of the Children of Japheth, which

4

— 139 —

most important Israelite society in Paris (700 members), unanimously approved the following at his meeting yesterday.
adopted the existing resolution: "Single article. From the Ver-are excluded and can never return to the-
All those members who are of a the nation involved in the last war against France
"I urge you, sir, to grant this Decisions to be recorded in your journal 2c. 2c."

Already in the months of November and December, the Jewish rabbis delivered their sermons in the various Synagogues in Paris repeatedly cursed and swore-equipped with weapons against the Germans. About the main-
The Allgemeine Zeitung reported on the most factual of these speeches.

under January 1, 1871 in its supplement No. I. word
The following:

The "Correspondence Havas" reports the following:
about a magnificent Jewish religious celebration which took place in Paris on December 19th in the Consistorial Temple instead found. Solemn prayers were to be offered for the peace of Israel.

Lithuanian dead who fell on the field of honor are, held and alms for the widows, wounded and the children of the fallen are gathered. After The sounds of songs from the Psalms of David could be heard.
prayer of liberation. The Chief Rabbi of Paris, Mr.
Jadon Kann climbed the pulpit and prayed for the number rich Israeli heroes who fought for the liberation of their They have fallen in service to their fatherland. He spoke in eloquent words.
he is one of the most famous, like Commandant Fran Chette, from the lesser-known ones, such as the numerous

Soldiers mowed down in the middle of the army ranks.
The Chief Rabbi of France, Mr. Isidore, spoke then a prayer for France and cursed in her
In Bener's language, the scourge of war: "God," he said.
He "blesses the holy wars, those of liberation;
God curses the wars of conquest and glory.
Geizs. The Maccabees, David, whose psalms we Those who sang are the chosen ones of heaven, the conquerors, Stained with blood and golden laurels, they are cursed.
"Before God!" The ceremony was about to conclude with a collection, when the secretary of the Consistoria, Mr.
Albert Cohen, well known among the poor of Paris, took the floor and said some moving words to the attendees.
Listener addressed: "There are more than 100,000 (I) Jews in the Prussian army; they do their duty as Prussians Ben, but her heart is French, for it is the fiegrich France from 1792, to which they granted their independence
We owe it all. Let us pray for them, my friends, and then-
We know here the Frenchman, who is Minister of the Aus foreign is. In a Jewish crowd at Ferrières

He magnanimously spoke words of peace, in
In a Jewish house, our enemies have betrayed the God of | Mercy and humanity are offended by this.
They spurned to listen to our government. Justice!
God's grace will be practiced!

Many notables attended this ceremony;
The following are mentioned: the HH v. Rothschild, Anspach, Ere-mieux, Halphen, Cohen, Levy, Lazare and others. w.; then again

— 141 —

a large number of officers from the army and the national guard.

The wars of conquest, "which God has cursed," are only referring to the war of the Germans against the Jews were forced to move to France. To the masses of one hundred thousand Jews in the Prussian army can-We do not believe that Mr. von Roon, the Prussian War Minister, only a few Berlin Landwehr officers jücalled up German tribesmen for the militia when the war against France began. Even the common Jews were held accountable.
One stayed as far away as possible and let some who were in front of the feared fire and complained of chest pains, gladly to-back. That the hearts of many Jewish soldiers in the
We don't want to mention the German army being "French".
Doubt. We find it very naive of the Al-Bert Cohen, who thinks the Germans "have the god
"of mercy" was insulted when they spurned it,
to hear from the French government.

Perhaps it is appropriate here to mention the lovely Anek-
to think, which the otherwise Jewish-friendly Cologne Newspaper in the second quarter of this year with-shared. She recounted: "A Berlin Jew had in a Battle noticed a French Jew, who was a carried a standard decorated with an eagle, and the-
He waved to him most kindly as a fellow tribesman.
to dispense the same. The Frenchman also gave him the-
the same under the condition of the "half part" without a fight handed over. Returned to the North German Residence, The Berliner did not receive the advertised wage for his

— 142

received a weapon deed, but then his tribesman told in a very cozy way how it happened with the eagle, whereupon all those present (at a ceremony in his honor) (given lunch) was highly praised for his intelligence
would have.

That among the members of the Commune a lot Jews were, and that most of the writers who
The fact that the journals edited by the same people, including Jews, is quite... well-known. The May brothers, formerly gemstone dealers.
in Paris, under the Commune Generalintendants, are German Jews. Assy was founded in 1832 after the "Liberté".
Born a German Jew. Da Costa, the director of the prison Mazas, was from a Parisian Jew~~s~~ family who claim to be from Spain and to be of noble birth Proclaims origin. To the unfortunate Abbé Deguerry he said, before he had him led to his death,
"He was once a Moravian brother, then a Carthusian, then had been a Mormon." The latter, he claimed, pleased him.
him most of all! Finance Minister Picard is out a Geneva Jewish family. He was formerly a lawyer, had appointed himself minister on September 4, 1870 and Assy interrogated him while he was imprisoned. But Assy wanted to tell him
He did not answer, but only said: "Picard would We are fortunate to have him and the other members of the community.
to defend his wife when he is not serving as minister would be." Dr. Herzfeld, who was under the Commune
The director of the ambulance was a German Jew.
The citizens Chouteau and Baroque (Baruch) are German~~s~~ of Jewish origin. The sub-governor of Fort Bi-— 143 —

-

Furthermore, Thaller (Thalles), was also Jewish. That the the infamous Leo Fränkel, who was in London with Marx conferirte, a German-Polish Jew from Lemberg jet, This has long been known. He searched from Paris in June 1871. to escape, however, was disguised as a fiacre driver Coachman arrested and imprisoned in the Rue d'Alsace. Meanwhile, nothing more was heard from him, and it is probably that the Jews of the current government him, like most of the captured Jews, was soon released. let them jump.

Things went even worse for the Jew in June 1871. Gaston Cremieux, relative of the well-known, co-members of the Marseille government under Esquiros, a the boldest leaders of the Jews in southern France. According to a letter from a Swiss resident there to the Schaffhausen newspaper, he was there on the 28th. Sentenced to death by a court-martial; with him Etienne and Selesians; the latter a German Jew named Schlesinger.

Of the remaining members of the Commune falvirten The Jewish [context] in such a temporal way that one [context] when taking [context] Paris found almost none of them left. The pussies However, things were not quite so simple for the writers. Good. Louis Ratisbonne, from the well-known Alsatian Ju The family was arrested in Versailles at the end of May. He had in the interest of the Commune in the Journal of the De bats written. f |

In June, the writer Andre was arrested. Leo, a Jewish woman and editor of the journal: "La Social." On the 8th of the same month, the whole Editorial staff of "Rappel", one of the main screams leaves of the Commune, made from French and German Jews, including one Paul Meurice (Moritz), arrested. (A relative of his, a Jew named Meuricc, led (formerly the Thalia Theatre in Hamburg.) The same were taken to Chartres prison. Felix Pyat, at Viktor, who had been warned by a Jew, had escaped.

— 11411 —

Hugo, who with his peculiar nature his Sibylline
The article in the "Rappel" uses the words of The Jewish prophet Job concluded: "One is Leviathan, the
The statement "other is Behemoth!" was not researched. Paul Meurice wrote in his genre shortly before the fall of Paris the following article:

"The terrible turn in this horrible war
It happened later than in Versailles, earlier than as one had believed in Paris. May it now be a case of overpowering... lung or treason had been fine, the troops of Mr.
Thiers crossed the fortifications almost without hindrance.
steps, and there we have in our heaps and in our streets the fight, the duel man against A man caught between citizens and soldiers. We, who we every day since the beginning of this terrible war
An hour of peace and harmony was advised and brought forth.
They pleaded, what can we say today? Versailles Ver
To request reconciliation? That would mean begging for mercy. Paris To propose reconciliation? That would mean taking courage.
to weaken and wound in one's honor. "Too late!"
"Late!" This desperate cry is all that remains for us.

— 145 —

And silently we must shed the blood of our dear

Paris flowed in streams. We always have hunts and we repeat: we find against the National-assembly, but we are not in favor of the Commune. What We defend what we love, what we admire, is Paris! We are for Paris because Paris is also France.

"Is." And now we continue in Hugo-esque phraseology.

The "Rappel" bowed in Slavic reverence.

the Commune, but because there were so many Jewish elements who boasted about it, were spared when the “Avenir National” and the “Justice” were sentenced to death. Paul Meurice, the Jew, was, as already mentioned, after Chartres transported. Other employees, namely the Jew who was primarily responsible for the arrest of the operated by the ill-fated Archbishop Darboy, they escaped after London and to Germany, where the “Alliance universelle” will undoubtedly have taken her up; For they sit there in leisure and have life to live.

More cautious and less compromised Jews, such as For example, the Jew Louis Ulbach, who was well-behaved, fine hate-mongering rag "Die Glocke" edited, used

They also felt comfortable around their friends. That's what several sources said. Journals, after the wealthy private citizen Laurent Pichat lost-liable, who had an income of 200,000 francs owned and was said to have had a very good relationship with the community:

"Paris, June 9, 1871. My dear colleagues! Your Journal announces the arrest of Laurent Pichat, my friend, as a follower of the Commune. They are either reported incorrectly or this leads to a distorted view.

Judaism in France.

“

— 11 —

It became a hideous evil. Laurent Pichat was no For a minute, supporters of the Commune. He served with all forces in the government's cause, and especially in I was hidden in my house for six weeks. If this is grounds for persecution, then the sentence falls under the law. thought of me too. Please publish this letter.

for I want to fully reward you for the merit of the report
Let the thing happen. But beware, through Publication of unfounded news about the De to become nunciants. Entirely yours. Louis Ulbach."

When, after the conquest of Paris in June 1871 the various correspondences of the subordinates and the supporters of the Com- in high positions
When they found the place, they discovered how Jews were being treated in various locations.
with the state funds and riches of France had been dealt with. But nothing seems stranger than the humorous letters which are in the area of the Jewish brothers May, former gemstone dealers, found the General Intendant's office. Among them was the name... it can be summarized as follows:

"French Republic. National Guard of the Seine" Departments. General Staff. Dear Citizen! Promise bonuses are obligatory. (One man, one word.) With You have shown me the warmth that characterizes you Promised: 1) two double-edged rapiers and with tassels; 2) cigars; 3) boxes of preserves and especially with asparagus; finally, alas! two barrels Wine, one with Burgundy, the other with Bordeaux.
For the past 8 days I've been like Anna from Schweft: I see

— 147 —

Nothing will come. His eripe me, invicte, malis! (Redemption (Please protect me from this evil, you invincible one!) Greetings and Fraternity. Paris, April 27, 1871. The General
Place commander. A. La Cscilia."

It is natural that Mr. Eecilia will do everything Er-
What was desired and demanded was received on time. But not only that.
Only the Jews distributed and divided such things.
Not a single saucepan was left in the case of the General Intendant's office, when the Versailles arrived there. The
The May brothers had joined the other Jews after London was saved and they were undoubtedly not poor there.
arrived. Soon, one noticed a (in England's very costly agitation for the return the Orleans family, while the last offspring ling of the Bourbons, Henry V, Duke of Bordeaux and the Count of Chambord, to be suspected in every way sought. About this unfortunate prince (to whom, when he, was still young, a Jew, a constantly overstepping horse in the most cunning way*) sold, which dropped him and caused him to break his leg,) they mocked Jews in the Morning Advertiser soon in the following manner:

The crown of Saint Louis is not yet in place?
reborn once again on the head of his "God-given"
"Grandson," and already a pretender arises. One believes himself to be in the times of the false Demetrius and Se-

Isidor Kaim, a Jew, wrote in 1848 in the
The article "The Jews and" appeared in the Leipzig-based "Neue Zeit".
the revolution" stated the fact he knew: "A Jew had "They blew up the gates of the Louvre first!"

— 148 —

Bastiane is disappointed when one visits the London "Morning Advertiser" a very long protest with the signature reads of a great unknown who calls himself "August of "Bourbon." Who is August von Bourbon? A direct and legitimate offspring and heir of the crowned "Martyrs" from the Temple — he replies. The Say that the little Dauphin (among the Legitimists under the name Louis XVII. known) in the boarding house
The end of the Republican shoemaker Simon Found, as is well known, is not new. One in Silesia deceased man named Neumann, and various Other mysterious personalities of his time boasted of the silent claim, this lost to be heir to the crown of Louis XIV. "August
"of Bourbon" turns out to be in the London manifesto now also as a son of this Louis XVII, with the already known claim that the latter was in the Temple with exchanged with the son of the prison guard Moëves-

before he reached his ninth year. "It
"That would be a great relief to me," it says.
in the manifesto that leaves no room for any idea of fusion wants to give — "if Count Chambord or any Historians need sound evidence, or better yet...
Provide documents to substantiate the statement could be that the son of Louis XVI and Antoinette
He died in the tower of the Temple in June 1795.
Those who, according to the currently publicly available...
Those who believe this based on evidence are suffering from a delusion.
schung. Incidentally, should Count Chambord or the ver-

— 149 —

melted party the right of succession to the throne

If they wanted to establish a right to legitimate inheritance, then they would

I, the son of Louis XVII of France, hear.
demand. In the name of France, I raise my Objection to all plans which have the purpose of, the Count of Chambord as the legitimate heir of the

to recognize the throne of France."

Not "a man who died in Silesia Na

It was "mens Neumann" who advocated for the one through the

Shoemaker Simon slowly tortured the Dauphin to death

Louis XVII spent, but it was the Jewish

Watchmaker's apprentice Nauendorf, who at the instigation of the Jews falsely boasted that the son of the unfortunate- « King Ludwig XVI and Marie Antoinette to be.) Namely, when under the reign of Ludwig Philipps, the legitimists with their claims for Hein-Rich the Fifth — son of the Duke of Berry and grandson of Charles X — in the Chamber of Deputies in the

The noise grew louder, and suddenly it appeared in Spandau near Berlin.
a Jewish watchmaker's apprentice named Nauendorf appeared, who impersonated the Dauphin. The Prussian
The government, however, soon discovered the Jew's mendacity.
on the trail and he had to (by the Berlin Jews, though) (secretly supported) flee to Holland, where the Jews and their descendants are found to be influential outside of Außerft. There KOM in at he was notoriously wise of fine

5 The hideous shoemaker Simon, who gave the poor un-
He boasted of being Jewish, having tortured the fortunate Louis XVII to death.
Originating from [the region]. Oral communication from the Lord of Courschamps.

— 150 —

They practically fed fellow believers. They also brought his eldest son Eduard Nauendorf as an engineer in Dutch service. He called himself Edward, though-just like he was at his belated circumcision in the synagogue who had been called "Nathan" in Delft. The Jews
They saw him as a second contender for their "power."

In 1851, they caused Edward (Nathan) Nauendorf, through the lawyer Jules Veve at the
To submit the application to the courts in Paris: "the dead-
to have Louis XVII's document declared invalid."
At that time, the Jew Anspach was not yet a general-
State prosecutor and the Jew Cremieux not yet minister;
There were still few Jewish people in beautiful France.
Lawyers and officials and their ridiculous pretensions
Jules Veve and Nauendorf's work failed miserably.

Now, in June 1871, the younger brother joined the family.
This same "Nathan", who in Judaism is called Eli, and also cut in Delft, under that name August up to manage the affairs of the Bourbons-confusion and Henry V, the noble, truth-proud To harm princes who would rather give up their rights, when he betrays his convictions. But the Jews

They themselves are now staying away from this August (Eli), since it has become known to them that he is in Holland and East India, in the Jewish style, has already seen all sorts of fraudulent activities. He practiced, but was punished for it. — This Eli Nauen-village, vulgo August von Bourbon, is with his whole To put the family in the same class as the infamous Alsatian Jew Deutz, who stood up for the Count of

— 151 —

Gonzaga issued, with this beautiful name from 1830 to reached the Duchess of Berry and this energy- A Greek woman betrayed Louis Philippe. Both the Jews Nauendorf, father like Böhne, when the Jew Deutz were and are merely tools of Judaism in France, which is trying to woo the last Bourbon and seeks to keep him away from the throne, because he is an honest and is an honest man who openly shares his opinion with everyone. speaks out and perhaps one day shows them where to their path leads them.

About the one who was chosen by many honest men in Frank rich, despite all the intrigues, recognized as king or But the legi reported the longed-for Duke of Bordeaux~~ε~~ The following appeared in the Timiști journals on June 7, 1871: "The 'Union' publishes a proclamation by the Count Chambord of the 5th century. He indicates that he will be a castle. to leave Chambord to avoid any pretext for agitation to give; only France knew that he was to the father~~ε~~ He belongs to the country. He will never forget his duties. which imposed monarchical law upon him. Count Chambord protests against this view, as if he wanted to to revive the old feudal tithes and rights call. He simply intends to raise the white flag again. to plant, under which national unity is created was. Henry V could raise the white flag of Henry IV. do not leave." The proclamation is the expression of a of high and noble character! But the Jews in France They merely mocked and ridiculed her, just like that. like their ancestors a hundred years ago who suffered misfortune~~ε~~

The martyrs Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette mocked, ridiculed, and drove them to bloodlust.

But this Jewish machine will soon come to an end.
that and perhaps then the crown of Saint Louis shine in new splendor.

Despite the Jew Jules Simon, who was in Alliance with the Orleanists to become Minister of Education Thrown, the government in Paris, at the top
the witty Thiers and the well-meaning Favre,

their straight path to better goals than France.
had wanted to realize this for a long time. Renan, the clever Jew and Twisters of the Holy Scriptures, (who, like the Jews leaves said, with Simon, to make themselves and him popular to make, supposedly the works of art and libraries saved from being burned, after the Commune (already defeated) is from the various Par parts are no longer highly regarded because one's character has recognized Latinism, and Simon will probably hope I will also soon be leaving the Ministry of Education.
must. Others will follow the two choir leaders. hiking. Already on June 12, 1871, the
The current Minister of War issued a decree "by which all the actions taken by Gambetta in the army Appointments which go against the usual practice
"Conditions violated, were cancelled." Also Gambetta himself will soon be completely obsolete.
Although the Parisian Jewish newspapers intrigued greatly,
through the "Committee of the Paris Press Union", the "Comite der Rue Turbigo" and the "radical committee" the to enforce Gambetta's election; but all of Paris knows that almost only Jews voted for him. When

Therefore, in the first arrondissement, the “youngster” Gustav Fould, son of the minister, who, at the same time, the aforementioned made a diplomatic trip to the Orient, as a resignation^s arranged in proposal brought, felt the same brilliantly through, despite a public declaration that he was to identify as a moderate Republican. Even so Paris, which was deeply in Jewish hands, is weary of the Hebrews! —

One of the last super-clever pranks which the Jews in France and the consequences thereof unforeseeable, is the one from Cremieux under October 20th. The 1870 decree enacted the uprising of the Jews in Algiers to French citizens. They were there until at that time, although present in abundance and very rich, merely tolerated, as it were, and used the Evenement des Cremieux, um fichen zu Bürger auf^s throw. In the case of Algiers in 1830, it amounted to Their number increased to 14,000. During their survey to French citizens were already in the city of Algiers over 70,000. In 1864, the “Siècle” from Tlemcen in Algeria, that the Jews, which all there in large numbers, the Corpus Christi^s The process was disrupted after she refused. would have to serve as militias. Likewise, It happened in Algiers. Finally, the Algians expelled the Jews. by participating in such Christian ceremonies from Militia services were spared, while the Muslims willingly provided it.

— 154 —

There are entire Muslim families who strictly refrain from any contact with Jews; so be^s especially the relatives and descendants of the last Dey of Algiers. They also claim that a Jew had the same during his escape by ship to Livorno his stolen diamonds and other valuables by instead of his chatouille, a completely similar, entirely^s lich leer, in whose place practiced.

How the Jews in Algiers already before receiving the French citizenship rights were powerful there, attested

The following curious communication from the year 1865:

"The Court of Appeal in Algiers held a solemn session, i.e., with the joint action of all departments, the Ent-
A divorce was granted so that the Jews in that country
Bigamy is permitted. Accordingly, he has the second Marriage, which an Algerian Jew had during the lifetime of the first woman and without divorce from the same, as legitimately existing and the children recognized as legitimate."

Also noteworthy to us is something under the
The management of the otherwise extremely pro-Jewish Re-Report published by the editor of the Allgemeine Zeitung from Algiers. It is dated April 19, 1871.
However, it was only printed in the supplement on May 1st.
The editor of the Allgemeine Zeitung is known by his name;
measures of Gosen *) and the late imprint of the literally

9) Does Herr von Gosen perhaps come from the land of Gosen?
in Palestine? And where does a certain Löving come from, who recently was employed by the government in Strasbourg? His father

His name was Löwenthal and he owns the well-known Literary Institute in Frankfurt am Main. A. d. V.

— 155 —

The following report probably only happened by chance?
"The Arabs know the name Cremieux better than..."
Many French people; they often even confuse the government.
with the Jew Cremieux."

Did the refined Augsburg Jewish newspaper intend to...
Heroic deed Cremieux's, alone the Jews in Algiers eman-
To have zipirt, to cleverly disguise?

On July 1st, the same newspaper wrote the following:

"From Algiers, June 20, the Correspondent reports

the “Daily News” about the extinction of the Auf s²standes and gives at the same time, according to the information of a hö²
a number of interesting communications from the officer about the causes of the uprising. We derive from this
The following stands out:

The beginning of the war, which especially affected the Algerians Having severely damaged the regiments, it aroused outrage among the Arabs only have a desire for revenge for the crime² Learning. A complete enthusiasm for the war, from which the French government gained great could have benefited. But after the fall of the
In the second empire, all this changed, and a Attempts to revive this enthusiasm failed.

In Algiers, the mere name Re² has been a symbol since 1848.
publicly identical with everything that is anarchy and unhappiness means; and the mass naturalization of the Jews in Algiers, which was prompted by Cremieux from the decreed by the provisional government (1870), still carried This contributed further to fanning the flames. Furthermore, special Jewish regiments were formed, which fought in the opposite direction.

— 156 —

were the Muhamedans to the sound of music in the light²
marched through the streets of Algiers in colorful uniforms, while the officers of the Arab Bureaux almost all recalled to active duty in France and through Unpopular (Jewish) capitulationists were replaced. Only A few keen observers failed to notice the nearby ² the danger. The newspapers still claimed that Algiers was ready to send its last man to war.
send, while in reality recruiting despite the no longer wanted to move forward despite the most brilliant promises.
The first outbreak occurred around mid-March 1871.
the revolution in the form of a brawl between the Jewish francs-tireurs and the Arab association of Berenis (or strangers). One of the latter became He was sentenced to a fine. His companions led as a result of this, a daylight raid against They kicked out the Jews, looted their shop, and brought

They sustained serious injuries. Thus, it developed fi) one from the other and the dissatisfaction dis-spread from tribe to tribe, while the ab-nature of the troops and the disorganization of the Be-
"They almost put an end to every authority."

A few days later, Swiss newspapers reported the Perhaps premature announcement: "that the National-
The meeting will probably take place very soon.
will see the emancipation of the Jews in Al- as necessary to withdraw their greed if they have peace in this colony
"want." The uprising itself, in fact, has in the last Over time, the size tends to increase rather than decrease, and the ge-

— 157 —

The true hatred of the natives against the Jews is,
which actually gives him food.

Even those residing in the city and province of Algiers Germans, who otherwise willingly sought refuge with the Jews at They described the audacity and the bullies who let themselves be led around by the bullies.
Arrogance of the barely emancipated Algerian Jews as unbearable.

From the unfortunate, still in full turmoil be-
We turn to the found African colony back to beautiful France, to Paris. There
The Jews are now working with great enthusiasm on this,
who, after the capture of Paris, partially deprived them of The government completely reclaimed control.
tear. Gambetta plays the well-intentioned, more or less conservative Republican and denies his close ties to the Commune. Jules Simon makes the minister of public education, also brings probably as many Jews as possible into public office and has to the federal comrade the notorious Jew Renan, who wrote "the life of Jesus".

But Alphonse Roth behaves the most naively.

Schild, the Parisian, eldest son of the cunning James (Jakob), the Benjamin of the family, who is still in the Frank- was born in Fürth's Judengasse and only died in 1868.

After His Majesty King William of Prussia in September at its country estate Ferrières after entering Paris as the winner, it was said by Pages of the castle administrator himself, that "neither wine that there was still bread there. Then the general threatened-

— 158 —

Adjutant, through his men cellar and chests to leave in order to find the hidden supplies. And fieh, the castellan, a sly servant of the Jews, He then hastily opened the kitchen and cellar and fed the The entire King's headquarters for several weeks from his stores. When then the King's Majesty decided to travel from there to Versailles- settle, the castle administrator came, like the Cologne The newspaper claimed most emphatically, with a formal- A bill for the entertainment was issued, which amounted to over The amount was said to be 25,000 francs, and demanded from the Court marshals, their payment. The king decided for also, "that everything is paid for down to the last penny will be," although Rothschild considered himself an enemy of Germany. and unworthy of a German name, unworthy He had shown German descent. He had, in fact, right at the beginning of the war, he sought to be relieved of his duties. Requested the position of General Consul of Prussia and the I received the same, of course.

His Majesty of Prussia did even more. He gave orders, that his office as court marshal of the household staff of the castle Ferrières for operation during the occupation he assigned two thousand francs in gratuity.

But look what the Jew Alphonse Roth did- sign? We learn this from the "Observer" — a "Volksblatt aus Schwaben", which is in principle and with particular honesty, far removed from Judaism holds, — by virtue of the same under the 19th . 1871 so reported:

— 159 —

“Baron Alphonse von Rothschild, the head of the Parisian House and ci-devant Prussian General Consul, recently reopened the cleaned Ferrieres Castle visited for the first time. When he learned about the castellan, that Emperor Wilhelm, upon his fine departure from that history-famous baronial possessions 2000 I left Francs behind for the domestic service, because He paled, under threat of immediate dismissal, the conscious 2000 Fr. under Enveloppe chargée direct to Kaiser to return Wilhelm to Ems, since Rothschild's Servants may not accept anything from a German.”
(Whether the multi-millionaire will replace the servants)
that he opened his own wallet, that's what this says.
(The sheet from which we take this information contains nothing.)

Mr. Alphonse Rothschild, of course, had his hundred forty-five houses which he owns in Paris, with

The Jews' help at the Commune was preserved intact; and of the one hundred and fifty million guilders which he he had inherited upon the death of his father in 1868, Nothing was lost. But through fine, whole hand-lungwise and especially through the cheeky denial of his Of German origin, he has earned the contempt of all honest people. Men have moved in.

He made himself even more ridiculous about two weeks later. later, when he helped the unfortunate water victims of the

The Rhine Valley in Switzerland, the pitiful sum of 10,000 francs and the following, on the 31st. Published in July 1871 by the Neue Zürcher Zeitung-wrote a brief letter about it:

— 160 —

To the Envoy of the Swiss Confederation,
Mr. Kern, in Paris, etc.

My dear Minister! We learn that a subscription in favor of the Swiss water victims opened. We remember too vividly the great-courageous reception, which our unfortunate countrymen found in your country when they were forced to seek refuge there, as if we should not seize this opportunity to benefit Switzerland during the examination that just affected you, our thanks to express our sincere sympathy. We kindly ask you to contact us on to enter the subscription list for the sum of 10,000 francs, which we are enclosing herewith.

Approve, etc.

Paris, July 22, 1871.

Rothschild Brothers

The letter needs no comment. It is clear.
Yes, enough, how rich the Rothschild brothers are and that for them the sum of Fr. 10,000, of which Each person with water damage receives approximately half a franc. which may be obtained, is a true trifle. But even this The act belongs, just like the entire mode of action of the Rothschild, to the secret activities in which the Jews in France have been moving for a hundred years and which gave them power and influence. But these will, God willing, soon be shattered; for German She already possesses courage and German Christian high-mindedness. partially broken and destroyed!

— VB. —

— — — — e — —

22 days

Our publishing house has also released:

The

New mine foremen.

| A safe and comfortable
|

Advisor

| in civic and commercial life,

for the calculation of the hero's value of all kinds of laurels, as well as the ftitherigen als auch nach dem neuen Mauss und oötbicht.

as

Lengths and surfaces, bodies and volumes and the weights,

next

an appendix

about the use of the tables and a slightly inadequate instruction about calculating with decimal numbers.

From

J. Reuschlen,

| tonigl. Replacement Commissioner.

Price: paperback 36 kr. — hardback 42 kr.

This “New Master of Calculation” is in every bookshop— | lungs in stock.
H. Killinger,

Book and music publisher.

Digitized by Google

BR

ee ae £ =
The 5
exposed Judaism

the j l
Modern era.
Bonus |
Hermann von Scharffz-Scharffenstein

N

8 e geg, cui we plans, 45
8 and Hermann von Lehnin. 5
ik

The Jews in Frankfurt am Main.
* m —

| Zurich.
Publisher's magazine.

8 1871.

5 x
Ra — en u —

2er Br

-

State-
LE
exposed Judaism

the Modern era.

From
Hermann von Scharff-Scharffenstein.

Motto: ar infandum
audet, morte piandum.
Hermann von Lehnin.

13
The u in — on the Main.

Zurich.
Publisher's magazine.
1871.

— — — — —

n Bayericcha

81 ee |
Birtietbak &
er ak }

4
ER eee

In Germany, besides the original one, there is tribes, the Germans, an invading, the Jews, who in recent times with the greatest boldness resemble has demanded rights with the indigenous people. Whether the German Whether a nation can tolerate this depends on the Be-answering the question of whether a healthy organism
to dare to take in foreign, indigestible elements may do so without jeopardizing the most extreme measures. We want to Here, simply content yourself with the schemes and intrigues, to shed light on the tricks and stratagems of the Indians and our
To warn the fatherland of impending disaster. We want to remind you, that neither Christian nor Jew are to be taken into consideration, but above all the difference between Germans and Hebrews must be taken into consideration, and that the “tribal diversity” of this people is related to the our emancipation (equalization) illusory and which makes it impossible, since it is not within our power, the barriers that separate them from all other peoples parting and already from the days of Christianity Exceptional laws enacted against them by other nations have caused, to tear down.

The main features of the national character of the Germans are: depth of feeling, integrity and loyalty; the old

— — .
—

“

History, however, describes the character of the Jews as “malicious, stubborn, faithless, and ungrateful.”) It is so not the long servitude that they treacherously and made them faithless. No, they were faithless thousands of years ago. back when they still formed an independent state.

The prophet Isaias is already hunting Cap. 59. Verses 2-8 from them: "Your vices separate you from your neighbors." God separates us from one another, and your sins hide the truth. A face before you, so that you will not be heard. For Your hands are stained with blood, and your fingers with Vice, your lips speak falsehood and your tongue It is no one who judges injustice. Preach, or judge faithfully. One trusts in vanity. and they speak nothing worthwhile; they are pregnant with misfortune. and they bear fruit. They incubate basilisk eggs and we No cobweb. If you eat their eggs, you have to die; but if you crush it, an adder will come from it. Their cobwebs are not suitable for clothing, and their hosts not to the ceiling: for their work is toil, and in their Hands are sacrilege. Their feet lead to evil and are quick to shed innocent blood; their thoughts Their efforts are a burden; their path is nothing but ruin and harm. They do not know the way of peace and are not Right in their ways; they are wrong on their "Whoever walks on roads will never have peace."

Fraud upon fraud, crimes against honor and life of the closest relatives go through the entire Jewish through the story.

*) Stenographic reports of the Bavarian chamber proceedings. Year 1849, Nos. 38–42.

Lot's daughters deceived their own father into thinking he She committed incest with them. Rebecca betrayed her son. Esau for the holy father's blessing. Jacob was from his father-in-law Laban from dirty profit Rachel was cheated out of her. Jacob's sons sold her brother Joseph"). Onan betrayed his father and Tamar out of base selfishness. Amnon deceived her. He raped his brother Absalom and defiled his sister. Absalom betrayed his father David and dishonored him Women, and so it goes on until the most hideous one. all the deceivers and traitors, except for Judas, whose

30 pieces of silver, the first truly "bad deal" are what this nation has done because it has made it its mission.
For all time, rightly despised and hated has bought the world.

We could give many other examples of common Cunning and cowardice from the older history of Jews are being cited, but we are content to simply add... note that recent history has portrayed them as "greedy,
described as presumptuous, cowardly and cruel.

They are also so proud and arrogant in front of all peoples.
liability, that they, after the better core of the people in received into the bosom of Christianity, the chaff but as a consequence of the destruction of Jerusalem, according to all The Winds were scattered, and the rule still persists.
believe that the world is determined and that it, as this

*) Abraham wanted to sacrifice his son Isaac, so he rejected the Hagar and her son Ishmael. The "Children of Israel" steal in Egypt, the golden and silver vessels, slaughtered the Canaanites assassinated and so on. w. A. d. b.

en

from their Talmud, which they consider divinely binding Law") recognize, emerges, although they their Be= had become unfaithful to the mood, solely for the chosen one Keep the Lord's people. Inspired by this arrogant Delusions, they form, not wise through misfortune, in every States have their own state, instead of joining forces with other peoples= core, be it in Palestine, America, or wherever, how to keep a people together.

Driven by the belief of reaching the top of all
They seek to find peoples who will one day be called to be, although only welcomed as guests, everyone with whom they are in Be=
To come to emotion, to always become a slave as much as possible to do so, and thus, working for their overconfident plans, They ruthlessly trample everything in their path.

opposes them.

But that is precisely the fundamental character of this nation. that their members, regardless of whether they are of their own or foreign nationality live in hostility towards each other and like parasites on all peoples cling to it without rewarding it in any other way, than by destroying them.

Apart from other kingdoms, they are proud of this,
First, defeat the powerful Poles.

Since that unfortunate period when King Casimir (in the year 1264), the (so-called) Great, the beautiful Esther was chosen as his lover and, at her request, a Poland took in a large number of Jews and gave them up

By granting freedoms, the power of this empire began to diminish.

*) Dr. Riesser's. Journal: The Jew. Altona 1832. p. 72.

*

5

King Casimir believed he could use them to strengthen the citizenry to replace them, because in Poland there were only nobility and peasants. However, they used their position in such a way that no one A bourgeoisie emerged. They did not engage in trade, but rather They traded in foreign goods and fleeced the nobility. of one side, the people on the other. They threw themselves into the role of lessees of customs duties and tax revenues up and highly profitable trades, such as gold= The blacksmith and the butcher were and are made by them operated. In addition, they maintained brandy everywhere. booths, which only had a detrimental effect on the people. Thus, through superior cunning, they brought the good

Poland will soon be in a dependency such that not only that The people's wealth largely fell into their hands, but that even Christian churches pledged themselves to them were, and when one brings a child to be baptized
If you wanted to, you first had to go to the Jewish church—
They had to redeem the keys with heavy coins.
a well-developed organization by provinces and They also sent deputies from their ranks to the Reichstag.

They had and still have the right to own land there.
to acquire it if possible, but they only build it.
through the hands of Christians, as is the case with us and in Alsace and everywhere else where the Jews are
It never occurs to him to do it himself. Yes, it's quite his character.
teristic, that a part of the increasingly numerous in Poland growing Hebrew population already in the year 1656 to the Elector of Brandenburg for Auf—took to his lands because they were in Poland in their

Sn

Conditions had deteriorated to such an extent that they themselves
They would have to cultivate land.

Meanwhile, they have been there ever since.
They became more gentlemen. The nobleman and the Bauer is her slave and "Pan Jud" (Mr. Jew)
It sounds like both of them said it. And they have gotten—
It multiplies like grasshoppers and sand on the seashore.

But they also want the gentlemen in Germany.
They were already close to it in 1848.

"Jews and Jewish comrades started the revolution
"done," said the venerable old Arndt at the speaker's podium.
stage of the National Assembly. And so it is; for They conjured it up in order to do so in this way to attain power now, or at least as many of "their people" as possible at the top to bring it to the government, so that it may inform the rest of the people

They could keep the path open for Israel.

September 18th in Frankfurt is Jewish work.
As the intellectual instigator of the assassination of the Princes Lichnowsky and Count von Auerswald be= If one were to seek a Jew named Buxweiler *), who on the morning of the fateful day in the open
He delivered bloodthirsty speeches to the mob on the street. —

Moreover, as the Jews did then and later in Frankfurt am Main, — where already at the beginning of October In 1851, the cattle market was closed by a police decree because of

*) The Jew Deutz betrayed the woman to JKH in his time Duchess von Berry and the Jew Rosenau in Vienna bercitete the assassination of War Minister von Latour.

Pa

incoming Jewish holiday from Monday to the was moved to Christian Sunday — driven and as They finally became the reason why Prussia had the so-called we will discuss in this booklet the free city that pocketed the money.
explain.

Eighteen years ago, I wrote as the author of a small book published in 1852 by Anton Herzog in Augsburg Text: "Glimpses into the dangerous activities of the Jews"
"Sippschaft" the following:

"There in Frankfurt am Main, the old imperial city of the German Reich, where the baptized Jew Reinganum and his wealthy entourage formally constitute the Christian citizenry=
To terrorize, there is a street, "Jewish Lane".
to be called. She was at that time when the overconfident
The people of the Hebrews were probably already part of the world's domination.
dreamed, but didn't yet constantly think about it.
to steal, inhabited only by Jews. Now they live there.
many poor Christians, sons and descendants of those old bourgeois families, which used Jewish tricks and sly tricks to have laid the groundwork. The Free City of Frankfurt itself, which in 1848 came close to being removed from the Jews and Jewish comrades were oppressed, and a "new Becoming "Jerusalem" is suffering, like all of Germany, yes like all of Europe, terribly under the miasma. Entire They have virtually taken possession of the streets. The former respectable townhouses in the Schnur- and Döngesgasse, indeed entire city districts have Almost exclusively Jewish residents. Many children and descendants. The former owners are in the orphanage or "They live by the grace of charitable foundations." —

The larger landholding, which one actually "Land and soil around Frankfurt," is what it calls itself. mostly in Jewish hands. The Rothschilds owned it. They managed to get almost everything. The family Rothschild is the one who, as was already the case earlier... The aforementioned "Jewish clan" means:

"through her money, all kingdoms are dependent on her" power, about war and peace, construction of railways and whatever may happen, decides, and under the name of interest and commissions the mark of the whole "Drains countries."

Vehse presents in the fifth part of his story the German courts the following note about the sometimes peculiar procedure of this bank business. "That The Rothschild family preserved for the House of Hesse, the The source of his happiness was a constant, faithful attachment; His servants were also treated with the utmost care: It was important to get hold of the rich spa's suitcases full of money. to receive solid support for the princes. In the year In 1829, the old minister Carl Wilhelm von Mayer received quite unexpectedly, a pleasant letter with the news- It is true that the House of Rothschild had certain funds for its I have purchased the invoice; because in the meantime the course has been They had risen, they were sold again and sent This is the profit amount of a given order. The minister could not recall, but took the very nicely offered, attractive gift.")

*) When it comes to supporting public festivals, yes, it seems
The current head of the Rothschild family isn't exactly known for his deeds either.

rl

And further in the ninth volume, Dr. Vehfe explains:
"that Nothschild claims that the so-called fleet"

Fischer was a fool because he had taken one of his

Offered gift of 10,000 guilders not accepted have."

It is true, unfortunately true, what the Jew Saphir said said: "Once all the Jews had one king; now they have
"All kings are one Jew."

One would think that with such enormous wealth
Will the Jews also be treated in relation to the state?
contribute burdens; but far from it! Who can tell them, who do not work themselves, who control their assets in Cash and in exchange or banknotes?")

to be at hand, like his master's "businessmen" used to be.
Uncle's words. One can see from a communication of the Frankfurt Journal of December 14, 1862, that the Baron Carl Mayer von Rothschild to the Lomité des German Riflemen
He has firmly rejected his bill of 3200 guilders for Be use of the festival grounds, which are mostly "Rothschild's land" and soil" was to be enacted. N. d. B.

The Frankfurt Journal reports on October 9, 1863
The following is included: "The Rothschilds held a family gathering these days."
congress in Paris, where Mr. Adolph Rothschild, previously head of the Hauses in Naples, withdraws from business. The business
A Rothschild's share of this was (according to Wiener) (Leaves) the small sum of 150 million francs."

How generous one is with such immense wealth, one might wonder. In any case, the following note proves which the Rhenish Beobachter, a local newspaper published in Monheim am Rhein, under April 5, 1863, from Frankfurt am Main, the following was communicated:

"Frankfurt, April 5th. One of the Baron's seven daughters Mayer von Rothschild is the lover of one of those noble

How far does self-interest extend to Jews in their private lives The Frankfurt Oberpostamtszeitung reported on this in In 1851, they knew how to tell an amusing example:

"The owner of Mainlust itself, Mr. Ried, who often performs harmony music for men and women, only those entering first have to pay, he made namely the experience that there is always one Jew for twelve Kreuzer dragged along a dozen Jewish women and thus their The family occupied half the hall and garden, without more than just a few butter cakes. What a Spectacle, when one fine evening all the gentlemen and to= Condemned all Jewish women to the killing of the entrance= were divided. Upon the determination of the oriental The origins have led to the most ridiculous appearances, so that even the local newspaper reported the interesting story. "I couldn't help telling the story."

However, we now want to move on to more serious matters. consider Frankfurt am Main and come naturally- firstly to the high senate of the free city, in Passions (riding, driving, smoking), which nowadays are also known as To graze the beautiful sex. In an elegant phaeton Sitting, she guides the reins with her own delicate hands. snorting horses, while behind her the servant to absolute Inactivity is damned. A few days ago, this happened. as a result of her excessively fast driving — she drove en pleine carriere — an accident in which she ran over a Tarisian postman, who fell under their wheels. As we understand, the lady sent Yesterday, the man who was bloodily injured received a gratuity of 10 guilders: a sum of money for which the poor man might then perhaps instead of the trousers that the Rothschild wheels tore to pieces, a

"Can buy new things!"

BE

who, as is well known, have recently also been Jewish offspring had a decisive influence. The very funny Dr. Juris Neuburg, who has served several times as an older governing official The mayor was, and under whose "government" many Jews from outside were accepted as citizens was the son of the baptized Jew Dr. med. Simon Neuburg from whose marriage to a young woman named Goll from the still existing rich and respected, from Switzerland originating from a Christian family of this name.

Even the one that came shortly before the end of the free city in the Senator and alderman Dr. H..., elevated to the nobility, of whose relatives and about their origin the Augsburger Allgemeine Zeitung has been very [relevant] for years. who had much praise to say, comes from Cassel, where His ancestors were bankers in the Judengasse. He was with the well-known pastor Kirchner, who, as we will later show, also from Jews~~er~~ tribe, very friendly, and went with the senator. Neuburg always works hand in hand in the Senate. The Tefta-My fine mother-in-law, Mrs. Lind... should also it may have been full of Old Testament wit, although The good lady from an old Christian lineage. The baptized Jew, Reich Minister Heckscher was his bosom buddy. Even the former town clerk Dr. Kellner, who in his position, which he did not retain despite numerous offers who wanted to give up, in the Senate of the free city always had some influence, and particularly among citizens took and the like was probably to be used, stood with several baptized and unbaptized Jews in closer proximity relationship and went specifically with the baptized Jew

14 —

Dr. Löwenthal, who strangely called himself Löning often in deep conversations in the facilities of Frank—to walk along the road. Incidentally, his family has been with the old extinct patrician family of waiters only the Na—men without the nobility in common. It would have to be that They have their origins from the left! We could regarding the Senate of the Free City of Frankfurt here There are many other things to tell; but we will content ourselves and would like to acknowledge that the same in his last At that time, only new recruits were made from old Christian bourgeois families. had. Perhaps even his own eyes weren't It has opened up a little!

But how things are in Frankfurt am Main in general? One can recognize when so-called higher circles speak Jewish languages. one can see the family trees or genealogies of some considers families. The Gontard family is said to next to the aforementioned Goll, the first of the immigrant~~s~~ whose families had been involved with the Jews allied. A Gontard married towards the end of the a baptized Jewish woman from Leipzig in the last century, named D., which gave him a very important gift. may have brought with her. From this marriage came both the

a very well-known woman as well as the later Mrs. Alexander G., who in turn is her cousin—advised, etc. forth. Mrs. Lu knew herself — her

Not denying his heritage — so influential to make it a multi-volume work by the well-known Frankfurt's Friedrich: "Another fifteen years from the "Life of a Dead Man," which tells us nice things about her told, was able to completely suppress

I

Her daughter, Mrs. M..... "disappeared her oriental" Italian origin is also definitely not the case. Mrs. Alexander G., the sister of Lu, "wore in her Ge~~s~~

The Jewish type is seen to the highest degree. The one in the year immigrated in 1690 and still recently in the person of the Senator Bernus of Austria, Baron

The Bernus family, a prominent family, established itself a few years ago. by giving a daughter to the son of the baptized Jews of Erlangen allied to Judaism. This young However, the couple separated a few years after their wedding. They separated again voluntarily. It is said that... a very characteristic anecdote about an "Ouch!" this Lord of Exlanger, when he went from the church to the The wedding carriage rose. Even the originally Italian one Cheese merchant family from Quaita, from which individual Mit member was ... state had acquired, is through the sister of the former Theater-Board of Directors Dr. jur. von Quaita the Jew- thum was used. The same had the former Reich Minister Dr. Detmold was taken as his husband, who was a baptized Jew."

However, it is easy to imagine what a great one-

) Cécilie Jeanrenaud, from an old French family of preachers, In 1837 he married the composer, who was born of Jewish descent. Mendelssohn. How well-intentioned this famous musician was can be seen from... one from a book he wrote, which was only published after his death: The usual "ripeness to Rome", which consists of invectives against the The Catholic Church is thriving. Its hopeful firstborn is to be born. I became a bookseller and have already done many things in the interest of the have published a book written by Judaism.

flow these Jewish offspring who allied themselves with Jews Families and their entourage in the Senate shortly before 1866 had. The secret Judaism, which formerly in Spain") was at its peak, culminating in Frankfurt is rising ever higher.

*) On the secret Judaism in Spain, whose predecessors Being present and existing, the German Jews up to before Mr. Ullmann, who consistently denied this in a very short time, brought this up. Frankfurt am Main in a meeting of the local association for History and Antiquities in February 1868, the following spicy article... division, when he spoke about the origin of the Frankfurt Jewish community

The family name "Spanier" was used to express his opinion. He recounted verbatim how follows: "According to an oral tradition..."

The census began in 1519, when King Charles J.

Imperial crown when Charles V received it, the Jews in the empire fearful Be-worry, as they feared that something similar would happen against them, as that action is being taken against their fellow believers in Spain, that

At that time, Jews were forbidden to enter under penalty of death.

was. Nevertheless, there were many Jews in Spain who outwardly although they separated from their ancestral religion, in their innermost being

But because of the compulsion, hearts were all the more devoted to her.

remained and hoped for the time when they would be free from this constraint.

could be released. This concern now, that one could also act against the

The fact that Jews in the Reich wanted to proceed as they had in Spain prompted the

The Jewish community in Frankfurt should not wait idly, but rather take action.

to send an embassy to Spain. Two brothers volunteered.

To undertake the journey, they dressed according to local custom and accompanied by the blessings of the community, they set out from

Then they arrived safely in the Spanish capital; but Only now did they think about the solution to the question, which they probably had to find.

her journey had troubled her: How to reach the emperor?

Her good skills allowed her to work in the market in Madrid in a

Buyers at different habits a home— ö recognizing the Jewish people they followed, discovering themselves and

BEN Se

But what now is the "legislative body" of the concerns the free city of Frankfurt, which is under the heading of the baptized Jew Dr. Reinganum in the penultimate period

(1848 to 1853) even gave laws to the Senate, so it is

It is known that the baptized Jews Friedleben, Braun-rocks and so forth, and those currently still in Judaism

Standing: Neukirch, Rütten, Hohenemser, Stern, Hamburger, Fulda, etc. They set the tone there, and some things presented what constituted the course of a well-ordered management-had to make the process more difficult. It was really strange that this Jewish gentlemen and especially the doctors Friedleben")

and Braunfels their speeches — which they themselves always found most difficult seemed to please best when heard reciting it. That

The stuttering of one, Dr. juris Friedleben, and the Yüdeln from the one who was the imperial fool, they secretly went to the emperor. were brought, who showed an inclined ear to their requests and a Signed a letter of protection for all Jews in the Reich. That was enough After various complaints, she arrived in Frankfurt, where she was on Thor of the Judengasse was immediately recognized and said: "The "The Spaniards have arrived! The Spaniards are here!" by Old and They were greeted as young people. They kept the name "Spaniards". "Also for all time, whereas until then they had been called Cohen."

*) What connections did this Friedleben have in the old Reich?

It was clearly perceived that they owned the city when they gave it to the third wife of their Father's, who, like Hagar to Abraham, had been his servant, immediately after his death a so-called "monastery place" (pension) (from 500 fl. annually from former Catholic monastery funds) to so knew how to turn to them. It is also peculiar that their father did this had his sons raised in a Protestant orphanage while he went to Haus had a second wife and, in addition to his teacher's salary, also possessed assets. A. d. V.

2

Br.

des Altdern, des Dr. jur. Braunfels, erschien höchst amüsan. The Press Law of September 16, 1856, was this Jews in particular were a thorn in the side and prompted As late as January 18, 1863, lengthy debates took place. which, in a very strange way, mainly consisted of Jews and Jewish descendants participated, so that the old hall in noble House of Limpurg — where this body spent its held meetings — it had practically become a Jewish school "It seemed too delicate."

The previously mentioned Dr. jur. Friedleben, Mit member of the "body", is the brother of a Doctor medicinæ Friedleben, who has been the board member for years

*) When the Senate of the Free City of Frankfurt am Main to received the well-known warning notes from Prussia in early October 1865, It was again the Jews of Reinganum, Braunfels, etc., who lay down against the shop and shouted "Au Waih!", even though they who had provoked them through their actions. The "Frankfurter The Journal reports on it as follows: "Frankfurt a. M., October 19, 1865. In the legislative body, which immediately after the information becomes known The meeting where the threat notes were gathered was lively. Dr. Reinganum noted that the notes were crude; they were also intended for all German speakers. Governments were sent to tell them: "Today to me, "Tomorrow you," first the weak, then the stronger. May it be so. intended to commit another rape. Dr. Braunfels stated that Grades complain against the middle-class press because one there had the audacity to oppose the Prussian annexation. Fury to defend himself against his own skin. He cried out under the To Opinion of the citizens' representatives: "The honor of our State, one's own position, civic duty, that we Defend against unjust attacks. I call out to the Senate the motto: which he has printed on the coins: "Strong in the law!" The law. The body giving the decision to submit the already reported request to the Senate.

= Wed —

of the Sachsenhausen Citizens' Association. Both gentlemen are the sons of the man protected by the "Magister Kirchner" Jewish teacher at the Lutheran Katherinenschule. But this Kirchner, who later became the city pastor, held the high position of a senior consistorial councillor, was the grandson of the baptized Jew Paul Kirchner, who already In 1717, a book about "Jewish customs" was published. has given. The Consistorial Councillor wrote a ver alleged history of Frankfurt am Main, which is against the The Catholic Church contains some very striking invectives and He tried to ridicule her. He was, like everyone else, Jews and Jewish offspring, an abnormal eater and Schlemmer, could barely walk due to his obesity and He died of obesity. One of his sons, a merchant in Sydney and Consul of the Free City, made "to "Bankrupt at the right time," but is now supposed to be back in They were in quite good condition. The clairvoyants recognized in this "churchman", a worthy son of the Lord

Oberconsistorialrat, a secret Jew. Be Brother, the Lord City Court Councillor Dr. jur. Kirchner (Registrar) wrote on October 5, 1852
scathing article against the Catholic parish priest Beda Weber, in which he spoke to the same person regarding his church—attempted to reprimand lichen functions.

Regarding the medical work of Dr. Friedleben
As far as we are concerned, it has been noticeable to us that the Egyptian Tisch eye disease in Sachsenhausen, where he “body=
"doctor" was, in such a frightening way got out of hand =
had assumed that the government of the free city Frankfurt in 1862 was forced to establish its own to appoint a medical commission there. A truly

A good doctor would surely have nipped this disease in the bud.
Can they suffocate or at least limit it? The political question...
The work of Dr. med. Friedleben in the "Sachsenhäuser"
"Citizens' associations" have been a very destructive force for years.
had been and had led in particular to a large Part of the population in a constant state of up-to receive a reaction. In addition, he was in his They always spoke only of "Jesus of Nazareth," who spoke to the= himself generously allowed, “that he was a gifted man= beings”, and finally said, “that our time also has produced similarly great men.” Anyone who has which is meant by these great men, it easily becomes too obvious=
It is advisable to be. It is precisely the Jews who are everywhere
Sowing weeds and gladly abandoning faith in the deity
To drive Christ out of the heart of the German people want.

There is more to report about this Friedleben, that both were in the Frankfurt Protestant orphanage have been raised, but express their gratitude for this Christian Education is carried out by promoting the state and the to undermine Christian religion in every way= searched. They are connected with the open and secret Judaism and its despicable activities on to gather the most intimate things together. — Truly admonishing was in= whose event shows how even the larger Part of Sachsenhausen gradually came to its senses.

The "Spartans", a local carnival society, namely, shared the following during their carnival parade in 1863 characteristic poem:

BR

To the tune of: "I am Doctor Ironbeard."

A

I am the Doctor Life Struggle, 2c.
Always ready to debate, 2c.
Everyman trembles before me, 2c.
Who can't pay me right away. 2c.

The pills I often prescribe,
They do indeed damage the lower abdomen,
But what does that matter to me?
If only someone could pay me.

And if the stomach is ruined,
He is being cured just like that,
That people will soon be calling for me again,
I'll be ready right away.

The bill is growing rather horribly,
But, those who cannot pay me,
He'll certainly dance to my tune,
That's why I won't get into trouble.

But those who still prove stubborn,
And leans towards the Spartans,
Yes, I'll embarrass him in front of the world.
And publicly demand my money.

I will cure the eye disease,
Only with purging, certainly.
And even if someone is blinded by it,
Basically, I don't care about it at all.

I'm sticking with the audience, though.
Because I am truly not that stupid,
And whoever complains about me,

I will convert him immediately.

People are like beloved cattle,
They believe in philanthropy,
And marches almost worship me,
Those fools are in a bad way.

=.

I slaughtered the dogs and cats,
This is only appropriate for scoundrels,
But I study thoroughly
The human-like features are a key factor.

A year ago it was still good,
I had many under my hat;
But gradually they saw clearly,
That it was all just a hoax.

The dizziness often helped me a great deal,
But now almost no one trusts me anymore;
And that damned Spartan band,
She has nothing good to say about me.

Those fellows, they dare not,
And they always laugh at me,
And my manipulation
They despise you with scorn and derision.

If only the carnival were over,
It is not at all a matter of indifference to me,
They're making a laughingstock of me;
You debtors, help me out of my distress!

To make this mockery and derision forgotten,
The Sachsenhausen Citizens' Association presented it to its president.
Dr. Friedleben soon afterwards a solemn stand-chen. In autumn, it was already said again in Frankfurt.
His journal entry dated September 21, 1863:

"Last night, the citizens' association of Saxony commemorated..."
Hausen is celebrating its 15th anniversary. To increase The Sachsenhausen Gymnastics Club participated in the celebration.
as well as various singing societies. Dr. Friedleben, which has existed since the founding of the citizens' association.

8 *
1 A:

1

EA *
INN

1 Questions

232 —

—

which notoriously wise gentlemen spoke have: Reinganum, Braunfels, Friedleben, Hohenemser, Peiser, Stern and Sonnemann"). All here ge-

They are Jews. In the National Association, the Eldorado the Friedleben brothers, because they always hear each other there.
Those who could listen and hear for themselves were of course everywhere.
the Jews always acted as "spokesmen" and exploited the-
They themselves always use it for their own purposes.

Jewish doctors of law and medicine were educated especially with the newspaper Jews, with the rabbi Stone and with a number of Jewish shouters from the Merchant estates formed the core of the revolutionary agitators in Frankfurt. What such people are capable of...

The ability to perform can be seen, for example, from a small inscription "Ge-
"Wald und Notwehr", which "address" of the older Dr. med. Stiebel, dated March 5, 1848, off the production line
let. With this fine address, the speeches were over.
the Jews and secret Jews, as well as the "open hand"
the Jewish businessmen S. — and R. — etc. in the best Harmony. This brought about the char- in Frankfurt.
manten confusion before and during the preparlamentes and later emerged, led to the assassination of Prince Felix Lichnowsky and determined a time, whose waves never give us rest
let them come.

As a consequence of such years-long changes...
This sun man is also a Jew from the Darmstädtischen, who gave himself the first name Leopold, at However, the circumcision was called "Löb". A. d. V.

repeatedly looked like Christianity, recognizes one, as the "Neue Preußische Zeitung" already stated in the year presented in 1852, from the "Frankfurter Volksblätter", one of which was published at that very time under the heading "the "Struggle in ecclesiastical territory" the following verbatim pronunciation:

"As it is a mistake of the antediluvian Con-

institutionalism has been religious liberalism to favor or at least tolerate, that was a a monstrous mistake of modern democracy, which has been a short time, which she was permitted to create, not to organize to use stations in the ecclesiastical sphere, but to remain completely indifferent in this regard.
Nothing certifies the political immaturity of democracy.
more than this circumstance since 1848; nothing would be safe more so than if they really couldn't recognize this error one would have learned. One is almost obliged to do the latter.
take; for she cares about the religious struggle Overall very little, instead of them treating him with the
It should have absorbed the greatest amount of energy. It is na
Of course, this is not about the fight of the pro-Protestantism against Catholicism, but solely from the struggle for religious freedom and equality against the orthodoxy of both churches: only this struggle can bring salvation and in him the true De-Democrats must participate. The next revolution must be a become religious. If she doesn't again, then... they will fail again. Don't you see that the Re
Is this action also being prepared here? She is looking for religious forms.
— it is not dogma here either — to be attributed,

9 — — — — -
— —

— 29 —

those whom one has long since forgotten, who the People with a freer consciousness become unbearable.
They have to. They steer straight ahead as if they weren't expecting it.
ten could, until — well, until the little one's fine path has completed!" Even if the concluding logic of the article Schreiber's with the alleged front statements
That's right, and the style and grammar are completely off.
The matter is, as the man writes quite clearly, "that's the thing." But such language under the eyes of the state, the Catholic Church Catholic and Protestant church authorities and the highest Federal authority!!

Even more insight can be gained into the Jewish community. drives, if one reads a report from the "Münchner Volks" reads "boten" from November 1852, where he in his original in the original spelling manner, i.e., expresses itself:

"In Frankfurt on October 30th, a Hebrew Medical doctor — Schiff writes the subject — in so-called physical club more than a hundred a lecture on tapping to a large audience of Christian listeners kept spirits, while daring to speak in the outrageous manner to mock our Savior in the most ruthless way. Under among other things, this vermin has the most shameful ge They speak about Christ, the Lord, who uses words: "The Jewish demagogue, who before eighteen hundred lived for years and believed himself called to be among the many to add another religion to existing ones." Similarly, he spoke about the Christian religion. mocks.

This Jewish doctor Schiff turned for some time later from Frankfurt am Main to Bern, where he then

See

He presented his science both theoretically and practically. Before But recently he succeeded — probably with help Help of the Jews of the Pitti Palace — to Florence to be appointed, and to work there at the Museo di fisica to obtain a lucrative government position. He sits there. for Mr. Moritz Schiff is safe and sound — as long as it lasts"). -

*) The Frankfurt Journal reported on this Professor Schiff in a correspondence: Florence, May 25, 1870, following A laudatory report from a young person: "Professor Schiff from Frankfurt, at the sight of which all cats and dogs of our The capital city is so unsettled — so unsafe are these innocent little creature before his world-famous security guard — He recently gave a lecture in the designated hall.

of the museum located near the Pitti Palace. The program includes,
As it appeared in all the newspapers, it was indicated that the gentleman Professor after finishing his lecture in the presence of his would always conduct an experiment in front of numerous listeners, which would also Everyone waited with bated breath. When the moment arrived and With all eyes on the famous professor, he went left at a side table, took some small bottles from the same and stepped before his listeners with these, to whom he explained that he was completely ready to conduct his experiment, but lacked the necessary Means to do so, because, and here he emphatically shook the bottles,
"What these glasses contain is nothing now; the museum is so richly equipped, so that not even the simplest objects in which are present. That's how it's always been and will be.
always remain so, as long as a society of donkeys and un-
"Knowledgeable people function as directors of this institution." Professor Schiff became very zealous as he recounted how the directors wasted the available money on flower pots and the like,
while science suffers because it is deprived of the un-I refuse the most dispensable aids. When the directors...

u BL

He behaved in an equally arrogant, indeed almost even more conceited, manner.
the rabbi who was mentioned earlier as a writer
L. Stein, whose work "The Hasmenei" we will later

“

This will be discussed in detail at some point. He wrote... namely a treatise in 1852: "What is the essence of Christian state?" whose content is relevant to every Christian
It is outrageous. The "Mainzer Journal" then reported on it.
also the following report dated July 28, 1852:

"Frankfurt, July 28th. Everyone knows that already before the glorious March Revolution, the German press largely in the hands of young Israel and that since then "our people" have succeeded in the German literary market almost exclusively in Beto take fig and in this way to gain an unpredictable

Incidentally, the accusations were entirely justified. They became very angry and a polemic arose, which was so It became heated and so rich in spicy epithets that the Had the ministry intervened, it would not have been a reconciliation. which, however, is likely only a ceasefire, is being carried out hastily. Here Professor Schiff is a celebrity, and the good people from Forentin are leaving. I like to go to the coffee house at Signoriaplatz, where the professor all in the evenings he empties a punch with his friends and talks about knowledge It is being loudly debated. The punch bowl was bigger the night before last. than usual, and more orange slices floated in the same. than usual. The discussions were also less lively and The highs are more frequent. That's why we asked a neighbor: What Do the good people really celebrate with such enthusiasm? "Possi- "Bilmente Sadowa et la confederazione!" was the laconic one Answer. However, we believe it is more likely the triumph of the professors ship had been; for it formed the center of the entourage. collection and was often passionately embraced and held close to the heart of "Friends hugged."

to gain tangible influence. If the Jewish Lite They only consult with the employed person, to which they initially respond. are dependent on, for example, via the Pentateuch or the Talmud Commentaries written or instead of political Newspapers, course sheets, edited, etc., yes, would certainly No one objects to the neo-Jewish scribbles. have turned to them. But now the beliefs are mingling. enjoyed by Heine and Börne in matters and Things that are none of their business and that they To understand about as much as a blind man understands color — a practice that every Christian government has already encountered around For the sake of the consequences, in the sharpest and most sensitive terms. should be frowned upon: we mean the discussion and Be judgment of Christian states and institutions by Jews, as e.g. in the story by the Jew Leopold Stein, rabbi of the local Israeli community, published, and in the literary institution here itself published brochure, entitled: "What is the essence of Christian state?" the case if. They exempted me, on the contents of this brochure, which is from our lightest warmest regards to friendly neo-pagans and neo-Jews which is recommended and widely disseminated, to discuss in more detail; The same is quite suitable for evoking disgust and aversion in everyone. to excite Christian readers, and it will suffice to point to the unmistakable kinship of this Jewish Machiavelli works with our laudable "Frankfurter Journal", which yes, not to deny the use of the same kitchen either can draw attention to it. But if this refers to the The content of the intended brochure will not be discussed in detail. However, the question of how should not be omitted should by any means be asked.

u

long still the prevailing intellectual depravity and Perversity will allow the Jews to use German to want to enlighten the Christian people about what a Christ is? What is the state like and what does Christianity teach?! One When considering such occurrences, one must really When in doubt, one is unsure which is greater, the irony on our Time, or the audacity of some sons of the Orient, brand new ideas about Christianity and the Germanic Christian state itself even among Christians entrance ver: to create, for which they are probably given the mandate awarded by the "breaking dawn". Would the Christian-German tribes like to... to regain their courage and reclaim their ancient sanctuaries and Rights no longer threatened by clever Orientals? to get cut; but would our governments also like to especially now, bear in mind that they Above all, they must be Christian!

As a consequence of such behavior, like that of the Jews Ship, stone, and others already mentioned, was that then? also in Frankfurt am Main in the last ten years The abandonment of Christianity has occurred several times. These renunciations of the Christian faith are indeed It was kept very secret. The "Volksbote" in Munich However, he wrote about one of them in November 1852,

as follows:

"From Frankfurt, October 24th, it is reported: "Today
This morning, a ceremony was held in the local Israeli "temple" by Chief Rabbi Stein, a Catholic woman from Mannheim introduced into Judaism and immediately thereafter married to a rich Jew from here, with whom she —

3

En

Bi

have been in contact for more than ten years
She should have! What kind of "Catholic" was she?
"If you like it, you don't need to guess first."

That the founder of so-called German Catholicism, Johannes Ronge, with Jews and Jewish descendants in nearby
It is also known that they are related.
The sect he founded is nothing more than that.
as a kind of reform Judaism, which belongs to our Lord Jesus Christ still has a small place in the meantime.
has left the open practice of his religious forms.
That over half of the Ronge sect are Jewish were, is proven and wrote regarding this the Frankfurter Conversationsblatt already on May 30, 1849:
"In Fürth, Ronge has a community of Christians and Jews were educated and appointed as the head of the place by him a Jewish woman was elected by the newly founded women's association," etc.

What sad consequences the waste from Christianity
thum in Frankfurt am Main for the moral state the city has, as can be seen from a report which South German newspapers towards the end of 1853 with-shared: |

"In Frankfurt, it's been like this for almost twenty months."
The marriages and baptisms proceeded almost as smoothly as before, as in Berlin with the funerals. Since that same time.

They also have clean "civil marriages" there, where—where the church wedding should be lavish. In
As a result, there are now said to be six mixed marriages between Jews and Christians were closed off, whereby...
Everything remained what it had been before, and nothing at all.
It has been determined in which religion the

It Be

Children are to be raised. About a dozen couples.
They entered into their marriage without a church ceremony.
but a far greater number of parents have their Children were also kept away from holy baptism, so that They raise them as heathens.”

The most striking known case of a crossing However, Judaism only came into being a few years ago.
happen. The daughter of the gymnastics teacher Ravenstein, the well-known youth educator (ö), appeared in the large Frankfurt Synagogue publicly (i.e., in front of witnesses) to Judaism and then married according to Jewish law.
The ritual for the Jews in Halle. It is supposed to be, as the Jews say, became a very devout Jew and went to church every Sabbath.
to be found at the synagogue!

Whether all this isn't called Judaizing, and whether we are not really in a worse situation than Spain before the time of Cardinal Ximenes, the miüljen the Readers should consider this for their own insight. It is enough for us to know, that there are Jews, secret Jews, and in Frankfurt am Main
There are Jewish descendants who are closely connected under
They did everything in their power to keep this city alive.
more on immoral and un-Christian and their
to plant a "Moloch throne" there.

A striking example of how far the Ver~~z~~ has come Jewish revolt has already begun in Frankfurt, one can find in the “way and time”, as the management of the mustard
Berg's natural history society, whose second Di~~z~~

The rector was the rightly famous Dr. med. Rüppell, who... about a speech given by this person on May 30, 1858

I

has spoken of an insightful man by saying after-stated the following for the record:

"The assembly expresses its deep regret and Displeasure that the current second director,
Dr. Rüppell, as rapporteur on the Effectiveness-keit of the society at the last annual celebration his office-
personal stance on the most inappropriate outbreaks has abused his spitefulness." —

In his speech, Dr. Rüppell had the great Crimes committed, "the main one being stock market fraud" hobby of the current generation, especially among to commemorate and reflect upon a certain religious community
This was explained, "that given the great wealth of the here
The financial support for resident Israelis, which they in relation to our, the general scientific educationdung so selflessly promoting natural history museum
"Activate, so little is it."

These and other small, wittily presented vignettes-Lights on the Jews prompted the Directorate of the Senckenberg Natural History Society, the be—
The travelers praised Dr. Rüppell, to whom they gave the greatest Part of the treasures of their museum is owed to the un—to accuse him of the most fitting outbursts of personal animosity.

But even this behavior, to which Dr. [Name] referred,
Rüppell replied in a calm, yet energetic manner, probably seemed to the sixty Jewish members of the natural history society and its secret brothers not yet sufficient from the tribe of Judah. The rabbi Leopold Stein, the author of "The Hasmoneans", the
"The abduction of boys at Carpentras", the "nature of Christ—

m

"lichen State" and other Judaizing writings, had to appear in the Jewish newspaper: "the Israelite people's teacher" Rüppell unleashed an article full of scorn and bile. let him. He concluded with a bad Jewish joke: a distortion of the statement preceding Rüppell's speech Motto's, and was published as a brochure (Special Reprint) (from the Jewish newspaper) sent far and wide to show how to deal with the "Jew-eater" and "cursed had defeated "Goi".

How much the Jews stick together when it comes to, a Christian who saw through their schemes and intrigues or to subdue Christian cooperatives, one can see from the following report, which the Süddeutsche Zeitung published to be printed on December 17, 1853 (?). "Frankfurt a. M. A few months ago, a large number A local craftsman presented his proposal to the Senate. our free city because of the resumption of basic-provisions of the Constitutional Amendment Act, in order to through the right granted to the local Israelites equality again to the aforementioned supplement to the prescribed limits. A A similar proposal was also submitted to the Federal Assembly. directed. The local Israelites have now, to the Reportedly through diplomatic channels (?), a full Permanent list of all signatories of this pre-knew how to create positions and to keep the liver under control. income reached, with the same all traffic cease-to lift. One by the well-known former editor of the "Volksbote", G. Herold, to his fellow citizens The address pointed out the threatening nature of such a thing.

RER:

A declaration of defamation, which is punishable everywhere by severe penalties. threatens."

The Jews, however, soon realized that they had a

Such behavior could incur the hatred of the guilds.
The honorable butchers' guild, from which they have individual members who had been formally declared to be in disrepute, thought of telling them to show that she would not dance to her tune.")
Then the Jewish gentlemen (undoubtedly from) (rabbinical superiors, which means) quickly and explained, that they were inclined to treat everyone as before to behave. But they still harbor resentment.
hearts, and both Jews, as well as Jewish descendants, and those affiliated with them strove to be the "arrogant to show craftsmen on occasion that "they are of your
are unforgettable." — |

That the Jews had something placed in their way obstacle or mockery and insult done to them never forgotten and often still remembered it years later.
The city of Frankfurt has taken revenge in conspicuous ways.
had a sad proof, as a result of which not alone one of the most respected Christian banking houses that itself gradually perished, but the Descendants of the same, also of Jews and offspring of Jews have been completely orchestrated. We want to see the deed here.
Simply tell the story and talk about the people involved.
only list the first letters of their names.

*) Hence the excessive intrigues of Frankfurt's Jewish community, to bring about the abolition of the guilds; hence the intended Increase the percentage rate! . A. d. V.

About forty years ago, the Christian banker-House G. and H., one of the most respected trading houses in Frankfurt am Main. At that time, the same one of the many stood there.
The residents still remember the old Mr. H....
This man of respectable appearance and presence
His manners were due to his honesty, but also because of the aversion he showed towards the Jews, Known everywhere. It was said that he was the later Jewish Consul BGH once as a young man, as the-who wanted to broker the same securities, said:
"Out with Maschore!" he expelled from his cabinet.
I have. It just so happened that Mr. H. had a Change of a very small amount to the house Ge—brothers R., which at that time had not yet reached that height had climbed up, on which it now wants to be, received. Be it as a joke or because of a older grudges, or just to annoy the Jew and To be humble, enough, Mr. H. let the old AR at Presenting the bill of exchange, they say: "Brothers R. shall "Send me the money for the exchange to my house." He This only referred to an ancient, long-outdated law in use in Frankfurt, which be-says: "that the Jew gave the money for a change to the "Having to bring Christians into the house."

Since this law was still legally valid at that time,
That is to say, it had never been lifted; that's how it looked.
House of Brothers R. compelled to grant Mr. H.— drive. This has now led to the great amusement of the at that time still numerous and the Jews were not very fearful Bankers happened, and the Jews' revenge began: The

MD:

The old AR, as head of the house, sent everyone jeeine Ge—Business associates write that the R. brothers do not make any bills of exchange.
would focus more on the house of G. and H. and that One should therefore no longer inject such things into him.
May. Of course, all the houses believed in which the circular was directed, no differently than that H.
was no longer so solvent or at least fluctuating.

Although the Christian House G. and H. now this Seeking to parry the mighty blow, it nevertheless sank.
as soon as this maneuver of Jewish revenge by the height of a first banker's house to the range smaller houses and never recovered.
The old, venerable H. was overcome with grief over this announcement.
Occasionally he became ill and died, after having done much else — misfortune was probably brought upon him through Jewish intrigues.
had experienced this in a business context. His son, a An incompetent person anyway, he couldn't make the business work anymore.
in better shape, but rather set off after various detours.
finally looking to sell his property inherited from his father Property, a beautiful house with a large courtyard and Outbuildings, for rest and the once so praised high—

The established company G. and H. ceased to exist.

But the son of this lord, that is, the grandson of the old H., was not only early on by Jews and Jewish offspring in the cleverest way into their circles = not only did they move, but their entry was also facilitated as Commis in the Jewish house E. in Paris. There he learned he the nice of the house and daughter of the Frankfurt ge baptized and rich Jews HE knew, was with her He arranged it, traveled to Aachen to follow her to the spa, and got engaged.

— — — — .

— 41 =

He met her and married her. When this had happened,
The Frankfurt Jews said: "His grandfather was our greatest enemy — but he (the grandson) is on it "must believe!" That means: he has turned to Judaism.
has been overdrawn. The same is also in language.
and attitude already completely Jewishized. From the An Most of his wife's relatives, in turn, only married to children of Jewish descent. Their brother is said to However, she has now married one of S.'s women from Baden.
have. It's good to know that these are from S.
originally of nothing less than knightly origin are, but only with the ell, instead of with the sword have measured. That Mr. R. thereby fulfilled the intention of Jews, "we must all become noble," moved closer
That is, we will not doubt; for money, clever words
And connections open every door in our time. —

Regarding the press situation in Frankfurt,
It is known that the Frankfurt Journal existed before 1866
For a long time, it was served almost exclusively by Jews.
Founders and shareholders of the new Süddeutsche Zeitung
Some of the members were Jews or descendants of Jews.
The Frankfurter Zeitung is the property of the baptized Jew Braunfels, who also owned the now-defunct "Volkszeitung"

— which acted solely in the interest of the Jews, with-to have helped to establish. The "shareholder", a A little leaf that helped with all sorts of things, had the Jew Scherer as editor. At the same time
At that time, the well-known Jewish scion Peyser was still around, who "does a lot in the national club," attached to the same. The edited by the talented writer F. Stolze-

2

The Frankfurt Lantern was awarded after it was in the year
In 1861, an article excellently satirizing the Jews was published:
The Lärmenschläger brothers had brought to "Happily, by the earlier dressed Dr. Löwen" thal, which in a strange way calls itself Löning, to third part brought into Jewish hands; that is to say: Lord Löning*) joined as the third partner in exchange for payment of a a certain sum of money went to the editorial staff of the paper. Also the former Thurn and Taxis Upper Post Office-
The government-subsidized postal newspaper that greatly benefited the Jews far too much to please. The last editor of the same, a ge—Wisser Sattler, that namentlich aber auch den Musikjuden Far too much love. His reports on the achievements of Hiller, of Eliason, Hecht and Wallerstein, which now calls himself Wallenstein, of Offenbach, Halevy" and whatever the names of all these Jews were, they often brought the un-most believable in fawning praise.

Only the Frankfurter Volksfreund, a particularly important newspaper, urban affairs, a worthy publication, sometimes dared to in his commendable uncovering of the game-

*) When Jews adopt a different name or at-
They had them laid down, in order to mark the seals or stamps whose they who had used them until then, without having to have them newly made, always Precaution, the former initial letter of their name at-

-to retain. We remind you (besides the Löning mentioned above) of the Director of the Phoenix insurance company, who called himself Löwengard named and in Judaism called Levi, furthermore to Dr. Rindskopf, who renamed himself Robert, as well as the brothers Oublin, who had formerly been called Oppenheimer; on the Stiebel, who baptized himself Stephen, etc. A. d. V.

hellish persecution of Jews and Jewish descendants in Homburg
However, as the following explains, one must approach this...
Presentations are evident, and sometimes the consequences are severe.
"Session of the Court of Appeal on December 12 1862. In today's session of the Court of Appeal, the following were to be decided:
Two cases will go to trial. One case is...
The defamation lawsuit filed by the local citizen was successful and Bankers Raphael von Erlanger versus Nikolaus Hader: Mann, editor of the Volksfreund. As is known, he clarified the matter in a fine time by the juvenile court, by having Hader man from the raised accusation of slander freisprach, which is in No. 91 of the "Volksfreund für das" central Germany" of July 30, 1861 in the Auf Sentence: "The Homburg gambling den" committed honorary wreaths
The court found the defendant guilty and convicted him for this.
a prison sentence of 2 months, as well as the wearing of a garment the costs c. The defendant appealed against this judgment.
An appeal was filed. There were a number of witnesses before.
have been summoned to provide them with proof of the truth—to lead. The first witness, the director of the home
Mr. Schuler, of the Burgenland State Bank, knew of one, him
The defense asked whether he hadn't Remember that on behalf of the Landgrave, at the State—bank documents were allegedly covered with seals, from which It emerged that various bribes were carried out by the State bank happened and as a consequence of its government council
W. had been declared incapacitated from his position, only so much to claim that he knew nothing about it; he I only know that Councillor Lommel had been with him.
and have carried out the monthly review.

among others.

The defense then asked whether the witness had not spoken earlier.
held the title of Finance Councillor, and whether he was not subject to the—

On the day the title in question was revoked?

The fact is admitted, but according to Ver-

Securing Mr. Schuler's rights in this matter with the nothing to do with the matter in question. Witness Brenner, Reindeer from Homburg, deposited that the one in the Volksfreund the presented circumstances are largely based on truth-based on this, and in particular various rumors that mentioned in this paper, but they were circulating.

Witness Steffeus testifies that there was no actual direction of the

The state bank does not exist; Mr. von Erlanger manages the

The other persons were merely machines and in

In his position as auditor, the witness had the certainty

received that E. had notable business dealings with the game-bank. Witness Karsch from Düsseldorf explains, as far as he knew the circumstances, there were in Homburg

The only opinion is that the pawnshop institutions,

The state bank and Erlangen are one and the same. It is said that that Blank, as von Erlanger, is what they are, both through the relationship of the Homburg government to the state—

desbank have become; whether Mr. von Erlanger was involved

He could not say for certain whether anyone was truly involved.

It is also known that the Homburg judiciary has many Things that are otherwise not protected in the educated world would be, shooters; that fraud was occurring in the Homburg pawnshop-

proceeded, which were reported to the local judiciary,

However, they had been beaten down. The witness knew that

v. Erlanger frequently does business with the bank; the

The location of the new pawnshop is such that the game—

set

The bank would be completely surrounded by the same person. The witness goes.

He then refers to the location of the building and further explains the story of an incident at the pawnshop, where the Real stones in a piece of jewelry have been replaced with fake ones.

They should be, but the Homburg judiciary declared, that a landgrave's pawnshop administration such a—

could not engage in deception; it was also furthermore true, that in Homburg they say: "In the pawnshop

a morgue erected 2c." Since several witnesses from—had remained, namely Mr. Lommel, to whom the

The above question addressed to Mr. Schuler should be, especially since he has the documents in question with the defense attorney stated that the defendant had allegedly provided evidence of assault. Hadermanns, Dr. Sauerländer, regarding the importance of the matter concerns the request for adjournment and hearing. The absent witnesses in Homburg in the presence of the Both sides' lawyers. The court rejected this. Application. In his justification, Dr. Sauerländer pointed out the appeal first concerns the ruling in the court of first instance. used the term "cynicism" and searched for—to indicate that the Volksfreund article in question is only one moral outrage; in other cases because of honor—The disciplinary police court, instead of granting freedom, only imposed an insult. a fine was imposed, but here there was a dispute. A man was sentenced to two months in prison, and it seemed to him that as if the judge's subjective view of his Objective factors prevailed. Hadermann, as can be seen from as the witness statements reveal, only rumors that were circulating in Homburg castle in circulation, referred, and with the weapons of the Irony fought against a terrible cause. The moral

View of the situation regarding the relationship of The state bank must be involved in the judgment regarding the casino. be taken into account; if this were to happen, a free [measure] would have to be granted. The defendant's statement will be made. The representative of The plaintiff, Dr. Fester, seeks to demonstrate that one can "Volksfreund" did not need to express his moral outrage. to express about an institution which is run by the public Opinion already branded and condemned; the "Volksfreund" only sought to... of Mr. R. Erlanger") in public—to draw; the attitude of the "friend of the people" then and now is well known, and there is no reason to deny the cynicism, like the opposing counsel, who said the same thing for earlier times. Admittedly, that's not something to assume today. The verdict The court reformed the judgment of the juvenile police. court, insofar as it concerned the sentence, there, that N. Hadermann was imprisoned for defamation. prison sentence of 14 days and costs to be borne by the accused. judged."

As is well known, the "von Erlanger" is a Jewish her—future.

The foregoing report on the event that took place

The action against Mr. Hadermann offers a profound insight.
to sink into the immersion of certain states.

*) A Jewish woman named Sarchen Erlanger from Hedernheim, about whom, incidentally, we don't know whether she is with the Lord of Erlangen is distantly related to [someone], was [presented] before a few years ago, the Frankfurt juvenile court was convicted of theft

Theft and receiving stolen goods were punished with a longer prison sentence. To Ichen
In 1866, the Israeli merchant hanged himself in Munich, Bavaria.
Isaak Erlanger, man.

That the Jews at the expense of the Christians in Yranf-
Ford am Main and the surrounding area rich and abundant That they have become is a fact. But how they came to be—that has happened, as we know from thousands of examples.
It has become known. We would like to add here what The Neue preußische Zeitung some time ago regarding the old imperial city, by writing literally:

"When a stranger surveys the streets of Frankfurt wandered through and in the most beautiful city districts after the names of the owners of the grandest houses
If he asks, he must be reasonably surprised that these houses
They are mostly owned by Jews. They are from pulled out of their former Jewish quarter, whose ruins—nice houses are now inhabited by Christians, have the main trade routes with the displacement of the Christians occupied, the most beautiful houses in the city and the richest They acquire villas in the surrounding area, and will soon caused the Christians to move into the small streets to move to the old city, to give the Jews the larger part left to Frankfurt, and since trade and commerce already existed there now in the hands of the same, in a special Christian quarter by the grace of the non-Christian fellow citizens Citizens must live. This is where emancipation must come from.
Heroes come to see how this "oppressed" nation", these "helots" and "pariahs" so incredibly—feel comfortable, and how this comfort manifests itself in its Shows presence at every opportunity. Here you can but also see what the consequences are when

One can treat the Jews with complete impunity and rule without restriction.
"Lets." —

N

=>

For what length of time the Frankfurt Jews sometimes
How someone came to money can be seen from one of the pain—
Lienian interrogation office there on June 10, 1852 issued wanted posters. This wanted poster pursued the local citizen and merchant Jakob Rindskopf, Owner of a commission and forwarding agency,
who operated a so-called promissory business, thereby be= deceptively ambiguous and to the uninformed publicincomprehensibly worded plans and promissory notes
Grand Ducal Baden, Electoral Hessian and others
Loan lots, both for series draws and for winning lottery sold drawings without the required number of to own, deliver or deposit lots, and to the prize draw that took place on March 31, 1851
of the Grand Ducal Baden loan of 1845
about serial lot no. 217,413 in his possession Promises of the same word made to three different people to spend the amount that fell on it, three times from him per= a profit of fl. 50,000 but discounted in itself has fled with this amount.

But what sometimes happened among these Frankfurt Jews
The Jew Joseph speaks of how they spread their wealth to swindlers.
Gerothwohl is a striking example. On February 19th...
In 1856, the Augsburger Allgemeine Zeitung wrote about These Frankfurt Jews said the following:

"Grand Duchy of Hesse. In Giessen, because of Ver= thought of forgery of bills of exchange and various swindles
An individual has been arrested who...
Title held by: Count de Croy-Chanel of Hungary, hereditary Knight of Malta, Commander and Knight of several other orders

|

u

Order. The personality of this man is governed by
There is no longer any doubt. He is a Jew from France.
ford a. M., named Jofeph Gerothwohl, son of Merchant Menke Simon Gerothwohl himself and whose wife Jetta, née Falk. There's only one more thing.
to investigate the multiple crimes which this person partly through forgery, partly through has committed an outrageous act of political opportunism by going through all sorts of clever machinations involving many merchants and Trading houses in the Prussian Rhine provinces in Business connections in Belgium and southern France has connected. About the activities of this person is The following has been established so far: As a young man he went to France and is supposed to really deal with a ver= there have married poor noblemen de Croy and Chanel, whose Brother played a role in a political conspiracy in 1830
He is said to have played. According to him, he wants to be fabulous.
Weise had received permission from Ludwig Philipp, to be allowed to use his wife's name, and since
At that time he called himself Count de Croy-Chanel. So far, so good.
as could be determined, he has because of significant swim= Debauchery and fraud: secretly leave Paris. In Gerothwohl arrived in 1836, after having already been in Offen=
Bach and Siederrath had lived, after Höchst, lived there for a long time with his aforementioned wife, and let herself be treated to food.
to make bare furniture with countly coats of arms, and paid
Even at first. A year later, a [person] died in France.
Count de Croy Chanel, who was the wife of Gerothhad probably left a legacy. The latter traveled the= halfway to France, her husband and child back=

4

—

leaving. During the woman's absence, spent

"Gerothwohl the existing assets, and sold all Movable property. After his wife's return, he bought a house in Wiesbaden, carried out large construction projects, made significant effort, but he didn't pay. After a short time Time passed, the bankruptcy broke out, and the Creditors were left with a sum of 27,133 fl. 28 kr. out. Later, Gerothwohl settled in Boppard. held and operated various businesses there. Initially He arranged a local steamboat trip between Koblenz and Boppard, by purchasing a small steamboat, which, however, will soon be to the benefit of the creditors again= It had to be increased. Then he acquired a share. at a copper mine in the district of St. Goar. Also This business soon went wrong, to the detriment of the faithful. bigger. A peculiar, highly extensive swing= He exercised this power by speaking of a worthless sour= Fill large quantities of water from the fountain into jugs and use them as had sparkling water sent out. During the time of industry= He sought an exhibition in London there under the highest pomp= Announcements are subject to a general agency for works of the to establish industry. He ran the company there: Ungar Cuncliffe and Co. Of course, the whole business went smoothly. It amounts to nothing more than pure deception. From London In the autumn of 1854 he turned to Holland and established He opened a cold water sanatorium in Vaals. He bought large Localities, undertook significant construction projects; the whole The company collapsed even before it opened. and turned out to be a great swindle once again. He played the role of a French refugee in Holland

u Sat.

Legitimists and secret envoys of the royal The family of Orleans. He wore many orders and It bore ostentatious titles. After Gerothwohl had a longer time disappeared for a time, also for a time in Frank= Having been arrested after being imprisoned, he resurfaced in Homburg and Gießen. again, where his arrest finally took place, and where one faces persecution and arrest of his many "Deceptions are a concern."

This report largely agrees with the sub-searches agreed upon by the esteemed police councilor Norer in Giessen on the frauds of Joseph Ge-Rothwohl raised and in the publication appearing in Mainz
Police Telegraph, Year II, under 20 September reported in 1857. It can be seen from this that Gerothprobably finally under June 6, 1856 for two months Sentenced to prison and this sentence was upheld in all instances was confirmed.

It is also interesting to see further police from the same source.
personal information about the Croy-Chanel family to be able to, which are also only from swindlersstanding seems and — probably also of Jewish origin
— the name and coat of arms of the ancient de Croy family has presumed to do so. It literally says:

"There is an old noble family of the name which traced its lineage back to the Hungarian king Andreas III. derives the origin of the fact that it is the pre-
dikar "de Hongrie" and the central shield of the Hungarian Royal coat of arms, covered by the Hungarian crown
is, leads. Gerothwohl's father-in-law, forest inspector in Laon in France, and the sons of the same belong

en:

but not to this sex, and is not authorized,
to bear the title of count, they have obtained it from that ancient count's family unlawfully usurped, which-
half a trial was being conducted against her."

In this respect, the imperial Lord Stateprocurator in Laon in his reply dated June 23, 1857, literally hunted: »Gerothwohl est
appele souvent Comte de Croy-Chanel, nom qu'il n'avait pas plus le droit de porter que son beaupere lui-möme, qui l'avait usurpé d'une des plus illustrious families of France."*)

Moreover, the above report in the police report states
Telegraph highlights that the eldest son of the forester inspector's first name is Heinrich and since 1844 was resident in Peczel near Pest in Hungary, and furthermore, that whose second son is named August and lives in Paris, rue
At Montholon No. 24, we finally deduced from this,
that his daughter, Emerentia Franziska Paulina, who to a Mr. Ferrieres who calls himself "Marquis" Sauveboeuf was married, in 1855 because of Be-Fraud and swindles from the court in Laon to has been sentenced to five years in prison and in St. Lazare prison in Paris died. The oldest
The brother of this family managed, it is not known through which means, to gain recognition as a magnate in Hungary

*) According to this, this family would have originated in Gotha.
no place in the logical pocketbook of the count's houses
can.

Note from Police Councillor Norer regarding the above-mentioned article.

|

ae

to obtain. The other brother, August, still wanted to higher up, because he and the one who has recently been several times
the aforementioned adventurer, who called himself Prince of Crouy=Chanel
The names given refer to one and the same person. We reserve the right to... before, this magnificent swindler, who had the audacity had, identified himself as a descendant of the illustrious House of Este to geriren and now a prison in France= serving a 3-year sentence, among the "Jewish to thoroughly consider the "swindlers". It is still unnecessary to to mention where these Jews' ancestral castle "Chanel" was located may be located. The left main tower of the Davids=
The castle in Jerusalem was called Chalna)nel.

The sons of the Jew Gerothwohl, who in a small towns near Friedberg in Hesse under the name

The group, baptized Catholic, were in Rollduc in Belgium, also named, in a pension and play now probably already under the same name somewhere, their Role. In Frankfurt, there is also a lot more.
Jewish families, with or without the permission of the
The authorities discarded the Jewish names and dealt with the have adorned the most beautiful names.

That the Jews, and especially the Frankfurt Jews
Jews, the largest part of Homburg and Wies Baden and other stock market players hold shares in their hands and that they are the main founders of these societies for the purpose of spread of the game are, and that finally from their People everywhere who work in the businesses of these clean
That cooperatives exist is a well-known fact. Ben Azet (Ben Azet, i.e., the son of Azet) belonged a family originally Jewish in southern France

— 54 —

on.”) The so-called Baron Viktor Herz, which game
The tenant in Wildungen is a baptized Jew from Frankfurt am Main. His sister was the wife of the Baron Karl von Rothschild. The Directors and Sub—
The directors of the various casinos are either
Jews or descendants of Jews, according to the well-known director.
Hartlieb et al. in Homburg. Moreover, the legal...
Advisors of the German casinos, almost everywhere baptized Jews; the well-known L. Braunfels in Frankfurt am Main, who, apart from his fine speeches in the past legislative body in Frankfurt am Main also sees itself as A Jew who wanted to make a name for himself through verse and pamphlets, is legal counsel for the Nauheim casino. About this
The work of the baptized Jew Braunfels brought the Frankfurter Volksfreund, October 20, 1861, the following lighthearted report:

"Addendum to the article in No. 112 of the issue, Regarding the Nauheim casino. (Submitted.) You *) Who used to be very involved in writing and for a certain

August Lewald, who also does all sorts of things for the high lord,
 A relative of Fanny Lewald and other North German Jews, wrote in 1850 under the title: "Graves, descriptions from Baden-Baden", very broad articles in the Frankfurter Conversations-sheet, in which he complains "that no music is heard anymore, the shops be closed and no jokesters and grooms were chatting in anymore
 "All the languages of the world!" Probably to make up for the in the closed gaming hall, he made a pilgrimage to the tomb of Benazet,
 "who called himself La Providence de Bade, who the Singer Lutzer invited to a music festival he was organizing-magnificent and truly princely honored her," etc. Such a Writing requires no comment. A. b. B.

18

They were indeed not mistaken when you told your readers... shared that Dr. Ludwig Braunfels, legal consultant was the first Nauheim gaming company;
 He supported this company from its inception.
 through his talent most diligently, without harming his Patriotism and its respectability, of course.
 The deceased shareholders of that first company can Therefore, no better advice can be given than to consult him.
 to turn to in order to obtain more detailed information about it,
 From what perspective can the conduct of the management be judged?
 and the supervisory board might wish to be understood. Perhaps He even decides, for the common good, to Number of his literary works with a history of The origin and downfall of that industrial speculation to increase, with the motto something like: "Speculation is allowed; it only depends on whether their object is "legal" (not legally frowned upon?) which is entirely the
 This would correspond to the principle which he only recently introduced as indirectly elected representative of the laudable local citizenry in a public meeting of the assembly on occasion the debate on Article 18d of the draft law, which Establishment of a civil servants' widows' and orphans' fund Regarding attempts to assert claims. However, it is possible.
 possibly that his well-known modesty would prevent him from spelling a story in which he himself does not play any unplayed an important role. —

"How times change and people change!" with you!

"This is not in itself abnormal, but rather a A completely natural phenomenon: for man should be able to

— 56 — 7

Knowledge and intrinsic and moral value
move forward, not stand still or even backwards
go. It is therefore possible that someone, who was a player in his younger years,
In later life, however, experiences which he has done to himself or others, of this passion curirt is and works against the casinos.
There are even old nuns who, in their
They were young prostitutes. Such a course
The railway isn't exactly a pretty and enjoyable one either.
to name it, but it has nothing unnatural about it;
The opposite, however, is a disgusting thing appearance.

"Dr. Ludwig Braunfels has been a member of the board since the year..."
1853 as legal advisor to a casino company up, consequently in favor of a casino. He is
It was active and helpful to establish such a thing. In
In 1848, however, he filed a motion against the gambling banks. Had he meanwhile separated himself from the mo= political values of these, from public opinion
Has he convinced the stigmatized institutions? Has he won over their people?
Have you learned about its economic value?

"But why all this, and why today of all times?"
Some might ask, "Why?" Because! [At] people who are active in the field of public service pushing forward everywhere; everywhere where it is supposedly about acting in the best interests of the people, to advise and to participate in ... — God forbid! We almost said "mittaten," so
But we're still a long way from it — to join in the chatter,
We must say, join in — with such people

LAKE

It can't hurt to give them and others a break from time to time.
Time to hold up a mirror to their own history.

"Mr. Dr. Braunfels, therefore, has in the first business session, which is the constituent assembly this Freestate on November 22, 1848, held the Assembly announced and described as urgent: That through the Senate wishes to be persuaded that the game leaseholder playing in Wilhelmsbad is not permitted in winter to keep."

"On November 25th of that same year, this one already arrived Application for consultation and was presented by Dr. Reinganum to that point, extending it "to Homburg and generally to all winter games, yes, even all casinos in Germany" to expand the "land".

"Dr. Braunfels joins this expansion.
He submits an application and adds the following to his application:

"At the same time, may the High Senate work towards ensuring that from the imperial authority the swift elimination of all Hazard casinos will be created."

"These applications were approved by the assembly at that time."
The decision was raised without any objection and these resolutions by the entire citizenry with Be-Peace was agreed upon. And today?

"Today, the same Dr. Braunfels is sitting who meanwhile..."
his views regarding these same casinos in Pejus has reformed, who meanwhile is responsible for the establishment has worked at a casino as an alleged swindler
Representatives of the Frankfurt citizenry in a similar matter Collection, as in 1848. Did the Frankfurt
The citizens themselves sent there? God forbid! Only through the clique nature of an indirect election he is

"I've come in." —

The foregoing sufficiently demonstrates the Be-sharing of the gambling activities of the Frankfurt Jews.
How they dealt with the medical fraud,
We would now like to express this in a few words.
so-called Revalenta arabica, which, as the pharmacist Frickhinger demonstrated in Nördlingen during a fine period, almost consisting exclusively of bean flour, was in Frankfurt a. M. (in Sachsenhausen in front of the Monkey Gate) fabri-ziert, i.e. the one Revalenta which is for Germany was intended. She had commissioned one of the makers.
Origin of Frankfurt Jews, which Barry du Barry calls it, and the main production of this is in London.
had justified it with an alleged miracle cure. This Revua-Lenta was mass-produced by the Frankfurt agency in spread throughout Germany.")

Likewise, all the wonders were spread from there.
means which a certain Jew Goldberger soon under the name Dr. Suin de Boutemard, Dr. Koch and Dr. Borchhardt brought them to market. Also the "pastilles". fortifiantes," "a long-established remedy for destroying "The sexual system," the "Dr. Robinson's ear oil" and finally, the "Morrison pills" are Hebrew

*) One of the stereotypical advertisements is that this product
He healed Pope Pius IX. Whether this "Mastai" was the "pitiful" Jews, to whom he made an allocution
We were unable to ascertain who issued a certificate regarding this matter.

Typesetter's note.

—

re:

Origin. Regarding the latter, it is said that the Jew Morrison once travelled from England to Frankfurt am Main.

had come to visit relatives and was there in had met a gentleman at an inn,
who complimented him on his famous pills
Morrison then asked the question with a sly expression.
asked: "So my pills really did you so much good."
"Done?" to which the other replied in a mocking tone
I replied: "Not to me, but to my grand—"
Auntie, Doctor, because she's already two months old died from its use and gave me all her "Left behind assets." —

Frankfurt is known to be teeming with Jews
Doctors of medicine. One of them, in the year
In 1848 he succeeded in becoming the city physician.
The Christian doctors watched with benign expressions.
They believed, however, that a Jew would not exactly be suitable for this position.
would be harmful. As long as the energetic doctor Mappes stood at the head of the medical college, and with a careful hand the management of the medical department
The influence of the Jews could not be contained while the shot was being directed.
to assert very strongly. After his death, it became apparent However, the puffed-up Jew in his boundless rule search and he succeeded in overcoming the lethargy and partly
The insignificance of his colleagues soon became a thing of the past.
to gain significant influence and was the entire medical-
The situation in Frankfurt, so to speak, soon depends on the mood.
left to these arrogant Jews. It was this to lament all the more, as it falls within the authority of Frank-Furter Sanitary Office, a not insignificant discipline

I

Penal power lay. As a result of his privileged position, this was Jude later also became director of the maternity hospital.
But the unfortunate Christian women who were in this Institutions that had to seek refuge are said to have suffered greatly.
under the crudeness and harsh behavior of the Jew have suffered. After this, it is no wonder, that in Frankfurt am Main, a descendant of a Jew
a managed institute for so-called electrotherapy treatments exists was allowed to earn his main income through exorbitant bills.

It should be sought. It is, for example, an invoice. came to face, with which the Jewish offspring for a two-month course costing five hundred guilders calculated. We also have of the existence of electro-magnetic devices which are located near of Börnheimer Weg in a well-known house would have served as a Jewish descendant, at beab to be needed for visible abortions. But is of course neither the medical board nor the then The matter became clear to the free city police.

That in Frankfurt, at that time, much was done by the Jewish people The Aztec children, praised in the pages, are so incredibly great. They caused a stir, that's what they initially did because of their similarity. keit is owed to the local Jews, among whom the protruding ears, the protruding hooked nose, the Spongy skin all over the body and flat feet characteristic feature. The alleged Aztecs children, which were shown by a Jew throughout Europe They were, as is well known, nothing but the offspring. a Jewish family, which at the beginning of this * hundreds had settled in Mexico.

. — 61 —

What a pleasant impression the charming activity made! of the Jews in Frankfurt am Main since the year 1848 made of the monarchical governments of Germany You can imagine what it might be like. In Austria it was the power of Judaism, however, was just as great as in Frankfurt am Main; in particular, the financial turmoil contributes greatly to protecting the government from an energetic threat. go against Frankfurt and against the general to prevent Judaism. Prussia alone could do it as A great power with its well-ordered finances, to really get to the bottom of Judaism. This Intention was very close to his heart, and when in 1866 the War between North Germany and South Germany "It threatened to ignite," thought the Prussian cabinet all too well. soon realize that on this occasion they quelled the shouting and the disgusting machinery of the Jews in Frankfurt am Main.

could probably bring it to an end. Now, when the impudent Judaism, which contains a mass of Austrian papers possessed, as the prospect of war drew closer, both in all public newspapers, such as the so-called People's assemblies spoke out against Prussia, then he directed This major power directed its military action first against the so-called free city.

Shortly before, the Senate of the same, from the ghettos of Jews, Jewish comrades and still in Judaism Standing crowded, they felt compelled to go to Austria. to stand.

If one considers the activities of the Jews in Frankfurt who observed on the Main River shortly before the war, could One cannot speak enough of the audacity and boldness of these

- Mn

Race was astonished. Everywhere they cried out against Prussia, in legislative body, in the so-called People's Assembly ghettos, in public places, in inns, Everywhere you went, all you heard was Jews against Jews Prussia was ranting. It was therefore quite natural, that victorious Prussia of the free city of Frankfurt imposed a large contribution and finally with sack and pack, i.e. with the extremely rich Jew ghettos Pack yourself ghettos incorporated. They must now give the greater state a good deal. Filling sacks, their little boys have to "play soldiers", the scam with the lottery tickets, proms, and Such clean business is very carefully monitored, and their shouters in the legislative body, at the National- The association and so on must shut their mouths once and for all.

It's a shame, at least, that the former free The imperial city of Frankfurt had sunk so low that the Jews There they held sway and effectively ruled. But The inhabitants of the Free Cities had only themselves to blame; for since they let the Jews out of the alley, they the same — instead of them with Christian meaning and German to suppress her strength — pampered and lifted up, to nest and penetrate everywhere, and thus their beautiful hometown turned into a disgusting bedbug and Jew-ridden place.

Nests made. The same will not be made again.
awaken to new life, until one day the Jews are completely gone will be eliminated. However, Frankfurt possesses the necessary qualifications.
They simply have no energy or strength left, because they are completely exhausted.
in Jewish hands and dancing to the Jewish pipe.

— 0400 —

Digitized by Google

—

The work “The Unmasked Judaism of the Modern Age”
This is the result of 25 years of studies on behavior and the activities of the Jews throughout Europe and should be from about 30 for themselves to be independent and yet each other—comprehensive brochures, of which the present one

The first one will soon be followed by the second, which will be titled:

The Inden in Papern.

All bookstores are already taking orders.
This refers to actions that will be carried out immediately upon their appearance.

— Ze aaaau

This is a production of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing effort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

Google Books

<https://books.google.com>

Google

About this book

This is a digital copy of a book that had been preserved on library shelves for generations before being digitized by Google.
It was carefully scanned as part of a project to make the world's books available online.

The book has outlived copyright and can now be made publicly available. A publicly available book is a book that...
that was never subject to copyright or whose copyright protection period has expired.
Whether a book is publicly accessible can be determined by...
This can vary from country to country. Publicly accessible books are our gateway to the past and represent a historical and cultural treasure.
and represents scientific talent that is often difficult to discover.

Traces of use, annotations, and other marginal notes contained in the original volume can also be found in this file—a memory.
Remembrance of the long journey the book has made from the publisher to a library and on to you.

Terms of Use

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize publicly available material and make it accessible to a wide audience.
to make them accessible. Publicly accessible books belong to the public, and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this
This work is costly. To continue providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent its misuse.
To prevent commercial parties from doing so, this includes technical restrictions on automated queries.

We ask you to comply with the following guidelines:

+ Use of the files for non-commercial purposes. We designed Google Books for end users and want you to use it.

Use files for personal, non-commercial purposes only.

+ No automated queries. Do not send any automated queries of any kind to the Google system. If you are conducting research via machine translation, optical character recognition, or other areas where access to text in large quantities is required.

If you find this useful, please contact us. We encourage the use of publicly available material for these purposes and can assist you.

It might help.

+ Retention of Google brand elements The Google "watermark" that you find in every file is important for providing information about

This project helps users find more material via Google Books. Please do not remove the watermark.

+ Stay within the law. Regardless of your intended use, you must be aware of your responsibilities.

To ensure your use is legal, do not assume that a book deemed suitable for users in the USA is legal.

Whether a book is publicly accessible, including to users in other countries, is another question.

It varies from country to country. We cannot advise whether a particular use of a specific book is legally permissible.

That is. Don't assume that the appearance of a book in Google Books means it's available in every format and everywhere on the internet.

It can be used worldwide. Copyright infringement can have serious consequences.

Via Google Books

Google's goal is to organize the world's information and make it universally usable and accessible.

Booksearch helps readers discover the books of this world and supports authors and publishers in reaching new audiences.

You can search the entire book text on the internet at <http://books.google.com>.

g.

3 A. US —

Te

5

j Ds 3

exposed Judaism

the Modern era.

|

From

|

|

| Hermann von Scharff-Scharffenstein,

former Second Lieutenant A la suite SM of King Maximilian II of Bavaria,

, and Reichsarchiv^z Interns, matriculated Bavarian nobleman, holder of the |

& awarded to him by King Frederick William IV of Prussia, the golden 7

; Homage Medal and the Medal for Art and Science u

% SH of Duke Adolf of Nassau. A

*

0 8

|

.

| — 26 —

Jürich.

Published by the author himself and on commission

at the publisher's magazine.

5

1871. *

5

|

1

No way!

Digitized by Google

4.

Base
exposed Judaism

the Modern era.

From

Hermann von Scharff-Scharffenstein,
former Second Lieutenant à la suite S. MN. of King Maximilian II of Bavaria, and Imperial Archives-Trainees, matriculated Bavarian nobleman, holder of the awarded to him by King Frederick William IV of Prussia Homage Medal and the Medal for Art and Science
S. d. of Duke Adolf of Nassau.

I.
The Inden in Bavaria.

— 0.1. 0 —

Zurich.
Published by the author himself and on commission
at the publisher's magazine.

1871.

Motto:

Israel infandum
Scelus audet, morte piandum.

x

Hermann von Lehnin.

in the beloved and faithful Kingdom of Bavaria
The Jews have long since settled there and are everywhere
Yes, even in Old Bavaria, the respectable people of Munich from where they were already at the beginning of our century had established, so rightly sucked dry. Here too they
They are baptized in many places, just as in Frankfurt am Main.
to allow themselves to be used under the guise of Christianity to benefit themselves and their people. To increase them.
has it even been possible to spread to the immediate vicinity to urge the Bavarian kings, who were in the great Kindness of heart, which belongs to the most illustrious line of the Wittels-Bacher is his own, gracious and without malice towards them-tended. A striking example of upward mobility.
The once all-powerful boss granted a Jewish descendant of the Secret Cabinet, State Councillor Grandauer. The-
The same one originated from Würzburg to Munich Jewish family who relocated. He is responsible for... the largest part of the Munich Jewish nobility of Eichthal, Kerstorf, Kraft, Weling, etc., which in Judaism Seligmann, Pappenheimer, Pollak, Binzgauer and the-had the same beautiful names. When a

[2

FEAR Gar

folder Jude, who the old Andechs Castle — a the ancestral seat of the Scheyern family — had bought, through Assistance from State Councillor Grandauer to Mr. "von King Ludwig I., who wanted to have Andechs ennobled, wrote himself hand to the one presented to him by his chief of staff Petition:

From Andechs? Let him leave that alone!

But he may write his name as Poder!

How this Grandauer, under the guise of a loyal and thrifty servant against the dynastic interest
who worked for the Wittelsbachs and for Judaism, This can be seen from the following anecdote, which is about Frankfurter Konversationsblatt, October 31, 1841 communicated and to which we provide the commentary want: 8 ö

"Why the stinginess of high-ranking civil servants sometimes
This leads to the following in the history of Diplomacy: an interesting little story, for example. As before
Not so many years ago, two German states were engaged in a very lively argument, it was from the One, from M. . . e in the out, a package with most important documents for the other after the Capital of the latter to the now deceased staterath —r sent, but soon returned again,
with the note "will not be accepted without postage".
To find out who the sender was, the postal workers opened in M. . . e in the regulations the package and amazeten not a little about the important find, which for their
Its own government was of paramount importance.
The "unpaid, refused" package was urgently sent to

*

... he sent it, where it was gladly received and at the same time laughing heartily at the qui pro quo."

The two states, which were in conflict at the time, Bavaria and Baden were involved. The most important documentaries. mente, which contained irrefutable evidence that the Rhenish Palatinate, Heidelberg and the County of Spahn home, sole property of the Wittelsbachs and not the new Counts of Hochberg were from a official, a loyal follower of the Bavarian Königshaus was discovered in the archive in Mannheim. He had informed a Jew of this; He had informed Grandauer about it. Mannheim Jews preferred to be under the Protestant Bavarian princes, as among the Catholic Bavarian princes Standing. Hence the return of the package from the side. of Grandauer) to Karlsruhe under the pretext that it was not franked. — The archivist was eyed arrested without trial until held in custody until the end of his life. The man The Jews themselves gave cause for their and Grandauer's consent was discovered by her boasted of their own and their people's cunning in escaped the Bavarian priestly rule in the year 1830 to be. '

But it wasn't enough that the Jews had to endure such a while. to the Bavarian Empire a large and beautiful part of the country

It is unknown to us whether K. Grandauer, controller at the Central Cash Office of the Bavarian Transport Institutions, a son of this State Council is.

et

had averted it, they also thought and pondered about it, how in the eyes of his great King Ludwig I. to denigrate Germany and to discredit him in any potential reorganizations changes in Germany concerning its rights to the could bring the German imperial crown. They found it corresponding to their purposes, Lola Montez, this public Prostitute, in whose veins flowed Spanish Jewish blood, into whom

Switzerland to what was then in Bern as an English business-the sons of the famous Sir Robert who were staying there Peel to send. He himself procured an em- for her.
recommendation to Munich to a banker there of Jewish descent. It was the end of September 1847.
In October of the same year, a son of this was seen Bankerd, the Chevauxlegers- Lieutenant, on whom we will return later, at the festivities on the Theresienwiese, where the dancer Lola strolled daily drive. He conspicuously always pushed his way in there with it.
She went to where King Ludwig was staying. Finally, it was His Majesty took notice of Montez. When the
A Jewish boy saw that the king was looking at his lady.
Having observed him, he turned around and drove towards the city.
back. A friend of the old banker, who also who had known poor L. from Schaffenburg better, ver-mediated the rest.

As a consequence of Lola's fate, which was so disastrous for Bavaria-History, the public's favor turned more or less.
from King Ludwig and the election as head of the realm-
The main prize fell to Archduke Johann in 1848.
from Austria. The Jews had succeeded in ensuring that no second Ludwig the Bavarian to ascend the German imperial throne

7

was able to climb. A Jewish man (the Reich Minister) Heckscher) later brought the crown to a Hohenzollern, who Naturally, when offered by such hands, they were...
reviled.

What pernicious influence the Jews (to that Time and also long before) under the meeting point-exercised the trust of King Max I., who was too trusting of him, from which Do people know who had the opportunity to get into something like that?
to watch, or even to tell stories. His Time under King Max I from Mannheim to
The Jews who came to Munich are supposed to sing the nice little song:

We left Mannheim,

Wish we had hanged:

Ouch! I cried, ouch!

In Munich we are free

Gentlemen and lifted the money:

Yiuhei!

They sang. One of the cleverest of these Jews, who who settled in Munich, at least that was the old one.

W The same one whom one already saw when he left who was considered very rich in the Rhineland-Palatinate, had a Jewish woman

M. from B... at L. ..., sister of Mrs. S., later

Baroness von E., to his wife. She, as well as he himself.

had nothing more urgent to do than to go to Munich to Catholicism.

to become liish and then to the royalist-minded play. He soon joined through his brother-in-law.

extensive business and other connections and one

W. had already entrusted large sums of money to him. But in order to to completely deceive the world, offered

This clever Jew, after some time, publicly revealed himself in the

au

Newspapers, the large sum of 100,000 guilders to

to provide funds free of charge for a planned canal construction project.

The good citizens of Munich, amazed by this patriotism

They made a snug offer, of course, and thought he was very rich and soon brought him their last penny; the old

But the wealthy nobility entrusted him with all their possessions.

When he had both in his bag, he suddenly declared his insolvency and offered 15%. The misfortune

The creditors had to agree to the agreement. Mr.

After this chord, von W. still had so much left,

that he could live in a beautiful house of his own, society was able to give and keep a governess for his children.

But his wife, a tall, stately person, who

However, he could not shake his Yulingoing, he accused him of being like after a theater square. The same later believed through clever schemes and machinations of one of her daughters to be able to achieve a place like Bayersdorff's *). The However, the court and in particular a high-ranking noble princess received They caught wind of it early on and were able to, to warn those the nets were intended for. An “Estherwirth” "Schaf" would also have been badly out of place in Bavaria and It would probably have ended worse for the Jews, as the “Lolawirtfschhaft”.

The young person in question was unfortunately absent for some time. afterwards with a nobleman of good family=) Marie Sophie Petin, who was the Field Marshal Prince Karl von Bayern, who was married in a morganatic marriage, was King Ludwig I. in 1823 made her Baroness von Bayersdorff raised. From her three daughters, at that time the Eris apples of the

In the respectable world of men, my memoirs will be discussed in detail. report. A. d. V.

99

N

threads; he realized too late into which Jewish kitchen he had entered had advised. W.'s son sits softly and warmly. in a not insignificant government post and works Undoubtedly — if he doesn't believe he's being observed — into the hands of Jews and Jewish offspring.

But those are ancient stories, I'm told. Call out! It is true that these occurrences actually It already seems somewhat distant in our rapidly passing time. They characterize the activities of the Jews in Munich. Before 1848 and after. We could still a lot of such charming little stories are told and named= to show in detail how many brave old Bavarian The noble families and bourgeois families gradually perished has directed. We could demonstrate how to do that. some young nobleman arranged marriages with Jewish daughters has, which then, like Count L., the Barons von G.

and from H. and so forth before and after in the exterior and inside are horribly Jewishized. Even the Jews
They grew a beak (the Jewish long nose),
These noble counts and barons! The countesses but and Baronesses, their daughters and sons, bear in turn into the Christian families to whom they attached themselves urge them to show their Jewish faces and their Jewish filth. So would it also have recently (1869) been the noble house of the Gra fen von D. fast ergehen, wenn eine energische Mutter not the high-minded son of such a thoughtless He would have held back.

We also want to now mention the so-called Barons von Eichthal, which possesses great riches and also sometimes, when it suits them just fine,

Ze

have a pretty open hand. The same find the after come of the Jew Aron Elias Seligmann from the The village of Laim in the Rhineland-Palatinate. This ancestor of the According to Lang's Book of Nobility, the noble family was the king's
The Kingdom of Bavaria on September 22, 1814 with the Free title of lord and the beautiful name Eichthal, as well as with the coat of arms of the old Augsburg patrician family pardoned by Thalmann. They possess almost everywhere in Bavarian grounds, especially former monastery Well, what else is Planegg and the former pilgrimage site for? Maria Eich near Munich is to be expected. All this is bought with good Bavarian money. In the "Memoirs from the" published in 1836 "Newer history of the Bavarian state" is how it is described. the ancestor of this Jewish family, as follows: ö

"The bonds on the Agenda, but quite naturally with major upswings sacrifices, and public opinion therefore complained especially the Jewish banker Seligmann, at whose most of them had been negotiated.

"This rich man, later Baron von Eich" that raised, had already the king as Duke of Zweibrücken out of some urgent financial difficulties cunning. Even now he still knew how to exert his influence. to preserve which his services rendered and his great They had amassed wealth for him, until it was later realized that that the same help could be provided in a much cheaper way at "The nation itself could be sought."

The Jew Seligmann, also known as Eichthal, had his "Profitches" were often used to sell monastery goods to

BE

to buy. His eldest son wanted to aim higher: He wanted to create and consolidate his estates. played the part as a long-serving chamberlain take Mr. and married about twenty years ago a countess from the great Tyrolean family of Khuon Bellagi. But to him and her, the Highborn, It happened very recently on one of her properties. In Upper Bavaria, a very bad story. They were... namely "Haberfeld driven". Mr. von Eichthal had an old farmer who was considered childish, but a a very nice complex of goods worth approximately 55,000 Gulden befecht, denfelben theilweise, dh die fschöne Wal dung, bought for 4000 guilders, without being in the min dests, whose sons, no less than seven before to be questioned. The contract was one of Mor gens had signed without the poorest having any say in the matter. They had a hunch about the smart purchase. About that. but enraged "the stupid people in the mountains" and practiced its ancient Haberfeld, preserved for centuries drift. On a dark, stormy night, many came Hundreds of "knowledgeable people" from near and far at the Hohenburg Castle near Lenggries in Upper Bavaria together men and made as usual with frying pans, old boilers etc. such a hellish noise under the fence star of the Baron and Baroness, that They soon awoke. They were then forced under the persistent shouting: "It's Jewish pack going out, "Let's go out!" appeared on the balcony of the castle.

nen, where they with drums, gunshots, hurrah and They were greeted with cheers. Then they forced the 12 charming couple still, their (as usual at Haberfeldtreiben) specially composed in rhyming verse to listen to the change. It said:

The fat riding master

Macht goar z'gern d Kinder.

Den i moan is a Jud,

And a man-killer.

Sei Broader, the lieutenant,

Hat'n Polandi ers²choss;

He cleaned up all his money.

And now not a penny more.

The bagagi,

She will be judged here.

With their confiscated

Jewish face!

Everyone in Munich knows who the fat riding master is.
man. The brother lieutenant was a younger son.
of the old Jew Seligmann. With the expression Polandi In the Bavarian army, the officer was called served.

This lieutenant was supposedly the one who, as as we've mentioned before, Lola has been around for so long drive until King Ludwig noticed it was. He was later prompted to resign from to take the Bavarian army. When the war was German The war against France began in July 1870, offered the in the same strange way, the Swiss Federal Council gave its Served as a general staff officer. Since the clever ones

Swiss people, however, inquire about their antecedents.
They learned how he was doing in scientific matters.
and from a moral point of view, and thanked him politely thank you for your offer.

— 13 —

But we return to his noble brother:
When the Haberfeldtreiber attacked him and his dear wife had sufficiently told the truth in rhyming couplets,
They left again under the sound of gunfire, by
They sang a Haberfeld song, the ending of which goes like this:

Haberfeld drives us

Thut gar nir fchinir'n,

We do not fear the soldiers
And 's Excommunieir'n.

We don't ask about priests,
After Schandarm and Schirg'n
And 's Haberfeldtreib'n

It's our pleasure.

The gendarmes of Lenggries had, as usual, listen from afar, outside the outpost chain, and to were allowed to see it, but did not undertake to “the high to disturb the “watch”. 5

The Lord of Eichthal soon after opened the paths found SH the Duke of Nassau his whole Estate complex with the Hohenburg estate near Lenggries to be sold and should cost no less than 500,000 guilders

for these in the known manner as communicated above have been paid for the combined rule.
His blond son studied in Göttingen some time ago.
partnership with a cousin from Schaffenburg, a Jewish descendant of Weling in Würzburg and Munich
the political sciences and both hope that over time at least to become a state councillor, or even a minister. —

The members still adhering to Judaism of the
The von Hirsch family in Munich are demonstrably of a certain standard.
the descendants of the Jewish merchant J. Hirsch von Gauß

ae

Königshofen. They have — their father, the court Jew — the enormous fortune of the Barons von Greifenklau in a peculiar way, put it in her sack.

In this way they have won over their grandchildren for the be-thanks, which the great-great-uncle of the Griffin Claw, which the Jews as ruling Prince-Bishop of Würzburg after her expulsion allowed her back into the city, for her had done.

A small account of these Barons von Hirsch existed
A small booklet, which, however, has become very rare because it
It has been bought up everywhere in a peculiar way.
The same is called: "Memorandum on the assets-holdings of the baronial family von Greifenklau on Vollraths, by E. Beisler, Doctor of Laws and Ad-Advocate in Wiesbaden." This document includes, in addition to the
The preface is only ten pages long, but is fully documented by a supplement: "Contagonist of the former Jewish merchant
J. Hirsch von Gauß Königshofen, now Court Banker von Hirsch, Lord of Gereuth &c." about his business with the late Baron von Greifenklau, with the express remark "by the court banker von Hirsch self-prepared and legally recognized." This is a cautionary example for the German nobility, who already almost everywhere so exploited and cheated by the Jews
It has become clear that he will soon no longer have a place.
where he can lay his head.

In 1848, the Jews of Munich also believed and Jewish descendants, that their day of salvation had come and gesticulated quite senselessly out of sheer lust and Overconfidence. They had it everywhere, even throughout Bavaria.

and especially in the capital city, "their people" in the Newspapers, ministries, and other agencies. Even There were two at the commandant's headquarters in Munich. Jews serving in the royal military service by name Löwenheim") and Neudorfer used it daily. It is a miracle that the Munich Jews were therefore spared from Everyone was informed about what was new and which was presented as a template. Certainly not! The Jews be= Did they make sufficient use of this science and speak through the newspapers that had fallen into their hands, which the Jews Gotthelf, Feust, Feldmann, Ullmann, etc. led or but they provided correspondence, openly stating that now "Their time has come, too." In their audacity The Munich Hebrews went so far as to banish chain, which they gave to themselves and their Jewish comrades, a To raise a toast to the "death of the nobility." Of course. The destruction of the Bavarian nobility would be very much to them. would have been comfortable. They would then have (just as before) many baptized and secret Jews) as soon as possible to the va= being able to set edges, and the saying that Pius Alexander Wolf in his comedy "The Valet" who so aptly puts the words in their mouths: "We all must Becoming a nobleman! would then have been easier to achieve, like now, when the actual core of the Bavarian nobility still possesses full vitality and regards the

This lion's home was, in turn, just like the one from Würzburg-born public prosecutor Löwenheim, a close relative turn of the Jewish scion Minister Ringelmann, who on the 13th died in Munich in January 1870 and, as the invitation stated, was buried "with flames". DV

Jewish rabble looks down on. A simple Munich citizen Incidentally, he replied to this back in 1848.

Behavior with the following, soon to be in many Hunderten of copies circulating in writing completely before= excellent poems:

call to the Inden in Bavaria.
Melody: Garlic, garlic, my desire 2c.

To all you Jews,
Orthodox and radical

Do you want to summon your courage?
And don't let it press any longer,
Then seize the opportunity,

Make the most of this exciting time.

Grab together, quickly, swiftly,
Grab your saber, grab your flintlock,
It makes noise and screeches and howls and wailes,
That humanity pities you,

That you may be freed from the yoke,

Make the most of this exciting time.

Come, Jews, set yourselves free!
Free from the yoke of tyranny,
Furthermore, it should adorn Germany,
Let yourselves be emancipated.

Come on! Salvation is not far away!
Make the most of this exciting time.

Schekets, Schickfel, Mann und Frau,
You are all clever and shrewd;

Negotiates, cuddles and fidgets,
It rages and makes a racket and races and fidgets,
Children of Moses, be wise,

Make the most of this exciting time.

1

Max and Brager, Assermann
Riedberg, Ränkel, Aenle, then Ertheim, Hullmann, Tern and Majr, Uerzburg, Eldmann, Rey and Peyer*),
Who and what and how you are,
Make the most of this exciting time.

Your trunk will be fresh and green.
Soon they will bloom in the German Reich;
High offices, great honors,

The future will bring you blessings!
Therefore, Hebrews, be wise,

Make the most of this exciting time.

Mayor, City Council,

Soon you will be throughout the whole state;

Nobility, Orders, Rank and Title

They will give you money and resources.
This is no small matter;

Make the most of this exciting time.

Soon Schlome, Feist and Schmul
Sitting on the throne;

Israel will gain power,

They were taken from the princes.

Therefore, it lingers, screeches, and screams,
Make the most of this exciting time.

Deputy, President,

Regent even at the end,
Everything great on Earth can happen
You and your children will.
Arise! Hebrews, therefore cry out:
Long live the golden age!

*) It goes without saying that these names bear a resemblance to Munich residents have Jewish names! — A. d. V.
2 f

— 18 — N

This poem naturally caused a tremendous stir.
in Munich and frightened the Jews considerably Dimensions. They were, however, defined by their connections of the Success in their endeavor is, for the time being, too certain. Soon...
This was again reported in the Bavarian newspapers and in The agitation of the Jews in most inns. Be-But it was different with the wine merchant Schimon in the Kaufingergasse, which was the son of a baptized
Hungarian Jews and with the assistance of those from Jewish tribes (the innkeeper Michel, who came from here), as a citizen of München had been recorded, where the Jewish demonstrationkratie had set up her temple of speech. This ski-Mon later built with capital which he received from the King Maximilian II, surrounded by Jews and descendants of Jews.
had received an interest-free loan in Munich
The inn "At the Four Seasons" burned down.
Hardly built, it soon grew strongly and brought a good Insurance sum. Later, this Shimon collected magnificent change-riding and then plunged when he He went bankrupt, threw himself into the Isar River and drowned. We were who subsequently return to this Jew, keh-But for now, let's go back to the year 1848. — When these

*) This winegrower Michel is said to have been the first Jew which at the beginning of our century in Munich~~er~~ He crept around. He lived in Rosengasse and held court there. In his tavern, he always kept a room open for high-stakes gambling. to which only club members and the innkeeper had access and were able to introduce. The brilliant painter M., a born Döf~~er~~ Seldorfer should always lose a part of his earnings there have. ö A. d. V.

— 19 —

The fact that Jewish democracy was at its height was demonstrated in the Chamber of Estates showed such great sympathy for the Jews, that the March Ministry to the Jew Neustadt resident in Bayreuth for the construction of a church factory~~er~~ to lend the sum of 30,000 guilders was allowed to, with what sum the Jew from Neustadt was soon "very industrialized, has escaped to America." Briefly Thereupon, the old rich Jew M... resigned in Munich his insolvency and agreed with nine Percent. Many noblemen and, what is particularly sad, was, many aristocratic widows and orphans, as well as Many an honest citizen lost his life in this despicable endeavor. Jewish bankruptcy, their entire fortune. The son of this Juden M., whom we will discuss in detail later, is nevertheless, as his father's heir, such an enabler He became a man so that he could provide his children with a steward. stop, drive around in your own carriage and full~~er~~ on life, including the officer in the Citizens' Militia could play. Not long before or at the same time.

*) On April 27, 1856, Frank wrote in this regard~~er~~ further Didaskalia: In a trial initiated by the Bavarian government against the factory owner from Neustädter who fled to New York Bayreuth, for the restoration of a building erected in 1848 from the State treasury received sum of money for his factory company (approximately 30,000 guilders) was pending, this will probably be with empty hands out, by the same, as is customary in free America, has made such a disposition over his property that he possesses

It appears to be free and nothing can be taken from it. It is even probably that the costs of the trial of the Bavarian state will fall to the government. A. d. V.

— 20 —

had the Jewish law student Hänle, who was with the People's assemblies always had the great say, it was dares, following the well-known "treasure chamber riot"
to the Most Honorable Lord Chamberlain Count Pocci an open one, printed in all the red sheets (To write a threatening letter.) The newspaper Jews Gotthelf, Faust and others shouted and accused in their newspapers.
to one's heart's content and the baptized, formerly Jewish university University professor Dr. Neumann appeared at the top.
the shoemaker's boys who cried out for freedom and "num
"The princes were treated like coachmen." —

How Bavarian Jews fared in the context of religious conversion often make things convenient, as reported by the "Munich"

Diefer Hänle comes from a Jewish family which in all sorts of "religions." He himself is Jewish; one One of his brothers in Munich is a Protestant. A second brother in Mainz became Catholic and a third in Petersburg became Greek — United. When this Jew Hänle later married in Vienna wanted to, and the police refused to give him a good character reference.
He therefore turned to the government, to which the police responded.
issued the following certificate: "By order of the government of Ober Bayern certifies that C. Hänle has a good reputation.
"Owned!" — We'll probably come back to him later!

A. d. V.

) The well-known author of the witty work: Ludwig Augustus, King of Bavaria, Dr. Sepp, tells the story on page 376
The following about this Jew: The fishermen of Tutzing had a

Once a legal complaint was filed, this bathers should no longer be allowed entry.
enters the lake near her to allow it, because he through his

The strong smell of garlic drove all the fish away. NT

Payment on books not released before the end of the world to be printed, whereby he particularly cheated clergy and has embezzled considerable sums of money. A time For a long time, he also favored a "Professor from Poznań".
issued, who was expelled because of his religious convictions had been appointed, for which the clergy once again with Batzen had to be used. In the jubilee year 1849, he had been the secretary of a democratic association, Afterwards, however, he attacked the members of that same club.
denounced to the government of Middle Franconia.
He has also already had experience with forced labor camps.
does, and the people's messenger would have to be very wrong if he believed that Didn't his bird already appear a few years ago in his Notices were issued, and especially the clergymen had warned about him. Lately he has been saying "Ge "Business" made by helping people through presentations
-mirroring inheritances, money was coaxed out of the bag
"He recently gave 50 fl. to a farmer, with which he went to the "beautiful free Switzerland" has escaped, from where one
However, the honest rogue was returned as a vagabond.
Feri has, so that he is finally convicted of 13 crimes and 8 offenses of fraud from the Court of Appeal of Mittel
Franken before the public session of the city court Ansbach was expelled, whereas Monheimerche now has filed the appeal for annulment in vain, so that he would soon receive a summons from the Ansbach judges
A decent supply was undoubtedly promised.
will be."

Just as the Ständelommer had tolerated that the Jews from Neustadt who later embezzled 30,000 guilders

They were loaned by the ministry, she also gave them as soon their approval for a new subscription loan. With reference to this loan from the finance department ministers (Lerchenfeld?) wrote the Munich officials at that time Leaves The following:

"It is on this basis that the estates will lighten Subscriptions Loans at Bankhaus Rothschild an advance of one million in two installments to 500,000 guilders were withdrawn, which were immediately spent in 4 Two appointments for 200,000 fl. and two appointments for 100,000 fl. It was repaid. However, the same Jewish house not only the good interest rates, of 34,527 fl. 48 kr., but also for his trouble (Pro Vision) got an extra 10,000 fl. One must have... to admit that the House of Rothschild was not shortchanged in this regard has come."

This shows once again what significant These loans always yield commissions to the Jews. But all these loans only bring small returns. Visions and interest against what the Jew at the stone The ups and downs of government bonds, as well as the changing Course of paper money earned. For a long time it has been It was therefore the most ardent pursuit of Bavarian Jews, who to get the government to create paper money. She had, until now, kept quite far away from it. and only the Bavarian mortgage and exchange bank has Paper money was issued in very small amounts. Jude Fischel-Arnheim from Bayreuth — a city where, Incidentally, the formerly silver buttons on the Jackets of the local farmers, long since stolen by the Jews have been turned into lead, brought "the necessity" "Not creating paper money" several times in the stands Chamber in proposal. Regarding a meeting held on this matter. "The e Postzeitung" reported this in the year 1851 as follows:

2

"Munich, February 21. Expenditures and income" are established, that is now settled; but the Coverage is the point of contention that still determines the matter. The deficit is there, the need to cover it. Likewise, but the approach is questionable. The reason Possessions should be taxed; according to other opinions, all possessions should be taxed. Taxable. The matter is indeed double-edged. tes face. Mr. Arnheim=Fischel suggested as a means of the He had paper money as cover. He had it for this purpose. brought nineteen different types of paper money and followed the conclusion of the analogy in justifying the Matter. During his warmly delivered intercession. He held up a paper wallet. Mr. Römmich took it from him, Mr. Lang spread it out. on his table and looked at the thus educated Chart. It was by way of magic or the The change came back into the hands of Mr. Arnheim, without me the moment of return to the former Hand could have noticed — absit omen. Mr. Arn= Heim also recommended his paper to the Finance Minister. and therefore endeavored to go to the ministerial table, alone Mr. Aschenbrenner, Your Excellency, resisted with both hands. ab; he yielded to his opponent's intrusion, laid down However, Mr. Arnheim's paper was immediately placed on the table. of the house, and here Mr. President of the Chamber defended himself also ab. No member of the chamber touched the The questionable nature of this remedy, and yet Mr. Arnheim had He himself hinted: Whoever needs paper money must pay a premium. pay; and whoever exchanges such things must pay a premium. "Len. Who's changing?"

— 26 —

Referring to this fish, Arnhem brought the "Nürnberger Correspondent" towards the end of September 1863 the following message:

"Munich, September 29th. Mr. Member of the State Parliament" Dr. Arnheim from Bayreuth is from the city council

Hof was appointed an honorary citizen.
"in recognition of his outstanding merits, which He has been concerned with the well-being of for a number of years.
the municipality has acquired." The corresponding decision of the Both parish councils have received the most humble confirmation.
Hold on. Dr. Arnheim is the first Israeli in Bavaria.
to whom one of our cities has granted honorary citizenship will be loaned; he has been a representative of the for fifteen years.
Hof constituency in the Chamber of Deputies and Since then, also always a member and secretary of the first
Committee, currently also a member of the legislative committee Committee of the Chamber."

There is no doubt that the Jew Fischel~~A~~ruheim has been around the city of Hof for a number of years
He had earned merit. The community owed him a debt of gratitude.
probably also the appointment of the baptized Jew Hellmann to the council at their district court. This Hell~~A~~ Mann had been a lawyer in Weismain until a few years earlier, where one can talk about one's way of making money, all sorts of things He told stories. Suddenly (in 1859?) he became

— 27 —

Rath in Hof, although he had never been there before.
had served in royal state service. A few Years later, he was even appointed as a district court judge.
to Lohr in Lower Franconia. He brought a document there. may have nearly 100,000 fl. with him, which he in white~~A~~ main and court had "earned", because, although in Serving in royal state service, he drove on and on all sorts of money speculation.

Although he had converted to Catholicism and outwardly observing its forms, he nevertheless stood by name~~A~~ lich, when he was still in Hof, with his former faith~~A~~ They always enjoyed themselves in the best possible way. They worked continually into his hand, while he himself in every way also protected. Soon the
The scribe and even the other councilors at the court in Lohr, that the baptized Jew always treats the Jews with special care.

whose politeness he treated and often brought them into his cabinet invited them, where they then "conspired" with each other. Against The Lord Councilor appeared before Protestants and Catholics.
always cold and arrogant, unless they are very were wealthy or held a position in which they could be useful to him.
The councilors of the college recognized "that it was with not far from the Catholicism of Mr. Rath Hellmann

"Here be." The proof of this was soon found.
in the following:

When a Se ER was once in Hof
As announced, the baptized Jew allowed himself to be seen under the pre-to sign off, "that today is a public holiday." There but on that day neither a Protestant nor a

— 28 —

It was a Catholic holiday, so the other council members saw themselves.
and the writers looked bewildered, finally searching in the Sulz-Bacher calendar and found that this day was a
It was a "Jewish holiday." The Jew who had converted to Catholicism
So he secretly still adhered to the Jewish faith! In Lohr should present Mr. Rath with several very similar items.
Stories are told with fine gusto. — When he was born on August 1, 1868
He died there shortly before, when he had spent some time conferred with a rabbi"). Whether fine friend Fischel, who is now long dead, outwardly also in the Christianthum stand, we do not know, and look inside Nobody.

What a hideous usury the Jews committed throughout Bavaria with grain, cattle, etc., drive, as they are everywhere known as counterfeiter.
of spirits, wine and other beverages are known for acting as mortgage creditors and Destroyers of goods after the revolutionary years,

"") On the secret Judaism in Spain at the time of Emperor
I discussed Charles V in my work "The Jews in Frankfurt am Main".

a striking piece of evidence has been given. The “Js” published in Mainz “raelit” also recently featured Spain under the heading
The following:

"Until just a few decades ago, in Spain
secret Jews lived who publicly converted to Christianity known; a German fellow believer who served under Napoleon who had participated in the German campaign once told us the following Strange story: "I was," he recounted, "once in a house in which the head of the family is deathly ill lay prone. While I was eating my supper, it appeared a clergyman to administer the last rites to the sick man.

— 29 —

The “Volksbote” in Munich reported on this extensively.
judgments, some of which we will eject and let follow:
"It is written of the Rhön region that here everything
Half a lot of schnapps is drunk; but since the grain
Because potatoes are too expensive and scarce, they prepare...
Jews made a spirit from spirits, which soothes the breast and stomach
It eats away at food and is extremely harmful to health. It is almost no innkeeper who doesn't drink this hellish water gives." |
Furthermore, a correspondence from the same states:
Leaf: .
"From the Alz:" "Dear Volksbot', you recently asked in your newsletter how one feels about being comforted
How do the caged Jews behave? It's really supposed to be like that.
Something may have happened and we hope to see you again safely.
to be able to give a definitive answer about it. But this much is certain, that the Jew Bauer is currently between Trostberg
and does business in Tittmoning and now in Freits

But with his last ounce of strength, he pushed the clergyman back.
and cried out: “Shema Yisrael!” Then the clergyman lowered the raised [penis/penis/etc.].
I fell to the ground with the cross and cried: “Hashchem Eloheinu!”
But he laid down his knife and fork, rose, and spoke with loud voice: “Haschem Echad!” Was that a recognition signal?

Scene! The sick man and the clergyman were both secret Jews who lived in They recognized their brother in the foreign soldier! The sick house
The man recovered and lived for a few more days; he had, when when he died, the comfort that fellow believers closed his eyes pressed."

The author of the book, "The Bible in Spain," adds:
more about this, which we will discuss in detail under "Jews in Spain".
will be remembered! A. d. V.

36 euros

Moos, on behalf of a captain, to Munich Farmstead destroyed. Also in other places between He conducts his business on the Alz and Salzach rivers. Meanwhile, the consequences of the destruction of goods, which have been lamented elsewhere even in this area, which has so far been largely spared
"Don't keep us waiting long."

Then, a few weeks later, he writes to the same paper
later, warning and admonishing, "From the court Rothenfels, a countryman:

"Dear People's Messenger, the pernicious Jewish usury is at not to describe us at all; not the Jews will not oppressed here by the Christians, but the other way around, the Jews are crushing the Christians. But the cancerous damage
It remains incurable unless dealt with differently in the courts.
continue to deal with the Jews because of their usury.
will be. Those who are divorced, of course, remain separate from the Jews.
away, but the foolish and simple-minded should then but they also have protection from the authorities. If
For example, a Christian only received 50 fl. from a Jew.
has, but had to write 85 for it, and this one Terher states in court why the Jew is not punished? (The Volksbot' already knows of district judges who...) have a good mixture for such Hebrews, and with every Prescription only after holding a rigorous exam: but free
There are also farmers who, to their own detriment, not tell the truth in court, but state that (they would have actually received what they did not receive.)

On April 30, 1852, the same person then writes
A leaf that dared to stand alone against the frauds
To proceed against the Jews, the following:

— 21

"In Frankenthal, the negotiations of the Court of the Disciplinary Police against the Hebrew Isaac Kuhn of Bissersheim for usury and deception, after they on Started on March 29th, on April 4th at 8 pm, her
The end has been reached. Because Kuhn is a tremendously "great Ko".
"chem" is, so one believed that with this usury
The process wouldn't yield much; the end of the
But the song taught people something quite different. In
In comparison to the countless "measurement mats" that this Haupt "Bekrimpler" has been doing for many years,
The 63 indictments are admittedly a small number, but Many of them are very significant and even serious in themselves, than those in the trials of the two-legged Palatine wolves.
Kuhn, as I said, cooks, a clever fox, therefore More cunning than the wolves, initially in the Jewish manner appeared in court quite brazenly, until the weight of Transfers and the stark warnings of the President Mohl voted him down so much that he ultimately a truly pathetic, pathetic face was cut. Almost at Two hundred witnesses were questioned and their statements were made.
According to legend, the disgracefulness of usurious
Driving and deception, particularly in two cases displayed little effort. One listener of the whole
The court writes: "But it was truly outrageous."
to hear how attempts to be made through intermediaries Stabbing of individual witnesses was carried out, and no less so.
four times, it was actually a false testimony.
Until the protocol was recorded, these people refrained from doing so.
come, and first the fear of the impending punishment held her back from signing and brought her to Confession that they lied. They were brought to justice in disgrace. chased out of the courtroom, a punishment that was certainly appropriate for such people are still too few, so reyeing

 "It must also appear to an honest man." Under These rascals also included 2 "meschossem" of the Jews Kuhn, the Mackler Leppel from Obersulzen and the merchant Jew Joseph Simon von Neuleiningen. As They stated that their statements should be recorded in the minutes.
 Trembling and shaking, the statement was delivered: "Mr. President= Dent, we lied and we'll take everything back; our memory is weak." As she was out After leaving the courtroom, 'the:' stated:
 Court President: "That's horrible," to which, immediately=
 In response, Simon remarked: "jo is es gräß= lich", while Leppel with a humble "I em=
 "Recommend Mick to you" as he left the hall. The two "Me=
 "Schossem" were probably of the opinion: "As "If Purim is no Jontef and Gedaches is no Krenk," then it is A false testimony is not perjury. — The State Department
 Hörde requested a fine of [amount] against Kuhn.
 15,700 fl., as half of the usurious capital, and two Years in prison for defrauding the system."

On the occasion of the event held on October 18, 1852= have auction of diamonds and jewels from the Munich pawnshop, whose value is based on more which was supposed to amount to two times one hundred thousand guilders,
 The "Volksbote" once again exposes the machinations of the Munich and foreign Jews in a crude manner, so:

"— At the auction of valuables at the
 The town hall houses local and foreign businesspeople.

— 38 —

mostly Hebrews, made good "Mass mats" and a large "Rebach" was drawn. Israelites and "Goyim"
 They made similar "mocks" at the auction and later the newly acquired items in the "Bavarian Court" auctioned it off again amongst themselves. The chief Jew, from whom

If this profitable proposal runs out, a well-known Local businessmen. The magistrate is supposed to be responsible for the newly acquired treasures have generated 120,000 fl.; But what he was “crispy” about during this maneuver:
that is not known. (It seems striking that the Magistrate of this agreed-upon business operation
macher felt nothing and didn't have any idea has pushed.)"

When Jewish usury in Munich became prevalent towards the end of
When the year 1852 had become too bad, it was heard with reference to the government's actions against the
The same applies to the following:

"Munich, December 14. Readers will be surprised."
probably still remember that the Jew Joseph Neuburger
— the main individual, at the end of September was searched for usurious securities — the Keck's has had, because of the remarks about his the “paper” drafted by the police to the Volksbote to send a so-called "correction", with which he cleverly whitewashed. The people's messenger knew at the time.
quite sure that nothing came of this "correction".
as rotten fish, solely according to Article 47 of the Press
He had to publish the law in his newsletter from October 3rd.
print, but otherwise gave no answer at all,
because he was convinced in advance that the same Hebrew

3

— 34 —

I would get an answer from somewhere completely different.
Around the same time, that Neuburg resident also had a
A statement was presented in the "Volksbötin" newspaper, in which the
The Volksboten even announced a "defamation lawsuit".
was, the result of which that same Hebrew of his time to the
to inform the public, but which probably still hasn't happened to this day which has not been consciously established at all. In his so mentioned “correction” (in issue 293 of the People's Journal) (offered) was the same Joseph Neuburger bold enough, concluded to say: "What the result of reviewing my

"As far as paperwork is concerned, I can do the same with calm confidence."
"Let's wait and see, and it will be announced in due time."
"give." But how "calm" is the "conscience" of the same.
The Hebrews' nature is best understood from the fact that he has been... who ran away; a response to his "report"
The "gung" has now also been completed and reads:
Profile: The local Israeli merchant
Joseph Neuburger, who committed several frauds is strongly suspected of a crime, has removed from here, and has not been able to monitor his stay so far cannot be determined. I therefore request all information.
courts, police and military authorities of the inbound and outbound lands, towards the merchant Joseph Neuburger.
dispose of and the same in the event of entering this to have the court-ordered prison sentence brought in. — Personnel Description of the man from Neuburg. He is 37 years old.
Slightly below average height, stocky build, broad broad-shouldered and plump, has a lively complexion, black hair, no beard, always elegantly dressed and He tends to walk quickly with short steps. December 10th.

1

U

1852. The First Investigating Magistrate at the Royal District and Munich City Court. Weichsler, Councillor. Seibold." Except for this hideous usurious Jew, who, like

As you can see, he sought refuge elsewhere, the government of

yes

Upper Bavaria at that time still had fifteen Jews and Jews
They enjoyed taking legal action for habitual usury.
In the Bavarian Palatinate, it emerged at the same time.

the shameful activities of the Jews. The brothers Wolf in Dürkheim, which covers almost the entire surrounding area
Those who deceptively estimated the fires were prosecuted according to Rhenish law.
They were prosecuted, but partially evaded prosecution by the escape. On the usury practiced against them
The following was decided during the trial on April 8th.
As reported in 1852 in southern German newspapers:

"We've already been told about Dürkheim in the Palatinate."
It was reported on January 29th that a Investigation commission from Frankenthal has arrived would be and the apartment of the Jewish merchants Jakob Wolf and his four sons were searched and found.
all existing books and papers of these wolves seized because of reports of serious crimes Usury was charged against them. The drafted debt
The documents of these Jews were said to be, as was reported at the time,
It amounted to over a quarter of a million guilders. Afterwards,
One of these wolves rebelled violently in the newspapers, that one should charge usury to such kind-hearted people as they are.
and wanted to accuse him of being hard-hearted. But since then... the investigating judge sent to Dürkheim the whole
He was employed there at that time. Hundreds of witnesses found
It has already been tapped and there is no end in sight.

— 36 —

The courtroom is constantly filled with listeners from the city.
and land filled, which now with wonder and awe hear in what cunning and unscrupulous way a large number of families and individuals completely planned moderately deprived of their possessions and partly reduced to begging.
brought, some were forced to emigrate find. The stalwart presiding judge, Dr. Möhl, has on this occasion most emphatically against the
The outrageous nature of usury was explicitly stated; the worst part.
But the fact is that such bloodsuckers are subject to Palatine law.
They can only be fined, as otherwise they would be over and earned money through prison. Waih! mer find
"But honest people!"

A few days later, another newspaper reported: ,
"In the Palatinate, under the supervision of the valiant President von Hohe is going to court.
Crackdown on usurers. In Dürkheim, for example.
Jewish merchants, named Jakob Wolf Sr., and his sons Jacob, Joseph and Karl Wolf in Ge Wealthy rents, good business done and in the ge Jewish neighbors lived in the manner of Christians to the best of their ability.
They could draw the blood; but now the Royal District Judge Metzner was on the trail, and has against
They started a lawsuit because of habitual usury.

On March 31, 1852, the "Frankf.
The Postzeitung newspaper wrote the following about Dürkheim:
"The major investigation against local usurers is still ongoing."
Always in full swing. The one from Frankenthal here.
The appointed investigating judge is continuously on duty.
substantial and busy. Hundreds of witnesses have already been questioned.

9

— 37 —

Hearings have been heard and the investigation is not yet over.
to be expected. Meanwhile, two other significant Usury trials before the district court in Frankenthal negotiated. The field of these usurers was the nearest one.
The canton of Grünstadt is located in the canton. The last hearing has taken place.
The court took three full days to decide the case.
And the verdict hasn't even been delivered yet.
The courtroom was continuously filled with spectators from the city.
and land filled, which listened with wonder and horror ten, in what cunning and unscrupulous way a large number of families and individual persons system matifch for their possessions, not infrequently reduced to begging brought and were forced to emigrate. The
The presiding judge of the district court, Dr. Möhl, has at on this occasion very seriously and emphatically against the
The shamefulness of usury has been spoken of. It is regrettable that... that according to our legislation such habitual usurers and bloodsuckers can only be fined, while they certainly lost the prison apart from these served."

Almost at the same time, the "Münchener Volks" reported Messenger: "From Frankenthal over there, the Palatinate writes Newspaper that several days ago the Jewish doctor Wolf (the arch-rogue, as he is described in the supplement to
No. 28 of the Speyer newspaper from February 1st of this year.
(himself titled) his brother, the notorious usurer Jakob Wolf was visited in the district prison and there has shown that he studies something more than just medicine has. He actually, during that same visit, he showed his dignity...
He gave his brother the advice: "Let yourself starve,

—

Digi

=. 8

Or if you can, go to the prison yard and swallow gravel.
Selstain, I will take care of your children after all!
One senses the doctor is calculating quite well; through the
The usury process is supposed to end in starvation and thus the
The usurer's children received the handsome sum of approximately 35,000 fl. were secured, which he obtained from the blood of his has sucked out victims. Meanwhile, the court will already to ensure that justice is not cheated becomes."

Finally, the verdict in this case was delivered.
and the "Augsb. Postzeitung" reported on it.
standing:

"Frankenthal, November 3rd. The verdict will be delivered this evening."
in the well-known usury trial against the Israelites Wolf von Dürkheim was spoken. The session
It lasted four hours; the verdict itself does not include less than 60 written sheets and reads as follows:

that Wolf 1) with a capital~~z~~ because of habitual usury~~z~~ a fine of 68,000 fl. to a penalty of 30,000 fl.
and 2) for defrauding, to a prison sentence of
has been sentenced for two years, and also to the Duration of ten years of exercising all civil rights rights are lost and finally all costs of the Processes will bear the weight of the six-month period.
preliminary investigation and the evidence obtained during it~~z~~ gendörferaus, as well as the five hundred witnesses who testified at the three-week negotiations in September
The wiretapped conversations also amounted to an enormous sum.
must amount to..."

— 39 —

Finally, the "Pfälzer Zeitung" also reported the following are characteristic of the distressing
IE:

"The one who oversaw the fortune of the great
Jakob Wolf, dj, became notorious for his usury trial.
The status established in Bad Dürkheim has reportedly been... a deficit of several thousand guilders resulted, so that not even all creditors, as some of them also appeared to his usurious debtors, fully be~~z~~ can be satisfied. Whether this involves entirely natural means.
have been involved in various things, or whether there were perhaps sham sales
I am unable to specify whether such events took place;
One would think that usury would hardly be the
The effort would be worthwhile even if nothing came of it.

While the trial against these Jews is underway was, the government of the Palatinate (at whose head the very deserving gentleman of high rank) caused, to take energetic action against several other usurious Jews~~z~~
go. Among other things, this matter was reported.
the "Augsburger Postzeitung" as follows:

"From the Vosges Mountains, May 3rd. Recently..."

The Grünstadt usurer Levi was sentenced to a heavy fine.
convicted, the major judicial inquiry against the
The Dürkheim money-grubbing Jews' bar is not yet closed and is open for business.
Sayings are ripe, — and already it's with someone else again.
Fellow believers and financial comrades, the Sfraelite Wolf in Maikammer, a judicial investigation concerning the same Proceedings have been initiated. It is quite right and in accordance with the law.
Highly commendable: our courts go

— 40 —

the gnawing cancer damage to our rural population with Water and fire to the body. But it is also time, when Our middle class will not soon be deprived of their homes and possessions.
hunts and, through no fault of their own, becomes impoverished, living on the brink of starvation.
Our oppressed time and money situation, that Completely vanished trust, the fallen credit instead of a farmer who still owes several thousand guilders owns free assets, not the ability to acquire some wealth.
to borrow one gulden from a Christian.
speculative Jews, who often risk something small in order to Those who win big things are then very accommodating, give
They do what he asks for with pleasure, but they do such things Conditions that, if he is to fulfill them later, he e.g. for 300-400 fl. borrowed money from his 1500 — 2000 fl. of assessed real estate is lost. Only through such a lucrative usury business it was possible-
It is possible that today the Jews are our richest capitalists are. We know some who were still doing that 50 years ago.
Beggar's sack carried from place to place, but today through their speculative activity in possession of assets from 100 — 150,000 fl. find.“

Regarding the Jew mentioned in the preceding article
Levi in Grünstadt, it was learned towards the end of the year, that the same, despite an appeal, for 5000 guilders fined for habitual usury be. The investigation against the Jew Wolf in May The chamber had almost the same result. Similar processes against Palatinate Jews provided even more proof of how very much the people in this beautiful Bavarian region has fallen into Jewish hands. About one of these usurious practices

3

The “Münchener Volksbote” reported on the Jews on the 10th.

Finally, in November 1852, the following was added:

“— — Oh dear! Now the children are moving out”

Israel's from Egypt-Palatinate and the cobbled together

Gold and silver must come along, just like when they left.

from Egypt; and they come here so happily now.

across the Atlantic Sea, as their fathers once did with the borrowed golden and silver vessels through the red.

Hardly had the brothers of the usurious Jew left Dürkheim with packaging of money and monetary value, but with

Leaving the legal proceedings initiated against her after

America ran amok so they wouldn't be caught by the collar grasp them, lock them in the cage and take away their overgrown hair

'You could take away sin money,' so that's already two.

other Jews from the Palatinate also emigrated to America pushed, namely the clean pair of brothers Samuel and

Ludwig Wormser von Landau, who also belonged to the raffi belong to the nirten family, who “grudgingly” “our people

They call them “Jewish heads”. This is the same pair, which because of her activities as a military replacement officer

contracts to money through the Palatinate Court of Appeal

Fines of 1676 fl. to the benefit of the invalids' fund were judged. Now these mat makers are also

Up and away, the money for which they called the “Gojim” “be have “krippelt”, has been brought to safety and the Ge

The judges have to look it up, because one doesn't have time.

on which they can place coatings.”

Since then, despite the convictions, usury has continued to spread.

The number of Jews in the Palatinate increased year by year.

Only they are the same — through the trials against the Jews

— 42 —

Wolf, Levi, Wormser ꝛc. witty — still much ahead

have become tigers in their activities. But since the Jews in Bavaria they achieved their complete emancipation have, especially since 1862, they have also gathered in droves, wise to the old parts of the country, to the Upper Palatinate, moved to Old Bavaria and practice usury there in the most hideous way.

Duke Wolfgang of Zweibrücken and Neuburg, direct ancestor of the Bavarian royal house, whose on Testament erected in Meisenheim on August 17, 1568 to the most illustrious Wittelsbachs always as house and succession (cessionsgesetz gewalten,) determined among other things in Paragraph 25 of the same: “that the Jews — against whom he of Youth’s unequivocal antipathy nurtured — from his territories and those of his heirs for Eternal times should be excluded.”

Based on this house law, the
Your Majesty the King of Bavaria, despite the Chamber of Estates, the emancipation of the Jewish people in their hereditary lands Undo at any time. The weak-hearted one=

However, the kindness of King Maximilian II allowed mercy for justice
He granted the Jews everything they had wrested from them.
wanted — even temporarily the entry into the ancient Tribal lands, which until then had no resident Jews had seen. In a peculiar way, he was especially at that time in the immediate vicinity of the king a well-known descendant of Jews. This was no different for anyone.

) See: Döllinger. Collection of regulations from the year 1835. Volume I, pages 12 and 17.

a

than through only mediocre literary productions
The well-known poet Paul Heyse. The mother of this Jew-Sprouts was a Jewish woman named Saling,

a niece of the well-known criminal director Hitzig (in Jewish community called Itzig) in Berlin. Heyse is thereby with the Rothschilds and also with the entire distinguished and the often-ennobled Jewish clique in Berlin, of which we later, related to the next topic.

This Jewish scion, Paul Heyse, was seen in the autumn. 1860, when King Maximilian II's Majesty was in Dürk always stayed at home in the Rhine Palatinate for a grape cure. to go out with the literature-loving king and be He noticed him almost everywhere, even elsewhere in his society. Later, a small bomb appears in the bold wall. to have fallen into the work, which Mr. Heyse and Compagnie had listed, for the same had already been standing for some time. Time before King Maximilian II's death, apart from all relationships to the court. Nevertheless, he had connections in Munich. enough to support the performance of almost all of his feeble to push through shoddy works. The public, however, found despite the mostly very excellent facilities which the very intellectually limited, arrogant director general Schmidt and later the utterly insignificant court theatre The director of Perfall lent his plays little Ge I enjoyed it. His play "Elisabeth Charlotte" The Jews were the only ones who saved it from complete fiasco. saved. The Frankfurter Conversationsblatt reported on This play contains the following delightful joke:

"We learn from Weimar through the National Newspaper, that Paul Heyse's "Elisabeth Charlotte" "a truly German"

—

— 2k ä ö.ü — 4 — k — — ff — / —

— 44 —

can be called "a spectacle". "Also an
"Fight," said the devil, when he saw that fine tail
"became entangled in a mill wheel."

The one on February 2, 1867 at the Munich court
Oriental fairy tales presented in a theatrical setting, freely adapted Gozzi by Paul Heyse, also only had an effect on Jews Success, because it contains the Jewish renegade, "Ben Abbas", so just as a model of Edelmuth and Hochfinn was presented. It belongs to the series of theatre productions.

works such as Deborah von Mosenthal, Uriel Akosta von Gutzkow, the ancestral castle of May and that of A comedy brimming with Jewish nobility: "One of our "People" etc. were only written to indicate that To embrace Judaism "from the theater" and mouth
to make just and to show the wretched Christians, how much "Grausmuth, Hauchfinn and refinement of the is characteristic of the Jewish race." —

The so-called historical play "Hans"
Lange by Heyse, in turn, displayed a most noble Jews "Enoch", who was executed on January 15, 1865 by the half of Munich's Jewish community in the courtyard and National theater could be admired there.

Soon after, Bavarian newspapers wrote under the May 8, 1866:

"Professor Dr. Paul Heyse will be honored after the renowned Similar processes in other German cities soon here too with several outstanding men of the Art and Literature: A Call for a Collection issued for Ferdinand Freiligrath, in honor of the noble poet, after almost twenty years of effort and worry, on

a TU — " "

we Be foreign. Earth in the evening, fine life standing, in a An uncertain, insecure future looms, bringing life's worries to facilitate. The relevant application for permission

This has already been submitted and will undoubtedly be the "Find the highest approval."

However, the appeal for Freiligrath had no such thing as a general appeal.
or only very limited success. Better go there Against this, the use of Heyse's name for his Tribal comrade Gutzkow, as the same from Wahnfinnsplagued by attacks, located in Friedberg in the Wetterau region
He had wanted to cut off his throat. It came for this Jewish offspring, whose life path and Jewish Let's continue later in the booklet: "Theater and Time will examine in detail the "hung Jews", several hundred Gulden together.

Finally, we would like to briefly address the subject matter.
Mr. Heyse reports that he was once in Rome was to browse around in the Vatican library fein. But they already knew him there from Berlin.
Reports and only gave him what he
He should have seen, not what he wanted to see.

The Norddeutsche Zeitung lamented in May 1853 about this "recklessness in Rome", which Paul Heyse had not wanted to allow "everything in the to exploit the Vatican Library." |

What would have happened at Wilhelm Hertz in Berlin, a known Jewish heir there, who descends from them published works by Heyse, Schack, etc.
Everything for lovely stories about "Nam and the e
They can!

False ing
'm Varerlan

Vu, pe C:

nichfs publ,

I.

The good doctor and professor Paul Heyse is still sitting always, despite his friend Geibel's "Call across the Main" with a good Bavarian pension in Munich; around him the entire Jewish clique, from Mr. Dönniges onwards, up to the Minister von der Pfordten, who, like the "Fatherland" proved in 1869, by the Dutch Jews van der Paarten descended from and with a Jewish daughter, Miss Marx from Leipzig, married finely.

The one in Munich through his peculiar career well-known favorite of King Max II, Dönniges, a former schoolmaster, also has a Jewish woman from Berlin to the woman named Wolf and her brothers where they are "still bankers". The "fatherland" of Last year, 1869, Dr. Sigl published 369 incoming [documents/receipts]. Reports about this gentleman, which are well known to us have flowed from the feather. It has been executed therein, like the lovely Miss Dönniges in Geneva her two Worshippers Lafalle and Rakowitz were driven to a duel, how Lassalle was defeated and her soon-to-be husband Rakowitz shortly afterwards to a better beyond. She has been appointed. Furthermore, it was learned that the young woman Dame to go to the theater soon after his death had intended to, but did not perform a trial run in Berlin had been admitted; finally it was heard that Mr. Dönniges in Bern, where he was the Bavarian business representative, They saved the representation fees and bought themselves a nice I have made a fortune. Finally, it was heard that Prince Hohenlohe, who gave him and his Jewish comrade Manches had to thank, Mr. Dönniges, who still had a few Days before his fall to the Bavarian envoy in Flo Renz advanced, where the Jewish comrade was now warm and soft fits and with the Jews of the Pitti Palace in the most intimate relationships. The highly honorable Count von Paumgarten appointed him as Bavarian envoy had to leave there and was transferred to Dresden. been.

The well-known former Mecklenburg Legation Councillor Adolph v. Schack in Munich, whose mother was a woman from Hamburg was said to have been from a Jewish family, and who also had a who has genuine Jewish physiognomy is with all these Jewish offspring fen fehr lüirt, woher auch kommt dass seine Werke always received terrible praise from the Jewish press.
 His latest book, "Through All Weathers," is also available at [website/store name].
 Publisher of Paul Heyse's works, at the Jew's
 Paul Hertz, a descendant of the founder of the Berlin-based literary society, was published.
 In his
 During his youth, his genius had once strayed so far, to produce a play "Julian, the Apostle", in which Christianity came off very badly; whether this work the
 We don't know when it first saw the light of day. But we do know...
 Back then, around 1858, we had one of
 He received the translation of Cenci's work.
 men, which the English Jewish descendant Shelley to
 The author has. This lavish little book, in which the
 It is well known that a father defiles his own daughter.
 The ultimate modern horror comedy.

Mr. von Schack, with whom the other noble freemen
 The Lords of Schack in Mecklenburg only shared the name.
 He wanted to have it, was already a student in Berlin (1842) with a certain Jew named Ullmann, who called himself a doctor, good friends. Mr. Ullmann was there at the time.

— — —

— 48 —

distinguished by the fact that he came from Frankfurt am Main, where he set up his headquarters, the most brilliant Articles written against the late Bundestag. There But he also worked diligently to ensure that the "free the city fell into the hands of the Prussians and the Jews there now "dance to the Hohenzollern's tune"
 must.

We could learn a lot more from those based in Munich, originating from Jewish families and connected to Judaism closely allied literary figures tell their stories, but we will content ourselves.

Most Indian descendants and Jewish comrades strive to much higher, like becoming a "great poet".

They want ministers, state councilors, officers, etc.
will be. Except for Minister Ringelman (F on the 13th).
January 1870), von der Pfordten, the State Councillors von Grandauer et al. we see as officers the Jews Hähnle*) and those descended from Jewish stock

) This Jewish Captain Hähnle (one of the four brothers), who, as a Junker, bears the symbol of the Christian army, the
The flag, always carried crooked on a fine back, always wanted it succeed, with the help of the secret Jews in the War Ministry to have him transferred back to the Life Regiment. There he sees straight, like a crooked-legged hawk among eagles, because He's not 5 feet tall and his legs are the same as his Their backs must have been wrapped crookedly. The 1867 against the

The opposing farmers in Traunstein wanted him there, because he rudely approached her, throwing her out the window In He then very deftly retreated to the toilet and the royal uniform later smelled of more than garlic
They smelled. The poor farmers were of course "because of the uproar."
Sentenced to prison in the Ruhr region. (A. d. B.)

LE Ahr en

so-called Mr. von Kraft. About this Munich
I cannot refrain from mentioning the banking family "von Kraft".
to share the following anecdote, the truth of which is still unknown will be easy to test:

When I was in the early fifties, out of old age
Attachment to the family of Königseck=Aulendorf, whose descendant was the Elector of Cologne, Maximilian Friedrich Count von Königseck, my great-grandfather Gottfried Scharff in 1741 to his resident at the
The Imperial City of Frankfurt am Main had pardoned him, the friend-liche Immenstadt in the Allgäu, which was formerly the main-had been to the town of Königseck in the county of Rothenfels, visited,
A fortunate coincidence also led me to the ancient Her-House of the Barons Papus von Tratzberg zu Rauhen-Zell. In the same lovely family with
I was received kindly, and I was allowed to do a lot for the lady of the house.
I'll tell you about the free city of Frankfurt, where my ancestors were born.
My parents were at home. I learned from her that the ghost... full, amiable and lively, already there at that time-
The lady, who was of noble birth, said that she was a woman of strength and then rashly ventured the question of whether she might is related to the Munich family "von Kraft"?

Then the lady suddenly took a step back and looked looking intently at me, I answer: "This power finds none of power, but they are called "Binzgauer" and find baptized Jews. They have our name ufurpirt and King Maximilian I appointed him to her address-Urgently confirmed, and they only receive nobility and coats of arms in The consequence of a large monetary payment to the Herald's Office granted legally. I am from the ancient 4

1 *

0

Patrician family of the Barons von Kraft, which the former imperial city of Ulm for many centuries

ruling mayors, councilors and other high-ranking officials There have been government officials. But I am the last woman of the oldest branch of my family and thank God!")

As already mentioned, the Jews all want to become noble.
to rise to high positions and rule — the world greed. Except in Munich, it is particularly teeming in Würzburg, where Mr. Ringelmann and Mr. Grandauer
They were from baptized, secret and open Jews.
Der fonst, bis zum letzten Landtage sich äusser ft confer=
"Vativ geberdende Herr Profeffor Edel ist ein Juden" sprout, the advocate Warmuth himself, to whom not all Trials also succeed; the Kil find out from Jews= blood, however, have long since had the beautiful old name=

*) This distinguished and highly educated noblewoman, a woman from of olden times, lived very recently in old age= old in Munich. Her sons are all well-behaved and well-behaved. officers drew. Rather, another one "of strength" wrote the Würzburg newspapers 1867: ö

"Würzburg, January 13th. This afternoon the body was discovered of the woman Sophie Rosalie von Hartmann, née von Kraft, wife of the Lieutenant General and Commandant General Jakob Ritter von Hartmann, in a solemn manner and with very large participation
She was laid to rest. She was born on April 18, 1805.
lived in marriage for 42 years, had one son, the Chevauxlegers=Ober= Lieutenant Hermann Ritter von Hartmann, and three daughters sprouted, and died on January 10, 1867, after a short illness.
a lung paralysis in his 62nd year of life."

This woman, General Hartmann, was from Munich.
Jewish family. Of her three daughters, Countess Hypolit chose

ee 8

ufurpirt. There are already state representatives from this family.
Lawyers, staff officers, advocates, etc., and it was over already forgotten that the real name of these people
"Rofenbaum" was there before it had the name ber! ur=

old Franconian bourgeois family assumed. They also found ennobled and it is said that her grandfather had a foot I have done something before Lola got in order to achieve this.

The current Barons von Fuchs in Würzburg have to have a "celebration of honor" for my grandmother, which was impossible can be misunderstood by anyone. A Baherian Blatt brought this up during the last Juristenitag! Munich the following seemingly harmless North:

"From Bavaria. (For the Lawyers' Day.) From friends—" We have just received a message from a third party, which which we do not want to withhold from our readers. It will be present: —

Bodmer especially through frequent trips to Switzerland and She became known in Paris. She has been living off her income for a very long time. Separated from her husband! The general's stepdaughter was the wife. from W. in Darmstadt, which she found very beautiful as a young person had taught the husband of Princess Therese von T.

A nephew of this general, son of the Munich banker von Kraft was a cavalry captain in a Chevauxlegers regiment in 1869. and in 1870 exchanged this position with a certain von Beulwitz from the Vogtland region near Hof (the fine ancestral castle there long ago sold to the Jews and the daughter of a pawnshop owner (had married) against whose captain's seat in the first courier's court-regiments Prince Karl of Bavaria, by allegedly giving him a He paid a premium of 7000 guilders. So now the Jew's offspring sits. in the midst of the high-ranking British officers of this elite-regiments, the former Garde du Corps, to which as a Cadet I once had the honor of belonging to it. A. d. V.

u ED

Mr. Baron Otto von Fuchs, District Court Assessor: The whole and half Jewish faces, a criminal psychotherapist "Gisch sketch."

Regarding the coat of arms of these barons, under which specifically the First Lieutenant in the 2nd Artillery=

The regiment is distinguished by its oriental physiogeomy,
I will also "don't rely on antiquated family trees".
later an anecdote which is attributed to King Ludwig I.
writes, yet to inform. The District Court Assessor von Fuchs, who wrote such lovely criminal-psychological sketches who writes, can neither in his face nor in his posture and deny obesity to the offspring of Jews. —

Even within the Catholic clergy, as in Spain, many descendants of Jews had infiltrated. The Father Himmelstein*) in Würzburg and the
Mr. Dom=Vicar Zimmern in Speyer are the first one Judensprosse, the latter a Jewish son.

And how many more of this type will there be in Be Bavarian!

Neither the noble Bishop Stahl in Würzburg, nor
The late Bishop Weiss in Speyer knew this.
And one can recognize "the Jew by his works!"

On another occasion, however, the first one, born in 1870, deceased Bishop Dr. Stahl, a devout citizen=

*) Just look at what the Lord Cathedral Priest Himmel said: Stein, in his time, on the expulsion of the Jews from Würzburg in the antiquities or archaeological society there, whose presiding officer
There stood a very honorable nobleman, published monthly magazines had written in it. But one must distinguish a little between...

Read the lines. A. d. V.

38

son from Stadtprozelten in Lower Franconia, more open eyes.
We mean, during the visit of the false Cardinal Altieri, a Jew named Meirowitsch.

But let us hear the story, how such things come to us from to a now deceased, most worthy Augustinian monk
It was told in Würzburg at that time:

In 1841, a pol~~e~~ appeared in Innsbruck.
A rabbi from Nifer, approaching thirty, who... he showed local clergymen that his name was Meirowitsch and had been converted to Catholicism in Krakow.
He asked for recommendations to Rome, where he was going.
further studies and preparations for the Catholic
He wished to enter the priesthood. However, he was trusted.
no recommendations, but allowed him to travel to Rome undertaken with two worthy Catholic clergymen.
Upon arriving in Rome, he tried it himself with the to sneak in among the Jesuits: however, they themselves warned him with
With customary refinement, in the most courteous manner, the door.
However, this did not significantly disrupt his plans:
He pressed himself against other members of the order and had in Follow this for some time. To the eee in Collegium Romanum. ö

Until then, he had always been in Polish air.
and walked around very humbly. Suddenly he disappeared.
he reappeared two years later (1843)
very modern suits, in tails and ice gloves,
in Rome and then moved around there for some time in nothing less than a spiritual society.

A few years later (around 1853-54) the Viennese Jewish newspapers reported the harmless note that the pope~~e~~

Benedictine Nuncio in Vienna, Cardinal Prince Altieri, :einerkän-
I have embarked on a journey (to Bavaria). Eight days
Then a gentleman drove to the Bishop of Würzburg.
the team of one of the first inns there and registered Mh as "Jürft Altieri". He was of medium build, well-built, and wore a tonsure and
The simple robe of the Catholic clergyman. The bishop.
He addressed them in Italian, as if he were speaking with very well known to the high-ranking religious dignitaries in Vienna be and was finally appointed by the Lord Bishop for the following invited to the table the following day:

He appeared in the small dress of the Kar~~st~~
Dinäle and geberdete sich mit der größte offenhätt.
But suddenly, when the Pope was mentioned, he could he could not refrain from addressing the bishop with a ge~~st~~
You have to show the new gold pieces which he received from Rome brought with them the image of His Holiness showed. -These gold pieces, however, were the traitors of the Jews, by the very witty Bishop Dr. Stahl entirely struck by his boasting and by a certain
A premonition suddenly gripped the supposed prince who exclaimed: "This is truly the image of His Holiness; but they are not the one who 8 r wohl~~st~~
not a len, but a fraudster!"

The preceding Altieri 399 after this sortie Buen returned to his inn and had Würzburg leave within half an hour. The Baherian
The police soon discovered that the fraudster was a
He was a Jew, whose name was Meirowitsch. Later

3

He was initially drafted into the Austrian army, but soon
— probably as a result of Jewish assistance — released again.

It is suspected that this fraudster is from Jews were put forward and supported in order to gain access to their own property.
"As Cardinal Prince Altieri, important state secrets" to research the facts which belong to the Bavarian episcopate Partly known and to fathom the Jews have thus far made in vain efforts. —

One of the more influential Jews in Würzburg was also who was still active in the nineties of the last century~~st~~
derts vom Fürstbischof Franz Ludwig zum Gaheimen Hof~~st~~
Ruth, personal physician and director of the Juliusspital, appointed Jude Markus. He lived to a very old age and still knew in 1836 the calling of the merciful sisters sent as caregivers in the ö = only to drive.

In modern times, the term "petanften Juden" has evolved into a certain Franz Ehrenburg somewhat through skillful He excels at intrigue. He is, as is the custom in Spain, very common, and still is, in a Catholic
He joined the order and actually made it all the way to the provincial level.
the Franciscan Province, as well as the spiritual leadership of the Maidens' Association and the Penitentiary Men were brought to Oberzell near Würzburg. Meanwhile, they were all gone.
In 1867, he told a story which was not exactly suitable was to enhance his reputation, but him, the weighty one Jewish offspring, badly exposed! Let's hear what they have to say about it.
as reported in the newspapers:

"Würzburg, August 5th. A great commotion is caused there="

Here is a pending lawsuit in court for inheritance fraud.

ee 36

which have already led to legal action against the Guar=

Father Dominikus Gram of the local Franciscan monastery
mer and P. Franz Ehrenburg gave cause.

Mrs. Sabina Bauer, a native of this area, who divorced wife of a landowner in Iphofen, was persuaded by her confessor, Father Franz, to go to the so-called= to join the third Franciscan order; she now wears nuns' habits and was from the Franciscan =Guar= dian as a nun, who are all supposed to be "virgins".

to care for, in the reformatory for penitent women, who are from released from the penal institutions, housed, after= to which she bequeathed her fortune of 16,000 fl. to the monastery testa= bequeathed in memory. The relatives of the same, which They declared the aforementioned will to have been obtained fraudulently, since the Mrs. Bauer, now dressed in a nun's habit, is mentally sound.

dend ist, therefore not arbitrarily dispo= their assets
Niren could, deny the validity of this testament.
Everyone is very curious about the outcome of this matter.

The Jewish friends responded to this message.

lichen leaves to the matter for the time being the following dimensions:

“From Würzburg, the “Courier for Lower Saxony” Bayern” writes of a lawsuit pending in court.
due to inheritance fraud, which has already led to legal proceedings
ten against the Guardian of the local Franciscan monastery
P. Dominikus Grammer and P. Franz Ehrenburg Ver
I have given cause. Of what quality this
The information is intended to inform our readers of the factual situation.
judge that not only in Würzburg is there a Franciscan guardian is not at all, but that in the whole

— — — - 85 — — —

— 57 —

Zen Bavarian Franciscans ≠ Province according to neither a P. nor a P. is included in the schematism before us.
Grammer, another P. Ehrenburg, was founded.
The message from the C. f. Niederbayern is therefore nothing but one to the detriment of a venerable order
nene and ejected lie."

But “Au waih geſchrie’n!” the Nuremberg Courier, otherwise a highly liberal newspaper, suddenly changed its tune
The following message:

"Würzburg, August 10th. They brought in your
The newspaper of the 8th of this month announced that against the Father Franz Ehrenburg at the local Franciscan monastery
A lawsuit has been filed with the courts here
the. The Bavarian Courier now states with reference to a similar correspondence, which the Courier for Nieder Bavaria contained, specifically: "that in the whole of Bavaria"
"No Father Ehrenburg exists in the Franciscan province."
This is a gross misrepresentation of the truth. The priest Ehrenburg, however, exists in the local Franciscan monastery.
monastery; but it might be possible that the same still on his father's former name in the order would be registered. Whose long-deceased father was an Israelite who only arrived in the 1920s

Years of our century, the name "Ehrenburg" assumed. There are three more brothers there who were with him.
descended from the same mother and the same father= men, namely from an old local Israeli family=
milie, which originally had the name "Hetzfelder".

Probably as a result of this proof of its existence Father Ehrenburg's resignation was then also carried out by the Be=

. —1đ1` ümü! .,, ,..

ee

accused them of the following statement, which be=
That was right, it made things even more confusing, so that one cannot really see into it clearly:

"The undersigned members of the local Franciscan community"
Kaner=Minorites=Conventes explain the one from the courier Article borrowed from the Franconian Times for Lower Bavaria.
No. 188 of August 9, 1867, which has already been published in other editions
The leaves have passed over, as being untrue to the highest degree.
and shamelessly attacking their honor. Not only that.
They are unaware of any legal proceedings against them.
dismissing a lawsuit for inheritance fraud, but They don't even know with what kind of money Necht one can even bring such a claim against her could. Because firstly, neither one nor the other is ever the confessor of the woman mentioned in the article Sabina Bauer was; furthermore, neither the one nor the other one ever advised her, in the so-called to join the third order, or to enter into a reformation= housed in an institution; finally, they don't even know that.
The slightest bit of it, that they gave their monastery any sum money, let alone bequeath her entire fortune
I have. They only know this much: that Mrs. Sab.
Bauer in the "Catholic Virgins Association of the Holy Child"
"Heath Jesus" in Oberzell, which is dedicated to the improvement of fallen or generally concerned with neglected girls, entered is. The statutes of this association are from the royal government.

rung approved, and according to section 8.6 of the same the Ver-assets also include assets shares of the individual club members. Already from this The falseness of the claim becomes apparent, as if...

“

Mrs. Sab. Bauer bequeathed her fortune to the monastery of the Unter-
Bequeathed to the signatory by will. — Equally untrue
The last remark proves to be more than mentioned.
Ms. SB is toxic, and therefore unable to but to dispose of their assets, considering that a court-ordered application to place the same under guardianship to ask, rejected, and one of her brothers, who had their held securities and under cover for the aforementioned reason, she did not want to hand it over to her.
Through the lawsuit filed in court by the Royal Advocate Pr. Hartmann was prompted here to give her to give away the entire fortune.

Soniel to the control of truth and preservation and With utmost respect. We also ask all esteemed editorial offices to which is based on complete untruth Articles that opened up the columns of their pages, even against-
Include the relevant declaration in the same.

Würzburg, Minoriten-Convent, August 11, 1867.
Father Franz Ehrenburg, Provincial and spiritual leader
Littoral Board of the Catholic Virgin Bertin's and the Reformatory for * run to Oberzell.
Fr Dominicus Grammer, Guardian. =
But alas! a brother of the unfortunate ones, who through The cunning of the Jewish ancestor in the monastery "Comfort and Peace" who was supposed to find him lived in Würzburg and issued as-
The following response will soon follow: “Regarding the statement by Mr. Ehrenburg and Wrammer in the Franciscan monastery here on an article in the "Fränkische Kur." No. 114 and "Fränkische Zeitung" No. 188

I must mention that my sister, Sabina Bauer, Divorced wife, from Iphofen, truly suffering mentally is and that not my brother John the Baptist the one trag auf Curatel ftellte, aberner mein Bruder vom Land court of their district, as well as from the magistrate of Iphofen was ordered to seize the assets in his possession by to restrain her by making him liable if she in their intellectual limitations, they would be unable to do the same, as they e.g. with 500 fl. from here to Frankfurt, Darmstadt, Schaffenburg travelled and was back here 8 days later.
came here without a penny; furthermore bought a house, which which was not half worth, as well as providing lodging here rented, in which she did not stay for a single day and return went through which accommodation would of course also have to be paid for.
had to; furthermore, secretly informing my brother of her death.
may have withdrawn 6000 fl. in paper from the office and it was only after 14 days that one found out that She was in the Zell monastery. When he was ordered to go there,
So she took this money back in the presence of the Mother Superior.
this monastery, which already had this money under lock and key had taken it out of the container and handed it to my brother (a sign that she was not inclined to stay in the convent) (remain) again, who took the same with him. Hundreds of
I could provide proof. I'll leave that to the audience.
the judgment on the full understanding of my a
as well as about the whole matter. 2
F. Karl König, Schriftfeper *

Fe ,Shrenbürg, in response to this, had the well-known Lawyers Hartmann in Würzburg, but a unique one Prepare a correction, and the matter was dropped. Own

Bl,

In the usual way, the newspapers in Lower Franconia reported
Just a few months later, the following...

Message:

"Würzburg, November 3. The former Franciscan Reformed monastery Schwarzenberg in Lower Franconia (Ore diocese of Bamberg) is now, after that order the local construction costs and other needs not able to carry more, into the hands of the Franciscans Kaner--Minorites passed over. Since the sovereign--If he already grants legal approval for this , then it will be... Schwarzenberg Monastery is occupied by members of the local monastery become."

Those who, over the course of the year and somewhat earlier, already had a The funds that had been spent were therefore put to good use as soon as possible. dung is obtained by being addressed by Provincial Father Ehren castle for the purchase of the indebted Schwarzen Monastery Berg used it. "Just always business," he had told him. Ette (father) was taught Jewry in his youth.

A harmless question came to mind, which I as a young man once to a venerable teacher in Düsseldorf Seldorf, a Benedictine monk, addressed: "Why should..." after the death of the great Loyola and the noble Lainez, the "Have the Jesuits really become so bad?"

"Most likely because they have so many ge baptized Jews and secret followers of Judaism had absorbed it and this had absorbed its malice, its Hatred and its poison against humanity in its origins who wore orders founded with high intentions." So my venerable teacher, a pious man, answered me. Catholic priest." —

— 62 —

We don't know for sure if the so-called Dr. von Sigmund, who was originally a private lecturer in Würzburg was and now serves as Bavaria's envoy in The Hague, also a descendant of Jews. The wife of the poet Her Wegh is a baptized Jewish woman by name! Sigmund Minister von der Pfordten (van der Paartan) needed Sigmund into a diplomatic career, in which the same, a poor wretch, who immediately started as an apprentice! The Ministry of Foreign Affairs received 500 fl. in glove allowances. because otherwise he would have had no income at all, to get a He is said to have made a considerable fortune. Regarding this... Sigmund, who was appointed Ministeriales in 1866 by the von der Pforten council assigned to the Bavarian headquarters, what, wrote one after the sad end of the campaign, as follows:

“From Würzburg, the ‘Ci f. RB’ was written Ben: So, the one who is the official reporter for the “Bayer. Zeitung” from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Headquarters, attached Ministerial Councillor! Dr. v. Sigmund ist mit dem Comthurkreuz des Militärverdiensts decorated with orders!! That must be clear to us laymen. The strategy may have earned merits unknown to it; for the Be address this gentleman, who is a private lecturer in law at the University of Würzburg in this city still in The memory lives on, including his escape from here in 1849. not yet completely forgotten, neither fine kings, still his fatherland, still the headquarters, still used by the army, so that the headquarters was often the third Federn as a defender in the "Allg. Zeitung" requisition He had to. Nevertheless, he received thirty guilders in daily allowances.

— 63 —

In this way, journalism is also worthwhile for the uninitiated. call out!

The “Batterland” brought at the beginning of the year In 1870, some very curious revelations about this Sigmund emerged. to which the envoy did not consider it good to answer found, nor did they have the courage to initiate a pressing process to attempt.

The Jews and descendants of Jews in Würzburg received In 1866, a huge screed fell when suddenly on the 10th, In June, violent disturbances broke out against them.

had only achieved this through the hideous usury that he. driven for years, self-inflicted. Names
A certain little flower had a factory owner around
He brought his entire fortune and many others!
cheated. These disturbances of the peace brought the spice.
The following report from the burger newspapers:

"Würzburg, June 12. (Disturbances of the peace in this area)" (siger city.) After the rioters the day before yesterday
At night from the Jewish house that was under attack
Those who were driven out of the tailor shop, there is peace in the first town.
districts were not further disturbed, only in the II and III.
City districts were still being held by some Jews and others
Houses of excess windows! thrown in, more
However, damage was caused by the person who rushed to the scene immediately.
Military averted, which also meant some twenty rest-has arrested the troublemaker. — The next reason for Excess in various breweries was the high price.
of the beer, which is definitely not in the right proportions which is related to the manufacturing costs. Furthermore, the Liquid in some breweries far more likely to have the name

HERITAGE 11

"Swedish drink" as beer. At the beer riot on the Erften.
For days, civilians and soldiers are jointly involved in the Destruction work has begun, but it seems that the Sol-
The data of the seduced party were, which one could either that Can the military be won over for further excesses, or not?
at least lame for the pre-planned anti-Semitic propaganda wanted to lay down, because it is quite well known that the soldiers summoned to the barracks after some kind of ore will be. This view is also supported by the fact that that yesterday in the early morning there was further destruction in two Breweries were targeted without a soldier being present.
would have been involved; through rapid energetic entry-
The military's advance was immediately followed by further announcements.
The tungen were averted. Generally speaking, one hears the Great discipline and prudent, humane leadership of the HH.
Officers only praise with recognition, as does the country-defense, which has joined, so that greater excesses, which threatened to take on ever greater dimensions and caused great terror, becoming impossible. During the attacks on the houses of Silbermann and Blümlein was not at all in the surrounding crowd. criminal indifference rather than malicious harm to perceive joy, and acceptance is not an unthinkable thing. justified that, had the tumultuous men succeeded, one of the two houses before the arrival of the military to break into the protection of the house and pull out a Jew spend, he would have been most severely mistreated, without a single hand being raised to help. Hatred against Jews is, in fact, among the common a people quite generally, but apparently intentionally and artificially created by placing the nonsense in all taverns The most recent claims against them were hurled forth, and also to be believed: soon one of them is said to have said, that they still wanted to buy the cathedral, from others The statement was made that she still had contact with would push cones into Christian heads, and the like. More silliness that a sensible man would consider acceptable. Nonsense takes whatever it is and which is openly which originates from an unfair source, but to which many simply just as they believe in the truth of the gospel; and All the advice of reasonable men remains unsuccessful. Sad but true! At Blümlein and Silbermann Furthermore, there was the added circumstance that they were generally large accused of various fraudulent activities, where was brought to begging by several families the; incidentally, there is between a Jewish and a Christian There's certainly no difference between usurers and swindlers. Even that with under the extremely arrogant behavior of individual Ifraelites has I have not gained any particular affection for them, and it would be However, I would recommend that they be more modest. Uebri Gens may be quiet for now, by the comprehensive First safety measures were taken, which enabled the new similar riots have been prevented."

Bi

Almost at the same time, indeed even sooner, in the small market towns and villages around the city as well Riots have broken out. This was already written about under May 13th: N

“Last Tuesday, in the town of Schwanfeld near Werneck by a mob of people committing gross excesses perpetrated against the Israelites there, especially many

5

— 66 —

They threw something through the window and attacked the Jews they could find. could be badly mistreated, fine.”

And further: "From Bavaria, May 20th. "Nuremberg." The newspapers "Anz." and "Neue Würzb. Ztg." carry announcements. about regrettable excesses that occurred in various places crimes committed by Lower Franconia against Jews and themselves not merely damage to property, but also damage to property. personal abuse of the victims was directed. Thus in Schwanfeld, Heßdorf, Thüngen, Laudenbach and Urjump. In the latter place, five houses were Jewish. Many families were badly devastated.”

And further: “Würzburg, June 2, 1866. It It seems that as a result of the disturbed general world situation besides the great sores of the European statesystems also break down the small local ulcers want. This has recently become apparent in several places. Lower Franconia's old hatred against the Israeli faithbensgniessen wieder in bewegteste Bewegung und Gewaltactivities on the person as well as on property, and Threats to public order form the natural appropriate sequence.” N

The war, the Prussian victories, and the approaching However, they soon redirected the people to other causes. Thoughts. Some of the rioters were also considered. captured and imprisoned indefinitely. As

After the war of 1866 ended, the same people were brought before the
A jury trial was held. But in part, the seized by wrongdoing, in part the instigators of the whole thing were
The excesses remained shrouded in mystery. They wrote about it.
Lord Jews, in their rage for revenge, did the following:

"Würzburg, December 19, 1866. The defective
The establishment of our local municipal police force was through the last jury trial once again in office exposed in all her nakedness. At 3 June
The street posters that have come into the possession of the authorities will be used to...
Jewish riot planned for Sunday the 10th: on the 5th it brings Banker David Hirsch received two threatening letters.
Official business, for eight days you hear everywhere in the City rumors of outbreak of a riot against the Jews; the two leaders of the Israelite
Community and request precautionary measures and legal action Legal protection due to the circulating rumors. But the most wise gentlemen, magistrates and community
The authorized representatives will discuss this jointly.
Meeting and they give the message: one should simply remain unconcerned.
These letters, posters, and rumors are only a reason Loose scatterings and bad jokes from malicious tongues. The Highly wise gentlemen held a Jewish riot in Würzburg
Burg for impossible, nevertheless in various other Such outbreaks have already occurred in cities.
were. For three days, you could hear it on all the streets, so that, so to speak, the sparrows on the rooftops whistles, also indicating the outbreak of a beer riot Sunday, June 10th. But June 10th is coming and Not the slightest precaution is taken.
A beer riot breaks out, which later turns into an attack on the Jews
The riot transformed it. The wild vandal gangs
For several hours, the city was traversed by a
End to end and house terribly; but the Po
The lizei team is so brave that it only after completion

— 68 —

Riot under military protection and instead of the Tu

Multuanten only arrest shouters and drunks.

The author of the posters, the second secretary of the under-Franconian Jewish conspiracy and the leader of the Riots remain a riddle of the Sphinx for the police.
Six people are brought before the jury court.
4 of whom were acquitted. Why was that?
Because she didn't dare to see the police?
to be deployed. Citizens are being called out due to low levels of risk.
They are punished, but dangerous riots left unprotected."

The outcome of the entire trial against the
The following was a source of disturbance: j

"Six people were convicted for their involvement in the excesses."
They have been placed in the position of the accused. All the accused... sued, joint defense consists in the claim-tung that they merely "act as spectators at the excesses" of June 10th, and as such, the trains of the Excesses followed." Furthermore, Hübner and Franz Nöll claimed to be severely drunk. Opposite the indictment, which concerns the majority of the allegations-
The defense argued that the lawsuit was upheld.
Probation for acquittal, possibly acceptance of a crime
the disturbance of the public peace, regarding the long especially on the assumption of the violation of a personal right-Thum damage and at Hübner and Franz Nöll on Assumption of diminished capacity. The Ge-
The sworn jurors received 6 questions, the answers to which were determined according to 2-hour consultation regarding Erhard and Franz Nöll in accordance with the indictment, regarding the remaining charges-

— 60 —

sued the defense's primary claim-Speaking took place. Accordingly, Erhard and Franz
Nöll for the crime of disturbing the public Triedens erstörer in eine 4½x-, spätere in eine 4jährige Sentenced to prison, Kaiser, Hübner, Joh. Nöll and Joh. Lang was acquitted and immediately released.
set."

Due to a strange incident, we must report on this matter.
The division of the excesses of that time is still remembered. When that People in front of the house of a man born of Jewish descent and married to the daughter of a Jewish woman, through his usury greatly disliked the lawyer and
The old Jewish woman was about to throw something through the windows herself.
88 "the usurer's mother-in-law, she stuck her head out of the window and shouted loudly:
"We are baptized, we are baptized!" That's good!
The cheerful crowd moved on laughing, after there had only been one
A few windows were smashed and the "Jewish woman" was given a... had brought."

Jewish usury also existed in Würzburg before 1866.
castle and throughout Lower Franconia a horrific degree had achieved. And everywhere you looked, only... fraudulent bankruptcies of Jews and traceless tracing their disappearance. This continued even after the un-continued the blessed wars with Prussia. For example, it was said... immediately afterwards in 1867 in a newspaper:

"Würzburg, January 8th. A great stir is being caused."
the payment suspension that occurred three days ago in Fritz Strauss, a highly reputable trading house
u. Comp., which has large businesses, especially in grain-

u 1

A deal was struck. The amount of debt is said to be 100,000 fl.
It is believed that an arrangement will be made with the believers-bigern come about and the e
"Remain without application."

And soon after, news from Schaffenburg was heard:

"According to a district court ruling announced today
The merchants Leopold and Baruch were made aware of these insights.
Adler from here for the offense of fraud to the next-parts of Jakob and Balthasar Englert von Rothenbuch to a prison sentence of two months and to a

He was sentenced to a fine of 150 fl. His defense counsel was...
"Advocate Frankenburger of Nuremberg."

These two "Jewish gentlemen" didn't have time.
enough to run away with the swindled money
And so they succeeded in imprisoning her. However, it was heard one travels from Schweinfurt through the same time local daily newspaper:

"The one who has been in the Frohnveste in Wechsel for some time Israeli merchant Klaus von Theilheim, who is currently imprisoned, who had received permission, accompanied here
And going out there on Monday, given such a situation, is out of the question.
Walks alongside his accompanying assistant, Jäger disappeared. (The assistant has already returned to the Frohnveste returned.)" N

Also due to the Zacharias Simon bankruptcy in Many Christian people in Suhl (1867) were brought about by misfortune fell.

The most hideous voting event around this time was but in any case, the fraudulent bankruptcy of the Jew Lebermann in Untermerzbach. The city of Würzburg

new sea

And the Landbote reported the following about it in September:
September 1867: "The trial concerns the charge against the 28-year-old, single action commissioner Ad. Lebermann from Untermerzbach for participation in the
The crime of fraudulent bankruptcy. The deed
The following were present: Maier Lebermann, merchant and Manufacturer in Untermerzbach, his wife Fanny Leber man and his two sons Adolph and Ludwig Leber man, which all, with the sole exception of Adolph Lebermann, who escaped, has with the participation of his Relatives by circular dated September 30th.
In 1866 he notified his creditors of his excessive debt and in this letter he increased his liabilities to 128,170 fl. and His assets were listed at 124,641 fl. and the creditors

Bigern simultaneously agrees to an arrangement with a severance payment. offered 25%. The bankruptcy proceedings initiated against him. The procedure, however, yielded 128,262 passives and at most 81 — 84,000 active members, including the dubious ones. Stands. On August 6, 1866, Maier, although aware of his over-indebtedness, in accordance and with the participation of his with him in common ownership of goods a notarized agreement with his wife living in the community Carry with him. His two sons Adolf and Ludwig, where the former as procurist, the latter as clerk in the functioned in the father's business, concluded, which ge according to Maier Lebermann and his wife their entire estate may with the entire business establishment and the existing stocks of goods and fruits as well as with all external business units that relate to more as 75,000 fl., to their two sons for the

— 72 —

A sum of 30,000 fl. was assigned, which sum was immediately was declared erased, whereas Maier and Fanny Lebermann reserved the right to manage the passives of the business. to sort it out himself. But hardly had this contract ended closed and the two sons had taken over the business. taken over, so significant demands have already been met a lawsuit was filed against Maier Lebermann and the case was heard It is highly likely that the aforementioned contract only to the detriment of Lebermann's creditors has been closed."

After the negotiations about something further as what had progressed so far turned out to be the case, that a key witness, S. Schwabacher from Bayreuth, due to illness was prevented from appearing. This brought the situation to a temporary end. jury trial and was sentenced for several months postponed.

On December 13, 1867, the same was reopened taken and the e above it read as follows Dimensions:

“Adolf Lebermann denies any fraudulent intent in Agreement. Nineteen witnesses have been summoned. Regarding the crime... From the indictment, we gather the following: The merchant Maier Lebermann had been operating a business for a number of years. For years, under the company "M. Lebermann", a large trading and factory business in Untermerzbach, which after the introduction of the general German Commercial Code book with retention of the former company under the 30th. August 1862 in the company register of the Royal Trade The court in Schweinfurt was entered with the attachment, that the son of the business owner Adolf Lebermann

— — — — — 4 . * V ~ 2 — ð ð

— 78 —

Power of attorney granted. A younger son, Ludwig Leber. The man was also employed as a clerk in the Ge active in his father's businesses. This trading house, whose business operations were very extensive, and particularly in northern Germany, it enjoyed general Caution, as he has a reputation for being quite honest and solid management was on hand. As is generally the case It was assumed that M. Lebermann was in possession of a significant, orderly assets, which is why he decided to acquire one unlimited credit pleased many people, namely from the wealthy Itzgrund region, their dis available funds without any insurance to the same handed over against moderate interest. Maier Lebermann, who is also the chairman of the Islamic religious community Being from Untermerzbach was also considered a private individual a decidedly unpretentious character, while the public Opinion regarding his son Adolph less favorable expression, in which the same, if he at least in the purchase While he might be competent in a male field, this was by no means the same. He enjoyed the same trust as his father did with the public, yes. was even generally unpopular. Among those so minded Under these circumstances, nobody in the area seemed to notice. falling, as Maier Lebermann, who has been for many years had developed tireless activity, under the 6th of August

In 1866 he sold his entire business to his two sons Adolph and Ludwig Lebermann resigned, all the less so since the Health of the current chief executive, as it is known It appeared that his position had become shaky recently. However, upon closer inspection, the provisions had to be revised. This contract may be conspicuous. According to this, they had the parents to their aforementioned sons their comrade movable and immovable property worth 30,000 fl. sold with the stipulation that among the movable property not just the complete business equipment alongside the Machines, existing stocks of goods and construction materials, such as household furniture and moveries, the construction man's equipment, the stores of fruit and wood, etc., but also all business assets outside the company without Exceptions and all types should be included, while the sellers themselves the clearing of the business passives for personal and sole execution expressly reserved. The sold real estate in which Located in the tax district of Untermerzbach, it comprised 3 residential areas. houses, the factory premises, barn and a number of Weder. After further stipulations of the contract, the Purchase shillings at 30,000 fl. as cash already corrected listed, namely in the following manner, that the buyers a) a mortgage on the property for the Bavarian mortgage and exchange bank in Munich registered mortgage capital of 6000 fl., b) a loan balance of a ge LF Lebermann in Philadelphia for 10,000 fl., c) one to the estate owner Ferdinand Prieger von Gereuth owes estate purchase shillings of 8000 fl., d) end lich a commodity claim of the Kulmbach spinning mill to 3000 fl. were taken over as payment for personal debts, during the remaining purchase amount of 3000 fl. according to the in Receipt included in the contract from the seller's side which should already have been paid for. According to the regulations. According to the treaty, Adolph and Ludwig also joined Lebermann on August 6th of last year into possession and possession

2 ——— . — DT Den —

nut of the purchased and immediately transferred assets and ran their father's business jointly.
business account continued. Maier Lebermann showed in The consequences of this through circularity last longer.
transmission of his business motivated by discomfort with all assets to his sons who were with him in connection to the established trading world under the addition that he regulates passives himself.
retain, while at the same time the new business owners, referring to her father's Circular, her Business associates conduct the business under the company "M. Lebermann's Sons" and as usual, they gave their signatures. But barely 14 days had passed.
expiated when in Untermerzbach and surrounding area the same.
timely filing of significant claims against the
The company M. Lebermann became known, and it appeared Now, for the first time, suspicion arises that it wants to the purchase agreement was drawn up solely for the purpose of to defraud the creditors of Maier Lebermann.
to shorten in a more logical way. The latter, in fact, could therefore be... little like his family members at the conclusion of this
The contract's high level of debt had been undisclosed, which was fine.
as already during the summer against the company M.
Lebermann at the Schweinfurt Commercial Court, a series had been brought against him by trade lawsuits which on September 27th, excluding interest and costs, nearly 49,000 fl. were declared, as many lawsuits had already been filed.
were present, which soon rose to 82. Banker Amson Schwabacher of Bayreuth sued for a change of account.
a payment of 1484 fl. from the company Maier Lebermann, and

\
he N — — — —

At his request, a ban on switching was ordered.

Then the sons Adolph and Ludwig Lebermann appeared and made, based on the assignment agreement of August 3, their right of ownership to the property with the encumbrance documented assets claimed. After the Commercial Court Schweinfurt declared the contract in question invalid and had declared dissolved, and Adolph Lebermann had given him had written that the old Lebermann company had ceased to exist, and he would receive nothing, Schwabacher stated. Application for the initiation of a criminal investigation due to fraudulent bankruptcy, which application also took place~~r~~ was given. Adolph Lebermann was born on October 2nd. Arrested in 1866. The mother, Fanny Lebermann, was arrested. because they cannot be arrested due to alleged illness was guarded in her apartment; however, she managed to escape. to deceive their guards and escape. The father Maier Lebermann and his brother Ludwig Lebermann were away from home at the time, and the~~r~~ themselves, to flee to America. But now the General insolvency proceedings have been initiated, whereby the creditors suffered major significant losses. — From the public The following resulted from the negotiations: The family Lebermann was always very charitable towards the poor. and contributed a considerable sum to every charitable collection Donations. Even during the war of 1866, Maier Lebermann did not dismiss any of the workers. As Banker Gutmann of Bamberg deposited, The business of Maier Lebermann was good until 1859 and very dynamic, so that it enjoyed unlimited credit. Since 1862, after the defendant Adolph Lebermann was

|

1

The business was managed by the authorized signatory. no longer sound. Numerous changes were made, not more on the customers than before, but on agents. drawn, some of whom protested the same or under They made all sorts of excuses to avoid payment. The business began to falter in April 1866. That, how

accepted the indictment, goods to the father-in-law son of Maier Lebermann in Hanau were sent,
as well as that an alleged brother of Maier Lebermann, Lazarus Lebermann, in Philadelphia does not exist and whose bill of exchange claim of 10,000 fl. a fictitious This could not be proven. Almost all Books from the old company M. Lebermann had been disposed of.
have been, so that neither the entire debt, nor the
The entire asset portfolio could be determined.

It must have seemed peculiar that the Ban-quier Schwabacher, while he imposes a transfer ban allowed and criminal investigation for fraudulent Bankerotts requested to write to Lebermann, against the recognition of the Universal Competition to ee as it would be advantageous to him."

Finally, the Jew Adolph Lebermann, who the Jewish lawyer Franckenburger of Nuremberg
theidigt had, only to one year and nine months
Sentenced to prison, to stand trial in a fortress.
This sentence has long since been served and the "sacrifice-
"capable son," as the Nuremberg Jews called him
He should have, but he's already with his beloved family.
in America, which there is from the "stupid"

= Re

Christians in Würzburg quickly swindled money
They should live off their pensions.

While this Jewish fraud trial is in full swing
It happened that two English Jews, who probably in Frankfurt or even in Würzburg the credulity of local bankers was noted-made were, themselves a great swindle-led to. We are publishing the relevant news here, as they appeared in the newspapers; the first one is from

Augsburg, November 5, 1867, where it says:

“Augsburg, November 5th. In recent times...”

the one owned by two very noble gentlemen who were in charge of travelers from Berlin and HH. Löwenberg and Oskar

Freiberg was called, in Frankfurt a. M., Mainz, Würz

Burg, Nuremberg and Fürth mortgage bonds and coupons

sold, which was sold by the one who was in Warsaw in 1863 committed major thefts amounting to 3.5 million rubles originating from, incidentally, already declared completely worthless long ago and by duplicates bearing the seal of the Directorate-General of the agricultural credit association in the Kingdom of Poland have been replaced. As a result of these paper sales, the Authorities of the aforementioned cities and the local Police headquarters in heavy telegraphic traffic, which from here also to the government in Warsaw

and to the authorities of all major cities in Bavaria expanded, and led to the fortunate result that the two swindlers on their journey to Munich on to be taken into custody in Augsburg on October 30th

could." |

u l

In the jury trials in Würzburg,

which on June 21, 1868 against the aforementioned

Swindler Löwenberg and the so-called Freiberg, which which otherwise usually called itself Davenport, were dealt with,

The following resulted. | |

Davenport had already played in Baden-Baden in September

In 1867, attempts were made to sell disreputable securities.

and to engage in other deceptions. But since to that

The Baden courts have not yet received any further evidence.

Points for initiating a criminal investigation

Due to the circumstances, Davenport had to be released again.

whereupon he soon left Baden. While Davenport was active in the manner indicated, as it were, in order to Flights through Germany, Polish mortgage bonds, whose

Unworthiness emerges every time after its sale

The notice to discontinue appeared on October 12th at the banker's office. Wilhelm Goldner of Mainz, a foreign gentleman, who led and issued the same a Polish mortgage bond over offered 750 rubles for purchase and sold for 688 fl. Goldner, however, had to return to Berlin upon request. drive that this mortgage bond to the 1863 in Warsaw stolen effects belong to him and are worthless. Before Em≠ Incidentally, Löwenberg received this message, which after his statement to Goldner, Paris had his next travel destination in mind, on October 15th. from Frankfurt a. M. from the Goldner 150 Thaler before≠ returned with the comment that...

≠ ...

Handover of the mortgage bond in question, both parts had been mistaken, and that he had in any case upon his return in the last days of October or the first days of November, the one in question He would have to request the return of the mortgage bond, whereas he would have to pay for the return.

— 80 —

I will ensure payment of the remaining balance.

Löwenberg had to send the letter and make the partial repayment.

out of fear of being discovered too early and being thwarted≠ have completed his operations. From Mainz

Löwenberg came to Bad Homburg, where he met the Berlin from the well-known Louis Nordheim, alleged reindeer, who was in fact a repeatedly convicted, destitute man The swindler is also involved with an alleged lord of the manor.

Oskar von Raschkarw on Vorberg near Calau in the Niederlausitz met, whose financial circumstances

-were quite dilapidated. On October 18th, Lions drove≠

Berg, Nordheim and Raschkarw from Homburg to Frank≠ ford a. M. Here Löwenberg handed over to Rafschkarw 2 Polish mortgage bonds for 750 and 150 rubles with agrees to the order to utilize these documents for him.

or borrow about 300 Thalers for it. To≠ Löwenberg immediately promised Raschkarw, who was in found himself in dire financial straits, 100 fl. in case of

To borrow from the realization of the mortgage bonds. Raschkarw offered the two mortgage bonds of 750 and 150 rubles at Bankier Gumperz an; dieser hätte dieselben auch kaufen, if he is not on the stock exchange from the banker Goldner of Mainz would have been warned. At the request of the Commissioner Adler was stopped by the policeman Waltensspiel, Raschkarw gave this man the mortgage bond for 150 rubles, explained that he had found such a thing in a Frankfurt business house received, and falsely called himself Oskar von Frey-

—

— 81 —

Berg, Dupire, through the appearance of the stranger, gave Waltensspiel continued the pursuit and handed the Bond issued by the authority. Meanwhile, at the instigation of base of Goldner, Löwenberg with his comrades Nordheim and Raschkarw on October 19th in Homburg arrested and handed over to the investigating judge in Frankfurt am Main. In the letterbox of Löwenberg Two mortgage bonds and 750 rubles were found, along with coupons. the papers stolen in Warsaw in 1863 belonged. After Löwenberg had the two mortgage bonds from a banking transaction with the Haufe M. H. Moses in London has been declared to have received and an alleged Invoice from the house M. H. Moses, 14 Union Court, Old Broad Street EC London presented and he like his two comrades, every science of the Mortgage thefts that took place in Warsaw in 1863 and of persistently denying the amortization of these mortgage bonds felt, the same were taken from the Haufe on October 26th. released, but the mortgage bonds found were seized in court. left in custody. On October 27, Löwenberg in Homburg together with E. Davenport, from where the two of them traveled together via Frankfurt to They travelled to Würzburg, where they arrived on the morning of October 28th. arrived at 10:30 and checked into the Hotel zum russischen Hofe They descended. Here, they both immediately inquired with the Doorman Lorenz Siebert after the names of some bankers. Around 11:30 a.m., they left the Russian courtyard.

Löwenberg went to Ban at around 12 noon.

quier Oehninger, offered demelben. zunemost einen russisch= Polish. Coupon to buy and explained, as Oeh= 6

ninger the payout of the money first from the exchange= lung in Berlin wanted to make dependent, under such Under certain circumstances it would be better to issue the bond itself.
to buy, whereupon Oehninger offered to also buy this business to procure in Berlin, while Löwenberg remarked that the sale of the bond on the Paris Stock Exchange would probably be more expedient. Löwenberg then departed. from the Oehninger office and delivered on

Afternoon, shortly after 2 p.m., 2 mortgage bonds, each worth 750 Ru= leg next to the coupons. Oehninger paid him one An advance of 1000 fl. Löwenberg promised to attend on November 2nd for the complete settlement of the transaction to meet again at Oehninger's. Oehninger also sent

On October 28th, the mortgage bonds went to Berlin, he= but immediately stopped by telegraph to report the news.
It is true that such items were stolen in Warsaw and are unsaleable.
Davenport arrived on the morning of October 28th.

Banker Renlinger called himself E. Bernard and bought 6 coupons of 60 rubles each and 7 of 15 rubles each 720 fl. 45 kr. Already on the afternoon of October 28th.

Renlinger had been appointed city magistrate of Würzburg
He did receive clarification that the items sold to him

Coupons according to the announcement of the Royal Saxon Directorate=
The decree of July 1, 1864, is worthless — to be alone late, because Davenport and Lbwenberg departed from Würzburg. From the carriage Löwenberg called out to the porter Siebert: "If If someone were to ask about him, he should say that he on Wednesday evening or on Thursday (30th or October 31st) will return; the person in question should

— 83 —

He only dined at the table d'hote for lunch, that's where he met

“She’s safe.” Before her departure, Davenport had spoken with Banquier Sigmund Edenfeld issued a mortgage bond for 750 Rubles, then at Banquier Peter Vornberger a Russian-Polish coupon, of which he showed 20 to 30 pieces, and Banquier Heim offers 2 coupons for purchase.

"Ten. The two defendants travelled from Würzburg on October 28th to Nuremberg, where they stayed at the inn at the lodged at the Bavarian court. On October 29th, he sold Davenport to the banker David Ichenhäuser 10 Coupons of 60 rubles each and 7 coupons of 15 rubles each 1081 fl. A bid was made at Banker Amson Feuchtwanger's. Russian banknotes belonging to the defendant, at the bank of Max Banker Hirschmann Russian Coupons, Davenport near Banquier Dinkelsbühler, Löwenberg at Banquier Leonhard Kalb Russian-Polish coupons, Löwenberg at Banquier Fels and Götz Russian-Polish coupons and Löwenberg a mortgage bond for 3000 Rubles from Banker Meyer Kohn for sale. In order to realize the last sale, Löwenberg was supposed to provide a guarantor, but he didn't. again. On October 29, the two defendants travelled to Augsburg, but gave Regensburg as the only option, to falsify Led to guide, as a travel destination. — With the stay A case involving the two defendants in Nuremberg is also pending. characteristic meeting of Davenport with the Octavia Wolf, daughter of a pawnshop official from Nuremberg together. She used to be the buffet lady at the café. Lorenz served in Munich, where she served the accused. Davenport, who called himself Edmund Bernard, was seen more often. and for an American captain, sometimes also

Amen then nn
DE EEE 84

— 84 —

spent on an American consul. Davenport struck up a love affair with 21-year-old Oktavia Wolf. He entered into a relationship and promised to marry her. As a result Oktavia Wolf left her post and travelled with Her lover went to London. There she was taken by the

 He was housed with a working-class family named Röder. There Venport left them there in impoverished conditions and he explained to her that he could not leave her with his family.
 to bring it, as this was against English custom. He stated later, an old man was mistaken for his supposed husband.
 her father, with whom Octavia Wolf did not could communicate, since she was completely fluent in the English language is utterly ignorant. Since Davenport is not involved in the wedding forward step and the same only from certain Ge Wanted to know if he had become dependent, the Octa traveled via Wolf back to her homeland. She had from Davenport only received small items as gifts and had to sell a taffeta dress in London before her departure.
 to put, since her lover doesn't have much money to spare
 She explained that she had to pay for her trip home to cover the costs.
 to be able to deny it. Davenport led them to the Iron One train. Nevertheless, Oktavia Wolf continued her love affair. through correspondence with Davenport. During his During his last visit to Nuremberg, Davenport visited his lover in her apartment and delivered 100 fl.
 in gold, so that she could buy a dress with it, since he was hers I'm afraid of missing the mark. When the two Ange already complaining in Augsburg, the Octadia arrived Wolf to the doorman of the inn "Zu den drei Mohren" (To the Three Moors) and asked about Edmund Bernard. Since one speaks of a 8 knew nothing about such things and described them precisely,

 It was found that this description fit the Lord,
 who entered his name, Eduard Davenport, in the guestbook.
 had written. Oktavia Wolf was startled by this revelation.
 Coverage. — As banker Ichenhäuser in Nuremberg through a telegram from the Mendelssohn bank in Berlin
 Upon a formal inquiry, I received the message that the Dar Venport purchased Russian-Polish coupons to the in Warsaw in 1863, stolen belonging to and merth
 To be free, he sent Davenport by telegraph.
 Follow all directions. By chance, on the 30th...
 October, a brother-in-law of Ichenhäuser, who was from the Buying the worthless coupons, knowledge had, into the Gasthaus zu den drei Mohren in Augsburg, met there at the table d'hôte the two defendants and others allowed their arrest. Taken from the same. Menen's effects amounted to 46 fl. in cash, which were in the possession of the Davenport, also in the possession of Löwenberg 241 fl. 43 kr. cash, a Prussian coupon worth 11 Thalers 6 pfennigs, 1 Friedrichsdor, 1 Order star, a purse with 11 fl., a Prussian ten-thaler note and a Frankfurt ten-guilder note, and also a stock exchange. with 11 fl. cash. Furthermore, a [item] from Da~~r~~ was delivered to the post office. Venport in Nuremberg to Augsburg under his address Poste restante (posted parcel with declared value) fined 3000 Thalers and brought to court~~r~~ brought to hand. This package contained a be~~r~~ Indicative number of the Russian-Polish pledges in question letters and coupons, all of which belong to the year stolen in Warsaw in 1863 and by the i government-amortized assets belonged.

Muse. 86. —

"On the personality and antecedents of the Defendant Davenport was on trial until the public trial. A dark process. The English authorities... refused to comply with English law and Bavarian law.

Authorities refused to provide any information. But when the criminal investigation department... farius Weber of Berlin appeared as a witness and denfel~~r~~ ben than the one in Berlin in 1863 for several weeks Under criminal investigation for forgery of bills of exchange Edmund Bernard of London, who had been, must he admit that he is this Bernard and that he is because at his sentencing in Vienna the name Eduard Davenport settled; Weber described it as a decline

ler, who also temporarily went by the names Fernandez and Frei

Berg has settled down. Bernard's mother, now

Fernandez, married, owns a corner pub in London, in which he (Weber) himself had already been, since he had been 8 times was in London on official business. From

From July 1st to July 23rd, 1863, Bernard was in Berlin.

was arrested for forgery of bills of exchange and is the under

The search has been discontinued, as it involves nothing but Solawexfel acted, whose giro and remuneration at Nie

manden had been realized. Bernard was Mosaic.
Faith (the same person claims to be baptized and Protestant)

(too refined). The oft-mentioned banker Moses had in Berlin had a clothing store and 12 years ago, convicted of multiple counts of fraud and currency exchange debts

He then fled to London. According to a report... the bank of the Bavarian envoy in London

MH Moses and Comp. in London as agency schwind referred to as literary enterprises. Almost all German

Frauds committed in England were discovered by Moses and his agents carried out the execution. For the exploitation of the question Moses sent the stolen Polish mortgage bonds. his agents, which also included the two defendants belonged. Through Moses and his agents, since for a longer period of time, the entire European continent was unsafe. done. The following were presented as performers at the hearing: Mr. Joseph Peszke, medical student, from Kalisz, who had one of the mortgage bonds in question and a coupon from the Russian, and Professor at the Realgymnasium Hermann Erkelenz, who wrote various documents translated from English. Bernard was through Judgment of the Imperial and Royal Regional Court in Vienna of April 2, 1864, which was decided on appeal by The Higher Regional Court confirmed on May 3rd, because Crime of the partly completed, partly attempted Betrug. He was sentenced to 3 years of hard labor. He had namely through false exchanges in Ischl, multiple frauds. Businesses partly carried out, partly pursued, exchange without Acceptance sells under unknown or missing names. referring to a merchant from New York issued. It is characteristic that Bernard in Berlin from prison, by bribing the prison-warden, with several people, corresponded. That he did the same in Vienna, where he also met Adele Vitalis in Krakow, with whom he had a love affair at the time. He entertained each other, exchanged letters. Thus he caused Schleicher because several people turned out to be his business associates gave and even affirmed this under oath. In one of letters written to Fernandez from the Vienna prison

He gives his uncle Fernandez the task of creating a to dispose of the golden watch and to pawn it.
The money should be used for his defense.
the; but the defender should be made with empty promises to deceive. Also from the spice
The burgher Frohnvefte frequented both Bernard and Löwenberg through the bribed, now emptied prison
Assistant warden Andreas Bauerbach to the outside world. Löwenberg corresponded with his lover Johanna Nitz in Ber-Lin, who has two illegitimate children by him and already for vagrancy, fraud and violence famen was punished for theft. The foreign letters came to Würzburg to the address of Bauerbach in Haufe of the carriage manufacturer A. Hofmann in the Ebra Cher Gasse. Through the research of Berlin's Bolt:
This secret correspondence was discovered two years ago.
once by decision of the district court and twice on appeal to the Royal Delegation courts, Bernard's application for release against Security deposit denied. A certain Anna Fer Nandez, supposedly the sister, but more likely the Bernard's mother came from London to Würzburg traveled and offered bail for the same, was but rejected. — The defendant Löwenberg operated in Tilsit formerly had a clothing business, but went bankrupt and relocated.
later moved to Berlin, where he ran a commission store,
Chicory trade and stock market business detrieb and, from Wech Forced to pay false debts, he fled Berlin. — That Bernard's (Davenport's) behavior in public
The negotiator was incredibly brazen; through his lies and oppositions against Zengen and lost files!

He prolonged the treatment; he complained about the smirking of one of the jurors, above the general laughter at his definitions of "unsellable" and worthless", wanted!) a ban from the President of the Closing on the transport through! the gendarmes and even threatened the Lord State as he passed by.
lawyer. But he proved to be articulate and of of intellectual talent. Löwenberg joined ea and 995 the image of a depressed person.

Finally, the NS Bernarb (Dovenport) on June 22nd by the jury court in Würzburg to 7 Years imprisonment, Löwenberg, to 4 years 6 months prison, to arise in a fortress, and both to N was sentenced to the first penalty.

A few days e . it in the Arge
Newspaper: e N SErok

"Würzburg, 26th Sunday, The youngest of the oath ="
Courts convicted swindler Edmund Bernard from London and Herrmann Löwenberg from Tilsit find of the Prussian judicial authority. to Magdeburg for the examination= Delivery has been cancelled, as after the expiration of their sentence: _
time in Bavaria against the same in Prussia because of Ver=
No further criminal proceedings are permitted after the age of 18.
would be. Beyond this extradition question is a higher issue.
to await the divorce. The documents that have come before the court.
My funds and belongings were seized by the district court.
Würzburg as a civil court seized, since the beflé= disten Bankers Oehninger and Renlinger here and "Ihenhausen in Nuremberg can claim it." —

PR. —

Unfortunately, Bavaria lost this through the peace treaty.
Bavarian territories separated from the state in 1866 around the
The Jews had long lived in the town of Orb and in it.
They engaged in great usury while closely connected.
When the city became Prussian, "they meant
The gentlemen were able to play all the games and complained about it.
the former "Bavarian civil servant population". But this should They got sick, for soon people were singing in the Wirthshäuser sang nasty satirical songs about the lords of India.
In this regard, the small provincial newspapers in Lower Franconia will soon receive multiple submissions from [sources/parties].
of the Jews. Among others, the following was found:
"Orb, December 18, 1867. When uneducated people to be guilty of unseemly behavior, fo
That is not surprising; but when people do it,
as was the case here, having enjoyed an education,

This deserves the strictest rebuke. On the 17th, this led to... namely, persons belonging to this area and to the district sons of the aforementioned category (we want to state the status)
(to keep silent for the time being) on the public-beer bench mockery Songs against the Jews, one of which was directed at the other followed. These gentlemen should think a little more humanely, or do they even long for the times of... Jewish persecution?
Returning? In conclusion, the gentlemen must be told...
It will be noticed that they were previously employed here.
not a single one of our Bavarian colleagues would have been guilty of such behavior: e
"To play satirical songs in the tavern."

A few days later, an un newspaper reported nadftehende : un 8... 11

me "Reply. en

For several days now, Jews have been announcing,
A great article will soon appear in these pages.
Articles against us are appearing, but nothing like that has happened yet.
had been. We were expecting the strange animal and Finally, today in No. 303, the opened gate only spews forth... a little mouse emerges: such a pathetic script
The idea that one shouldn't reply to it: But we I would like to say a few words in response. To whom one might choose between... who wants to distinguish between uneducated and educated people, so
One must, after all, belong to the latter group; the senders
The above article seems to include me. However, they have through this failed style test, practically the opposite Partly proven. There were guests on the evening in question.
Sacred and humorous songs were sung, in whose usury, common haggling, etc., are condemned,
But Mer then said that this referred to the Jews.
find? Of course, as a proverb says: "If one is under
"When the dogs are thrown, the one who is hit howls." These songs are already from educated and uneducated, from humane and have been sung to inhumane people, and still are.
furthermore, it will be sung. It would therefore be nonsense to do so.
according to the level of education and humanity of the singers to want to judge. Perhaps the senders are holding back.
for tenants of education and humanity, or does the

Is this perhaps the same thing, in flirting with the Jews? Whether we do we “long for the times of the persecution of the Jews?” Not that; but the submitters should think about it quite often. To think and be glad that those times are far behind us. have, instead of taking the reins and

— 92 —

Wanting to dominate everything. Sad enough.
if living beings in a state or municipality of
The case is. If Egypt once took pride in this,
To grant Valke his departure, one cannot around, in the fact that a major upheaval to to see that nowadays such an excerpt with It would be greeted with joy and jubilation. After all, who...
the Bavarian role models submitted to us by the senders Samples were presented, although they had shown them to us earlier than They have been called swindlers, drunkards, and debtors.
Disgusting! What a mean thing to do. Slander and two-faced!
ity! — Orb, December 24, 1867.”

Around the same time, in the enlightened
The city of Würzburg proposes that the local rabbi should contact them.
allowed to go, from the city magistrate the permission to lay to demand a so-called Sabbath wire. What he saw what was going on with this wire.
man: from the following article, which was published in February
It appeared in several Franconian newspapers in 1868:
"Würzburg. The NWZ shares the following piece:"
chen of the local ultra-Talmudic nabbiner Bamberger
According to an ancient Jewish custom, on the Sabbath Nobody. Anything, be it a book, an umbrella, a stick.
dder fonst an objekt, über die Straße tragen, wenn not the city or place is completely enclosed.
This being enclosed can be found in rivers, ramparts, walls, Fences exist, and it does not hurt if the gates and doors located in the walls ac.
are always open: the door leaves may even be opened at the
The sides may be nailed down. Also, where the wall is...

— 98

interrupted by an opening without a door, thereby Help will be provided so that above the opening there is a Stan wire fences or on the adjacent houses, fog Sabbarh Draht, is pulled. Since now in consequence the construction of the road to the new train station a sub
The breach of the city wall and the city guards has occurred.
If, then the aforementioned rabbi told the city magistrate Therefore, they requested to build a new city wall across the street such a Sabbath wire or at their near to be allowed to attach the side door leaves. The city
The magistrate rejected this request because the [unclear] visible device with the. Indications of our time not in agreement; the district rabbinate has therefore lodged a complaint with the k. district government turned, and one N on the N Pau:

Divorce is tense.

But since the longed-for and requested permission to the sen Posen von Seiten der k. Kreisregierung nicht ein
It was said that the Jewish gentlemen ran in a stormy place.
mixing winter night the laying of the wire arbitrarily had undertaken. It had happened that the Jewish Dr. O., who otherwise considered the most liberal plays, over his own walking stick onto the wire fallen, which, being thereby defiled, immediately as the one who was dug out and N another ge ei
has been.

(But to show that Be alone in u Bbg
the Indians on the silly precepts of the Talmud not only that, but also that this occurs elsewhere, broke

— —ü—ä4ä——— nn

no

ten befriended ai in a man 0
the following:

Prov. 81g reports from Posen, April 10.

f. Schl." The following: Today the marital vows were to take place here.
bond between a young, childless Jewish widow and a man from the Cohn tribe, and For weeks now, the institutions have been preparing for the wedding.
firmly operated. But imagine the dismay of the fiancé(e), when they were a few hours before their wedding
I received notification from the rabbi that their
A connection could not be established because after a discovered ritual=Determination of members of the tribe Cohn never associated with Nee.
may."

Finally, at 9 85 Ahr. a number mischievous guests from a neighboring inn had allowed themselves to erect the Sabbath wire on the new railway line= to excavate Hofstraße again after a few days, so that All Jews in Würzburg were sentenced to penance.
They have fallen and according to Talmudic law now every penance would have to do.

Regarding the "prejudices" of Christians,
The Jews constantly criticize and mock this, and even dared to participate in the founding of the Commis Association in in the following poisonous way, they mocked each other in public Leafing through this association of brave, ambitious, Christians= to express the views of like-minded men:

"Würzburg, December 11, 1867. Considered very interesting"
And, almost unbelievably, I tell you that the one here be= standing or rather vegetating Commis=Verein fich bei

—n — en “„. — . u

The founding document included a paragraph: "Jewish Commis clerks are not accepted. However, it is Correct, the Israeli clerk who distinguished himself through striving Kindness and diligence are often found among fine Christian colleagues distinguishes! Not worthy enough to be with those gentlemen.
to live in a society; by no means, this would be terribly violated conventional good manners. On In other places, young prospective buyers are named people who, instead of seeking a free and healthy education to strive, not even to dismiss an old, stupid prejudice
can lay, with the undelicate name "Käskrämer", alone in Würzburg — as the a sungen, 8 zw
"lay the young ones." Eu

But the Christian officials had done very well, fine Jews under fi to take on fine Jews; for soon thereafter
The jury court in Würzburg felt compelled to take action against a Jewish boy who was the eee ne to issue the following profile

"In the name of His Majesty the King of We

The Royal Court of Appeal of Lower Franconia and Schaffenburg played against Seligmann on June 27th of this year.
Roman, 16 years old, born and residing in Hei dingsfeld, single commercial apprentice, for crime of abuse for unnatural lust, committed on May 13, 1867, afternoon in the building of the purchase man Jakob Rofenheim zu Heidingsfeld to Marie Kro nenberger, daughter of the shopkeeper Nikolaus Kronenberger
there, convicted on charges, the same for the ¢abortion hearing before the jury court of Lower Franconia and Aschaffen Burg banished and his execution ordered.

— 986 —

Accordingly, Seligmann Norman Hieneid is named _

requested to report to the district office within three months court Würzburg, where is: the jury court" held will appear and because of what is apparent to him to be held accountable for ten crimes, otherwise against him as a disobedient person, to be treated according to the law 15 the division of the babble in its finest "sequence En "Würzburg, August 20, 1867. I de aan des Schwurgericht, von m Untertfenten
 Be 5 ie en, 1 710 *
 Nina. os Hocheder. .
 e „ — =
 The girl, soft, the boy seduced and wit
 The girl who had been subjected to violence and rape was only four years old.
 The trial against him took place in restricted public view.

lichkeit sstatt. The Jew had the aruten christian.

Children whose genitals are completely torn! He was convicted of the crime of abuse.
 natural lust lin „ en ,bier Be nn convicted. 8

We hereby wish to share our notes about u oer to temporarily close Würzburg. 1
 How things are in Nuremberg, the old imperial city, against
 3. He is involved with Judaism, they brought this up. the Baherish en. in the second Dr 1868 He a message: e

"From the Regnitz, July 21st. In May 1850 he "First Jewish religious in Nuremberg in the community association federally admitted, after "the imperial chamber
 "Servants" completely disappeared towards the end of the 14th century.

— 97 —

They had been expelled from the imperial city. They settled in
 They did arrive in neighboring Fürth, but did not find what they were looking for there.
 the necessary leeway, which is why they repeatedly, despite all the drudgery, with Nuremberg in business dealings entered. Following a council decree of 1773, a Jews were only allowed entry into the city of Nuremberg through two gates. and had to pay 45 kr. for a one-day stay to the City pledge and 15 kr. for him on all the corridors Pay the accompanying old woman. No Jew was allowed in Stay overnight in Nuremberg, not in the house of a Christian to use a vault for business, to be in the market They didn't let it be seen, and the Be~~r~~ were just as spiteful. Opinions on trade in agricultural products c. In Although the Jewish tax was abolished in October 1800, In contrast, the toll was 7 kr., the legitimization certificate 30 kr., the permit to stay overnight 1 fl. Fee set. Currently residing in Nuremberg. 153 Jewish families"), who have a school and a prayer~~r~~ They set up a house; they are in the process of establishing a cemetery. advertise, for what purpose the banker Cahn just has offered 1000 fl., with the promise of further Ga~~r~~ ben, if the funds were insufficient. Two private companies~~r~~ Companies refuse to admit Jews; in the Mu~~r~~

The first (baptized) Jew to settle in Nuremberg Smuggled in at the beginning of our century was a certain Pikert, who died only recently at almost ninety years old. His Sons, also antique dealers like their father, can in Face and posture that Jewish offspring do not deny, also have, Although in form Protestant, Jewish women again to women taken. — | | A. d. V.

7

Bavarian 594348 Sibliotbek
monks

No

The museum, where Nuremberg's elite gather, was found
So far 15 such places; among the Jewish inhabitants
In Nuremberg there are two lawyers and two doctors.

Since then, since 1863, the Jews have again in Nuremberg through a truly extraordinary fruit bar-keit and greatly increased by the influx of rural Jews.
The establishment of a special rabbinate was in 1866-follows. In the existing people's association there, they lead Jews have the big say. Dr. Morgenstern, Dr.
Landmann and the Jewish lawyer Dr. Frankenburger hold them there, as well as previously in the meetings
the Progress Party, consistently giving "excellent" speeches.
The latter already said in 1865: "Some ultramontanes, farewell-Leagues and aristocrats pretend to represent the people!
means that the Jewish gentlemen are the people and are the lords-[The text abruptly shifts to a seemingly unrelated topic:] [The text abruptly shifts again:] In 1867 this stirred up
The cloverleaf is found not only in Nuremberg but also especially in... the neighboring town of Fürth, where almost all Christians
I am a worker and the Jews are merely masters. About The meetings of these deluded workers were learned of The following was said at the time:

"Nuremberg, November 8th. As in Nuremberg, there exists
There is also a people's association in Fürth, and like in the local one...
The great [is] also reflected there, currently through Germany's ongoing divorce of the parties. This showed themselves, albeit not in such sharp outlines as here
eight days ago, at yesterday's meeting of the Fürth Association. While Dr. Landmann (who is a kind of Rogue plot between Prussia and Austria-took, after which Prussia annexed the German states, Austria

— 99 —

(receiving a monetary settlement) from the assets he had acquired in Six classes divided parties opted for the one that was separated, which was part of the Imperial Constitution of 1849 with the

The supreme rule of Prussia contains, — Dr. [Name] stated, Morgenstern on the purely democratic point of view and endorsed the inclusion in the Fürth program People's Association admitted, also with monarchical entry-direction possible, under equality of its members established federal state, as it exists in Switzerland and the United States exists. Through freedom to unity. "Be the right slogan," not: "Through unity to..." Freedom, as Prussian annexationists wanted it at any price preached. Incidentally, the means and ways to The federal state cannot yet be determined, as one cannot be in "...can look to the future." —

The chairman of the People's Association in Fürth is the Dr. Landmann, the lawyer of this cooperative Dr. Kronacher. The workers' association in Fürth had In 1867, the Jew Gabriel Löwenstein was appointed secretary, which in the same sense as Landmann and Kronacher It worked.

Bankruptcy, like that of the Jewish Dutch brothers in Fürth, which in 1865 had a large number of Christian families in the vicinity of this city, they were there for twenty years among the Jews at daytime-order. The Jewish swindle is also supposed to be in Nuremberg. have already reached a considerable height, although they have, when they have only just moved back into a city, very to gather together so that one can for the time being of their close They stick together and notice nothing of their Jewish activities.

— 100 —

However, Jews from the surrounding area, who are less They proceed more cleverly than city dwellers, but sometimes in Nuremberg caught engaging in fraudulent activity. So It happened there in 1866 and it was written about it. Franconian Courier:

"Nuremberg, January 11. As the participation was suspected of forging Bavarian 5-fl. notes the hop merchant Meyer jgr. from Plech and a ge-

Wisser Preu was imprisoned there and against An arrest warrant was issued for the father of the first. —
The negotiator Heinr. Wölfel von Plech is also, as suspected of participating in the falsification of the notes,
"has been taken into custody pending investigation."

What high-flown reports about the Jews of this to both cities again and again at suitable opportunities being sent out into the world, one can draw some conclusions from that.
Make sense of it when you consider the following when...
Search for the Majesty of King Ludwig II in autumn 1866
A flowery presentation, released from the stack, and where it is Literally, that means:

"During the royal visit of the King to Fürth,
His Majesty also visited the synagogue there. The
It was most magnificently decorated and illuminated Rabbi Dr. Löwy was already waiting for the King, and His Majesty made a speech and the priestly blessing of the same. About The monarch spent half an hour in the temple, with the facilities of Syna of the liveliest interest
Looking at the person. The personality and demeanor.
The rabbi had a message for the king.

— 101 —

made a pleasing impression that he was at his
The companion literally said: What a pleasant, wu
What a remarkable personality this old man is! From the synagogue
His Majesty visited the establishment of Ullmann & Engelmann, to manufacture in that factory
A warehouse that is unparalleled, the ultimate in warehousing.
Enjoy the pressure of Fürth's industry. The richness
The quality and magnificent furnishings of that camp surprised everyone.
the king, who was particularly concerned about the cloths and about Those goods were of interest that were intended for overseas transport determined to find. From there the king disposed of himself in the Wood ornaments Brick factory, here as there the equal recognition of the high perfection of the Pronounced Fürth industry. After several hours

Stay, during which time the city suddenly, as with
With a magic stroke, it appeared magnificently illuminated, returned the monarch amid endless cheers and enthusiasm from the Residents of Fürth return to Nuremberg.

That the Jews of Nuremberg and Fürth advertised and advertising for their industry is truly great.
The following "sent" from the dor~~s~~ testifies to the ability to afford this.
newspapers: ur

"The famous French champagne is known through a German sparkling wine manufacturer, a dangerous Competition arises that may possibly challenge the ordinary Champagne, or rather sparkling wine, completely from
It can displace markets. The champagne factory of Mr. CF Crailsheim in Fürth has been delivering since In modern times, a product called "Punch Champagne".
named all known finer wines in terms of taste

— — — —

— 102 —

and quality far surpasses, and we find in doubt whether we more the power and richness of the wine or the utmost refinement of the punch — this seems to be the reason~~s~~
The product's appearance — something to admire.
We delight gourmets in their en e on "This wine attentively."

Christian fools and idiots are indeed
just as simple-minded, this punch~~s~~ Champagne
They ordered them, but are said to have gotten colic from them.

Despite all this, Mr. Frankenburger, who Jewish lawyer, soon brought there, already in 1867 by Leutershausen in the Hofheim Regional Court as a candidate for to establish the customs parliament. However, there was People who informed the honest farmers there,

that this man from Frankenburg is a Jew.

Regarding the aforementioned Rabbi Dr. Löwy in Regarding Fürth, it was learned that this "worthy"
"Old man", weddings in the surrounding area in inns distinguished. It was said about it in one:

"(Submitted) Gunzenhausen, December 27th. After the person responsible for the synagogues and rabbis of Middle Franconia
By the highest and most steadfast order, the weddings shall take place.
Jewish couples will be married in the synagogue, which from our responsible rabbi, Mr. Grünbaum Whatever happens in Ansbach; but how is it that... that weddings, which foreign rabbis perform here
take, not in the synagogues, but in Wirths
Can this be carried out in houses? It only happened from Rabbi Dr. Löwy from Fürth, and we had

— 103 —

We rejoiced in vain, this famous pulpit orator
"To be heard here. A Jew."

One can see from this that the same Jewish rabbi, who cher in Fürth bestowed his blessing upon the young king and flattered him in the most intrusive way, in Gunzenhausen completely against his orders and Ge
She dares to act.

But that's quite common throughout the whole of Germany!
all, and especially in religious matters, the same like how we at the Sabbath wire in Würzburg
No matter how Talmudic they may be, the Jews act entirely according to their will and knowledge to measure very well, how far they are allowed to go to avoid the Bavarian penalty
The law cannot be enforced. As a mocker and defamers of the clergy") they also have in Bavaria Much has been achieved since 1848. One last fact of this kind.
is from a certain Seckendorfer of Heiligen
The town near Forchheim became known. It was written there about November 15, 1869:

"So, in Heiligenstadt there is the Jew Jof. Seckendorfer," whose father was known for his exploitative treatment of peasants
Despite the protection afforded by the regional court, he died in prison.
Elected as an elector under pressure from capital.
Most ordinary people are struggling because of the...

5) The Lord Bishop Kettler of Mainz was, after he had just taken his seat there, in the open street.
mocked and "spit on" by a young person, by whom Yes, during the police interrogation, he stated that he was a * 5

A.

— 104 —

They knew of loans from him, and woe to him who took them.
not elected, because the Jew is not just money, but He is also ambitious and wants to be seen as a trusted man.
on election day in the presence of a Catholic priest a hoarse, screeching speech against the robes, i.e. the Catholic "priests" unleashed "who are dumbing down the people."
His statement that he was a Catholic is already known.
A pastor is worth as much as a goose boy, and if he encountering such a person, namely Pastor Mahr, he would spit in his face. This coming together
The meeting will take place in Forchheim — so, you citizens Farmers and citizens of the Forchheim electoral district are on the Post when the Jew comes and the clergyman goes into Face spitting! The royal state government with its stinging!
ten collars and blue skirts, however, this over courage to still coddle the Jewish honorable men;
because it makes patriotic citizens get out of bed at night fetch, put in chains and scorn the Jews to drag boys through two cities, only to later see them again to be released as completely innocent: but against the scorn Citizens have no protection against Jews. Therefore, possibly the act of self-defense and self-help must enter. Even Seckendorfer's friends, the Protestant pastor Hereth and the lawyer Rupp, who

Masters of electoral district fragmentation have once again prepared new speeches. against the “patriotic stockfish” and so who

which will bring us some interesting scenes.”

And further, an advertisement against him states:

"For your information! On November 2nd, the Jew Joseph Seckendorfer von Heiligenstadt, whose conduct at the

the last election is still fresh in our minds, the cheeky had today, in the local Royal Regional Court, about the Catholic priests or priests, as he called them, to to revile and specifically express: “such a priest” “He values me as much as a goose boy.” It seems, that the attention of the local pastor on the usurious practices of the Jews, the same very It's unpleasant. We just want to talk about that cheeky...

Behaving towards the other citizens and farmers herewith once They will give news for a while. But to the Jew Seckendorfer, who relied on the favor of the Lord District Judge Dennerlein as though he seems about to leave, we hereby wish to remind you that his far and wide, a fine time—famous father, the man Little Seckendorfer, who entered with a burning tobacco pipe The district court went and inspected the files itself. took, but despite the friendship with the Lord Land judge for his exploitation of peasants and other in Incidents in prison that stand as cursed memories had to die. Since no one is happy before death To praise is, as Mr. Joseph Seckendorfer also knows. Not where he dies. Incidentally, the Jews are only supposed to... The sooner they go, the more their measure will be filled. Ebermann City, November 3, 1869. Some citizens.”

Despite this well-intentioned warning, the Jew appears Seckendorfer before and after in exactly the same sense. “I’m not afraid of the priests!” he was also supposed to say. At the beginning of this year, to the anti-church-minded Kaufmann G. in E. said and added with a mocking laugh have: “In Rome they are already dancing to our music too.” Pipe; they all need to be called capores!

How things are in the Rhineland-Palatinate/Bavaria with the Be-The deceptions of the Jews look like, we have in the 8 over the course of the years, except for the one at the beginning of this writing
As already mentioned, there is still much to learn.
brought. In the sixties, however, they were back again.
So many scoundrels and frauds perpetrated by Jews there!
It has even happened that we cannot avoid some to record this. In 1865 the house
JG Cullmann in Neustadt suddenly went bankrupt and the
The head of the same resigned without informing his many creditors.
to know something, to do something, a readiness for America.
The newspapers then reported about him on April 25:

"From the fugitive head of Eullmann's
New Schwin houses have been appearing constantly lately.
deleen, perpetrated against rich and poor private individuals, on8 emerges. This has plunged some families into deepest sorrow.
has been transferred. In view of this and the magnificent8
Against fraud in general, the public spoke out.
The opinion is not wrong to assume that the state is responsible for the fact that... because of energetic steps to capture the Ge8 named and to atone for the gravely offended law
...should have happened. Now it will be too late."

And further, it was heard:

"From the Palatinate, September 19th. At the oath8" me of the third quarter was also the magnificent falliment of Cullmann's Trading house in Neuftadt negotiated and Cull8 man for fraudulent bankruptcy, simple bank8
Rott and embezzlement in the crime grade of eight

Sentenced to years in prison. As the jury trial Negotiations revealed the total amount of the pass.
measures 105,000 fl. In addition, he will be given a a whole series of embezzlements and frauds related to A charge has been laid. The criminal has fled to America, where the punishment of justice will not so easily overtake him will be, but the curse and hex of widows, orphans and so many others whom he had helped for their Money cheated, follow him across the waves of Atlan Ocean tables. One must disregard the presumption and grandeur.
have observed Cullmann's khuerei from close up, to alleviate the general bitterness and indignation which to assess the cause of this bankruptcy.
It remains incomprehensible, almost enigmatic, how the criminal was able to escape to America without his was caught in time.”

Finally, it was said:

"Landau, December 1st. The merchant Hans Gott" Fried Cullmann from Neustadt, who on September 15th
l. J. from the jury court in contumaciam to 8 years Sentenced to prison for fraudulent bankruptcy has been, is on its way to the Hei math. As a result of a conflict that has been ongoing for two years between Bavaria and the state treaty concluded with the United States Cullmann was hired on the prop of the Bavarian State authorities in America arrested and will be sought after meeting for a further hearing before the jury
The case will be heard in court in Zweibrücken. The costs of a 10. Arrest and extradition amount to more than

fl. u.

*

However, Cullmann is said to be still in charge despite this newspaper report. ten were never brought back to the Rhine Palatinate. He reportedly found an opportunity in Liverpool. to escape and am now in South America, with which Bavaria does not have an extradition treaty.

About a year later, there was another report of one other Jewish scoundrels in the Palatinate said the following:

"Edenkoben, November 21st. The local banker Wolf Isaac announced his new residence on the 19th of this month. let and is wanted for fraudulent bankruptcy^s persecuted. The losses suffered by the inhabitants of our city as a result, amount to, as far as is known so far, over 100,000 fl. Since several indigent people also contributed their sour had invested their acquired savings with Wolf Isaac, They lost everything they owned. The trail. The fugitive has not been able to proceed any further as a man so far. "Being persecuted at home."

A major wine forgery in Ungstein had already At the beginning of that same year, the game caused a stir. the auction of the coated wines came, As can be seen from the following report, most of it to the Jewish houses of M. Weil and Haas, which a allegedly purchased them for vinegar production:

"Dürkheim, March 20. The one announced for today^s digte auction of the seven wine forgery be^s Wines confiscated from the guilty residents of Ungstein is attracting a large number of buyers and those eager to try it out today It happened in the morning; about 45 cartloads arrived. Wine was offered and the prices ranged from 63 to 140 fl. per Fuder achieved; the average price may be

— 109 —

amount to approximately 100 fl. The greater part of the Vinegar production, auctioned wines were presented by the gentlemen M. Weil von Astweiler und Haas aus Mannheim acqui^s Rirt, but some of them also come here. The

The court seals that had been placed on the property were found unharmed. However, we hear that several barrels are to be partially... and two ran dry except for one small thing, fine.”

The greatest Jewish swindle, however, had already been 1863 in the small villages of Marnheim and Bubenheim near This occurred in Alzey. The otherwise always reported on it. pro-Jewish “Didaskalia” under September 13 1863 under the title "Edifying Consequences of the Lottery" “games” as follows:

In Zweibrücken, after two days of negotiations On September 3rd, Gottschalk Strauss, real estate agent in Kirchheim, because of a massive fraud, in association with Isaac Metzger from Gauersheim and Daniel Baum from Alzey, committed against two residents of Marnheim and Bubenheim, to a prison sentence of three years Convicted. The butcher fled and Baum already referred to a prison by the Hessian courts. He was sentenced to four years in prison. From the ver. The action has revealed that the defendant Strauss from the chief collector in Frankfurt two eighths Loose the Frankfurt city lottery and such at Wittner in Marnheim and Setzer in Bubenheim through The butcher's mediation has been discontinued. — On October 11th. In 1862, the relevant Loos No. 2723 arrived with a Total profit of 115,000 fl. Strauss received immediate news of this by telegraph,

110

The aforementioned butcher and fine Schwa sat down untidy. The tree in Alzey was discovered and it now began more the operations to give the winners the lots or but to embezzle a large part of the profits.

Metzger first went to Jakob Wittner in Marn home, the owner of the one eighth of the lot, and ann let him hand over the lot, iudem he falsely stated that the same was only possible with the stake out came and paid him back that deposit. Only after the butcher put the lottery ticket in his briefcase

Wittner, suspecting this, demanded his fate.
back, by formally explaining to him that he believed,
to have been cheated by him.

In response to the energetic demand, Metz confessed.
He finally received the profit, but at the same time explained that Wittner gave him 3000 fl. from the profit e müffe, otherwise he would tear the lot apart.

After some initial reluctance, Wittner asked him to... fear of ultimately losing all his winnings, a promissory note for 3000 fl., whereupon the butcher gave him returned the lot with the explanation that Strauss had already to Frankfurt to collect the money, and on I will come this evening to collect his winnings.
pay. It was on the morning of October 13th and Metzger had only expected a profit of 100,000 fl. spoken.

Immediately after receiving the talent,
Strauss with his brother-in-law Baum from Alzey to Kaiserslautern rushed, where they themselves sent a letter of credit.
the Ladenburg House in Mannheim at one of their

— 111 —

They had obtained this from a retired friend; they immediately hurried from Kaiserslautern to Mannheim, raised there the 25,000 fl. and now travelled the same via Worms to Mannheim.

Already on the way to the village of Harxheim, they were expected from the butcher, who immediately went to them.
sat down in the chaise longue. Around 9 o'clock they arrived in Mann-home; Strauss stayed in the chaise longue in front of the village.
sat and placed the tree there as the chief collector Höchberg of Frankfurt. He immediately took action.
the word, congratulated on the win of 100,000 fl.
and explained that he had come all the way from Frankfurt to Mannheim traveled to deliver the joyful news and the money to deliver it himself. At the same time, Metzger brought the money.
arrived in several sacks and the alleged chief collector-'
Teur began counting the money onto the table.

Wittner, however, had fi) during the day because looked around his profit and in the “Frankfurt
I read in the journal that he had won 115,000 fl.
had, and Baum replied to this remark:
The 15,000 fl. belonged to the management. But Wittner demanded his entire profit of 12,500 fl., by He remarked that he knew the way to Frankfurt himself, where to the butcher he replied: “Don’t talk nonsense, sir
The chief collector is one of the first men, you will surely Don’t believe he wants to cheat you, you have ea
to claim a larger profit.”

He was eventually paid 9650 fl.
from Baum, without that of the butcher Morgens Wittner extorted a promissory note of 3000 fl. in the room

— 112 —

the language was, so that it can be seen from this that before between butcher and tree about this promissory note
It was spoken and agreed that this amount would be paid as such.
to deduct from the profit, how then also the fact that butchers already in the morning the Witt
a man from his arrival with Strauss and with the money of the evening, he gave his knowledge and his companions in Harxheim had expected, leaving no doubt about it, that between ostrich, butcher and tree the campaign was arranged against the holders of the winning lottery ticket.

After removing the butcher and tree, Witt counted ner the 9650 fl. that Baum had placed on the table after and convinced himself that a sum of 457 fl. in Cologne banknotes were missing. Wittner had told the person lichen Obercollecteur 20 fl. 15 from Frankfurt given. i

From Marnheim the three Allies drove to Buben home to the widow Setzer, the owner of the second eighth Loose; it was already 11 o'clock when they arrived there, and the inhabitants of the house were in a deep sleep.

The butcher knocked them out and shouted the message to them.
Regarding: "her lottery ticket won 100,000 fl." That is The chaise was driven into the courtyard, the money into the upper...
Stock brought and there by butcher and tree daffelbe
Maneuvers were performed as described by Wittner. Butcher
He initially demanded a tip of 3000 fl., but eventually he was satisfied with less.
He dealt with 200. The alleged chief collector told the Widow Setzer, she would have been entitled to 10,000 fl.; a Meanwhile, a relative of the widow Setzer had been summoned.
but had demanded the drawing list from him and

— 113 —

fi) convinced from this that the widow's eighth lot Setzer 12,500 fl. had fallen, and on whose reference Butchers and Baum: "After deducting costs, the profit amounts to..."
Eighths of loose only 10,000 fl. — since then, that is.
Bavarian lottery has been cancelled, several deuces have been cancelled.
No more numbers have been entered into the Frankfurt lottery.
men and it would be twenty percent of the big lot withdrawn." — After much back and forth,
The widow Setzer offered the 10,000 fl. after Baum had written a note in which he was responsible for the possibly a guaranteed additional amount of profit. This Schein signed Baum with the name Karl Hirschberg.

The defendant Strauss had during this Negotiation in a room on the lower floor held there, where part of the money was also kept. To the sons and the brother of the widow Setzer, who in came to this room and expressed indignation about the
During the negotiations on the upper floor, Strauss remarked:
"Since they had the money in the house, they should use it as best they could."
as possible to agree."

After a few days, the son, Setzer, decided to...
to Frankfurt to meet the chief collector Karl Hirschberg,
who had signed the guarantee certificate, to seek him out. He learned there that such a thing did not exist.
ftire, he also heard that the alleged chief collector

The real estate agent Baum from Alzey had been there, whereupon he turned to went to a local lawyer, who also helped the tree immediately wrote: "That if Karl Hirschberg took up the matter If I do not arrange with the widow Setzer without delay, then

8

— 14 —

"Immediate action should be taken against him." It was also threatened to file an immediate complaint with the state authorities.

This did not go unnoticed. Already the following day...
The three allies held a nightly meeting during the day.
arrival at the merchant Jakobi's in Kindenheim and caused him, as a parliamentarian, to approach the widow to setter and make a comparison regarding the to settle the remaining 2500 fl. The next morning
The comparison also took place to determine the sum of 2500 fl. The money for this was received the night before.
from the house of Strauss in Kirchheim in secret.
White ones were dragged in and the three participants
They stayed overnight in Klein-Bockenheim until the settlement completed and the one named Karl Hirschberg signed the certificate again in his hand.
that was.

Wittner was also involved, both because of what had been extorted from him 3000 fl., as well as because of the 457 fl. stolen from him.
He appeared complaining. The butcher sought him out for a Comparison to persuade, by telling Wittner, who
The owner of a butcher's shop said: "You know,
"Half a sausage is better than an empty intestine," where=
But Wittner replied: "A comparison is not for me That's quite right, but I want to give the animal some food first.
"See belly." |

After various preliminaries and after a I called a lawyer in Alzey, then filed a complaint with... threatened the state authority and sent a negotiator=
and was sent there, a settlement was reached.
concluded that Wittner was referring to the missing 457 fl.

waived and was to receive 2200 fl. instead of 3000 fl. namely 1400 fl. in cash and 800 fl. in a bill of exchange on a tree. Later, however, it turned out that the change only amounted to 700 fl. Even during the comparison-Negotiations with Wittner involved Strauss, Baum and Butchers are always on the go and in company. Strauss was also the one who was most concerned about it His aim was to exploit the situation as much as possible; he only spoke of it. for a settlement sum of 1500 fl. for the widow Settlers out, while Baum extends the comparison to each Wanted to know the price was finalized, in anticipation that There was imminent danger.

The matter was well-known in Hesse and led to the announcement. show came and tree itself became a four= He was sentenced to one year in prison. Following this, he went Metzger fled and Strauss declared after his arrest= tung, he only acted out of friendship for butchers= del; what butcher and tree together to the detriment of each other the lottery holder was driven, that was unknown to him, he I also didn't do any lottery-related business with Höchberg. The butcher obtained the loose meat directly from the same source. and a telegram did not reach him either. men. In general, this also remained his defense. before the jury; only he could hear the explanation of the Ober=Collecteurs Höchberg in Frankfurt opposite not furthermore, deny that it was not butcher, but he, the defendant Strauss, the two Achkel=Loofe von Höch= had moved to the mountain. Likewise, he could not deny that he already on October 19th the total=wins with 25,000 fl. at Höchberg in Frankfurt am Main Sirt and the debt contracted at Ladenburg= had erased.

The cohesion of all these contributes to the burden
The Strauss-leading pieces of evidence could not be used for Nieß
It is doubtful that Strauss, in association with Baum and Metzger, the exploitation described above, of Credulity and joyful surprise of the lot
The owner has done this.

Strauss was acquitted by the jury of participation in the extortion of the promissory note of 3000 fl. to The disadvantage of Wittner for being innocent, on the other hand of Be-Attempted fraud to the detriment of the same by more than 1000 fl., then for participating in the fraud to The widow Setzer owes a loss of 2500 fl.
recognized." N

The pro-Jewish "Didaskalia" states in the pre-
The existing reports make no mention of the fact that all of them are in Swindler appearing in this trial: Gottschalk Strauss.
Isaac Metzger, Daniel Baum, as well as the trade-Mann Jakobi in Kindenheim — Jews find, which the winners of the big draw, all honest, easy-devout Christians and Germans, in the most infamous way had cheated.

On the contrary, the Frankfurt Journal regrets in a report from the Rheinpfalz newspaper of June 4, 1866, that the alleged "first appointment of an Israeli in the Palatinate Magistrate" unfortunately proved to be a misconduct-has demonstrated understanding. It is not enough for the Jews, that they already exist in Bavaria on this side and across the Rhine
a lot of "their people" as lawyers and No-

— 117 —

have accommodated tare u. s. w.; one wants that, immediately-as in Munich, Jewish magistrates everywhere intriguen would like and Jews in the household of the Palatinate Cities everywhere would be hired. The Frankfurt Journal
Don't consider what the Jews in the Senate and legislation have done.
the body of the formerly free city of Frankfurt and in the administration of the same brought about before 1866 have. It is not content with its own achievements. She creates and works on and on for Judaism.

As in the Palatinate, that's how it's been since the Jewish emancipation. The emancipation is almost in all larger Bavarian cities. The young Jewish offspring move with those inherited from their fathers. Money accumulated in the countryside flowed into the larger cities and fuels government bond and real estate speculation, fruit Wholesale trade and other lucrative businesses. In order to become more and more accustomed to it, the rich sometimes throw out The Christians as angels also have no "appealing" "non-profit foundation", will be awarded medals for this pardoned and now shine in the eyes of the "simple" "Gen Goyim" in an even higher light. It is claimed that that such foundations are usually not even funded by the money of the individual who makes it, not run out, but that the whole community contributes to this in secret, because something is of great benefit to the same.*) —

In July 1863, the Bavarian newspapers published the following: Notification: "To Dr. W. Königswarter in Munich, who recently established a substantial charitable foundation, that is Awarded the Knight's Cross 2nd Class of the Order of St. Michael; the first Case of the awarding of an order to an Israeli in Bavaria. And again, on January 8, 1868, it was stated: "The one from the banker

— 118 —

How the Jew manages to get himself hooked everywhere, one arises from the appointment of a certain Bernau, former Bavarian consul in Athens, who was before Kurzem succeeded, "with appropriate content and pragmatic" "The right wing" to the Bavarian Consul General in Trieste to be appointed. Mr. Bernau was known to be with Count Ferdinand Hompesch, the Bavarian Ambassador to Athens, he was very friendly. This Count Hompesch") but has at the last Greek The revolution was distinguished by the fact that he also did not had an inkling of the conspiracy, which was under his eyes were set on it. He then gave the noble and high-minded king Otto the council, “not after “To return to Athens,” this high lord said, “to give blood.”

To avoid shedding, unfortunately, he followed the advice. As Count Hom-Pesch left Athens some time later, and took over Consul Bernau, of course, “the businesses.” The same became known to the Greeks in a peculiar way, and a

Joseph Kohn in Nuremberg with a foundation capital of 10,000 fl. for a polytechnic to be built in Nuremberg-
The foundation was founded under the title “Saphir Kohn'sche polytech-” “Niche foundation” received the sovereign's confirmation.”

) He is the great-nephew of the last Grand Master of the Order.
of Malta, Count Ferdinand von Hompesch, who owned the island presented it to Napoleon I and gave himself 100,000 francs for his silverware had it paid for. When his great-nephew entered the Diplomacy came into play, said a well-known figure, much of harsh fate.
beats of the tested and most illustrious House of Wittelsbach Very affectionate gentleman: “This simple man is not equal to anyone else.”
la grace du Roi, but de par la grace du cotillon ins Mini-“The sterium of the external has come in!” 5

1198

a significant sum, property of King Otto, was covered with coatings. What became of it further is...
We have not come to know. Consul Bernau — of which the German Jewish newspapers the most excellent reported — came to Munich soon after, applied ji for the position of Consul General in Trieste and received the same.

What kind of individuals exist in Bavaria under the seemingly royalist Jews, of that the former Court Councillor von Dessauer still a repellent Example. This Jew from Schaffenburg many years ago it had already been possible to, with help to love the baptized Jews in Munich. After He, too, had been baptized, and received before and after the title of Court Councillor, the nobility and other distinctions-drawings. He lived in a large house in Munich.

peculiar house by the English garden, which is Friend Kaulbach, the famous current academy-Director, tor, which he decorated with fresco paintings. He gave brilliant lante Gefellschaften, to which the crème of Munich ge-Jews, Jewish descendants and Jewish comrades were baptized.
was. The well-known “agitator in Zollverein matters”, Mr. von Kerstorff, who also had a paternal and maternal side from Jewish lineage is, “) went as a young

*) The father of Kerstorff originally had, as the be-Bavarian Imperial Archivist Lang knew the nasty name
Sigmund Heimann Pappenheimer. Meanwhile, he was killed on April 20th.
Ennobled in 1817 with the name "von Kerstorff". (The Jew Gran-
The duration was already in the king's secret cabinet back then-whose position is used.) The “wife” of the aforementioned cardboard-

Jĩ ðiTud bœr

— 120 —

Men came and went at his house. All baptized Jews and Jewish descendants praised the noble, art-loving gentleman of Dessaur, who was “very rich, very amiable and very "Divorced" should be and should stand out even more because of it-he claimed that he would be on his estate — for the same
He also owned a significant estate — and bred donkeys. But Look there: although he was considered a very good boy in Munich
The man was disgraced and people there were slandered.
He hadn't noticed anything amiss while breeding donkeys for years; then it happened to him in Years 1860, that he suddenly became involved in an embezzlement was caught with pupil money. This brought him
He was brought to trial for fraud and was convicted despite All attempts by "fine friends" to bring about the loss of the nobility and the title of Court Councillor, as well as imprisonment for several years-Sentenced.

What now to the aforementioned Mr. von Ker-

Storff in Augsburg, who is the president of the "Association" for German industry" itself was, from which the believe- zealous Austria recently awarded the Commander's Cross of the Franz Joseph Order received, and a few years ago the chief critic against Prussia in Zollverein matters- If he gave up, it's good to know that the- not always the same as in recent years before the He spoke of the wars of 1870. It exists, in fact.

Heimer was a Seligmann, also known as Eichthal, from Berg am Laim. in the Rhineland-Palatinate, of pure Jewish blood. We saw her. still in 1836 on the balcony of her house in Ludwigs- street, short and thick with a swollen neck, sparkling eyes and a drooping Jewish nose and heard her call down: "God of Righteous people, what heat! — a brochure written in 1851 by this Kerstorff- a document entitled: "Memorandum on the Continuation of the German Customs and Trade Association," in which he defended precisely what he ultimately rejected: the necessity of the Prussian super-weight in customs union matters. It states under Other:

— 121 —

"It is not the time, from the South German side, to the commercial contract with any conditions, or even with the threat of what was already being done by Prussia to encounter the previously foreseen alternative of withdrawal You can only defeat such a determined opponent with friendship. To obtain favorable conditions through compassion and submission, But barking where you can't bite, that is and was Clumsy at all times.

"For people who are not completely blind and deaf, No argument is needed about the fact that we in South of Germany us in the impossibility of a

"Separation from the Zollverein is taking place." |

Back then, things were different, and the hate was more intense.
Wars against Prussia, like the ones now, would not be possible at all.
would have been appropriate.

Catholic Austria, which in many things so to speak, completely Jewishized, did not recognize the far-the Jewish comrade's maneuvers and decorated the Kerstorff with the prestigious Franz Joseph Order. That this Hofrath, by the way, in no way knew his Hebrew
An article by Frank- proves that someone can deny their origins.
jurter Journals of September 27, 1863, where it was stated:

— 122 —

"According to the 'Schles. Zig.', the Bavarian would be Court Councillor Herr von Kerstorff, the much-mentioned indefatigable Agitator against the trade agreement with France, not more to be feared. This tariff evader is supposed to...
He had apparently fallen out with his representatives after he
He paid the same for his round trip no less than 6000 fl.
has been billed."

This article shows that the "Brofitches", which the noble Pappenheimer protected through his protective tariffs-had turned towards ripeness, which were not insignificant. Whether the-
He and his "representatives" were later back in order.
The Frankfurt Journal also reported on this.
not reported. It is striking that Kerstorff-Pappen-Heimer has become somewhat subdued since that report.
and for the time being from talking and from other demons-kept stations quite far away.

However, the Munich newspapers reported in June
In 1865, for example, the following occurred:

"Munich, June 5th. This afternoon Mr.
v. Kerstorf of Augsburg had a longer audience with the King, who probably refers to the current critical state

likely related to the customs union issue.”

On March 16th of that same year, one of the best Friends of ꝛc. Kerftorff in Augsburg have passed away.
was this the long one originally from Stuttgart?
Dr. Gustav, 20-year-old editor of the Allgemeine Zeitung Kolb. He had the Jew, and in particular the Munich and Augsburg Jews, much to please done and especially the Kerstorf-Pappenheimer always Raised up. Whether this Kolb, like so many Frankfurters

— 123 —

Kolb, Kilb, Kalb, Kahn, Kuhn, Kohn etc. w. origin?
Even though he was also from the Jewish tribe, we could not to fathom it, but they had to consider its entire direction and, based on his connections, almost assume, because in The Allgemeine Zeitung used Jewish language from 1840 to 1865
Absolutely enormous.

In the venerable Nag Bur, the Jews and Jewish descendants already had one about fifteen years ago gained so much influence that she controlled more of her people?
specialist trained as officers of the Landwehr (reserve army). In the year
In 1863 (7) however, they succeeded in arresting the Jewish banker Obermeyer there to their Landwehr colonel to him lift. The Munich newspapers wrote about this gentleman.
The following note was made on September 11, 1864:

"The Ministry of the Interior has assigned the Landwehr?
Colonel Herr Obermeyer, Commandant of the Land?
Augsburg military regiment, which was given the order to enter a in German states, then in Belgium and France,
the local militia, or National Guard.
to examine the institutes and discuss the gradual process.
to submit a detailed report on ten observations.
Mr. Obermayer will be accompanied by a first lieutenant.
to serve as adjutant to the line in the coming days
"To embark on a mission."

When the "grey Jewish man" arrived in Belgium,
France and some German states. Everything considered,
He went to Berlin. On February 27, 1865 (7)
Our King Ludwig II received Colonel Ober-Mayer and took from him, the chief Mayer, a brief

ET e

— 124 —

Report on his stay in the North German Metro-Pole. But the Jews said: "Obermayer has Lecture given to the King on the military Conditions in Prussia."

The author of this text believes 105 years ago.
Years ago I heard that a Jewish boy-fer fich in den allerkleinsten Lieutenant der bayeri-
I have fallen in love with him.
had run away and married him. Whether he had run away
— the son of a weary Bavarian staff officer —
Whether she became Jewish or Lutheran is unknown to us.
It has not been made public. However, it is certain that the Lord husband later — as captain in Neu-Ulm — his had to acknowledge receipt of the charge because he was a Württembergian Lieutenant v. B. from an old Nuremberg patrician family, who was exceptionally handsome, tall, and strong,
had friends over the house and knew a lot about the evil world
He had spoken about his relationship with his wife. He is alive.
now money from his "wife" in Stuttgart and writing-stellert, as we heard, as before in the light friend-
In a literal sense. Whether, meanwhile, a light has been shed on the matter.
We do not know whether Judaism has been absorbed, for since of our youth, when we once saw him ourselves in front of Jews-
Despite warnings, a great deal of time has passed.

Just as in Augsburg, so too in Munich
The Jews knew after 1848 that several of to elevate "their people" to the rank of Landwehr officer. Names-

They probably also brought along a certain Marx.
the eldest son of the bankrupt in the forties
having, previously mentioned Jewish bankers

— —ñ—4— —

— 15 —

Marx) before and after up to the colonel of the entire Munich Landwehr. From him N towards the end.
December 1865: 5

"In the local area, the Major and Commander of the 1st Füfilier~~z~~ Battalion, Mr. Ludwig Marx, to lieutenant colonel and the lieutenant colonel and Regimental Adjutant, Mr. August Friedberg, major Dog commander of the 2nd Fufilier battalion appointed."

The one who, at the same time as Marx, became a major
The exalted Mr. August Friedberg is also Jewish. So Things continued smoothly regarding the Jews, who all
"Lieutenants and Cavaliers", "Knights of the Order" and "noble" want to become. In April 1866, the Lord was born.
Lieutenant Colonel Marx was actually already promoted to colonel.
and commanders of the entire Munich Landwehr~~z~~
Regiments appointed. On April 8th, the Mün~~z~~ Jewish newspapers: "This morning, our Landwehr in honor of the newly appointed Colonel and Com~~z~~ client Mr. Marx in e a N fact~~z~~ parade ffactfound; #

This cunning Jew, "old Marx," had above all
They had their sights set on the nobility. The Counts of H., the Barons from P., the families of C. and B, who gave him their assets
Those who had entrusted him with their affairs are completely ruined by his bankruptcy.
Many respectable Munich bourgeois families also went.
This was the root cause. Nevertheless, his son Ludwig soon afterwards to his children a steward and to his wife, a Jew, Equipage. A second son, who was present at the banquet of the Jews in

The year 1848 had been when people shouted "Death to the nobility," went to England in 1850, but was supposed to return from there soon after to be and in Munich nn A. d. V.

—

— 128 —

On April 25th, the following coloring-full reports from a Jew, as follows:

"Munich, April 25. The excellent spirit who
The Landwehr of Munich, which is animated, has in the most recent Time has been expressed again on several occasions. Yesterday
In the evening, the non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the Landwehr Regiment to the newly appointed Colonel and Commandant of the same, Mr. Marx, in the extremely tastefully decorated premises of the Westend Hall
A splendid festival was held, during which patriotic Speeches to sentiments of unwavering loyalty and devotion Giving for King and Fatherland, law and order was given the most vivid expression. Toast on His His Majesty the King as supreme commander of war, His Royal Highness.
Prince Adalbert as district commander, Mr.
Major General Stöber as Commandant of the Landwehr Brigade Munich and Mr. Colonel Marx, whose he
The nomination was met with such general joy by the entire regiment.
was greeted, then turned to the regiment itself, increased the prevailing patriotic mood. The whole office
The regiment's guard of honor attended the magnificent festivities.
the masterfully delivered lectures of a series selected musical pieces from the side of the music corps of the Regiment under the excellent direction of its band Master Mr. Hager, to whom the most raucous [something] was also awarded.
He received applause and unanimous recognition.
was beautified and lasted until late in the evening. Aehn
The officers' corps of the
II. Fusilier Battalion, then the non-commissioned officers and troops Men of the 8th Company of the same. In honor of the after 26 honorably completed years of service from the active Landwehr services and from the commando of the aforementioned Company of departing Captain Würzburger organized, with tastefully decorated certificates. were presented, expressing feelings of high esteem and love, which all his comrades and sub-comrades They will always prove themselves to him, expressed were."

Mr. Würzburger, who was the last to be dressed, also a Jew, was already enlisted as a Landwehr soldier in 1841⁷ to become a corporal after a quarter of a year. and having become a lieutenant in 1848, it also had He was soon brought to the captain and now rests on his Laurels.

Even the Landwehr Colonel Ludwig Marx is Withdrew from the scene in 1867. He said:

"Mr. Landwehr Colonel Marx, who provisionally holds a Having taken several weeks of vacation, he is considering how to... informs us that he is resigning completely from the Landwehr service. (Order Pains 2)

But in its place there are already a lot of others. other Jewish agents, both in the new organization⁸ Station of the Landwehr, as well as in the army in general smuggled in, which opened the door to the people of Israel They will remain open and soon spread.

⁷ The greatest bankruptcy of a Jewish descendant, which However, the one that occurred recently in Munich was the one of the wine merchant and innkeeper Shimon there, which we have already mentioned earlier in this issue. This Shimon came from Hungary in the early 1940s.

 came to Munich and originated, although he was all had brought papers labeled "Protestant", from a Jews from Timișoara. The old Jew Michel, who who was still alive at that time and was a wine innkeeper in Rosengasse,
 He determined, as already mentioned, that he had citizenship rights.
 The entire Jewish community naturally ran there and the wine
 Shimon's economy became notorious in 1848
 Democrats' pub. The Jews and Democrats received also "kosher". Drinking wine and champagne, during the Christian citizen, the officer and Edelmänn always — in a peculiar way — on the at Shimon drank wine and champagne, the ugly thing got the worst colic! — ö

As soon as the stormy year of 1848 was over, things changed.
 Shimon, who until then had been very democratic himself than, the color and became a follower and eulogist
 of King Maximilian II of Bavaria, as there was no larger ones. He succeeded, as they say, by King Max himself a building site in the Maximilians
 A street was given as a gift, along with interest-free capital for construction.
 to borrow from a large inn. The hotel
 "To the Four Seasons" was built and financed with credit.
 Richly furnished. But very soon after Vollen
 The construction and furnishing of the building burned especially Barely the roof truss and the upper floor partly However, since he was well insured, he was soon released.
 Rebuilt. The entire Jewish community of Germany, Yes, Europe's entry point was there, when it went after Munich came. Many simple-minded Christians also paid.

— 129 —

there the enormous prices or gambled and wasted their money and their assets there. They spoke softly.
 first in 1865 that Mr. Shimon was no longer
 He was doing well. An immeasurable number of changes were there for him.
 in circulation. If he were to redeem it, too many would appear
 They encountered difficulties and had to make new changes.

Resp. or rather, a practice of switching allegiances was being carried out. Suddenly it was said written by a Jewish author on February 25, 1866:

"Once again, the most senseless speculative frenzy is a Victims were killed. Anyone who came to Munich visited everyone.
even the most beautiful inn in the city, the "four Seasons", and everyone found the most welcoming, comfortable one tabular recording at the owner's. And this,
Mr. Shimon, this afternoon in the Isar... drowned. The reason for this unfortunate act was the sudden inheritance of a leather manufacturer, for which
Mr. Sch. had set his own credit in motion.

And it continued: "The deception that manifests itself in audacious speculations are made public and the Munich the emergence of entire city districts is due to, increases
here, every day in the most alarming way: The auction
the leather manufacturer Streicher, the suicide of Schimon, the fear of the fulfillment of a great
The exchange was caused by the sale of the exchange sensal Dorn, the hotel owner Sauer, and others are sad bees.
wise for the reckless administrative style that is practiced here encountered in financial matters."

And furthermore, on March 28th, it was learned from Nuremberg

Berger Correspondent:

9

— 130 —

"The consequences of the innkeeper's suicide Shimon are unfortunately becoming increasingly sad. After The factory owners Kaltenecker, father and son, Gi
. aunts of many Shimon exchanges, a few weeks ago
have left here and gone to Switzerland,
The Pichler trading house is now also the heirs of the deceased.

which had also spun many Shimonian bills of exchange, in the necessity has arisen to stop his payments~~en~~ len, a case that is all the more regrettable in all circles were agitated when this house became one of the oldest and was most respected and moved in the widest circles of the best name."

The highly respected business Pichler's Erben, which Descendants of an honest ducal Bavarian servant (Salzfaktors?), an ancient Munich bourgeois family, whose ancestor in medieval costume, in master~~en~~ a wooden portrait of him was enthroned in the office of the same. also ruined by Jewish intrigue!

— The passives of Shimon are said to follow a Notice published on May 13th at 1,200,000 Gul~~en~~ which amounted to, while the assets did not reach 180,000 They reached guilders. A few weeks later it was learned:

"In the Schimon family's inn (Gasthof zu den)" ("four seasons") is a comparison in the manner of state It has come to pass that the creditors will immediately receive 17 percent, while all the furniture: and real estate~~en~~ assets in the property of the Shimon relics passes over and they undertake to pay the creditors 15 One percent annually for years, so even more to pay 15 percent of their claims."

— 131 —

The son-in-law of Shimon leads the guest~~en~~ court away. It is likely to be very peculiar at this ban~~en~~ Kerott must surely be the case that only Christian trading houses and Christian families were thereby destroyed~~en~~ the, while not a single Jew was involved in the slightest It suffered damage. —

As the Jewish gentlemen do it: with the customs make and circumvent him by inducing Christians to They know about smuggling the goods across the border. We also have the following charming example from the year 1866:

"Munich, May 1st. Yesterday a hearing took place." a rare type of trial took place before the local district court, namely because of customs fraud. About 14 days before Jakobi v. J. was the horse trader Jak. Mair from Munich to Salzburg and bought a so= there the aforementioned Salzburgerwägerl next to two ponies together Harness, and asked the horse that was also present there= merchant Xav. Grandl from Thann in Lower Bavaria, him to lead this wagon out to Munich. Grandl He agreed to this and brought the horse and carriage here. without, however, at the Bavarian transition station Freilassing the customs duty, — which for the wagon was 87½ fl., for a Horse 2 fl. 20 kr. and for a horse harness 1 fl. 42 kr. The amount is to be paid. The matter was thereby turned into The courts have found that a customs officer, a certain JB Oberstatter, at the Augustinerbrand there= here listened to a conversation concerning this process and then, by using two people, the thing= knew how to determine the behavior and then filed a report.

The court found the two e of the customs officer=

— 132 —

dation bez. der Theilnahme hieran fchhaft und verur= She divided it for the subsequent payment of the customs duty, for the payment of the four times the customs duty as a penalty and added to the costs."

Xaver Grandl is a Catholic farmer and not really a horse trader, but just, like so many others, down-and-out peasants, a middleman and under= subservient servant of the Jews. Jakob Mair, on the other hand, is a rich Jew! The carefully laid plan of the Jews had been completely successful until Grandl at Augustinerbräu chatted about it, and the customs officer B. Oberstätter took it to court.

Almost a similar case, where two Jews were involved in the The bankruptcy of a Christian, which was intertwined with the situation, came to light in Munich.

This occurred in 1866. It was written about on February 8th:

“Albert Bichelmaier, merchant of, is accused here, because of the crime of fraudulent bankruptcy, then Heinrich Schwarz, haberdasher, 31 years old old, from here, and Adolph Schüllein, 23 years old, Action committee of Thalmässing, due to participation on the crime of fraudulent bankruptcy. State=

Lawyer: Mr. Barth; Bertheid: Dr. Gott=

Help and Dr. Frankenburger from Nuremberg; Sach= understand: the HH. Daxenberger and Sontheimer, Merchants; siblings: the HH. Edel, Schwarz, Birzer, Altinger, Stindt, Paur, Heftes, Röckl, Lehmann

Schweykart, Huber and Dr. Königswarter. The hay=

The indictment is only against Schwarz and Schhüllen. This is because Bichelmaier is a fugitive in Switzerland. formerly located in Maximilianstrasse, the business of

— 1883 —

Bichelmaier went badly, yes, that he was from fine Glänbi= was often pressured and several sales took place announced. Schwarz and Schüllein set out on the 6th. July 1863 there, to buy a large batch of goods cheaply to go shopping when the auction was already at the door. They later bought it for 5212 fl. 12 kr. by court order. valued goods for 2800 fl. and had them sent to Packaging at the shipping company of Pichler's heirs Bring it here. Bichelmaier took the proceeds to Zurich fled after incurring some debts beforehand. had paid, as he feared being sent to the custodial prison. to be led. Bichelmaier previously stated that Schwarz and Schüllein had encouraged him to sell. The former said: “They are from your wholesalers You have been cheated; how can you feel good about that? to get out of there, to cheat them again; sell your Goods before you are placed in a change arrest.” The an= The defendant denies this statement; just as little as it is It is true that Bichelmaier during the trade the Lad= nerin removed, and that the goods in the twilight was taken to Pichler. Bichelmaier, on the other hand, they fled, while the two defendants volunteered. The state authority reported a non-compliance.

guilty, which was determined by the foreman of the jury,
Mr. Edel, was also announced. The two freedmen
Those who spoke left the hall freely. Against Bichelmaier
The jury court will deliver a verdict in contumaciam will be felled."

The co-defendants Heinrich Schwarz and Adolph Schüllein were Jewish. So were their defense attorneys, Dr. Gott.

—

8 ~ — — — — —
— — — — — . — ũ ũ ũ ũ —

**

— 154 —

"Help" and Dr. Frankenburger were Jewish. One of them Both experts, including Mr. Sontheimer, are Jews.
Of the jurors, Dr. Königswarter is certainly one
Jew. Whether juror Edel is a Jew, they don't know.
We are not certain. In the case of the same person from Würzburg.
Since he comes from [country name], he is probably also Jewish, because the well-known [person/person]
Professor Edel himself, who so often changed his color
He is of Jewish descent. The juror Lehmann was also Jewish. What happened at this jury trial?
even further from the tribe "Take", they could we don't know exactly; and must tell others about it to investigate whether juror Schwarz is a Jewish Black, just like the accused. —
One of the most despicable Jewish swindlers was probably the Jew Isaak Neustätter in Munich, wel
a lot of poor servants and clerks on

The cheekiest one cheated and then made a run for it. The
The Bayerische Kurier reported on this on August 2nd, 1867:

"The subject of the last hearing of the 2nd
The indictment formed the basis of the extraordinary jury trial.
against Isaac Neustätter, 37 years old, married name Schneider Master and agent of Munich, for fraud. State Lawyer: Mr. von Reichert; Defense Counsel: Dr. Diet
f sir; 1 there are none present because the defendant

9 The Jewish doctor, advocate, and lawyer is probably the same.
Macher and Acher, who used to be the clumsy "courier" in Munich edited, but as soon as the same was put on his fingers
It flopped, . Did its influence return?

(Question from the author.)

— 135 —

is fleeting, therefore the Contumacial procedure for application dung to come. — In the period from spring
From 1865 to 1866, several articles appeared in the local publications.
Latest news: an advertisement stating that a Go-outs were being sought, and those who reflected on this learned... upon inquiry, that the merchant Isaak Neustätter this I had the advertisement placed. It appeared in the
During the aforementioned periods, a number of people were involved with Neu stätter; he revealed to them that he needed in his capacity as an agent of a Berlin fire insurance company of a traveler who was a participant in the aforementioned Ge company wins, then again, he needs as a banker and to operate his mantilla business, an exit
The person who has to procure and collect the money. New
The town took everyone who came into his service against Ver swearing of a monthly fee of 17-45 fl., However, he always demanded a deposit in cash.
or in securities of 100–1000 fl. For security
The agreed-upon provisions were put in writing, with even notarized, certified, or Neustätter sed Exchange about the deposits received, concealed each but in doing so, he simultaneously had a whole number of I assumed so-called outgoers and let everyone based on the belief that he was the only one. At the same time, he knew to arrange it in such a way that those in his service People who did not live with him, not with each other met and thus his manipulations would not soon be over. discovered. Since several of the outgoing members (they were their 24, from whom he had swindled a total of 7890 fl.

soon withdrew again and demanded the reimbursement of their

— 136 —

Deposits and the mostly outstanding fees are... langten, derfchwand Neustätter Ende Mai v. J."

The jury convicted him in vain.
to an eight-year prison sentence.

On August 20th of the same year, the old and the well-reputed inn "Zur blauen"
The "Traube" winery in Munich was forcibly auctioned off publicly.
Jewish money-makers had somewhat carelessly... fiber jo lange geleißen, bie fie die Hand aufs thun could. The inn fell to the two main creditors, the Jewish private citizen Sigmund Friedmann from Munich chen and the Jewish merchant Ulrich von Harburg.

What influence did the Munich Jews have in direct
The way they exerted influence on the theater's conditions is also be They knew. They knew, by investing their capital in Stock Theatres and their connections to the Court Theatre

played, almost all the wretched works of Jews

and Jewish offspring there more than at other theaters to bring it forth. They accomplished the earliest first Performance of the scandalous operetta by the Cologne Jew

Jakob Offenbach "Orpheus in the Underworld" and the other works by the same, all of which were solely based on that are designed, from the German stage down our to demoralize the people. Yes, they even wanted to... the vile whore and Parisian street singer
Theresa to be imported. A Munich newspaper had itself
The following little article about Jews was published on March 6, 1866.
write:

"Our royal city will also soon have one" Impresario, like Ulmann, received. A already — 137 —

a somewhat elderly man, with a fortune of approximately 2000 fl., who possesses fine language skills and so has the polish to behave nobly and tactfully in large groups
To move circles and salons, a maturity is intended.
to travel to Paris in order to, where possible, visit the local...
Street singer Theresa, who now lives in Seinstadt causing an enormous sensation, even before the powerful
The Emperor sang to great applause, after
"To seduce Germany." -

But fiehe: in the year 1867, fih was roused on March 2nd.
once the better audience of a Bavarian city,
to the Jewish activities and comedy on the
To give German theater a "mark" once. From Ingolstadt wrote the following day:

"The whole town is in an uproar over a
The incident yesterday gave rise to one of the worst
There were theater scandals. A former member of the local theater company...
Girter, a singing comedian, Mr. Hirsch, a Jew, performed several times as a guest here again, and was in a theater
The criticism in the local daily newspaper was quite harsh.
his inappropriate and unworthy play. About that Enraged, he placed an ad the next day that was usually...

a retort brimming with insults, in which he among other things, it also allowed the use of the name of a local
The officer, whom he initially mistook for the author, who
But the editors of the newspaper told him to had been described as a non-author, whose regardless of throwing mud at him. When he now took to the stage
As he entered, he heard shouts from all sides: "Get out!"
contrary to, which was followed by whistling and thumping, while others

— 138 —

since shouts of protest were heard. The noise continued, until the prelude fell and a second comedy sketch was scheduled, in which Mr. Hirsch was not employed, it began, whereupon renewed calls for Mr. Hirsch led to the continuation.
also prevented this piece, and the present gentleman Mayor Doll, on behalf of the law, presents the idea adjusted and the present SUFJOIDENEE, to remove themselves
"nen, which also happened quietly."

Unfortunately, it soon happened that the ae scion of a noble German princely family, Prince Paul von Thurn und Taxis, from a Jewish comedy diantin, a Mamsell Kreutzer, was involved, and She married. This was reported in 1867 by the Bavarian newspapers.
Leave the following from Munich:

"At court and in the circles of our aristocracy and in the distinguished world a story is circulating which caused a stir due to the circumstances surrounding it. Prince Paul von Thurn und Taxis, the King's adjutant,
is with the actress Miss Kreutzer to Switzerland They hurried to get married there. The wedding is but it has not yet happened, as the prince's mistress is a
She is Jewish and will only undergo baptism later.
But now it is announced — and this version is going into our Highest circles, from word to word — that Prince Maxi milian von Thurn und Taxis himself into Switzerland
I have gone to see my fine son, if possible, still on to bring back the old railway. A playbill, which N
the prince immediately upon his arrival in Lucerne

found, and the name of Miss Kreutzer as a contributor in a play, is supposed to

— 139 —

"Have led the father to his son's trail. In the opinion that the prince is suffering from delusional love in the audience, admiring his beloved
To find him, the prince hurried to the theater, and was supposed to his surprise, which was like a thunderclap — Here ends the little story which took place in our high world-the fateful circuit makes — the prince and Son as an actor on the boards that be the world to interpret, to have seen each other again. Everyone told each other...
The thing about the prince, that he — still as adjutant of the King — in Hohenschwangau, his illustrious He surprised his patrons and lord by suddenly appearing as Lohengrin, in costume, entered the king's chamber.
and His Majesty the bumpy Wagnerian verses with He pre-recorded it with the most appropriate softness possible. They spoke in all the inns, it was mentioned that Prince Paul Taxis, as The king once heard the music of the 1st Infantry Regiment.
summoned to Hohenschwangau, under romantic moonlight
as Lohengrin on a boat slowly across Swan Lake passed through when the king was on the balcony watching Wagner listened to the wise man, who played music on the battlement presented at the castle. But whether the young prince was not the will one day exclaim with Schiller's "Ferdinand": "This Unfortunate flute playing! I should never have learned it!
we want to leave it to the all-balancing future."
The young prince became an actor; he, who otherwise performed on the court stage. In October 1867
The couple appeared as Mr. and Mrs. von Thurn on
The city theater in Aachen is open. But the old Prince Maxi Milian Lamoral von Thurn und Taxis forbade them

— 140 —

this name. They turned to Zurich, where Prince

Paul debuted — without any success. The father
He finally took pity on his son and asked the king Ludwig II, his deceased son, to be "Lord of to make a rock. This happened; the prince appointed him a pension and the couple now lives — he most unhappy, as they say — pretty much in the bane generosity and — forgotten. — N

The first Jewish woman, fifty or more years ago married into Munich and thus the descendant men der Weling, Kerstorf, Seligmann, Pappenheimer
The same Sarchen D. was the one who surpassed the others in rank.
An Alsatian Jewish girl learned after the war years 1813 and 1814 the Lieutenant Baron von D., from ancient Munich patrician families knew and accompanied him, as recently as Mamsell Kreutzer, after the end of the campaign as far as Munich, where he then also married. Sarchen D. was a short-legged, plump man.
Jewish woman. She had already had one before her marriage.
extremely decrepid, ancient emigrants, a baron of Montmorency, had as a "friend", who,
as they say, as an exceptional gourmet of her roundish Jewish mouths the most peculiar and from had made the most widespread use of it. Hardly had Sar When she had become Mrs. D., she hurried to the old gentleman, to follow her to the Bavarian residence and to get off at her place. He was then seen regularly on every theater evening to the left of his
"Dame" at the Gallerie Noble, while the husband always modestly content with a second-place finish

— 141 —

had to. Sarchen, even as a young woman, was always with decked out in the most colorful flowers and ribbons and She started wearing red makeup when she was barely 25 years old.
and knows how to conceal her Asian complexion.
With the entire baptized Jewish community, with Westheimers, Strasbourg's, Weling's, Pappenheimer's, etc. on the Standing on her best feet, she greeted us, after we had already seen the Corridor had heard her piercing voice, at her

Entering the theater in the most familiar way, he bowed.
often against her, whom she barely knew at all,
high above her, slumbering persons, to whom she looked unto herself was trying very hard to flatter her. Soon long She then slobbered all over the house in the most outrageous way.
and then sang in French during the
The piece with the Baron of Montmorency was so loud that the ground floor audience not infrequently made their displeasure known through loud Silence was commanded.

After the Baron towards the end of the 1930s
Having passed away at a very advanced age, he left behind er "der ganze kleine niedliche Mund" a number of state papers and fine family jewelry, which in a Un masses of jewels: diamonds, rubies, sapphires and Emeralds of every shape and setting existed. As The singer R. asked the Jewish woman what Sarchen meant by that.
When she wanted to start, she simply said: "That's for the...
future! | |

Her husband, a high-ranking, stately lord, who the Baron von Montmorency tolerated, but not after imitated, but continued straight ahead on his usual path and who sometimes went left, died a few years after her

— 142 —

Friends. Neither from him, but even less so from him.
Sarchen had children with the Frenchman.
The widow turned to the "future generation", but had to but, as they say, to get the diamond set in rings ten wills, sometimes to the utmost, i.e., up to the highly esteemed Munich police, go; for their young, handsome, but penniless worshipper seized to year a chance to use the Montmorency diamond
tenkaften to carry out their precious pieces.

Sarchen D., nearing eighty, is still living in Munich and still appears at the Hoftheater
On the Galleria Noble. She's just like she was in her youth.
Heavily made up, wearing a black wig with longing

her ancient head is as before adorned with flowers and covered in ribbons and her black eyes, the edges of which Deeply flushed, they eagerly seek out — future husbands. King Ludwig I called the lady: the prototype of the Jews' fate. — ö

But we turn away from this ugly image. aside and are now making some appointments and Be' Calls from Jews and descendants of Jews, which in the last years in the civil service and elsewhere' came into consideration.

As we have already reported, King Ludwig II, who abdicated his uncle, of King Otto of Greece, heavily involved Jews from Bernau appointed Bavarian Consul in Trieste He had been promoted to general very shortly afterwards. consul for Italy "with pragmatic rights and ent' a "speaking salary" was levied. In February 1866 then the Jewish scion and accessor Karl Dessauer from Schaffenburg was appointed assessor in Laufen. Aschaffenburg Dessau, the father of the Assessor He was a merchant in Laufen and had a business in Schaffenburg he founded a colored paper factory. But he turned to An' went bankrupt in the fifties and moved to Ame' Rika, where he lived quite well "on his means". Its creditors, mostly Jews, They ensured that the colored paper factory was incorporated as a stock corporation. The company continued and retained its peculiar character. Weise, the eldest son of the bankrupt Dessau resident, as Director of the same.") This Dessau, in form a Christian, was also through peculiar connections'

— 13 —

*) In the summer of 1867, reports were received from Aschaffenburg' castle, that there the red-cheeked, youthful-strong son of a Christian supervisor at the Dessauer colored paper factory suddenly disappeared without a trace. On October 24th of the same year

The Aschaffenburg newspaper reported with reference to this secret
The full incident, verbatim, is as follows: ö

“We issued the statement a few months ago, that the son of the glue factory master in the local colored paper
The company is missing. All sorts of things were done back then.
Research was conducted and, among other things, the possibility that the boy into one of the deep limestone pits, where the glue leather was laid parried, may have fallen, caught in the eye and therein after searched. Today, during the accidental complete emptying of such a
The body of the unfortunate man was found at the very bottom of the pit.
Boys.”

Those residents of Schaffenburg who were subject to the conscription of the Boys from the limestone quarry who were present claimed that its neck completely “shrunk up” and his face completely puffy being. A. d. V.

— 14 —

soon became Consul in Spain. When the noble and High-minded Lieutenant Frei from Bamberg, to the Ver stances regarding the murder of Professor Hof to uncover the man and his wife, to Spain traveled and about the explored horrible facts Having reported going, Consul Dessauer sought his exit to weaken in every way. This approach of the Judensprossen led the unfortunate officer into a
A kind of profundity from which he can no longer escape.
The assessor in Laufen lived there.
better than this in the ee from an assessor salary can happen.

On April 20, 1866, the following followed:
The appointment of a Jew as assessor and reported the Munich newspapers commented on it as follows:

"Amidst these warlike noises, a pleasant news, which was seen throughout the country as a time with great satisfaction the progress of humanity

will be recorded: the Access Rosenthal was appointed assessor at the local city court. Thus
A Jew has been made a civil servant.
This appointment is the first such case in Bavaria.

The Jew Kohnstamm had long since been the right-winger Apprentice Isaac Horwitz was appointed royal apprentice in 1865.
Appointed as lawyers in Schweinfurt. So it went on.
quite leisurely, and a lot of lawyers, assessors, Assessors, etc., from Jewish stock were expelled by the
The King's Secret Cabinet was raised into positions.
Jude Berolzheim at the Royal Commercial Court of Fürth was appointed as a substitute judge. Messrs. Kaula,

— 15 —

Mayer and others became jurors. The architect Hitzig in Berlin, son of the well-known Jewish criminal director Itzig himself was made an honorary citizen on Kaulbach's proposal.
member of the Munich Academy of Fine Arts appointed N

When the municipal commercial school in Munich was founded in 1868
The reason for this was reported in the Nuremberg Courier.
even the following:

"Munich, June 24. The two community colleagues
The city of Gien appointed a new director yesterday.
our newly founded municipal commercial school, the Royal Rector the commercial and trade school in Fürth, Dr. Bren Tano was elected. The election could hardly have been more suitable.
A more pleasant personality may be attracted, since Dr. Brentano is too belonged to the first men in his field. That the two Municipal councils of the Bavarian capital and residence
Instead of appointing an Israeli to head the new educational institution have appointed — namely the council of the congregation authorized with almost all votes and the
A unanimous city council — is a gratifying time

A e ee ee, |

The city of Erlangen had already done so on April 8, 1867.

. the Jewish university professor Dr. Herz himself the Honorary citizenship awarded.

In Paris he worked as a commissioner in industry= Exhibition of the Jewish Consul Schwab. Who also Jewish Consul in Vienna, Leopold von Wertheimstein, received the Knight's Cross of the Order of Merit of the Holy Michael. Many other Jews received medals, or... who was appointed consul. And so it continued in one fell swoop.

10

— 146 —

as long as the head of the Secret Cabinet of King Ludwig II.

Ministerial Councillor Lutz") was. Hardly had he, the Jews on the one hand and the Ultramontanes on the other, much to do favors, state officials appointed Minister of Justice avancirt, when suddenly it was said:

"Munich, April 21. Following a ministerial meeting= Resolution of the 25th of this month: Israeli notaries may and lawyers are appointed as Landwehr auditors."

Alongside this, the Jewish lawyers Kronacher were also active, Kohnstamm, Hähnle, Gotthelf, etc., only everywhere in in the most exciting way and were only looking for the Jews everywhere to move forward. The Jewish Dr. Frankenburger in Nuremberg, which through fine speeches into the—Assemblies of the Progress Party in the very place where it is notorious, worked openly for Judaism and became the defender= almost every Jewish criminal. “*) The one from a

Dr. von Schauß, a lawyer descended from a Jewish family, worked

*) This Minister of State for Justice, who recently visited Versailles

The son who signed the sad treaty with Prussia is a schoolteacher in Würzburg. He was head of the Rabinet's king, Louis II, and as such tried to the even those who did not fully belong to the royal house of the Wittelsbachs Princess Sophie Charlotte of Bavaria, of equal rank, as his wife to give. Meanwhile, true royalists found a way to thwart this plan. We will discuss this further later in our Works "Bavarian Memoirs from 1825 — 1875" in detail come back to this matter.

) In the workers' association in Fürth, which was biased against Jews The town is teeming with people, and Gabriel Löwenstein was the head in 1867. Lawyer Kronacher and the [unintelligible] were active in the People's Association there. Dr. Landmann in the Jewish Plane. A. d. V.

RT

— 147 —

in the anti-Bavarian and decidedly Prussian interest. He voted with the Jews at popular assemblies doctor Dr. Strauss, the lawyer Gotthelf, the gentlemen Rubner, Hähnle, etc.

They reported on the Jewish Dr. Aub in Munich. The Bavarian Jewish newspapers in January 1870 reported the following:

"The "Business Repartition Committee" had opposed the
The efforts of Mr. Mayor von Steinsdorf to... administrative activity of the civic councils increasingly restrict, a very unanimous and energetic protest raised and Dr. Aub gave an exhaustive and excellent motivated, the mayoral measures sharply criticized judgment, report delivered, which is of a general nature
The applause was gratifying. The faculty joined in the discussion.
Applications to which we will occasionally return—
the unanimous and maintained the customary practice over it
The debate energetically addressed the principle of autonomy, as he, in the spirit of the new municipal code, irrevocably merely emerges."

Soon after, the Jews and their friends succeeded in to prompt this very honorable gentleman to resign let it be.

Meanwhile, the Jewish merchants *) were also moving everywhere their posts. In September 1869 it was stated:

*) The larger retail area is located in Munich. It's almost full now.
They only came into Jewish hands. Until 1826, when in When the first synagogue was consecrated in Munich, they were located there themselves only forty Jewish families. Since then, they have become so conspicuous.
so many that there are now almost four hundred of them. They abstained

— 148 —

"In the first [event] which took place a few days ago
ordinary general meeting of the Munich Chamber of Commerce
The club's annual report was presented and the preliminary discussions were held.
The state parliament was newly elected. This was learned from the former.
Pleasure that the club only considers the stock exchange as one thing
Considering the individual, already achieved purpose, its full potential attentiveness but unexposed to the interests of trade standes in general, as well as those of a each of its members is dedicated to it. The report, which is also available to non-members at the club secretariat

Having riote will undoubtedly cause many to to join the club. The board consists of as follows:
Previously, the following gentlemen were elected: JM Gerbeissen (1st Chairman)
the), Moritz Guggenheimer (2nd Chairman), B. Limann (1st Secretary), FJ Ruederer (2nd Secretary), Felix Breuninger, H. Kaula, F. Rau, JC Weibert.
In place of Mr. Max Schulze, who was the re-entry
"If the election was rejected, Mr. S. Neustätter (treasurer) takes over."

Of the nine chairmen, Guggenheimer, Kaula, Rau and Neustätter Jews. Meanwhile, it happened that two Jews who had done "many different things", suddenly from Munich, leaving behind a mountain of debt.
escaped. The following was stated on October 20, 1869:

"Mendel's shop in the Maximiliansstraße is currently under court-ordered closure.

In 1869 they planned to build a second synagogue and requested funding for it.
in the most impetuous way the magnificent square, planted with tall elm trees near the fairground. The city council rejected this cheeky proposal.
ren ab, but granted them the significant cash sum of 10,000 Gulden for the further construction of their new temple. A. d. V.

— 19 —

It was laid. Mendel operated a confectionery business in addition to his other business.
business still a so-called stock exchange office, whose soul actually his brother-in-law, the well-known writer and book author dealer Siegfried Neuburger was. Both have been since Disappeared on Sunday without a trace so far.
from them. At the stock exchange office, they are now Unfortunately, many people who had entrusted him with money... suffer considerable damage."

The runaway Neuburg resident was also named the author and editor of a "History of Be-deceptions of the priests and monks," as well as the "Barbara Ubryk", which both works of his only had been created to be used against the Catholics incite. A close relative of the same, also a newcomer.

burger, was already in 1855 for forgery and Embezzlement, sentenced to 6 years in a workhouse he had escaped this punishment by fleeing.
drew. The competition opening against the writer Neuburger and the 2c. Mendel was:
Announcement. Since the preliminary proceedings of the university Versalconcurses into the assets of the merchant Julius Mendel and the merchant and bookseller Sieg-Fried Neuburger, especially regarding the one mentioned by these both together here in Salvator Street
No. 18 and in Maximilians-Straße No. 24 operated benen Münchner Bank und Börfen-Commiffions-Comptoir and fashion goods business, closed, will become Securing the creditors of the same, all those, which payments to this person as a shareholder or to a
to make the same, or things of these or for

I

8

— 150 —

whose invoice is in hand, are hereby requested to such payments or deliveries until further notice Legal instructions only to the undersigned mug close.

Munich, October 26, 1869.

Royal Bavarian District Court Munich

"Left of the Isar."

The Jew in question, Mendel, was also Consul of the Republic of Nicaragua, where he probably went at that time has run away. A few days after the above bankruptcy

A call for tenders was issued about him and Neuburger:
"Several weeks have now passed since the noble

Bifolium Neuburger and Mendel the local city home-has left. Equipped with all means to a base escape, undoubtedly sufficiently packed with the swindled funds from their duped clients,
It seems they have completely succeeded in helping the poor to escape the competent judicial authorities! Another one Perhaps for a short time, and initially for the city's conversation.
The affair, once it has become an affair, loses its novelty appeal.
have, will be under the waves of big city life-have gone — to learn another juicy piece of news
Make way. — That's the way of the world! — Where it but it shouldn't be forgotten so soon, that's a vicious cycle.
those unfortunate people who were harmed by this coup of some destitute people deprived of a large part of their means of subsistencecome find; it will remain unforgettable in the womb.
those families where parents and children cry out for revenge and utter curses against the robbers of their "Hard-earned fortune!" N

How many Bavarian and especially Munich familieslien are through such Jewish intrigues, like those of Neuburger And Mendel, ruined! Just look at all the...
the magnificent houses in the Theatiner, Kaufinger-, Wine- and other streets in Munich, whereupon the Jews had lent money that they used in bad times resigned, and now find their own. The Jews in Munich has had this since 1850 and particularly in recent years.
Over the years, they amassed great wealth. But they may beware that not the young and old Bavarian One day, Faust drives into their necks and they had to move out again from good old Bavaria, "where "Milk and honey flow," and where they made their "Measure mats"! — Goodbye!

. r 1

re Bavarian 514418

2 ink K

2 "5 3 5" 2
1 1 4 „ DE 7
1 2 —

Corrections and printing errors.

1) I am told that the Jewish merchant Hänle in Munich
I could be sued for injuriarum because of the note (page 48).
However, I am always ready to prove the truth, i.e.
to ascertain its growth by judicial inspection.
Those convicted of rioting will flee to the third location.
Farmers' sons testify to this.

2) Page 106. The Cullmanns mentioned there are said to be Jewish.
Her ancestry is Jewish. Her grandfather, it is said, was a Jewish teacher.
being; but her father had been baptized early.

ent! arbte Jude nt hum

3

Ber re ont ig in Sue.

1 *
N Page: ii
= N u 2
vie 1b 2
R.
1 1
N Pe
b X f
u 5 = p

PURCHASED FOR THE University of Toronto Library

FROM THE

Joseph and Gertie Schwartz

Memorial Library Fund

FOR THE SUPPORT OF Jewish Studies

9

—

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2008 with funding from
>

Microsoft Corporation

—

<http://www.archive.org/details/diepolemikur dd>

The

rolemic and the human sacrifice

rn:

PLabkinmisimus.'

Osze , % el del,
Sophoel. Antig. el,

A scientific answer without polemics
for the rabbis and their companions.

on

Dr. Aug. Rehline.

—ů — ha a ů —

Paderborn.

Published by Bonifacius Printing House (JW Schroder).

1883.

Printed by the Uyrillo-Metliod printing house { in Prague.

Foreword.

Since my statements made in court-Disputes over Judaism among rabbis. against which meant I had to initiate legal proceedings.
as an offer of perjury, by Franz Delitzsch described as cretinism.
every legally minded person, especially in Rick-view on the socizde importance of the in Red»

The questions raised will probably be understandable, that I am entitled to the right granted to me by law,
to scientifically examine my life beliefs—
to establish, to make use of customs, allow me.

Neither the rabbis nor Delitzsch and other comrades of the same Hhalt-
Cash was brought against me; but since one
These people still exist in certain circles ascribes a meaning to them that they do not have, so is an objective one, referring back to the original texts Discussion of the Jewish question, which was not merely not only the translations, but also the originals

presents and comments where necessary, indispensable-

1 *

Do Jews believe that laws which are not to exist, to be protected against any criticism,
So, for my own protection, I invoke the truth.
for whom I am willing to live and die.

Anyone who contradicts me with compelling evidence-
I can lay down. That's welcome, but violence and lies will not benefit you, as the world has long known Sehon understood. Because of the approximately one thousand Members of the German Oriental Society company that has already been my company for twelve years Views could be examined, except for to the rabbis about my previous publications
only six Protestant scholars spoke disparagingly—expresses, moreover in mere assertions, which lacked proper evidence, and from These six topics are wishes and Delitzsch well-known Jews, who belonged to a Protestant church.
gained in denomination, that one in Dresden, this one about 20 years old a long time ago, when Heidelberg had a little bit of the rights to know learned. Whoever knows the allure of Delitzsch, the unhas observed the tireless fighter for Israel.

will have easily noticed how significant he puts “my Lord and Savior” in his mouth;

Stuff to go. The lamb goes before, who \ They think a wolf is nearby! Listen!

— | —

Some believe the following learned word.
The evidence regarding Israel is clear. (rabbinical)
and Christian ethics of pretty much the same value be. The calculation is therefore not bel, but Only the truth exists.

By taking this new step, I am writing a treatise about the one I call “Rahbinism.”
To give expression to the thoughts of Saint Peter,
that the Jewish people, despite all complaints,
which gives cause
One must pity those who err, who through their Rabbi is misled. This “shepherd- be-Main. To preach Moses and the Protestants:
But they teach what those reject. The thinking idea Jew, who read the Old Testament without his Wanting to study rabbis easily leads to the realization...
Come. That I'm telling the truth. They are, after all.
the rabbinic teachings, which are precisely these mine Scripture informs us. The Old Testament completely foreign. And how rabbinism views the holy
The authors of the Bible themselves twisted the words,
The esteemed Jewish reader might, for example,
to illustrate this through the following passages: Kerithut
fol. 7a, Menachoth fol. 43b, Pesachim f. 64a, Rosh Hashanah f. 6b and 24a, Mohd Katon f. 2a
and Rashi there as Nimuge Joseph there, Nimuge Josef Moed katon perek 2 f. 377 b.
Rashi to Menachoth 27, Rabenu Asher Chullin

—

Namma f. Ila. Kelim to the end and li

Quickly and quickly to this place and Job 6.25 and Ramban to Exodus 22.

ruchin 33a.

Prague, July 29, 1883.

Prof. Dr. Aug.

ag

To address the Jewish polemic, the Christian—
To understand stenthum, one must first know...

that the rabbinic writers not only as O3, (Nazarenes). but also as 2

— — us

Gum), rap ep (idolaters), &°%

(Goyim. Heathens). Oe (Minimum. Heretics), MON

278 (Peoples of the World), Nd o ker of the earth). Os (Nochrim, strangers) and del.

11

describe.

shows Orach chayim 3 113. S: 17 ND r

— ma „ 2 de 3m N 2 „ |
E

That Christians are called Oi,

zo) 130 as IN M® N 12 W If

A Jew is praying and encounters an Akum.

has a cross in his hand, and the Jew comes in prayer to the place where one bows.

He shouldn't bow like that, even if his

The intention would be directed towards God. An Akum with Someone holding a cross is obviously a Christian.

Further reasons why Christians were among the Jews

|
|

Akum is called, you can find it in my for the Royal Bohemian forbidden “answers to the rabbis” (Prax 1885 Cyrillo-Method'sche (Book, p. 18 f.), where it is also shown that we
by the name Akum (literally star worshipper) already the idol worshippers who worship creatures, to be counted.

This also occurs through further be-drawing of the Christians as i 73 Ta

That I 72 (aboda zara) idol-service means, 12 5 of the Talmud in the tractate Aboda Zara 3a, where Nimrod is listed as a witness that Abraham did not worship idols: N"

MN MTDI TI NE e DI TS
Nimrod will come and bear witness about Abr that he did not practice aboda zara (idolatry). In Even in Abraham's time, there were rabbis—

Nischer Wissenschaft only worship and idols

service; Ishmaelites or Nazarenes or others
People who write in popular literature and newspapers about Habinians probably as members of a harmless .
“[foreign cultus” can be called, which also

Abraham could have paid homage without idols
There was no such thing as being a servant. Furthermore, the Talmud Sab. 82 ne 75 2 .. 9 an \

— I >

(we 2 ENTER = 1272)
Kabl Akiba says: how do we know that the

u

Aboda zara their carrier \erunreniet wii

Unclean woman? Because it is sung (l. m. 22 e

You will desecrate your teachers.
and the golden dresses of one form une 8
Negwerlen like Unrach. The Prophet reset is open.

of idolatry and says. (des che liekelmter

They will one day remove him like unrath: 1 taberla zara) is therefore also according to the Talmud. because it is through these words of the prophet as purifying will be shown. True idolatry, Auell Sch. sh

This is proof of that. And such places... a large number. According to the Talmud: all uncircumcised idolaters. Sab.
SSb and S9a are reported to have angels in the Heaven once gave Moses the Torah and wanted to have them for themselves: then Gratt spoke:
The Torah states that you shall not have any other gods.
Have you ever lived among uncircumcised people? who are idolaters. That you heed this admonition needed? It literally says:: ge am) wi'

N 0 Ss am — 9
ner C' 'ne 7 N

Pe l — N te says
“

Se DNS: again, it is eu-recited

In the Torah: you shall not have foreign gods:

ee

Do you live among non-residents, which are 722?
== (Idolatry) practice? Cf. Nedarim 31 hf.

"It is also foreign service", which the

God-given worship is transferred to treschöpfe, idol worship.

— 10 —

That now Christians or idols servants in the eyes of the Jews, it can be seen Easily proven. Thus writes Maimonides (Aboda).

zurn misehna 3). which they call the "Eagle":

22 —ä— " — — — u) ama un. ir N ah Yan
N en eien ee N

Say Sb e zen Ne ww

us 2 2 — * u * sauna 3 Rn
al "Al ly * .. 2 7 we 8 10 ame! IN 19,

Te N IND 1 Br. 7 5 And know that

IN

this people of the Nazarenes, who followed Jesus to err. Although their dogmas differ, But all are idolaters, and one must deal with to teach them how to deal with idols-servants... and so the Talmud teaches. Furthermore says Rabbenn Ascher Aboda 2nd per. 11/4 r nem 12 Mn IIND DOT

\
— 03

15 „ ee 712 the silver chalice, woe
the Christian priest holds in his hand. and the barrel. with which one smokes, they
They serve idolatry. In the Hagahoth R. Ascher
From. to. per. 5 siman 5 it says: Do a
11. The cross belongs to idolatry (= aboda z.)
The early Christians probably know that we have a cross.
They did not believe themselves, but the crucified one.
This is what Rabbi Salomon Margalioth, who lived about
The rabbi in Brody for 70 years was that the Jew probably faces and objects that are associated with a Krenz are mentioned. They may have them in the house.

1

Because, as he explains, the crosses are no longer acceptable?

be prayed to. Not a direct idol, but un Objects belonging to the idol are "bowls".

utschub. peri tebuah 5 51).

Furthermore, Christians also belong to the

— 8 *

D (Gosim). J, says Rabbi Leiv (Worterbimlh
via Talm. and Mldr. S. v. Leipzir. Id. St
8. vn Niehtjude. 3 (0j — Non-Indian. Kue .

The Turks belong to the Sa. obelwsch ge

Jews should not be considered idolaters. e! e

Allah as the One God. Muhammad, however, merely to honor as prophets. The Christians are as 24

Idolaters, because they worship Jesus as God.
and profess the Trinity, which constitutes the modern

Judaism as a polytheistic view. Thus it is understood 7

See that one goes to the Shulchan (Orach ch. 8 128.
(in the stomach of Khraham) teaches. The Turks are Heine.
Idolaters. But probably the Christians. That the

The fact that there are 8 Christians can also be seen in I. Ascher.

*

oda zp l sim. 9: n rin

A goy came and discussed it with us.

In the name of Jesus. And Aboda zara 20b Tos, it says:

in the ey

= e bie Juden, who are now tau—

They let themselves be. They mingle among the goyim, and

You don't call someone like that: your brother

— 1

—

live with you, but it is the law. To push him the pit. The authors of the Tosfoth lived France and since they had the experience,
that Jews who were baptized at that time,
usually sincerely embraces Christianity-

When they took them, they counted them as goyim.

That the Christians 'Glinim, Retzer)
Talmud Sabb. 116a teaches that they are called.

dz ze (D'yan NED In) e

R. Meier called the books of the 859 misfortune.
that is written on blank paper: IN za stands. as does Levy J. csv, "notices cacophemic for the Gospel. Also Maschi comments: nt a = Ir Nez

8 Mm SS ö Tin which translates to:
N: Ve called the books of Minim misfortune on blank paper (aven gilajon) because the minimum They call their books Evangelia. Rashi also speaks.
to Sanh. 100 b of the ez, 329 e ven
the books of Minim, the Shorn One; Ge—
They call the Catholic priests "shorne".
because this one tonsure on the head

make (Keneseth haggedola Jore deah p. 116.);
See also Aboda, ed. 26b Tos. That the Christians
That they belong to the Minim also follows from Aboda 2.
17a. for which Akiba once felt bitter regret,

that he was pleased with the accurate remark

1

=...

had been pleased by a Christian; this friend was just an approach to the (heretics)

of Christianity. According to Abodu b, it should be

The right-wing Jew never from a doctor who the

as Ben

Damma was once bitten by a snake

Minim listened to, let heal; for and a Christian in the name of his Lord, 'Jesus, him Rabbi Ismael would not allow it if he wanted to heal her.

because you can't be healed by one minute is allowed. According to Sota 49 b, most kings are when the Messiah comes, minimal; it should be noted Beh: pn 277 52 e oer
eee NEVER Ne ae? er
35 82 The rule over the largest Part of the world is given to heresy (minnth) — hear, the followers of the error of Jesus, whose Pupils are called Minim (heretics).

That Christians continue to be strangers (IND)
be called. That's self-evident. It-
It suffices to cite Taanith 27b, that the Jews
Do not fast on Sunday because of the Nazarenes.
and next to it Sotrim XVII. Beginning, where of Kr
The matter at hand is and — Wei with Dr.
Rabbi Jacob, also known as Rabbi Tam, changes.
A grandson of Naschi, lived in Frank- in the 12th century.
rich and acquired there after Seder hadoratli
p. 157 through usury great wealth, and says in Rosh Baba mezia per. 5 sim. 52 (also

— 1

Tos. Baba m. 70 b). that the Jews the wuehern init the “stranger” (2) is allowed. yes that man (and he finds a special one for it, — the other ideas of rabbinism from the king-Israel's right to rule over the whole world is not valid.
excluding — reason in the high taxes and taxes) can proliferate without limit. Because.
Whatever one demands is necessary for life
(d): the French, which Tam
Those who were there were undoubtedly Christians. And these He calls them strangers, 292. One can also find evidence for this.
Evidence in the Chatam Sofer (VI. S 24. with reference on Baba m. 90 a) and in many other places.

That the Christians belong to the non-Jewish Peoples of the world or of the earth belong.
after the (they already said clearly; like Moses the
Not all, e.g. Deut. 28:10, peoples of the earth
This is also what the Talmud and Rabbinism call it.

iiberhaupt (Ss. Berach. 6a and Menach. 35 b and haschi there, where he begins with “DW”.

That Christians are not human beings, but rather...
They are regarded as beasts. It blows from countless clouds.
Highlight.

From the Go) stands Tos Kethub. “ b um

Jebam. 22 4 eri M wine en a seed

It is calculated like cattle semen. b'erner stands ke.

(at the time of the Temple) with the holy anointing
Anointing an animal . . . or a (10) was without punishment.
This may be the case with regard to an animal. Because it is not a person. but regarding the (ojim
Why should they go unpunished? Sure, they are.
But people. No. Because it is written:
You (Jews) are my sheep, my sheep.
Willow, you are human beings. You are called human beings and not called people who (iim, parallels)

Jebam can be found in 6la. Babu mezia 114 b, where

—

It's called IN DIN e Y NN everywhere
(i.e., you Jews) means people and nieht heissen Menschen die Gojim; ef. Sah, Tower
Furthermore, Tahnud Makkoth 7b states:
SAN UN en Fee Pe: |. ann?
NN as Dar N e (is a criminal offence...) except for those who intend to kill an animal and kills a human being or who intends to kill a goy and kills a 'Jew. Likewise Sanh. 79a. 23 celebrated

Nabbi Edels says to Kethub. 110b D TED

WO ie ms (the Psalmist) + equal the Akum with the unclean pig of the forest.
Ju berach. 61 b says Edels: an * r ei), Ice —=22 TINO dh the Akum, which everywhere the unclean animals (pigs) are forbidden-

ichen will be; cf. also Edels on Kiddushin 3041. Regarding Makkoth 23 a, Edels says: I Air

2

8185 di the donkey is the name of the Akum. Im Sefer Midrash Talpioth (Warsaw 1875)

in the form of a little creature to the honor of the Jews, because

1

The Akum were not created solely to
To serve the Jews day and night! more to withdraw from their service. And it is not.
befitting a prince (the Jew). that He is served by an animal in animal form. (probably referring to a specific person or group) an animal in human form. Berach. 58 a will
It is said that Rabbi Shila killed a Jew, because he realized that this one was telling the goyim wanted. They would be called donkeys by the Rabbis:

ea 3 en e TEN

WFT 19 2 N - n eo uren Nit N oN r

h D i ARE vv

red 2 dh they (the Gojim) will not be donkeys named, since it is written that their flesh is Donkey meat? Since he saw that (the Jewish layman) was going wanted to tell the goyim they would be donkeys named him. He (Shilah) said: this one wants me in They pose a danger to life, and the Torah says: if If someone wants to kill you, get ahead of him and beat him to death, and he took a club and killed him.

III.

The animal is incapable of being lied to.
That is the point: that the rabbi told the lie,
the fraud. the false oath against Christians as Permissible, as the Talmud says. Baba K. 113b: rn re: it is allowed to decompose the Go) schen; the suffix changes depending on the context.

Baba Kamma 113a it says: INIE N
Pie Man De > NIE Ze,

MONI TE 15 13 e

2 1 9 2 „„

Dee 2 1d 7

—

N eee ee yyy

De Ti ieh eee N Es

is tradition. When a Jew and a (Go kom-

An —
NN

men to the court and you can see him (the Jew)
to achieve victory through the laws of the Jews, so Make him win and tell the goy: so it will be our (resetz; through the laws of the peoples of World, so make him win and tell the (10:
That is what your law requires; if not, then come

(One via the Go) with fraud. So say the words.

No

R. Ismael's. Rabbi Akiba says: one does not come about him alen 010 niit fraudsters because of the Sanctification of the Name. What Immel from Braclitton [He] brings this up. This is not being addressed by Akiba, for example.

rigirt; for Akiba merely says that one should ih

Beware of being discovered, because the leh gane

—

The name itself necessitates this caution. Therefore

“* 8 * 0

Rashi writes the following about this point: IN a

“

D nic ir? TR Den dh

Untwelhun k,
There is no desecration of the name.

The Go) didn't notice that the Jew was online. En!

ze. E. 115 writes Rashi: Dr" N

— .

ah rg D —*— 1 8 NO. he",

Pede N 352 3 NIT dh met 18.
desecration of the name where, for example, the (Jude, lying to an inheriting Cru) Says: I
It was given to your father, and he died. If the (foi not sure knows that the Jew adds")
Baba k. 113h it says: Nei DD NT

2 1 ran TR ere

* In trust, open the hatches of the Christians
Do the Jews allow themselves to be treated, 1 Tall Jesus is not mentioned at all. Like the 'Indians under eh about Christian scholars, which such aerepurem 8
Talking is common, looks like a lot in Deter Jachwenh (Amsterdam 1717) fol. h b. where it says. The Rablomer be-
The Nazarenes were always deceived by telling them...
Jesus' Talmud is not the definitive 'este,' the Jesus of the Christians; they allowed themselves this lie around 4

For the sake of peace.
5

DD FDD

that Jew who knows a testimony for a Goj goes and gives testimony for him in the Ge-
 The Gentile's judgment against a Jew, his Ge—Nossen, this we put under the great ban.
 Suhl hagahoth Asherah 6:4 it says:
 IN INS NO Dyavdn Von rind D
 D 257 Wh dio un u N
 D wherein Dias ND 8 N
 m = yd yin oO' dh If the city-
 The authorities demand that the Jews swear an oath that they Don't leave the city at all, or anything else.
 If they wish to carry out such actions, they are permitted to do so.
 deceive, thinking in their hearts that they Don't go out today or do nothing today want to deport. A similar place can be found man Tos. Nedarim 28a. These passages about the
 The permissibility of false oaths may be discussed here.
 That's sufficient; but many others can be cited.
 Where, however, loyalty and truth are opposed to men-
 They are not respected, there are also no truthfulness regarding the divine.
 Therefore, rabbinism teaches that the Jew should outwardly profess Christianity may. Jorch deah $ 157 (ed. Vilna 1875) it says: D Dome oniyen? ID D me DD INK db If the Jew

—

that Akum can deceive. That they think he is.
 An accumulator, so it is permitted. The Jew, who was sincerely baptized or after Kimpfang
 a mock baptism went into her sight and authentic

Becoming a Christian means being one who angers God.
 is to be killed; this “actually Joreh deah

S 8 DEN ee new — N 158. 5 \ enn — 7 2 - . N tar sam mu ms 8 =

eros Ger WI EDIT TR

ALL Eure > m arms an mn om .
Dr SB) Dis J Oe 15 non 08 5

i.e. the baptized, welehe see aunts Hesse (pro forma) and then put himself under the accum

mixed around like idolatry 1 1 hair

Key *

to drive, they are like those who...
They had themselves baptized to anger God, and one
He falls into the pit and doesn't pull her out.
The sham baptism and sham confession of the Christianity is clearly presented here as a permitted one.
The thing is described. Only the sincere assumption Christianity is a sin that God forbade.
angers. This is also shown in the passage Choschen ham—mischpat $425.5, which concerns us further down—gen will be. These teachings of rabbinism give the Jew Grätz in his “History of the Jews”
Volume 11 (Leipzig 1870), p. 368, even in German.
Language expression, by means of his Panegyricus on Börne and Heine without any proof
The clergy who baptized these honorable Jews, the

He accuses them of not being sincere.
profession of faith by these baptized persons which now “both indeed”, as Dr. Grätz be-notices, “outwardly renounced Judaism, but only like fighters who armor the enemy and seize Faline to make him all the more secure to strike and destroy all the more emphatically.”
Da Grätz, professor at the rabbinical seminary in Breslau is. So we hear that the “shepherds” of Israel are intended to establish Christianity as a to treat the enemy, to strike decisively

and is safe to destroy, and that also Means of such a rogue nature are used for this purpose. *)

) Grätz is an excellent individual of the Reform Judaism. One can see, however, how all "reformers" of which Jews are talking, the Talmudic enemy-Salvation against Christianity in no way alters can. Hence the fact that the Alliance Israelite the rigid Orthodox, who believe in Terefa, Tefillin, Chazaschuh etc. hold fast, like the reformers and themselves the Karaites united as brothers (Archives israelites 15 Aug. 1867). The converted Rabbi Drach remarks in his work about the lamentation between the church and the (old) synagogue J. 197 f., that despite all attempts to change Judaism reforming the mass of Jews towards Talmudism (also regarding such statutes as Terefa us w, which are for us (not affecting further) remains devoted body and soul, as long as the world has not reached its final days will be: this is simply in the nature of Judaism, which It is not Mosaicism, but nothing but Talmudism: the Talmudism is its definition; if Moses wanted to hear it, 80 would, in a consistent development of thought, lead to Jesus come from Nazareth.

— 23 —

It is therefore not surprising that the Rabbi in the fourth article of their dog Synedrims from 1807 even to Emperor Napoleon I, the cheeky They spoke lies to people's faces. All people were... her brothers.

Rabbinicism pays homage to the Geseit. without question the principle that the purpose is The means justify the means. The end it derives from religious belief because of persecution, as we shall see shortly. Israel's rule over the world. A Gesellschaft that considers any means permissible, must be very successful. Rabbunism is so aware of this culpability that he was in the Yalkut Sim. 75a writes: Israel is like the lady of the house, to which her husband brings the money; so it is Israel without the burden of work and receives the Money from the peoples of the world. And since it's at Diligence and talent among non-Jews, indeed

If it is not missing, then the solution to the puzzle can be found.
why the Jews are ahead of everyone in terms of success Non-Jews are generally superior are, however, only in the basic rabbinic
I wanted to find a way to say that any means are acceptable.
To characterize such principles polemically,
I could think of no more fitting representation than this one.
Rabbinism itself in the Seder Haddorotli p. 258 has given. Here it is told that Rabbi Yosi once attacked by 400 robbers, but on his

Prayer was thus strengthened from the lion he an (unmentionable) "aroma* of himself a which so stunned the robbers

that they fell unconscious to the ground; yes, the (This spread even across the ocean,
so that he became noticeable on all ships.
When modern rabbis recount the fables of their
They explain holy books as allegories, so han-
They argue against the Talmud (Baba Bathra 75a) and the "Eagle (hakdamotli Zeraim) says that He who interprets those things as allegories is considered godless. consider. But at least it may be permissible to besides the literal meaning, there is also a to find a so-called "higher" meaning in such anecdotes then the "aroma" of E. Josi means It seems that Israel has what it takes to conquer the whole world.

to pollute.

IV.

Major Asman tells his story in his book

"The conquest of the world by the Jews" (Wiesbaden 1875. 7th ed.) by a synod of the people which met in Krakow around 1840 and the Is The solution was seized. The press fell into the hands of the Jews.
 to bring. to stun the world and to deceive and thus from the North Pole to the South Pole for To achieve dominion for Israel. Rabbi Edels to Sanh. 97a says the Messiah will come.
 Christians would have lost their faith. If so the Jewish press since Deenien at "Be-"Stun and deception" – all those who offer up, who
 To undermine Christian principles. That's not right.
 It is doubtful that this pen war is Judas.
 more effective than a field marshal's sword—Schalls, in the system of rabbinism as a holy-
 A war for the Lord's cause. For various
 The reign of the Messiah and his people Israel to be understood.

Yes, Israel wants to rule, not just glewe.

have rights; for it considers its own cause

ee

as the cause of God, to whom of course everything is must submit. The Talmud says Sanh. 104a Od Dale Pisa yoan me Din >
 That is, everywhere. And when the Jews come, they should...
 to make themselves rulers over their masters.
 The rabbis of the following times also speak similarly,
 I'll just mention N. Edels in this context. Soas long as they do not have power, they feel themselves as exiles, as prisoners, in nn. Orach
 In ch. 3 561 beth Josef (ed. Vilna 1879) it says:

END DN = ON eg Fe N
 == DD 5 dh even if the Jews
 They live in their cities, but do not rule them.
 About them, they say: churban. Wasteland, misery!

The Zohar II 16 b says: NN Sy al - 7 IND
r NN. N d brabenee
N NN * D 32 — e 02
1 N n DinDı ND ba ars

NNW SI AN m Ni nd , o AR
Y NND TTIN NA DT dh Whoever rules over Israel,
It's as if he rules the whole world. Why?
Will the Israelites subjugate all nations? So that they will be left to them (belong to them, fall under their control) the world, because they are like the whole world, because It is written: on that day (when the Mass-

(then comes), Jehovah will be one and his

—1

Name of One (i.e., his or her name will be in full)
his. will contain his last he and not or (see below, sub V.) and If his name is one, Israel Funes will also be sem, as it is written: One people on earth.

The Talmud says Sanlı. 98a JN= N 2 J

“ *

ei de p' di der Messins kommt
not until the low, miserable ends
Kingdom (of Christendom). Maschi notices dun,

As Edels explains: NO D nn N
Mom mn MN PEN D di der
The Messiah will not come before the Christian rule.
(rises), so that they (the Christians) have no master at all.
They have more to say about Israel. Not even one.

small and minor.

The arrival of the Messiah is, of course, the deepest desire of the Orthodox Jew; his Desire and aspiration. All power to Christians
To take it is therefore a holy fulfillment of duty.
Before this goal is achieved, the Jew lives
Therefore, in war with us, the best Christian is His greatest enemy. That is why the Talmud commands
18 b: r Dee Fe Ak
Best of the Akui beat to death (of course, where it is) (give). In their characteristic shrewdness, the rabbis
In some editions of this text, the word "in" appears wars" added to make people believe that the Talmud refers only to a battle in the ordinary

Be

I think about it in a certain way. Where it's unavoidable, that even the best person can be killed. But That earlier (what she said is enough to explain this rab-to recognize the worthlessness of binic evasion.
Therefore, the Zohar III. RI fol. 14 b also states:
EI TER (aD nz) IND above Di Ng
7 ONE Dom am n DNN rn S f Nr F
22 3032 FOEAN DT n v
N" ar) mia 2d hr 2 NIT
N 9 ae, D 7291 Ne .
rr ei, NUT S* iN D
D 2 100 272297 25 1⁰ \ W a
That is, about the peoples of the Akum, it is said wrote (bz. 23): their flesh is donkey flesh and Their seed, cattle seed. And therefore the holy ones Jews are children of truth, the tribe that was at Mount Sinai was perfumed so that every speck of dirt was removed.
from them; they have all been perfumed,
so that they all entered into the holy covenant,
to be completely perfect day and night in every relationship, while from the peoples of Akum, the dirt is difficult to remove and even up to the third gender (if a Akum ('becomes a Jew, remains bound'), and therefore have

— 29

we receive the lesson: the best of the Akum beat to death.

In the Sefer Chiunk of the Gaon Rabbi Khron vou Barcelona (Vienna print 1827 f. US by wird em 21 lines executed that the seven Volker
Canaan's, which were exterminated by the Jews
They should not have disappeared entirely, but lost among the other peoples of the world, which is why it was also required of Maimonides to every
To kill non-Jews, if possible; for He may well be a descendant of those seven peoples to be, and the Jew therefore transgresses the law,
If he never kills whom he can kill: «that
The commandment to exterminate the seven peoples applies to All times. Thus, what the Talmud Aboda says is true.
2. 26b says: If a goy falls into a pit, 50
one covers a stone on it, and Rashi be-He notes that one should thwart all means where get out through the Goy and save yourself could. And Kethub. 3b, also Jebam. 22a says the Talmud: 57 137 779917 MITEN NT
I uni air m DE Or Fan
That is, the All-Merciful declared them outlaws.
the children of the Goy, for it is written:
Horse semen is her semen. And his (the 60-year-old's) semen.
It is therefore calculated like cattle semen.

The more our lives are free as birds, the more

Our property is like the sand of the sea.

Au se — ar 5213 des (10 lives is in 'Loose Jews, hand. Like cattle, more of his money — that is Wales hes Anton. Deimgenäss also says the valley-meal Sem li. Th, «let God grant a Jew who nem God of the dead draws back this sin not
"vergeilit deni," Maschi says about this point.
The Jew is seen as someone who has en het. and whoever hates a 670 light, hates his Scopter. The Shulchan (choshen ham. § 266. 1)

ene emes Akum is in the Jew's hand. for (It is Wan Moses) said: the lost of yours Binders teih zurück). and whoever it (the Akum) Anekgibt, übertrut ein Gesetz, weil er die Macht ler and the strong.
But I want the positions which the self-and the non-Jew's property of the Jew
h. ehen. Not here. Such views
m) self-evident. where Judaism even
Was our fief to be freely available?
Hlarinch yearns. He thirsts in the blood of non-Jews.
lad. 11
The bloodthirsty nature of rabbinism

We are the subject of world history. Saul

Anl", Ir ze mordschmanbend (spirans caedis) against the Christians. The Acts of the Apostles reports how the Jews in all cities, where They came. The pagan inhabitants against the Christians incited. The Jews themselves tell the story.

in the Seder hadoroth, which historians rarely mention.
acknowledged the fact that rabbis witnessed the deaths of many.

Christians in pagan Rome caused. Antiochus Pius is usually met with hostility from all hostility-acquitted of the Christians. But Hafner wrote the Edictum Antonini in 1781. The authenticity of Christianity was disputed, and even the emperor (Eusebius IV, 26) some Cities against outbreaks of popular anger against the Christians were warned. This does not preclude what The Seder, Hadith, p. 127, recounts; he reports here. that Rabbenu Jehuda the Nasi received the favor of monarchs possessed this, the wickedness of Nazarenes as the cause of a plague-like disease-heit designated and enforced that 3915 (d. 155 a. C.) all Nazarenes in Rome murdered were. Ibid. p. 127 it is reported that Mark. Aurelius, at the instigation of the Jews, all the Nazarenes had them murdered; in ib. 125 it says that the Jews 3974 (d. 214 n. C.) in Rome over 200,000 Christians and killed all Christians in Cyprus. Der Sefer Juchasin (Amsterd. 1717) f. 108 be—that the Jews at the time of the Pope Clement I in and outside Rome “like the sand of the

He killed Christians, including the popes Caius. Melitardellimas, as well as Caius' brother I whose lyre Rosa. Diss the Jews to the heart

Narok Ugang land, is also otherwise known

The rabbis' writings drip with Blood
"Through all centuries." Even in the last They wait for decades. Printed works with bloodstains.
to deliver, partly by publishing new writings 21
Recommendation and defense of the ritual Mor-

of the composed, partly the older secret texts

However, these types will become more common, as they are like ex

In the first edition of the Freiburg Church Lexicon Meimuptet, Hisenmenger did not properly distinguished between different times; the rabbis of For centuries, marriages of different gesi n Tuer ost che substance of the claim. leh erlau we saw «the well-earned remark that egg less contains no factually incorrect passage u + rabbinical writings of the entire time after Christ. the Talmm lists, like the later Rabliäs, exceptionally to pay homage to particular views; they are in this “hanging as an unchanging dogma of the Catholic Kirn Wer we any Hebrew or Aramaic Schr pen ortlonloxe Rabbiers shows, which for Jewish Rats weeps, is in the teaching, presents the non-ju or Mes lien according to (the principles of justice and N en „he, we as \eses taught, to treat eien, — r wre eee een alis.

— 33 —

in connection with presenting the blood doctrine and therefore through non-Jewish (it was easier) could be exploited to the detriment of Israel. rarely or never shown in catalogs and It was kept very secret; I have been for quite some time looking for such a document. whose content I know exactly and in word- A licher translation is to be published, as soon as I have the unfortunately lost and Despite months of research, to no avail I will get my hands on the sought-after little work again. Some Jewish booksellers responded to the order- lung, the booklet does not exist, others gave No answer at all, while others provided one grammatical work of the same title by Wesely, Others finally wrote: JN “to di. . Out of print; I met a Bohemian Jew who He said he had the work, but he didn't give it away. Here. The author, Rabbi Mendel in Kossuw, died about 20 years ago; the script is called

Sys hortus clausus and exists in some twenty Conditions that are in different locations, e.g. in Lemberg, were printed.

I must therefore currently focus on the Zohar and other books limit which numerous and sufficient evidence contained, but scattered and in various locations

Places. These books constitute the actual 2

— 31 —

Adware or the Ns (mstar). and dA
Honor indeed Sohar. Sefer hakang. Schaare ora, de NWG Val, Luna' u. &. Next to them

1% lee leni Eik. Halachoth gedoloth. Maimon el un Aecharomm (Betli Jose. Beth Chadasch, Mahal. Shaloth uteshuboth Meharash de Mthen. Le buse by Kalbi Marcus Jaffa, ulla. Get Suter. Magen Abraham etc.)

cut-like of the Rubbinian lactic, which anteorilian une ehnenfendlichen Lehre ent-var m mrrer existence or regarding their to deny validity. have the enen Germany (Ss. "Messenger from the Giantele S. uh Kurzlieh dem Audium gesagt, that the Zohar with the lance nistar for them
"bens means little than for Christians about din Aritte Letter of Peter or the 6th and 7th Book
Mo- |

Nansen's wetness was noticed here.
ur lan ee levels the distinction of Hi md nieleh. Which the Jews make,
which is in and of itself quite unnecessary,
ds de etluschen Pringgpian. welche das Verhalten
ern, Niehtiaden determine, also in the niglel Kell deutheh- to express themselves, and was like Sue. whose observation Giottesdien is.”) Even those components of the peschät, which-those who were subject to censorship, hringen

These principles are presented with absolute clarity.
position. even if often only indirectly and a—Finally. In fact, however, the under-Divorce is in progress and we need to deal with it even more.
take that into account. than the works of the Nistar mostly escaped censorship and therefore some (thoughts with beautiful explicitness—speak, though rarely in omnibus sa as
The difficult-to-approach Rabbi Mendel did it.
Based on what has just been said, it would be more correct if all the rabbis (their interventions, which they against to teach non-Jews, to refer to them as nistarwhether they are in the Talmud or the Zohar.
However, as noted, because of the often larger Explicitness of Kabbalah (inistar) the latter the Be-Naming the “hidden” by par eminence. dus within its entire sphere only the initiated.
Israel's belonging, not without justification leads, so

Let's face the facts.

ii this n is the expression of the Zohar
That is, the rabbis of the Mishma and the Gemara have their Talmud according to the secrets of Kabbalah (the Nistar) georiluet. The Kabbalah itself, like the Talmud, extstirten marriages already took place before they were put in writing.

*

.)

— —

and note that the Orthodox Jew the tar the Kahbeia) considers much holier than The Inghah. Far from the fact that Kabbalah is for The Auden would be nothing, like a 6th or Moes, rather we read Tikune Sohar 82a and 1144 b. that it is a grave sin which
To deny the wisdom of Kabbalah (of course against) Hypocrisy is considered unethical. The Maft teach which is added to the first volume of the Pfeinysler Zohar-Given, this can be expressed briefly as follows: WIYY
e Zap on a Demon
na ash N Diet ode non D ND
N dd. h. He who commits a great sin does so The wisdom of Kabbalah (in reality) denies and gt, there was only peschät; it would be better for him,

not to have been born.

The holiness of Kabbalah is so great that:
one can do them without becoming despicable, unsuitable-more may be communicated; this applies implicitly.
Provision, of course, for equivalent teaching-ren des nigleh, which the happiness of Israel on the want to build the rum of Christendom. Whoever
The inhibitions of Kabbalah reveal themselves to the uninitiated, According to Zohar III. 244a, he wakes up so poorly as before he joined a mistress. And the Zohar en tan a et: NT nd Ina nd N Delete Ba hv > ,

ne pee de Man man D NT

* Se 3 IND dh it is not allowed to do this

To uncover words (of Kabbalah), except the society of gardeners (i.e. the Kabbalists); for if one does not act accordingly
Will that happen, then let those who come be cursed,
(the words) to reveal to the ignorant.

The great authority of Kabbalah illuminates also from the following. In the work; from Lyra onwards at the beginning of O' Oi 55 in the name of the

“

ie im 0 Doe und im 1

In D it says that one must follow all the laws of Kabbalah, which is found in the Talmud and the Poskim (Tur, Shulchan etc.) do not occur, follow must; yes, if the Zohar is against the Talmud
If there is a dispute, one follows the crowd (so:
a 2 ss: in dd hagahoth beth Josef oth 4). Furthermore, the Shulchan aruch hun-third of the laws were taken from the Zohar;
ee

$61, 366, Joreh deah $89 etc. Sellist die Reform Jews follow these rules at their weddings in the ring-pinning, a Kabbalistic practice in the Zohar justified statute; for Eben hatzer 27

Haga says: WM - 7 d 159 —

i Bir Sa, DD 5 dh and so it is

Custom that one chooses the bride through the ring

Ü

— 90

took up the position. And those who do this find their reason.
in the tikune group (but this custom has
(the Indians of the whole world). How high the Zohar
M Lermel is in a hurry. That's also evident from the fact.

It is evident that all Jews, including those of the so-called Re-For example, prayers were often offered before the "open Ark of the Covenant".
will be (Monday, Thursday, Saturday, etc.), that rn TE 3 m): speak, which just from taken from the Zohar (II. 206).

Professor Franz Delitzsch has worked in the Jewish
Time step "The Modern Age" (No. 26, June 29, 1883) claims that the "unjust pronouncements" of the rabbi-mus, which recently the Jewish Mirror by Dr. Justus from the schoolhouse began and which in
In another version, my "Talmud Jew" informed me,
They would no longer be valid today. We know this.
to selmtzen that Delitzsch these "unjust sentences"
recognizes as truly existing; for the Jews will be, after friend Delitzsch, their patron and Ilohher priest, who expressed this recognition, no longer allowed to say the opposite. By But Delitzsch now the other way rabbi-rather Taktik plays where singing takes place, the ge-
The alleged "unjust sentences" would have no validity.
moreover, they were "old, loose Canaanites who had no "People wear more": that's how one becomes already from the preceding remarks on the Holy-knowledge of Kabbalah and the great duty of its

Confidentiality and information concerning the matters concerning Son of the Holy Spirit.
244b proven influence of Kabbalah on the Talmud understands that this position is also completely
This is untenable. Delitzsch has also carefully considered the situation.
guarded, his claim to be supported by reasons to to support, even though he could know that the mere insurance, even of a Leipzig professor-Sors without compelling arguments in today's
The world has no meaning.

The discerning reader should therefore note that the Shulchan as a compendium of the Talmud under the influence of Kabbalah and already of the—partly for the reasons already mentioned the Jews of all countries quite obligatory
This is so much the case that the Jew
Heinrich Ellenberger in his lawsuit against me — summarized the work "Historical Handbook" (Budapest 1883) p. 47 says: "The Shulchan Aruch is for three centuries the (only) theological Jewish Law Code and our Catechism." Shulchan is essentially the Talmud for the J'raxis, the epitome of Talmudic legal principles—

 gen, the legal components of the Talmud omitting the Haggadan anecdotes and of what is no longer practical today, what once relied on which referred to the temple service in Jerusalem both Sedarim Oy and id etc.

Furthermore, Delitzsch should know, because the

— 40 —

Jews are praised as experts in their own secrets, that in Schaloth uteschuboth dire noam Theil eben
 It is said that those who say that The words of Shulchan are not a necessity hang up. to comply with them. they were cursed and called a snake; through our great sins (of course against the (travels) (of the Talmuli) we no longer have Synedrium ®).
 (40 'Kahre before the destruction of the Temple by Titus lost his validity), but the words of the Shulchan now the pillars of the Law; we have no right to deviate.
 from his words (except when in Shulchan em word of the "holy" Talmud about-schen ist, like 2. B. in Ture sahab in Joreh denh 7 158 is proven. that the Schnlchan forgot a word of the Talmud, ef. Sifse kohen un Com. zu Choschen ham. X 92). —

Wernerlun should know about Delitzsch from the numerous excerpts from the Shulchan, which the "Unjust laws* as Jewish law up to the to impress upon all Jews this day. Thus he wrote

About 100 years ago, Rah Ahr. Danzig its tm dr they now write in the newspapers, in when we serve their “enlightened® public”, they when been appointed to form a “Synedrium®” to the Wels n abergau, that I am wrong. The “Syne-

Mr. Napoleon I also spoke for Israel, but u T wiesen wie!

— —

Sehulchan catechisms N 'n with the explanation-rung DIN NIE and DIN e with mie ya
Thus wrote the still-living Hungarian rabbi Sal. Ganzfried his 7 vr RR and such excerpts containing the anti-Christian “Un:
There are quite a few "legal provisions", and they are continuously listed in the catalogs of the Jewish-offered to booksellers.

Likewise, Delitzsch should know that annually-borrowed from private individuals and (communities many (knowledge-questions addressed to the rabbimates and from lastren just decided above all after the Shulchan will be. Collections of these questions and decisions Many dungs (Schaloth uteschuboth) exist; in to the catalog of Faust's bookshop
For these collections, 2d can be found in Krakow.

A alone numbers 1070 — 1203; the Collection of eggs from three or four years ago recently deceased Rabbi Nathansohn in Lviv and Sal. Kluger in Brody alone fills entire Folios; those of the Gaon Rabbi Schreiber, the father of the recently deceased Viennese Member of Parliament
It appeared in recent years under the title Chatam Sofer in six parts. The books which I have referred to them as the Jewish law books, are therefore legally valid until this hour; because One doesn't write about them for nothing.

ee

about fish, conscientious objections, decisions that bahanten zullen.

Kiullieh should know what's in Delitzsch.
Buche Leb hwibri (Lemberg 1873) Part beth din is to be read. After this passage
It was decided in Hungary around autumn 1866 that one can access school anywhere and at any time Follow Chan's orders. Even if all the great ones... eseren him would be and one of the greater ones ware than the Shulchan. This decree is under-They wrote of 94 Rahbins. Among them are three, which are considered "all holy* in Israel.

Having said this, "Critique of (ual),"
to justify the evidentiary value of the cited Having discussed the works in detail, may I then...
I will not examine the bleeding sites myself.
The following is a collection of such places in three groups. When one considers court statements rejected medical delinquents because they allegedly without exception through undue coercion came. So one can speak against the rabbinic Such passages are not taken from the writings.
hringen: for these writings are a spontaneous Products of rabbinism. As a priori be-let it mature and in the numerous relevant
The places are clearly visible, but it is not personal measure revenge for personal lalden and the like, which is how rabbinism changed.

to murder and exploit non-Jewish people—
schen world, to the destruction of our lives. un-feels pressured by his honor and possessions. It is the naked religious fanaticism, the film to blood-spilling and driving to destruction, that is to say, the delusion of thereby becoming pleasing to God.

to obtain forgiveness of sins, the arrival of the supposedly yet to come Messiah accelerate and reach paradise, the eternal To ensure salvation. In that sense, the murders are which are considered holy in the Jewish books-all ritual murders are praised, including... in cases where the blood of the murdered is not just as it is being added to the matzah. Rabbi Mendel
In its Sys 92, it informs us that the number of Zealous people who, out of religious zeal, Enjoy blood. Except for Hungary, Galicia and over-
The number of Poles among the Orthodox is not very high.
is, but he is fighting to ensure that one benefits from it.
Blood, which in all countries is shed to the glory of God,
Orthodox rites are shed, even in the matzos.
who believes the concept of ritual should be given.
is caused by the consumption of blood. is in Error. The old sacrifices in the temple were ge-
There were ritual acts, but blood consumption was not linked to this. To refute the charge of ritual abuse
To justify a murder charge, it is therefore sufficient to state to submit documents that clearly demonstrate that

7 ge

nan those murders as sacred acts of the renunciation of God honor or as sacrificial acts and the like,
unit in «this relationship we can use Mendel's-However, they lack the works of the Sohar and other writings with sufficient specificity-He talks. The places which are in this relationship are present. prove with great emphasis, that the secret war of rabbinism against The world is in a religious war. Like Joshua against the Canaanites waged the “wars of the Lord”, to do to us.

u

This is how the Kabbalists wake up
Like Amalek and the Seven Tribes of Canaan
A banishment offering was made to Jehovah, according to the
We too share the view of rabbinism; so often the Jews succeed in converting our believerschoking, tündet mich rabbinischer Idee eine Opfer-a celebration for Jehovah took place. This was the case throughout the years.
Hundreds since Christ's death, and so it will remain.
Is it at the end of days, as long as there are real ones?
Jews exist. Therefore, whoever is among these terrible Having a reliable knowledge of things is, as a human being,
and Christians are obliged, despite all adversity-Possibilities that may arise for him, which are-some reality that surrounds us, to to warn inexperienced people and the Christian society, as much as it depends on him, to because they were aware of the greetings of their faith

I will become aware of the good again and their healing

Interests through wise and strong laws.” protect.

*) When a certain side recently spoke out again
It was said that laws were intended to restrain the rabbi.
Useless, I hope that wasn't meant seriously.
If you look at the great rivers and the seashores
Dikes and dams are fenced to protect against the dangers of large storms.
To prevent floods, everyone will understand, that these precautions will not prevent every water emergency is eliminated. Because it happens not infrequently that despite all Dams that cause waves to break and great devastation
Should all dikes and dams therefore be destroyed?
Should they be torn down, and no more dikes and dams be built?
one: to "emancipate" the power of the waters, in order to "the "Power of Science and Civilization" their fury
To tame them? This was attempted by...
Jews emancipated

I will first describe the blood spots here.
a section concerning the June emanate murder dem Seter halauthim ide o) with. This
The work was written by Vitali Kabbi (born 1543, died 1620).
forgot, «which is considered “holy* by the Jews and gone on the title page of the one I have before me (print of 1868) is referred to as such.
Dirws# edition of 1568 is at Back in Jeru-Salem in the gift of Moses Montehore
Manufactured at an Elischen printing house, Vital was a Ver-and students of the even “holier”® Rabbi
I. na.

This work will be described on folio 156a.
Anne the savior Bible passage Proverbs 30.
Host in viruses, Hebrew 2 D
"Then, namely in the following way. INS EU N Im PIE ne
een

Zen — um — — reer
11 ´ ren > N Me | 13

— r - .
Il - Zi es, also, since the,

ö 1 wiweriun ver 16 Jahren, ll 1868.

— —

e op DN C e

.. ati 0} “me *
=, — Like 2 . eb Since 0 *
7 ni Br Tea a DR 2 * N

N gr N g NN d We

0 * ua 8 — — us 2 22 * —
Br \ ren MID DT ED

— * So . Lem — — *
N IN tee on Da Di

— — — — — 87 — = > no mom

i Vo | I enn IN 1DI NN I. n I la 91 nr adus means: I also have for the aforementioned fourth (via viri in virginc)
an explanation found in the manuscript dus Master (Lurja). Blessed be his memory.
and I want to write them down here and Let's briefly discuss this. And this is the
The thing is, we don't understand how expensive
the blood of the Virgin is in the upper world.
For through everything that is worthy on earth,
The heavenly beings are, as it were, dishonored. uni
Then the bride is, although she is unharmed.
A virgin whom no man recognized. But from the shells (Klipoth), may God protect us from them.")
But not only this, but also the union

This only happens through the mitigation of the severity (of the 77 —

a) 10 For pre et pax sit like eflwa the Latin quod absit. quod Dens clementer avertat. Billows

+

The contemptibility of the klipoth may at least be acknowledged.

NIT I sus et bovina demen — however ad lihi —

However, the matter itself remains unaffected.

— —

court) and the strengthening (enlargement) of the Mercy; and (this) by what means? By the fact that The red blood reaches there (upwards), which in itself the (icricht (the severity) indicates, although It has purifying (atoning) power. And this is a big deal. And in this way I explain I the via ete.

The biblical passage Spl, 30, 19 and Vital's Texts were interpreted by Delitzsch in a sexual sense- Both are decidedly messianic in nature, as I will now show.

The biblical passage was probably written in those days written by Ezekiel, after Isaiah (Chapter 7) in which eg My the virgo-mater of the Er- Users had prophesied. Regarding the messianic Mother, our saying Proverbs 30:19 also applies. "One in the air," says Agur, "in vain following the trail." of the eagle, following the wave in vain "The ship is looking for something. Which it cut through, so I know of a virgin (and what a virgin!) which a man (and what a man!) visits, without that a trace of the natural eye is visible Motherhood can be detected on her body as little as (Prov. 30:20) in a ver-married wife a sign of her un-

1
on

2% 19 95 “behind article is the Semitic Jnde term-on we eee?! Qualis! Cf. de Sacy, Anthol. tiran =}

— A

permissible interaction is found everywhere.
Both the sublime and the lowly are touched here.
The unbelieving Jewish community has based its will on Jesus.
ww" 97995 written, referring to Maria as looked at a MENJD TEN. How the natural world the virgin with a man (Proverbs 30:19) is like the adult-who usually considers tera v. 20. But the seer places them side by side, the noble maiden — Mother next to her caricature, to appeal to the devout reader to instruct them that they cannot be identified.

If the via viri in virgine were not from the supernatural conception of the Redeemer—means, which sees the Gospel as a work of hl. spirit (quod natum est in ea, de Spiritu Sancto est), so one would of course with Delitzsch to understand the ordinary sexual have. But this is irrelevant in this context. Because The points of comparison. Which Proverbs 30:18 refers to?
Hands up, demand. that the inconspicuous trail the Virgo. The air. The sea is concerned: a Virgo. says
The seer will haunt a man. Without that a trace of his treatment of her remains.
how the air is traversed by the eagle and found no trace of this path within her will be. The trail of natural traffic of a
A man with a virgin is self-confident This can be clearly observed in the female person. And

When Agur's time... which is probably not likely.
|

% le Ai could Kid. wortureh Oklane

Pryaanain ale \erlust der bh sischen Virginitft 'Imre Simmel "understand marriage.) #0 could even damen Yall lem author vlejcheiltie be. For Nice ones had the natural sexual aspect in mind.
wire Win saying on the warning of a young person, Waisir before ler urge target. This warning would fall but ms water, since he says according to the context Nine Inte (lie Jh. young person. who Ilir. then 816
She knows how to hide her shame by... to preserve ala vlzinitatis. That would be A laughing warning for the young man.
who sees the signs of sin in themselves
rant nocht durch die Zustandheit der weihben Person tseführen to fear. Because
The person is affected by the consequences of the act
"bans — and this case is here through the V. The comparison points presented, which postulate ne infringement of the e, see wos wwersehlessen — so blows the reckless Mahn nes davon. weil er in himself keine Spumon Nie ine tragt uni deshall nicht zu u ech It, Mas Aber dan Weibsbild sich du

um Kar 2. 167 Sit: „In Vo
in gem nimle il In vireinite pres In perle

. e en. ae name de tis const:

eee eee ee ert Om en trouve des exempies le Veen de wel ile er de surgery.” (. Tah

rr Bu %,

"|

To restructured means as intact. Thus it exists

This posed less of a danger to the man. He wanted to but conversely, the author presented a virgin to warn the reckless young man. So mite He would speak completely differently than he actually did. talks. Because the "22% which he means. ict ju precisely one that, according to its traffic with a man shows no signs of contact with anyone It carries as little as the air carries a trace of the eagle, the sea a trace of what had been driven across it Ship preserved: the warning to beware before the young man, through whom they had just because their rhetoric not m the (danger of bad) The name would come. It is therefore completely irrelevant. How even the negotiation with one of the- well-behaved person for the sake of breeding and morals- The authors considered it an impossibility— appears.

Even those who believe in a revelation Don't believe it, we have to go to the relevant places. 7. B. Gaps (traditions of human history- bad) about the ancient lleidentum Expectation of a world savior as the Solnes of a The Virgin informs us, — admitting that our ver— Fasser, since a usually sexual interpretation his statement is not at all in context chicken will, at least the one mentioned, also in the Paganism's existing idea of the virgin-

!

Mother of the Child of God had and here to expressed hahe.

Jewish tradition also prayed for
The messianic view of our position is important Contributions were made. So says Zohar III. 2
In: J the world says, the r Spr. 30%
I have sinned. But according to the judgment of Heaven-mee, in reality. she has dealt with the heiunited in spirit. It is known that the Zohar repeatedly noted. z (vir) is in the Holy Scripture. oit che Dezeihsnung des heiligen (Geist. Der

The author of the pen Sy, a Gaon, was based on (i.e., excellence), also says by placing one in Chasse said that Thorheit is speaking, that Ane any (virgo) through God's miracle Mother
zem bonne, since God himself says this in Isaiah chapter 7.

Yes, I said so.

Rabbi Vital, the “Holy One,” now gives a Original blue of Spr. 30, which also quite has a feminine character, although it is in the 1

T

IHammlische® mixes the Dimonmsche, for he teaches

°P te Ale Schar after the issue of Pre me “dance in three bands. mays and NTS is also available, which is why Sul. III. without a da NT ten 3 Ban der genaumten Edition

j IA, III NN the second part

9 The 1 ie means.

— 53 —

that the coming of the Messiah, who according to the Zohar J.c. must come via Spiritum Sanctum, through the bloody sacrifice of non-Jewish young—women will be accelerated.

As the passage in the biblical book of proverbs states,
So Delitzsch and a "J" probably have (Jellinek) in the "modern age" (No. 27, 1883) also the vital-recently interpreted the text in a sexual sense want to do so by claiming that it is about Vital only for the prima nox matrimonii.
No one has provided any proof, of course. Yes.
not even tried. That abbinism speaks in front of the public à la Delitzsch and De-Litzsch à la Rabbinismus is self-evident.
But that the Orthodox rabbis among themselves to speak differently and the religious mystery of the
I intend to prove that they are praising the murder of virgins.

First of all, the impossibility itself speaks against it.
the mentioned Bible passage in context on something other than the Messianic Mother indicate, for the conviction that the one with the Traditions of Israel so intimately familiar vital and his teacher Lurja had not thought of the prima nox babem can. One would search in vain for the Point out that Vital uses the expression d D needed. Because M2YN2 has in plural not just rn, but also yet

—

The so-called O', which is so often in the 5

The fact that it occurs is sufficient proof here;
wait for the blessing of the brides.
Elite, if these are virgins: 8

h. im scher mielraseh Talpioth (Warsaw 1875)
Race S. 100 ce Observation for the Hin-enen der qungtfraulichen Bräute Ce
But "On chin" is in every dictionary too "eisless".
Don't just let the material signs

Arguntat. but also the state in general ger wreimitas refers to and demgemiss also the forgotten blood of the virgin

2 II Ganzuis virainalis) named

as
could have been, if 972 hadn't really been Plural 22 would form. But Inn comes.
In addition, that Vital is the Virgin, whose blood God so expensive. referred to as a bride, a Blood bride. the aan d. ' . integra is, a Sr di virgo. a nondum cognita (CN.
Nr Neri: the blood of a virgin,
lun cognita is surely not the blood.
ner cena: to think about the prima nox, is That makes it impossible. In addition, that Vital, Mr., wrote about Orthodox Judaism.
He is revered as one of his most famous teachers.
For the Orthodox, however, marriage with or non-Jewish woman forbidden under grave sin.
Aleo Vital had thought of Prima Nox, so “irde cr (the he of an Orthodox Jew with

For a non-Jew, it's permissible. Yes, for very holy.
have explained.

But that the virgin, from whose blood he
The fact that she is a non-Jewish woman follows from her position.
that he counts them among the Wie (Sechanlen)y. This
The term refers to the non-Jews. In Zohar I.

*

108 b is called os: ar NT as Yer. .

The peoples of Akum, who are the bowl. The Be—naming the 70 according to ancient Jewish opinion not—Jewish peoples as bowls is, however, a super-
For first of all, the evil spirits are called,
who are considered princes of those peoples. 5;
for the souls of the non-Jewish peoples are of the forces of the shells: Min r' earth asd ed nen Wer un fol. 4 b Preface); likewise Emek hammelech

nn m ya. m

23d cp. 43 shaar otam hattohu: 'C' 7 rough your

That is, the souls of the godless are from the Shell (Klipa), which is called death and Shadows of Death. The deadless and the are in the world. How to get through the Ver-
The equation of the last two places is seen. iden-table. This naturally includes Christians.
Your Abarbanel on the one hand says in the Maschmia Jesu er - Dep en gar dh
The Christians are the Romans, the children of Edon;

— 50 —

and on the other hand, the Prague Machzor J. f. says 1 VR value RENT DN wet
n DD Ina N
dl the mighty empire, that is the godless one Kilion, which is now the mighty empire, whose Rule spreads throughout the world:
Apparently, Machzor can only obtain this Edom from to understand Christianity.

In the Scheta tal f. 41 c it further states? 39 N wa Tao TS 82 27 737 lo em imo 75... MIO
er ei ae >: - Di sed de

The saint, praised be he, created good nature.
And he created evil nature. He created pure nature.
side and he created the impure side; the pure side
The holy Sefiroth are the holy side, the impure side
These are the bowls. The Zohar I. 13a says: 9
NDNIZTNIVIN ND VODNT 2159 db
The peoples of Akum come from the other
The page that is defiled. The Zohar I. 27 a says:
N neo (ao Tue ee N sc d e Nie di seine (des Teufels) Schaaalen are from this side and the good ones from that side Page... and this (this contrast between the two) Sejtens is defined (by forbidden and allowed).

right and wrong, impure and clean. — Sammael,

The supreme devil will also be the head of the called shells and he is also the prince the Amalekites, who still exist and are-especially include Christians. For the Yalkut

chadasch led cn 74 sugt: Be 0 N

u on Een Nui ie the prince of Amalek
the head of the shells; and the Prague Machzor
u. fol 15 b says: 522 e zen y adiyn, the godless Amalek, rules throughout the whole world — which of course only refers to the whole Christianity can spread throughout the world. After Schaare Zedek 2 d God dwells with the good in the 23 uam (in the inner palace). The princes of The world surrounds him like shells.
Fruit. Also according to Schefa tal f. SO c are the Princes of the world, the devils, ox and they are located outside the sacred sphere, because The godless walk all around: 22°2
He r Maarecheth haelahuth 60 a means 15 years old, 1 year old, never the bowls which the princes of the peoples are, surrounding the earth. Of these evil ones Ghosts, as we saw, come the souls of the Non-Jews, and therefore they too will be shells

mentioned. Vital himself says in Sefer halq. 13 b.
that the 0122 (Akum) right, correct shells are (MID an ire sn O scil. at

1 —

Len Abu. In soft the e go the

>

Mes armuhlußd; and ib. 55 b he says NEM

ei (the damage and the Gaim

And like Son.
Should they kind give you much The Island sounds are enough to recognize Ess Van. nalen er von den Jungirmucrn an

at Iwinlen. He talks. Only non-Jewish young people.

Rene Mermen could.

From your blood this June frauceszreee
Mr. Weather. Is causing the "Union
"n. mem es zum Jlmml aufreichen die" Strictness, the torment of the (legal milder and the Strength of mercy: through its red color syabolrsire es au nnd für sich the court, the
Str. age, although in this case it is considered blood of the Virgin. When she is and purifying, atoning power hesitzen, |

The user passage means that through the blood
God's wrath against the sacrificed non-Jewish woman.
Jews diminish and his mercy towards Israel zmmimimt, so that he finally the Messiah, the leranls Sunden (egen Tahnnd und Zugehör) aufluelten. als dus Erzeusniss der Himmelschen Ver-It can end well. The proof of e 1.klanuma is easy to lead.
There, "the association" from Vital red

“ens schr Bedemtsienes in the Jewish Th:

— 39 —

It must be logical. Our position shows this at first glance.
View. End that this "union something very What is known in this theology is... emerges through the
The author's concise style of speech is also clear.
it springs forth; it is bursting forth from the well-known and
It therefore refrains from merely mentioning the matter.
or to suggest it in a word. In which Works on Kabbalah by Franck, translated.
by Adolf Gelinek (probably the current Viennese Adolf) Jellinekt. Leipzig 1844, can be found in Chapter 3.
The second section contains some information regarding this situation.
It touches on something. But Franck and Gelinek didn't.
understood the matter in its entirety to discuss; the teachings of Kabbalah about the
The Messiah is hardly mentioned in it, and yet he would be
This is of great importance to non-Jewish readers.
There was interest.

In the circle of the Kabhalist Schroth, leg-injured
Frauck lc, emerge from the bosom of the abso-Luten unity two inseparable principles equal—constantly emerging, a male or active one. wel-ches, which is called wisdom (), and a woman—liches or passive, which a' (understanding)

Wisdom is called the Father.

The mother understood that their union was the 3% (Ziwug). Two other Sefiroth. which themselves “Unite” are the “beauty”, which are considered

King, and the "Shekhinah®", who as matron

3

— 60 —

or is depicted as a queen. The king too
Edges are important for the reproduction of human offspring.
(the Jiahen) soul, what man and woman are for

The creation of the body are. On Gi

When does the soul descend to Earth?
the stele on earth has fulfilled its mission and adorned with all virtues, ripe for heaven
Is. She rises, beginning, to be taken back to God. to become. This (luck, however, is only for the decided. Of the other peoples, only fly.
those sparks 51553 and Mus') n
Substance returned, which at its beginning in it luneingeriethen. Thus Moses killed according to Vital (Sefer).
hal. 13h) the Egyptian, around the spark to remove the one that was created could have received it. Like the blacksmith, for example. when he hammers the iron, in all directions
God, too, let sparks fly.
by creating the good and the evil side,
from its sparks of light into the souls of the wicked Several are coming. There are 288 sparks, which are in are distributed among the souls of the left side; they are freed at the death of sinners and rise back in God, the primordial ground. Like the waters femmmnae are required in the generation process,

sa sinal also those 288 sparks, which 32 dB
Gezen images or antitypes of the aquae femininae,

the 5

2e e, for the heavenly “Uni-

— 61 —

gung, from which new souls and finally the
The emergence of the Messiah is of great importance; and these sparks, whose salvation will come with the arrival of the Messiah accelerates. One pulls from the Klipoth.
by using the Klipot like Moses did with the Egyptians kills. By returning these sparks to God-
When he returns, he will be strengthened, so that he will receive mercy.
Opposition to Israel is growing, and finally that tug (Union) can take place, from which the Messiah emerges.

The Mikdash Melech to Zohar I. 164 states:

223 ND nioen free s- nen

IN) "ru wa mim ap = ER

— e 1 >13" ns N *

is d en h DYPED . h.

the 288 sparks which are in the halls.

They are called stones (in the Zohar) because they are women,

Antitypes of the aquae femininae, and the stone is a woman, and the 288 sparks which

Stones are called, are thrown down into the abyss.

reason, so that they may be swallowed up in him.

The Zohar says that the 288 sparks... if they are undressed, into the divine primordial ground

are thrown and therefore covered with stones—

are equal; on the other hand, they are called women in the Kabbalah, because it represents the divine "United-ee den una feminine der irdischen Gen breathe accordingly.

I du sen hunken have kings and women the most significant share, without doubt because of those.
rer power. this as nell of life.

Maggots Mr ah l. ce. Ai: = mn 1 Te — em zer — m um N 8 — D — Fe — — * a 2 N u

— 222 — 9 “ SE — 222% 5 127
* 7 a 2 2 1 12 r ! *

nd. “to remove the slag and

Shells. nns man a revolution 'of the world effect... which can only be achieved through murder
the concept ... and women.

Among the hamlets rise the Jungfrauen Experts. Because Sohar J. Ola says: ir,

— N92 onen 23 — 72 l 7 Ye

— — >

No. N

rr No 87 NIS 777 IND
NN — 3 d

Fr NN dee ee

— on — * * — * 7 “

We - NY Ni N.

— — m m. — — man 5 — m Ä *

— FN 7 SON IN 61 12 N. 10 1 1 Br

N πo 0 NSIEN NIIT N DER

dh 9. He stands screaming (Deut. 22, 23).

iv “tt end pre lta su Kara TE wo 3 without

1. Why? Because she was more united.

en Man. unc ne rial! at the Bihel). where 111

— 61 5 u

A man and a woman will be found. Maybe 22.
found the he (of NY) and it goes away Aron (from the word TI... , in deser (telsender) In a way, everything (in God) becomes b. nem ver-strengthens; she (the Virgin) unites Sch (mach their sacrifice) with the white light uu Israel unites with her... and this is the
The secret of the sacrifice, which we have learned.
It (the victim) rises up and causes itself to happen.
that other light ignites, and whom it
It is inflamed. This is exacerbated by the white...

Light and flame burn in one breath.

The two lights are “Wisdom?” and ben and ö. which through the rising of the by means of a sacrifice of Virgins redeemed sparks unite.

Ai. the “union”. enter into; with the rising sparks unite with each other.
tende Israel. which from the “Union of the Sefiroth awaits the Messiah. In unanimous agreementmung hereby also says Vital J. c. 158 a. in san won . % 0.
ie via viri in virgine .. adducit apientiam?
ad “intellectum”; it is the adductio to heaven-lischen “union” – apparently meant and thus
It was clear once again that Vital was far away.

to think of an earthly bridal night.

le

That there is more Fi in the women of Klipot
There are fewer things in men. Upon arrival
But all of the Messiah will be out, know repeatedly emphasized. For example, Mikdasch Me-leeh to Solar I. 27b: re Ne n N Ne pn N Nx yo
— BER TER Pi) ven Tenas man mare You aminien wsino 320)
M-D 527 ne id een m
"Know that there are soul roots (sparks),"
those that do not budge from the shells (Klipoth),
probably from the men, but not from the women.
Bern. Before the Messiah comes, that is to say, even these sparks which one gets from women who cannot release Klipoth. See, at The appearance of the Messiah will see all those from the clan-"Potli soften." Through this point, the also sont in rabbinic theology expressed-
The teaching was presented that the Messiah was last liver remnants of the non-Jews destroyed rd, so that in his kingdom only Jews se will be. For the common people, the Ra about the chess dogma according to Drach (Deuxeien would be a rabbin converti. Paris 1827 p. 99)

'as per the Christians in the following way

“ene. lier Messias, surt man. wird sich”

len neten. die er naeh vortindet, einen SP

— 65

to do this by targeting the Jews en masse, in order to
to lead them to the Holy Land, on his donkey (certainly a gigantic one!) sets and the Christians instructs to place a spot on the animal's tail take. The Messiah, the Jews, and the Christians then cross over on a paper bridge Sea and having reached the end of the bridge, it shakes
the treacherous Jewish donkey the tail that the Christians through the now tearing paper-bridge into the sea and drown, and the

The fun is over; all the "sparks" that are still in

They were, are released.

The “union” of the Sefirot (HDD and dnn Ye. Yan i and his Dr.) is often discussed in Kabbalah.
Do we hear anything further from Vital himself about the Procurement of the feminine waters for /request of the aforementioned "association". He says in Schaar hakdamotli (Jerusalem at Back 1871)
d derusch 2 fol. 33 b: 'I = I ann aid rap po my min DD by sin ana f ne MPN
ion i Dbyn En mia D DEN

ya niesiy In Doiy De ntepn inaV Y ar I Pie Ni ap N n N 12 pbipn yo nm nie Da

*

— hl

— mm — .. — 2 eee er
h en A 2 as nt mA | IS 1

*

u. you — — * * — \% 9 5 nm .
* N ns al ">, je EN ha Ne — =

um - an — — GL EL a. Be sis 4 N 1271 2 u”, Fl Ni l

m... som — % as — — u! - Tea SA Ne 105 Qa N NOA

pr r -n NN d Doi S

— l

2 m * 28
hm Ni S aan, '

The Din Tan 2 D NEON N

33 pe Tv ym who on. Sr Yan) NN

3

5 . % % A % en = . oe an) m sn W je im 7 1 > 8.

man, ber ed N

TR . Sri 05 For the purpose

the “union” of the “small (view” (7

N and “his wife” (the two Sefirot)

So the Jews clocked up to the 228 1 .

the sacred waters. the feminine waters, and

In two ways, in fact. Firstly, through an even

Today's usual thing with l'rosteration on the face performed prayer (DIDN ns), which in itself

already considered deadly for members of the Klipoth.

down by handing over the anglers of the Klipoth-

(He is vehemently murdered, falizkeie na). So ent-stands through the killing, which the sparks

sent forth, the “union” of the Sefirot, whereby God against Sanimaöl and Lalith, which to hinder the coming of the Messiah, is strengthened, that he finally eliminates all the akuma and

— 97 —

Messiah can send; if all sparks from the Kli-poth Fernschwund sind (WiSe DIET)

(Sat am 2 mi B-

— —

Per 771 le, danı kommt der Messias. wie is known (77/0 TED NIT IN.

Based on these passages, it is clear that according to Vital's...
Expression of God's mercy towards Israel zummt and his severity runs wild. when the Jews through the Optertad not Jüchscher Jung-Women promote the unification of the Setiroth. from which finally brings forth the Messiah.

Sl.

However, we can look for further evidence.
lead to the fact that Rabinian theology defines Men-Shensoff teaches.

I. 271) means s: . . N ND2IE

DD =... Ze) 18 25 275 N ale . . For. er — 5 ia nen Br: * > — DN

d . r . ZU NND NIIT
2 in F 2 = 1 IS as ech Tas mim Tod h. die Sehe-China is in captivity... Deun in time of the great (iesindels, that you is a wicked plague and Amalek. has “the saint, may he be praised.”

No power. To make Israel... finally. To

7 4
*

Yat of the great rabble that submerged itself among the Jews have mixed. This is not rapprochement and rapprochement. Formation of the letters of the name Jehovah: but sobalil sie (the Amalekites, the rabble) They are annihilated from the world, as they say, by the Letters of the saint. Praised be he. On that day age (Zechariah 14) Jehovah will be one and his Name iner.

The Kabbalah (Drach harmony 1, 286 fl.) teaches namely that the name Jehovah appears in the first 3 Ruchstahen “, N, the AND, the DEATH and 3

(Crown. Wisdom, Intellect) or IN. \2 and AM

ai (father, son, i.e., spirit) signifies that, however the holy name is only complete when the second letter . the Ny , (sapientia superior) through the Holy Spirit when 7 uch TND n (sapientia terrestris) will eewöorden sein dh when the second person a Taking on human nature on Earth as a measuring instrument has appeared: then that's 7% In new Ge— stalt, the holy name has its finale and is complete (Ar). Until then, the Shekhinah is in Gelangzenschrift. “gl. Zohar Lev. 47 a. Now it is the II DIS. the great rabble which the proceeds-

Sue the Sehwehima. delays the arrival of the Messiah.

This rabble, which emerged from Cyprus attached itself to Israel. This is what is meant in the Exodus.

292 and this designation now applies to all Non-Jews. who in the world are associated with Jews-live together. For Zohar III. 125 n it says:
INN xD en NN Wii Eee
Nd (i.e. the great rabble are the peoples) (Lord Earth. They are dark and will never become Jews) bnd ib. 1254: .. NP 3 l er

N WN — 5 — n N —

| 1 . | —

G
N 53 e YOUR ee eee
2 NY dh among the rabble of the (z8tt-

Loose... 0 in all cities and in every place.
where Israel is scattered among them: these are you
A great rabble who rule over Israel.
Flock of the Holy One. Praised be He.

So there is no doubt about what happened to them.
Rabble, whose destruction according to Son J. 27 the
The arrival of the Messiah is conditional. That is what is meant.

"a teaches the troop l. 28 un: Min Sm

y On men mn 52 on je De \ no Zi N * NN on 87 Wi N91 NN D N97
N Sa . . INT 7% * N NN

un» ND N u di ett sche out of the earth all the animals of the field and all Birds of the sky. Woe to mankind (the Jews), who had clogged hearts and were closed-

se

nan Am Kind. nicht zu verstehen (esse eimealst des Giesetzes um wicht zu Vie that the willed animals are the peoples of the earth, of whom the Shekhinah has no use in dor captivity td. . great Nuchtherl has.
as the captivity continues. as long as the Volker exist). I then follows the same Place a reference to the virgins-
"he. by Adam's sleep () on the Ge-Dance community of Israel (of mankind, except which (where no people are seen) and the bone, from which era was formed. on the Virgin Zedeutet is interpreted. The one that is beautiful and white like the
and. This will. if one thinks of others. be-The aforementioned points are recalled. Apparently, they say, that the captivity through virgin sacrifice is brought to the end like Adam's sleep
The end came when his leg was removed.
The religious motive for the murders also highlights the Highlight Sefer halguthim 131), where it says:
Talk N 2 1 END 120 N
852 9 929 eie N NIN
N25 4. h. . . . and through this you will (lu ver-before the sentence mentioned in Tikune (Zohar) that when someone throws a sling stone and shattersher face smashes, they give him the daughter of the king. In this context, it refers to the destruction.
the Klipa, whose face is to be struck, like David's

— 71 —

Stone hit the forehead (Ioliath's). The "daughter of the
The phrase "received by the king" refers to 1 Samuel 17:25.
and here at Vital refers to the union with God. So Dr. Justus made sense of this place, but Not translated word for word.

As has already been shown, the kings stand tall.

and virgins of the Akum before the rest of the Akum far out. which is why their bloody sacrifice before-
It is particularly holy. Regarding the murder of the prince.
R. Jehuda: Come and see that wherever
The ller- is given to their (the Akum) prince.
Sorrow over Israel, which (love for Israel is not heard) will; but if the prince of the Akum falls, how It is written: the king died, then rises in response to her cry to God.

This place undeniably refers to the prince—murder as a religious duty because of Israel's (rebete)
under a true Akum prince, who was considered so of course, it serves the interests of the Akum and so on.
the people of rabbinism according to our way must deal with Christian ancestors, no rto be heard. The prayers of sinners alone.

=

1

remain without more; Israel therefore thinks, see in Nude of sin, as long as it's the right one.

can. of course per posse. not eliminated.

The Sohar is also written for messianic reasons.
J. 235 u developed that a N court over

wu. 2

che Volker der Akum kommen IL DIN D

ere)°and that Israel all nations

— 82 —

the Akum and the kings of the world among themselves

should be trampled (N DE JE wee N?

55 98 5

* U

ieee

Whoever kills Emen Akum is highly regarded.

They wrote to God, for he will be in Paradise.

belong to the hair department and see higher

To be favored. The Zohar J. 38 b states:

ND BEN 7 2 am 78e NO. 2

— 32 9 urn Mon 1 N nn 3 nen

2 in = 1 27 Nu 7. eu: | wi

mans nam ad men = 2

\ — — i \ 1 | 11 erg) — NT: SID \ Bi - 2

— 2 49 4 ... um. — un a

— — Nes 107 EN 92 d. e

the fourth (most prestigious) palace (of the Para-(This) everyone sits there. They mourned for Zion.
and Jerusalem, and all. who killed An-Gebonge of the other peoples, the Akum... and so Is God clothed in a purple robe and These are marked and depicted on it.
Jews, who killed people from the rest

\olkern, den Akum.

The motive for the murder is therefore always em religious. This is also stated in Zohar J. 25: sn

— 21 N

ern 12 77. Se ND

u Ve u

JOAN * No 177  1 ey as reer nat me man pm
es 08 Ve NN
You MEN 98 N. 789 dh the peoples

In the world, they are N... they don't have that.
een Fin and 2 59 8 den Pentateuch and Talmud) .. of them is ge-says that they should be devoured by the Earth, for they are from those over which they were sucked.
is: you shall destroy the memory of Analek...
and their remains are in our fourth generation—captivity our overlords, they are Amalekiter. — The four relationships are the Egyptian, Assyrian, Babylonian, and the current one imposed by Titus.

The following Zohar follows at this point.

I. 25 b worthy of: Id 7 vi Rr A 5 rn. ip 55 U * on Da ar 28

into Del 00 er. i. those who have longings be-
To do good to the Akum, their souls will not rise again (to eternal salvation).
For it is said concerning the Akum: you shall be-completely erase their (memory).

— DE

Suhar J. 28 b: DE) N89 NY 1 9 *
u — aan mn 9
e nr N 27737 9 *

2 sus 2 N ae DEN pie) Mon
— mm som 9 * “ — ano *
AN 4 r NY oa MODE Dass

.

D eee g See d
the will animals of the peoples of the
They are the children of the ancient serpent;
whom Eve seduced... because of her, she says Step (Ex. 3201: who are against me, the I will blot them out of my book, for they and from the seed of Amalek's, about whom it has been said.
(Deut. 25): You shall destroy the memory of it.
\malek"s. Cf. Edels to Kiddushin 30.

God created the great sea creatures. Rabbi Elieser says: these are the great Kimige of the 70 peoples... and the living soul: that is Israel, for the Israelites are children of the Holy-Lies, praised be he, and their holy souls come from him. The souls of the other peoples,
The Akum, where do they come from? Rabbi Hlieser says: from the left side, which contaminates it.
They have their souls, and so they are all impure.

and defile those who submit to them approaching... And Rabbi Lleser says: this confirms it.
 which is why we said: the living soul is Israel,
 The Israelites are the living, holy heaven—
 Lish soul, but cattle and vermin and wild things Animals are the other peoples. The Akum. which They are not a living soul. Rather, they are a foreskin.
 as we said.

Since the foreskin, in order to deliver the messianic iles to become a partaker, must be cut off, Eliezer undoubtedly means to say that Israel which Akum, his forebearer, is supposed to devour. That religious motive for the constant war against the Akum is thus clearly pronounced again.
 And how deep the conviction of the Jews of the necessity of removing the foreskin,
 Rabbi Rubens tells us that he still sits there today.
 (The Old and New Faith in Judaism, Zurich) 1878, p. 8), which states that if a child uncircumcised hair, the circumcision still after-is carried out on the corpse, so that It was possible to come into Abraham's bosom.

 This practice is in Bohemia. Even the corpse lusehneiden. Generally. The same Rubens the . 6 f. with. that Prof. Grätz. nominally known a reform, in its scientific Mo—natssehrift a certain Dr. Kornfeld presents-He let it happen. That "circumcision makes the human-
 The organism is so altered that Only the circumcised one is leash-bearing. The "doctrine" in to record."

Since the destruction of the Akum. we saw, a
 If a commandment is considered extremely holy, it is deemed worthy of death.
 whoever gives a person the Klipot the Jeb saves. Mikdaseh Melech Sah. I. 6a says:

a. l 8 un Ser iz (J. ie white

mE a Klipa, who is in mortal danger, gives life.
shall die. Through such mercy
One would see the evil side strengthened. Because ever greater war between Metatron ( good Eugelsfürsten) and his hosts on the one hand and between Samael and his hosts other-since and therefore the (is of the righteous) strives to bring up the aquas feminmas —

And this is precisely the point, as already shown above.
important for the union(s) of the Sefirot,
and we will explicitly add further information on our behalf—notices that such “associations” are held on Easter night.
gung“ take place (2 — . . %% De

How to best use the Klipoth —
If one must eradicate their growth, then one should also eradicate their proliferation.
to prevent it if at all possible. For Mikdasch Melech to Zohar I. 13b says: H 2,“ Dp Nin oN d dn Dp ID nioy)
Zen Re NJ: The truth is that in The shell separation between the sexes must be done in such a way that one can get the men castrit and kills the women.

This is also taught in Zohar II. 64 b: 5 9
ern r rn r l p
N ano 1125 N . SiarII
id lo BIN ® N. my eb: lp
2 2 8 Li NOD y 22 ei NN 9
zer. 2 ih hei N en N
deen dg o D e Ne e

g werde ra ma NIED

“2 d. u the peoples of the Akum will be ox and Donkeys yawn, and this is what was written.
I had an ox and a donkey. And if Israel is good

It skins them (like sacrificial animals slaughter them).
r. ND iD heine, to ent-
(the burnt offering) and they cannot
They rule over Israel... Rabbi Abe says
When the Akum mate, the world cannot torture exist, therefore we have been instructed that the man (the Jew) these evil robbers

no place should be granted; to whom, if they are because they cannot exist: because of The page goes. When they unite, their essence out, which is called U and.

The offspring of the Akum are therefore llunde,
the Istaël. if they become more unrestrained could, existence would wither. Israel
So she must. She wants to act meritoriously.
to be. slaughter, they contained like the brand-victim. The "Skinning®" as a condition of the 4
His being, his merit, demands without doubt. d.
The dead woman is to be understood as a sacrificial offering.

The thought that the murder of Nich
"Suden is a sacrificial act, it often happens."

,

Jalknt Simoni fol. 215 n 772 and Bammidl

ia f. Dr " it is called: i an Ted

120 ak 2 PNDEDEN d. . er BEN who sheds een. God brings em Opten
All non-Jews, especially Christians.

The godless have already been mentioned above.
In Zohar III. 277 b, the "good llirtee" says

Never N

num ee m ' an gi

| N 8 c ö * NN ma N . m

That is, we have no victims, except by continuing-created the impure sides (each Akum is a (unclean side).

ehmatoth to Sch 1. S means x:

97 2172

97227 ers dd on

Pag; ie Ng SUN ee d 7522 N

= U...

ONE? 12 there. dio no. v nn ie 2

Nm Mia io NDINEN NN Salt 2

rer een IT 5

1232 TIN Fa Noel

and it is called (the altar) a slaughterhouse.

Why is it called that?" If people

Since their works were not good, he sacrificed them.

(takes them to their deaths as sacrificial victims)... And Therefore, the perfect Torah of Ilciligen,

Blessed is he, given to the Israelites to help them—

by sanctifying for the life of the world. in order to

to save them from the (right of this altar...)

The sin offering and the goat are sacrificed.

which were united with the Akum (identical)

- N) —

have been) from that side of evil nature

(. 1b. l. 9).

The Akum must therefore be slaughtered.
Israel only when it's bad, i.e., when it's Akum will be: for the Talmei says Chagiga 15 b, that Israel remains good despite all its sins, if It preserves the Talmud in its heart; it resembles thin, like a nut, which is in the dirt of the ground

The shell was licked without damaging the core.

The difference between Israel) and the Akum is said to be especially active on Easter night.

(The judgment will come. For the Zohar II. 37 a says:
D NN anna e ee eee
985 od Nd di in the middle

On Easter night, one acts with mercy.
show Israel, with severity against the nations of Lucum.

Solar II. 40 hrs Mad d N Tue "> *
a ya er d N e Br
Neo o nnsen Si ner Voss

4 *

5 0 wm ann * un
— N * a an nn \ e* N sp

2 ein ni sn 2. . NEE
— rnb deb mm ggg N d5N p
dg His wm N ovvov me na

— wm — * ü — — 9 un
= on 5 Sn ds

r or N

=. —_

9 IT IND: and they should take
Each one a lamb, a lamb for every family (Exod.
12, 3). We have the doctrine that three are equal:
the firstborn of the prisoners, the firstborn of the Handmaid, for everything else (the entire salvation of Israel) depends on these three aforementioned types and everything is united in the Lamb ... and all (three) unite himself in the firstborn of the maidservant and about this
It is written: let it be a statute for you: bind bind him, and he will be kept in your care.
hands, in your possession, until you slaughter him and
The court executes judgment upon him. And (the statute) (applies) until the time when (the Messiah) comes, from to him it is written: whoever is he comes from Edom (Isaiah 63) and .. Jehovah will be King on the whole earth (Zechariah 14).

The Easter sacrifice also serves as a reminder of the Akum offering.
Schar II. 182 a, according to which the Akum is the sourdough (NZ Yon) are, which was removed for Easter must be.

The dogma that the coming of the Messiah
is accelerated by the destruction of the Akum, Furthermore, the group II. 43a states where regarding the Mosaic statute, the firstborn of the donkey to trigger or kill by a lamb. be-
It is noted: * E Wi dr N Mi

NO N by D nk mn nd NN

ee. Later

when Dr. Dean D. Dee

rn — you the donkey means one Niehtmden. Free him from bondage by a Lamb. Which is the stray sheep of Israel?
(Jer. 50) make him a Jew; and if He melts and turns around, so break his Neck... they should be eradicated from the Book of Life, for it is said of it: who He slandered against me. I will expel him.
erase from my book.

er III. 2 b: N. 2 eo 10 n ra Ver) rdn 1

a2 ui hdi 2 N 37°
— — 2, WN en 1 * 2
Tan e on neh bi =
They will be wiped from the face of the earth... In a Time of the fourth captivity (when the Mes(sins appears) either no more accum

They will not give it to the people (Jews).
know; for those whom one calls Akum er-Knowing them, one becomes capable of fulfilling one's needs.
his. what is written (Deut. 7): his hate-
He retaliates in her face, trying to destroy her.

So nobody will be in the glorious Time of Israel as Akum to look at: but who

If someone is recognized as such, they are destroyed.

Rabbi Edels of Bechoroth f. b. also remarked. that in Messianic times only the Jews at Life should remain, but not the peoples who say that the covenant (of God with the Jews) was pre-about and they were with God instead of the Jews a new covenant. But these peoples are the Horses and donkeys are alike, and so are their children.

Children born to a horse and a donkey.
The Messianic era will therefore be the last Akum devour. Before this time, as above was proven, no less the obligation to accumulate.
to destroy where possible; but so far they are

The Jews are not always "DS." not always after

*

The desire of rabbinism to be able to do that to them supposedly (Deut. 7) imposed destruction-To carry out the court proceedings. Hence, presumably, also the instruction not to always deal with the matter (ic-walt, in the storm, but also treacherously to operate: for Mikdasch Melech to Soh. I. 16 4 writes: Nido ae 2: wind in ed bir mn TI RN
dh the Klipa ai one must overwind and throw down either through storm or by a quiet, soft voice (i.e., by open Violent or treacherous. Deceitful.
(Flattering.) It is also called Choschen hammispat 8 425, 5 and Joreh deah $ 158. 2: ZZ

6*

re may aeg N ND amd Omi
der ode eye n N Din DON DEN
' ON242 ann Dio END nalen INT] front near the foot

r N ad ON e eee rn — E now 7y ooooo
han arte ana Dbom e In 42 1255 DD

N ea un 7» di the heretics and Idolaters and whoever transgresses (the law, God)
To anger him would be even the mere fact that he ate meat.
jsst. that wasn't slaughtered by the butcher or that he made clothes from wool and flax to exist. It carries out, to anger God, furthermore.
the unbelievers, who deny the Torah and the Prophecies of Israel, one is obliged to follow them.
to kill: if one can do it publicly, with with the sword, so it shall be done, and if If not, one can get away with deception against them until one causes their death, for example, one sees,
that one of them falls into a well
And in the well there is a ladder, so you can walk down it and climbs the ladder and says, I am hurrying, memen son who is on the roof, down-to let them rise, then I will give them to you Bring it back, and so on. The commentary Sitsé Kohen notes that among the deniers of

— —

Torah also includes those who have a rabbi—scolding.")

It was shown above that one can by Transgressions committed to deceive the Akum allows (e.g., by pro forma acting as to be baptized or as an Orthodox Christian. around the Akum to better utilize and benefit. Ketorm-(calls Jews and the like). Which did not anger him.
This shows that our text in turn shows those from religious motives are upon his death, «the to sincerely reject Judaism. Such Lente
They mingle among the peoples of the world.

Those who walk bad paths and die because of them

*) Maimen also says to Chulhin about the Minim per 1 mischnah 2, that one can see them in this fourth

Galut (captivity), — where one speaks of Jews (the e.g. desecrating the Sabbath and committing other mortal sins, except those who never suffer out of convenience. Suffering-not for the purpose of deceiving the Akum. but in principle out of contempt for rabbinic authority, a (resetz uberas well as the informers of Jewish secret teachings ung (e.g.) do not impose the death penalty, — through murder remove from the world so that it does not harm Israel
do harm and not corrupt Israel's faith,
and to strangle this law, this minimum,
has already been in all Western countries
This has become an act for many men.
The Christians are minimal, as already mentioned (in section 1)
was shown; Maimon says here they are called glati wog Epicureans; although according to their doctrine they actually have no
If they are Epicureans, then deal with them as you would initiation.
Epicureans and beat them torrents. because they are the real ones
They are the source of the apostasy from the Jewish faith.

— egg —

to everyone, even on the Day of Reconciliation, tan ste would be murdered. For the Zohar II. 89 h says:
wen we 8 * 92 7 ie
N — 2 r en 2 7 ia
You. Bi 72027 DIRT BEN N

- — * m. — — Or around SS
82 >. 2 3 1 a ae N = — te] 2 179

2 m mg 8 an. mar nn“ sans .

f U 11 N 1 r 22 nam ca

= — N — n 5 —
e * 1 0 9 je = nic „ NN

dd Dorn Mine De „

— — u 1 —

The Rabbis determined with certainty, with truth, about
The peoples of the world who walk in ruin-che Were and not knowing between right
d linhs. They are like animals. — that it is He wanted to execute judgment on them. He himself
In reconciliation day, and about their children
They screamed: they are children of Ilurs, real whoresnen: Israel's portion is better than that of all nations.
Akum, for it is written about Israel:

He unites you with Jehovah. You should all
. hi 1.

How much venlienslich and sin-erasing that
I. rinorden der Akum ist, möge noch durch Zohar la will be confirmed.

18 in the days of Rabbi Jozi Jewish robbers in They lived in a mountain range. A little man came into the Mountains. So they grabbed him and asked him...

em name. If he was a Jew, read it

— 8 —

But if he was not a Jew, then they struck.
him dead. And through this deed, says Rabbi Josi, Have they earned eternal life? DN rr bn 522 hx.

In Zohar I. 219 b it says: under Ge—Captivity will continue as long as we Meli
the rulers of the Akum peoples from the earth-
They have erased it. Itabbi Josi and a traveler named Rensusse
They were together when they noticed a bird.
who was burned. This fate of the bird.
Josi suggested it was an admission, as mam mt how to deal with non-Jewish rulers, and This is what Daniel 7:11 refers to: I watched until

The animal was killed. Also Derech emeth notes on Zohar I. 219 b. that the earthly and The heavenly world will not be found until raw.
can, until one is free from the influence of
will have freed the non-Jewish ruler.
Of course, that will probably cost a lot of work.
Their people are indeed strong; however, success must be achieved.
es, da Mikdash Melech zu Zohar I. 7 b. wo von a rabbi is told who tore us apart, the

Ee — mn — em ywumitia

Note added: I on Dis m 78717

21 — |.

dee OD nd Zei ge db the mountains are the Klipoth. the hard (strong) like mountains are, and this is what he says: he tore out mountains, namely the Klipoth.

I conclude the above for deu Be probably sufficient, although by no means complete the collection of blood spots with Sohar
11. because the “modern age” (p. 269 l. 1883%)
"Pressburger Zeitung" (July 7, 1883) and Delitzsch in the “ester Lloyd” as well as in a special the “Modern Age” reproducing writing, in which he told me a childlike “Schnehmatt”, they explained,
This passage refers only to crude, ignorant,
and ptlichtsergessene quden, which rabbimische:
They break the law, but at least they remain Jews.
According to this passage from the Zohar, such Jews are met with Armmih. che mach einem Ausspruch des Talmud tantamount to death, and indeed it is public Armufh. which, through the associated be-The swelling drives the blood to the cheeks, so that this death, like the publicly shed blood of a Theres appears. But do those Jews atonement, dust the “modern age”, and do not open their mouths against God. So is their poverty closed.

Mouth, like an animal that cannot speak.
Regarding the confession of sins to be made
So mam (the poor man) speaks to an acquaintance Penitential prayer: I have no mouth to answer.
and no forehead. To raise my head, ge u Te!

His >unds. Confess daily the unity of God

Pr

dam man mit dem Rufe echad (One) einst

— 89 —

die. Like the animal. Which with a knife after twelve examinations of the same, which led to—together thirteen or the value of the Hebrew.
The word echad amounts to — slaughtered. prices and holy God every day through the barechu and kedusha. Two parts of the morning prayer, as well as through the blessings received during the enjoyment of He praises food and drink like a priest. Thus the “modern era”. Delitzsch and Gen.

Interpretations of this kind, however, can be used for a—Consecrated circles only elicit a smile. To I derive evidence for this claim from the Among these initiates, a voice was even heard.
to, whose authority is indisputable: I I mean the word of the one who is the Yin Man.
the "Sohar Key". which also the Premysler edition is included and under bedetermined the meaning and content of keywords—briefly indicates more significant points. Precisely this.

“Key” now gives us our place

II. 119a, which he expressly cites, under

The following explanation applies to the keyword Yan 'sy:

— one 322 Wi D fes 9

Od NDUm TI Y um) e DT m) an ana cr dy 222 N 70 N

22 NIS Fe Di DNS d.

One (the Jew) should stay away from 1

u

1111 —

.

. \olkern of the earth (of its principles)
eum Site uind Ihre Kinder heissen Greuelss Jhengale and cattle and whoever of them nei
The word "verlucht" is used in the sea. Who men Tlirer*. and it is permitted. they Zueiodsse even on Versölmnnestag and you name it HNurenkander.

It is impossible that this authentic
Explanation of the text: the “killing” ie
In a figurative sense, it would be understood as: the figurative rod
The armnth meant. That would be the utterance.

A smoked word 18 cities" not the rich-

4

2

It should be a strong expression. It would definitely have to be 577

No. "Death of poverty? and the like."
 will be. This is all the more true since the "key" is being-notices. Even on Reconciliation Day. Which is, after all, a Grace is rare; death may be imposed.
 will; but it is known that the rabbinists a rich or wealthy Jew.
 who despises the Rabbinic statutes. None whatsoever.
 by confiscating the assets into arms
 tur /i. even if he also heaps curses upon him Disobedient Jews are likely being threatened.
 (to plunge them into poverty (Zohar III.) bring under non-southern Uerrscher who John 3:27h; but from the side of the Jews, we ...appear in our text as the actor wire) Giterentzchung. Impoverishment as punishment n imposed. It is therefore beyond doubt that the Author of the "key?" under "dead* melt a figurative killing. but the actual death.

— 91

 understands. and the Zohar II. 119a also Niehtjnden means. which even at the Versoöhm Festival wesellaehtet werden dürfen. Die misethenlte Me duetion of the "modern age" and its companions. welehe to apply the passage in the Zohar to Jews.
 However, this is completely untenable. This results in...
 Clear from the context itself. In which The Sohar sentences in question occur. These
 I will now explain the connection.

On page 118b of Soh. II it says that (nice
 His Valk Israel with many signs expected has. Those who are in (teaching work) have. are marked with DEATH (tmader. and those). who have (Talmudic) good deeds. with MD: (Strength). The raw and mm-knowing Jews, which, like Ernchin 15b, are improperly YIZ sn (peoples of the earth) and They have neither good works nor (learning).

referred to by removal of the foreskin (77,
md nano, in short, through circumcision.
The poultry, the Zohar continues, which ge—

* D voice recognition in the infant form.

quae fit post praeputinin abseissun, Buxtorf lex. sv. ef.
p. 133a and Rashi, dert. Sab. 137 and reh deab

41*
— 2 —

whose may be. has as a sign of purity
a crab emergency and peelable stomach)
Be aa and other animals which are permitted,
They also have two symbols of purity. (name-)
lent the rumination and the cloven hooves,
So, all are, the Zohar continues, with two Drawing of purity provided. as well as the holy people through the removal of 129% (Vorhanti and through De (rectio) known-Zielinet is.

Now a second paragraph begins, in which the Zohar (110a) the difference between the three mentioned Categories of Israel are discussed. Those Israelites,
He teaches, which also includes sermon (Torah).
and have works and scholarship not for pay, but for the glory of God and operate his Schechime. like a Soln, the is obliged to honor father and mother.
with God and His Shekhima, which is in
They are, as it were, united. Marked.
Those, on the other hand, who possess erudition without good
To have works or good works without scholarship ness. In them, God and his Shekhinah are equal.
Sam separated, while the owners of Tara and e Chull. Aa: every bird that has a crop and whose stomach (which is directly attached to the Spem tubes hang) can be shelled, i.e., double lily

., yehor to the pure genus.

— 93

.

5 —

Good works are like a tree, whose Branches divide to the right and left and are united by the trunk in the middle.
But these are the ungodly members of the holy people.
which are indeed the two signs of circumcision received, but neither Torah nor good works
Do not wear tefillin on your head and arms.
not celebrating the Sabbath and not having tzitzit.
Now follows a third paragraph, which contains a fourth.
This category of people is being presented. They are those.
which are not drawn at all (NO N.
who bear no signs of purity whatsoever. neither Torah and good works, nor circumcision.
The Zohar here cites the passage Lev. II, where of the birds and fish are being discussed, which have no signs of purity (TAU) at all and therefore among the forbidden, unclean animals belong. Of these, it is said Lev. 11 On Yo O8. They shall be an abomination to you. Of the People of the fourth category, for whom the Zohar to the aforementioned passage concerning the impure Animals are remembered. He explicitly says they are.
5

not Jews, but peoples of the earth IN N Yan Salt) NN NN and like those Lev. 11
The aforementioned unclean animals are also considered unclean according to the determination of the Talmud teachers abominations and monster (fo Man N v Ph Nd

N

nung mas man 2 cn. Be Members of the fourth category, the non-een, verbleibt daun der Zohar länger. sagt, that you are Grenel and your women are monsters and their daughters cattle and that they die, in Reality is to be killed. And that is to be said.
Publicity. As I will explain in more detail shortly.
My opponents do not deny that it is luer is about real killing. if it is It's not about non-Jews at all. Their entire
The effort aims to show that it is a matter of it was about Jews and therefore only about the figurative death of poverty. I, on the other hand,
In my opinion, this has been clearly proven.
"Leave the context for my view speaks, welehe. as has already been mentioned. also as expressed in the "Sohar key®".
This view, that they are non-Jews

about their slaughter. also finds a support in a situation I had previously overlooked Place)) of the Talmud, namely Pesachim 49b:
n nn D ffn = N

On this occasion, I note that my former Ussaye, the Talnd said nothing about the ritual murder, which refers to the enjoyment of blood
min damals peeiell ads ritnellen Aet zubezeichnung pfleg
But, as I said above, there is 3
Ritual murder, an act of cult or of the god
"The ring is completed

— 95

1 8 > TION 22 ums > — mamma.

1

11

the marriage) TEN ere de

a N

2 yo 18 ru di Rabbi Eliezer says:

It is permitted. To smother a non-Jew yourself—

Day of Atonement. When it falls on the Sabbath. To pierce. Then his students spoke to him: Rabbi, please say slaughter (instead of through—) (drilling). He answered them: no, if one To slaughter him, one would need a Beraclaus. (to speak a prayer of praise). But to pierce can man without Beracha.

Since this is about piercing and slaughter the speech is and one thing leads back to the other— The view of Beracha is preferred. It is clear that the Talmud refers to any confiscation of goods. to the figurative dying through ver- I cannot imagine such a thing. Punishment through symbolic death is, as I said. in rabbinic criminal law as one of human beings There is no provision for a penalty to be imposed. And what would a removal of the goods even be like? through figurative “battles” with Beracha and by means of “piercing” without beracha? In the Sohar- It's about text, as we'll see shortly.

“Battles with Beracha,” and this ending Pressure definitely refers to the actual pressure. Killing. The aforementioned Talmudic passage lies without /doubt our Sohar site is at fault. and We. As shown. For the former, an interpretation on shame through poverty as ir

They must look at it. This is also true of the Zohar text.

The aforementioned Talmudic passage is very significant

That is, so I fire for the aforementioned internal reasons.

|: 1
2

which consider the idea of the same as real Death (and consequently on non-Jews, cf. the already eitirte Stelle Maim. zu Chullin per. 1. m. 2) determine, as an external authority, the prooemium Me) of 38 i added, where about pes.
1% is noticed: 57 7 ie > ram a 12 dd di the Kabbalists explain that this passage refers to Sammael (the Devil) and his entire host.
Kabhalist Zohar passage, which is based on pes. 49 5
zezug takes. is just II. 1194 as well as II. 89b;
and that Samael with his host the non-to which it is referred. It doesn't need to be said. 2 will be: in addition to those already mentioned above.
The only passage mentioned is Son III. 246 b, where 7s means W NN Y rien. Ne
Sammael is the chieftain of Esau.

L is therefore beyond doubt,
ler Zohar in our place in the fourth category of non-Jews, which is the Re

nism as PD and OD Hvo (Vi

— 97

—

of the earth, the world) in the narrower, actual and true meaning, as it is described in Dem. 28. 16
Bin Talmud Berach Ga. Menneh 35 U ud
It's moving there. As is usually the case with other things.
About the non-Jews, their wives and 16 175 = * .
daughters are specifically named. This means It now continues. Her death should be in Oetlentlichkeit.

be. But before the way to do it. g

—

is described. The Zohar gives a parenthetical Explanation of the concept of the visible.
Public and hidden death. Dying.
He says, according to a well-known Talmudic saying.
merely become impoverished (N NN drs d.
But death, which impoverishes the non-Jews, should not be hidden like birds which hide from the Jews be compared (N? 11177 Says Cures 97 3) 1 1 Sale SZ ia #7
but in public (N'DITND NN before) in the eyes of the people. The poor man, the text continues.
gone. is considered dead; but there is a hidden Poverty away from the eyes of the people and There is an impoverishment taking place before everyone's eyes.
like when one sheds the scent of a large animal (Fiore) Blood, the shedding of which before all eyes,

Visible to everyone.

The hidden poverty, of which this

The speech is explicitly referred to as "the one that is-

"e wenklikestarmuth, money poverty
III. 240 probably means that God the Jews, were I will fall into poverty. This poverty et eme hidden, imlem she with death which is compared to birds whose blood na

according to the Albanian regulations of the ritual slaughterer with ie un Hautlein Asche werden mu

V. hren dies bei Hausthieren (n) wicht selhteht. This comparison suggests
The first poverty is one where no Blood is seen. So, just poverty of money, while the second poverty is a figurative and public one is called. because the real death they describe-draws. makes the blood visible. actual,

real blood loss.

Me non-Jews should therefore go through Tuld Impoverishment, i.e., through slaughterhouses, bes has been. This view is also supported by de

Now, the following sentence: NSD OD NDzeze

Ir
d. 1. ste (the Jews) forget. should forget:

The blood before everyone's eyes. Would poverty be...

Gin. It couldn't be called NIT.

for such poverty is not imposed by the biner or their representatives; this penalty as already shown, a divine order which "It even breaks over the sinner!"

1 —
but subject to the plural 3 (Sie vergu Sen)

bott ui or Sr). But only (li

u | 17
That they can be Jewish needs no further comment.

It bites further "7 en er

ae \ — 1 27 —
an * * wu mm * 22 " was N — - ern mes 52 127 N

9 9 N ND ieee
Porn => ad rec the Lemke: "Ti
The thing is: blood is shed in the face.
in front of the people (Jews). that they (the non-Jews. especially since \ WN Mm. is the virgins or "daughters" of Yon "al changing (losing color) green-yellow become, like corpses.*) Would be from Be-Shame due to financial poverty is the topic. That's how it would be.
not Ir. but * stand; for Beschämung is in the Talmud as in the rabbinic

— 2 S

Writings only “fade”* is usual (ef. N! ee

No. F and Baba m. 58 b a8 MNS

To shame someone, literally to make their face turn pale (let), while the Talmud (f. Sab. 134 a Chullin) 47 b) for blood loss Des used.

*) The suffixes of the 3rd person feminine treschleeht» in the majority are actually hen. but also in Daniel (7, p. 19; 2, 33, 41, 42) all spelled with waw: in our
The change of gender at this point also indicates the change in 8 2.
Repeatedly documented doctrine that all non-Jews,

Men and women alike are suitable victims.

— lII —

VII NN N vud'veiter the state of being:

here the victim darringen Jews indicated;

The subject is the same as in 9.
The Jews. Slaughter... specifically when they are in

Buses that turn to God do not want to open

'len Mund. To hurl insults at the Heaven. Since the action is considered a sacred event-seems and therefore, where possible, in the presence
If an assistance is to be provided, then suggested here. That the assembled men remen must be of the heart because of something committed.
and against the holy Talmud therefore previously,

As far as the celebration is concerned, to say a prayer of penance.
have, as is the case with other religious religions Actions (e.g., to act as a witness at a wedding)
[The ability to function] is common. Moreover The society of the victims should be made reliable.
consist of people who are involved in the plot something sacred and therefore not inclined to to blaspheme Ilmme because of her, by to say that the situation is bad. eme luchlessness.
The following is further stated: 11771 Ze a en N Ron nee

» 0 ou, N 98 |

nd. i. and their death shall Congestion of the mouth like that of an animal that dies and has no voice or speech.

—, Ve

The butcher then gets to work!
partly speaks before, partly after the action.
Prayer of Praise (J). in which he holy silence
He promises and praises God daily, if he can.

eaadlung to carry out: NED m

— — —

u — EL wann ser Sn mu = a wm“ RN 0 N sn No J "N

“22 in 225 mn around un — m OA mm around. a.

re Dr

52 am

Ni ala) EN) — men ee Sn. Between 5

a — „ ee e

7.

= 3725 De an En 8 —

ad in his e says this

I don't have a mouth to answer!

not a forehead. to raise the Ilaupt, and he praised—praises and lauds (certainly) the saint. ge-

He praises the fact that his cities should be everyday occurrences.

in echad as in the ritual slaughter of an animal

(ne) with twelve tests of the knife and the * which (the numerical value of the word

echad d. u ee ee.

2 Ka he praises and glorifies the holy Hei-

Lien, praise be to him.

Neither the death ritual (md e. Ueber-

(crossing the Jabbok) of the Jews, which is for

*) It is rabbinic law to perform the Sehächteknife, by cutting the fingernail twelve times over to check if the vagina is jagged or no; these 12 tests and the knife itself constitute the number 13 (& echad = 13).

No

All wretched souls, various prayers
Glaaihens. «der ene undd dgl. hält, hat uv elsunz. with the call just from echad to Apen. wie as lie „Nenzeit” will under venmzelt in n is told by Akiba. noele

4

aum Arimntli fallen such as special
"The exercise is prescribed or specifically recommended."
Moreover, it's related, as I've shown.
lab», van Juden. who are punished with poverty
Arden, namely through other Jews 1288 9, or not at all. The subject of Y'N (this one),
The one who is speaking is therefore not an impoverished person.
e, but the slaughterer, who with his assistants-stenten previously in the plural cas © (they pour, (see gorges) was summarized: all parts-

The recipients are DDr., even if only one of them.
cut, or rather, the main cut. And this with the sacrificial act of slaughter itself be-chattiste One, or rather each individual involved
It is T., which, after the 'Mundzdes Opters is clogged. He says he'll get over it.
(naturally var profane) not rush, to about
I ask profane people not to answer, before such people themselves of this holy, incomprehensible sa More praise. But God. If he could, then to offer sacrifices to Soleh. Also those after

= de —

The concluding lines of the text suggest this thought.

For it goes on to say: "And he (who was just now)

mentioned ritual slaughterer, e) praises and sanctifies the Saints every day and at his meal and Drinking like a priest praises (the praising, Praise is the beracha (the holy Kedusha). when the spirit (the soul, the person) praises the Saints every day and sanctifies him and makes him holy. agrees with his only one, which is his she— China, then the Ileilire rises. Praised be he, beginning This spirit descends with many hosts. Flías says: truly, the man who praises and God sanctifies and unites her with the matron. Many groups (individuals) of matrons ascend to him. many of the king's hosts ascend to down to him, all of them. in order to be-guard and let this spirit know many things New and future ones in prophetic dreams and Many secrets, like those said about Jacob. is (Gen. 28): and the angels of God ascend and off to him. And from (these throngs of the It is said to the king and queen (Gen. 82) and he named the place Leerlager; but the king and queen themselves ascend ht down."

This passage has a one- in relation to aut ichen Büsser. den „Neuzeit“, Delitzsch und (ren.

101

To present, makes no sense. For the Jewish Li weleher seme Morgengebhete mit Deracha and Kedtishi and his table prayers with Beracha performed. Therefore, it is not considered "like a priest®". mug er auch „nige Leiden dazu noch mit Ey To bear tameness in the spirit of repentance. Moreover Rabbinic theology doesn't teach any of that either.

u As, that through the aforementioned ordinary Marginal prayers (Beracha and Kedusha; and table prayers) see (Deracha) such a penitent even (rott with could unite his Shekhima and from the Angels would be so extraordinarily afflicted as it is said here, that he is pro-would have tetic states and supernatural be-teachings emptmge. Through this passage, We therefore start at every point at Vital and similar rejected of this kind, the kind we know from above.

learned and taught us that the Jew, which Junstranen and Akum in general slaughters, god-niche spark. those caught in the "shells".
sat. redeemed and still sends from above and thereby the "Associations of the Setiroth, (iottes and the Shekhinah, of wisdom and understanding, of The king and queen were affected by "unions".
(especially on Easter night, but also at other times)
always standing and from which finally d
The Messiah must emerge. But because this "Ver-

"ungen" take place in the llshe, only rise

=

Elijah says to the angels regarding the holy sacrifice:
Jester up and down. But the king and the co-
They are celebrating their heavenly bridal night upstairs.

In light of everything I know about the mmenbang and what I said individually, It's impossible for me. Anything else in this to find it. The reader should therefore... whether the Jews Mr. Delitzsch @s
Thanks to know that he is in the "Pester Lloyd"
explained that Moritz Scharf had certainly told the truth.

said. if my explanations are correct.

VI.

The places. which we have covered ha-
bon. own us the rabbinism in its true form, (sestalt. Not just the earth, but also the
He only wants Hummel for Israel. A more urgent one.
A plea to Christians: to be united and with Determination to protect their sacred Inter-It's unthinkable to eat together.
as "this voice of Rahbinism itself, which we heard.

Should I say a final word, whichches gerismet is to summarize everything that We heard. Dante comes to mind, as if... he wanted to describe Mallorca. He gave d Thor's inscription: You who enter, let All hope is lost. So too does the Rak call to us.
niemus to: You are the people of the hopelesskeit. Still in 1550°) he left in Pfemysl (Soha flat sure occasionally in the leaves, until sion chen 270 issues of the series were published. Dal it also includes this in his famous "Checkmate".

If he calls it wrong, I note. «ass Rabbi Josef Kat the work Mazdik Sefarim GN 1879), v

— ZN —

252) print the text that in the other world
the godless come to a place full of Lnrath Unrath of the retreat. There, he tells us J. c., One throws dead mouths and donkeys. There they are Christians and Turks bury each other; Jesus and Muhamed, the dead dogs are lying there—dig; and this is the grave of the litters.
Where are the uncircumcised buried? Which ones are they?
Dead lands, horrors and foul stench. with Covered in dirt and smelly, they come from an evil maid and are the great rabble.

which joined Israel.... dead-
Bone and unclean flesh... what was screamed about—

Ben says: throw it to the dogs.

What rabbinism has changed over the years-hundreds planned and hatched to make our
To corrupt the people is entirely in keeping with this.
Paintings about our fate in eternity. I
I have some nice material about the last dew-
Years, as it says in the Jewish books itself is present, together; in a special
I intend to present it to the public in writing.
as soon as events demand it. In the meantime, perhaps a counter-argument to Rabbi Jakob Emden's Matpachotl Hasefarim is, in the Zohar section, it says that until C6635 — 1875) 270 editions of the Zohar were published-

He also indicates where these editions were published.
d as often at the individual locations.

- 108

All Christians. Protestants as well as Catholics, adults as has already been said, and look like unity viribus Commitment. Defeat the common enemy!
To make things unharmed. To that extent.
ches zelinet. We will do our own thing for to be a unified and strong people again; The more The rabbinic influence in Europe here
the further we will go in our P'rineipiem.
our power, separated in all relationships and time will be used. Kim, the Rabbi's word May Warsaw send us in this regard be a salutary teaching. This rabbi 8: namely in his book N.“ alone (schaar® (to the year 5310 di 1530 n. C.) moreover detailed news about the in Germany and on whose borders the notorious yt Jewish crooks.

Edited from criminal records and other reliable sources and initially dedicated to practice and police officers

from

AF Thiele,

Royal Prussian Criminal Actuary.

First volume.

Berlin, 1841.

At the author's expense.

Foreword.

Of all the crimes known to European criminal law, none has been so widespread as the crime against property. Through force or deceit, the hard-earned property of the peaceful citizen is endangered, and in German

In this country, it is primarily the crooks who violate the law and interfere with the int of the property owners.

On the nature and mischief of crooks in Germany

yince the last decade of the last century, various

These writings appeared, whose public utility was recognized everywherey

They have also been particularly concerned with the names and descriptions of the crooks, their crimes and punishments

fen, to compile them into alphabetical lists, and the Ery

The result was, in practice, a happy one. The scoundrel must be pursued and always pursued; he should not rejoice in his criminal life, nor enjoy his robbery in peace, and everything that can facilitate the achievement of this goal by a good police force is worth considering.

Rur if the official also knows the enemy, to fight him

Machine Translated by Google

he is called, his efforts will not be fruitless.

The robber and thief by profession, who comes from all ranks

The outgoing scoundrel requires different measures than the simple criminal. Poverty and misery or passion smuggle

but these usually lead to the path of crime; the Gauy
ner aber wandelt fie con amore.

There is no longer a lack of resources, as before, to inform the authorities of the state of public security in the country and the to inform dangerous individuals. The need has given rise to periodicals everywhere, in which, to a greater or lesser extent, the news concerning the security police is published

ten concentrate; but also their highly useful effects are so versatile
yalty is, they are not always completely sufficient for operations against crooks. |

One should not say that the past, in individual reycky
yight, for the criminal and police officer of subordinate

It is precisely the life history that characterizes the crook, and the harsh punishment of repeated crimes can

Judges only recognize the crook, whose previous conviction ytrafung he is informed. Rur is too well known, however, how the Gauy who always strives to cover his former criminal life with the thickest darkness; in the pl lordship

yourn or his ara, one usually searches for information in vain, and sources are therefore required

It is important from which the judge and police officer can draw such information. N

No less important for anyone who, by virtue of his office, is to act against crooks, is the knowledge of the propertyy the nature of their criminal activities, and especially their social language, as is fortunately longer doubted. Experience is, of course, the best teacher in this regard.

but the opportunity for such experience is not given to many and not often; it is often bought at a high price, and the knowledge is then, in the end, only imperfect.

Starting from this point of view, and in the hope that every little bit contributed to this great purpose could be assured of a friendly reception, | believed in the present not to undertake a completely undeserving work.

The basis for this was an investigation that began in 1831 by the then criminal deputation of the local city court and extended to a large Jewish gang of criminals that operated through several provinces of the Prussian state and the Neighbourhood.

barlander was widespread. It took unspeakable effort to find the true

The relationships of all those involved in this investigation are equally hardy to identify the naked as a mischievous criminal, as twelve volumes of correspondence on the subject sufficiently prove.

I was entrusted with this special part of the investigation, and on this occasion | learned the great public utility of such works, as they have been carried out since 1793 by individuals the have been gradually edited by men who had my best interests in mind. Containing many interesting pieces of information, they served as a guide for my work, and it is largely thanks to them that | have been able to convict most of the adhered to this point was possible.

Despite all this, | felt what the personal messages

Concerning the crooks, a literary gap that extends from the publication of Schwenken's work in 1820 to the present day. For Mr. Stuhlmiller has published his "Complete

News." and Mr. Gieye his "Aky" so extensively.

Even though they have worked on "considerable problems," they are still too limited to the home state to be of any significant benefit to the other German states.

Schwenken's writing, on the other hand, is outdated, both because of the 20 years that have passed since its publication and because of the essentially lichen daynge, which the reyeyyyeyyts of the Jews in Deutychy country have suffered since then, the most important of which is the Any taking certain family names. | Most vividly stimulated

by the surprising results

which, in whole and in detail, the investigation initiated here

ung, and encouraged from many sides, | decided to fill that gap somewhat by publishing a booky

which has covered Jewish scoundrel traffic in Germany for the past 20 years. | could find even less reason to extend my work to scoundrels of Christian descent than through the meritorious works of Messrs. PfeiUer and Eberhardt, which have continued up to the present time.

current news is already available. oo

With respectful thanks, | acknowledge the support that

On behalf of the High Ministers of Justice and the Interior and the police, has become part of this undertaking. Rur day

This made it possible for me to give it that larger scope which alone determines its public utility. In particular, as far as personnel information is concerned, | have not relied on ythose who provided the local files on many domestic and foreign crooks, but to the criminal and police

| have contacted the licensing authorities throughout Germany for information striking notes. They are also not from ally

len answers, the yield may already be iny

can be called a rich one, and everything makes me hope to give this part of my work a tendency, whereby it will be of the same interest and benefit to all German authorities

*

We+s

It was actually my intention to publish the whole thing in one volume, however, | have had to abandon this idea for several reasons, the most important of which is that a v encompassing the whole would be almost too voluminous

would like to be, but on the other hand it will probably take some time until all the ansv and notes from the foreign gen or authorities. And since this part of my work should and must be lexically

organized, | cannot begin it any earlier. | have therefore divided the work into two volum the first of which deals with Jewish thieving in general, based on the available informati on it.

sources, as well as the results of the local investigation, along with a lexicon of thieve language; the second part, however, contains only the personal notes of the thieves. After various delays, not caused by my fault, | now hand over the first volume to the highly esteemed authorities and their

Machine Translated by Google

Vi

ren employees, keeping me assured of their obedience and fair assessment.

| provide no writing for the psychologist, since truly the eternal truths that determine all our knowledge of humankind become the most blatant lie in a scoundrel's mind

Nor has the desire for a literary name, which is all too common these days, given me the pen in my hand, but only the fervent desire to be of some use to the common good according to my limited ability.

and from this point of view, | would especially like to see my work accepted.

I cannot, moreover, conclude these words without expressing my sincere admiration for the inquirer, whose great foresight and energy have brought an investigation of such importance and unprecedented scope as the one mentioned above to a more than satisfactory conclusion.

Mr. Criminal Counsellor Grabow should not be angry with me if | publicly mention his name here. Many are called to the office of judge, but to the office of a criminal judge

Only a few are chosen. Police violence ends similar to the arrest of the scoundrel; the determination of his guilt, his conviction and deserved punishment, however, depends in most cases on the ability of the inquirer.

Honor, therefore, to the men who fill their difficult and arduous position with the insight and energy they deserve.

necessary if the daring and clever criminal, to the in- calculable damage to society and the state, not unpunished should remain. The field they are working on belongs to the un-

most fertile, and whoever knows how to draw from this fruitful blossoms for the common good, his name deserves to be preserved in the world, for truly, his merits are not insigni-

It will give me the deepest joy if this writing does not remain entirely without use, if it contributes even somewhat to the recently almost all too greatly diminished revival attention once again to the Jewish crooks and their corruption

To direct these activities, to facilitate their detection, and thus to narrow the limits of harmfulness as far as possible. May this writing fulfill this purpose; I ask for no better Perfection is to be striven for, but seldom achieved.

I have only been able to devote to this work the limited time that my other official duties me; and therefore I hope to be excused for some of my oversights.

abilities or even errors that might have escaped correction.

Berlin, December 1840. The author.

Vi.

VII.

Contents of the first volume.

Machine Translated by Google

Introduction. D

1. What crooks are.

2. Whether there are crooks.

3. The Jewish crooks.

Historical description of the underpass BT Eee on 955

Wenthall and comrades

. Crooks' tactics and results 8 5

. A brief biography of the inquisitor Joseph Adolph Rosenthal.

Description of the crimes primarily admitted in the investigation against Loywenthal and his comrades and otherwise discovered.

The Jewish crooky or Kochemery language appendix, dealing with Hebrew counting.

22
70
122

132
193
327

Digitized by Google

1.
Introduction.

1. What are crooks?

Everyone must first be encouraged to ask this question, whose life it is.

sphere is not that of a criminal or police officer when he is spoken of crooks in the nineteenth century. The colorful panorama of the world of crooks and scoundrels, of prisons and correctional facilities with the population that inhabits them, does not unfold within the sphere of the bourgeois sphere of vision, and therefore the uninitiated layman cannot know what is the situation in his immediate environment in this regard. He dreams of security while often sleeping among thieves.

.f6

It is only too true that even many security officials are confused by the idea of criminal activity and the individuality of those who belong to it.

Machine Translated by Google

"The criminal class is still unclear, of which I have written evidence in my hands"). Clinging to outdated concepts and prejudices, one does not even want to imagine the possibility of a thief with his own herd, and usually demands gang thefts or even robbery and murder as the hallmark and characteristic of the thieving quality, however great the error inherent in a more precise definition of the concept of thieves and thieving therefore seems to me above all to be an essential requirement. I will try to see how far I can satisfy it.

Of the existing literary sources, which I will have the opportunity to consider in more detail below, only one, namely the Conversations-Lexicon under the heading "Gauy

*) [have indeed sometimes received quite strange answers from Krimiy naly and police authorities, to whom I had turned with a request for information about the they had become aware of. Although I had endeavored to express my wishes and their

gent as clearly as possible, I have been told various things officially replied, sometimes that nothing had been discovered about gangs of crooks or connections in the relevant judicial district; sometimes that only less significant, e.g., market and bag thefts have come to official attention. – As if mock and burglary only characterized the crook! i nerweyen," a more certain version on this subject. One could also describe it as a fairly accurate one, if the author did not fall into the error of considering the way of life of to be synonymous with that of the nomadic peoples of the Orient or of the ancient Gypsies and accordingly characterizing them as people.

yiren, who in summer know no other roof than the sky, but in winter hide in earth caves.

These terms, if they were ever correct, at least no longer fit the present time.

relationships.

Crooks, in the narrower sense, are people who engage in robbery, theft, and fraud more or less as a real business, proceeding according to certain rules and following certain fixed principles; who, if they fall into the hands of the judiciary, are methodically

They appear in painful interrogations, speak their own language, and interact with each other for the purpose of committing their crimes, and thus, in a word, form a special society within the state, hostile to all civil interests.

Their connection among themselves is neither regularly organized nor, as the Conversations-Lexicon hyperbolically puts it, extending from one region of the world to another. In Spain, they sing the Xacaras of Gomez de Villegas; France has fine

Cartouches, fine Voleurs de profession, but Germany has fine Ganner. A peculiar political national weed flourishes only in the countries of the German tongue, separated by language and customs from the thieving populations of the neighboring states by borders too difficult to displace.

Machine Translated by Google

If it has gone too far, every punished thief, every beggars and vagrants, as is often the case, also to be classed among the crooks, since otherwise the presumptive number of them, for Germany alone, would easily reach hundreds of thousands.

diverse; on the other hand, it also means limiting the concepts too narrowly if one uses only large and significant crimes, or their commercial activities, as a criterion for the criminal activity—

moderate operation, in the sense of ennoblement. In the white

In the ternal sense, every thief or fraudster is also a crook, one who acts systematically committing his crimes according to certain rules; one who steals methodically, even if it handkerchiefs that he skillfully pulls out of people's pockets.

The Ganner as a whole call them Kochemer“) or Cheyye* *) ie clever, shrewd: a common name for all those who, despising petty-bourgeois morality and decency, commit robbery, thievery

*) Mischievous songs.

*) From the Bebrayisch word: HI (Chochom) the Wise.

) From the initial letter of the word Chochom (n), which in Hebrew is called Cheyy.

They regard stealing and fraud as a permissible, even honorable, business, and derive every possible advantage from it. This includes not only the crooks themselves, but also those, almost more unscrupulous others, who, as mediators of criminal purposes, give the real impetus to the crooked and rogue activities, and whose number can be called legion: namely, their called confidants.

These are people who know the crooks' way of earning money and knowingly aid them;

they shelter them, that is what they buy or take into custody any goods; scout out and prove the opportunity to steal; which all them to escape

help them, and finally give them passports and other legitimations papers to ensure advancement if they are pursued.

These professional fences and promoters of professional crimes can be compared to the wolf in sheep's clothing, insofar as they outwardly wear the garb of honesty, and usually live in relationships that recognize them respectable members of society

behind, while internally and according to their principles they find their worst enemies.

Just as the scoundrels and their confidants call themselves clever or shrewd, so they call all the others who do not adhere to their pernicious life principle, do not pay their moral creed, that is, all honest people, with the mocking name of Witty or stupid, and thus interpret by themselves the most

the relationship in which they are in relation to civil society efficiency and legality.

This is a fleeting picture of the human class that I call crooks and from whose midst I offer the reader

I will subsequently present a not insignificant number for your own consideration. What I understand by "scoundrel" and what I hope others may understand by it will, I believe, be sufficiently clear from what has been said. I now turn to answering the second, pressing preliminary question: namely, whether the existence of the scoundrel is real or merely imaginary?

Machine Translated by Google

2. Are there crooks?

Whether there are crooks at all can actually be seriously questioned.

ask anyone who takes only a slight interest in the non-political events of the day, in the so essentially influences the moral and material well-being, not only of individuals, but whole

of nations and state bodies: in the state of the 19th century

ual security. Although not in the sense of subtle interpreters tators of Roman law, but public security is ensured endangered by any violation of law, which, depending on its various nuances, is committed violently or cunningly, by e or

Fraud occurs, and those from whom these violations of law are therefore, by their nature, robbers, thieves and fraudsters, or to put it all together

The robber and thief, in the ordinary sense, are born at all times, under all circumstances; the scoundrel only through civilization. Where civil laws exist, transgressions occur.

The same applies where movable property is present, and this tempts crime. In Greenland, fish oil and sealskins are stolen; in the African steppes, the wild Bedouin encamps.

Robbers and thieves produce all countries, all peoples, civilized or uncivilized civilized, but only those whom we call civilized are scoundrels.

The higher a nation's level of culture, the higher its trade and industry, the greater the number of scoundrels they nurture in their bosom and feed with their macadam, like bloodsucking vampires. While other names may be used elsewhere for the people we understand as scoundrels, wherever we look in the civilized world, only too unmistakable facts testify to the existence of a class of criminals who, although in a different way, pursue the same goal and are guided by the same principles as Germany's scoundrel population

Insofar as one has reason to regard the crooks as a special class of criminals, but their illegal principle as a social, fired one, it is in vain to ask for the origin—

The rise of thieves in German fatherland. History is silent on this, admittedly low, but nevertheless, from a national perspective, highly important subject. Until the 15th century goody

tenberg's splendid invention, the first pendulum swing for Germany's intellectual civilization was the writing of books, a highly laborious occupation, a monopoly of monks and clergymen who naturally cared little for one who was so far from them

ing subject, such as thieving and roguery; not the slightest information about this has come down to us from that time. But even more recent times, that is, from the 15th to the 18th century, have produced only a few and very meager notes that could serve as starting points for correct conclusions. A work entitled: "The False Beggar's Roguery," which in 15

It appears, under Luther's aegis, in Frankfurt a. M. in printy yeemed, is, as far as is known, the only significant product in this field of literature t and 17th centuries have left behind. This little book, however, already demonstrates a for d: ganiyation of a thieving system that already existed at that time, and even provides a dictionary of the German thieving language! But before

Machine Translated by Google

a social language is formed before it ceases to be the exclusive secret of the society members, for this purpose, according to the usual ual course of events for many years of the existence of the Gefell:

ychschaft itself was necessary, and before the year 1520 it had to be

There are already crooks in Germany. What conclusions one might be justified in drawing from their language regarding its origin and the time of its existence, | will return to later, when | will speak of this language itself.

From here the speech becomes fine. Only so much should be noted here that from the composition of this language, primarily Hebrew and Romance words, it has perhaps not been wrongly deduced that Jews and Gypsies are the progenitors of the thieving population in Ge

It is uncertain what our ancestors actually meant by the term

"Gauener." The word itself is said to derive from the Lower Saxon Gau, or the Old German Gaw or Gow.

men, and in the former case, nimble, quick, clever, cunning, but in the latter case originally meant vagabonds and tramps. Of both etyy mological hypotheses, the latter seems to me to be the most likely tigere zu yein"), since in the beginning under the name Gauy

ner certainly nothing other than useless traveling people, without Heil math and civic activity. The fact that so many people today still consider the scoundrel and the vagabond to be the same or at least inseparable is likely to be essential for the correctness of the

ity of this presupposition.

Only in the 18th century, from whence relatively more relevant historical information has come down to us, expanded

The terms that had previously been associated with the word "rogue" changed noticeably. People now began to subsume primarily vagrant criminals, robbers, and scoundrels under the general term "rogue," and two writings published in Gotha and Frankfurt am Main in 1740 and 1755, respectively, already warn of the machinations of the rogues to endanger the movable property. But when, at the end of the last century, that fateful time had finally come over Germany broke out, where civil war raged on its borders, where in Weyely

When, in the aftermath of the war, enemy armies swept through its territories and overturned all civil order, the repercussions of this national misfortune were only too evident in the decline of public security in the country, and crime grew enormously large, rising above the law. Almost as if by a stroke

Suddenly there were associations of crooks and scoundrels everywhere, who quickly turned from stealing to robbing, burning and burning

*) However, in my opinion, too little consideration has been given to the fact that only in recent times has the word Gauner been written with a G, which otherwise, as is well known, was generally written with a J in southern Germany until now. Therefore, it would almost seem as if the words Gauner and Jenisch were of related origin.

nen, and, with a certain leader or captain

Machine Translated by Google

at the top, started an open war with society.

First it was southern Germany, namely the Dukey thum Wirtemberg, and here again especially the Swabian district, where the actual hearth of the thieves was formed, where the overy

The number and audacity of the thieving rabble soon all

It threw down barriers and made everyone who had something to lose tremble. The deeds demonstrated only too clearly the quality of their authors, but for a long time people were in the dark about the latter.

until finally the first and most important discovery about it was made during an investigation carried out in 1790 against the notorious scoundrel Constanzer Hans of Sülz am Neckar.

The writing "Conystance Hans," which was the reason for this investigation, as well as another, which the district administrator ScheUer of Stuttgart in 1793 under the title

The "Outline of the Crook and Beggar Life in Swabia," which he published, provide remarkable evidence of the tremendous mischief that was caused by that rabble at that time, only in S

In obvious reference to those and more recent times, the Swabian circle still uses the Ranz Gany in the thieves' language fer Medine, ie the rascal land.

Another, no less important, revelation about the criminal activities in northern Germany occurred in 1795 in Schwaan, Mecklenburg, where a certain Thurow, who, along with his pimp Zerrahn and several other accomplices, was under investigation for various qualified thefts, named no fewer than 146 criminals and thieves who were then active, primarily in Prussia and Mecklenburg, and among whom were a relatively small number of Jew

| would have to write a history of thieving in the 19th century

hundred if | now follow its further progressive development up to the year 1814, in its smallest details historically

| therefore refer to the meritorious, these country

ytod betaUden, writings"), which in that, in political as Yecury

*) Pergl. by name: a.

1. Official history of the robber bands on both banks of the Rhine. Cologne, 1804. i

2. Damian Hesel and his accomplices. Mainz, 1811.

3. Indictment against a part of the large gang of robbers, which is under investigation at Court of the Werra Department—chung gerathen ist. Marburg, 1812. u

4. Interesting drawings of notorious scoundrels and villains who have made themselves fear the Kingdom of Westphalia and the neighboring regions. 1811. f

5. Official history of the robber bands on both banks of the Main, in the Spesart and in t Heidelberg, 1812.

ity police relationship fo important era emerged, and on the embarrassing investigations c against the individual gangs of crooks bafirt find. From them it follows how, through the circumstances

Machine Translated by Google

ftigt, from the connection of individual Ganner: gangs, and from they

Robber bands emerged again, so that the names: Rauly

"Burger" and "scoundrel" soon became synonymous in police jargon. On the Rhine and Main, in Westphalia, in the Mark, in Schleswig, everywhere, gangs had formed under certain leaders who, in the laws of their organization, in their actions, in their fury, a their lust, stripped away everything that nature had given them that was human, and who, with bestial brutality, trampled underfoot what is still sacred even to the predator desert: the love of fine boys.

It is not a fable about the so-called sleeping lights, whose glow, as they confidently be in mad superstition, would awaken chen, and which they therefore lit when they wanted to clear out occupied rooms at night.

lights, however, were made from the fat of unborn children and spread ay

a dim twilight. The handsome Charles") had the women and concubines belonging to his band with the Prince of the Finy

yterniB (Dirach, devil) and swear by all evil that they would inevitably give up their unborn child for that terrible purpose if they were asked to do so by him or any other member of the gang. The fetus was then aborted before reaching maturity and buried in a shallow grave. (fried “)!

I will refrain from making any mention of the abominations that were carried out in a similar manner by those gangs at that time. It may be true that Schinderhannes and Damian Heyden. Even though they laid their heads under the guillotine with the knowledge that no murder burdened their conscience, the curse still rests on their memory, the curse of the mistreated and robbed, whose physical and material well-being was destroyed by their heinous acts of violence. A fruit of warlike turmoil and national discord, froze.

Incidentally, those bonds also reappeared on their own when, with the return of peace, civil war in Germany again unfolded its banner, of which the resurrection of the underground and on

6. Official history of the Vogelsberg and Wetterau robber bands Giessen, 1813.

7. Alphabetical list of robbers, thieves, and vagabonds. Hamburg, 1814.

8. Official reports of the gang of robbers in the Main area den yc. Darmstadt, 1815. N

*) His real name was Theodor Unger and he was executed by sword in Magdeburg in 1810.

*) The notorious Horst pimp Louise Delitz (she was executed by fire in Berlin in 1811), who time a member of the handsome Karl's gang, has given remarkable revelations about this and similar facts. – f

Machine Translated by Google

international forms of legality, which was severely deteriorating, gave the next news. Such procedures, which were carried out successively in Cologne, Marburg, Giessen, Heidelberg, Darmstadt, Berlin x., completely put an end to the existence of the robbers and thieves.

an end. Hundreds were overtaken by the energy of public power and met with retribution and found the reward for their deeds in bloodshed or died a civil death on the galleys, in the penitentiaries, and in correctional institutions. The rest scattered throughout all regions seeking asylum from the persecuting justice system. Like the distant rolling and glow of a passing thunderstorm, individual bands of robbers still appeared from time to time in some regions, but their existence could only be very ephemeral from then on. The blessed Wiry

The effects of 25 years of peace have made possible, if not the emergence, then at least the existence of such gangs: a fact that will not lose its consistency as long as we enjoy peace and the security police are not asleep in their cradle. The latest emergence of a Schobry and his comrades

yaft cannot deny this truth, apart from the fact that his career was also only a short one

Since the complete disappearance of those gangs, i.e., since 1815, the criminal activity in Germany has taken on a completely different form. If not in their character, at least in their harmful actions and activities, the present ty crooks are completely different from those of earlier times. Unbelievably cunning, almost artistic skill has replaced former brutal violence; only after these characteristics still be

Today, the greater or lesser danger of the individual is determined. Travelers are safe on country roads from

Russian attacks, but not from having their trunks cut off from their carriages; the inhabitants of isolated properties no longer need to fear violent night raids, but the state and municipal coffers, as well as the private coffers of the wealthy, can no longer be protected from plunder despite all the precautions.

be preserved; not to mention many other phenomena that only too clearly testify to the skill and refined cunning with which the security of property is now being endangered by the crooks. The country, whose security they are concerned about, is quiet, and as a rule, no foreign, no fatherland without a homeland; for many of them, one say most, have gradually become accustomed to certain places of residence, where they have gained acceptance into the community through their accidental, and often only feigned, birth

Far from these, where they are usually known only as honest people, they pursue their criminal

Of course, nothing definite can be said about the number of crooks currently living in Germany, and only conjecture

There could be fine arguments that could be put forward about it. As early as 1793, the district administrator Scheer in Stuttgart calculated the number of scoundrels in the Swabian district at that time to be more than 2,700. Even though vagrancy has since lost considerably of its former extent due to the measures taken by the states against it, there is still no reason to believe that an equally favorable result will also be achieved with regard to rich of the traffic of thieves; all previous experiences

Rather, the evidence suggests the opposite. Therefore, it certainly hasn't gone too far if one estimates the approximate number of

Machine Translated by Google

Germany and its linguistically related neighboring countries currently live crooks at ten thousand. If one now takes the annual amount of their crimes, including what they owe to the states and come through costly procedures, through persecutions and transports, through their maintenance in prisons and penitentiaries

munen yoyt noch koyten, even only 150 Thaler for each individual

although double is often not enough, so one would in

mer ychon an average sum of one and a half million

Thalers, which, approximately, are the annual amount of the

the damage to property caused by the crooks).

Some may perhaps be astonished by this conclusion, which seems precarious to them, but which nevertheless still falls far short of reality. There has long been no doubt in Germany about the existence of scoundrels, robbers, and profane thieves, and if there were, it would have to be made to disappear, even by the most common phenomena of everyday life. Words from scoundrel language have even passed into the language of the rabble, even celebrated poets, in order to indulge the tiresome popular taste, have

*) Stublmiller (f. page 19) gives the number of crooks in Germany

land on twenty thousand;: the Grand Ducal Mecklenburg Criminally

Rath Wennmohs in his work: "About crooks and about the most expedient, rather the only (1) means of exterminating the

On the other hand, "The Crime of Evil (1824)" calculates the sum that a crook often steals in a year to be as high as the annual salary of the 13-person staff of the Criminal College in Buetzow. Both figures, however, seem to me, based on my experience, to be hyperbole.

) To explain this in more detail, | only need to think of the following well-known To remember folk locutions:

| will beat you (strike, sweep).

He staggers (staggers).

Don't be a fool.

| have to joychen (sleep, slumber) a little.

He pusyels (does his daily work) so gently away. –
| don't have a penny.

He asked Kimmen (Läuse).

It is something (something).

"I have money and y. wu y. w.

Talents wasted, and the infamous Schobry had barely become infamous when he was forced to appear on stage as the subject of a comedy! But there is no more popular argument.

Machine Translated by Google

3. The Jewish crooks.

The gang of crooks in Germany is different, both in its ecclesiastically religious as their thieving occupations, in two main departmentsy tions, namely Christian and Jewish crooks. Although smally yur numbeyr, the Jewish crooks are nevertheless the more dangerous, yo— probably what their greater cunning and slyness, than their greatest—greater skill in carrying out their crimes. They also differ, almost sharply, from their Christian counterparts noyyen by the particular idiotism of their social language, and actually it is only they v character and actions | want to discuss in more detail.

The term Jewish scoundrels does not refer to Jews, but also to those professional Christian scoundrels who are in contact with them and who carry out their business together with them.

break and thereby, what their character, their societaly

language, their habits and their theft maxims, gain a Jewish veneer. No Jew, if he comes into contact with Christian thieves, will behave according to their customs.

quemen, model their principles on these customs; however, the opposite is always the case. A lot of experience rungs has provided astonishing evidence for this. Many went to the synagogue and participated in the Jewish rituals, and even during the last investigation conducted here against a Jewish gang of thieves

yought several of the Christian scoundrels involved, at Gey

the occasion of the Feast of Atonement, for permission to attend the communal prayers permitted to their Jewish comrades. This strange desire could arise from nothing other than a habitual adherence to the customs of Judaism; for they were completely devout, and collusions could therefore not be in their interest. From this alone, even if one were not to ask for further evidence, the great

The weight of the Jewish crooks can be clearly seen.

Just as little as about the time of the existence of the crooks in
In general, one can also say something about the Jewish crooks, especially dere, something certain, or even just probable. Since

They have been there for centuries, and probably as long as there have been Jews in Germany. The above-mentioned text, published in Frankfurt am Main in 1520, already contains in its vocabulary—

bularius contains a considerable number of scoundrel words, of which Luther himself, in the preface to a later edition, says: yhe yt are come from the Jews; a claim which, as I shall show in more detail at the appropriate time, is entirely correct. — Even then, Jewish thieving must have been in great yufer.

Clearer information about the existence of Jewish crooks is provided by two other, also already mentioned, writings: "The Discovered Jewish Ballover," published in Gotha in 1740, and a dictionary of the Gauy nerypeyche, which appeared in 1755 in Frankfurt a. M., finally a book published in 1753: "News about a gang of thieves discovered by two criminals residing in Hildburghausen, together with a

Machine Translated by Google

Lexicon of thieves' language." Most of the in the lasty
The words contained therein belong to Jewish jargon.

But this is also all that has been said about the
The yeyence of the Jewish crooks is known; more certain news is availabley completely. Only at the end of the last century did

There are clearer traces of them. In Utrecht in Holland,

In the 1790s, various investigations were carried out against dangerous thieves in Frankfurt a. O., in Pymont, Hanover c. besgeyeltschaften, whose members were mostly Jews.

Some of the relevant, very remarkable, judicial documents have come to my attention. All the Jews brought to justice at that time were vagabonds, in the broadest sense of the word.

No one had a homeland, no one a fatherland; only a few were found to be from Poland. Their tactics were quite different from those that would later become common practice in the most consummate crook. Violent thefts, without violence to persons yons, was their main skill. Wherever they appeared, it was only in the role of rich bankers and merchants; finely dressed, the

Fingers full of rings, gold watches in the pockets, with riding whip and

Spurs, so they appeared in the cities; no less so always with the best passes. – \

When the notorious gangs on the Rhine later arose, they also included many Jews as members. While the Schinderhannes gang had already been composed of a mixture of Christians and Jews, existed, the activity of the latter still developed in a particularly striking manner among the robber and thief groups that were formed anew after the breakup of those gangs.

It was here, as is well known, where they began a real life of robbery, where binding and gagging, and not infrequently also murder, were almost inseparable.

ly connected with their burglaries and thefts. Many of

*) In the prisons of Pymont, in 1799, the, meanwhile the deceased, notorious pond fishermen (see Schwenken's notes on the bey most notorious Jewish crooks, No. 636) a list of over 45, which he described as the

The individuals he described as the most dangerous scoundrels of his acquaintance were 36 Jews. Of the latter, however, almost a third are still alive and stealing, and that list has provided me with very interesting information concerning them.

These Jews were of Polish origin, as are some of their nicknames: Afrom Pollack, Leyyer Pollack, Leibchen Pollack etc.,

Machine Translated by Google

prove sufficiently.

Poland in general was and is still today the country which must be regarded as the cradle of Jewish thieves and thieves, and even now the eastern provinces of Prussia are

Bisch state from that country, by Jewish scoundrels

dig into contribution. Many of the small Polish Jewry

Cities near the Prussian border have a well-founded reputation as dense pockets of thieves. It is also undisputed that the large influx of Jewish immigrants in recent times has come from Poland, who followed the Russian armies into Germany in droves.

They easily led the, previously un-knew, introduced the use of the racing tree, which so characterized the Rhenish gangs; for in Poland, in particular, this type of burglary was formerly commonplace, and is, on a more recent scale, still the order of the day there.

The period from 1808 to 1815, which witnesses so strongly

The period of the combined efforts of the security authorities to eradicate thieves and criminals in the country, that period which, as previously shown, was so decisive for the disappearance of the robbers and thieves who had brazenly raised their heads everywhere, passed without any ill effect, as far as the Jewish thieves were concerned, at least without any noticeably significant consequences for their continued existence. Only one

It was only the first investigation that produced truly notable results against them, namely the investigation against Damian Hesel and his accomplices, conducted in Mainz in 1810. President Rebmann then compiled these results in a document that has not lost its interest since it contains empirical evidence.

takes hold, which are extremely worth heeding. N

As already mentioned, this was also the only case where a large number of Jewish crooks were found guilty of their deeds.

A meylene criminal court was issued. For another, no less important procedure, which was opened five years later against a gang of robbers and thieves consisting of Christians and Jews in Minster, was unable to bring about an equally favorable result, because the capture of the fugitive criminals was impossible for the authorities, despite all their efforts.

Despite all their efforts, only a very small part of this was successful. From the far-reaching foresight and the greater cunning of the Jewish thieves, they were able to flee the danger at its first sign and to leave early a region where the reborn legality was so seriously applied. In the period from 1810 to 1815, almost all of the Jewish thieves gradually left the surrounding areas, retreating either to the lands on the Elbe or further, through Mecklenburg, to Poland. There it was Westphalia, but here the Duchy of Warsaw, two Children of the state of usurpation, whose young organic life nature was still far too weak to protect the civil interests against dangery to protect the soil, or even just to protect one's own soil against the to protect against foreign weeds.

In Westphalia, every foreigner, whoever he was or whatever he was,

was allowed to settle anywhere and acquire Westphalian citizenship, provided he was reasonably legitimized by a morals certiycate, and a certain sum, to establish a business. What name he chose for himself, and what corner of the earth he saw fit to claim as his homeland, was a secondary matter left entirely to his discretion, only asked about as much as was necessary to complete the city's population list.

It was never considered necessary to provide even a few such details.

to be further identified through official investigations. The worst crook, the most dangerous, however, always has, as is well known, the best credentials of honesty, and is, even more usually provided with sums of money, especially those which he only pretends to needs to show, without proving their real and lawful possession to know; and to demand both of him means, in essence, as good as not making any demand at all. – In addition, the settlement of the crooks, already so easy under such circumstances, was made difficult in some places by ignorance and perhaps also by the properties of the mayor were made even more easy, and these were then completely flooded with all kinds of bad things

Abandoned to the ignoble rabble. Many a small town on the Elbe, through the character of its inhabitants, still provides an only too clear indication of the neglect of its former authorities. But even the higher government authorities, through too easy an examination of individual moral worth, only too often opened the door to the establishment of criminality. In vain, in contrast, were the rational against the loyal efforts of individual, clear-sighted prefects who more correctly assessed the situation and who, formerly Prussian district councillors, had entered the service of foreign views did not fit the government policy of the newly created state, whose basic tendency was the greatest possible increase of its subjects: acquisition exercise was.

But if things were so in that, the most beautiful part of Germany, the focal point of material civilisation in itself

the Westphalian Empire, on how much greater a scale must such and similar abuses have developed in the so-called Duchy of Warsaw, that fruit of the circulating whim of a conqueror

The crossing of the Warta by the French armies, in the wake of the disastrous Battle of Jena was also the signal for the re-overthrow of the Prussian government, with much effort, barely established civil organization in this country, and the involuntariness of all civil relations, the lack of respect for the laws, increased to a greater degree than in Poland remained a theater of war and a prey to the soldiers.

140

The peace treaties, established in blind imitation of French forms,

Courts and correctional tribunals (or police correction courts, as they were called) were in the confusion of the times, soon becoming an arbitrary power, no longer bound by any law. They punished the violent burglar with a beating and let him go, while investigations into thefts often lasted for years!" Of course, there could be no question of the security of the prisons or transports; and so it came about that in modern times the Duke of Waryschau the real home of the crooky and scoundrel

The small-town mayors, or mayors, as they liked to call themselves, who were left to independently manage the police, were only too often in collusion with the criminal rabble and saw nothing with their open eyes.

And so it was only natural that the crooks and

Machine Translated by Google

Jewish scoundrels fled when they were driven from their former stomping grounds and saw their supporters of their illegal existence destroyed there; all the more so since most of them were native to Poland. When, through the Peace of Paris in 1814, the provinces on the Elbe and on the Netze and Warta were reunited with the Prussian state, our government had to take over the legions of scoundrels and scoundrels who had established their headquarters in those parts of the country during the foreign rule.

Leaving behind their former vagrant life, they had hastened to take up residence in towns and villages everywhere, and although they only succeeded in doing so through fraud and corruption, they still had the advantage that their once-acquired rights could not be disturbed upon reoccupation, even if the government had become aware of their moral worthlessness.

The situation was similar, at least in terms of effect, elsewhere, and so it came about that the Jewish yic crooks, far more than their Christian colleagues, have taken up permanent residence everywhere. Barely a quarter of them are, as they call it, wandering around the Medina without a homeland

*) Such judicial extremes were very common during the Duchy of Warsaw's time, and I even found some old records about them. Thus, in 1808, the police courts in G— seized three people who

the property stolen through forced entry (several thousand thalers).

The Jewish thieves were punished with 90 lashes. They were then led out of the gate, where they each received 10 lashes, and were then free to go!

15

around, while only three decades ago perhaps the opposite was the case and the number of those who had a fixed place of residence was extremely large. At the same time, however, this provides compelling evidence of how much this class of criminals considered the acquisition of a domicile to be appropriate to their interests. And indeed, the advantages that accrue to them by doing so, if one can thereby avoid the constant personal insecurity and the incessant police persecution which the homeless person is exposed to simply because of his homelessness, are also so obvious that they cannot require a discussion. Incidentally, in Prussia the Hery duchy of Magdeburg with the Altmark on one side, and the Grand Duchy of Posen on the other hand, those provinces where the most and most dangerous, often already for a long series of years

notorious crooks who have been in public for decades

figural in public writings as the most daring criminals, or were themselves members of terrible Jewish gangs that formerly operated in Western Germany.

The level of moral worthiness on which the all too numerous Jewish population of the Grand Duchy

Poyen was, and to a large extent still is, is from the State government has been recognized, in the case of reestablishment of a legal ical condition in this province, in that until a few years ago it remained completely excluded from the ability to earn

exercise of civil rights, or to operate a home-based business

bes; but the situation is not exactly the same with the Duchy of Magdey burg and the Altmark. The Jews living here, no less numerous, enjoy all the advantages of the edict of 1812, are legally qualified for state and municipal citizenship, and whoy

Machine Translated by Google

which they are permitted to engage in door-to-door trading, as long as they report their crimes and punishments to the cognition of their local district and local authorities to withdraw them. But why is it necessary to first say that public and private security can not be more seriously endangered than by crooks with a house patent in their pockets!

It would nevertheless be wrong to reproach the government for this, since no one could have foreseen what criminal act

The Jewish population on the other side of the Elbe grew during the few years of foreign rule. What can be achieved through strictness and vigilance to combat the criminal activity

To keep down the scoundrels and villains of that province, this is now certainly happening, at least on the part of the higher administrative and police authorities.

One could certainly say that it is indeed a good thing, and must contribute significantly to reducing the mischief of professional crooks and scoundrels, that a large number of them have withdrawn from the vagrant life and become members of certain localities; however, this would still be a great error. The relationship

would be a sensible, fine effects would only be good, if those fundamental criminals, through their habituation to certain residential areas places, at the same time a legal way of life would have been devoted.

But they have remained what they were, and have even found their homes
ter infected with moral corruption, continued to abuse their children to educate them to be crooks, and now, if possible, they are still in dangery more so than in their previous vagrant life. If it is true what is said about wolves, that they only ing from their cave, the swindling Jews pursue a similar policy. In their homes, they generally appear to be honest people, but each of their excursions is a raid.

If, by the way, the crooks of Christian descent appear in many different forms, for example as scissor-grinders, kettle-men, organ-pimps, olitay tenkramer yc. wander around the country, the Jewish scoundrel and vagabond almost always appears only in the sole guise of a merchant. Even if he did not have a passport that fully legitimized him as suchy mirte, he would only be telling the strictest truth by naming action as his source of income, since action is nem linguistic idiom is synonymous with stealing. The low Any number of Jewish scoundrels who are still without a home in the worldly nor do they, like Christian scoundrels and tramps, bring with them the obstacles to their careers: wives and children; but rather, they have their defeats, as they call them, with trusted people or Kochemers in certain places where the police are not particularly strict, and are only visited there from time to time by their upright heads of families.

Far more than the Christian people, the Jewish people are also in contact with each other; and although this connection is not really regulated, it is nevertheless a union that is based on common arises from social principles. Wherever Jewish people meet, and had not seen each other earlier in their lives, they become chawers (comrades) and steal together. With a few exceptions

However, the Jewish crooks also found their way throughout Germany land knew each other, although not always personally, but ge:

Machine Translated by Google

Know their name, specifically their nickname. Everyone receives such a nickname as soon as they enter the practical life of a thiev.

It is either borrowed from a certain life event, such as: Baroch with the light, Leibchen with the hole, Itzig Mühlenmacher ye., or from a physical disability, such as Meyerchen Fuchs, Schmul chen Parrach (Patzkopf), BlindyLeibchen yc., or the name of the birthplace of the scoundrel, as: Julchen Balberty, Hirschgen Neubriick Yc., or finally, among the Jews, it is formed either by the mere Hebrew pronunciation of the circumcision name or by combining the first name of the scoundrel with that of his father, and one of the two, usually the last ren, which add the syllable "chen", e.g. Zimchens Mauche, Baer-chens Baroch, which means: Moyes, son of Simon, Baroch, son of Baer.

The closer connection between the Jewish scoundrels also follows from the fact that they only marry among themselves.

The cases of the opposite are extremely sparing, because the marriage

a Wittychen in every respect a mealliance for the Gau ner is. His wife or pimp") must be initiated into the mysteries of swindling.

She must know, if the man is arrested, what she has to do to stop the man accused of

to avert the suspicion; it must investigate the remaining clues

ren of his crimes, must above all be the case before

Expose stolen goods, buy witnesses to prove the alibi, and so on. If the crook is convicted, he must not tire of asking the authorities for relief with affidavits.

reduction of punishment, to offer the sovereign a pardon

ytorn, in which Yer-serving consuls yt themselves in description of Jamy merycenen practice, wife and children as the innocent victims of a misy the resignation (!) of the husband and father. – One is filled with righteous indignation when one sees the number of cases where in such a way the most disreputable district, which has long since been condemned to penal servitude, ner is actually granted a reduced sentence simply because no one suspected what a die-hard, incorrigible criminal he was! –

Incredibly, it is, by the way, what a tangle of kinship these mutual marriages have brought together; through a phylogenetic

| dare to prove that at least a few hundred of the most notorious Jewish scoundrels living today belong to a single family

They correspond with each other, share opportunities for theft, and commit them jointly. The fairs in Leipzig, Frankfurt a. O., Franky

Furth a. M. and Braunschweig, no matter how active the police are in these places, especially in Leipzig, are the central points of their criminal activities. There they meet, disrupt trade fair traffic, exchange plans for the future, and finally

ous communities for further thieving enterprises. More or less all larger markets also find their gathering places.

To confess nothing, they fall into the hands of the law, this is, moreover,
the main rule of their life, to which they adhere with unbending stubbornness.
The Jewish scoundrel is unsurpassed in this, and nothing can compare to the agility and cunning with which he escapes from an investigation.

*) Since the Jewish thieves, at least the majority, have given up their former vagrant _ life, and members of villages

Machine Translated by Google

and communities, the once so common life of concubinage has now more or less reached its e them. By contemptuously calling the concubine a chonte (whore), their concept of honor has broadened. 5

knows how to lie. "If you have done something, deny it!" This is the basic principle around which the defense method of every real crook in court revolves. An object beytdiy

The object of their contempt, and even persecution, is the one who confesses in court.") But he who denies, who remains silent when he could betray his comrades, indeed, whoever prefers to be condemned to severe punishments alone rather than involve his accomplices in his fate, they call him brave; their children often point to him as a model example; they support him in prison, seek him out when he is released, and assign him the most lucrative ventures!

Germany's penal institutions have now, thank God!, progressed to the state that escape from them is, if not impossible, at least far more difficult than before. The cases

Criminals who manage to escape are becoming increasingly rare. Sadder, however, is the situation with prison security in some areas, especially when they belong to a private jurisdiction. However, one only shows the criminal the possibility of escape, and it would be strange if one did not soon see the reality of it. Once escaped,

However, the chances of recapturing a Jewish scoundrel are generally good. Anyone who takes the trouble to carefully read through the last ten years of the highly valuable "Mitteilungen zur Förderung der Sicherheitspflege" (Communications for the Promotion of Security) will come across the remarkable fact that of all during this ten-year period

yt period, behind the warrants issued for Jewish criminals, only a little more than a third dealt with so far: a clear

ful proof of the great caution and cunning with which the discoverer

kung Yich evade, for the protection and assistance that is willingly provided to them by Cheyyen and non-Cheyyen Jews everywhere.

N It is established that almost nine-tenths of the Jewish thieves now living in Germany belong more or less to the sex tern, who have been notorious since ancient times, whose tribey trees only prove robbers and thieves. This alone only explains

ye also the dangerous caste spirit, which, the longer the more, uny

ter them is naturalized, and they become a closed society in the state, invincible enemies legal institutions

) In the past, the life of a Slichner, upon his return to freedom, was seriously endangered Anyone who betrayed his comrades or cheated them out of stolen goods was usually marked, a punishment for him, but as a warning to others. If you see a scoundrel with a cut scar on you can usually count on him having come from a Kochem criminal court. He has been cut, of would have been a completely different person.

a familiar expression for it. 6 N

This is no longer the case. The scoundrel is simply despised by the scoundrels; they avoid company and are more than happy to deceive him again, that is, to betray him, or otherwise

19

Machine Translated by Google

makes. The word "fellow citizen" is unknown to them, because they have only comrades and followers; they have no neighbor and therefore no duties towards him. The damage to the wealthy third party, likewise much, whether he is a Christian or a Jew, is their constant aim, and its achievement is the eccentric center on which their rude existence is based. N

If, by the way, one wants to emphasize in historical sequence the characteristics that give living testimony to the continued existence of the Jewish gang of thieves in the German country, of the great community

yharmfulness of his criminal activities and actions, yince Zerypryeny

ung of the former Jewish thieves' gangs on the Rhine, one must first mention an investigation (against Benjamin Joseph and Gey noyyen) which from 1816 to 1818 against a group of 19 peopley

yonce existing Jewish gang of thieves was led to Kayel, and offered such important and instructive moments that in their wake the inquiring judicial officer, Kurheyyische Criminal Court Ayyeyyor Schweny

ken, published a work in 1820), in which the enormous number of 650 notorious, all Jewish, scoundrels is portrayed. – Three years later, the

Royal Bavarian Policey

Commissarius Stuhlmiuller, as head of the forced labor institution in Playyenburg, no less important news"), not only about the mischief of Jewish crooks in general, but also about individual members of this criminal caste, (total 239) in particular out, – information which was the painstaking result of a police investigation conducted by him, and the resulting confessions of several professional Jewish thieves. From the year 1824 to 1827, a man from Celle in Hanover

The investigative commission initiated proceedings against a large Jewish gang of criminals, particularly against one under the name Korny

jokuf, a very notorious matador, which also gave rise to a document published by the Royal Hanoverian Amtsasseyyor Gieye in 1828, entitled

"Notes on 238 notorious, mostly Jewish, thieves." Finally, in 1824, the Grand Ducal Mecklenburg Wary was published Minalrath Wennmohs) in Bützow a document in which he, on the other hand, ) Notes on the most notorious Jewish crooks and scoundrels currently roaming around Germany and its outskirts, along with nauer Beychiibung ihbrer Peryon yc., by CPT Schwenken, Kurheyyische Kriminalgerichtsy Ayyeyyor. Marburg und Kayyel, 1820. N

) Full news about a police investigation against juydiy che, spread throughout Germany and its neighbouring countries den 2c., by Karl Stuhlmüller, Royal Bavarian Police Commissioner, 1823.

er) Archival notes on a number of scoundrels and vagabonds in Germany, by GL Gieye, Royal Hanoverian Official Assessor. e, 1 ; 8 Rs + Wennmohs. About crooks and about the most expedient, rather

The only means of eradicating this evil. Schwerin, .

20

his own remarks about the evil of swindling, and also the life stories of some swindlers sentenced to Butzow, but without writing about the swindling itself, especially with regard to Meckleny

burg, to spread a new light. N

Machine Translated by Google

How public security may have previously stood in the Prussian state is not sufficiently known; at least the author has not been able to find sources from which a reasonably accurate judgment on this point could be drawn. Therefore, even if no comparison can be made with the present and subsequent periods in this regard, it is nevertheless undeniably true that since 1814, with the reoccupation of the Elbe Province and the Grand Duchy of Posen, swindles and other

055 Thefts, especially cash register break-ins, became more prevalent than ever.

In the course of 1815, a company of Jewish thieves belonging to the former Duchy of Warsaw was arrested in Liegnitz in Silesia, and in the following year in Memel, after many efforts and brought to court for several burglaries. Both investigations lasted several years, and their results niyye made it highly likely that a far branched Jewish gang of crooks exists, whose central point is the Greaty Duchy of Poyen. All attempts, however, to follow these ramifications

Attempts to track down the culprits failed due to the cunning and stoic persistence of the captured criminals. Nevertheless, the investigation conducted in Memel had already yielded enough results to clear the thieves arrested there of the suspicion of being members of a widespread ten thieves' gang fine, only ab instantia acquitted.

Even more compelling suspicions about the existence of a Jewish criminal network in the country were provided by two other investigations Investigations conducted in 1820, simultaneously in Frankfurt am Main and Magdeburg, against a significant number of thieving Jews. But here, too, the light of justice was unable to illuminate the mystical darkness, and both proceedings ended.

without achieving a satisfactory result in this main matter

ren. Only the investigation opened in Berlin in 1831 (wiy

It was reserved for Lowenthal and his companions to solve this problem, as will be seen in more detail from their presentation.

And so the Jewish crooks still flourish in our civilized and policed

Germany as before, and carry out their misy yen continues with almost increased force: a scourge of society whose laws they do not recognize. To Hungary")

) Almost without exception, all Jewish thieves who have fled to the Austrian states, especially to Hungary, since the year 1815

. have been escaped from prisons and penitentiaries, or who have been validity was on the heels. But here they have established a second Poland, has set up branch gangs of 4 to 5 members (Chawruses), and are withdrawing and Holland") they have already propagated themselves and their unalterable principles, and the fertility of their marriages only contributes to multiplying

21

their number. Their, almost to the unbelievable yenhanced induġtrial skills, what can it help?

fen, in order to avert dangers, so that one can pay attention to ically focused on external security, that the locksmith is often forced to waste all his skill in protecting movable property within one's own four walls against theft? A nail, or even a piece of wire or string, is usually sufficient for them to open even the most artificial lock, and with the ychliyyel, this actual passe-partout, make them completely all

Machine Translated by Google

Calculations of technology, all caution is wasted. Only in this refinement of their criminal activity, only in this alone, and nowhere else, do they find themselves advanced with civilization a fact that is confirmed to the point of evidence by every feature of their everyday lives

They will never be able to complete their commit more violence against people than ever before, even when they see themselves attacked. Wherever a person moves, where a dog barks, which they cannot get at with poison (poison, as it is called in thieves' language), they avoid the Postponing the execution of their plan to a more convenient time. However, because of the tempting loot, their constant attention is paid to public treasury attention, and where these are stolen, one will mostly partly also be able to assume with great certainty that Jewish regions near the perpetrators. 6

I will find an opportunity to characterize this class of criminals, especially as regards their various theft maxims, in the following historical narrative of the investigation concerning uncovering the tactics of the Jewish Gauy

ner, and later, in the language of the same, to yuppeditiren, to which I must therefore refer in order to avoid repetition.

and to themselves on robberies, and also spare the neighboring states,

Russia and Saxony, with their thieving activities. A whole number of the Jewish thieves near Bohemia and Hungary are, in the investigation conducted here, accomplices, many of whom commit crimes jointly with them.

accused of burglaries and thefts. Who knows where it comes from that in

In recent times, as the newspapers report, even in Constantinople, thievery has increasingly taken over. The followers of Muhammad have probably hardly advanced far in European civilisation yet. — and place of residence. That they are, however, actually of German origin, even if perhaps born in Holland, is evident from the fact that they are all fluent in the German language.

*) From the Netherlands, the Rhine provinces and the whole of southwestern Germany are continually plagued by Jewish, especially pickpockets, who, strangely enough, almost all regard Amsterdam as their birthplace.

Historical presentation

the investigation against Moses Levin Lowenthal and company.

In large and populated cities, where many quarrels of many of people who live within a radius of a few miles, there will be

The limits of legality are, as is well known, only too easily exceeded, without the transgression always being immediately followed by punishment.

Crimes of all kinds, such as can only thrive in the atmosphere of large cities, arise there and begin to lose some of their heinousness in the eyes of the masses, the more often they recur and sink into everyday life. Crimes against property security are particularly commonplace, for the great mother offers opportunities to cunning thieves and pickpockets.

who constantly offers their helping arms. Among the large crowd of inhabitants, the individual easily disappears. Even the most notorious thief knows that he shares his bad reputation with hundreds of his peers and, in this awareness, finds

Machine Translated by Google

Drive a feeling of security that makes him all the more dangerous the longer he manages to avoid legal punishment.

One can therefore with little justification blame the authorities when one sees how public safety in large cities is increasingly particularly worried. It is with much justification assume that the police violations which deeply interfere with the state's interests administration, as is actually the case, will be best organized precisely in those places occupy a more significant position in the structure of the state. Is it even possible

If it is possible to stop the sources that give rise to these evils, this is at least not the power of the police authorities, as experience has sufficiently demonstrated. Just look around in the capitals of Europe; almost all of them suffer from this disease of civilization. Even Paris, with its famous, well-staffed police force, is it not known that it is precisely that the most daring yet thefts are excercitated? Which systems have been applied, none has yet led to a reasonably efficient

23

5 It is ridiculous to talk about a preventive police force in large cities if one understands this to mean the actual prevention of crimes.

breaking, especially crimes against property. As long as the thief has a reputation for it is, as long as he has not fallen into the hands of punitive justice, the police have little over him; but with respect to the punished thief, it can only be called preventive as long as it keeps him in prison under lock and key. In the enjoyment of his freedom, all police supervision is truly of no use, even if this institution were within more precise and extensive limits. What serious help can it really do to deny a criminal, who, to use Gall's words, perhaps has a thieving streak, who, out of principle and inclination, goes to war against the property of the looted, a passport, if one compels him to report regularly to the police at a certain time?

Can one use these means to neutralize him, can one thereby prevent the crimes he intends to commit? Our age could congratulate itself on seeing a preventive police force of this kind within its bosom, for only then could a social condition perhaps be brought about that the of all police authorities cannot make possible, because their purely human moral powers are not based on omniscience.

It is not enough, however, that the inhabitants of large cities are already excessively harassed by the vices that are rampant in their midst, by criminal individuals whose birth are being violated.

demand social tolerance and make them a permanent local evil, – but foreign rabble also er the barriers against them, which is so Yo dangerous for the interests of the property owne

more profitable, the faster it disappears again when its laws adverse plans have been fully or partially implemented.

Like the enchanted mountain in the fable, the capital of a country is the constant magnet attraction for all classes

yen of residents and non-residents; but this is especially true with regard to adventurers soldiers of fortune, to mischievous

2) | do not wish to be misunderstood. | am only speaking here of large cities. | will retu the fact that, in general, the travel of scoundrels and thieves is not only not to be app is also one of the most essential means of transportation for their criminal purposes. f c

Machine Translated by Google

In Berlin, by the way, there are always an average of 6–7000 individuals available for pay official supervision. It is obvious how extremely difficult, indeed almost impossible, special control must be here. Thieves in Berlin don't travel like scoundrels in the provinces. In the city itself, they find only too wide a field for their activity, and the the passport restriction doesn't apply to them at all.

24

Crooks and thieves are the case. No police authority, not even the guardsy

ayate not, can inhibit their continuous onslaught, can it prevent many of them from succeeding in circumventing even the strictest controls and secretly establishing themselves where their obscure existence is not subject to police leniency; and this can surprise no one who knows what miserable resources are available to these people almost everywhere.

Supposedly, the person who has been damaged in his property then looks at the Poy lizei; their efforts are fruitless, for the perpetrator has long since left the city with his loot, where perhaps an unworthy member of society had hidden him from the eye of the law.

That's how it is everywhere, and that's how it has been in Berlin since time immemorial. Without the strange claim of a certain police officer, ical newspaper that 6,000 crooks and thieves were roaming the streets, it is certain that the number of those here is not small, who, unimproved by any punishment, are always hostile to public security. Thefts and thieves

Deceptions occur daily, and violent, especially persecutiony

Key thefts play a significant role in this").

Nevertheless, it can be said that the people living in Berlin themselves lying thieves, as long as they are descended from Christian parents, in the universey common less dangerous; not as if daring could be attributed to themy

But they lack those qualities that characterize only the crook, which enable him to evade the penal justice system, often for years. While the latter only targets valuable loot, the former steal whatever falls into their hands, primarily items of clothing, which they then usually carelessly sell or pawn, thereby bringing about their own discovery. Therefore, it is a fact that cases in Berlin are rare where crimes of this kind are committed without our active police being able to quickly identify the perpetrators.

But it was all the more striking when a time appeared when the public

no longer saw this reassuring perception confirmed, when a mysterious darkness enveloped the most daring crimes, which were committed both in broad daylight and at night, and in ytant progreyyion, the security of property is always threatenedy more serious than the similarity of the execution, the magnitude of the violence often used, and the fact that all those

Thefts only targeted public and private treasuries, a systematic conspiracy of not ordinary thieves

*) In 1836 (which can be considered a normal year for the last 10 years), 2864 thefts were committed in Berlin, of which about a third remained uninvestigated. In the city jail

10,600 arrests were made, and 1,623 criminals were handed over to the criminal court and taken for investigation.

Machine Translated by Google

25

documented, whose investigation had surpassed all efforts of the police. The office did not succeed. This period began around the year 1826 and lasted until the beginning of 1831, when it was finally possible to discover the threads that led to a principal criminal who had spread through a large part of the country.

On 1 January 1826, the Russian resident and caviar dealer Sokolow using a backup key for the sum of 6000 Rthlr. in Ruyyichen Vankysignations stolen. The Aus.

The theft was carried out in a way that only the

The most precise local knowledge seemed to make it possible; and therefore the suspicion was directed towards the servant of the damned man, who Investigation and detention, and under the weight of the circumstances against him, was only provisionally acquitted, whether his complete innocence became apparent later, although only after years,

Despite all public announcements, not the slightest trace of the easily recognizable stolen goods appeared.

With this theft, the criminal round seemed to have begun, which, with increasing audacity, trampled on the rights of property throughout more than an entire decade. In the same year

In the same way, various thefts were committed here, among which two, from the cloth merchants Lébedank and Windaus, amounting to approximately 2,500 thalers, stood out in particular. This continued at short intervals until 1830, when the various borrowed criminals it primarily on the Comtoire of the local booky dealers seemed to have been targeted, as many of them were plagued by night-time break-ins during the course of this year.

the one among others robbed: g

1) the bookstore Eichö and Kraut here, on 10 January 1830, around 100 thalers;

2) the Oehmigke bookstore, on March 31st, for 500 thalers; 3) the Nauck bookstore, on May 10th, for 40 thalers;

4) the Schleyinger'sche bookshop, on May 23rd, for 46 thalers; 5) the Trautwein'sche bookshop, on October 20th, for 180 thalers yc.

The total amount of such thefts, which only occurred during

The number of crimes committed here during the year 1830, and whose perpetrators could not be identified, amounted to 38, for the enormous sum of approximately 9000 thalers. All of them were either by means of keys or by cutting out the panels from the room doors, from which one could conclude with certainty that the perpetrators were highly skilled and very familiar with the thieving trade.

Among these crimes, one in particular caused a very special sensation. This was the one committed on the night of December 23, 1830

»in the Quayturkayye of the local Royal University with astonishingly Burglary and theft carried out with great boldness and violence
Amount of 2300 thalers gold and currency, for the execution

26

no fewer than 8 doors and 2 iron-clad yellow boxes had been broken.

Machine Translated by Google

In this crime, too, all the competing circumstances seemed to presuppose a very precise local knowledge on the part of the perpetrator, or rather the perpetrators, because that if there were more than one, there could be no doubt about that, given the degree of violence used.

This presupposition was apparently so obvious that the activity of the police, now stimulated to an even greater extent, if possible, licensing officials were even misled for a while, believing that the perpetrators of the theft could only be found among those persons who had local knowledge of the Quaeysturkaye.

Unfortunately, some innocent people were again aroused by greater or lesser suspicion; however, this was fortunately only temporary, and without anyone's reputation being damaged.

However, the following facts were reported, and their investigation shed more light on the darkness surrounding the criminals.

Shortly before the theft in the university quayside, the merchant Sobernheim had been robbed of several hundred

Thaler, and shortly afterwards, the vicious Nikolai's bookstore was robbed for 1400 Thaler in a very similar manner. Around the time of the commission of these crimes, two foreign Jews were observed in Berlin, who were found to be the Nelky brothers, Elias from

Magdeburg, and Levin from Wolmirstadt. This entry was, however, of no small importance, for it provided the police operations with a basis which they had completely lacked until then. One was now led to the suspicion that the thief was dealing with Jewish thieves, and indeed with foreigners, and in order to achieve successful measures, it seemed necessary above all to investigate the connections which these probably maintained in this place.

Since 1829, the man from Firytenberg in Mecklenburg, known as a fraudster with false precious items (Nephty per) well-known Jewish merchant Moses Levin Léuthal, whose expulsion by the police had always been hindered by special circumstances. He was, as inquiries revealed, on the same evening that the theft occurred at the merchant Sobernheim

was seen in the company of the Nelky brothers, and from this, as well as from many other facts obtained by the police, one was justified in concluding that he was on very close terms with them.

Léwenthal had already acquired the reputation of a key thief during his stay in Berlin),

) He was arrested twice during the year 1830 on suspicion of being a key

27

It was also secretly learned from him that he was also a scout (Baldower) who was the Loy

He often visits the place he intends to steal from for weeks and months in advance in order to scrutinize the location and only carries out the deed when he is sure that no one is talking about him anymore.

All these circumstances prompted the police officers, a few days after the break-in at the Nikolai's Bookstore, to summon the local book dealers to a conference on January 21, 1831. They were informed of the suspicions against Löwenthal, as well as a personal description of him that was as accurate as possible.

Machine Translated by Google

which had the result that several of the robbed booksellers actually claimed to have had seen the person in their company several times to have seen, which they would also be able to recognize.

The police officers then considered a search of Löwenthal's house to be justified, and so they carried out the search early the following morning, January 22, 1831.

The Löwenthal household consisted, besides him, of his wife Fanny, the daughter of a man from Vetsche in the Grand Duchy of

The deceased scoundrel from Poyen, named Kunstmann; his extremely cunning, now notorious, 11-year-old son, Louis; and a maid named Fratchen, the daughter of a very notorious thief, Hirsch Moses Hirschberg, known as Brodbar, from Potsdam. The qualitative value of this entire personality was sufficiently known to the police officers to permit them to proceed with the greatest possible caution in their investigation.

The first thing that the Criminal Commissioners notice when entering the Löwenthal's apartment was that he was in his housey

Red beech wood was burning. This was very indifferent

This circumstance was given particular importance by the fact that a wooden wedge had been in the premises of the robbed quaeyturkaye, which, according to well-known experience, they usually use when it comes to forcibly opening locked doors.

This wedge (called a rug in thieves' language) was also made of red beech wood. Under the prevailing circumstances, this must have been, subjectively speaking, a very serious incident.

Löwenthal was found in the room next to the kitchen. He was busy with his breakfast and was not in the least disturbed by the entry of the police officers. He was initially in possession of a considerable amount of weapons.

He had been under investigation for theft, but both times he was acquitted, the first time second time completely. However, he had already been punished several times for fraud.

28

renystocks. Requested to evaluate their legal acquisitiony

white, he went into an adjoining room, where he took out of the pocket of his white hanging overcoat, in the presence of the officials, a Nechy

tion, with which, however, he evidently still leached out something that he strove to hide dressing gown.

When this was immediately pointed out to him, he stubbornly denied it and, despite all friendly representations, was unable to hand over the hidden item.

When the police officers tried to take possession of him by force, Löwenthal's wife rushed assistance.

He gave her two lock picks, one of which was broken, but the other, his own make, was still uny was completed. Only with great effort was it possible to take the two thieving instruments from the married Löwenthal. Her behavior

She appeared no less compromised than her husband, and to prevent further disturbances during the continuation of the visit, she was therefore placed in criminal arrest.

Machine Translated by Google

Continuing the research, it was not possible for a long time to know to penetrate further suspicious circumstances or rather the already existing suspicion from supporting circumstances; until the attention of the police officers finally turns to one in the window niche

the flowerpot, which was filled with earth in which stood a flowering plant.

When Löwenthal was asked what this flowerpot contained, he visibly changed color, but explained that there was nothing but earth in it.

The police officers had good reasons to intervene in this gave rise to mistrust, and when Löwenthal saw that someone was preparing to smash the pot in his presence, he admitted that there was money in the pot, namely 80 Louis d'or.

The pot was then actually smashed. Inside, in a rag frozen to the ground, was found:

29 double, 15 single, and 12 half Friedrichsd' or.

How this money had come into the flowerpot, Löweny wanted to know. He couldn't specify the exact amount, but assured me that he had owned it for a long time, for years. Laughing, he added: "Just keep searching, and more money will surely turn up."

Löwenthal was now also placed under criminal arrest.

With striking urgency, he expressed his desire that at least one of his entourage be allowed to remain in the apartment, but this request was refused by the police officers to any possible obscuration of this important matter. It soon became clear how extremely expensive this would be.

moderate this was. For when Löwenthal's maid, the 29

When the aforementioned Fraulein Hirschberg was taken away for arrest, she found an opportunity, unnoticed by her transporter, to whisper a few words to the daughter of a neighboring tenant. These, however, contained nothing less than the news that under one of the doors in the hallway, under the door, she found a purse with gold, which the married Lowenthal, upon her capture, had slipped her. The purse was found under the door, and contained 64 Louisd'ors, as well as a coupon for a spa treatment at the Brandenburg mortgage bonds, which, as it turned out, had been stolen during the theft at the Nicolai bookstore. — A compelling proof of the caution and energy required when house searches are carried out, especially in the case of cautious and cunning criminals.

Lowenthal, to reVults.

Further research in the Lowenthal apartment did not yield any remarkable results; only a completely new key was found hidden in a birdcage (in the Diey besprache Taltel) and a chisel (scraper) were found.

The entire course of the visitation had made Löwenthal appear to be a trained thief who, in all probability, only supported his subsistence, which was almost luxurious for a thieving trade, from his nightly earnings. In particular, his involvement in the thefts in the university bureaucracy seemed very strange and in the Nicolai'sche bookstore, there is no doubt

Machine Translated by Google

because the following suspicions spoke almost evidently against him:

1. The above-mentioned wedge of red beech wood. The uny

Hirschberg recognized him in the scrutiny interrogations as a yuchen again, as Löwenthal had often carved.

In the early morning after the night in which the theft occurred in the UniversityyQuayturkayye (it was in the same Night fire) the Yc. Hirschberg found the Löwenthal already dressed when she entered her room and learned from him that he had been up all night.

3. On the same day, according to the assurances of Mrs. Hirschberg, Löwenthal had counted a lot of money, and the first-born's son, in childish talkativeness, told her: now his father was very rich, he had his pockets full of gold.

4. The bird found in the birdhouse in Lowenthal's apartment

This key, as it turned out, very easily closed the door of the vault in the crypt, in which the stolen money boxes yt yt stood.

5. Among the funds seized at Lowenthal

Several particularly recognizable gold pieces were found, namely a old French Louis d'or, which was issued by the attending officery

ten of the UniversityyQuayturkayye with the greatest deyciency recogy were noycirt.

6. Among the remaining traces of the substances used to break open the sealed containers in the QuasturkayyenyLocal

Among the thieves' instruments, many impressions originating from a narrow chisel were particularly distinguishable. Tests carried out showed that the chisel found in the birdcage in the Löwenthal apartment fit these impressions with surprising precision.

If one adds that both the theft in the Quaeyturkaye and in the Nikolai Bookstore consisted essentially of gold, that Lowenthal was found in possession of a very significant sum of this coin, as well as in possession of theft's tools, in a highly suspicious manner that he was also in possession of an interest coupon admittedly stolen from the Nicolai Bookstore, his authorship of both crimes could not be in doubt for a moment. He could not easily escape without punishment. Even if he held fast to the principle of non-ȳ adopted by all professional thieves

Admittedly, with such evidence, he had to have a high degree of extraordinary ordinary punishment; and this was therefore one of those rare cases where denial can be of no help to the accused criminal.

Machine Translated by Google

Léwenthal may have considered this carefully in his leisure time in prison. In a confidential conversation, which he requested from the inquirer the day after his arrest, declared that although in Berlin, as well as in some provinces of the Prussian state, a gang of thieves existed that was in contact with each other and constituted a clique, he would only give no further information about it, but would also say even less about how

as long as he himself is involved, unless he has previously been promised
He made the same statement for the court record on January 27.

Given the extreme importance of the subject,
tenth of the investigative court on the same day to the Kéy

Royal Ministry of Justice reported, and already on January 31, a Supreme Cabinet Order was issued, according to which

Löwenthal should be exempted from all the thefts he had committed or had participated in, if he, through a full confession of his crimes, identified his accomplices in such a way that at least an extraordinary punishment could be imposed on him, and if he does not subsequently commit new crimes or offenses, the punishment for the previous ones given to him which then falls away, makes him unworthy of pardon.

After the publication of this Most High Order, Lowenthal assured everyone that he would now tell the truth everywhere. He undeniably had, from all sides, the most urgent reason to do so, and the later discovery that he had his actions and his confessions were, however, anything but fulfilling this obligation.

31

The oaths made by Löwenthal in the pardon order and initially concerned the thefts mentioned several times in the Quayturkayye and in the Nicolai'sche Bookstore, which were subsequently committed by him in association with other Jews from Berlin and the Altmark. He also brought 37 violent thieves thefts, of which only 6 were committed without his active assistance, for the cognition of court, and accused more than 30 people, all Jews, of participating in these crimes. The 14 accomplices who had their domicile in Berlin itself were immediately arrested, the necessary requisitions were issued for the arrest of the remaining accused living outside the rest of the city, and for the same purpose as for the retention of the necessary funds

For the purpose of investigation, with the approval of the Royal Police Authority, two experienced police officers were sent to the administrative district of Magdeburg from February 9 to 27, 1831. Lowenthal was assigned to assist them in this task, so that he too could have the opportunity to fulfill the conditions of his pardon, and in particular, so that he could be back to life.

help us do something good.

As far as this commission trip had a task, as it was within the limits of an in itself

important and extensive investigation which, of whose later exemplifying extent no one had yet foreseen, so far was this task made possible by the results

the mission was resolved most satisfactorily. Significant seizures men, among them of stolen goods, and 9, of lionsy

thal, very dangerous thieves were arrested and taken to Bery lin into criminal arrest. Only two criminals, the later resurrected Louis or Levin Nelky, the still fugitive Samuel Moses Sachse, managed to escape when they returned from a thieving trip on February 15th, in Magy

deburg should be arrested.

The 37 violent thefts which Lowenthal had committed up to that point had stood, were, with few exceptions, exclusively in Bery

lin happened. Only when Löwenthal with the commiyyion of Magy deburg, his real revelations about the local

A thieving traffic, whose hidden activities had endangered public safety for almost six years and had thwarted all police measures. Before proceeding further with the historical findings of the investigation itself, it might therefore be of interest to first take a cursory look at the workings of that hopeless machine.

Löwenthal himself affirmed that he had only been practicing the trade of thieving since 1828, because by profession he was actually only a Nepper (fraudster) and not a Gannew (thief).

32

It is certain that when Löwenthal first came to Berlin in the year mentioned, the local thieves' club (called Chawrus in thieves' language) had already been organized. Unfortunately, its main founders and most active promoters were individuals who enjoyed the confidence of the authorities and who, in stark contrast to their previous lives, apparently sought to reform those who had been the companions of their former criminal career, the noyyen of their premature misdeeds. In a word: they were so-called vigilantes”).

According to the circumstances, her talents were used by the Poy licensing authority for the public good, ie for the determination of break and criminals, used.

One of these thief catchers, as they are known in some areas of Germany lands very correctly, was the one before the beginning of the Loy

Samuel Jonas, a Jew who died during the Wenthal investigation. Born in Rendsburg in Holstein, he had committed a number of crimes abroad, suffered various punishments for them, and finally, around the year 1816, smuggled himself into Berlin, where, through important security police services, he gained the trust of the authorities and received permission to live in Berlin.

To settle down. From his fruitful marriage with a woman person of the same blood”), 8 children were born, for whose future

tious moral well-being does not exactly change the existing conditions

Two of them were in fact already very active members of the Berlin Chawruse.

The other was a certain Joyeph Adolph Royenthal.

In 1820, he was arrested in Frankfurt am Main, along with many other thieves from the Grand Duke of Poyen, for several depository thefts. The first person to voluntarily confession, he had not only, by transferring his Comy plices, during that investigation itself acquired various claims to fair reconnaissances,

especially on occasions

Machine Translated by Google

ity of one, in the wake of that investigation, then after the Grand Dukey

the Security Commission sent to the Principality of Poyen, a yo tireless honest zeal, combined with convincing examples of moral conduct yeryung, so that his pardon seemed a well-deserved reward. Since then, he had also taken up residence in Berlin

1) Actual police vigilantes or agents, with permanent positions and salaries, do not exist and as far as is known, in the Prussian state at all; but there are people here—especially criminals themselves—who voluntarily engage in vigilance work and receive rewards for their contributions, provided they prove themselves.

Security police in all major towns need such people in order to avoid to discover remaining perpetrators of crimes; and to them, of course abovey anytenden, those two subjects also belonged.

*) Batchmer blood, as the Jewish crook yays very characteristically.

33

taken, until 1823 had rendered exceptionally good services in terms of security police, but then, by an exy

treme to the other, reconnected with his former accomplices in the thieves, first of all, to keep his secrecy and finally even took an active part in their crimes. One, with reference to his police ac

The public order he gave him, which he gave to ensure his constant legitimacy with the authorities, understandably contributed not a little to keeping him and his accomplices largely above suspicion. – 8 He and Samuel Jonas soon got along. Nevertheless, for several years, almost only members of the foreign thieves' chavrus contributed to them, because, strangely but still true, the great residence had not produced a single such individual from among the professed Jew who could have claimed the honorary title of cheyy or kochem. Only when several foreign Jews from Silesia and the Grand Duke of Posen, who, although thieves by profession, had the reputation of being unbelievers, yinfamy had retained, managed to settle in Berlin, the thieving traffic began here, until actual social development in 1828 with Löwenthal. In 192 of this year, the Chawruse or Chawruse as the thieves' guild itself called its association, consisted of the following

KMyonsennnnn 88 | N

1. Samuel Jonas, and his sons: une

2. Hartwig Jonas

3. Moritz Jonas 8

A. Joseph Adolph Noyenthaall. | |

5. Dirysch Salomon Wohlauser.: en... en

6. Joyeph Hirsch Horw.

7. lyrael Jacob Schache rr.

8. Moses Levin Léwent halal.

9. Aron Küttge. ee

Machine Translated by Google

10. Moses God-switch. .

11. lyidor Gottyschalkl . and several others who played a more negative role in this..

The participants in this thieves' society were bound neither by special oaths nor by any other than the general stipulation relation to each other, which in and of itself is yciency principle of all crooks, namely: not to betray each other; but it was a tacit association of a number of skilled thieves, and that such an association could only have theft as its aim, completely understood by Horwitz, Küttge and a certain Jewish student") were those who took less active part in the thefts to be carried out and were primarily used to scout for the opportunity (in thieves' language: baldowern).

34

In the latter way, the activity of the Roy was also expressed

Royenthal, who, in addition, as a police vigilante, also occupied a very important position in another respect, in that he not only did not betray the thieves, but also, with always successful success, tried to divert suspicion from them.

Finally, old Jonas's apartment was the real eny

Meeting place for the members of the Chawre. Here they came to to discuss thefts to be carried out and to look for thieves

to divide the property after the theft had been committed to take stolen goods (Intippel); in short, in a word, it was an establishment entirely of the same type and manner as in the flat country (on the Medina) the thieves' inns or soy called cheyyen skewers.

However, the pernicious society had also stipulated that Royenthal and old Jonas would always receive half a share of the proceeds of each theft that was carried out.

should hold; whereas a whole or full share was due only to those chawers from whom the perpetration emanated directly.

True to the usual maxim of cautious thieves, the members of the gang had given each other special social names (Spitz or Bauner). Thus, Royenthal was called the Fat One, Löwenthal the Humprecht, Wohlauser the Moustache, Schacher the lVrol Jokef, Moritz Jonas the Schnaratzky, and others. The false keys (Klamoniyy) were made partly by Hartwig Jonas, partly by a Schmidt from Betyche, a man to be mentioned later.

notorious thieving spots in the Grand Duchy of Poyen.

Not infrequently, one or more balancing dowerten thefts, (Mayyematten) foreign thieves from the number

A wealthy Léwenthal family was summoned here, who, immediately after the crime was committed, departed just as secretly as they had arrived. In the rare cases where the stolen goods consisted of something other than cash, they were hurriedly transported as far away from the scene of the crime as possible, usually to Löwenthal's brother in Magdeburg, who was responsible for its further placement with trusted buyers (sharp players). This explains why

Machine Translated by Google

that, despite all public announcements, nothing of the stolen goods ever came to light.

– It was this Jewish student in particular who had investigated the situation regarding the theft and informed the thieves.

35

This was roughly the structure of the Jewish thieves' society existing in Berlin, as revealed by the court records and the statements of the confessed participants. After this digression, we return to the further historical development of the investigation itself.

To further the cause and to obtain evidence

Löwenthal was released from arrest on May 11, 1831, at his urgent request, against legal bail. Through his continued confessions, he brought 28 more thefts, mostly violent, of considerable value, to the attention of the court, the facts of which could almost only be found outside the numerous rich, now and previously chastised, persons, also included the aforementioned police vigilante Joseph Adolph Royen thal. He was now again, accompanied by a security official, on a missionary mission to the Grand Duchy of Posen, in order to investigate an incident that had occurred in Ström-Schleswig.

A sensitive crime, and the related misconduct of various officials, who investigated the course of the case

to be given. 3 BR

The striking thing about such an order from such an individual himself, may be considered proof of how well he knew how to maintain a good appearance. His fate overtook him when he least expected it. In the midst of his truly successful activity, he was arrested and, along with several other defendants arrested in Bresche, taken to criminal detention in Berlin.

In addition, Neustadt Eberswalde and Joachim

Chimthal, by a Comrade sent in the company of Löwenthal himself, the arrest of two other co-accused, so that by the end of June 1831, 34 defendants were in arrest.

But all these people denied with the most persistent conviction injustice. At the time, they all had little more against them than the one-sided punishment of Löwenthal, which they had been around for years. They rejected it, as it could not remain unknown to them that this punishment arose from crimes which were the consequence of previously granted impunity. It could not be denied that Löwenthal's accusations remained without further supporting information.

that these, in legal terms, could result in little more than nothing against those punished was really serious

to fear imprisonment for the alleged nefarious acts of the investigation, if one suspected from those already arrested, by all appearances, a confession could never be expected, and nevertheless a not inconsiderable number of incriminated persons still remained to be arrested, all of whom were notorious scoundrels, in relation to their dishonesty and stubbornness in denial, were in the same category as these. But just when, under the pretext of pleasing

Auypicien, was busy appointing a commission to the Grand Dukey

Machine Translated by Google

the duchy of Poyen, in particular the already mentioned town

To expel Betsche, which should accompany Löwenthal to the Ayiytenz, gey when the investigation is carried out from a side where this is least 5 was justified in expecting, suddenly a completely different, more favorable, estalt ;

Among the indiy implied by Löwenthal's consents

The Jew Hirsch Salomon Wohlauser, who has already been mentioned as a member of the Berlin Chawruse, was also among those included. He had been investigated and imprisoned for key theft in the autumn of 1830, and was sentenced to a high extraordinary sentence.

convicted of a criminal offense, already sentenced to death under special articles vommen, when he was brought into this investigation as a result of Löwenthal's rebuke. An extremely clever man, matured in the school of illegal experiences, he had in several more confidential discussions with the inquirer, on very bey

He carefully hinted that he was capable of providing important information and would also be willing to do so if he were assured of the same advantages as Löwenthal. This could not happen. He then struggled with himself for a long time until other motives finally emerged.

which were stronger than his egoism.

Löwenthal was pardoned, but only on the condition of a full confession.
Nevertheless, he dared to conceal several of his relatives as accomplices in his crimes, apparently because he himself did not dream of the possibility that any of those he punished would ever confess, and

This could reveal his dishonesty. From the way

The astute Wohlauser soon drew this conclusion from the reproaches made to him. However, such a remark outraged him.

Léwenthal's hatred was all the more acute because he hated him not only as a traitor, but also as the creator of his particular misfortune. Therefore, he decided, for the first time in his life, to tell the judge the truth. On October 27, 1831, he made a frank confession to 54 violent thefts. Lowenthal's conviction and re-arrest were the immediate consequence.

Since this event, Wohlauser's efforts were primarily directed toward obtaining a confession from the aforementioned Joseph Adolph Royenthal. Only in this way, he said, would the important investigation be given its real impetus, and the wealth of results to be derived from it would be brought to the highest possible level. And how right he was has been proven by the consequences.

But in order to achieve that goal, the extremely turned and cautious Royenthal, who had just been in a 15 Boy During the long trial, the evidence of his innocence was recorded.

37

had given, urgent grounds for conviction were necessary, and these could only be supported by Wohlauser. He had, although during his

In his eventful life he had already fallen into the hands of the judiciary several times, had never made even the smallest confession, thereby gaining the unshakable reputation among his comrades that he would never confess, and had also enjoyed the support of the rosey

thal of a special trust). . |

It had been decided to try to Kasperei of Wohlauser, ie through a correspondence of the same

Machine Translated by Google

about the great mischievousness of this Wohlauser, about his perfect taky

tics in the misuse of his crimes, about the cunning and not infrequent avarice that he developed in moments that would otherwise have been dangerous for him, about this | could, from his life, as far as | could

I'll mention different moves. I'll limit myself to just two.

Once, in the year 1830, there was a man present at the fair, foreign linen merchant, who lived in a house in the Fiy

Scherstrasse had a fine warehouse. He went there to attempt a theft, with Lowentbal and Hortwig Jonas. With a spare key and a chisel in his pocket, he climbed up the stairs to the shopping center, leaving the latter two in front of the door, and found the door to it

He closed it, opened it, and, finding himself inside, stole approximately 62 thalers from drawer, which he had opened. As Eden was about to leave, the returning victim confronted him. "But tell me," he asked him, without the slightest embarrassment, "how could you be so careless! | came here to do some shopping and found the door open.

"You could have been robbed!" He then demands of the beytiiuyrzy

a piece of fine linen, paid for it with the stolen money and

He asks that he be sent to his lodgings at the Schwan Inn. He promises this and leaves. When the robbed man

When Wohlauser perceived the loss, he was long gone. m 2 ES

| Another time, Morik Jonas had shown him a map of a Jewish banker living on Jager Street. The banker, a stranger, was said to have a chest of money in his apartment.

He opened the door, as usual, using the key, and found the box ysten. But he had such a powerful castle that none of his neighborsy ychluyyyeln wanted to fit it. Considering that to such a lock a verbalylty

Because a key of the same size was too large for the owner to carry with him, he opened several containers and found the key in question in a drawer of the writing desk, but in t he opened, only 40 thalers. This did not meet his expectations. He therefore left the 40 thalers untouched, placed the key to the box back in its previous place, carefully relocked all the containers and the room door, and left with the intention and hope of returning soon and finding more. He actually came back three more times in the same way, but each time he found only 40 thalers in the box and left them there, so as not to be exposed to the masochists, as he says.

The fourth time, however, he found the box completely empty, and soon afterward he was arrested, otherwise he would probably have been arrested more often.

en vein. N 3 er

Five times so he had stolen the locked property of that banker without the latter having an idea of it. Who would not admire the skill of such a thief! E with his imprisoned accomplices, to extract a confession of guilt from them, which, given their character, seemed virtually impossible by other, conventional means. However, the first step was to be taken with Royenthal, and with the permission of the inquirer, Wohlauser wrote him a letter, which was passed to him by a stove-keeper and referred to a depository cash theft committed jointly by them in Guyow. The letter read as follows:

38

Machine Translated by Google

Friend R.

During my last interrogation, I was accused, among other things, of a theft committed in G.") near S."), and I was expressly told that I and H.) had committed it.

ben, you were supposed to have been a participant. I have not yet heard about it in detail. Now the most striking thing about it is: I was asked whether I knew a certain B. C. U. and whether his son had never driven me. Up to now, I have presented the matter in such a way that I am in the understanding that can be had about it.

can give the matter a proper position. I just need to hear from you how and what -- Whether perhaps B.

griogen, whether I drove with you from here, and whether perhaps

B. his son admitted this. I request an answer to this.
Your friend W.

It is well known that there is a problem which more or less affects all prisons and which, despite all measures, has still not been overcome, namely the impossibility ability to prevent the prisoners' written and oral communication. Therefore, it is not surprising that the very sly Royenthal did not believe he saw anything unusual in that letter (called "Kay" in the thieves' language).

On the contrary, he had to find in it a new testimony to the skill

ness of his comrade, and trusting in this, he then also gave the same, by Wohlauer as safely praised, way in hoty

The following answer in the German language is just as characteristic as it is strange. N

Friend W. N RR To my knowledge, B. tm) has not been drafted. It is true:

*) Guyow.

*) Seelow.

) Hirschberg.

HH WolU Berg. 6

11%) Euftrin. ; ++

+) The son of WolU Berg had the thieves with the e yeiy nes father to the place of the theft (Guyow) and from there, to the committed after the theft, returned with the stolen goods. N

Tir) The son of the above mentioned WolU Berg.

yupably a Mefyire") by the Mamyer ben Hanide").

| don't have as much hair on my head as he has falsely reported things against me.

| don't think they can arrest B. |, for my part, am innocent of everything.")

You know yourself that, except once in 1822 to Leipy zig, and further with Priebe and Kurtz from Frankfurt to Berlin, when you first came here, | never traveled with you, or otherwise had any knowledge of you"). There is also the New Year's circumstance above!) por, von Malches jomwent)

– – HBB is here too. | consider him innocent.

– |, for my part, take responsibility for such old, rusty things

| have often thought of your words here, but unfortunately too late (kp). You can imagine my sorrow – – |

Machine Translated by Google

| cannot and may not write as | would like to. This is the first thing | am writing here, | am under more pressure from all sides than anyone sitting here. You cannot believe it, and | do not believe that | can survive this. | have no paper here, and it is fortunate th

so much to answer. Farewell; count on my help.

u" RecttychaUenheit kit).

| | Your friend, with whom you once had a Rof ch ba ¥cho no schauer in a village ha –

a. blowing belongs to rtf). Enter patience

) Report, denunciation. |

*) With this expression the Jews designate a child who has a Jewy din, during her monthly purification. Since intercourse is forbidden to Jews during the me term Mamyer ben Hanide still implies a whore's child and is generally used as a serious Je the present case, it must refer to Loywenthal. N 5

) Means that he will not confess.

) A hint for Wohlauer that he should not admit to having taken the bus.

) In the Berhoytren.

+) Malches jowen means Emperor of the Rusyen. Report on the previously mentioned theft of 6,000 thalers in Rusyan bank assignments, committed on New Year's Day 1826 from the cave Sokolow, (Pomaychken) whose co-authors were Royenthal and Wohlauser.

y1) Notification to Wohlauser that HBB is the Hirych Brodbayr (sheep name of the Hirychberg which is a participant of the Guyower and Pomaychy ee was, had not confessed, and that nothing had been done against him

gen wool

141) Refers to earlier warnings by Wohlauser not to trust the N.

11110 Assurance that he will not confess anything:

tr) This payVus is the non plus ultra of a cautious crooky

40

This important and instructive document was handed over by Wohlauser to the investigator, who was now able to fight the cunning criminal with his own weapons. 5 On Nov 17, 1831, Rosenthal was taken from the

Prisons, confronted with Wohlauser, and equal to him

Early, with heartfelt words of admonition, he submitted his letter testifying against him. was decisive. Cheated out of all the experiences of his 60 years of eventful life, tremendously shaken by the unheard-of event, he sank silently into a chair.

Unable to utter a word, a stream finally

Machine Translated by Google

from tears his heart, and tear the hand of the inquiry

ing, he promised to make an open confession about everything everything he had ever done in his life. And this promise

He has, if one can express himself so, honestly fulfilled his duties. – One in "robbery and more than two hundred, mostly violence"

fame, thefts, including 36 cash register break-ins were gradually admitted by him; which were not many not counting the numerous crimes he has committed since his appearance in the world of thieves, from 1799 to 1812, and whose discussion was not taken up because they were time-barred under Prussian criminal law, that is, because there was a period of more than a year between the confession and the crime.

Only through this confession did the investigation reach its full uncensored scope. More than 500 people were accused of theft, receiving stolen goods, or perjury to prove the thieves' alibi, thus making their arrest a necessary requirement.

They lived in almost all provinces of the Prussian state, especially namely in the Grand Duchy of Posen, and there again preferably in the small town of Betsche. A series of lamentable experiences in Posen had proved, however, how much in the Grand Duchy of Posen

there was a general uncertainty on all sides.

Precisely in those places where the most and most dangerous criminals were nesting, where their arrests and the necessary

seizures, which required the most police energy, the situation was worst with the authorities

the local authorities were the most unreliable, as is particularly evident in the confession of which shed an all too clear light.

Rosen

The usual way, through requisitions, could under these conditions. Rosh Hashana is the beginning of the Jewish New Year (the New Year day), and Schauer is the name given to the wind instrument with which the beginning of the year is announced in the synagogue. Now, Royenthal had once celebrated the beginning of the New Year with Wohlauer on a thieving trip in Silesia in a village near Jauer and not in the synagogue. It was therefore to be used in part instead of Royenthal's signature, which no cunning scoundrel would smear letters.

serve, but others serve as a sign to Wohlauser that the letter was really written by Royent

Under the circumstances, it would probably not lead to any, even somewhat satisfactory, result and it could not be entered into without recklessly jeopardizing the most important civil state interests, which were closely linked to the success of this investigation. In addition, however, local investigations of all kinds had to be carried out in many places, especially in the Grand Duchy of Posen, in the administrative districts of Frankfurt and Magdeburg, partly to determine the

against the individuals to be arrested and who may deny the crime, partly to bring about the possible still existing stolen goods, partly finally to establish the objective facts

beyond the many admitted crimes, which, in order to achieve appropriate results, could only be carried out by officials who were fully familiar with the situation. 6 In agreement with the Royal Ministers of Justice and the Interior and the Police, it was therefore decided to set up a

consisting of a judiciary and two police officers, investigative commission initially to the Grand Duchy of Posen, in particular to to the small town of Betsche to carry out the necessary arrests there and local research. 5 If the activity of this commission were to bear the desired best possible fruits, it would require a force capable of fighting a legion of the most cunning crooks and thieves, which was limited to its own power and had little or nothing to expect from the goodwill of the local officials, - it needed an assistance which was, perhaps not unjustly, often denounced as reprehensible, but even more often seen as a necessary evil.

Machine Translated by Google

recognized; it needed a person who, with local and personal knowledge, into the mysteries of thievery and thievery

was initiated, and with prudence and skill was able to discover the traces of crimes and criminals that were often deeply hidden from the eye of the official; in a word: a vigilante.

No one was more suitable for this in every respect than the Inquisitor R. Nosenthal. Since 1802, when the persecuting justice system had sent him, seeking refuge, to the Grand Duchy of Posen, then Duke y

thum Waryschau, he asked that province and the thieving

Part of their population from all sides, had even for many years in various of the most notorious thieves' nests

He had a memory that extended back to 30 years.

back, the most specific circumstances of the case, even of less significant actions gen, to indicate; in short, he united everything in himself that could be a capable agent was only ever necessary. Since the day of his confession, he had been placed, at his urgent request, in a lonely prison, where he wrote extremely important notes based on his many years of experience, the partial use of which contributed to the later success of the commission.

yhafte has indeed contributed quite a bit.

42

In consideration of all these circumstances, Royenthal was appointed as the escort of the Commiyion, but in order to ensure the orderly execution of the mission's business, a disposition plan was drawn up, which was approved by the court, and to which a special instruction 155 for the Commiyaries was added.

According to this instruction and disposition, the night of January

20-21, 1832, was chosen to carry out all arrests in the Grand Duchy of Poyen simultaneously, because the evening beforey since the Jewish Sabbath had begun, and at that time just

It was a full moon, but both facts, according to experience, with many

It could be assumed with certainty that the Jewish criminals, who, as is well known, are not allowed to travel on the Sabbath according to their ritual, and who generally only go out to steal on dark nights, illuminated neither by moonlight nor by snow, would be found in their homes. Simultaneous action against all persons to be arrested in that province was urgently required.

important, because previous investigations, as well as long-known empirical evidence sentences that taught that mischievous, especially Jewish, crimes

As soon as they suspect an arrest, they leave their homes or hideouts, roam the world under false names, and thus evade investigation and punishment. While seven district authorities of the Grand Duchy of Posen were requisitioned, that night the arrest of those living in their districts individuals, and 16 district offices bordering those districts were requested to investigate suspicious individuals without proper legitimacy.

In order to strictly monitor the subjects wandering around in the information system, so that if one or the other criminal should find an opportunity to escape, his recapture would be facilitated in advance, the local commissaries were instructed to raid the same night the

Machine Translated by Google

to arrest the rogues, some of whom are very dangerous, liable, and to carry out visits to several residents.

From previous similar commission trips, as well as from the documents discussed so far in the present investigation, it was

It was known that the commissioners could accomplish nothing without the help of the gendarmerie, given the corruption of a large part of the population of that place. Therefore requested the allocation of 12 mounted gendarmerie from the Royal Ministry of the Interior and the district council of Meseritz requested the provision of 12 reliable citizens of Me

These men were supposed to be partly involved in the occupation of the housing of those to be arrested, partly to prevent collusion, but partly for the immediate transport arrested criminals, be applied.

As one can see, these measures were almost exclusively intended for the single place, Betsche, whose narrow confines, however, also included a world full of corruption, whose poisonous

All that is just and noble has perished since time immemorially which has become a grey spot on the political horizon of the state that had become. One would have had to deceive oneself to believe that with the ordinary application of ordinary means one could achieve something against the criminal society, and to the great benefit of the cause itself the decision was made in a way that was as quick as it was prudent and forceful.

Betsche is a small farming town, situated near Meseritz, consisting of barely 130 hearths counting only 1254 souls. For decades, it has been known as a den of thieves, due to the many Jewish professed thieves residing there, far beyond the borders of Prussia.

It is notorious beyond the state. It may not have always been ranked at this level, but there have been going on there like they are now for more than 30 years.

In the year 1800, for example, the criminal court in Posen initiated an investigation against a large number of Jewish crooks and thievesy bande, whose tactics were largely those of the later rheiny

Niznian gangs. The then Prussian part of Poland, the so-called South Prussia, was overcrowded with Jews who, without a homeland or place of residence, led a Roma life or had settled in the countryside, where their activities were beyond any official control.

The danger of such a situation had been clearly demonstrated during the investigation, and the consequence was the issuing of a government decree, according to which henceforth no Jew shall be allowed to reside in villages

erstattet fein Yolte. At that time, the village of Grochow near Schermeiyl was roughly what later became Betsche. There lived themselves, according to official investigations, 16 very notorious Jewish crooks with their families now had to leave their asylum were forced to, and they all gradually settled in Betsche, because there was a not too small police administration.

Since then, the thieving population of Betsche has been in constant increase. During the foreign rule from 1806 to 15, it was not only Betsche where any civil order

Dissolution flourished. Many small towns in the duchy were

At that time, the city became the arena of all crimes and vices, and among them, Betsche v at the forefront when the reoccupation took place. About 40

Machine Translated by Google

The most dangerous Jewish scoundrels and thieves by trade, who had fled from near and far from the persecuting justice, had settled there, and who were denied the continued undisturbed possession of their acquired property.

micils was secured by a sanction of war. Together with their families, they constituted a quarter of the entire population.

It could not fail that our vigilant government soon recognized the existing evil in all its threatening nature, and that it used all possible means on the part of the state police to counteract it:

44

to deprive the overgrown weeds of their juices for their further growth, and it is truly not their fault that they all move away

The measures taken were in vain. Like a cancer, the calamity spread further and further until all barriers collapsed.

were overthrown, and the governmentycare yt only focused on could limit the wicked fire as much as possible, within the circle where it, constantly finding new fuel, could no longer be extinguished. In the end, it was no longer just the pirates whose criminal activities founded the town's bad reputation; it was rather the moral corruption of the majority of the population.

les of the population itself, the cessation of all conscientious legaly ity from the first magistrate down to the farmhand.

It was here that in a period of 10 years 4 Magiy

ytratsvoryteher was prosecuted for the most outrageous breaches of duty; it was, in a word, the central point of swindling traffic, not only in Prussia, but in the entire eastern

Germany. Here, workshops were established that supplied not only the crooks of the Grand Duchy, but also the thieves' associations in Berlin and the Altmark with duplicate keys; here

the Jewish elders from the most notorious thieves and thieves' dealers, who helped their comrades with morality certificates, fugitive Gauy

nern and vagabonds, against cash gratitude the admission ery here, finally, willing witnesses were found who, often for a small fee, sworn to the alibi of the crooks when they had fallen into the hands of the judiciary. e

ar 7

Therefore it is also understandable how in Betsche they biyche organism fine highest possible, and most dangerous, perfectly had achieved: an organism whose destruction was indeed not one of the minor police tasks. The Commiyyay

They weren't dealing with ordinary thieves, they were dealing with Gauy

nern, each of them a complex of cunning and audacity, forming a whole closely connected by the same interests y

which had branches through all provinces, through their trusted and spies from all those who threatened their safety, authoritiesy ycient measures were immediately reported, and finally, pursuing their crimes with only horse and cart, they were in possession of all means that could possibly facilitate a speedy escape.

However, taking all these circumstances into account made it urgently necessary to proceed exactly as provided for in the above-mentioned plan. All preparations for this were made in the greatest secrecy, avoiding any fuss;

all correspondence concerning this was sent to the relevant authorities with the secretariat note, and yet, if the commission had entered

If it had happened only 24 hours later, the booklet would have been empty. and a considerable number of the most skilled thieves by trade, whose harmlessness is now guaranteed by the walls of the penitentiary, would

Machine Translated by Google

45

perhaps still endangering the security of property today

yt, because the next day had already been set by all the crooks in Betyche for a collective escape, as they had yt late

ter themselves have admitted. | One can deduce from this how widespread their mysticism isy huge connections. 5

On January 19, 1832, the commissioners left Berlin, armed with public orders from the Royal Ministries of Justice, the Interior, and the Police, and especially with public requisitions from both the Criminal Court and the Royal Police Presidency in Berlin. The Inquisitor Nosenthal

He slipped away, initially bound, but later free of restraints, because it was believed that in this state could he develop activity useful for the prevailing purpose. It could not be de that this course of action, given the severity of the punishment awaiting Rosenthal according to his confession, was in many respects risky; however, they found themselves in the unalterable situation of having to trust a man who had shown himself unworthy of trust through his previous behavior, and it was certainly better to do so entirely rather than half-heartedly. It is a psychological proposition that even the greatest evildoer, if his moral being is not yet completely extinguished, still carries something within him that empowers him to strive for a nobler purpose as soon as he is placed in a situation that awakens this desire. This was the case here, and the whole consequence was proven.

yen, gr wenig man yach was in error.

On 20 January 1832, at 4 o'clock in the morning, the commissary arrived in Landsberg an der Warthe, where, as intended, the 12 mounted Gensd'ar assigned to carry out their mission

Sauces were to be served with them. However, through a concertation with the local district authorities, this plan was modified to avoid any detrimental attention: the gendarmes were to meet in the village of Berkenwerder, located just beyond Landsberg an der Warthe. The commission, led by a sergeant, met there at 10:00 a.m. The latter was sent ahead with the gendarmes and instructed to advance along side roads to the Royenthal forestry station, located approximately halfway between Landsberg an der Warthe and Betsche, and to halt there. This could have happened without causing a stir, as the country road from Berkenwerder to Royenthal is not frequented, but the rural inhabitants must be in the belief y ten, the usual cantonal revision should be held.

" to

The commissary followed at a distance, then turned to a side road, and arrived at 5 o'clock in the evening, almost at the same time as EN Mech at a" A me. an were

46

The final preparations for the operation to be carried out against Betsche during the coming night were made. It was decided that the following morning, at precisely

3 o'clock, 12 reliable armed citizens, under the leadership of a gendarme, would meet at the bridge over a small river, very hidden just outside Betsche, from the district town of Meseritz, 2 miles from Betsche. Nine wagons would be sent there for the immediate transportation of the criminals to be arrested.

Machine Translated by Google

from Meyeritz, since it was foreseeable that the necessary means of transport would not be available in Betsche itself, and transport on foot would be far too slow and unsafe.

The same caution was observed with regard to the shackles and locking tools, which were all brought to the scene from Meseritz. At 10 o'clock in the evening on January 20, the commission and the gendarmes, under the leadership of a reliable guide, traveled from Roy entall and arrived the following morning at 4 o'clock in front of Betsche a, from the opposite side, towards Schwerin. . 9 NN

Betsche is, lengthwise, very extensive; like most small towns, it has only one main street and is therefore only narrow. Before taking further action, the mayor of the town consulted; however, he lived at the opposite end of the town, where the small bridge was located, which was occupied by the citizens of Meseritz. While two of the commissioners quietly

the city, the person of, in agreement with the thieves

ytandniyye living, night watchman assured, the mayor awoke

and informed him of their order and the measures already taken and still to be taken to carry it out, the third, with the gendarmes, went around on a road prepared by the Iny

Quiyiten Noyenthal, the town, and joined the Meyeritz citizens at the small bridge. 6 In complete silence, with the assistance of the approaching

Mayor, all houses in which the criminals to be arrested cher lived, were occupied by the gendarmes and citizens. Patrols dispatched to prevent blameworthy, temporarily detained every resident who allowed himself to be looked after on the street.

taken and placed under supervision, which was all the more necessary as the head of the magistrature himself was not even able to provide the residences of the criminals to be arrested but rather these had to be proven by the inquisitor Royenthal).

9) As an interesting example of what is said about the status of the bourgeoisie, the order and authority in Betysche, has been said, may

The following serve: 1 ae N |

The notorious thief Nathan Jakob Stahl, who was also to be arrested, had, according to the assurances, been arrested the evening before for resisting

47

However, these apartments were all so occupied that there was also an open exit to the rear of the house. To prevent this route, which the available forces were not sufficient to occupy simultaneously, from being used by the thieves to escape, the following, somewhat original, procedure was used.

ren. observed. Na ö

Someone knocked on the window of the criminal to be arrested, who was still fast asleep. The mayor answered the question: "Who was there?" with the order to get up immediately, as he had to make a quick announcement. However, as the sleep-drunk man innocently opened the window or door to inquire about the mayor's request, he was arrested by the gendarmes.

greeted and immediately tied up. And so it went from house to house.

In this way, it was possible to arrest a number of the most enterprising criminals, almost without any noise, who would otherwise have been just as inclined as they were able to offer dangerous resistance. Not one of them was able to, unfortunately often only too surely,

Machine Translated by Google

ReSource of all crooks: escape, successful. They were ally

ly, partly on this day, partly on the next day, each on in a special car, by means of gendarmerie transport, and taken to Berlin; so that every word of communication

unication was made more impossible than their own ytimpungsort was concealed. 5 1

On the same night, from 20 to 21 January, the capture and subsequent individual transport of all the remaining in the Grand Duchy of Posen, namely in Roytarczewu, Rackwitz, Bentychen, Schermeiyele, Grätz, Storchnest etc. resident punished Very crusher. In January and February it offered a unique sight, the daily transports of those notorious, often gray, evil

thiefers through the streets of Berlin, who, locked on a farmer's cart, with dark defiance

the suspicious bearded against faces, they were heading towards their doom, which they certainly could not imagine as difficult as it would in fact be for them. BE; After dispatching the criminals arrested Betsche, the commissioners proceeded to search the house. However, this could not be probably in the apartments of the arrested, which were now occupied, ness against the Gendarmerie, was taken to the arrest, where he still remained. Since the not provide sufficient security, the commissarii set up a special guard in front of it. When

When Stahl's apartment was inspected, he was found, to the mayor's great astonishment, lying comfortably in bed. He hadn't escaped; no magic potion had opened the prison gates for him rather the courtesy of a police officer, if he deserved that name, for whom duty and conscience weighed heavily than a small tip! Many similar events, and not only those of Betsche, could be cited as example may suffice.

48

than with the other persons suspected of receiving stolen goods and other yuyhed persons, given u time, for the time being only very superficially carried out

905 The further fulfillment of their, almost over the whole province yure ery

The lengthy nature of this mission imperatively demanded a speedy onward journey, and the commissioners, moreover, had reason to hope that a subsequent visit would be all the more successful, as the inhabitants did not expect it. The correctness of this assumption has also been proven by the results.

In the period from January 24th to May 9th, the commissioners, partly jointly, partly individually, while the judicial officer remained in Meseritz, the seat of to deal with judicial business, traveled according to their instructions to the administrative districts of Posen, Bromberg and Frankfurt a. O., in particular the towns of Roytarczewo, Rackwitz, Bentychen, Wollyein, Bleeyen, Sternberg, Schwerin, Schermeiyel, Gratz, Frankfurt

a. O. ic. Arrests were ordered everywhere, visits were conducted, property was confiscated, facts of the crimes were investigated, and as much as possible was established. In Frankfurt am Main, the arrest of the police vigilante S. took place, "who, at the same time owning a cookshop, had turned his house into a lodging house for those who had

Jewish thieves who were visiting the fair and contributing to it were arrested directed, and in his relationship had played roughly the same role as Royenthal in Berlin.

On 9 May the commissarii returned to Betyche and proceeded there with the special house search that had been reserved earlier.

Machine Translated by Google

The result was all the more favorable because, as expected, the inhabitants did not fear a recurrence of such an act and, in a dream of safety, had brought to light the suspicious items that had previously been hidden.

The publication of a mandate to the population for the voluntary surrender of the property of the imprisoned thieves and their associates

eyt acquired EUects, with which one can conduct the visitation business.y

, was, of course, unsuccessful, and could not have been, since even the police officer who published this mandate by reading it in the streets wore a stolen fur, without whose entryy delivery was considered a duty; however, the house searches themselves were all the more productive. A significant amount of stolen goods was seized and confiscated.

From Betsche, the commissaries traveled, partly repeatedly, and partly to the towns of Birnbaum, Neubriick, Wronke, Samter, Pinne, Gratz, Rackwitz, Willichowo, Polish Wilke, Schmiegel, Nitsche, Storchnest, Silz, Rostarczewo, Wollstein, Koppnitz, Karge, Bentschen, Tirschtiegel, and Bratz, carrying out house searches, confiscations, arrests, and preliminary interrogations everywhere, and returned on the 26th

May 1832 back to Meferig, where also some people arrested, vifltations were held and items were confiscated.

With this, the prescribed and necessary searches in the Grand Duchy of Posen and the administrative district of Frankfurt were concluded. On June 3, the commission began its return journey via Frankfurt a. D. to Berlin, where she arrived on the 5th of the same month.

The results of this commission trip satisfied all of them.

had expectations. In the course of the Grand Dukey

59 individuals in Poyen, and 22 in the Frankfurt administrative district, in total,

55 persons, were arrested and taken to Berlin for investigation. The confiscated cash amounted to approximately 12,000 thalers, and the value of the, also confiscated occupied, effects, besides a few thousand thalers. In no

But this was in contrast to the beneficial consequences that resulted from the abolition of the most dangerous Jewish professional thieves from the Grand Duchy of Posen and the administrative district of Frankfurt.

These consequences were already clearly evident in the following Neminiycerey

Meye in Frankfurt a. O., because during it, not a single violent theft was committed, although otherwise almost always 12 to 14 such thefts were committed at the Cog y

niton of the local police authority.

As mentioned, in addition to the numerous arrests effected by the commissars, in accordance with the necessities issued directly by the criminal court, several more criminals were also brought here from other provinces, particularly Pomerania and Silesia. In particular, the number of accomplices was increased by 10 accomplices, who had been arrested by the Inquisition in Breslau since 1830 for a robbery committed in Strehlen.

yelfiebstheft in the amount of 11,000 thalers, and whose transfer was necessary due to their complicity in the local investigation. 6 |

Although, under certain circumstances, the investigation has already had gained such an extent that the space of the prison house exceeded the number

the arrested, appropriately, could hardly be grasped any more, so the necessity of the dispatch of a commission to the government, which had already been decided earlier but had so far been postponed due to various circumstances, became urgent with renewed force.

district of Magdeburg and the Altmark, for the same purposes as the previous one, to the Grand Duchy of Posen. For in this part of the country there was also a very considerable number of the notorious ous Jewish crooks and thieves were present, who, accused of multiple crimes, had to be imprisoned. In addition,

But here too, many house searches, local research and scrutiny

nially to conduct interrogations, which could not be fully achieved by requisitions. |

Accordingly, on 16 January 1833, a second one, consisting of a

4U

50

A Justice: and a police officer existing, Commission after Magdeburg.

burg. Accompanying them, as assistant, was the Inquisitor Royenthal, who, on his previous mission, had justified the confidence of the court and the commissioners in every respect, and who was now to be considered proven.

The result of this broadcast, which was spread over the cities of Magdeburg,

Magdeburg, Wolmirstadt, Stendal, Arneburg, Werben, Seehausen, Arndt

see, Salzwedel, Calbe an der Milde, Bismark, Kroytadt, Halberstadt and Gardelegen, and ended on March 15, 1833, is, in proportion to its extent, no less fruitful for the investigation

ly than those to the Grand Duchy of Posen. The majority of the condemned persons of the crimes reported were investigated on the spot, the facts of the case were established, a considerable amount of stolen goods was confiscated, and finally, 23 people were taken into custody.

The extension of the investigation was now a really yspiellose. As a result of direct reprimands of the many confessed comrades yen, implied in the same more than five hundred people, almost lukewarm

Jews who for a number of years have partly made a business out of theft, partly engaged in receiving stolen goods, knowingly bought stolen goods, or for the benefit of their comrades have committed perjury, especially to prove the alleged alibi in the previous investigations. However, with the exception of a single Jew, only Christians were accused of the latter crime.

So far, 197 individuals had been brought into the investigation, but the rest had been postponed, primarily because there was a lack of sufficient prison space. From the many confessions that were obtained, even by the most cunning and experienced criminals, were reached, new punishments were constantly being developed, so that in fact, if this continued, there was no end in sight to the matter.

On the other hand, the costs of the investigation, already at this time, amounted to almost 11,000 thalers, and as the investigation progressed, these costs would ultimately become unaffordable both for the criminal fund and for the subsidiaries.

From all this, the necessity arose to curtail the investigation in its then-current situation and limits. This was done, with ministerial approval, in April 1833, in such a way that, with regard to those accomplices to whom the investigation was directed, chung had not yet been extended, the embarrassing procedure to their

Machine Translated by Google

remained reserved for ordinary judges.

According to these principles, the investigation was finally completed in the summer of 1834. The overall result, in figures, is as follows:

It implies in general:

520 people, mostly of the Jewish faith.

51a

Of them, the following were not taken for examination: 1) because they died, namely | a. notoriychc hg. 441,

N b. allegedly. 1 22,

2 because jie in Sie Bocbarfanten eicher
a. notorivically N 5 3 b.

allegedly.

3) because of section 1 224 in total 316
people.

Of the remaining 204 individuals, other courts have already

ten were taken for investigation 7, – there remain 197 accomplices, among whom, including 3 baptized Jews, there are only 19 Christians, and the present case extends to these.

Of these, 1) 1102 people belong to the Grand Duchy of Poyen, and among them alone are | a. 41 from Betyche, b. 8 from Roytarczewo, e. 11 from Graetz, d. 7 from Rakwitz;

2) the administrative district of Frankfurt, and of these, 12 live in the small town of Schermeifel, not far from Betyche;

3) the administrative district of Magdeburg and the Altmark, 34 of whom

a. from Wolmirstedt 9, b. from

Bismark 7, c. from

Calbe a. M. 5, d. from Gardelegen 3; 4) the Province of Pomerania 5) the Province of Silesia 6) the Province of Prussia 7) the Electorate of Brandenburg 2, of which 17 were in Berlin:

ain Summa 197.

Their names are as follows.

1. They were not arrested here, partly because their crimes were less serious, partly because they were not suspected of fleeing, and partly because they had posted bail:

Machine Translated by Google

1) Michel David Cohn. 2) Wolf Cohn. 3) Verehl.

Wolf Cohn, née Rochatsch. 4) Manasse So that. 5) Elias Dubsky. 6) Engelman. 7) Verehl. Engelman. 8) Au: good, happy. 9) Verehl. Froehlich, née Zarembo. 10)

Meyer Friedeberg. 11) Salomon eee 12) Ba»

and 4

– 52

ruch Glanz. 13) Christian Herbe. 14) Vershl. Julius Jay cobi, called Stralsund. 15) Verehl. Marcus Joel, née Simon. 16) Perehl.

Jette Klein. 17) Jeremias Joel Krony heim. 18) Heimann Leyyer. 19) Loeßer Meißner, called Le-fer Terz or Langnas, 20) Widow Lea Moyes. 21) Verehl.

Michaelis. 22) Married Poyener. 23) Perwittw. R6schen Roy yenthal. 94) Abraham Levi Sachs. 25) Verehl. Marcus Simon. 26) Nathan Speier. 27) Ludwig Schaefer. 28) Very

St. Magnus Aron Stein, Rebecca née Westen. 29) Any

. 30) Moyes Levin Zebden, called Mauychey Body.

Of these, in the course of the investigation

a. escaped: Verehl. Magnus Stein;

b. deceased: 1) Kronheim. 2) Verehl. Marcus Joel. 3) Wolf Cohn. 4) Verehl.
Wolf Cohn. 8

Il. Delivered to the city jail: 5

1) Johann Marcus Adam. 2) Levi Arnold. 3) Mo: Yes Levi Altenburger, gen. ywarzer Mayche Leib. 4) Very Altenburger, Amalie née Loeyer, called Mamele. 5) Meny del Alexander, called Langefahr. 6) Baer Aron, called Bery witz or the mute bear. 7) Levi Abraham Bauch witz, called Awrom Leib. 8) Jacob Vauchwitz. 9) Loeyer Ball.

10) Baruch Behrendt, called Baerchens Baroch. 11) Verehl.

Baruch Behrendt, born Auil. 12) Mofes Simon Berny hard, called Zinchens Mauyche. 13) Salomon Benjamin, called Schlaume.

14) Wolf Berg. 15) Verehl. Wolf Berg.

16) Jacob Berg. 17) Samuel Meier Bendix, called Geiy
ker. 18) Philipp Bendix, called Feiychel, 19) Levi Meier Bendix, called Geiker. 20) Ifaac Abraham Boehm, called the blind Itzkok. 21) Car!
Friedrich Becker. 22) lVrael Byck, called lyrol. 23) Abraham lyrael Braun. 24) Ephraim Blumenthal, called Scheel Ephriim. 23) Nathan Blumenthal, alias Zacharias. 26) Michel Bonn. 27) Joyeph Buchholtz.
28) Salomon Hirsch Cohn, called Schlaume Hirschkau. 29)

Heimann Hirsch Cohn, called Chaium Hirschy

chew. 30) Mendel David Cohn. 31) Marcus Elias Cohn, called yschwarz Mortge. 32) Abraham Mendel Cohn. 33) Hey: man lyaac Cohn. 34) Abraham Joel German. 35) Siy

mon Eckstein, called Payelhen. 36) Abraham Eifenhardt, called Braunchens Awrom. 37) Anfchel Eytich, called Anyele.

38) Wolf Geryon Firft, called Wélfchen. 39) Samuel Abray ham Flatow, gen. Oberyitzly. 40) Levin Feld Ak) Joyeph Fifcher, gen.

Rogafem 42) Fiychel Goldberg, gen. Goldy ychmidchen. 43) lyaac Leyyer Grüntbal, called Eychke.

Machine Translated by Google

44) Heart Goldschmidt. 45) Simon Levin Graetzer, called.
Zanderchen. 46) Geryon Joyeph Heinemann, called the 52.

fhwarge Berfon 47) Abraham Michel Heinemann, called.
Uechtels chaim. 48) Aron Daniel Hememann, called Bebuly ges Arenzge. 49) Abraham Harry, called Yschwarz Ftiebrich.

50) lya as tig) Hirsch, called Stümper. 51) Hirsch Mofes – Hirschderg, called Brodbar. 52) Joseph Hirsch Horwik.

33) Hartwig Jonas. 54) Moritz Jonas, called Schnaratzky.
55) Eduard Jonas. 56) Widow Jonas, Mariane née Samfon.
57) Married Jonas, Auguste née Wallerstein. 58) Da: vid Joyeph, called Hundt. 39) Jüdel Joyeph. 60) Israel

Knopf. 61) Itzig Knopf. 62) Ascher Meier Koehler, called the Red Oscher. 63) Hirsch Ascher Koehler. 64) Wolf Ascher Koehler. 65) Nehmann Jacob Koenigsberger, called Rachmiel. 66) Heimann Selig Kupfer. 67) lyaac Levin Kunstmänn, called the long Eisig. 68) David Levin Kunsty mann, called Dovidchen. 69) Verehl. Jlyaae Kunstmänn, née Altenburger. 70) Aron Küttge. 71) Abraham Leyyer.

72) Ephraim Leyyer. 73) Salomon Levy. 74) Heimann

Levy. 75) lyaac Levy. 76) Jacob Levy. 77) Michel Hei.

mann Levy. 78) Jonas Levy, called Jonas Hollander.

79) Verehl. Levy, Jette née Schmerl. 80) Moyes Abray ham Littwack, called Mauychinke. 81) Harri Lilienthal.

82) Moses Levin Löwenthal, called Humprecht. 83) Verehl. Löwenthal, née Kunstmann. 84) Ifrael Lowenthal. 85) Siy mon Joyeph Löwenthal, gen. Süßel. 86) Jacob Geryon Lewinystein, gen. Jokef Horn. 87) David Löwenystein, gen. Téwele. 88) Verehl. Lewinystein, Mine née Kefler. 89) Very vowed Lübeck, Jette née Jacobi, called the Black Peyychen. 90) David Abraham Marcus, called Biller. 91) Say lomon Marcus, called Biller. 92) Daniel Simon Michael lis, called Gedalge. 93) Moritz Meyer. 94) Marcus Moritz, called Mortge Schuyter. 95) Wolf Moses, called Ezarnower. 96) Simon Moyes, gen. Kinimer. 97) Meyer Wolf Mühlberg, gen. blind Meyerchen. 98) Elias Aron Nelky, gen. Hurry. 99) Levin Nelky. 100) Hermann Nelky. 101) Iyaac Abraham Noah, called Itzko Weiner. 102) Salomon Opyenheim, gen. Schlome Unger. 103) Carl Wilhelm Patz. 104) Aron Philipp. 105) Lobel Philipp. 106) Samuel Pincus. 107) Jacob Neumann Poyener, called Nachmann, 108) Iyaac Moyes Prenzlauer, called Itzig Auitscher. 109) Johannes Franz Reinhardt. 110) Abraham Joseph Rose. 111) Joyeph Adolph Royenthal, called the Fat. 112) Verehl. Royenthal, née Keil. 113) Iyrael Royenthal. 114) Hulda Rofa Noyenthal. 115) Benjamin Royenbaum. 116) David Marcus Sachs, gen. Rabiack. 117) Iyae Moyes Sachye, gen. Itzko. 118) Hermann Moyes Sachye, gen. Hirschgen.

119) Jeremias Samuel, called Jerme, commonly known as Jeremi buried me. 120) Levi Marcus Serlo, called Mortgeus Leib.

54

121) Wolf Itzig Sernow, called Itzig Geiger's son. 122) Wedy chel Selig, called Krummaas. 123) Marcus Abraham Silyberystein, gen. Bocherchen. 124) Kaddiyeh Kaykel Simon, gen. tauber Kaddiyeh. 125) Marcus Simon, gen. Mortge Gratzner. 126) Iyrael Jacob Schacher, gen. Iyrol Jokuf.

127) Marcus Scheimann. 128) Marriage. Marcus Scheimann.

129) Joseph Schmidt. 130) Carl Theodor Schmidt, called.

Gall. 131) Abraham Schmerl, called Schmerls Awrom.

132) Married Jette Schmerl. 133) Moritz Schmerl. 134) Hele Schwarz. 135) Samuel Mendel Schwarz. 136) Jakob Joy

yeph Schweriner, gen. Skorgel. 137) Simon Jacob Schwey rinier, called Schmaye or Schmaye Grabeler. 138) Wolf Kaskel Schlesinger, called Wélfchen Auras. 139) Aron Berwitz Schumann, called Arendche Schnaufloch. 140) Joseph Nathan Stahl, called Joseph, alias der Jahmel. 141) Rathen Jacob Stahl, called Nosen. 142) Samuel David Stock, called Samwil Parch. 143) Isaac Hirsch Stuckardt, called Hermann. 144) Wolf Stein, called Wélfchen Bockenum.

145) Married Wolf Stein, called Christel or Barach Képpin.

146) Meier Tiller, called Meyer Magazin. 147) Heimann Troppau. 148) Simon Unger. 149) Adolph Philipp Waly lerstein. 150) Eduard Wallerstein. 151) Marriage. Wallery ytein. 152) Leyyer Wayyer. 153) Bar Winterfeldt. 154) Ley vin Bar Winterfeldt, called Barles Leib. 155) Simon Meyer Wiener, called Schapyel. 156) Hirsch Salomon Wohlauser, called the Moustache. 157) Friedrich Benjamin Wohlgey courage. 158) Marcus WolU. 159) Jacob Moyes Wolfram, called Jokele. 160) Moyes Jacob Wolfram, called Jokeles Mauche. 161) Wolf Moyes Wolfram, called Little Wolf.

162) Iyaac Wolfram, called Klein Itzigchen. 163) Joyeph Wolfram, called Fuchskopf. 164) Marriage. Wolfram, Rebecca née Bar. 165) Jacob Meyer Zehden. 166) Meyer Zerf.

167) Solver Zerf.

Some of them died in the arrest, some in the penal YAuy

ne ftalt, partly at large:

1) Johann Marcus Adam. 2) Berebl. Baruch Behy rend. 3) David Simon Michaelis. 4) Hermann Nelky.

5) Samuel Pincus. 6) Verehl. Rosenthal. 7) lyaae Moy

yes Sachye. 8) Hermann Moyes Sachye. 9) Abraham Miy chael heineman. 10) Joseph Hirsch Horwitz. 11) Wolf Moses Wolfram.

12) lyaac Leyyer Grünthal. 13) Jew Joseph. 14) Samuel Bendix. 15) Meyer Tiller. 16) Saty mu el Abraham Flatow. 17) Levin Marcus Serlow. 18) Meny of Jacob Alexander. 19) Nathan Blumenthal. 20) WolU Mountain. 21) Michael Heymann Levy. 22) Moses Abraham

Littwack. 23) Joseph Buchholtz. 24) Joseph Wolfram.

25). Aron V Berwitz Schumann. 26) Wolf Castle. 27) Wolf Cohn. 28)

Verehl. Wolf Cohn. 8 1 2 0

If one now asks about the special results of this in every respect so important investigation, which, during its three and a half years duration, required the exclusive of four investigators, there is generally only joy about it.

Something to report. Around 150 of the most dangerous professional thieves and thieves-fer dealers have been rendered harmless to human society, for a longer or shorter period of time and what this means, retroactively for property security, probably needs no further discussion.

ner discussion. The largest part of the investigation intertwined individuals belong to the class of those incorrigible Gauy ners who, defying the laws of all countries, know no other purpose in life than the destruction of property; whose genealogies show nothing but robbers and thieves. A true scourge of all

Machine Translated by Google

public treasuries and wealthy private individuals had understood to continue their criminal activities for a number of years, indeed for a whole generation to live largely solely by and through theft, and often to support numerous families without touched more than superficially by punitive justice. And in the art of doing this lies the by which the Jewish scoundrel, in terms of his cunning, slyness, and dangerousness, differs essentially from the scoundrel of Christian descent.

That despite these individual circumstances, which are never promising for the fate of an investigation, nevertheless, as is in fact the case, one hundred and eleven of the accused

The fact that the criminals have made a more or less complete confession is undoubtedly one of the greatest curiosities in the annals of criminal justice. Anyone who knows with what stoic tenacity, with what skill, and with what inventiveness in lying and denial, the criminal has to appear during painful interrogations, and always does, will easily understand the outrageousness of such a result. Similar investigations, although not quite as extensive, have already been conducted against gangs of criminals earlier, especially several decades ago.

But none has had such success in obtaining confessions, and it is unlikely that this will happen again in the future.

The medium for those successes was initially a very simple one, namely: the confrontation. N |

It is well known how the comparison of confessing and non-confessing accomplices is a very important investigative act, and often of the greatest importance. Depending on when this medium of inquisition is applied in a timely manner, the effect will be favorable or unfavorable.

56

This is always the case unless there is a ruthlessly open confession from one side, in which case one may refrain from doing so. Whatever the circumstances, however, it is always the practice to postpone confrontations between the accused, as a last resort to obtaining a confession, until the evidence has been taken and the denying criminal has already been fully constituted. In the present investigation, all this was different. The torrent of the extra flooded the rigid boundaries of the traditional, formal, and one was forced to develop one's own practice.

As soon as the confessions of the inquisitor Wohlauser and Noyenthal had been obtained, it was decided to attempt a confrontation, first with some of the already arrested denying accomplices who seemed less persistent.

The refusal was more favorable than all expectations. For two experienced

The fact that these criminals, whose skill and firmness in denial were considered examples and models among their comrades, had confessed, or, as the crooks call it, had confessed, for the Uey

By the way, it was so without precedent, so surprising, and caught her so unprepared that confession was actually the result of her initial dismay.

When the commission's journey to the Grand Duchy of Poyen was went, one had already been yuried in Yuch detail by 6 iniquity

Confessions were obtained, which resulted in many direct attacks on the individuals yet to arrested.

Machine Translated by Google

Since then, the investigation began with every conquistador upon his arrival at the detention center, right from the beginning of the confrontation. Just as a criminal arrived by transport from outside, which usually happened in the first half of the day, he was not taken to prison, but immediately taken for interrogation. Here, he was first informed, in courtesy, that he was involved in a very far-reaching matter and that he was facing several years of imprisonment.

would have to endure a period of pre-trial detention, the relief of which and future deduction from the sentence could only be achieved by a frank confession. If he then denied it, as always happened, the confessed accomplices, one by one,

They confronted him with their own faces. They did not accuse him of any special accusations, they simply told him that they had confessed everything, that denial could not help; and this was usually enough to make the criminal confess. Only the minority were, among them, especially especially those arrested earlier, whose stubbornness, impudence and arrogance would not have succumbed to those psychological impressions. One should have seen them, those notorious scoundrels, who had often appeared in court but had never been convicted, whose gray hair testified to a long series of crimes; one should have seen them yeeyt, how they stood there, often with shaking knees, with clapping teeth spattering, under the weight of her fo unexpectedly over fie.

burglarizing fate almost collapsing, and one would be divided felt whether these were the very same evildoers whose law-breaking audacity threatened the property of the wealthy for so long, whose sysy

matic cunning had made all the authorities' measures fail, and had emerged from most of the embarrassing investigations with impunity hen layen. The extraordinary can often do so much!

When the number of confessors increased, when one could confront the father with the son, the brother with the brother, when one could convince everyone from the outset that he, despite his denial, was convicted and punished, it was hardly difficult to get confessions from the newly admitted inculpates.

nise, which did not extend to individual, but always to a whole range of crimes. A formal confession frenzy (sit venia verbo) had, from the end of 1831 until the beginning of 1833, swept through the prisoners brought here, because everyone believed that only through a fairly open

A confession could mitigate his fate. They repeatedly reported themselves from prison for interrogation and voluntarily reported offenses that would otherwise probably never have come to the attention of the court; thus, with their own hands, they built ever higher the edifice of their criminal liability.

It cannot be denied that this strange phenomenon, which borders on miracles in individual terms, certainly had its origin, at least in the criminals' desire not to let their equals comrades, who were either denying their guilt or still at large, go unpunished, since the principle of lying had been shattered. This became quite clear when, in 1833, the subsequent section of the Uny investigation became known among them. There was not only a noticeable lukewarmness, an unmistakable reserve in the confrontations; but many also began to model previous confessions according to their own advantage; and still others, on quite untenable grounds, actually retracted their statements. But apart from that, there had even been cases where the investigation

The people involved came to Berlin voluntarily because they believed ten, they cannot escape their fate.

The great advantages of the immediate confrontation, and the great terror that the brutal procedure had spread in the criminal world, were clearly demonstrated by the 10 Jewish criminals who were under investigation at the Inquisition in Breslau and were brought here from there. There they had all

ly denied in a way that was as persistent as it was sly, had already, each for himself, produced witnesses, of whom their alibi had been sworn to by was known, and here she was, immediately after her A that, ) These crooks call this: "cleaning."

55

crimes that had been denied for two years! Yes, the senior among them, the most notorious Moses Levin Altenburger, called the Black Mouse Body, entered the interrogation room directly from the transport with the words: "Well, Mr. Justice, I'll give you a few cents if you give me a ew cents." And this was done by a man who had been robbing and stealing or 40 years! N 5 RR It would, incidentally, be a mistake to believe that all of these almost miraculous effects were solely the result of the confrontation.

Principles were. It is true that this was the main means, but many others had to be added to make it effective. The investigator, Criminal Counsellor Grabow, deserves credit else.

The recognition that he was able to correctly assess the character of the criminal class. The defendant's trust in the investigating judge is always an indispensable condition, a decisive step towards the goal, the achievement of which is the most essential determination of every criminal trial. However, to gain this trust, especially from cautious, experienced criminals, whatever one may say, true psychological studies. We no longer live in the time when the specter of barbarism dragged itself through the criminal courts, when the procedure of the penal judge only strictness was breathed, where in the accused one only saw the evil ty, but not the human being. A friendly word, a mild, not proud, treatment is more effective today than executioners and torture racks once were. Nowhere may this have been more evident than in the present investigation. The confessing inquiry

They were greeted with a mild and friendly welcome from all sides. They were given daily free time in the prisoner's yard. To enjoy the fresh air, they were allowed to talk to their wives and children; they received visitors from the outside world, who were brought by them. No non-Jewish members, on the other hand, were granted this privilege."

) In Hebrew proper, "treife" means impure, the opposite of kosher; but in the slang of criminals it means suspicious, accused. Hence: "treife" means to go scot-free (with the stolen goods) 3 | .

) Emmies means confession; Emmes machen: to make a confession. EmmesyPriye therefore means so much as: to confess for a price of tobacco.

*) If there is something beneficial, something that uplifts our human feelings, in finding even in the character of the most rejected, be it

Machine Translated by Google

Even a weak five that one might call virtue, so it is with the Jewish scoundrel the lover of his wife and fine children, the reverence he shows his parents. Had my father still lived –

David Kunstmann assured me, during an occasional conversation with him, that I would never have confessed a word (because then he would have

59

On the other hand, the inquirer had, through diligent study, acquired a fairly thorough knowledge of the Yenish or thieves' language. This enabled him to communicate with the criminals

to converse in their jargon; and if anything is capable of instilling confidence in the mind of a scoundrel, it is certainly, above all, knowledge of his social language.

For this time, decades ago by capable criminals judges), the seemingly impossible was made possible, and a confession of endless crimes was obtained from 111 of the most notorious scoundrels. All coercive members were excluded.

tel, which no longer knows any civilized legislation, which went to the grave with the previous century, which in judicial practice is over all proycribirt worden yind*). n

Less productive results than with the thieves, the survey regarding the thieves, the recovery of stolen goods, and the compensation of the damned.

The reason for this lies primarily in the fact that Jewish thieves always steal only cash or new goods, but leave everything else untouched unless they are forced to do so by extreme necessity.

They follow this tactic for easily understandable reasons: because it is very difficult, indeed almost impossible, to give them cash and goods with which they themselves trade while traveling.

to prove ownership of the stolen goods. In addition, the actual thieves are almost always poor; the stolen goods were usually distributed among many people and their families because of their participation in the theft, or because of their knowledge of it, or finally because of their close connection and their almost constant family relationship; the small shares of each person, in the absence of any other, are sufficient.

It is a pity that this expression of emotion, which under other circumstances would be an outrageous one, is no less a crime among this class of criminals.

chen. Moreover, as happened here, prudent investigators will be able to use this characteristic of the crooks to the great advantage of the investigation.

*) Siebe Rebmann, Damian Heyyel and his robber companions, Mainz, 1811.

– Christians, alphabetical list of a number of robbers, thieves and vagabonds, Hamburg, 1814. 2c.

) An inquisitor wanted to bring a stubbornly denying criminal to justice knowledge. What does he do? – He lets him have a really salty lunch

He could eat a herring, but no water followed. After a few hours, he had him brought in for interrogation, barely able to speak due to thirst. He had a glass of water on his table and now admonished the criminal.

to the confession. This, his gaze only on the thirst-quenching water

He asks, begs, and pleads to let him have a drink first. In vain!

Only the confessor, he is told, should be given this refreshment, and—the confession actually takes place. NN 1

Machine Translated by Google

The means may be fine, but whether it is legal is another question. Whichever way you look at it, it is physical coercion and almost synonymous with torture. 5
| Ze

60

cbenden, legal acquisition, are very soon consumed or squandered, and that the stolen new goods are either squandered by the thieves themselves at fairs and markets, or given to their buyers (Scharfeny yplayers) for a ridiculous price.

Although, both with third persons and with individual

Thieves, a not inconsiderable quantity of goods, as suspicious property, has been confiscated. However, these Say partly because they were not recognized as stolen and had to be returned, partly because intervention claims were filed, and finally the proceeds were very small.

yen. But of the funds and documents which are on the very

Of the various commissy ...

It was only the fences and buyers who did not share the often naked poverty of the thieves, who mostly lived in prosperity, not infrequently even in quite comfortable circumstances.

cherish advantages of the crimes that those, under constant control risking their freedom or even their lives, they had become rich without risking their skin. Only they could, if convicted, be forced to indemnify the victims and pay the costs of the investigation; and that was

They greet you only too well. Hence their stubborn, unbending denial Hence the phenomenon of 111 confessed artisan thieves and 40 denying fences. – 40 fences! The number seems large, and yet it is still disproportionate to the matter itself.

There can be no doubt that all those fundamental, notorious thieves to whom the investigation extends, and who are connected to each other by close or distant ties of kinship ties, almost only form a single large family of crooks, that they also had their specific buyers (sharp players).

What does it mean, considering the long existence of their criminal activity, if among those 40 fences there are perhaps 15 people accused of knowingly purchasing stolen goods? And then these accusations, which are so one-sided, are tragic.

gen fo the character of protection in yhem, erytren Vich to fo wey

There are a few special cases that make it obvious how diligently the crooks withheld the truth on this point. And they also had their own special, albeit very apt, reasons.

reasons. – The sharp-shooter, whom they did not prove in court advise, he is subservient to them, is an obedient puppet, which they 61

The threat of betrayal is on them

Machine Translated by Google

For years a divining rod, with which she could help the anxious visitor fer everything that ensures them continued support during the duration of their _ sentence in prison; and this also explains why the failure of the investigation

ung, from this side, can hardly be called favorable. Even those criminals who were most distinguished by their frank knowledge fell into unfounded snares when it came to naming the sharp-shooters.

Another question is how it was possible that such a silence about the fences and buyers could be consistently carried out by all 8 criminals without contradicting each other, since in almost every crime 4, 6 or more people were complicit?

The answer is derived from the inadequacy of all previous constructive inventions, in relation to completely appropriate prisoners' houses, but here especially from the various inconveniences which had to be brought about almost necessarily by such a large number of persons arrested during an investigation, given the relatively limited prison space.

By February 1, 1832, no more than 40 already overcrowded criminal prisons for men and 16 rooms for women were available to accommodate the arrested comrades. Only in September 1832 were 30 additional prison rooms acquired, so that there were now 70 rooms for arrest.

cal for men, and 16 for women, were available. But even these spaces were understandably insufficient to distribute 167 people involved in an investigation so effectively that any written or verbal contact with each other could have been completely cut off. Rather, it was necessary to place several comrades in one prison number, some wall to wall, and still others on top of each other, and to ensure, as much as possible, that those culprits who had had direct contact with each other, or who were not confessing, were kept apart from each other.

were housed away. So it happened that the criminals' communication was not exactly difficult to communicate with each other and to understand the silence of the sharp players

Written communications between prisoners, however fine they may be, are nevertheless more difficult, because they depend, apart from many other circumstances, to a large extent on the vigilance and integrity of the prison guards; but oral communications, if necessary from the windows of the prison (called Kaspern or Kaschpern by the crooks), are in all ) In thieves' language: Senne or: to make a fire.

Letters aimed at this are called open letters.

62

Arrest houses a common thing that a remedy in the samey ben degrees wishful, as fie almost impossible is.

The prisons in Berlin are, viewed from this perspective, quite practically furnished. The window is located 7 feet from the ground and, as is self-evident, is secured with iron rails. In front of it, arranged diagonally from top to bottom and equipped with side flaps, is a strong zinc plate, which leaves an opening only above the window, just large enough to provide the prison with light. The prisoner therefore has no other view than the clouds, and yet, one should only

Machine Translated by Google

the afternoon hours, when no work is carried out in the interrogation rooms, some of which are located above the prisons, the general cash register Listen! Neighbor on the right! Neighbor on the left! Neighbor above! Neighbor below! – so it goes on without ceasing; and perhaps they cannot talk about common interests because they do not plicen of the same investigation, yhowever, as one can imagine, the conversyation is almost always disgusting and immoral, so that one cannot tolerate this boundless nonsense, which is morally beyey

tion 1 prisoner is at least not beneficial, seriously complained must.

The insolence of the arrested Jewish criminals, bezuygy

Such antics, in their Hebrew thieves' language, now went particularly far. They did not stop from discussing the status of the investigation loudly from the windows during broad daylight in the prisons located below the interrogation rooms, while the inquirers were prohibited from disturbing the peace of the officers nearby at night.

Several such conversations were overheard and included in the records because, originating from unconfessed accomplices, they were of interest to the case itself. As extremely characteristic, they are likely not entirely without interest in general, and therefore find a place here.

1. Conversation, between the prisoners Elias Nelky and Bruyendorf; the former in a prison on the second floor, the latter on the first floor.

On December 9, 1831, 4 a.m.

Nelky. Neighbor upstairs! Are you holding the germ next to you?) asked what he calls himself in Jewish?
Br. No! | completely forgot about that.

1) Keim: the Jew. – 2) In the secondary prison. – 3) The Jewish crooks usually only know each other by their Jewish or Spitz names.

63
Kelly. It's really true that he whistles!). Br

Br. 1 fine Cheyven?); only on the Sylichner) Loy Wenthal.

Nelky. That's very good, then he's good. | did that too, | also mistreated him. N

Br. That's right. Just don't be sparing!

Nelky. The day | was confronted with Wohlauser upstairs, cursing him and punching him in the eyes, the Bal. Verfhmai* told me that after Wohlauser, more people had already admitted, that 50 more people would be included in this investigation, and that it would last another three years. But that is not true, because so much misinformation boys are no longer at large.

Br. | don't think so. It's a BleUer. 55 Nelky. But he had it registered. Whether fat Rosentha

Machine Translated by Google

will probably admit? f Br. Certainly not. It's on the Baryel 6).

Nelky. That's fine with him. Now he can pay for being a many chen Cheyyen brought into misfortune").

Br. But he is now good and holds out.
Nelly. Will Schachers be the whistler?
Br. Certainly not. j

Kelly. But if Wohlauer comes to his side, won't he be frightened?

Br. He won't even know that Wohlauer whistles. Just tell him. a 6 N ee

Nelky. | won't do that; | don't trust anyone anymore. May whistley

Whoever wants to: | won't. The pipers are like a pregnant woman. They relieve their hearts so they can sleep well after confession; but they get afterpains. (1)

Br You can only get a little jail time, because you haven't been punished yet.

Nelky. Yes, four weeks, for peat printing!!), but not for violence. Who is Bernhardt you recently told me about? Is he a peat printer or a cabinet maker!?)

Br. He's a cabinetmaker. Oh! He's a capable Gannem 13).
He has brothers who are also good, cheyye boys.

1) Pfeifen: to admit, to accuse. – 2) With chey, the crooks refer to the one who follows their social principles. (See the introduction on page 2.) – ae lichner: the traitor. – 4)

5) BleUer: scare tool, scare word. – 6) Baryel or Baryeile: the chain, the locking tool. –

One will remember that Dal Poy lizeivigilant was. – 8) An accomplice of Neiky, who was in a prison ney ben Bruyendorf was incarcerated. – 9) Ponim: face. To come into the Ponim: to be brought into the Jeyichr geyichr, to confront. – 10) Knayy: punishment, penal sentence 11) Pickpocketing. – 12) Burglar. – 13) Gangnew: thief, scoundrel.

64

Nelly Schmue man betuch!). The Balmach) has already 5 as ert?); he wants to report us. Do you still have SchniU ng Br. No, | don't have one. If you have any, then just lower something down for me from the carriage 5).

2nd conversation,
on December 11th, 4 a.m.

Br. to Nelky. Are you cheerful?

Nelky. Yes, now I'm awakened by your call. I've been dreams of 8 Gr. 6 Pf. Is that good?

Machine Translated by Google

Br. Eight groychen find 8 months in prison; six pfennigs is the catch: the improvement). | dreamed of blood, that's Mayeltof!).

Nelky. What's our friend Schacher doing? Don't you have any shoes?) from him?

Br. No! He doesn't want to come to Gallonis?). | can assure you that he's not whistling.

Nelky. He certainly doesn't trust you anymore either. He's probably already been snubbed. What's Pinkus doing next to you? NN |

Br. Dear brother, things are different with Pinkus. He doesn't give a damn about himself, nor about his accomplices, but only about Löwenthal. Well, brother! You can't blame him for that.

Nelky. No, he's a good boy. | respect him. What's it like in Spandau now? Do people still speak through the bars? And are visitors still allowed?

Br. Oh yes! Everything is back to normal. 1

1 | was also over there once, because of violent entry smell.

Br. Did you know that? N

Relky. Not now, but there are too many rascals whistling; | am not safe from that; it may still happen; they will

Yes, everyone is crazy and admits. – But not me, and should | get caught in the bar! Now they laugh at me, later I will laugh at them. They think they can make more money with their whistling. men 12); but they will probably not achieve the purpose. The 10 To cuddle means to speak; be tuch: to speak softly; detuch ychmuyen: to speak softly.

– Y Balmach or Balmechome: the soldier, the sentry.

– 3) MoUern or Meyyern: threaten, warn, betray. – 4) Snuffy tobacco. – 5) Coach bites the cord, string, or thread with which the crooks connect them the prison windows when they lie on top of each other. – 6) One must admit that this Onirc extremely original. – 7) Good dream, good luck. – 8) News. – 9) Jens fter. – 10) Also an a of Nelky. – 11) That is to say: whether it is known to the court. – 12) Poter kommen: to g free. –

65

– Alhmodei!) will get them all; but some good people have to suffer because of it. I'm just glad that with the violent thefts only Noyenthal and Löwenthal in my poy

nim whistle. | objected that Royenthal is melancholic, and Lowenthal does it because of his freedom. Isn't that a good dress?

Br. The cleaning 5 is good. Stick with it.

Nelky. Do you know the castle inspector Bertram, who also sat over there? He sat with me in No. 19. He will now probably got 10 years, because he is three times buried). He is not buried, but they found clothes on him, and also three times a sack.

Machine Translated by Google

1 He is not the best brother either, he should have had a hard time with it.

Nelky. What's Joel doing over there? Will he go bankrupt one day?

Br. 1 don't believe it. He is watched too much; he stands too far Nelky. Who is the second guy in your number? He's also on Emmes?

8 ne has done one thing Emmes, but he now has more eihten.

Nelky. Aha! You see? Whoever said A should also ask B; that's how it goes. The inquirer first said 14 years, and then he said our life should last 3 to 4 years. He's a Schreckenberger.

They try all the tricks.

Come on. Brother, you speak Jewish so well. Where did you get that?

learned?

Br. | have with Bernhardt, Küttge, Meyer Tiller, Brody
bar, Schacher and Jonas sat together.

Nelky. Jonas certainly doesn't whistle. But there will still be some whistle. | fear nothing, however. This is supposed to be a punishment

ye! What is that? And if | were put on the baryel, as the inquirer assured me, then it is and will remain so! Yc.

The most remarkable, however, is undoubtedly the following windowy

Conversation between the same Nelly and another, perhaps less corrupt prisoner, named L... . fine.

L. Listen, Reit, denying in front of you is not always good.

1) The devil, – PY Putz means defense; er putz en: to defend oneself, to burn clean, to refute the evidence. – 3) J n Spandau. –

4) See page 58. – 5) Key. – 6) Stolen 985. – 7) The notorious crook Markus Joel, who is discussed in more detail in the personnel notes. – 8) Go bankrupt, come bankrupt: k out, escape.

hen. = 9) Em mes machen: Confession N ef

66

Sometimes the one who does not admit gets more punishment than the one who does not.
Nelky. That's not true; never!

L. If stolen goods are found, and witnesses from outside swear against him, and his comrades give a unanimous statement

Machine Translated by Google

about him; for this, it can be a person who has often been in court for similar cases, or even been punished; then the judge writes down: he is mischievous and stubborn, and will hardly become a reformed person. This person will be punished four times more severely than if he admits. | know it

One got 4 years for denial, where he, for truthy beit, would have only received 1 year. f 8

Nelky. That can't be. Failure to confess can only result in an extraordinary punishment, not the full sentence.

L. If you steal in a room and are caught packing, and the witnesses say so, then you must confess, surely? |

Nelky. Far left! The same thing happened to me in Potsdam!

I and Sachye “) were in the room stealing; it cay

6 timber carters and someone else came in, | ran out and threw away the chisel, which was found and buried in the refraction of the objects fit, and we had our finery

makes us think that we would have found the door open because of trade yheds would have gone in, and we only got 8 months in prison, and were released on appeal. What do you say to that?

L. A Jew can certainly say that, but the cleaning would not work for me, because | do not act.

Nelky. Then say that's why you went in, to light your pipe.

If, on the one hand, one can gain a greater conviction from these few fragments of how necessary it is sometimes and how desirable it is always that the judge and police officers act against scoundrels and professional thieves

call is, no one ignorant of their most noble social idiom

tism, in their language; on the other hand, it cannot be considered difficult to find in most faithful outline of a truly practical Gauy

to find a philosophy as it has been followed as long as Gauy

ner exists, and will be followed as long as this class of criminals has not ceased to exist civilized world. The very certainty that the denying criminal, in the worst case,

N) Samuel Moses Sachse. He escaped before his arrest and now travels under the name Salome Franke. N * The fact is completely correct. The appellate court provisionally acquitted both defendants.

67

Only an extraordinary punishment, or, where this is not known by the theory of legislation at least a milder punishment than that which would be imposed upon a confession, can be imposed; that is precisely the crank which sets all his talents in motion in order to become quite adept at denial.

Undeniably, one has to wish oneself luck, considering the Iny

The individuality of the accused, whose comrade was Nelky, is such that the investigation has, for the most part, led to such satisfactory results. Given what is available here, it foresees what would have resulted had the criminals not been brought to justice.

Machine Translated by Google

hearing room and confession, and only then in prison come. NN

Whoever now wants to ask why a matter of such general importance has not been completely resolved, but rather why it has been cut off at the time of its most promising progress, since the many social and political issues linked to this progress

interests of obviously decisive preponderance over all economy

We want to point out to those who were concerned about the almost insurmountable mountains of obstacles and difficulties that confronted such a task, such a gigantic investigation, from all sides. Five hundred and twenty people were already implicated; several hundred more would probably have been disgraced.

and nine-tenths of them would have had to be arrested. If one had adhered to the principle of confrontation, as one had to, not a single one could have been taken to the penitentiary before the investigation of all accomplices had been fully concluded, so that 5 to 600 individuals would have had to be held in pretrial detention for years. But where would the enormous prison space necessary for this come from, since the existing one, as we have seen, was already insufficient? A completely new prison would have had to be built, at great expense and time, just for this investigation.

And then, a not inconsiderable portion of the convicted criminals resided abroad, and they could not be included in the local investigation, and therefore a complete resolution of the problem could not be made possible.

Of course, the path of the Convention would still have remained.

ben, and all German states, one would think, would probably be willingly offered their hand to the important work, insofar as it involved the extradition of people living in their territories

ten, here punished, crooks would have arrived. But how the costs should have been handled is another question. It may remain unexamined why the proposals to recognized by knowledgeable businessmen, a Grolman, Pfister and Stuhly Muller, have not found the slightest response; it is certain that in the present study more

one case has been presented

68

come if, where nequities, due to the determination of objective facts, types of crimes committed abroad, have not been answered at all – because perhaps claims for a cost contribution 8 feared.

Therefore, one may say, a section was unavoidable, and public security can, it seems, at least be satisfied with the results that the investigation has produced within its narrow, incredibly broad, limits.

It extends back over a period of 20 years. Over 800 crimes, predominantly violent thefts, have been brought to light in the course of the investigation.

men, of which only 549 have been discussed in detail, because the elucidation of the remaining ones partly has no influence on the punishment of the persons taken for investigation, partly in the ordered section of the investigation survey was unnecessary, partly impossible due to the lack of objective facts.

Machine Translated by Google

Of the crimes discussed, 43 consist of various offenses, 506 from robbery and violent or other significant thefts, whereby 46 public trees and 25 460 private individuals

so far as the amount can be determined, by more than twice one hundred and ten thousand thalers were stolen.

The files consist of 2,050 volumes, namely 854 general and special volumes, and 1,196 voluminous, detailed, and auxiliary files. Of the latter, 810 volumes concern the previous punishment of the 197 individuals brought under investigation.

Since October 31, 1835, the investigation has been focused on the knowledge of the first instance, whereby the recorded and largest partly also admitted association of the crooks as a gang moderate, in the legal sense, and therefore also imposed on the punishment for gang theft. The punishment imposed on each individual criminal, usually reduced in the second instance, is stated in the personnel notes where it appears.

In sum, it has now been recognized in the first instance

a. 1264 years of imprisonment, . 1380 lashes of corporal punishment.

56 individuals have been sentenced to 10 years or more.

The maximum sentence is 30 years. Acquitted of the accused

5 were guilty, 12 were released, including 3 with a sentence of 20, 25 and 30 years respectively"). All the others have the right to

Among the latter are Joyepb Adolph Royenthal and Wohlaue, the former to 30, the latter to 20 years of penal labor. Because of their her sincerity, which she demonstrated throughout the entire investigation, and because of at times merits for the same, furthermore because of their proven remorse, both 2 have been Most High:

69

part of the further assessment. Of the defendants released at the end of the investigation due to the dubious nature of their punishment and placed under police supervision in their places of residence, four escaped and were prosecuted, but so far only two have been recaptured, one of whom, after receiving a three-year sentence, surrendered voluntarily.

The theory of gang theft has given rise to numerous dissertations in the legal world, especially in recent times.

given, and has thus become a problem, because the existence of a common leader was generally regarded as an indispensable requisite as a criterion for a Vaude.

The question on this matter has been resolved all the more comprehensively on the occasion of the present investigation, as the first judge assumed the existence of a gang, while the second judge held the opposite view and was therefore significantly more lenient in determining the sentences. Which of the two sharply opposing judicial premises is more correct will leave to more expert judgment. This much is certain: the Criminal Court in Berlin, in accordance with the provisions of the Lowen

thal investigation, in a new, similar investigation that came before the forum, although marked by such glaring facts, again referred to the punishment of the bandy

theft, and I believe this is not without reason.

Machine Translated by Google

that they should be placed in a fortress, separated from their accomplices, and that after (1840) they should receive a report on their conduct.

Against Léwentbal, who through his evil will the initially conditioned enforcing the pardon granted to him, he was sentenced to corporal punishment of 20 lashes imprisonment until the pardon was granted, which he was not to be applied for before the 6 years.

This punishment has been mitigated by the King's Majesty to the extent that

1) the punishment should be completely avoided,
2) the imprisonment should be reduced to 15 years, and 3) he should be treated somewhat better in the penitentiary. aN 5

After he had served this sentence, which was reduced to 10 years in the second instance, in the penitentiary in Spandau until December 1838, the remainder of the sentence was remitted by the Highest Authority and he was released.

The same thing happened to Woblauer in the spring of 1839.

ja.
Gaunet tactics
and results from it.

To learn about the thieves' methods, as it is evident from the burying investigation has revealed, should not only be in security police point of view, but also for everyone who has something to lose and wants to protect themselves against thieving threats, all the more of essential interest, as today's tactics of the Jewish scoundrels, which, compared to earlier times, has undergone many modifications, can be most evidently deduced.

The thieves convicted here deviated from the usual practice less in the subordinate, but most frequently exercised, branches of the criminal trade; rather, this was primarily the only in those higher levels where the crowbar or ychliyyels the property is taken out from behind lock and key.

Usually, in this field of the most scrupulous industry, two main classes are distinguished namely: real burglars (delicate cabinet makers) and thieves who only use false keys

Here, however, these, otherwise very separate, varieties were shown partly fused with each other in the most intimate way, and the finished

ity of the individual almost always extended to both thieves

ytahl's maxims. But even if this was not the case, such a lack of dual skill could lead to the execution of a crime could never be prevented in one way or another, the reason for which lay in the nature of the thieving organism.

It has already been said of Betsche that the Gau nesting there

ner, for the purpose of committing their crimes, were provided with a vehicle. This, however, does not apply to Betsche alone, but was and is the case throughout the Grand Duchy of Posen and in the Elbe provinces. The spread of this principle has extended more or less to all countries, because the advantages associated with it for the criminals are indeed all too obvious. Therefore, all the cases brought here for investigation originated from this love out. N

71

Do these now, with a few exceptions, come from several

Machine Translated by Google

generations from ancestors who were already known as robbers and

Thieves were also notorious, but they formed neither in total nor together, nor even the Gaus living together in one place

ner, a single gang of thieves under a certain leader. The reason for this was, according to the testimony of a convict comrade, whose sincerity cannot be doubted, a two simpler: firstly, because the thieves had learned from many years of experience that such a connection, with a bey violent leaders were prosecuted by the law as a bond and punished more severely; and secondly, because they lacked the necessary unity due to envy and jealousy. Since, however, individuals were allowed to commit thefts, especially in commercial large-scale, difficult, if not entirely impossible, smaller associations arose from this purpose of preventing those thefts for which the opportunity would be spotted.

to carry out the task jointly, to divide the stolen goods among themselves, and to make a profit from the proceeds.

Such a group, called "Cbawre" or "Chawruyye" in the thieves' language, comprised 4 to 5, at most 6 people, from the number of Jewish thieves living together either in one place or nearby. Only from Betsche did

According to official records, there were 4 to 5 such chawruses there in about the year 1840, which, however, later on, with the constant increase of the thieving population, grew to ten.

The exclusive tendency of these connections was the Very

Exercise of violent theft, 28 be it by means of duplicate keys or by breaking into dwellings and other containers

Only those who were skilled in this field were eligible for admission. All other art students were excluded.

It was therefore a question of whether the theft had to be carried out by means of burglary or by means of a duplicate key, depending on the place and the opportunity, since both skills had their representatives in the Chawruse.

Each of these branches had a specific leader, called "Bohn herr" or "Balmayyematten" in thieves' language.

His choice depended on the extent of his skill in breaking in, in opening locks etc. Anyone who had acquired these qualities through prolonged practice of the thief's trade was *) The Christian thieves add Kabruye or Kaproysche.

) Balmayyematten is the actual Jewish expression. Bal means lord, but Mayyematten means theft. The compound word thus means lord or leader of theft. The expression Bohnherr (who breaks the path) belongs more to the jargon of Christian thieves, but is the most common other Chawruse members regarded him as their lord. As such, he possessed an iron fund to pay for food.

costs and expenses on the journey to the place of the thief

ytahls; he took the guards (bribes) necessary for security when committing the same; he opened, by means of burglary or night ykey, and stole. Despite all this, the other Cha: wruseymembers had to obey him. The authority, incidentally only limited, of such a bean lord, however, extended no further than the

Machine Translated by Google

Execution of one or more predetermined crimes, at most even up to the completion of an entire thieving spree.

With each new thieving enterprise, a new lord was elected, or the old one was re-elected. therefore not a true stereotypical leader, and could only be a thief during the perpetration of a crime.

ytahls demand obedience to his orders from the others.

The members of the Chawruyye themselves, called Chawern or Comrades, generally had no, in the very determined, ob

Liabilities and obligations towards the entire association, when committing a theft. The only on site and Place distributed.

They had to, each for himself, for the necessary provisions

money on a trip undertaken with the intention of thieving, ie to the common travel fund, and landlord

led to a proportional contribution, and to that end we cherish

ten: to use part of the proceeds of their thefts to purchase various, often valuable, precious items, which served as jewelry for their wives, but were actually intended to occasionally called emergency money. If a distant theft was discovered, and the crook had no cash to cover travel expenses, these presses were

The ties were deposited as collateral with trusted people who knew him as a thief, who were then in the possession of the U.S., against cash advances, and later redeemed with high interest from the money acquired through theft, in order to serve as recourse in the way. Many very wealthy Jews stand out in the present investigation as such deliberate promoters of criminal purposes.

But if it was not possible to cover travel expenses in this way, and if none of the chawers was in a position to advance them for the others, then, in a word, the thief

yhed companies in need of money, the lower gangster classes were either called Schottenfel

(shoplifter), Torfdrucker (pocketlifter), or Chilfer (counter-changer) by the Chawruyyey recruited to steal, on the way to the Masematten, at markets or in shops, as much as was necessary to maintain the entire chawrus. As compensation, such an adhibendus was entitled to a full share of the thefts committed by the other chawers.

73

No crook of this class steals, according to well-known experience, without being exactly familiar with the location of the theft to be carried out to be, because he, as is the case with occasional thefts, was so yhence, the danger of being caught is otherwise too easily exposed. So it was here as well. There were certain scouts (Baldoy who) who provided evidence of the theft opportunities to the Chawrus and in return received a share of the stolen goods; in addition, however, the embezzlement was often carried out by Chawers themselves.

The manufacture of the thieving instruments took place, as previously mentioned, primarily in Vetsche, in the two blacksmith's workshops located there. Each chawrus now owned its communal cupboard, its wardrobe, and its own vehicle. Each chawer was obliged to make a contribution to the maintenance and upkeep of these requisites.

Previously, until about 1808, thefts were mostly carried out on foot. However, around this time, when many crooks, who, under the guise of sutlers, served the armies, followed), returned with wagons whose advantages they had learned through experience, the possession of this means of transport became the aim of all Polish thieves' associations. The requirements and characteristics of such a thieves' vehicle were gradually established in practice: the horses must not be distinguished by their color, e.g. no gray, dun, etc., because the thieves thereby run the risk of attracting the attention of the

To attract people to themselves and to stay on their trail in case of any pursuit, betrayal, i.e., being ripped off. The car must be equipped with a tarpaulin in order to hide the traveling party from the eyes of known persons when setting out for a theft. They

The plan is lowered as soon as the thieves are near the place where the theft is to be committed, and is only raised again at dawn, after the deed has been committed, so that a description of the person who has passed through a place and returned the chawrus's vehicle, from the persons who might have noticed it, and thus protect them from discovery. The possession of such a vehicle, as one can easily see, has and continues to give the crooks incalculable advantages.

5) The tools required for breaking in.
) Lock picks, skeleton keys.

*) During the war years 1806 to 1814, legions of the notorious Jews were primarily with the French armies, where they allowed themselves to be used as spies, Donars etc., and, incidentally, on their own initiative, plundered the coffers of the wealthy. Crimes were committed at that time, with impunity, by these people. There are few of the older Jewish scoundrels who, when asked about their lives, do not say that they had participated in the last campaigns. Of course, they participated in them, but as very unprofitable volontaires :

and contributes very significantly to the increase of their criminal activities loneliness. Not only are they thereby enabled to travel quickly to places far from their homes, practice of thefts; that they leave the place where the crime was committed just as quickly after the crime has been committed

yen, and can reach their homeland, so that their absence from there often remains completely unknown to the possibly supervising authority, and finally that they can comfortably carry away a large amount of even intransportable stolen goods, but they also escape, in the support of such a vehicle, – this is no less yay

gen – under the control of the Gensd'armerie, which is on fahy tends to pay far less attention to traveling societies than to foot travelers, especially when they find common Jews.

If a thief had been robbed, it was the responsibility of the thief who had initiated the robbed to consult with his comrades about further measures.

It depended on whether he already belonged to a certain chawruyye, or whether such a one, for the execution of the thieffy ytahls, should yt first be formed. In the ytter case, the baldoy the Chawer will give his opinion to the individual Chawruyyeymembers, about the manner of execution, and heard their any ye view of it. Only those persons were exempt from this consultation who only once, or quite by chance, encountered the thieffy ytahl were taken along, so that Ue, to the detriment of the Chawruyye, did not subsequently lose their knowledge of the Mayyematten

Machine Translated by Google

would like to make use of it in case, as often happened, the execution should not be immed possible.

The baldowerding crook did not yet belong to a particular chay

So he turned to several of his acquaintances, whom he hoped would join forces with him, and thus assembled a group, with whom the consultation then also took place. During these cons it was decided when to embark on the theft, which route to take, what to take with one, and to go to the place on foot or by carriage.

If the theft was likely to have been carried out during the day and only with the aid of a spare key, nothing was taken except a scraper and the necessary number of Klamoniyy: the scraper, for vomiting up the items in the premises.

ly closed containers, for the artificial opening of which time is rarely taken. The number Klamoniyy to be taken was and is different. But should there be a complete number, the

SchayyyKlamoniyy fein, fo find dazu 28 erforderlich, namely:

*) Stem meyen.

75

1) Six large French of the following form:

In the thieves' language, called Zarfeyy (French). They are found in the beard of varying height and width.

2) Three French suffixes of this form: called welych echoder.

3) Three French of the following form:

called welch front slider.

4) A French suffix of the following form:

called welych Hinteryschieber.

5) Three smaller French keys of the form described under Nos. 2, 3 and 4, for opening containers; called "little Welsh" in thieves' language.

76

6) Two French surrogate keys of different heights in the beard in the following form:

which in the thieves' language are called Welch.

The two hooks in the beard of these suffixes, which otherwise have the shape of sub.

No. 1, must be as close to each other as possible.

Machine Translated by Google

7) Two German keys, ie with a hollow tube, of the form described in sub. No. 2:

called Echoder in thieves' language.

8) A German key of this form:

called German Vorderschieber.

9) Another of the following form:

called German Hinteryschieber.

77

10) A suffix of the following form:

called German Vorderbogen.

11) Finally two of the following shape:

called "Hinterbogen" in German. Form No. 2 was later considered more suitable by the crooks.

12) And three smaller, hollow-tubed, backup keys of the form indicated in Nos. 2, 3, and 4 for opening small German locks; called Belein-German in thieves' language.

All these suffixes are called, as mentioned, Klamoniyy or Taltel.

However, since these names have become too profane in recent times, have been, the Jewish thieves have given it the name: little Purim, in contrast to the Sha which they called big Klamoniyy or Purim.

The same tools were only used when in Tchily leVy) should be stolen.

ar, on the other hand, to act at night as a Mayyematten* “), i.e. to commit an actual cupboard theft by means of burglary, the following instruments were taken along, which together are called the cupboard tools.

*) In the evening hour, twilight.

) To act means to steal in thieves' language. For this, although less frequently, the ex
"fi achern" is also used.

78

1) The crowbar, usually called Krummkopf, but called RebyMauchyche or Reby Tauweie by the Jewish thieves.
There must be a special, perhaps following

Machine Translated by Google

shape, is usually 16 pounds in weight, about anderty

Half a foot long, has a strong inch in diameter, a 14-inch long, hook-like curve at the upper end, and tapers downwards. It is not available anywhere in this shape and is used by thieves from their cheyyen BaryelyMelochey

nern") are always specially made.

2) A drill, called a drill bit, whose handle is about 1
Foot long piece of wood, which is broadly pointed on one side like a chisel,

3) is called a rug. If the scrapery over or crooked head the door or the lid of a container. nis raised in the air, this rug is inserted into the gap formed thereby, so that the opening, when the – Thief with the chisel or crowbar wants to reach further, do not gather yourself together again.

4) A pair of pincers, called a biter.

5) A fire steel, to which, by means of hinges, a pointed pin is attached, which is called a skewer and is used for opening wicks; a small end of a wax candle (neir-es) and a sulphur thread, called a yellow thread (geeler), for lighting a light.

6) The so-called Peiger, also called Syam, with which the dogs are poisoned, and which consists of a dough of crow's eyes fried in fat and bread or flour.

7) Several bags, called mer, for packing the stolen something good.

8) A hatchet and an axe, the latter called a mill cracker, these called a mill cracker. |

*) Familiar castles. | *) The crow's

eyes may, according to known regulations of the police ten, no pharmacist may sell to unknown persons without a certificate. Deyenungey The thieves always had such things in stock. They knew how to find such under the pretense that they were horse dealers whose horses had problems with their crops easily able to sell them from several small-town pharmacies.

79

If a public kasye or yoyt a masyematten baldower

was, where it was important to break into iron money boxes, the thieves also had a weapon

genwind, called coffee mill. But if the trails of a window were broken during a masyematten new strands were bought on the way there and the thieves also provided themselves with a

Hebebaume, called Drong in the thieves' language, which they, accustomedly only in the last place before the theft, stolen from some farm. ei |

The KlamoniU, the Crooked Head, the Biter, and the Brunger were hidden on their journey to a Masematten, either in the wagon or in the lantern basket, which was with a false bottom for this purpose. In the inns, however, where the thieves might stop a were necessary, the thieves' tools were usually placed in the guest stable under the manger (chawure).

The commission of cupboard thefts or nighttime break-ins did not occur at all times of the year, but primarily in the autumn and spring. Not in the summer, because the nights are too short then, and not in the winter, because the ground is usually covered with snow, and the thieves' trail is therefore easy to follow. *) The best time for this is in the months of October and November.

August, which is therefore also called the golden Chayhech, i.e., the golden darkness, by scoundrels. But even in these months, not all nights are suitable for carrying out such thefts.

net, which simply cannot tolerate any yublation. Therefore, no lewone (moonshine) is allowed N

In the rare case that a chawruse neither possessed a spare key nor knew how to immediately detect it if a theft by a thief was imminent, the crooks knew how to help with the following maneuver. One of the chawers went to a village blacksmith and ordered according to the following sign.

2) Hidden, buried.

The thieves from the Grand Duchy of Poyen have yet these The general rule, however, was little changed, precisely because they had very little other income than theft. Since we have had such mild winters, they have been thieving all winter

) Newer term for key theft.

two machines, which he, as a mechanic, claimed to want to use. In order to give the order appearance of a mechanical purpose, which was necessary to avoid possible suspicion, the machine sub. Litt. A. had to fit exactly with its hooks into the holes of the machine sub. Using this alleged machine, the crooks filed the rings a and b into four parts, and hey

At this time, they held 8 spare keys: four French echo keys from machine A, and four Zarfe from machine B, after filing out the flesh from the four beards and filing through the inner side wall. In this way, the spare keys were examined in particular, by means of which the merchants Lierych and Sons in Cottbus and a French commissionaire in Kaliych were robbed of very significant sums.

Machine Translated by Google

According to these organic facilities and these preparations

The crooks went out looking for prey.

Before the theft was actually carried out, one or perhaps several people were taken from the Chawrusey

yends to take a closer look at the place of the theft visibly to see one's situation, which in thieves' language is called making a blind person reconnoitering had to convince themselves, by knocking on the shutters, etc., that no one was sleeping in the room where the break-in was to take place; they had to find out where the night watchman stood when called; whether there was a dog nearby, and how to approach in order to poison it if it barked. They also had to find out how the entrance to the city be gained, either over the wall, by means of a ladder, or by breaking through gates, and where, if necessary, ladders could be found.

According to the reports of such envoys, the company

men not entirely without danger, and was nevertheless not so much time beforey present to postpone it, i.e. if the theft were later committed, the same hope of loot was longer present, then that reconnaissance was gradually withdrawn from all the chawersy and only when the majority of the Chawruyye have the Mayy yematten was recognized as yure, it was implemented. It means this: first stone the blind and then make a disgrace.

The rules for committing the theft itself were as follows:

If the deed can be carried out only by means of a backup key, the person from the chawrus who is involved in this theft art has the most routine, to the closed door, opens it and

2) If the dog is on a chain, and at some distancey from the access organ, so it makes noise before poisoning is possible. It is documented th a circumstance has caused several deaths.

ytaihle partly failed, partly remained completely untried.

returns with the backup keys to the others, who are now outside

The leader of the Balmayyematten then goes into the open room and escapes. OR a 15

If, on the other hand, the commission of the theft, for whatever reason, requires special caution, the person who poychent) has, also act at the same time). So that in the worst case, he does not get lost, he puts, as soon as he has unlocked the door, the spare keys in some hiding place until the theft is successfully completed. He will then

Easily caught in the act, he still has the option of denial. According to Nelkp's defense theory, he then wanted to engage in bargaining, found the door open, and had just entered room when he was innocently detained. – | |

Already by the Valdower of the theft the thieves know in they mer, when the person to be robbed, in the thieves' language of the suitor, called, is not at home. They lie in wait for him until he leaves. One of the chawers then sneaks after him, observes

Machine Translated by Google

him carefully, and if he should return, he should inform his comrades as quickly as possib

If the person to be robbed is not present in his dwelling at the beginning of the thieving enterprise,

But before the end of the same, it is the duty of the companion who is on guard for a dist from the place of theft to master the suitor, that is, to hold up the damned cat by a conv until the thief, who is busy inside the house and is informed of the danger by another companion who is usually on guard in front of the house, has caught the thief.

has found the opportunity to make do with the stolen goods, or without to make Yelbe out of the dust.

The locked containers in the apartment will be

By the way, during the day, because it is quicker, usually with the chisel, but during the night, to avoid any noise

yches, opened with the smaller additional keys mentioned earlier.

If, on the other hand, the theft is to be carried out by means of burglary, it depends on whether the place is a closed city, i.e. a city surrounded by walls. In this case, the entrance is either by climbing over the wall, or by crawling through a water channel running under the wall, or even by *) Unlocked.

*) Stealing. 4 N

2 Be arrested with the thieves' keys.

er) Already mentioned by Christians: this protecyon of the profeyyioned prosy ychliyyeldiebe. See the alphabetical list of a number of robbers 2c.

Hamburg 1814. Page 20.e A

82

By breaking through those small gates, which are often found in the city walls, intended for a certain purpose. 3 e DE nn

In order not to be ripped off, the thieves come several miles away.

len in the darkness. Some distance from the village, in a hidden place, the wagon remains harnessed, under the supervision of one of the chawers. This place is given to the y zew or zinc place. The one who returns the wagonsy remains, is at all times a companion of the thieves, so that they can be sure that he will not leave during their absence"). He must

Turn the wagon around on the zinc yard and feed the horsesy

so that they can last longer when leaving after the theft has been committed. Furthermore, it is his duty to pay careful attention when someone, on foot or on horseback, comes near him. He then tends to drive slowly away from the city in order not to attract attention or to make a show of something in the carriage or the harness, so that it looks as if something has been torn or broken. Meanwhile,

the remaining chawers go to the place of the theft, where they usually arrive after 10 o'clock the evening. |

As soon as they have entered the city, they sneak along the piles until they reach the one they want to steal from.

Here they share the thieves' tools among themselves, take off their boots, and put on felt shoes. If these are not available, they walk away in their bare socks. Through this precaution

Machine Translated by Google

it will be possible for them to sneak up on people, especially the night watchman, without noticed. |

The beanmaster or balmayyematten then posts the necessary guards (greases), whose attention must be directed to ensure that their comrades working under the theft can be disturbed or arrested. If they see people approaching, men from whom they fear no pursuit"), they retreat to a concealed place previously designated for this purpose and let the people pass quietly. But if they notice that pursuers (lamps") are approaching, they give them comrades working under the masyematten, or who have already broken in, an agreed signal. This consists, if the lamp is still distant, ie a silent lamp is, in a quiet snap

) It deserves this documented, by more than 100 professional expertsy boys admitted fact, certainly great consideration. The usually

The usual excuse of the driver of such a traveling thieves' company, if they are discovered arrested, is usually that he is just a driver and knows nothing about the purpose of the trip. He is certain that this is always an impertinent

according to Ög

) Persecution.) Guardians,

83

with their tongues; if, however, the lamps are already very close to them, i.e., a full lamp, they call out loudly to one another, and in both cases the chasers then retreat as best they can. In large cities, where the frequency is higher, the chased thieves separate themselves to make their way more easily; in smaller towns, however, they prefer to stick together to drive the lamps away through threats or violence, and thus retreat together.

As soon as the smears of this shape are properly set up, the remaining chawers who are to act go under the masyematten. The break-in itself is now carried out in various ways, depending on the location. = 1 If a wall is to be built, which is made of manerytes, ie in the thieves' language, a Ewen-Ehaume, fo bediy

The thieves only call themselves crooked. But if it is one, wall built only from clay paws and clay stakes, ie a glue y

Chaume, fo is used with the crooked head to spread the clay between the stay ken is pushed out and drilled with a drill at the upper end of the stake, where it is folded

a point, until the stake becomes rotten and can be easily and noiselessly removed using a crowbar. | If the wall is built of wooden blocks, as in Poland the so-called blockhouses, inner floor of the park

terre is not floored, but only laid with clay, yo it becomes y nimble, on the threshold, a deep hole, by means of a spade, (digger) dug into the earth, in this way the threshold and y

terminated and, by hollowing out and breaking through the floor, penetrated the room. ne r
Thieves call this a "cab-making". | If,

after the wall has been torn down, they find a wooden wall inside the room, i.e. in thieves' language: the wall is gone.

croyhent or vertawelt, Yo be drilled next to each other

Machine Translated by Google

which drills several holes in a square, after which, using the crooked head, this part of pane is broken out. The openings in the wall are made so large that a person can comfortably crawl through. | Me en ee Where a theft is to be committed by breaking into the window, if it is left unguarded, nothing more happens than that a patch of turpentine is placed on the outside of the pane and the pane is pressed in. When the patch is withdrawn, the glass shards stick to it, which simultaneously eliminates any sound of the broken glass.

yplyhed window pane is avoided. Such a yplyhed window pane is used

However, the thieves only attack where the window panes are cemented; where they find them lined with lead, they simply bend back the lead and remove the panes.

84

The thief reaches through the opening, twists the window from the inside, and opens it.

If the windows are secured by shutters and these are fitted with window screws, the screw nut, if one is present, is snapped off in its riveting with pliers, and then the turned back from the outside to the inside.

If the outer or inner window shutter is locked or chained from the inside, then, by means of the drill, in the form of a half moon, several holes drilled next to each other, in one of them

yt hege a meyh, and in this way in the shop a half

A round hole is cut through which the thief can reach for the bolt and chain and open the

In thieves' language this means: making half a lewone.

If someone is sleeping near the room whose window is to be opened, no pane is broken because this could cher Weye, but could be associated with noise. It will then rather between the window cross and the frame, where the Riey

A ring or chain, called a clasp in thieves' language, is attached and drilled with a drill with tallow until the bolt springs off without a noise, or until an opening is created through which it can be turned back or lifted down.

It sometimes happens that the location of the

The problem is that thieves can only get to the door of the room they want to steal by opening the back door of the house or through the kitchen. If this door is then locked from the inside, or

If you do not want to take the spare keys, they will be left at the edge of the doory filling (of the so-called mirror) a few holes were drilled all around, and then a knife was cut from one hole to the other until the entire mirror was removed.

If there is no mirror in the door, the bolt is withdrawn or unlocked using the half-leaf described above if the key is inside the lock. However, if this is missing and the bolt does not fit, the company must men be abandoned, since then only open violence, as was previously the case with storm beams, remains, but such violence is completely excluded from today's criminal practices.

Breaking in through the furnace is only very rarely attempted by skilled thieves. It occurs when the furnace is to be heated from June, by inserting a hole in the furnace wall through which the pipe passes.

Machine Translated by Google

) The crooks call this, characteristically enough, a bite. Da nemy yuch as the egg is called Beitze in the thieves' language, they thereby indicate the caution and cautiousness with which this type of stealing must be carried out.

*) In this way the crooks mainly carried out the thefts in Berlin.

If the windows are secured with iron trestles, four new hemp ropes are twisted into a rope, which is looped through two of the trestles and secured. A long, strong lifting beam (drong) is inserted through this rope. One end of it is propped against the wall, while the thieves press the other end down with all their strength until the trestles spring out of the wall. The longer the lifting beam is and the closer one end is to the wall, the easier it is to break out.

a AN: to the wall, the greater the effect
ewalt. |

Inside the vomited premises, all containers which you cannot be opened with the spare key, with the scraper only blown up. Padlocks are opened by means of a way twisted off, or, as the crooks call it, strangled, any

The distant money box was broken open with the wagon winch, or so-called cash mill. It makes no difference and provides no greater security that the box may be screwed to the floor; for the same rope, which is used to break out the window rails, is then tied through the handle of the box so that it hangs down slightly on the side. The wagon winch is then placed with its lower end on the rope, and with its upper end under the lid of the box, and the lid is then open.

But if there are no handles on the box, the rope is looped around the belly of the box and then the winch is attached, or the rope is twisted together using a stick until the box is together and then the lid, with a slight boom crash, jumps up by itself.

As soon as it is opened in one way or another, i.e.

Once the plague has been committed, the lord of the woods goes into the broken-in premises, lights a light, and steals whatever he pleases. If he cannot carry away the stolen goods alone, namely, if they consist of goods or goods, he hands them over to his comrades, who pack them in the sacks they have brought with them.

The crime is usually completed at 2 a.m., and all the comrades then return to their wagons with the stolen goods. However, because the crooks are always particularly concerned with making the authorities believe that the theft was committed by local residents themselves, and not by strangers,

Thieves; all equipment used for theft will be penetrate into a place, e.g. ladders etc., either back to the place where they were taken, or at least hidden so that they cannot be found easily to reveal the trail of the thieves.

If the vehicle is not found on the spot where it was left, the thieves will give a sign of their arrival by clapping their hands three times, which the comrades who remained with the wagon responded. Everyone then followed the sound, sat down in the wagon with the stolen goods and the thieves' tools that they had brought back, quickly drove off, either to other thefts, where the same thing happened, or to the safe homeland, often taking detours to avoid possible pursuit.

Machine Translated by Google

86

The division of the stolen goods takes place either on the way,

in the first best pub, without having a thiefy

lodging is required, or even if the crooks come from a place, only upon their arrival their particularly recognizable weapons

or gold and silver items are stolen, these will be returned to the

The money is not taken home, but is brought directly to a sharpshooter, where the proceeds are then divided among the thieves. If the sharpshooter does not want to accept the stolen items, perhaps because the price is too high, or if one is not immediately available, they temporarily buried in hidden places, usually in forests, until the initial noise has passed same thing also happens currently with the duplicate keys and other thieves' tools, so that they would not be found during any searches and thus be discovered. The burying of the thieves' tools

However, it usually takes place in the place where the crook lives, or at least in his immediate vicinity.

The sharp-playing player is always told where and how the items were stolen. Of course, he already knows that they were stolen, since he is a cook, and the Gauy ner knows who would not engage in such dealings with a wretch, which is why his usual excuse when he is called to account, that he did not know this, never deserves to be believed. But where and how is no less important for him to know.

yen absolutely necessary so that when he resells the stolen things with due caution and especially to avoid the area where the theft occurred.

The Baldowers, on the other hand, are rarely informed when their share is handed over how the theft, whether violent or not, was carried out.

But there is no need for this, since these people already know in advance, if they demonstrate the opportunity, how the theft can be carried out.

The crooks who steal by night break-ins bite, as expected, cabinet makers or elegant cabinet makers, the keys

But thieves are called Taltalmish, KuUer, Latchener, Poyychey

ner also called Makkener. The latter name is the most common. Those who steal by day are called Jommaky

kener or ScheinkuUer, but those who stand in the villages

len, DorfmaKKener, or DorfkuUer. When committed at night, theft of keys is also called black trading on Drehrum.

87.

»What is worth mentioning about this class of crooks is that

The so-called "brandy money." If, as often happens, a theft is committed in a place during the fair or market time, the burglars who are present at the time, i.e. in this case the serious market thieves, come to burn it. Each of them then receives, according to tradition

Need a small sum, perhaps a few thalers, and this aby

Machine Translated by Google

The discovery is called the Branutweinsgeld.

Now, what concerns the other types of criminal activity, as they were particularly practiced by Löwenthal and his comrades

The following are particularly distinguished: g I) The Schottenfeller. They cultivate theft at fairs and markets or elsewhere in merchants' shops. Their trade consists in stealing tailoring goods. The male individuals wear long overcoats that reach down to the ankles and are lined along the entire length of the waist. On the inside, on the side, the lining is not attached at the top of the waist.

sews and forms a wide and deep pocket. Because, however, a such a pocket which is directly attached to the skirt, this, and convenient for the thief and noticeable for the person being stolen from, ytrayf ber: undergoes, for is in recent times among the Schottenfellern a bey

A special pocket has become popular, which is located between the front of the coat and the lining, which in this case is not sewn on at the bottom. This thief's pocket, called by the "Fuhre" or "Gole"

The women form this so-called "petticoat" by sewing either the upper and lower skirts, or the petticoats, together at the bottom and making a slit in the first one, from the side. thus goes around their entire body. This enables them to carry off far more stolen goods than men, and for that very reason, they are also more dangerous than them. Not only by women, but also

but also by children, often still at a very young age, they form a branch of the Gauer trade.

Usually, at least two people are involved. One (the Srikener) has the merchant bring him goods for

He complains and criticizes this, and to satisfy him

the merchant keeps handing out new pieces until the load is becomes dentically full. As often as the merchant turns his back, the other (the shop-picker) steals from the presented or otherwise at hand items of goods, taking away as much as he can gen oder kan, in his load. Finally, the Srikener then looks for a few pieces of goods and lets them to pick it up perhaps in a few hours, pay a small sum, and leave. As he leaves, he faces the audience.

tenpicker to the left side, or even walks behind him, so that the person being robbed (the suitor) does not notice his swollen skirt.

If one would like to know the sum which the merchants only class of thieves annually, one would certainly be astonished by this. No other kind of trade carried out by such a large number of individuals in such a circumstance.

88

yeys are more common than the scotch fur trade. It can be assumed with certainty that at least 5,000 syers are engaged in this activity.

The very notorious Hermann Moyes Sachye from Bismarck, who, despite being only 20 years old, had already been in Unteryny twelve times had been in custody and had stolen since his childhood, was finally arrested in 1833 as an accomplice of the Löwenthal enterprise investigation, delivered to Berlin). He too was, like many others, dere, fine, in all preliminary investigations Ytiliyed, Lay genyytyme unfaithful. When brought to confession, he began with the following strange words

"I will confess, I am a Schottenfeller. To all of

However, I can no longer remember the thefts I committed because of the large number. I have snatched as far as Orleans and Paris, and what I have found in my n life, does not go into this room." N

At his age, he could only have been practicing the thieving trade for a maximum of 10 years even if his talents had developed so early. How high would the amount of his thieves be?

years only after 50 years? –

The thefts of the Schottenfeller are often not discovered by the thieves, or only when the thieves are already safe with their fine booty. If, however, they are recaptured, the stolen goods are already in third and fourth hands. For just as the thieves visit fairs and markets, hold them, i.e., to steal, so too does the sharpshooter.

ler to buy the stolen goods. With a sack under their arms they walk up and down the streets, and where they see a Scotsman –

When they see a thief with a full load, they run after him, often completing the purchase at the first door they see. In the absence of any evidence, the police usually have no other option than to perhaps hand over his passport, which essentially means nothing at all has happened.

Quite often, the authorities themselves undermine the already difficult evidence by not paying the necessary attention to the person of the crook. Possession of a bribe is always a very strong indication against him, and the destruction of this pocket by tearing lining is therefore certainly his first concern. – But this could easily be avoided.

Y He hanged himself here in prison, as, for trespassing against the house of geytaye, a disciplinary punishment should be enforced against him.

be bent if every police officer who arrests a market or shoplifter first examines his bag and him take it off if it contains a load. Even if the scoundrel then says that this bag is intended for his house trade, this excuse will not, in the eyes of any judge, change the strength of charge.

weaken the evidence because it is just as unbelievable and worn out as, for example, the case of a thief caught with stolen goods: that he has found them. |

2. The peat printers, also called pickpocketers or soap-pullers. They practice pickpocketing at fairs and markets, in the theater, at folk festivals, and wherever else a gathering of people takes place. Usually there are several of them. Horseshy

Markets find their most prominent gathering places because the buyers there usually carry most money with them. As soon as someone has won a suitor, he gives his owner a coin to cause a crush, i.e., to cause a crush. During this crush, the purse or watch is pulled from the pocket of the person being pushed very nimbly. The person who steals immediately passes the stolen item on to his comrades standing behind and beside him. Even if he is detained, if the person being robbed immediately notices his loss, he still lets go.

something against him, because he was never in the possession of the stolen y a good thing is found. But if the thief can find the stolen goody

Machine Translated by Google

tel, before he is caught, does not give it to his comrade, so he throws him among the people standing around him (he snatches the knife) and then, when brought before the court, denies the crime.

In recent times, the Jewish peat printers have begun to make a special business out of the fact that they

Weekly markets for women who are there to shop

from the hand basket or work bag that you have hanging on your arm who steal wallets. The offspring of the scoundrels, children up to 14 or 15 years of age, especially used for this purpose, because they, due to their small size and agility, are especially skilled at this type of theft. 5 Incidentally, the Jewish scoundrel only rarely bothers with stealing handkerchiefs, etc., because it brings in too little.

2) They were also called village printers; however, this is incorrect. "Porf" means "bag," but "Druck" means "Zuzug" (to print); the whole thing is "Zuzug" (bag pulling). The person to be robbed is called a suitor. N

* Sign."

10 | know of a case where such a boy of 14 years,

During several years when his father was in the family, his couragey ter and two small siblings solely through his fine thieving talent.

A friend of her mother once jokingly asked her what she would wish for if she had the choice. "If the boy did not grow up!" she answered immediately.

90

3. The Chalfen or Chilfer. The expression: Chalfen (cr) or Ebilfer (from Pon, to change) is borrowed from the Jewish language and means, in its actual meaning, money changer in the ordinary sense, i.e., without any criminal activity. In contrast to the thieves referred to here, who use money exchange only as a pretext for the purpose of stealing, they would have to be nugen, left-wing Chalfen (Jalywechsler, because "left" means wrong); meanwhile, like so many from the Jewish to the Gauy

Words that have passed from the German and Kochemer languages have taken on a completely different, often opposite, meaning here, as is the case here. In the criminal and police vocabulary, Chalfen (plural Chalfonim) is understood (at least one should!) to mean only those thieves who make a business out of exchanging

yel to steal money. | Se

The thieving mania of the cashiers consists in stealing a very considerable portion of a sum presented to them during a money exchange, in front of the person they wish to steal, in such a skillful manner that the exchanger usually has no idea of the loss he has suffered. This is done by an incredibly skillful movement of the thumb (usually the right hand, since only a few people know how to act left and right), by pinching it into the hollow of the hand, in which

19 stolen gold pieces and then return the handy

iehen. | 5 eef

One might say that this type of theft is practiced almost exclusively by Jews: perhaps a natural monopoly of the beyouy

but, far exceeding that of the Christian thieves, the ability and education of the Jewish perhaps also that these thievesy

For them, a special, caste-like, perpetuating

Machine Translated by Google

werbe ist. N ; 3 N In the past, the losses caused by this type of thieves were, at least in each individual case not so great for the victim, since the loot was always only in a few places at most.

lern beyist. Ju könný түмүр, however, this ryation has changed by y changed because the Chalfen had taken a different direction in their industrial activity, indeed much to their advantage

ben; for while they otherwise only attempted their thieving exercises with current money, – for the crooks also progress with the times – came to the, admittedly very obvious, insi men that they are much more likely to profit from stealing gold coins. Therefore, even today, experienced thieves only engage in gold theft.

The usual way of proceeding is as follows:

The Chalfen goes to a money changer or to whom hey yt best merchant, of whom he probably thinks that he has gold pieces beforey has advised, and asks with polite words, while he yuggling for a

91=

stranger, give him a gold piece, usually a doubley

Louis d'or, which he needed, for Courant. He is – a necessary requirement! – decent, indeed: very finely dressed, and the merchant, although exchanging money was perhaps his own business substantial business, but has reservations about the modest to reject the stranger's money. He then takes a single gold piece from his gold box to give to the stranger. The stranger, however, after examining it, asks very politely to give him a gold piece, perhaps one with a jagged edge, a Brunswick coin, and the merchant then, according to the rule, reaches out his gold box.

to search for the requested piece. This is what the buyer would like, and what he actually wanted to bring about with his objection regarding the imprint. He now pushes himself toward the person to be robbed, acts as if he suddenly perceives in the gold coin that the latter is holding in his hand a quality of gold such as he has described, and, apparently to draw the attention of the merchant or money changer, reaches into the cash register with the outstretched index finger of his right hand. At the same time, however, he holds the thumb and the other three fingers of his right hand clenched together in such a way that the latter is under the index finger.

finger forms a hollow. By placing his hand flat on the cheese, he knows by an extremely quick, to the uninitiated, noticeable movement of the thumb to clamp up to 10 double Louis d' or into the hollow of the hand, which he then quickly withdraws again.

Apparently looking at his watch or taking out currency to exchange, he knows how to use the opportunity to put the stolen gold pieces into his pocket. e e e 5

The theft itself is hardly the work of a customer. It may happen that the money changer or merchant pulls back his cash when the borrower reaches into it and rebukes him for his audacity; but this can never help, because in the same

The moment the child reached in, the thief was already there.

theft completed. Sometimes the thief also becomes suspicious, but, not entirely sure of his case, it seems to him too great a risk to accuse someone of theft without positive persuasion. If no suspicion arose against the buyer during the transaction of the exchange, the loss will usually be noticed only late, when one no longer thinks about the real perpetrator in the slightest, and often makes assumptions based on completely unintentional

, usually at household members; in the opposite case, however, when one subsequently estimates the cash balance and thereby determines the theft, the perpetrator is long gone and can no longer be reached. Therefore, this type of swindle almost always goes unpunished. For a swindle is a sometimes over the deed, but as a rule there is no other witness than the person who was robbed himself, so that even in a judicial investigation then resulted in more than a provisional release speech, comes out.

92

The police and judiciary can therefore basically only protect them against the dangers posed by this class of thieves, but the public must do this with greater caution.

Every merchant would do well not to engage in such exchange transactions from the outset, as soon as a specific gold piece is requested for exchange. One can rely on the fact

yes desire always indicates a Chalfen, especially if he has a lot of easily offers an unusually high premium. This, however, lies outside the subtle caution of Jewish thieves, and only happens if the merchant refuses to enter into the exchange transaction. With the current poor gold price, many have been encouraged by the fact that the buyer offers them a price of 20 Sgr. for the Louis d'or! 5

A cashier can only be caught in the act if you hold his hand the moment he withdraws it from the cash box, where the stolen money will then be found.

It should also be noted that where perhaps, as is often the case in shops, two people are active in the business, usually two assistants are also operating. While one of them

catches the thiefy

ytahl committed, the other must employ the second (frike himy nen) so that he cannot see the thief's fingers. They

He always positions himself so that the person he is about to steal from is standing to his right, with the upper surface of his hand facing him; otherwise he would be able to pe the movement of the thumb under the thief's hand.

Finally, the Chalfen usually demand such gold pieces which am yeltenyt courfiren, so that the merchant is induced to ye:

to search around in a cash register.

Other methods of initiating the theft are as follows: . a

The Ganner buys some little thing, worth somey

gen Groychen, puts down a Thaler, and wishes that what he hasy

in certain coin types, perhaps in two-gross piecesy

ken or silver groychen. The seller then bolts usually ly brought his cash register to look for the required type of money.

"Oh," says the crook, "here you have half a table coin (or something similar), | would lik have that." Then he reaches into the cash box to get the coin out and steals.

| Great practice and dexterity is required for this genre of

Machine Translated by Google

Thefts are necessary. However, since merchants and actual exchangers ler are more careful with their cash, so is

That maneuver doesn't always work. Inexperienced markety visitors, especially country people, but the more often the loot subjected to a change, which usually takes place in the following way:

If the Chalfen meets a farmer who, as is often the case at markets, is carrying a full yellow jacket, he approaches him and asks: Where is he from? Has he experienced this?

ren, he asks him to order this or that to the schoolmaster or schoolteacher or Schmidt, and as recognition of this he wants

he should give him a tip, perhaps 5 Sgr. He now reaches for an eighty groychen piece and demands the rest back; however, in any specific coin type, e.g. a new four-groycheny

Piece 7c. To comply with the generous Jew's wish, the farmer steps behind a door with him and fastens his moneyy cat to search inside. Of course, he has to pre-empt the contents.

if he finds the required coin; the crook taps it once or twice, and it would be a miracle

if his loot amounted to less than 10 thalers. In this way, for example, several years ago, notorious Chalfen

Leo Franke from Werben, for 14 days, the Ukermark farmers visiting the grain market in Berlin for a very considerable sumy

men beytohlen. |

Since Chillewen is not absolutely necessary Genoyy

fen necessary, since there is no Baldower and no Schary fenypeler needs, with whom the chalfen must share the profits of the theft, since he furthermore does not need expensive tools (supplementary keys etc.), it follows automatically that he is

Thefts have more significant advantages than the cabinets and locksmiths

No one, although his are never of such significant individual importance as those of this of thieves. | know of several children who were released naked and bare from the penal institution only a year ago, but who are nevertheless not entirely comfortable today.

inadequacies, but have even been able to provide their daughters with not entirely insignificant sums. – One may dare to claim that chivvies is one of the most profitable and safest crooked trades. |

Inexperience and carelessness, by the way, are particularly conducive to

This type of theft is common, and one would therefore think that it could be most easily counteracted if, for example, the public were made aware of the methods of these crooks through public notices at fairs and markets. Probably usually, they would then not dare to use their talents, which had become obvious). N

*) It gives me the greatest pleasure to be able to report that the police authority in Frankfurt following this view, which | had already published in the Merker articles, had printed not shop to shop and from vault to vault at the Reminiscere Fair in 1840,

94

Machine Translated by Google

4. The Kitten-smugglers, also called Scheinspringer and Kegler. Their tactics are already evident from their name. Kitt bites the Hans, but shoving means to sneak, the translation being "Hauseinschleicher" (house-sneakers). They commit their thefts in the Mory generations by knocking on the door of the first room they came across.

If no one comes in, they open the unlocked door, call out "Good morning!" and enter, compliments snowing down, if they receive no answer. Once they have thus assured themselves that no one is present in the room, they take whatever they can carry off, usually money and precious st

5. The stippers. They practice theft, usually in merchants' shops, with a rod made of thin whalebone, which is smeared with birdlime and is called a stippling rod. Usually people are involved. While one is on their

In whatever way he tries to occupy the attention of the seller, preferably by removing his

the shop for a while, the other sticks the pole rod through the hole usually found in the surface of the counter into the bowl (lesfinne), bends it and pulls it back again, whereupon the rod hangs full of coins.

This type of theft is almost extinct in recent times.

This has become common practice because the clinking of money can rarely be avoided, and therefore the danger of discovery is always too close.

> Further versions of the Gannerge mentioned in 4 and 5y

By the way, you will find werbe in the dictionary under the words "Kit: tenfchieber," "Stippruthe" and "Stippruthe."

6. The Goleychechter. Gole means carriage, wagon; ychey but cut or slaughter. The trade of this kind of thieves consists in cutting off the trunk or bales of goods from a carriage or freight wagon. If the trunk is actually cut off from a carriage ynchnitten, this is called a Kracherfetzen. The inytruytrucyt, which used for this purpose is a so-called Kaut, ie an inlay with a round, sharp point, somewhat like a Silesian knob. It often happens, however, that the trunk, if it is attached to the cart not with ropes but with chains, is broken open and ends on the cart itself. This also includes the Golehops, i.e., thieves who escape in the event of a neither sit on the carriages passing the country road and vomit up the carriages, nor with skill quietly on freighty dare to get into unoccupied carriages and chaises, find what they can, steal it, and get off without the coachman noticing anything.

in which the methods of the Chilfers were precisely described. This is said to have borne fruit in terms of reducing the success of their thefts.

Such thefts, which are quite different from criminal theft, that is, actual street robbery, are very frequently practiced, since they can be carried out without any special and usually bring in a lot of money.

Related to Goleychachten is: |

7. the so-called Stradehalten, which is mostly the business of the Schranker and Makkener, because usually only this class of scoundrels owns vehicles. In groups of 4-6

Machine Translated by Google

They travel on country roads, especially those that are very frequented by freight wagons, as the roads from Berlin to Frankfurt or Leipzig, for the purpose of transporting goods.

They begin their journeys around dusk to scout out the places where freight wagons stay overnight. This is very easy, since the freight dare to usually remain standing in front of the door of the inn, as this very circumstance makes theft possible or at least greatly facilitates the situation. If the crooks have identified an opportunity for theft, they approach the inn at midnight, when they can assume that the people are fast asleep. A short distance from the inn, or, if it is located in a village, before the village, and one of the chauffeurs is dispatched to reconnoiter whether there is a guard, a dog by the wagon, or anything else that might hinder the thieving enterprise. If no such obstacle exists, everyone, with the exception of one who remains on the Emmey*) with the wagon, goes to the freight wagon to be stolen, cuts (tears) crates and bales with the kaut, or even the latter, if they are too large, simply opens them, and steals the goods contained there whole or in part. Once the theft is completed, the wagony

The thieves' work, brought by a comrade, is brought up quietly and carefully; the stolen goods, which have since been seen by the others somewhat apart from the scene of the crime, are taken up, they drive away on a side road, and only rarely is their trace discovered.

In recent years, the village of Groy had become particularly

How a society of thieves formed near Schermeisel, who used this type of stealing exclusively for their trade, making the country roads extremely unsafe. An investigation is therefore at the Berlin Criminal Court.

8. The Tchillesganger. With. Tchilles or Chilles be

The Gaunet marks the evening hour or twilight. It gey Thieves of all kinds who go out on this day hear here. Such a theft or tchilles-mayey

matten is called Tchilles in Mokum when it is committed in the city, and Tchilles on the Schuk when it is committed in a market.

*) Newer term for Viazzew or Binfplag. See p. 82.

96

. Now to trade means to be swindled in any way in the evening hour N | 9. The swindlers.

These are the fraudsters who defraud the country folk in particular by passing off counterfeit goods as real ones, or fake ones as genuine ones, e.g., tombstones for gold silver for genuine gold.

As a rule, such fraud is committed by two people practices which have already yeen ytill now, either themselves or through a third party, the person to be defrauded has money.

One, elegantly dressed and affecting a foreign dialect, appears as a Frenchman, Italian, or otherwise as a foreigner

He tells me that, on a trip to visit his relatives, he ran out of money. He shows me some worthless item, perhaps a tombstone watch, a piece of fake jewelry, etc., and says that this is an inalienable treasure, a memento from a dear deceased person. He asks if someone found with whom he could pawn the valuables for a short time, at good interest. He demands for example, 250 thalers.

Machine Translated by Google

and promises to pay back 300 thalers, or perhaps even more, upon redemption. Meanwhile, his companion arrives, in the form of a Jewish barterer, with a bundle on his back, and inquires whether there is anything to bargain. He sees the jewelry, expresses his astonish at its great value, immediately offers 100 thalers for it, and increases his bid to about the amount.

pelt and triple. But the stranger contemptuously rejects him, hey explains that the jewelry is not for sale for any sum and repeats his request to provide for a pawnbroker. Due to the excessive

Tempted by the Jew's silly commandment, the inexperienced person usually falls into the trap lends the stranger the requested sum and receives in return the alleged treasure, which, for greater security, is probably sealed in a box at the stranger's request.

yays to keep it safe – and is cheated. Other types of swindlers are the so-called coal dealers who ignorance

yende cheat by exchanging artificially crafted brass tokens for gold pieces, against a conagio.

Although it is certain that perhaps barely a quarter of these cunning swindles are reported to the authorities, because the defrauded never have any hope of recovering their money and are later ashamed of their own simplicity, nevertheless, only in recent times a not inconsiderable number of them become public knowledge. One can conclude from this how frequently this branch of the swindling trade is carried out.

Similar to the swindlers:

10. The Chayyime traders or Enneyvotennemacher,

See Communication on the Promotion of Security Nos. 1337, 1360, 1378, ER, 1434, 1467, 1478, 1498, 1522 je. jt.

97

who are busy stealing valuables. They claim that they do not have enough money at the moment to cover the purchase price, give a small sum, and promise to come back in a few days.
For their own safety, they demand that the purchased item be sealed in a box, but they know that

with another, which they are ready for this end: to exchange with great skill. f What remains noteworthy is: | | 11. The act of breaking the rules.

If the thieves have no opportunity, or find obstacles, to enter the premises to be stolen secretly or by force, one of them tries to find lodging with the owner of the premises by asking for a place to stay or accommodation. This usually happens with crooks.

gladly, innkeepers, or farmers. The billeted person then assists his comrades in entering the dwelling by unlocking the door or otherwise, and secretly leaves with them once the theft has been committed.

If a man who is quartered has the opportunity to steal from his host without the latter noticing, he will not leave him home.

ly, but with one's widow's knowledge. This is then called "acting a challenge." b | |

This is the mode by which the criminals convicted here endangered public safety. Were now equal, especially especially their cupboard and key thefts, such almost

Machine Translated by Google

always of considerable value, precisely because they went about it so systematically and mostly only captured cash, it is nevertheless understandable how, despite this, only very few were able to banish the specter of poverty from their own four walls and to decorate their foreheads with the criminally captured gold.

Not only that 5-6 people were always indirectly involved in a theft, among whom the stolen goods were divided into equal parts went; but this was also done in many other ways

There were the Baldowers, who were entitled to half a share; there were the fathers and grandfathers of the crooks, who, too old and weak to be able to steal, received their pen from the proceeds of each theft as an old-age allowance; and finally, there was that large number of accomplices whose silence was bought with smaller sums.

had to; and so it happened that the stolen goods were squandered just as quickly as they had been acquired.

It cannot be denied that the Schranker and Makkener certainly occupy the first rank in the world of thieves, but it would be a great error to take this as a reason to consider the other classes, as I have described them above, as less important. One cannot even say that their rank is not so go into the big picture, if one only considers what I said above about the Schotteufellers.

98

The same Hermann Moyes Sachse who made that remarkable confession, stole shortly before his

a recent arrest, at the Braunschweig Fair, in a few hours for more than 300 thalers of goods, solely by means of Schottenfel: lens! The number of these crooks compared to the cabinet thieves and key thieves is approximately 6 to 1, and this is especially true of Bremen, they must appear almost more dangerous for the security of property than those.

Since every scoundrel devotes himself to that branch of art in which he feels most capable, it is natural that each of them acquires a kind of virtuosity.

However, it is less likely that an individual will only commit a single type of theft or that it is generally assumed that he is able to commit several of them.

This is particularly the case with burglars and key thieves, who usually begin their career as market thieves.

Those types of criminal activity which I have mentioned above criminal, are to be considered the most common. For even if there are various others, they usually play such a subordinate role that no special skill is required, and every crook, without distinction, can engage in them, depending on time and opportunity. Street swindling belongs to this category.

dekehren or actual street robbery, which is not at all in the practice of the Jewish crooks

the Mergetzen, ie thefts, which by being carried out in pubs and inns by the Féry people and cattle dealers have their money cut off; the Zgokken, ie thefts, especially of which are brought by

on house floors, especially in winter, carried out, etc.

If one considers even superficially the systematic consequence that characterizes all criminal

all actions of the Jewish crooks,

First, it seems almost superfluous to add a further word about their great danger. If further were needed, it would have been made all too clear by the present investigation.

Machine Translated by Google

From their magnificent results, from the number of extremely dangerous thieves who were rendered harmless to human society, for a longer or shorter period of time, people believe they could draw hope that the Jewish scoundrel

The rabble in the Prussian state would soon be unable to raise its head again and pose a threat to public security. However, the experiences of recent years have convinced us sufficiently learned how much that hope was illusory. Daring, cunning thefts and swindles kinds still testify today, as before, to the unabated survival of this criminal class; but the provinces multiply from day to day, and everything gives rise to fears that it may only be a short time before we see the same groups, whose destruction has cost so much money and effort, back on the scene of their nightly activities.

99

It is useless to ask how this happens. The answer arises naturally from the character of the Jewish scoundrels, from their lives nature, from the way they are raised. One does not need to be a believer in predestination to be able to assert that Jewish crooks are, in a sense, born as such. Their parents are crooks and thieves, their grandparents and great-grandparents

Grandparents were, and the criminal principles of the family are passed on to all subsequent generations. They are absorbed with mother's milk and develop with mental and physical strength. At the age of 14, the boy usually leaves his parents' home, where he has seen or evil, but has not learned to appreciate it as such. Imbued with the dangerous outlook on life of his parents and their relatives, initiated into the mysteries of the criminal trade, begins his career under management of an older attempted crook, as a so-called quartery boy; in the wit's life, however, he passes as his servant or pack carrier. His apprenticeship is methodical. It begins with sneaking into unlocked farmhouses and ends with the night break-in. He feels his fine talents so well developed that, in order to be able to steal on his own, he borrows a few

a few thalers of goods, so that his business would have a firm foothold. But since he cannot undertake anything significant on his own, he soon makes camelsy radyschafts, with whom he goes out to steal together.

Sooner or later the time will come when he will for the first time

He is buried for the first time, and now it is time to honor his lineage, his teacher. He stubbornly denies it—for this is what he has been taught excellently—betrays none of his comrades, and perhaps slips through with an absolutio ab instantia. Now he is tested, has gained self-confidence. Everywhere he is praised, everywhere he is sought—and the consummate criminal is there.

If one now fully considers how the Jewish scoundrel, according to his national custom, usually enters into marriage at the age of twenty, and often even earlier, how fruitful the often are, and how they always produce scoundrels, it is clear where the constant increase in the scoundrel population comes from, since the decline is due to natural or civil causes.

. Death can not be nearly as great as this wax i

If an example were necessary to shed light on the truth of this, one could only look to the accomplices of the local investigation remain ytant. Almost all are married, almost all have chilydren

Machine Translated by Google

which, but that there would be only one among these which would not | 70

100

more or less already acquired a reputation as a crook.

While their fathers were serving long prison sentences,

in the breeding facility, they are very keen to commit the same crimes chen, who were punished by those. With horse and cart they also roam the land again, stealing, from which Ery bear the burden of their thefts, supporting their perpetrators, and thereby eliminating a insignificant part of the legal consequences.

The main cause of the existing evil is to be sought in this continuous reproduction, not in the constitutions of states, as has often been claimed, and it will remain ineradicable as long as it is not attacked at its root. For it can be of no use if the mar beast is perhaps now and then given a robs some of their heads if one cannot prevent them from growing back twice as much. The reformation of those notorious scoundrel families depends, first of all, on the education of the children, and the subject, one would think, is important enough, the des relief so urgent and general, that the matter probably requires a next

It may indeed seem harsh at first glance to forcibly tear apart the natural bonds that bir parents to children and children to parents; but far higher than such human considerations government must place the public good, the material well-being of society, which it is its most sacred calling to protect. Those parents who alone could complain about such a measur they not themselves renounced to the rights which nature, the laws of the country, about their children? They want to protect their intellectual and physical ual ruin, the state wants their well-being, and the decision should not be difficult as to who deserves preference here. Thanksy

Certainly humanity would recognize it if the government.
Care should be extended to the children of these crooks in order to bring them, perhaps in public institutions designated for this purpose, to legal But early, at the tenderest age, this must be done
y happen if one wanted to expect fruits from it, because only hey grow, there is no longer any hope for their improvement). N

*) Mr. Stuhlmuyller had the idea for the Gruyny several years ago.

Establishment of an institute for the education of children of rogue and vagrant children tern, and presented a very thoroughly prepared plan for the establishment of the same to Nothing is known about its success.

been; however, an establishment of this kind has, as far as we know, not yet been establis
the Kingdom of Bavaria. Probably, therefore, the realiy fation of the Stuyhimiller'ychen highly charitable motion has been met with insurmountable

As much as | am generally convinced of the great expediency of Mr Stuhlmiller's proposals, believe, as he does, that if one does not want to engage in private education, the establi such institutes is the safest, indeed almost the only, means by which the constantly incre

Although | believe that this rogue, swindling mischief could be controlled, | cannot yet f its fundamental propositions.

Even if the investigation conducted here had not provided anything further that could contribute to the understanding of the character of the Jewish thieves, it would be the case of their absolute incorrigibility.

The ineffectiveness of the punishments imposed on them is evidence of this,

This is testified to by what I have said above about the children of the criminals convicted here; finally, this is testified to by those themselves who, provisionally released from the verdict, resumed their life of freedom upon their return to freedom. There were cases where they left Berlin only after they had stolen again. N8N5

With such a crook, all artificial means are of no use.

Every system is of no use to him, even if they were the famous ones of Philadelphia. He is indifferent to punishment, because he still has the hope and often the certainty of being released, and corporal discipline, which is the only thing he still fears, has been almost completely disused by the philanthropy of our time outside the realm of penal institutions. However, all conventional means are inadequate to incapacitate him, to render him harmless and only a Siberian

If, for example, he proposes that the institution to be built should also include children

To accept parents who have been leading a criminal life for years, this seems to me too far, even gone too far. One must not lose sight of the boundary line that so sharply distinguishes from the ordinary thief, from the human being.

who becomes a criminal out of recklessness, necessity, or other external influences. Punishments one after the other in these people testify less to a series of crimes than to the low degree of dangerousness. They are never so corrupted as to raise their children as criminals, like on the contrary, it often speaks in all their actions express a loving concern for their well-being. If one wanted to qualify the such parents for admission into such educational institutions,

To determine the suitability, this would be quite good, but, given the understandably larger number, it would also certainly be impossible.

Only at the request of the municipality, says Mr. Stuhlmiller, should the

by the police authority, with the approval of the government,

But if the municipal authority representing the municipality is not given the official objection to these applications, if not

If every domestic criminal and police authority, which for the most part, more than the common opportunity to recognize the scoundrel as such, were authorized to arrange for the admission, it would seem to me that the purpose of the institute would have been completely missed.

Mr. Stuhlmiller further believes that admission qualification should only occur upon reaching the age of 6. I am of the opinion that this should be the case earlier, perhaps upon reaching the age of 5.

The scoundrels mature extraordinarily early. By the age of ten or twelve, they are usually already in terms of cunning and thieving schemes. Even before they are able to understand and comprehend the teachings and actions of their parents, they must, if one wants to be truly hope for success and not admit already corrupted minds into the institution. These are the men, who would then only be raised to be crooks, whose minds must be removed from pestiferous influence; but this might already be too late at the age of 7.

102

or Botany Bay could provide help. Only when the ocean or the icebergs of the South North separate him from the civilized world will it be safe from his boundless commonality.

Machine Translated by Google

yein.

about the expediency or admissibility of such a deportation

Only one voice would likely prevail in favor of the reform of incompetent criminals. As early as 1802, Prussia, as a result of an agreement with the Imperial Russian government, sent a transport of 58 criminals sentenced to life imprisonment to Siberia *), and even more recently the governments of Hamburg and Gotha have shipped the permanent contents of their penal institutions to America. No legal objection could be raised against this.

arise; but it would be doubtful with reason that the states of the New World in particular should be colonies of crooks and scoundrels to be established on their territories, who would perhaps too soon turn their arms against their new, involuntary ligious, fatherland"). There is therefore probably little to be gained this way.

What, by the way, is the Jewish belief in their unlawful actions

He provides the most support to their activities, facilitates their crimes, makes their do more difficult, that is their bargaining. He supplies themy wear a mask under which they demand passports, around the countryy can swarm without being subject to official control. If only their passports are in order, lacking, they boldly appear before every police authority, because they know yen that nothing can harm them.

While still children, the sons of these Jews receive a small package with a ribbon and are sent to the countryside to work. Because they do not have a house permit, or because,

as in the case of the Greaty

Duchy of Posen, where Jews are forbidden from trading at home, they must proceed with caut
so that they do not get caught

Let them be. Thus, their cunning develops early, and even as children, they learn to break the law and deceive the authorities. Later, they use trade to scout for opportunities to s

They observe where the buyer gets his money, how to deal with it, and what the location is

Could or should one identify the first causal factor in all thefts?

*) See General Notice to the Public about the Royal.

The dangerous villains sent to Siberia by the Prussian states, along with 9928 accounts of misdeeds. Berlin, at GC

Nauck. 1802.

00 As is well known, the United States of North America have recently protested against th that European governments are sending them criminals with sentences which they consider in

They let disreputable people appear. They threatened to send back any criminal sent to them by anyone blame them?

103

If we were to investigate the connection, we would undoubtedly find that many people owe the loss of their property to the purchase of a tiny household item!

Quite rightly, the so-called hardship of the Jews has been seen everywhere as the most essential obstacle to their civil progress.

Machine Translated by Google

formation, as the most important reason for their moral corruption

This subject in particular is also examined in detail

in the Hanoverian and Saxon Chambers of Estates

come, and the negotiations about it were followed by the decision that the Jews should be exempted from this branch of industry and the associated levy (the tax should be removed as much as possible should be completely removed). And in fact, this is an urgent requirement if one is serious about the public good, if one wants to at least put some limit on the monstrous mischief of the Jewish scoundrels and thieves. Those hordes of Jews who, as a bundle on the Back, crossing Germany in all directions, the four fifths of their lives on the country road, at markets and in fairs to spend, they all stand more or less with the crooks and thieves in the closest connection. Even if they do not always take direct part in their they still facilitate and promote such things; and one could not expect anything more from them ) In Prussia, too, at least for a small part of the state, legal provisions aimed at this place for several years. The "Provisional Ordinance on the Presence of Jews in the Grand Duchy of June 1, 1832, among other conditions, only permits those Jews to naturalize who have dedicated themselves to either a science or art and the following:

operate in such a way that they can maintain their profits,

or own and manage a rural property of the size

13 ' that it provides them and their families with sufficient support secured; N or in a city a well-known business with some reputation

subscribe, . e = or own a property in a city worth at least 2000 thalers without debt, WR or that they own capital assets of 5000 thalers

thügmlich gehört, NR, beer or that they have made a special contribution to the State have acquired. de

A find also excluded from naturalization all Jewish Jews. 5 N 8 Fe a3 * In § 13 the law stipulates that, after the Jewish boys have completed their schooling, the administrative authorities of the (Jewish) must ensure and are responsible for ensuring that every boy learns some useful trade or at educational institution at a royal university.

bern professions, and that no one is drawn to a trade or business operation in moving around is needed d.

If it is permissible to add a wish to this, it could only be the fine that similar provisions, like the latter, are everywhere, even against the uny
The majority of Jews who do not belong to the above category would like to enter life as s yenyschenschaft almost from every year of his crimes, without ever being the

Machine Translated by Google

hear of it to file a report, this alone would already be enough enough to at least not be considered useful members of the civil to let the community appear. 5

What the, in the laws and customs of Judaism

The apparently very knowledgeable author of the Jewish GilyBlas also tells us about the condition of the Jews in Prague, about the obstacles they face in pursuing their trades: it is clear that all this, if it is at all true, cannot take hold, neither here nor in the rest of Germany. Our capital cities have no ghetto, no exile of the Jewish population; no stoic government restrictions, no blind prejudice stands in the way of them learning crafts and arts. People breathe the most liberal tolerance stand by them and protect their civil rights. Nevertheless too true that among 100 Jews there are always 90 who are engaged in trade, and at least two-thirds of these are involved in a haggling business.

del around! No

This ambulatory branch of trade, this house-hold and haggle-tradingy del with the vague way of life that is inseparably linked to it must therefore be completely intertwined with the Jews, if not

Criminal laws and police institutions should remain an empty sound.

Because trade, the pretext for attending fairs and markets, provides the crook with only a valid reason, to look at the horse and carriage. He would miss it completely.

len, without this sham business, and it would have to disappear by itself, yoy

soon his quality as a merchant was no longer the same as before recognition. This alone would bring an infinite gain for public safety. For a traveling thief is times more dangerous than another, and appears three times more dangerous

In this respect, the Jewish crooks are also to blame, because only they find it, those who use the vehicle to further their thieving purposes. What the vehicle is useful for, how they use it only to carry out their crimes more conveniently, to get their loot more quickly

I have already explained in detail how to bring others to safety and myself out of danger.

Nowhere may this have been more evident than in the present investigation. All parties involved in it were in possession of wagons, only went out on their thefts while driving, and their grown-up children are examples of this followed. Two by three, they travel around the country on a carriage. Following a new tactic, these young die besiege the small-town fairs, their goods, instead of selling them, and find deals there:

105

For while one person is engaged in fraudulent gambling, his companions are emptying the pockets of the thronging profiteers. If the Jewish scoundrel were not a merchant, he would be able to " € . 5 enter the country, at least legally. He would rightly be denied a passport, which cannot be done properly as long as he is permitted to pursue a trade that he can only pursue while traveling, with which he cannot usually support himself in the town itself.

For as certain as it is that the crook is generally separated from the right

usual trade can neither support nor wants to, it is nevertheless policy

It is not feasible to deprive him of the opportunity to do so by withholding his passport or opening up other ways to legally acquire his means of subsistence. Only when this is the case can he be forbidden from eating, can he be forced to remain in the place where he lives, like other honest people.

Machine Translated by Google

where he can be instructed, and not to pursue a certain acquisition far away. – b | It was precisely trade and the wandering associated with it that most distinguished the scoundrels convicted here, and that enabled them to practice the thieving trade on such a large scale. From the Grand Duchy of Posen, from the March, from the Elbe, they often traveled through entire provinces, through entire countries, even into Hungary. Thefts marked their presence everywhere, and often only after months of absence did they return to their hideouts, laden with loot.

Here they invested the stolen money in stocks of goods, traded in the surrounding area, and diligently visited the synagogue.

goge, and finally, as honest traders, received new passports, often valid for a whole year, with which they once again set out to commit crimes! |

*) The magistrates and police authorities cannot be made aware of this fraud urgently enough – for this game of dice is nothing else – so that permission for it, on their part, is less unreasonable.

trynkt be granted, as unfortunately tends to happen now. The proy zedur is usually the following: The game usually requires 4–6 dice.

As soon as a player has made a throw, the owner of the game and Krams quickly rolls his coattails over the dice and urges the player to bet again, which is why he does so, in the Holly

The idea of having made a profit usually dies down. During the negotiation, however, the crook had the opportunity to change the original winning number by reversing one or more dice. As he removes the covering skirt, he says regretfully to the cheated victim: "Oh, you haven't won." It is not uncommon for such players, or zchokters, as they are called, to also have counterfeit dice. In recent times, Jewish crooks have increasingly turned to this side business because, since they have, at least for the sake of appearance, made a profit, advertising, not only suits their character more, but also is more bearable than trade. Be:

One should hardly think that it could be difficult to keep up with this bel, at least to some extent. For years it has been knowny

lich in Mainz a respectable association of lVraelites, which yey have set themselves the yensible task of supporting young people from the poorer clans of their fellow believers through the support they provide them to encourage people to learn trades. Limited only to the city of Mainz, the work of this association to date has nevertheless been one was a very pleasing one, as can be seen from one of the last accountsy reports of the same can be convincingly deduced. "Contemptible," it says, "is the so-called distress trade, not because it is carried out by poor people, but because every humiliation

"fschadt; because it dates from a time that has a dim memoryy

"has for us, and because it protects at most against starvation but "not against misery and impoverishment."—What wonderful, faithful words! Certainly, the Mainz Jewry, which Mr. Rebmann has already honorably mentioned, has earned great claims to public respect through these publicly expressed attitudes.

But how is it, one might ask, that the Mainz club is still the only one of its kind in Germany? Shouldn't such a fine example encourage others to follow suit, or should it?

Were the more educated Ifraelites elsewhere not imbued with the same sentiments? That is hard to believe. Not the shay, despised by all classes and depicted in a thousand caricatures

Cherjude with his secluded life and activities, his petty

Machine Translated by Google

The person who is addicted to usury is truly capable of correcting people's still all too misconceptions – we like to say, misconceptions – about the character of Judaism, of bringing them back from preconceived views and opinions, and it therefore seem be in the unmistakable interest of all Jewish citizens to do their utmost to dissuade the classes of their fellow believers from this trade as much as possible, and to encourage of more nourishing, more appropriate to the age.

It would be urgently desirable that for this purpose, private associations could be formed following the example of the Mainz association, which would certainly not lack the support of governments and all well-wishers in their charitable endeavors. One would only be able to progress toward the goal slowly, but its ultimate achievement would not be lacking. The work of such associations would have to be more successful than measures emanating from the state, whether prohibitive or restrictive. These associations, with Jews at their head, would certainly be most easily able to overcome the stubborn dictatorship.

the stand of the lower Jewish classes against civilization and the necessary civil reforms, to defeat them by amicable means; to instruct them and to convince them through instruction that the state and society only want their own best").

») In Bavaria it has recently been decreed that house licenses for sheep

107

It would be more difficult, however, to divert ordinary crooks and thieves from the comfortable vagrant life, such as traveling merchants, and to turn them to a more useful

of a disorderly, wandering life, they abhor any work where they, exerting their physical strength, like millions

Others should eat their bread by the sweat of their brow. Fraud and theft seem to them more honorable and certainly more profitable and convenient than such a form of employment. It is unreasonable to expect them to ever voluntarily surrender their trade and their pernicious pursuits.

To renounce them would be to completely misjudge their character. They will only yield to force and force would have to be used against them.

ten. They have only been given the opportunity to gain something else advertising, then even if the authorities take away their passports and business licenses, now common pretext of proximity rancelessness will disappear by itself, or at least no longer deserve consideration. – Let them be occupied, at best, with stonemasonry digging, by logging, on the highway or in agriculture, or in any other way, only let them be torn up, nor let them are responsible for duplicitous, ominous commercial transactions!

Of course, even with these restrictive measures (for the application of which, of course, police law is required first and foremost), one would be able to deprive the authorities of their usual duty and imprisonment) will not put a stop to the Jewish crooks, because they will then be deported without passports

wander, they will find corrupt or negligent officials who willingly issue the most beautiful passports based on vague credentials

But this lamentable misfortune is already present present, it would hardly be able to be increased by that measure, and at least it would not bear comparison with the un-

the measurably beneficial consequences that would have to emerge with regard to public safety if the travel and trading of the thieves were no longer tolerated by the law.

This subject also decisively intervenes in the handling of police supervision, the unmistakable purpose of which is or at least be Yupon, coming from the rooms of the penitentiary

Machine Translated by Google

To prevent the criminal from committing further crimes, to protect the public against his return to society. Whether this, strictly speaking, is even possible, must, of course, remain an open question. Certainly, however, the home authority, which is responsible for police supervision in no way in a position to fulfill this highly important purpose if it is unable to constantly supervise him and his activities, if it is forced to abet his crimes itself.

handel to Jews no longer issued, No more Jewish Unterey

thanen to facilitate the learning of civic trades in every possible way tert and in particular the obstacles that stand in the way of their entry enters a until now 1 eee – This provision seems to me extremely timely. N by allowing him to spend months away from his homey places to hang out.

108

What was the answer a Jewish rural scoundrel gave to the police officer who was interrogating her recently, when he threatened to have her local authorities investigated? "master," she said, "knows nothing about me, because I'm not at home all year!" And that this is true, that this is possible, that it can happen unhindered, therein lies the impetus that allows criminal activity to take ineradicably deep roots and spread ever further and further.

It always sounds a bit strange to the unaccustomed ear, when asked about the most notorious scoundrel, to receive the almost stereotypical answer from the local police authority supervising him: he is away on holiday and his return is uncertain!

In fact, this should not be fine as long as the police BeauVichy suffrage as a 1 20 legal institution and not as a mere empty form

It will be of no use to perhaps add a note on the crook's passport stating that he is under police supervision, unless one wishes to add other restrictions. The crook cannot be according to ordinary rules, and therefore ordinary passport forms are not suitable for him. Only the visas on his passport are correct, then every police investigation must be let him travel just as unhindered as if the Observatory

tion mark would not be present. This mark is usually limited to the laconic words: "Juhabe under police supervision." The official is usually at the mercy of the reason for this, at the quality of the passport holder, and, if he is not a student of Oedipus, at the discretion of the interpretation of the crook. If one were to add to the warning at least that the passport was a crook, a dangerous thief who had been punished many times, then a semblance of

If the benefit were to be ignored, many miserable mistakes would be prevented and presumptuous and negligent officials would be excused.

The mayor of a certain town, who inscribed an escaped criminal as an escort in a passport of a common thief, a notorious thief, restricted in the above manner, had the courage to justify himself by stating that the passport holder cited political reasons as the reason for his timely supervision! And similar cases occur almost daily before.

Machine Translated by Google

Any possible control over the travelling scoundrel must also expire automatically if he can extract a new one from any police authority after the expiry of his passport"); to whom he

") By recent decrees of the Royal Governments of Poyen, Potsdam and 109

Furthermore, not in every overnight accommodation, but only where his passport needs to be checked where his stay is longer than 24 hours gnaws.

| am, as | believe | have sufficiently demonstrated, far from the opinion that a traveling rogue can be

reality, proper supervision should be maintained; rather, | completely agree with the opinion of Police Councillor Merker, which he expressed on the occasion of my previous suggestions, namely that such mischievous individuals would easily obtain visas for their nightly stays; but as long as they are allowed to travel at all,

it still seems more expedient to at least provide these more specific information.

to demand of them. It would create a semblance of Control, which would otherwise be completely lacking. Because for the suspicious voyageur only a stay of more than 24 hours contains in one place the obligation to seek out Papoifum,

Breslau, which has not yet been generalized for the whole country, is firmly established

It has been stated that traveling Jewish traders from the Grand Duchy of Poyen will not be issued new passports in the last two years, they have many more, after the expiry of their old passports, to extract new ones, according to their plan should be rejected on site. 179 05 District offices also issue to noy

Jewish suspects were only issued with passports valid for 4–8 weeks, in which the intended travel route was precisely specified, according to the circular of the Imperial Ministry of the Interior and Police of June 20, 1821. Whether this was based on a general government decree or merely on the authority of the authorities

| am not aware of whether this originated from the supervising Royal District Offices.

) Compare 5 5 to facilitate the success of the magnificent police.

13th Year No. 2

Sch habe 99915 kuyrzlich proyoyted the following:

1. the crooks only have their passports for a short time, about 1–2 months

nate, and indeed, to the exclusion of any other, only through their homelandy authority to issue;

2. to state that and why the passport holder is under police supervision

yight ytebe, yuch as that the passport is visiyted in every night quartery den muyyye, and that, after expiry, the passport holder must return to his place of residence muyyye z

. 3, to note the time of this return in a special journal, and to pursue him with a warrant if he has not returned within three days after the expiry of the passport at the latest;

4. to ensure by a note in the payye that it is from abroady no companion will be sublocated according to the authorities;

Machine Translated by Google

5. finally, the crook for every contravention in a proportional bodyy to take personal punishment.

If one wants to let the crooks act and travel at all (and only this case was foreseen here) am still of the unprejudiced opinion that through measures of this or a similar kind their

ual wanderings, their often years-long distance from their homesy places, and all the immeasurable ee connected with them, yet unanimously Ben Grenzen wéyrde be set.

110

It is therefore not clear why he should be in such a hurry to subject himself to a check v would be so dangerous for his impunity, since a passport contravention can never be proven against him, or at least only with great difficulty.

| will refrain from discussing this topic further, up to its smally

| would have to go back to the way in which the usual supervision is carried out; to the regrettable perversities that are only too often observed, to the detriment of the public futility of denying the criminal passports in the current situation, where there is no emp him in the town, and, in the case of his secret departure, of sending warrants without knows what to do with him at home if one does not want to feed him at the expense of the commune; | would finally have to go back to that, which in its significance is still far t sufficiently understood

knew the mischief of the so-called passport factories, of which | could tell many remarkat
examples from the files, and where sometimes, as in a certain small town on the other side of the Oder, travel credentials are sold to crooks at fixed prices, in whole and half doze

– But all this would too far from my original purpose, and | could write a book about it without finishing. As secrety

niB ist nicht invented, yay Mr. Rebmann said in 1811, every mayor, mayor, etc. toa reasonable, righty

to make a yhoye man, so long as all regulations regarding passports are more likely to ha
the honest man than the thief yitua yitule. And yo little comforting this may seem, fit is still true today and will re as long as the yyy

Chinese foundations do not gain in purity and stability, for which no government can be held responsible. —

I would like to make just one more remark about the passport system: namely, that one should beware, above all, of issuing passports in the name of assistants (or porters, they are often called), not only to crooks, but generally to all common Jewish traders. The obvious far-reaching misconduct

The more common the use of this to help unlicensed thieves and vagrants, the more regrettable is the experience of how even capable and respectable police authorities still do not seem have properly recognized this fact. A miserable shambles

Cherjude, one may be surely convinced, needs to be his winy trade never an assistant or porter, and on any Least of all the crooks and thieves. If, however, one wants to issue them such passports, contrary to all police interests, then at least one should name the accomplices and

Machine Translated by Google

111

this complete description would be incorporated into the passport, which would take away a small part of the magnitude of the evil).

I have already spoken about the appearance of the Jewish Gauy

ner in court, of their defense method, their principle of liesy

cipe, and the cunning with which she evaded arrest

hen, even to put them out of suspicion. There can be no doubt should be that this provides a further reason for their augmentation, for their greater danger. Only the Jewish scoundrel can reach 70–80 years of age without having spent more than a few of them in prisons and penitentiaries. In the personally

One will find remarkable evidence of this in the notes, and I need only draw attention to the 90-year-old Jakob Joseph Schweriner, who, having lived solely by theft for more than 60 years, was, however, only arrested three times during this entire time and only twice sentenced to a year and a half in prison, until finally, in 1831, Nemesis overtook him, like many others.

How meaningless and clumsy the non-Jewish criminal, whom his fate, if one wants to express it that way, perhaps made first a beggar and then a thief!

Just ask in our penal institutions, just go through their reception lists with some attention, and you will find that most of them were sentenced to 10 years for third and fourth thefts. Individuals of this class, condemned to laborious to life-long work, are still in their prime, that between their former

Discharge from the institution and its readmission, always only

there are quite insignificant gaps, and that finally the

The total amount of the thefts punished against them often amounts to barely 100 thalers!

) According to the provisions of the General Instruction for the Administration of the Passport Police in the Prussian States, dated 12 July 1817, fol. f

a. according to § 16, the issuing of travel passports to persons whose business is either harmful to the public and therefore prohibited, or who often day after day only serves as a pretext and to achieve unlawful purposes, or gives rise to such, should be omitted altogether;

b. according to §§ 3 and 15 the name and the complete signature of the companion in the passport of the actual holder, under which you get and the signature of the passport authority;

e. According to §§ 29 and 30, the previously existing obligation to check in every overnight accommodation is generally abolished, but the police authorities retain the right to impose the not entirely legitimate to continue to impose on travellers, for important reasons, the obligation to be screened in every overnight accommodation.

If one applies the provision ad a to the crooks who only openly conduct their business for show, and if one subsumes, as was undoubtedly the intention of the author of this law, ad e among the not fully legitimated travelers, even the suspicious ones, then, as it seems, there is a lack of better handling of the passport police against crooks and thieves do not care about appropriate regulations, but only about obeying them.

Machine Translated by Google

112

But one must also see how the Jewish scoundrel knows how to behave;

one must know the intricacy of his subtle machinations in order to understand his impunity. If several people are arrested at the same time for a crime committed jointly, tet, so it is a basic rule that one does not know the other. And even if they were brothers and relatives, as happened recently in Berlin, they would nevertheless claim to be complete strangers, perhaps having met by chance only on the day of their arrest; and all this for the sole reason that their mutual acquaintance and connection would not give rise to any suspicion against them! u 8

About the means they use, the state of the investigation

| have already stated what is necessary to ventilate about their antics in prison. Where the location of the prisons allows, they surround the relatives of the criminals in order to communicate with them through signs and words, the measurey

to arrange rules for their defense or escapey

Tools for this, as well as written messages, are given to them, if no other way is open, if the prisonersy guards cannot be won"), with food or Bey

clothing items sent to prison, in which they were artificially are so borrowed that hardly the most careful inspection can discover them. They are baked into bread, but sewn into clothes. – For Lsy

During his imprisonment in Berlin, Philipp from Breslau was given a dressing gown and a pair of slippers for his use in prison.

niyye, surrendered. But the court was warned. They cut up the dressing gown and slippers, and found in the former, at the top of the kray under the cotton wool, but in the slippers between the sole and the insole, twenty thalers in cash orders. – Money is the strongest lever, not only in ordinary prosaic, but also in the poetic life of roguery; money is the secret key to the riddley

Many a scoundrel escapes from the most secure prisons; and taking money with him into custody will therefore certainly be his nightly concern, especially if he is entitled to expect a significant punishment. The scoundrels convicted here did not carry capsules of watchsprings and gold pieces with them, like the Hesel comrades

") It is a depressing experience how often the lower prison officials are so unreliable. It is, however, often more carelessness than indiscretion.

Honesty, which guides them and leads them to acts contrary to their duty. If they are too law-abiding to be open to bribery, they are rarely able to resist the importunities, the begging and flattery of the women and daughters of the arrested criminals. With a loaf of a

a piece of meat or the like, which they let the prisoner under their hand, they do not believe that they are neglecting their duty, and yet, in the most fortunate case, they often lead to the failure of an entire investigation.

No matter how much effort the inquirer may make to ascertain the truth, it will and must be fruitless under such circumstances.

113

Machine Translated by Google

in Mainz, to conceal them in the anus; but there were cases where the double Louis d'ors were taken out of their noses.

For their correspondence from prison, which usually occurs were carefully written that they appear to any uninitiated person as completely unintelligent. To appear powerful, they do not require any artificial writing materials.

A small piece of crumpled paper, which even the best prison order cannot completely prevent, is sufficient for them. Their ink is blood, which they produce by tearing the skin; a wooden stick serves them as a pen.

One cannot be careful enough with these mischievous evils perpetrators in the judicial confrontations.

They rarely produce any effect in terms of imposing confessions unless one has first convinced the criminal that he is convicted and that escape is impossible.

As long as this is not the case, a confession will be difficult to imagine. The confrontations that took place in the investigation conducted here were extraordinary, both in their nature and in their results. Therefore, one cannot generally draw any definite conclusions from them, because even more often the opposite result has resulted from this act.

One word, one seemingly insignificant gesture of the hand, is enough for the confronted crooks to communicate.

Meyer Tiller grabbed his necktie, but Hartwig Jonas flew

by the woman standing opposite him, the little word "Rattne law." Both mean something like "confess nothing," and in the last

In this case, the confession already made was actually revoked.

Finally, those who, usually with much effort, are against the Gauy

The evidence collected is too strong, i.e., if he is too reckless to be able to emerge from an investigation unpunished despite all his skill and agility in lying and denying, he still provides proof of an alibi as a last, but rarely deceptive, means of overturning all grounds for his arrest

If the defendant is not immediately aware of the crime, he has usually already taken care of providing alibi evidence, and he then begins his defense immediately by relying on it. Otherwise, it is the duty of the women and other relatives to properly establish this momentum defensionis. They require no other information than the time to be proven, and this follows automatically from the time of the incriminated crime.

Knowing their people, they find many wretches whose conscience activity weighs less than a couple of gold pieces. With them, a bey yuch word sign agreed upon, which the crook must know under all circumstances, so that his

can be heard with the testimony of the witness tig agree and thereby make the evidence more credible worthiness wins. Moyes Levi Altenburger from the 114

on 28 May 1830 in Strehlen a significant key theft and was therefore arrested in Breslau, relied on the testimony of the mayor NN of B., that he had given him on the morning that day with a lit pipe and had received a reprimand from him. And he swore it also! – Only in recent times has this type of exculpation been brought into a formal system by the Jewish gangs. How often

fig use is made of it, one may conclude from the circumstance assume that in the investigation conducted here alone, twenty-eight such false alibi witnesses were found, among which,

Machine Translated by Google

Strangely enough, only a single Jew is found! This alibi proof is always decisive if the crook, which may be considered unheard of, is not caught in flagrante delicto. The strength of the charges is of no use, nor is the moral conviction of the judge.

ters, when two outwardly innocent people stand up and, from allegedly their own sensory perception, swear to the presence of the criminal at the time of the crime, in a place of

With a reluctant feeling, the judge must then sign the verdict, which restores the scoundrel to his freedom and his destructive activities. An absolutio ab instantia is the highest th of evidence leaves.

A telling example of the use of that tactic among the Jewish crooks, who even change their language by one wordy

has increased, since the false proof of the alibi the “Marremoy

kum”, among many others, also provides the aforementioned very remarkable theft, committed on May 28, 1830, in Strehleu, which | will describe in more detail below.

All this explains why Jewish criminals are so rarely punished, and even then, they usually escape with such exorbitant leniency. To a not insignificant extent, however, this phenomenon also occurs quite frequently in legal proceedings.

Allow me to be frank. A critique of the lawsy

Any attempt on my part would appear to be a ridiculous presumption

nen, and | will be careful not to accuse myself of this to expose. | therefore do not want to add to the uncertainty of the jury courts, not to mention the inappropriateness of those outdated legislative provisions, on basis of which in certain areas one still today prosecutes the thief and the purgatory.

rium recognizes; but | will allow myself to highlight one circumstance which seems to me to be of particular importance here.

Prussian criminal law recognizes two types of punishment: the ordinary, for confessions and classical evidence, and the extraordinary, primarily for circumstantial evidence. The well known, has replaced the former torture. It is now possible, in the case of

113

ner Cumulation of close reports, the poena extraordinaria also reach the level of the ordinary penalty; but this is only sely

This is the case, and as a rule, the former is always milder than the latter. How well the scoundrel is aware of this, and how he finds this one of the most compelling reasons for denial, is well known, and I need only refer to Nelky's doctrines, presented on page 62 and following. Unwittingly, however, they thereby achieve another, far greater, advantage. For almost all judicial bodies in the monarchy only impose the aggravated punishment for repeated theft on the accused if he has already previously received the ordinary punishment for the crime.

But now life is not going to be easy for a crook

It may happen once that the evidence can be brought to such an extent that the poena ordinaria can take effect, and therefore, however often he may fall into the hands of justice, he can only expect the punishment of the first theft, the maximum of which is a year of penal servitude. Regarding the punishment of the third and fourth theft, in which imprisonment for a number of years (10 years to life imprisonment)

occurs, can under these circumstances almost never

Machine Translated by Google

mals die Rede sein. f

There are only a few higher and lower courts that do not follow this principle in their rulings, but rather take the same consideration of the previous extraordinary punishments as the ordinary ones, and so, for example, in the case of a second common theft, they always impose the poena dupli, but in the case of a second violent theft, they impose the same penalty.

mer allow the punishment stipulated for this, from 10 years upwards, to be imposed. The consequences that this principle brings with it are incalculably beneficial. Regarding the theoretical nullity or in-

I am not entitled to judge the correctness of this, but it is certain that it deserves praise. Maintaining public security in the country is one of the basic provisions of criminal justice, this, even if only indirectly, cannot be doubted.

ye. Our legislature and the resulting form of war

minalprozeyyes, is, thank God! uch beychUed that even the exy

Ordinary punishment of an innocent person, based on circumstantial evidence, is not easily conceivable, and therefore the violation of any social interests through the general appli-

that principle would be seriously feared.

Where there is no fence, as an old saying goes, there is no thief. This cannot be applied positively either, in Bey yt against crooks, especially Jewish crooks, whose existence is not directly conditioned by that of the fences, they undoubtedly find in their criminal activities one of the most im-

lichsten bases in this huyomyen klye, their so-called Very
Mr. Keil and Mr. Rebmann have already spoken very faithfully and truthfully about them.

But what was true for Bun also applies

116

still from them, and therefore there is hardly any need for a more detailed discussion. Although the negligent purchase from a stranger is punishable not only under Prussian, but also under every good law cash is, if the knowing purchaser of stolen goods, who often

If someone who has easily been seduced by self-interest should suffer the punishment of a common thief, what should one then say about those people who make a business out of buying stolen goods; who knowingly open their houses to crooks and thieves, and

Can they prove the opportunities for stealing? Almost more punishable than the robber and who despises them, they enjoy the actual benefits of their crimes without exposing themselves to danger.

Here, too, it has been proven that by far the largest proportion of this type of fence are Jews. They have become rich through the loot they stole from the crooks at ridiculous prices

usurp, they usually carry on a well-known business, and often enjoy the best reputation in their place of residence, because they faithfully dress themselves in the mask of an honest name, under which 175 No one so easily seeks out the professional fence and sharp-playing porter.

Who knows all the means by which these crooks

Would they dare to give their comrades advances everywhere? They are well-established, wealthy people; they are citizens; their bureaucracies are alauk-like and acceptable. What police authority do if such a person produces the worst crook, whom it does not know, as an honest merchant who in some way has lost his passport, and whose companion may have left with him? Will she refuse to give the passport to the person who has been

Machine Translated by Google

reprehensible testimony of that man, whom she only knew favorably come legitimate, perhaps just escaped from prison,

To issue a new passport to a vagrant? It is unlikely that mals the caution yt extenyt so far.

Prussian penal law contains the salutary provision that a thief who repeatedly relapses into the crime for which he was punished should be imprisoned until he has provided convict evidence of his reform or demonstrated how he intends to earn a decent living. The reform a scoundrel, however, looks the worst and is reduced to a mere formality. As long as he is prison, his outward behavior will give no cause for complaint, his character will be

However, the senior officials lack the time to study the character and his etude, while th
Officials lack the ability. But even apart from that, the detention for improvement, in th the law, is not much to hope for, so long as there is no institution specifically dedicated to this purpos ten available. The provincial penal institutions are far too overy fills; the constant inflow of convicts is far too great for 117

They would still have enough time left for the correction. Therefore, detention can usual only be limited to days and weeks, since it cannot be waived without violating the legal t

However, an actual moral purpose can be even less present in this prevail, as in the case of the criminal, in whom years of punishment could not instill any inclination to improve, even a further detention of many a few weeks will not bring about this miracle.

The situation is different with proof of employment. The convict's release depends entirely on this proof, and here it is again where the scoundrel never claims the services of his confidant in vain. He offers to take him into his service as a servant or assistant—and proof of employment is provided. I have had the opportunity to examine a large portion of the former prison personnel files of the criminals convicted here, and I that, without exception, in the same case,

yet manoeuvre has been observed.

If one now fully considers the shameful business that is carried on by sheltering the thief

the incredibly large number of the so-called cheyyen Spieyen or cheyyen Peny nen”), those hideouts of criminals where they meet, where they forge destructive plans, and squander the stolen goods in filth, it becomes clear how these so-called confidants of the scoundrels are by their very nature just as dangerous as the scoundrels themselves, and, as far as wickedness and depravity are concerned, are often far below them.

What, by the way, is the fate of the Jew when he becomes a criminal, and what therefore also is the fate of the Jewish scoundrel above all else, pel of the lowest contempt and wickedness, that is his outrageous piety. Has even the atheist the energy

*) According to the Ministerial Instruction of March 27, 1797, and according to § 563 of the Prussian Criminal Code, every convicted criminal, without distinction, before being handed over to the penitentiary, must be questioned by the judge about the manner of his future honest life

This information is never officially confirmed.

On the other hand, the proof of acquisition should also depend on the detentus showing desire and inclination for honest acquisition; but since this is actually synonymous with the detentus' possession, the same relationship applies here as well.

the same relationship applies here as well.

*) In the Christensen's work there are 75, in the Stuhlmiller's but 220 such professional thieves' dens were listed. In my registry

On the other hand, (which, incidentally, would be of no use to the public, since I cannot visit the Kochem innkeepers), I had, partly according to documents and partly according to reports from confessed thieves, registered 215 Kochem thieves, who were found only in the Prussian province of the Elbe. With few exceptions, these thieves' dens included all Jewish restaurants and quarters. – 5

118

While it may have already become so widespread among some that they no longer consider stealing on the Sabbath to be a sin, this is nevertheless only the case with a few, and can hardly be considered by the great majority of the remaining Orthodox.

Six days a week they do not fear the crime against divine and human laws by laying their hands on the property of others, and they would not even on the seventh

They would find it ignorant of their knowledge, if rabbinic dogmas did not forbid them from entering in any kind of business on the Sabbath. Their business, however, is theft, which feeds them, and only because it is their business, not because it is a crime, do they consider it illicit on Saturdays, believing that on this day alone they are thereby insulting the and the sanctity of the Sabbath. Even before the stars on Friday day sparkle on the horizon, the traveling thief interrupts his tour and hurries to reach a place where he can celebrate Shabbat, on which he is forbidden to travel! By lighting the Sabbath candles, the sharp-playing thief locks his house, which the whole week was open to crime, in which perhaps a few hours, the robbery of the previous night has been divided. With honorable steps and a reverent countenance, he goes to the synagogue to pray the Shmona Esra, the God of Israel, to invoke blessings in his business! Oh, over this class of people who Enjoying a piece of leavened bread, writing her Nays on the Sabbath for a greater sin than the ruin of their fellow man brought about by systems of cold calculation!

Do not accuse me of exaggeration, nor of one-sidedness and animosity; both are far from me. Only Jewish crooks and scoundrels are being spoken of here, and whoever knows them will understand the truth of what has been said. The robber and thief, when revealed in his true form, still offers the psychology some interesting aspects, but with reluctance one turns away from people who, like Meyer Tiller or Moses Simon Bernhardt, have lived only by stealing since childhood—

who were the first wherever there was the plundering of foreign property—genthums was valid, and then turn your eyes to heaven, with damny pledging devotion to the divine being and his providence, refusing food on certain days in

atone for their sins

Machine Translated by Google

to atone by fasting, but afterwards to hatch all sorts of schemes and plots to escape!

One more word about the so-called vigilantes

Great is the harm caused by these people, who usually come from the midst of scoundrels and thieves.

whose depravity determines their usefulness. It is almost always a pure chimera to expect such a person to completely renounce his former connections, to 119

with his new position he will also adopt new principles and will be honest about the public security that he has endangered for so long

With his acceptance as a vigilante, his talents are the widest scope opens up. He will pursue criminals from whom he derives no benefit, but he will protect those who scatter golden incense out of greed. In the context presented

The investigation involved four police vigilantes alone. Joseph Adolph Royenthal from Berlin and Lébel Philipp from Breslau themselves took part in the thefts committed by the crooks and were subsequently arrested by the police.

lizei was used to identify the perpetrators! Samuel Jonas in Berlin maintained a formal thieves' den, and Marcus S. ..., the in Frankfurt a. O. also ran a restaurant, had special rooms in his house for the people visiting the fairy where they divided their loot, and where he naturally had to be richly rewarded.

Similar extremes can be found everywhere where public security security depends on the legitimacy of the vigilantes, where these people a deeper intervention in the policed state machine is permitted.

The worst part is that they are, in a sense, indispensable.

The executive police, whatever one may object, can without Vigili lantes are almost not handled at all. They behave towards it like the weights on a wall clock: remove them, the gears stop. Against Jews, in particular, one can only operate through

Jews, and the majority of the police agencies currently active in Germany are also Jews.

A formally organized secret police is needed, fortunately

Probably not with us, however necessary it may appear in Paris. The German national character neither requires nor approves of such an institution, and the vigilance we are discussing here also has, by its nature, a completely different tendency than that of our western neighbors, which requires no further explanation. Its work and surveillance should be directed against regicides, but against crooks and thieves. – But this really does not hold here at all. I only wanted to show two things: that one can neither rely on vigilantes nor do without them entirely, that I find a necessary evil, and when one finds it with great precision:

right must be used. How and in what way this can best be done

What can happen must be determined according to circumstances and individual considerations. Too much trust is always harmful, and no trust at all is ineffective and impracticable. The middle path leads much better.

easily reach the goal first. 6 |

As a rule, this type of people are assigned uncertain remuneration, which is usually too meager to be sufficient for their maintenance. This means that from the outset the taste for legal life is spoiled, and Durfy

tity yt makes it easier to tempt them. Biel

It would be worth trying to find such a person with a to earn a certain income that justifies his legal existence. A loyal and capable vigilant is in the security policey

Sirious consideration cannot be outweighed by money, and thrift is therefore hardly in its right place here.

| conclude by asking for a fair assessment. | have limited myself to the space and the actual tendency of this book.

| do not want to make any suggestions, but only hint at them. Perhaps some things have already been said about subjects such as the present one, written and spoken, yet no one can boast of having a pay nacée, and most of all, this claim is foreign to me. Everything | have allowed myself to cite is personal opinion and view, and perhaps too subject to error.

Police Councillor Merker recently made suggestions that, in my opinion, deserve great heed.

They are also subject to the same difficulties in their implementation as the earlier propoyitions of Messrs Stuhlmiller, Pfiyter lc., which were aimed at a general judicial cooperation, fo wiry

which, once executed, but, under all circumstances, far Yolidere provide guarantees and serve far more obvious purposes than those according to Perhaps everything taken together might result in a whole, over which the sifting selection would be left to wiser discretion

must remain at home.

Only a bad will can fail to recognize that at no time has any government done more for public and private security in the country, and is still doing more every day, than in the virgin; and if, nevertheless, the desired successes do not appear everywhere to the extent expected, the reasons for this are quite manifold

– Crimes in general are not political possibilities.

Neither draconian penal laws nor sanguine police institutions can do this.

Nowhere is there more stealing than under the gallows in England, and neither the 5,000 police officers in London

don't, nor the Brigade de Suretés in Paris, can the great Any to reduce the number of professional scoundrels in those capital cities. –

Even in Germany, the complete eradication of criminal activity will always be an unattainable task for the state police; the very thought of it must appear as a fantasy. But in order to nervous and roguery in order to stop the plans of these criminals

To thwart the efforts of the people and to destroy their dangerous machinations in their web, police power alone is not sufficient; the cooperation of all inhabitants of the state is necessary.

It is a regrettable fact that no measures in their exy management encounter greater difficulties than those relating to the police.

*) See Contributions to the Facilitation of Practical Police Practice,

Machine Translated by Google

14th year No. 25 and following.

In great delusion, people do not want to understand that the interests of the individual must always be subordinate to the interests of the whole, and in such cases they complain incomprehensibly about nuisances. Merely because it is forbidden, they so often promote the willful begging, shelters the passportless Gauy out of untimely compassion

ner, the suspicious vagrant, who perhaps the next night with a thieving hand will break down the hospitable door. – Not the state through artificial means, as we are constantly told, not the corruption of the penal institutions alone, but in white

The public itself no longer raises and feeds the Hyder in its bosom, which craves the rich man's excess of blood as much as the poor man's sweat. Therefore, everyone should first support, as much as they can, the police in their measures, which can then only have a powerful effect everywhere, but otherwise must eventually exhaust Agrippa, like the stomach in the fable of Menenius.

122

Vi.

A brief biography of the inquisitor Joseph Adolph Nosenthal.

I could indeed share many remarkable biographies of notorious scoundrels; however, these belong in the personal notes, which I will provide in the second volume. Instead, I will describe the biography of the inquisitor Royenthal, which will not find space there, but is presented here as a not insignificant one.

intereyyting addition, since it presents the faithful image of a Gauy ners, Royenthal also plays a major role in the investigation conducted here. However since Royenthal may have been in his confessions, his life story is not entirely clear in all respects, which is largely due to the fact that most of the documents previously used against him have unfortunately been lost.

Joseph Adolph Royenthal was born on April 3, 1778, in Joachimsthal in the Electorate of Brandenburg. His long-deceased father, Henychel Moyes, was, by all accounts, an honest Jewish merchant. Although he lived in Joachimsthal, he did not enjoy Jewish protection.

He was actually only in the service of the local protected Jews, because he was only tolerated as an orderly and gravedigger. The couragey ter of Royenthal, Schénchen, née Simon, still lives at Joachimsthal;

but 8 of his 10 siblings are dead.

Royenthal, who during the circumcision used the names Jacob Henry

He remained in his parents' home until the age of fourteen, during which time he attended Jewish school and acquired a fairly good knowledge of elementary science. After his fourteenth year, however, the happy monotony of his previous life ended; he was now supposed to support himself and began to engage in a bartering business in the surrounding area. In doing so, he laid the foundation for his later tern lives, for he aroused the bread envy of the Jews in Joachimsthal. At their insistence who was not

Machine Translated by Google

123

sheltered Jews, also lacking state protection in the Prussian lands), in 1796, the stay in was completely forbidden. | Without purpose, without goal, the 18-year-old young man left

his father's house, entering the wide world, which he did not know, in which he was a stranger. From the place of his birth he had been expelled, had declared him a homeless country according to legal formsy ytreicher, made. Who can argue with him, that he, anger in the bluey torn hearts, to defy the authorities and the law

Wherever he might turn, for him, the homelandy

There was no resting place anywhere, everywhere he was an outlaw. He therefore stayed near Joachimsthal, visiting secretly, in the dark

At night, and now and then his parents, he roamed the countryside, in constant danger, hid from the police in dirty bars and inns. Here he made the acquaintance of all sorts of scoundrels who at that time were active in smuggling on the country roads, especially along the Mecklenburg border.

In his youth, given his circumstances, he was almost helplessly dependent on the support of these people. He joined them and was initiated into the secret of their crime.

cherish trade, and the dice of fine skill were gey thrown.

Finally he didn't get to the actual thief when he, in the year 1799, when selling a stolen from his comradesy

nen Mantels, arrested, and by the school district courts to Joachimsy thal was taken for investigation. He denied the charges because he did not dare to betray the perpetrators and was therefore sentenced to three months in prison for the first major common theft.

sentenced; after serving the same, in the penitentiary in Spany

dau, but with the threat across the Prussian-Saxon border that he would be punished with imprisonment if he returned. Nevertheless, he returned to Prussia on the same day and came to Berlin, where he secretly lodged with a Kochemer named Faesel, who was then living at Kénigsmauer No. 7.

took place.

Here he met two Jewish thieves, Daniel Sprenger from Poland, and Levin Hirsch from Wrietzen ad O., who were staying at the Golden Star Inn on Klosterstrasse. They wanted:

*) Before 1812, Jews in Prussia enjoyed no civil rights at all. They were only divided into protected and unprotected

Protected Jews; the former, who enjoyed state protection and paid a higher tax in return, reside in the country and operate a trade; but the others, i.e. those not enjoying state p allowed to reside or operate a trade within the country, regardless of their possible birth ten to Mecklenburg to bring contraband across the border. RoYenthal participated in their enterprise and, driven by longing for his parents, persuaded her to travel with him across Joachimsthal.

Machine Translated by Google

thal. But when he arrived there, his parents refused to accommodate him because they feared dire consequences for themselves, which were immediately if only tolerated, feared. The Feast of Reconciliation, where bey

As is well known, the Jews, according to their religious custom, are not allowed to mature fen, was meanwhile in front of the door, and thus determined, Rofen-

thal with fine companions sheltered in the attic of a Joay

Chimsthaler Schugjuden. Here they found a quantity of SchaaUelle, which they stole.

Noyenthal sold them to the butcher Krohn to Joachimsthal and then went with his companions, for the purpose of the Cony

trebandirens, to Mecklenburg, but was taken by the Landhussarsy and, since he had no passport, crossed the Prussian border.

transported back. Once again, he circled the nest of his home like a frightened bird, but trusted his own father and only crept to his mother for a few hours at night when he knew away. But he was, despite all his ner caution, did not go unnoticed, and at the instigation of Krohn, who had meanwhile been prosecuted for the stolen furs found in his possession, his arrest took place during one of his nightly visits on December 31, 1799.

Once again brought under investigation for theft, one day, in the absence of the prison guard, he freed himself of his bonds and escaped with the aid of an axe he had managed to conceal. This happened on January 20, 1800. |

While he was being pursued with warrants as Jakob Henjychel, he issued a discharge certificate in the name of a distiller from Bremen and went to Stettin, where he received a government permit on the basis of it. In Pomerania, where he now roamed extensively, his volatile, unsettled life brought him into contact with many Christian thieves, and only now he truly begin his career as a scoundrel and thief, in which he made astonishingly rapid progress. In the summer of 1800, he was arrested in the village of Krümmow near Angermünde for treasure arrested for theft; but since he returned the stolen cloths and paid the food costs, he was released after a few days.

went to run away again. Several, around the same time in Freyenwalde were liable, criminals already described him as a member of a gang of thieves scattered throughout the Mark.

With three Christian scoundrels, Blay, Noske, and Tanke, he made forays into

Mecklenburg in 1801. Not far from Neu

They met in an inn with a raging slug

ter together, whom they cursed to poison his two dogs, presumably with the intention of robbing him of the money he was carrying. Upon the report of this butcher, they were

125

Arriving in Neukalden, they were arrested and many suspicious items, including crow's-eye dough, were found on them. Royenthal, who called himself Jakob Bremer and carried a (false) passport from the Prussian Consulate in Bremen in this name, consistently claimed to be a Christian and finally escaped.

before the investigation was completed, in a very clever way from prison, niyye, after being imprisoned for almost 8 months.

He arrived in Kerkow near Angermünde on 26 January 1802 with a passport in which he was identified as the son of a rider from Leib

Machine Translated by Google

Cuirass Regiment, named Heinrich Cohn, which the chamber had learned the art of hunting. The village courts inspected him his passport, the authenticity of which they did not doubt; several

Even imprisoned thieves had seen him and betrayed that he was an Aude. They pursued him and brought the fugitive back to Kerkow, where he was captured by a man who had previously served in Joachimsthal.

geytten, servant as Jakob Henychel, who came from therey was known.

The consequence of this was his deportation to Joachimsthal, where this time he made a confession, not only about the fur theft, but also about several other crimes. Through the ery knowledge of the Criminal Deputation of the Royal Chamber Court of 3

In March 1802 he was sentenced to 60 lashes and three years of imprisonmenty labor with the proviso that after serving his sentence he would be transported across the border and denied re-entry to the Prussian

Bian states should be prohibited from carrying out life-threatening fortification work.

He appealed and, after the defense point had been corrected, was to be taken to the fortress of Spandau to serve his punishment.

The bailiff, however, had grown fond of him and offered to assist him in his escape. To this end, he handed him, shortly before his removal, the order handed over to him by two rather simple-minded citizensy

He obtained a second key to his bonds and a bottle of brandy, with the help of which he actually escaped on May 13, 1802, in the Lanschen Heide, where his carriers were resting for breakfast. He boldly returned to Joachimsthal, presented himself to the court clerk as a grateful debtor, and received another 1 thaler from the courtier.

travel money, said goodbye to his parents, and left an area that no longer offered him any safety.

The next thing he had to do was to meet his former acquaintances ten, the Christian thieves, which could not have been difficult for him, as he knew all their hiding places. In addition to the previously mentioned Tanke, who now fabricated a passport for him in the name of Schultze, by 1805 Royenthal had also become particularly acquainted with a certain Mai, Papke, the boilermaker Schultze, and several others, with whom he committed a series of thefts in Pomerania and the Mark. Because of a break-in at 126

Krüger in Nabern, not far from Neudamm, Noyenthal, Mai, Tanke, and Papke were arrested in the Radung near Vietze and taken to Custrin for interrogation. Not only did they confess nothing, but they all escaped from prison on the evening of December 25, 1803, again with the assistance of a court officer.

They had stolen the goods in Nabern before their liability, a chawure was laid in a forest, and Tanke had confidentially informed the bailiff of this. Both had gone to the chawure one night, collected the money, and wasy

They returned to Cuytrin with it. The bailiff received his share, but the crooks consumed the rest in prison.

niyye and threatened, when there was nothing left, to betray the whole thing then, if they were not denied the opportunity to escape.

In this way they were able to persuade the frightened man to be promoted tion of their escape. b

Just a few months after his escape from Cuytrin, Royenthal was again sentenced to Sonnenburg in

Machine Translated by Google

Investigation and imprisonment. Which of the many in his life led He did not state the name he used at that time, nor could this be determined otherwise.

The court of first instance sentenced him to a three-month

necessary penal labor in Ciytrin, and, since he was a foreigner which was issued for immediate transport across the border. He was taken to the fortress of Eiiiftrin to begin his sentence delivered; but after a few weeks the second decision was made in his favor, which exempted him from the sentence. He was now sent to Sonnenburg, and there handed over to a messenger who was to bring him across the Saxon border. However, this messenger only escorted him as far as Frankfurt am Main; there, Royenthal wrote him a fictitious delivery note, with which he returned to Sonnenburg.

It goes without saying that Royenthal did not cross the border voluntarily.

He went to Schwerin a. W., where he became acquainted with a thief named Wilhelm, who was very notorious in that region at the time. He struck up a love affair with his stepdaughter, Marie Elisabeth, and persuaded her to follow him to Schneidemühl, where she, a Christian, converted to Judaism and was subsequently married to him according to Jewish rites.

Royenthal continued this conversion work for a whole year in Schneidemühl, during which he met with the people there and in the surrounding area Christian thieves staying in the area. With the aid of Wilhelm, a certain NetzlaU, Havenstein, and Carl Michaelis, called the Berliner Carl, he committed, among other things, a clothing theft on the Wallbruch estate near Tempelburg by means of burglary, but was caught with the stolen goods, along with his comrades, and taken to Graudenz, and from there to the court in Bromberg for investigation. Royenthal, to

127

Sentenced to a three-month prison sentence, he had already spent ten weeks in the Bromberg prison, but was still to be sent to the Rößel penitentiary to serve the remainder. During transport there, he jumped for the fifth time, between Fordon and Culve.

In the prison at Bromberg, Royenthal, who until then had had only dealt with Christians and stolen, various Jewish thieves, partly by person, partly by name and place of residence. Among them were Jidel Joyeph from Schneidemühl, Hirsch Joyeph from Czarnikau, Israhel Guty child, called Schocher, Abraham from Storchnest, and others. The latter two and the aforementioned Retzlau, he met after his

After leaving the transport, in the small town of Margonin. They had just committed a theft of silver goods and had already impounded the stolen goods, from which they gave him a few thalers as brandy money. They demanded that he participate in a theft they were planning, which he willingly did.

Coming through Schneidemühl, von Royenthal was a thiefy ytahl in the local post office in Voryugg. He and Retzlau in

They inspected the location by sending a piece of paper, folded in letter format and bearing an address, to the post office. In the expedition room, they noticed two small barrels of money, which the crooks decided to steal. On the evening of the following day, until the widow D... of Schneidemühl, the former landlady of the Rofenthal, hosted them, the enterprise was

Machine Translated by Google

men carried out. Not far from the post office building they met the man who had been there thought, Wilhelm and a shoemaker Gerhardt, who had just

They were planning to steal some tartan. They were taken under the tartan mats, and the mats were removed by inserting them into the rear wall of the house. In the two barrels, the thieves found 2,000 thalers in courant, which they divided among themselves.

in which a considerable sum was also paid out for the widow D...

This was the last crime that Noyenthal committed in the community of Christian thieves; for in 1805 he, who at that time bore the name JudenyHeinrich among his comrades, settled in Betysche and since then has associated exclusively with Jews.

"The reason which determined me," are his own words of Rofenthal, "from now on to choose my stay in Betyschey

"len, was that | had learned how in Betysche yehr

"easily people who could not settle anywhere, ony

"take, and that this could be effected with money from the local authorities and the Jewish elders. The two Jewish elders were there: "firstly, the recently deceased notorious thieves Jakob Nathan "Stahl" and Simon Baer, the latter having only recently returned from "Leipzig, where he had served a 10-year prison sentence;

"was returned. To those who knew me exactly, according to my name

123

"people, my birthplace and my activities, turned

| first agreed with them that | should take the name "Jakob Ascher" and give Danzig

as my birthplace, in order to be able to set up my residence in Betsche under these details. Their willingness to accept me was rewarded by me with 4 Louis d'ors. By 4 other

"the Louis d'ors that my wife gave to the mayor, and by

"6 Louis d'ors, which were given to the (late) Landrath NN

", she also obtained the consent of these authorities to

"ner, without the prior knowledge of the government, admission to "Betysche yc."

It is superfluous to say that in a similar way the domiciliy

tion of many other criminals, and not only in Betsche alone, which has already been discussed earlier, and what abouty does not belong at all to the biography of the inquisitor Royenthal.

Hardly settled in Betsche, his first business was a thief's attempt to steal the market in Bernftein, for which he was hired by the aforementioned was encouraged by the two Jewish elders themselves. In their company, on the way back to Betsche, he robbed an innkeeper in the gend von Colberg by means of a so-called bankruptcy. Not for long therey

He then traveled, also with the intention of thieving, with Salomon David Stock from Betsche and Daniel Herchel Spiegel from Rostarczewo to the Dominican Market in Danzig. There, having just returned from a theft, they met Moses Levi Altenburger, Simon Levin Gratzner, and three other Jewish thieves from Schermeysel and Betsche. They joined forces and decided to first visit a monastery. One of them joined forces, and Royenthal, as a newcomer among the Jewish thieves, went in to make his own test piece. Still not courageous enough, he did not dare to lay a hand on the inside and therefore went out again, having accomplished his task, lying to his comrades that he had opened everything but found nothing.

Another theft in a pub, which now

Machine Translated by Google

The proposed raid ended so badly that Altenburger and Gratzner were arrested, and they were away by a third raid, which they undertook, undaunted, on a freight forwarder living on the rampart. On the return journey, however, a certain Thier Wolu soon committed a theft from village blacksmith, which was carried out and from which 100 thalers were stolen.

So it continued until 1806, when the French invasion took place, and when Royenthal, like many others, secured a factory and sutler. In 1808 he returned to Betsche, and the thieving traffic began on an larger scale, as several of the crooks now had their own vehicles.

factory owned. | =

It would be a thankless effort to try to describe all the large number of thefts which he now committed in an unbroken series

129

follow up to a fine, soon to be mentioned in more detail, arrest in Franky further a. O., committed; and if he himself confesses to having lived exclusively by theft during this time, | would in fact have nothing to add to this confession.

Because of one, in community with his brother Levi and Dayniel Simon Michaelis from Betsche, with a Jew in Soldin fully led to violent theft amounting to several thousand thalers

The latter two were educated in Meyritz in 1812 as Uny

They were investigated and arrested. They confessed.

"And this circumstance," says Royenthal, "moved me to leave Betsche completely for a while. During the same time, my wife was trying to get a certificate of withdrawal from

Betsche for me, my

"wife and our only child, which we had conceived in our marriage, by deciding to take up residence in Roytarczewo from now on. My wife

"I managed to obtain the necessary certificate of withdrawal during my absence. According to the law in September 1812, I moved to Rostarczewo under the name Jacob Ascher Royenthal. I knew that in this town there was just as little difficulty in accepting Jews as in Betsche. Through the mediation of the then (deceased) Jewish elder and several other persons to whom I turned and to whom I showed my gratitude, my acceptance was also without a special

"I told."

Royenthal lived in Rostarczewo until 1819, during which time he was in acquaintance with almost all of the Grand Duke's notorious thieves.

These included, even with those who were only temporarily transported there by fate. These included Ruben Abraham, called Meyerchen Rhin, Marcus Michel, also known as Mortgen Schwerin, Salomon Levin, also known as Schmul Mannheim, and others.

After he was taken to Hermsdorf on suspicion of theft in 1813

to the village and in 1814 at Warmbrunn for a time under investigation—

but without anything significant being discovered against him, he made in 1816 with Jacobowitz, Jacob Gery

Levinstein, Jacob and Aron Rehfeld and Selig Joel a great thieving excursion

through Silesia, the Mark and Pomerania to Prussia

Ben. In Stolpe, the infamous Marcus Joel joined the Cha—wruyye an, whereupon it over Danzig, where by means of incursion 329 Thay ler were captured, went to Memel. Here, Jacobowitz and Marcus Joel were caught in flagrant delicto while stealing duplicate keys, and the others who had waited with the wagon outside the city and had fled were also brought back. Towards Royenthal, where cher, like all the others, stubbornly denied it, the investigation was reopened for the th was subsequently sentenced to 40 lashes and 6 months of penal servitude punished. His release also resulted in another thieving trip to Silesia.

130

Finally, in 1819, he and Moyes Levin Altenburger stole,

Becker, Gratzner, Chaum Krotoychyn and Hirschgen Neubriick one behind the other the judicial depoyitorium in Lübben, and the merchant Kriy ger to Cotbus for the very significant sum of 8000 thalers. He and his comrades were therefore arrested by a police officer sent from Berlin and taken to Frankfurt am Main by acommiyyton specially set up for this purpose to support

urvey. That because of his open confessions in this investigation and because of his fruit activity on occasiony

ity of a, then envoy to the Grand Duchy of Poyen, securityy

| have already mentioned earlier that the Health Commission subsequently pardoned him.

In 1821, with higher permission, he moved to Berlin, converted to Christianity, and was used with great success for security police purposes.

But if one asks about the circumstances under which he who became a criminal, in the way he could successful to conceal his real activities for almost 10 years so skillfully that he deceiv

the most prudent authorities; after yey deeds, while playing a double role as a rogue and police officery

gent; yt yur yt of interest of such a delicate nature are connected to this point that the cannot easily be touched upon by the hand of the biographer without painful injury. The me enumeration of a numery

a lot of thefts, in whose execution he again, any yt only indirectly, but later even directly, would hardly have the purpose of tiring the r which will therefore be forgiven me without apology.

Two more investigations, which were initiated by the denunciationy

n of the thieves he had betrayed were provoked against him, his great skill allowed him to escape punishment, which he

He refused to cooperate in a third investigation opened against him and six other Jews in Berlin in 1829. For his participation in the robbery of the court depository in Berlin, sentenced to two years' imprisonment, of which he had only served a few days, as an import police consideration.

set him free again.

What he has demonstrated in the investigation conducted here

through his comprehensive confessions, through his sincerity, through his remorsey | have already mentioned the zeal he has shown for the public good, and also how and in wh manner the King's grace has once again been bestowed upon him.

Led to the fortress of Spandau, Royenthal is there, aftery

Machine Translated by Google

He died of the consequences of an operation after barely serving a year of his sentence. He is, in his way, the most remarkable

151

Aman | had the opportunity to get to know. His appearance did not correspond at all to the image that the dreamer created when reading his documents. Nothing false, nothing mischief was expressed in his features; a trait of good-naturedness, which generally characterized advantage, his friendly, trusting manner.

His humble yet modest nature made a good impression everywhere

Without selfish preconditions, like Lowenthal, he achieved three times more than Löwenthal through his confessions, through all his actions; he had the most beautiful opportunity to escape, but he did not use them, nor did he indulge in the smallest indiscretion.

honesty or falsehood, throughout the entire course of the investigation,

Certainly, this rare act carries a great

A considerable part of the rare number of his previous crimes. I confess that I enjoyed talking with him often; I thank him for the many revelations he has willingly provided me scoundrels residing both within and outside the country.

One cannot deny that Roythal was almost forcibly thrown into his criminal career by the fate of his youth; and that he continued to pursue it is not surprising, considering his life in Betsche and Roytarczewo, no criminal has ever

The reason for his improvement was laid. The relapse after his pardon
The yeyt Yufficiency yuffiyciye ...

half still considered them their comrades; but the poverty of his situation also contributed and even more so his frivolity and his tendency to intrigue. I saw the latter characteristic flash through in him until the very end, and therefore, as painful as it was courageously, I freely confess, the news of his death shocked me touched, my next thought was: whether one shouldn't thank Providence for this in the end.

gr

132

V.

Description

the more excellent in the investigation against Loy Wenthal and his comrades admitted to and otherwise investigated crimes.

Man in general, and thus also the criminal, the scoundrel, can only be correctly understood judged by his actions.

Imbued with this conviction, I have not considered it superfluous

I intend to extract some of the more remarkable thefts from the more than 800 admitted in investigation and to describe them in more detail below. I have given particular consideration which, neither by virtue of the difficulty of their execution, nor by the fact that to the necessary travels of the crooks, a special public

Machine Translated by Google

arouse personal interest, especially for police officers. All thieves yfeel, as v. Grolm and Pfißter did, this deyscripy tion, because this alone would probably have filled an octave band.

. Robbery at the Catholic Provost Friedrychowit u Wiyy

yeck in the beginning of November 1813.

n November 1813, a gang of thieves set out from Roytarczewo, as usual, by wagon to commit thefts in the Thorn area. It consisted of the following individuals: 1) Joseph Adolph Royenthal. 2) Simon Reinhardt, known as Schulz. 3) Salomon Levin, known as Schmul Manheim.

4) Moyes Levin Altenburger, called Mauyche Leib.

n the small town of Redyciewe, 5 miles from Thorn, they met to another ThievesyChawruyVe, consisting of:

..) The circumstances surrounding this crime have not been fully clarified; partly because victims themselves died,

partly because most of the robbers, before the start of the investigation, came from the Prussian state. However, since it is the only offense of this kind that appears in the investigation, nevertheless has the division seemed worth.

183

5) Salomon Oppenheim, called Unger. 6) Ifrael Gutkind, called Schocher. 7) Abraham Hirsch, called Awrom Orinkes. 8) Hirsch Abraham, alias Bannach. 9) Levin Hirsch, called Leibke, and 10) David, called Mamsel.

Of the latter, two mass mats were proposed, one in Lobsens with a Jew, and the other with the Catholic

1 Probyte in Wiyyeck. All united to carry out their plans.

There was a break-in in Lobyens, but the thieves were caught.

They carried off and only 32 thalers were captured, after which they went to Wiyyeck. A short distance from the town, David was left behind with the wagons.

The others went to the clergyman's isolated house, where they arrived at 11 p.m. Altenburg and Oppenheim were placed on guard duty, while the others entered the house, which was not locked. Wax candles were lit in the hallway, a guard was also placed at a side door leading to the storeroom, and then the door leading to the provost's bedroom was blocked with an 8-foot-long beam. In this room, besides the provost, his new assistant, V.

Friedrychowitsch, a young, strong man, was also sleeping.

Awakened by the noise in front of and in the house, he was just about to open the door when it was pushed open by the running beams, was blown open. Simon Reinhardt, who first entered the roomy

mer urged, was thrown to the ground by him; but this resistance

it could of course only be a fruitless one. Among many mishandling

He was soon overpowered and gagged. The same fate befell the provost, who was still in bed, whereupon both were laid face down on the ground. After all the chests and boxes yts were broken or smashed by the robbers, without the suspected of finding money, the gagged people were extorted from the ytandniB that the money was hidden in the church behind the altar. When on this occasion the old provost begged the robbers for mercy, since they were not heathens but friends, he was retorts: "Yes, we were friends too, and will be fine in the future, but today we can't find. Just tell me where the money is."

Machine Translated by Google

After the maids sleeping in the servants' room had been gagged, the robbers went to the church and found the money there, more than 2000 thalers, and also broke into a chest found there with church equipment, which they, however, strangely enough, left untouched. Not yet satisfied with the gey made booty, they returned again to the clergy's house, mistreated them again, and uttered terrible threats

They would leave if they could not prove they had more money. Only after they had turned everything around again and even broken through a bricked-up chimney, hoping to find money there, did they leave, leaving the inhabitants tied up. In total, 2500 thalers were stolen, which were divided by the robbers in a forest near Wronke).

134

When the robbery was discovered the following morning, the two clergymen were found still bound hand and foot, exhausted and close to death, lying partly on the floor,

The ropes used to bind them had penetrated so deeply into the swollen flesh that they were barely visible. The provost was ill from that moment on and died soon afterward; whether as a result of the ill-treatment he suffered has not been determined.

The audacity of this crime is unbelievable when one considers that it was committed in a city, near many inhabited houses.

II. First thieving trip to Schlefien, in November and December 1818.

In the autumn of 1818, the thief Heymann Singer, who had meanwhile fled to Austria, was then in Roytary Czewo, his comrade, a mascot from a Jewish merchant, to Erin. To commit the theft, at the November of the same year:

Joseph Adolph Royenthal; his brother Levi Royenthal; Heymann Singer;

Marcus Abraham Silberyein; and Neumann Jacob Poyener returned from Roytarczewo, first to Neub.

There they met the Christian thieves Becker and the gap-toothed miller, who joined the Chawruse.

Royenthal baldowerte here the Kreissteuerkaye to Sagan in Schley yien *), and since this promised more loot, the thieves abandoned their plan to go to Exir Becker and Miller were sent aheady sent to get the opportunity to commit this theft even closer toy While they had a rendezvous in Domswalde near

Bunzlau with a master baker who also ran a pub

*) This kind of stealing, or rather robbing, as was formerly very common fig, especially by the gangs on the Rhine, has, as I have already mentioned, fallen completely in recent times. The scoundrels call it a Perkoochbandel, or Chayyne (which means or Koofcheyy, or finally, according to the transliteration of the latter word, a twenty-e

Machine Translated by Google

++) The province of Silesia was, and still is, particularly plagued by the thieves of the of Posen. The designation "first" and "second thieves' expedition" is therefore to be under sequence of those described here.

) Royenthal was again from the deceased thief Jacob Rehfeld, who had already taken the opportunity to commit this theft in 1815, when he had some cash register instructions in the tax treasury yungen conywe.

135

had agreed, the others bought another horse in their team and drove now

1) first to Breslau. N

Here the wagon remained in front of the gate under the supervision of Heymann Singer and Joseph Adolph Royenthal, but the latter's brother, as well as Posener and Silberstein, went into the city to steal. On the street they met a Jew from Kochem, Day no Englishmen, were shown by this merchant where it was easy to trade, and also stole properly, by means of Scoty tenfellens, two pieces of calico; all three then returned to the wagon.

2. On the road to Domsvalde, which they now took, the thieves stopped at a village tavern located between Parchwitz and Liegnitz. Royenthal exchanged a few thalers from the money he had earned from the sale of the stolen cotton and noticed on this occasion that money was being kept in the room next to the tavern. He immediately inspected the location, found that outer wall of the room in question was easy to break through, and everyone decided to commit theft. They drove to a village beyond Liegnitz, stopped there for Shabbat, and returned in sun.

day and night to the aforementioned village. While Silberstein stayed with the wagon, the others went to the inn, reached through the unlocked courtyard door into the courtyard and had had already made a hole in the wall with his crooked head when they were scared away by the arrival of a girl, probably returning from spinning.

Now they went directly to Domswalde. As agreed, they met the baker and miller there, who were in charge of the district tax office.

had inspected the building at Sagan and found that on the one hand it was still in the position previously described by Royenthal, but on the other hand it still contained a "Lieche", i.e.

place for climbing over the wall.

After Levi Royenthal and Silberstein separated from the Chawruyye

separated, the rest left on 26 November,

3. to Sagan, where they arrived at 11 p.m. Heyy

Man Singer remained on the Wiazzef with the wagon, the others, led by the miller, went to the city, carrying the necessary tools for breaking in. Over a small fence they climbed into a garden, which bordered the cityy

wall, found in the latter a door which was not locked, and through it they entered the city

Machine Translated by Google

The district tax office faces the market square, where a military guard post is located. The left wing of the building, which forms a corner house, borders a narrow cross alley.

*) Actually Haliche. See the dictionary.

136

This wing is adjoined by a fairly high wall, in the middle of which there is a door through which one enters the courtyard.

This door was locked.

Here, in view of inhabited houses, the entrance was

In front of the stone threshold, Miller lifted some stones from the pavement with a crowbar, then dug a hole under the threshold with his hands and with the help of his crooked head, and after loosening it, pushed it into the courtyard. Muller squeezed through the opening and, with his crooked head, forced open the door from the inside, where Posener was posted on guard. The others then tried to force through the door leading from the courtyard into the house, but were unsuccessful. Therefore, with the help of a wooden block they had brought, they climbed into a high ground-floor window, which they opened by pushing through a pane. They were now in a back room, from there, by artificially opening door, they reached the hallway, and after they had secured their retreat by unlocking the door of the housey

After they had secured the door, they blew up another door which led them to a corridor in which the cash room was located on the left.

The door to the same, although with an iron gate and Padlocked, was forcibly blown open. The same thing happened with the door that led from the cash room into the vault where the money was kept. This door, in particular, burst open with such a loud noise that the thieves feared that the or in the second

ten floors, sleeping tax collector, which is why Miller stood guard at the stairs to his apartmenty was set up. Royenthal and Becker meanwhile cleared out the cash registry vault, stole about 2000 thalers, and then withdrew with their comrades, on the same route they had come, only thisy

Instead of through the window, they left the house and returned to their wagon through the courtyard door. Without stopping, they continued through Sprottau, Freystadt, and Neusalz to a forest near Kontop, where the stolen money was divided. A full share was set aside for Roythal's brother, but Silberstein was compensated with 70 thalers.

After the crooks had brought their loot to safety in Roytarczewo, they immediately

continued

4. to Haynau in Silesia, where Heymann Singer caught a thiefy stole from a merchant. On December 18, at 8 p.m., the thieves arrived in Haynau. While two members of the Chawruse remained with the wagon, Joseph Adolph Royenthal, Becker, and Miller, equipped with crowbars, went out to reconnoiter to find an entrance to town. They found

There was also a small locked gate, which Royenthal began to break open. When he had already broken the lock and the thieves had entered the city, the noise attracted the tower guard.

137

Machine Translated by Google

They answered his question: "Gentlemen, who finds you?" that they were traveling merchants and were out for a walk for their pleasure; however, such a walk, in a day

December night, the tower guard was not entirely clear. He seized Becker and Royenthal to take them to his apartment, but at the same moment received several blows from Miller with the crowbar which he hit on the head, so that he fell unconscious to the ground, and only after several moments did he recover from the seven head wounds he had received.

Leaving the crowbar behind, the thieves, whose trail was sought in vain, fled and drove off with their comrades left behind by the wagon,

5. to Frenftadt, where the Royal Excise Cashier, which Heymann Singer had also robbed, was to be robbed.

The crooks spent the night on the way in the village of Quarez, where

They left there on the afternoon of Christmas Day and arrived in Freystadt at night. Two of them went with the wagon, while Becker, Miller and Joseph Adolph Royenthal, who ran the Lokay shop also knew, went into the unlocked city with a wagon axle, a wagon stake, keys, and saws which might have been around midnight. The Excisekasen building which stands in the middle of the market, surrounded by several other houses, namely the town hall. The entrance was secured by a strong door, bolted with iron bars. This door, which resisted any artificial opening, was forced open by the thieves by forcibly tearing the latch out of the wall. On the right hand side of the hallway was the cash room, secured by two strong iron doors. After Becker had been put on guard in front of the house, Miller and Royenthal opened both doors, one by means of a duplicate key, the other also by breaking the latch. In the room, the thieves found two boxes, one of which was covered with iron sheeting, with strong iron hoops, and with three locks, one of which was a common lock.

lichen and two padlocks. The two padlocks The locks were strangled with the wagon stake, but the third was forcibly removed using a chisel found in the cashier's office and a brought-along foreman's booklet (a strong piece of iron).

own up. The other, also covered with iron bands, Kay yt remained unbroken because the thieves had made an opening in it and were convinced that it contained no money. Several more cupboards and drawers were uselessly broken open and

Then, with the money stolen from the first chest, they began their retreat to the wagon. On a solitary inn behind Glogau, on the morning of the following day, was a fourty

We stopped for a half-hour to feed the horses and to restore ourselves; then the journey continued without delay until we reached yt earlier mentioned Koppnitz Forest, where again the division of the booty took place, where this time amounted to more than 800 thalers.

138

III. Second thieving trip to Schlefien, in November 1819.

In 1813, Joyeph Adolph Royenthal was convicted of theft

Suspicion was in custody in Hermsdorf, Silesia. One of his fellow prisoners had told him that there was a treasury in the castle there that contained a lot of money. Even then, Roy decided until he occasionally stole this key, for which purpose he had the location described in

To carry out that decision, Royenthal initially united November 1819 with those living partly in Betysche, partly in Neubrticky liable, thieves

Moyes Simon Bernhardt gen. Zimchens Mauyche, Carl Friedrich Becker, Hirych Heymann gen. Hirychgen Neu-briick and Simon Levi Gratzner gen.

Zanderchen.

After Bernhardt, by shoveling several precious items, had acquired some Louisy d'or's travel money, the Chawruyye first drove

1. via Hirschberg to Schönau. Here, their travel money was gone. Bernhardt and Royenthal therefore went into town. In a tailor's shop, Royenthal bought silk for a few groschen, and while he was busy with the merchant, Bernhardt stole some remnants of cotton, which he carried off in his thieves' bag. They sold the stolen goods in the next 10 thalers, and then continued on with the others.

2. to Hermsdorf, where they arrived on November 17th at midnight. Hirsch Heymann remained on the Wiazzeff with the wagon, the others went to commit the theft.

into the city. They approached the stately palace from behind.

building, because the window, which had to be broken to get into the building

The door to the courtroom, where the cash box was located, was to be opened at the rear.
They carried with them a new hemp rope and a wooden pole, stolen along the way, as a lifting beam, because they knew that the window they were to break through was equipped with iron rails.

The thieves first reached a 6 foot high garden wall.

Becker climbed over it and found a door that could only be opened from the inside.
was locked, she opened her eyes and let the others in. While Gratz

When the guard was posted here, Bernhardt, Becker, and Royenthal went under the masts.

The window in question, however, was two ells above the ground and therefore too high to be able to operate with the hoist without a device. A wooden stretcher was discovered in the garden. Royenthal climbed onto it and, with the rope and hoist, actually broke one one-and-a-half-foot-thick iron bars from the wall, and was just about to replace the inner, two-winged, iron shutter with piece of oaky

139

"To throw wood in as if it were lamps!" shouted our companions, and everyone hastily fled. The court guard who had arrived was the lamp.

The thieves now drove

3. back to Schénau. There Vernbardt and Roy

ytended to be the opportunity for a larger theft, which was now to be carried out, at the merchant from whom she had robbed a few days earlier of some pieces of cotton.

On November 20th, at 11 o'clock in the evening, the thieves arrived in front of Schoy. They left Gratzner at the wagon and sneaked through the town to the house inhabited by the merchant. It is located on the market, is a corner house, and, like the district tax office gan, a courtyard surrounded by a wall. The intention was to break into the shop and steal goods. From the market, The thieves did not dare to do this because they were afraid of the guard.

Machine Translated by Google

They therefore decided to climb over the courtyard wall, enter the building through the rear door, and then, by opening the shop door, use a master key to gain entry into the shop.

For this purpose, Bernhardt fetched from a place at the gatey

a ladder from the barn, Becker climbed over the wall with the help of the same, broke through the door leading out to the alley, with 3 locks

yer guarded gate, at which Hirsch Heymann was on guardy

The others tried in vain to break through the strong door leading into the house from the back and then tried to get into a

barred ground floor window facing the courtyard

They had already driven some iron bars out of the walling with a wagon rack brought by Becker, when Hirsch Heymann called from the alley, "Lamps!"

and everyone fled.

According to all circumstances, the merchant has saved his egg genthums only a coincidence, because the thieves were, as far as the files show, not disturbed by any human being.

In order to go to Bunzlau for other thefts ben, the crooks drove

4. via Peterwitz, where on the evening of November 21st (a Friday)

they had a meal at the innkeeper and court clerk HoUmann.

returned to celebrate Shabbat. The following day (i.e., on the Sabbath), Bernhardt found HoUmann in his bedroom, busy counting a pile of hard thalers. Andy

under the pretext of exchanging some old coins that were underneath Bernhardt, who wanted to be there, greeted him, but was immediately shown out the door by the waiter, but in the few seconds the 18 thalers. The damnifikat had not noticed either the theft or his subsequent loss, and when he was told years later that he had been robbed, he refused to believe it!

However, it was not for nothing that he had protected his wealth from thieves Eyes uncovered, because on Sunday morning the crooks drove 140

from Peterwitz, but with the fierce intention of returning in time to raise the treasure.
actually slept at midnight

5. back to Peterwitz, where Royenthal stayed with the wagon.

Bernhardt climbed over the fence into the yard, entered the house through the unlocked rear door, and unlocked the front door.

The thieves were now in the house in which the barroom was on the right and the HoUmann's bedroom was on the left.

The money was in it, and the thieves were bold enough to try to get it out. The door was locked because the outer handle had been pulled out of the lock.

It could therefore not be opened with a duplicate key. Foreseeing this, Royenthal, in what way is unknown, had examined another handle that fit perfectly into the lock, the Berny hardt jetzt leye 6Unete.

The little noise had in the meantime awakened the HoUmann

He woke him, who, immediately suspecting thieves, held the door shut from the inside with all his might. However, fearing that he could not continue this resistance indefinitely, he pushed open the door himself and called loudly for help, whereupon the thieves fled.

Machine Translated by Google

They now drove

6. to Neuyalz, where Gratzner and Bernhardt found a piece of treey woolen stuff, with which they continued,

7. traveled to Nitteritz. In front of the Chauyéehause behind Deutyschy

Wartenberg was stopped and Bernhardt was instructed to obtain money from the highway collector because the travel treasury was exhausted.

Bernhardt – an experienced Chilfer – changed a piece of money, and ytook actually 12 thalers on this occasion. Of the Chauyysey

The collector, however, soon realized his loss, pursued the thieves to Nitteritz, where th spending the night, and detained Becker and Royenthal, while the others escaped with the goods and money. Both were handed over to the district authorities in Grünberg, where they were released, however, after Royenthal sold a horse and used the proceeds to compensate the robbed man and offset the transport costs.

Since there was a lack of money to look at another horse, and also a lack of sufficient crew, another horse, theft of which had been committed a year ago by the toothless miller in the Royal Saltworks in Neusalz, had to be temporarily abandoned. Becker and Royenthal therefore first returned to Roytarczewo, completely attended there their torn chawruyye with

Hirych Heymann, Samuel Flatow called Oberyitzky and Marcus Elias Cohn called Schwarz Mortge, bought a new horse for their team and traveled to Neusalz in Schleyten on the 8th to steal the salt mine there.

At 10 o'clock in the evening on December 20th, the thieves arrived in front of 11

the unlocked little town, leaving Flatow at the wagon, and then, as usual, sneaked towards the cash to be stolen

A building, which, with its front facing a wide alley, was surrounded by a fenced garden, whose courtyard was enclosed by a fairly high wooden fence. The courtyard itself, where the cash register was located, was guarded at night by a specially appointed watchman, who had his living quarters in the courtyard.

tion and a capable dog to assist him. When a
As a 72-year-old man, he had to rely more on them than on himself. 5 N

When the thieves arrived in front of the house, it was above the kayy

The second floor, located in a yenoğt, is still brightly lit because society was there. This, and the fact that it was only the first hour of the evening, did not prevent the daring thieves from breaking in.

After the watchman's dog, which was running freely around the yard, had been poisoned by Marcus Elias Cohn with a fried dough made of flour and crow's eyes, Becker broke down the door of the front garden fence and then, by breaking through a pane of glass, opened the unguarded ground floor window, into which Becker and Royenthal flew, while Hirsch Heyn and Marcus Elias Cohn remained outside to keep watch.

By unlocking a door, the thieves entered a two room, from there into the kitchen, and through the kitchen back into the hallway, at the end of which was the entrance to the shopping room. The door, which was attempted in vain by breaking out the panel, finally yielded to the Rosenthal's ability to close it.

Machine Translated by Google

In the cash room, the locked containers were opened by means of

They opened the door with a key, packed up all the cash, and then, with a crowbar, broke open the door to the vault, where they believed they would find most of the money. Meanwhile, the door burst open with a loud bang, and immediately afterwards, on the second floor, works noise arose, so the thieves believed they had been betrayed, and they greeted the escape. 5a

Although the Mayyematten, as the crooks call it, was not fully negotiated, the booty amounted to about 1500 thalers, which were divided on the return journey to Betysche.

This theft appears even more strange because there was a lot of snow at the time it was committed, a circumstance that would never have allowed thieves of this type to attempt a similar undertaking. Nothing

Nevertheless, in Neusalz, no one even remotely believed that the trail of the criminals could be sought outside the urban territory.

want.

IV. R Theft in the Nentamtskaye in Guyow. Eight from March 31 to April 1, 1823.

In the autumn of 1822, the Jew Wolu Strasburge from Seey

Low informed Joseph Adolph Royenthal that the tax office man Haaye in Guyow, due to his Official position, was keeping a lot of money in his apartment that could be stolen. To convince himself of the accuracy of this information, Roy traveled

Soon after, in the company of two other thieves, Hirsch Moses Hirschberg, called Brodbar, then living in Joachimsthal, and Abraham Deutsch, who went to Guyow, he offered the tax collector cloth for sale and actually sold it for 70 thalers. On this occasion, he discovered that the only purpose of his trip, that the tax collector had indeed considerable money in his apartment, and that it might be worth the effort to

to steal from him. He shared his perception with the thieves.

Wohlauer, Königsberger and Oppenheim, who also travelled to Guyow twice to commit

the theft, without revealing their intention to carry out the plan. The first time, Wohlauer had already opened the room door with the key, but the attempt failed due to a mysterious whim of Oppenheim, who flatly refused to help break into an iron safe. The other time, the thieves had to leave again.

Then, because on the night set for the execution of the theft, beer was being brewed in the house where the tax collector lived.

Finally, around Easter 1823, Royenthal insisted on carrying out the theft because he needed money. It was agreed that Wohlauer and Hirschberg were supposed to trade with the Mayyematten. Early on March 31, Wohlauer and Royenthal drove on the wagony works of the latter, from Berlin to Miincheberg. Here Royenthal stayed in Joachimsthal, who at that time had not yet taken part in the thefts and then the crook took, to wait for the outcome of the matter;

Wohlauer, however, went on foot via Seelow to Guyow, where, about a quarter of an hour before this place, he met the Hirschberg, which was run by the son of the Jew WolU Berg from

Cügtrin, first name

Machine Translated by Google

Jacob had sent for the spot. While he was driving works remained on the square of the ZuyementreUen, the two thieves went into Guyow.

Wolse Strasburger had soon informed Royenthal that the rent office man usually went out to play on Sunday evenings, and then the house was unattended. March 31st was precisely the second public holiday.

It was about 8 o'clock in the evening when the thieves arrived at the house of the tax collector. After they were convinced that he was not present, Wohlauser went through the front door up the stairs and opened the door leading to the tax collector's office using a key. In the adjoining room, he found

He had two money boxes, one of which was made of iron, the other of wood, with several very strong locks. Since Wohlauser only had a weak chisel with him, he could not think of the violent opening of these boxes. He therefore returned to the front room, where a writing desk stood, which cher, according to the Strasbourg Baldowerung, should also contain money. He opened this, and the first thing that came to him when searching

143

What fell into his hands was a large key, which he immediately, quite correctly, suspected to lock one of the two chests.

Without stealing anything from the Sefretair, Unete Wohy

With this key, he opened the iron money box, in which he found many money bags and several cash bags containing 300 and 400 thalers each. After he had filled a linen bag he had brought with him for this purpose with money bags, he first carried them down to Hirschberg, who was on the lookout for bribes. Before doing so, he relocked the money box, from which he had taken two more money bags, and placed the key back in its original place while the bags were under a table draped with a cloth.

This was done as a precaution, so that if someone came into the room in the meantime, the theft would not be immediately discovered and a chase would not be initiated. However, he found his way back.

Everything was still in its previous state, and now also carried the two wallets down.

Since the car was a quarter of an hour away from Guyow, and Wohlauser was already tired of his previous work sufficed, they could not take all the money away, and hid a bag containing 300 thalers under a pile of manure, where it was found the following morning.

With the remaining money, the crooks happily reached the Way

They drove to Mincheberg, woke Royenthal from his sleep, examined the loot on his wagon, and returned to Berlin with it. The stolen money amounted to the considerable sum of 2,400 thalers. Wohlauser and Royenthal each received 700 thalers, Hirschberg 600 thalers as a share and the remaining 400 thalers, of which the wagoner received 150 thalers, were distributed among some accomplices.

V. Thefts in Seelow, Berlin, and Breslau. December 1813.

At the end of November 1823, Levi David Kunstmann and Joseph Adolph Royenthal, on the latter's wagon, left Betyche to meet a friend of Kunstmann's in Seelow.

to commit key theft. In Berkenwerder they met

Machine Translated by Google

Moses Simon Bernhardt, Isaac Hirsch Stuckart, Simon Jacob

Schweriner called Schmaie and Neumann Jacob Poyener called

Nachmann, who also owned a wagon and had the opportunity to steal

then visited. A common cause was made with them.

Royenthal, who was known to be a police agent, did not want to discredit himself or even be suspected of complicity with the authorities by his presence at the scene during the theft science and stayed a mile before Seelow with his wagony works back.

The others went to the city and found there, also with thieving intent, present:

Hirych Salomon Wohlauser from Berlin, Hirych Moyes Hirychberg called

Brodbar from Potsdam and Aron Küttge from Breslau

They informed them of their plan and promised them, in case of success, a share of the pro

In the Golden Ball Inn, Kunstmann and his son-in-law Stuckart, while Bernhardt, Schweriner and Posener were on guard, stole the sum of 650 thalers from the room of a stranger staying there by means of a spare key and breaking a suitcase, which was distributed among the 9 Gauy

nerns came to the division; because soon after the theft had been committed, Royenthal also arrived in Seelow.

The two chawrus then separated. Royenthal, Kunsty mann and Küttge went to Breslau, where the man who lived there at the timey lyrael Jakob Schacher had committed several thefts.

Wohlauser, however, traveled with the others who wanted to go to Potsdam on a theft, first to Berlin. Here, Wohlauser had lurk in the house of the sealing wax manufacturer Koch in Spandauery

ytraye for some time now noticed several crates in which he had stored indigoy

It was decided to steal one of these crates, which was to happen on the evening of December 4th.

From an inn in front of the Frankfurt Gate, where the Thieves, except Wohlauser, had stayed during the day, drove to the city in the evening at s o'clock, waited on a certain place in SpandauerstraBe the Wohlauser, who dary with two of them to the Koch house. There they stole a 2-hundred-pound crate filled with shellac and drove with it to Alexanderplatz, where they opened it. When they found shellac in it instead of the stolen indigo, which they considered worthless ten, they set the box down in the middle of the square, where they were found the morning and returned to the owner.

Wohlauer had promised in Seelow to follow the artist, Küttge, and Royenthal to Breslau, in order to be active in the Mayematten business there as a very skilled key thief. He then remained in Berlin and after a few days set off on the

2) The owner of the Golden Ball Inn, who was legally sued by the robbed party, was ordered by court to fully compensate the stolen sum, according to §. 444 Th. II Title 8 of the AL R.

Machine Translated by Google

judges. – Given the innkeepers' obligation to guarantee the property of travelers, it is, regrettable that the establishment protection of most guest houses against the intrusion of cunning crooks and thieves, still guarantees.

145

Express post, and arrived in Breslau on December 9, where he met with Kunstmann and Royenthal as agreed. Schach

Schach reported them two thefts, from the egg merchant KnauB and the city court secretary

The lemon merchant KnauB lived in a side street in Breslau

There was a ground-floor apartment that also served as a shop and had an entrance directly from the street. On the morning of December 11, Schach led Wohlauer past the house, then went inside himself to buy some lemons and examine the place more closely so that he could describe it to Wohlauer. Schach had noticed a chest in the KnauB vault in which Schach suspected there was money.

On the evening of December 11, during KnauB and his business.

While his companions were in the four-story house, Wohlauer, Schach, and Kunstmann proceeded to commit the theft. Kunstmann opened the outer entrance door using a key, entered the vault, and broke open the chest standing there, while Wohlaue

Lauer and Schacher remained outside on guard. The box was with clothes, valuable papers and cash only filled. Only the latter was stolen, amounting to approximately 170 thalers, and was divided equally between Roythal, Wohlaue, Schacher, and Kunstmann.

Two days later, the theft was carried out at the city court secretary Seeger's, who, according to Schacher's Baldowey

Precious items were stored in a writing desk that were to be stolen. On the morning of Dec 13, between 11 and 12 o'clock, Schacher led Wohlaue to the victim's second-floor apartment, showed him the door that had to be opened, and then returned to the artist waiting in front the house. When Wohlaue had opened the door using a key, he withdrew with the items, whereupon the artist went upstairs to carry out the actual theft. He broke into a writing room with a chisel.

He then searched in vain for precious items, but found, apart from one

A few watches and 20 thalers in yellow, which he kept for himself and embezzled from his comrades, as well as the key to an iron cash box next to the desk, which contained stolen money. He opened it and stole a sum of more than 400

Thirn., with which the thieves, for the purpose of division, according to the Royenthaler lived apartment. The Jews living in Breslau, Daniel Englander, Aron Kittge, and the police agent Lébel Philipp, also instinctively found themselves there, and they naturally had to be taken into consideration when dividing the stolen property.

A few days later, Kunstmann returned to Betsche, but W returned to Berlin. if 146

VI. Thieves' journey to Greißenberg and 3653 in Pomy

November 1824.

At the beginning of 1824, the very notorious Gauy

ner Meyer Tiller alias Meyer Magazin from Betysche, at the city

courts at GreiUenberg in Pomerania for market theft in Uny investigation and detention. After a provisional acquittal, he was released in the summer same year and sent to Betschey

He had, in what way has not been determined, had the opportunity to visit the residence of his inquirer, the city court director, Justice Councillor Steltzer, and noticed that there was a cash box in a room where no one was sleeping. He then immediately formed a plan for theft. When he initially

When he came to Regenwalde in Pomerania on his swindle expeditions in August 1824, he joined forces with Ephraim Blumenthal, Ephraim Leyyer, Abraham Leyfer, Caspar Levin, the lame Salomon and his son Itzig from Daber.

On two carts, one of which belonged to the lame Salomon, the other to the Leyyer brothers, the crooks drove

1. to GreiUenberg, where on 22 November at about o'clock in the evening. Caspar Levin and the lame Salomon remained outside the city on the Wiazzeff, while Meyer Tiller led the others around the wall to a garden belonging to the house of Justice Councilor Steltzer. Ephraim Blumenthal climbed over the garden fence and opened a small door from the inside by breaking off the lock, through which the thieves reached a rolling castle.

mer, and through these, by means of climbing into the window and breaking opening of a door, into the courtyard. Meyer Tiller forced open the rear door with a chisel whereupon he and Ephraim Blumenthal, while the others remained outside, entered the house. Since the door to the room, in which, according to Meyer Tiller's observation, the money box was supposed to be, would not budge in the lock, the lower panel was chiseled out with a chisel. Meyer Tiller remained outside to keep watch, but Ephraim Blume climbed into the room through the opening. Although he didn't find a money box at first, he did find a writing desk.

He broke open the chest, which he broke open, and from it stole 200 thalers in cash and precious items of equal value.

The thieves withdrew on the same road they had come and first went to the fair at Labes, where the division of the stolen goods took place. From the lame Saloy

Another theft occurred here in which the merchant Schuy macher in Freyenwalde in Pomerania, Baldower, where cloth was supposed to be stolen. From Labes it went

2. to Freyenwalde. Around 10 p.m. on the 24th.

December, the thieves arrived there, drove through the city, and left:

17

Outside the gate, the two wagons were parked under the supervision of the lahy men Salomon, Caspar Levin and Abraham Leyyer. The Uey

The rest returned to the city.

The shoemaker's house is a corner house, as is usually the case in small towns, bordered by a fence enclosing the courtyard.

Meyer Tiller climbed over this fence, which was about 5 feet high, and broke open the entrance door from the inside, through which Ephraim Blumenthal

Machine Translated by Google

into the courtyard. Through the unlocked rear door

They reached out into the hallway, unlocked the front door, and read:

Ephraim Leyyer and Itzig Salomon, who were waiting outside,

A bell, which was on this door, had been returned

Meyer Tiller then opened the door leading from the hallway to the store by drilling a hole above the lock, thus breaking it off. He and Ephraim Blumenthal then went into the store, while the other two remained outside on guard. In the store itself, Meyer Tiller vomited.

ler with the chisel two drawers in the counter, from which about 80 thalers and 4 pieces of whistmary

The money was stolen by both of the Chawruyye

embezzled, but the cloth found in the shop by the guard handed out to the comrades. When the deal was over, that is, when the shop was pretty much cleared out, Itzig Salomon fetched the wagon waiting outside the town, the cloths were thrown into it, and then they hurried back to Regenwalde. There the Jew Meny was taken

del Lange from Plathe, to whom the entire stolen cloth, whichy ches, according to the sworn assurance of the damnifikate, had a real value of 800 thalers tightened for the swindle price of 170 thalers.

VII. Third Thieves' Journey to Schleyten. January 1826.

At the end of December 1825, Roytarczewo

1) Jacob Iyaac Franke gen. Firth, 2) Iyaac Le vi Kunyty mann called Eisig, 3) Joyeph Joyua Fiycher, 4) Wolu Czarnower and

" 5) David Marcus Sachs gen.

ab iack, f

um in Polkenhahn near Jauer in Silesia, one from Czarnower baly dowerten, to commit theft where rich booty was expected.

When the thief Aron Rehfeld, called Unger, who died in Koppnitz, learned of this, he went Betsche and there reported the crime to several thieves who together formed a gang.

ye case, and persuaded them to follow the thieves mentioned, either to help the Mayyematten with the trade, or at least, if this had already happened, to force a share of the stolen goods, i.e. to burn them.

Accordingly, on a chawrusycart from Bety yche ab: he

148

6) Aron Rehfeld, 7) Moyes Bernbarbt called Zimchens Mauyche, 8)

Nathan Jakob Stahl called Noyyen, 9) Mi: chel Moyes called Schwarz Michel, 10) Simon Jacob Schweriner called Schmaie; before Liegnitz they caught up with the first-mentioned 5

thieves, who told

ten that they came from Polkenhahn's Masematten, the same but would not have acted because they were lame). They

However, the newcomers did not trust this story.

They made as if to continue on their way to Polkenhahn alone, and then learned that the theft had not yet been attempted, but that it would happen in the next few days, if there was no snow.

All ten of them joined forces for this purpose and decided to linger in the area until the theft was completed, which had been hindered by unknown obstacles.

The crooks now drove through Liegnitz, spent the night behind they fer town in a village, and the next day they followed the route to Haynau. Here, Franke managed to escape in the evening hours

Machine Translated by Google

to plunder the coop of a materialist, which would cover the costs of the further journey.
after, snow fell, and the crooks did not dare to attempt the theft in Polkenhahn. The whole group then headed to Goldberg to make other gains at the fair taking place there.

to seek service. | On the evening of January 10, 1826, at approximately 9 o'clock, the thieves arrived in Goldberg. One vehicle remained in the suburbs under the supervision of Nathan Stahl, while the other drove into the city and stopped near the gate. David Marcus Sachse remained with him. The remaining comrades (Chay wern) dispersed individually into the city to seek opportunities for theft. When they met a quarter of an hour,

When they gathered again at the last-mentioned wagon, Franke told them that he had discovered several crates in the market, which apparently contained twill goods. They all then went to the market, led by Franke, and there, in front of a stall not far from the town hall, they found the crates, which Franke with the chisel. Of the actually

Three sacks were packed with tweed and dragged to the wagon stopped at the gate. Some of the crooks sat on the wagon, the others walked alongside. Thus, they passed the gate unhindered, reached the second wagon waiting in the suburbs, and then, in unstoppable haste, drove via Karge to Kopp.

nitz went. Here the stolen goods were divided and the thieves

*) The Jewish scoundrels also called lamdbens instead of lamps, and instead of being lamped (chased away, disturbed) they called them lamdbens.

140

They returned to their homeland. The entire journey was undertaken without a passport or the slightest identification.

The robbed man was a Jew from Liyya, and had bay

But—one can say, because it is not the only case that has occurred in our investigation—he soon found the right trail of the thieves. Unexpectedly, he found himself, accompanied by two other Jews, in Betsche, and turned—not to the authorities for legal assistance, but to the main author, Jacob Isaac Franke himself. A meeting was called by him.

lation about persons living in Betysche who were involved in this theft, in the CheyyenySp of the widow Royenthal.

Franke told them that the victim was an indecent offender, that he had sufficiently identified Ah as the owner of the stolen goods by providing a precise description of them, that therefore everyone should return the share that had fallen to them. This actually hap The victim, however, swore to keep quiet about the entire matter, which he conscientiously kept. – N

VIII. Burglary and theft in the district court depository tio to Markisch Friedland. eight from the 11th to 12th January 1826.

In the autumn of 1825, when Ephraim Blumenthal was in Markisch Friedland for the market, he inspected the castle there and praised it to some Jews standing nearby. One of them, pointing to a room on the ground floor, replied that it would be even better if they was there. Upon further questioning, Blumenthal learned that money was kept in that room, which he then decided to steal.

Machine Translated by Google

A short time later he met, at the market in Daber in Pomy mern, the betycher thieves:

Marcus Elias Cohn called Schwarz Mortge, Moyes David Weinystock gen. Mauycheline, Mofes Wolfram gen.

Mauyche Parch and Jacob Salomon gen. Aychkenoyy.

He shared his plan with them regarding the Markisch Friedland Masse-matten and joined force with them to carry it out. 2 As agreed, the four thieves picked up Ephraim Blumenthal in the wagon from Regenwalde immediately after New Year's Day 1826. Around 12 o'clock on the night of the 12th

When they arrived in Friedland, they left Weinstock on the Wiazzeff near the wagon and then went to the castle,

) Thieves' den. |

%) Sp at least Blumenthal tells the story of the Baldowerung of the Diepyahl.
It is very likely that he wanted to avoid naming the actual scout by providing these somev

150

where the depository of the district court was located on the high ground floor. Using a ladder stolen from a farmyard, Blumenthal, while the others kept watch, climbed from the street to the unguarded window, pushed in a pane of it, and drilled a semicircle (half a the inner shutter, thereby creating an opening in the shutter, through which which he reached through and pushed back the bolts. Blumenthal and Cohn then entered the room and broke open a a writing desk, in which, in addition to a significant sum of money of which, two locked chests, and, in a writing compartment, two keys belonging to them, were found. One of these chests, which contained silverware and linen, was opened with one of the two keys.

What was done with the other, which was secured with three locks, was not successful. Two locks were opened, but the third had a third key, which the thieves did not find, even though it was lying in a writing desk they had also broken open.

With the stolen goods, which amounted to about 600 thalers, the crooks drove to Regenwalde, where the division took place in Blumenthal's apartment.

IX. Thefts in Frankfurt ad O., Seelow and Baruth.

i September and October 1826.

Around the time of the Jewish New Year 1826, Jacob Ifaac Franke, called Jekof Furth, wrote to Moses Simon Berny

Hardt and several other thieves from Bethlehem, a theft that was said to have occurred at merchant's house in Seelow. The news of this came from the police vigilante Joseph Adolph Royenthal, who had been in Seelow for some time and had lived in the merchant's house.

Machine Translated by Google

At that time, Bernhardt received a letter, allegedly from an unknown hand, ordering him to Magdeburg for the mascot trade.
according to, in September 1826:

Bernhardt, lyaac Kunstmann, Joyeph Fiycher and Jay

cob lyaac Franke | to

Magdeburg, while another chawruse, consisting of the Betscher thieves: lyaac Hirsch Stucke Michel Moyes called

Schwarz Mi: chel, Neumann Jacob Poyener called Nachmann, Levi Da vid Kunstmann and Michel Selig called Krumnaas, went to the village of Kaulsdorf, situated on the Frankfurt Chauyyée not far from Berlin, to await the return of the former from Magy deburg, and then to commit the theft in Seelow together with her.

| Bernhardt and his companions had to leave Magdeburg immediatelly return to the right thing, because they are at the green table in the inn, where they were supposed to find out more about the thefts to be committed, they had found no one. On their way back, they met at the fair in Genthin, the man who had been in prison 1833.

151

niyye in Berlin deceased, thief lyaac Moyes Sachye called Itzkock from Bismark, who accused Franke of a theft in the Araf-lich Solms's rent expedition to Baruth, and the Chay wruyye Yich anyhBe, which now drove via Jüterbog to Baruth, inspected the location of the theft there, and then returned to Betysche. . f

The crooks waiting in Kaulsdorf had now long. They had already withdrawn to Herzfelde, so as not to arouse suspicion by staying in place for a long time, and from there they sent Michel Selig to Berlin to inquire with Bernhardt's brother-in-law, the later deceased thief Levin Aschersleben. Although he could not immediately learn anything about Bernhardt, he brought his own Noyen in Herzfelde reported that he had seen a heavily loaded freight wagon in Berlin, which had driven along the road to Frankfurt. It was immediately decided to track this wagon to its overnight accommodation and to investigate the theft.

to try. Therefore, when the freight car arrived the following day,

As he passed through Herzfelde, the thieves followed him until he stopped at the Golden Deers Head Inn in Frankfurt am Main around 8 p.m. Here, Kunstmann, Fischer, Stuckart, and Posener remained nearby, while Michel Selig was sent ahead with the wagon to the shooting range.

When the thieves noticed that the driver, who had parked the wagon in the courtyard, close to the innkeeper's residence, had gone into the guest room, the artist and the fisherman crept through the house into the courtyard and cut a hole in the wagon's lap.

from which they handed out several packages to the people waiting outside, Stuckart and Posener for further transport.

The first two thieves then returned to the wagon and stole several more packages of goods. Meanwhile, Stuckart and Posener had hidden the stolen goods handed over to them behind a nearby garden fence, where the thieves could not find them.

They therefore proceeded even more with the last made small prey, more compliant prey hastily to their wagon, when a noise in the inn suggested that the theft had been discovered

Machine Translated by Google

yei. On their return to Betysche, Bernhardt and his Companions were also present. The stolen goods, in 7 Duty

Kunstmann purchased the shawl, consisting of shawls, for 50 thalers. These were divided equally among the members of the two chavruses, and in addition, 5 thalers were sent by post to the vigilante S. . . in Frankfurt am Main.

Now Bernhardt, Franke, lyaac Kunsty

mann, lyaac Sachye and Michel Moyes, whom previously proy to carry out the theft in Seelow. Franke gave the wagon and one horse, but Bernhardt gave two horses, so that the team could once consisted of 3 horses. | A

On the evening of October 5, the thieves arrived in Seelow, where Isaac Sachse remained with the wagon. Around midnight, the others arrived in the town in front of the merchant's house. According to Baldowerung, Masematten was supposed to be in the shop, which, like the Hanseatic Village in general, faced the road leading to Fredersdorf. Next to the shop was a window, about 4 feet from the ground, and covered on the outside with wooden shutters.

The thieves decided to break in through this window.

The window shutter was, as is usually the case, locked by a screw that runs from the inside into a screw nut mounted outside. This was very wide, and so the thieves managed to turn the screw, the end of which protruded about 3 inches, into the interior.

to turn back and thus open the shutter. Franke easily broke out one of the three weak iron bolts found behind the shutter, which were not even walled in. He then worked on the corner of a shutter with a knife until it burst and could be removed piece by piece. He then opened the window shutter, climbed in, while Bernhardt, Kunstmann, and Michel Moses remained standing outside. Franke first handed out the broken cash register and then, little by little, 16 pieces of cloth, and Posener, packed in sacks, which Fredersy village street, to a secluded place. When Franke then expressed concern that he might, in the dark, be

Bernhardt climbed up because he wanted to leave the best cloths lying around, a beyyey rer Connoisseur, into the window, and handed the, meanwhile outside

Franke, who was keeping watch, took out 9 pieces of cloth, which he, so much

he had been able to distinguish when touching them, the ymoyt ones seemed to be While Stuckart and Poyener were busy, the formerly

To tie the 16 stolen pieces of cloth into packages at the place where they had been left, Bernhardt and Franke immediately carried the last-mentioned 9 pieces to the wagon and were just about to return to the others when they came running towards them and told them that they had been observed by a tall man.

the yeen. They therefore abandoned the 16 pieces of cloth") and ) That tall man was a day laborer from Seelow, who wanted to go to his potato field. According to his assurances, he had not seen the thieves at all, but had found the cloth in his field at home. Although the following morning, when the theft had occurred, was known, immediately reported his discovery, but he was, along with his wife, a woman and two other people were taken into custody, transported to Cuyytrin for investigation because several significant charges were found against him,

133

Machine Translated by Google

turned around Seelow and headed for Munichy

berg, in order to go from there to Schwedt, which takes place there ¥ to hold the market. On the way, in a forest, an axle on their wagon broke, forcing them to stop in the next village. Fearing a chase, they made themselves kosher, that is, they buried the stolen cloths in the forest, retrieved them from there after their wagon was repaired and no pursuit appeared, and drove to Berlin.

While Michel Moyes stopped with his wagon in front of the King's Gate, Bernhardt and Ilyaac Sachye – Kunytmann and Poyener had gone on foot to Schwedt – went to Charlotteny

burg, and robbed the Jew Moses Z., who lived there, of two pieces of cloth for the price of 50 thalers. They then continued on to Schwedt, where at the fair they found the Jews Hirschberg, Israel, and Levin Rofenthal, who had stolen the rest of the stolen goods.

0 for the Schlauder price of 8 to 10 Sgr. the elly appear.

According to the sworn statement of the condemned man, the value of the stolen goods amounted to 420 thalers.

The thieves had barely returned to Betsche when they reunited

Bernhardt, Franke, Ilyaac Kunstmann, Joseph Fiycher, Michel Moyes

and Ilyaac Sachye, to investigate the theft

in the renty

expedition to Baruth. They formed, as we have already seen from the foregoing, a certain chawrus, except Miy chel Moyes and Sachye, who were only taken along to help out.

The thieves traveled via Sternberg and Frankfurt am Main to Neubrtick, stopped there for the Sabbath, and then drove on Saturday evening via Teupitz to Baruth, where they arrived around 11 p.m. on October 26th. Franke first went into town with Isaac Sachse to inspect the Masematten again, found everything in the desired condition, and then picked up the 11, except for Michel Moses, who stayed with Sachse by the car.

The Nen expedition is located on the ground floor of a house on an open space, not far from the count's castle, on one side close to the house of the Nent collector, and on the other to that of the bailiff. The house, which was locked, is built of half-timber. Franke struck one of these compartments with his crook.

head in, and then crawled from the street into the expeditionary room. Bernhardt remained in front of the hole, but Fischer and Kunstmann remained at a great distance, towards the castle and the passing through the 0 knowledge, under the of the Koften, only at instantin

154

Main Street, standing guard. After a short while, Franke handed Bernhardt several drawers containing money and papers, which belonged to two broken desks. In one

Franke had also given one of them the key to the vault found an iron money box. Since the thieves were not equipped with any tools to break it open, Kunstmann climbed into the room to assist Franke. Both managed to see the money box through the front door, which was unlocked from the inside, and out onto the street. Here, the other two helped and transported it.

They transported him, without stopping, until their carriage stopped outside the city. On road to Müncheberg, which they took, they hammered and chiseled on the box until a hole appeared.

ytall, through which the money could be taken out. After to whom this had happened, the thieves threw the box, behind Muny cheberg, in a forest, divided the booty, which consisted of more than eighty te and a half hundred thalers, and they separated, with Isaac Sachse returning to Bismark, the others to Betsche.

From the discovery of the money box, which contributed not a little to this would have helped to track down the thieves, but nothing was ever reported.

X. Burglary and theft at the soap manufacturer's in Potsdam. Night of December 28-29

In August 1826, the professional thieves Simon Jakob Schweriner, known as Schmaie from Berchtesgaden, and Baruch Behrens, known as Baerchens Baroch from Bismarck, met in an inn. The latter explained that he had lost all his money, but that he knew a thief in Potsdam whom Mortge Schuster, aka Markus Moritz from Werben, had soon brought to him, and that he wanted to trade with him to make some money again.

Schweriner, asked to participate in the theft, was led by Behrens to the house of King Schmidt and shown how the theft could be carried out through an easily opened ground-floor window. Although Behrens insisted on carrying it out the following night, Schwerin refused

He dismissed this under the pretext that the matter was too dangerous, given the shortness of the summer nights and the traffic on the roads. His real intention, however, was to save lucrative business for himself and his comrades in Betsche, as he had more confidence in them. As he had foreseen, Behrens also refrained from committing the theft, postponing it more favorable time. pushing.

Returning to Betsche, Schweriner told his comrade

Nathan Jakob Stahl, with whom he shared a common transporty

werk, consisting of a covered wagon and a horse, possessed, the explored opportunity, and both decided, since they yetly yet the

135

They felt they were not up to the task of making a deal with some of the more experienced cabinetmakers in Betsche. They turned to Simon Levin Gratzner, called Zanderchen, Selig Joel, alias Levin, and Neumann Jakob Posener, called Nachmann, who also agreed to participate, but Gratzner only under the condition that his son-in-law Moses Levin, called Schafy head, half a share of the stolen goods, even if he didn't travel with them, had to be given. This onerous condition was accepted because Gratzner's thieving talent was precisely the greatest.

Confidence if

After the manner of execution and future

After the division among the thieves had been established, the three accomplices recruited two more horses, and all five drove in December

Machine Translated by Google

1826, directly to Potsdam. In a guesthouse on the Franky furteryChauyyée, a mile before Berlin, where, for feeding, stopped

was, they met the infamous, meanwhile escaped to Austria

chenen, thief Magnus Aron Stein called Mannes, then living in Calbe on the Milde. He took the Schweriner aside and made it clear to him how well he knew that the Chawrusse was going to Potsdam on the SeidenyGhiefene (sealing ship). Schweriner, Alarmed by this, he consulted with his comrades, whereupon it was decided to include Magnu Stein in the chawrus, so that he would not become a snitch. This suited him, and was probably his actual purpose, and so he went with them to Potsdam.

On December 26, 1826, at about 10 p.m., the thieves arrived in front of Potsdam, drove around the city, until they reached the road leading to Nauen, where they stopped with the wagon. From there, Schweriner led the Gratzner, Selig Joel and Poyener into the city in front of the Schmidt's house to familiarize them with the locality.

After this had happened, the place was chosen where the wagon had to be parked for the purpose of transporting the goods to be stolen, but the theft itself was postponed because streets were too busy due to the ongoing Christmas celebrations. The crooks spent the night in an inn outside the city, drove the next morning to a neighboring village, on the road to Spandau, and from there sent the posty

yener and Nathan Stahl to cook the Mayematten out, that is, in other words: to take a close look at the location of the Schmidt 'ye apartment from the inside, in particular to be certain about it to check whether no one was sleeping in the shop itself or in the next room. The two envoys did this by buying a black silk scarf from Schmidt, and also two cashmere scarves.

instructions against Gourant. Since their report was favorable,

7) Ghiefene (beyyer: Chenwene) means: shop, warehouse.

fell, so the whole Chawruyge drove through the Nauen' yche Gate into the city on the 28th of December, in the evening after 10 o'clock.

Near the basin, not far from the French church, the wagon was parked under the care of Nathan Stahl and Magnus Stein, and the others went to the Schmidt house.

While Schwerin and Poyen residents come from different sides

While they were standing guard, Gratzner and Selig Joel entered the pressing a pane and bursting open the inner window shutter, they

Opened the shop window and handed over the stolen goods from Schwerin and Poyen, which they brought with them then packed 3 sacks. When these were filled, the thieves pulled themselves with them to their cart, which was about 300 paces away.

works and left the city at about 1 a.m. through the Berlin Gate, which was opened by the guards to open to the public.

In order to divert as much of the trail as possible from themselves in case of any pursuit, they soon left the road they had taken and drove via Werneuchen and Schönfließ to the village of Royenthal, and from there to Betyche. Magnus Aron Stein, who separated from the Chawrus before Schönfließ, was compensated with 25 thalers and some silk scarves, although he did, of course,

Machine Translated by Google

The rest, however, were very short-changed, and only in Nofenthal did they proceed to a general division. This happened in such a way that only half of the stolen goods, the total value of which the damnist had sworn to be 1,282 thalers, was set aside to be impounded for common account. The other half, however, was divided into seven parts, so that Schweriner, Nathan Stahl. Poy yener, Grötzer, Selig Joel and the vigilante Noyenthal in Berlin, each received 27,000, while Gratzner's son-in-law, Moyes Levin in Betyche, received 4. The thieves, however, sold most of the stolen goods to the Jews Jacob Levi Zehden in Schwerin a. W. and Abraham Levin Vauchwitz in Meyeritz.

XI. A and theft at the Gobion brothers
Rakwitz. Night of April 26–27, 1827.

On April 24, 1827, the leech dealers Gebrüder Goy

Bion arrived from France with special post in Rakwitz, where they stayed at the Klinder's Inn on the market square. In Rakwitz lived

There are still many very notorious thieves living there, including

dere Abraham Schmerl, Iýrael VByk and Baer Leib Winy

terfeld belonged.

Immediately after the arrival of the strangers—a rare occurrence in Rakwitz—lyrael Byk, who was a frequent visitor to the Klinder's Inn, called on Schmerl and told him that the French had brought a suitcase of money and could easily be robbed by climbing through the window.

157

On the same day, Schmerl's 16-year-old son, named Moses, appeared twice in the strangers' home; the first time under the pretext of selling them a flute, the other time with the offer of selling them pretty girls.

Both applications were rejected, but only the victims noticed that the young man had been had looked around the room in all directions. 8

When one is properly informed about the location and the possibility
The following day, Schmerl sent an express letter to the professional thief Rehmann Jakob Königsberger, known as Rachmiel, who was notorious as a burglar, in Roytarczewo, to summon him to Rakwitz to carry out the theft. Königsberger immediately complied with this order.

tion, arrived at Schmerl's on 25 April and met his brother-in-law gerfohn Baer Leib Winterfeld, who was also included in the plan
The next evening, the three consorts sat down to conduct of the theft.

Accordingly, Schmerl, around 104 Ubr, brought his brother-in-law

yon Winterfeld from his home to go with him first to a barn outside the city, where Kingy

Berger was waiting for them. On the way there, he met Ifrael Byk, who had just come from the Klinder Inn and advised them to wait a while before committing the theft, as the people in the inn were still awake. At the place where K y nigsberger was caught, the thieves waited until 1:14 p.m., then walked around the town to the opposite end, where there are also barns. From one of them hung a large corpse.

ter, which the thieves took down and carried through a side alley to the Klinder's Inn. The same, with the front

Machine Translated by Google

lying towards the market, has a farmstead, which, from that reary alley, is completely unprotected. On the right side of this property is a bowling alley. The thieves walked along this alley until they reached the inn, which ran parallel to the back alley. Here was an uny closed opening through which the thieves could climb into the front door with the ladder the part of the track intended for the cone-lockers, and from there through another unlocked door into the actual courtyard at the rear wall of the house, where the window through which the break-in was to be committed was located on the first floor. This window led into the rear of Gobion's apartment, which consisted of two rooms. Here lay the suites of the travelers, who themselves slept in the front room and, for greater security, had left the connecting door open, in order to be able to escape in case of any attempted theft through the

usually associated to be awakened immediately by this noise. One can see that they had well considered the possibility of an attack on their assets,

But the precautions were completely unacceptable for professional thieves.

sufficient.

With the help of the ladder, Schmerl climbed to the window, while Königsberger and Winterfeld stood guard, opened it with a crowbar, and climbed in. Because, as expected, those to be robbed were asleep in the front room, he did not dare to light a light.

As he groped around in the dark, he discovered a small

A traveling suitcase covered with rough fur and locked with a padlock. He carried this very heavy suitcase to the window and handed it to the king, who had climbed up the ladder.

berger, who carried it to the middle of the bowling alley.

Schmerl, who had meanwhile also gone down to the courtyard, wanted to put the ladder back to its place where it had been taken away.

transported back, but suspected betrayal when, about halfway there, he saw someone approaching him, threw away the ladder and returned to the bowling alley, where Königsberger and Winterfeld were during which they had guarded the stolen treasure. All three then went with the suitcase through the same back alley, outside the city near the barns where the suitcase was blown open. They found 18 rolls of money, two bags of loose gold and currency, and also some items of clothing. They left these in the suitcase, placed the latter themselves in a neighboring garden, and placed the stolen money under the threshold of a barn (chawure).

ben es), whereupon they separated, postponing the division.

The theft, when discovered the following morning, caused a great sensation, for it amounted to no less than 19,000 francs, partly in five-franc pieces and partly in Napoleon d'ors. Suspicion immediately turned to the real perpetrators, and police searches were carried out that same day at Schmerl's house in which, of course, proved fruitless.

Rakwitz and at Königsberger's in Roytarczewo.

At the same time, the vigilant Joyeph Adolph Roy yenthal was just present in Betysche. When he learned of the theft, Schmerl's involvement was unquestionable, and yo he proposed to provide the responsible authority with means of transport, namelyy Schmerl, cornered, soon confessed his guilt and gave him 60 Napoleon d'ors of the stolen money to buy his silence. Instead of the entire bribe, however,

Royenthal handed over only 28 Napoleon d'ors to the judicial authorities, while

Machine Translated by Google

while he kept the remaining 42 for himself. An investigation was now initiated against Schmerl for violent theft, and subsequently extended to include Roythal for receiving stolen goods. However, since both of them stubbornly and skillfully denied the charges, and other circumstances were also favorable to them, the former was provisionally acquitted, while t was completely acquitted.

159

As for the whereabouts of such considerable stolen sums, one hardly dares to repeat what the files reveal. Only this is certain: the criminal wealth had completely disappeared than a year, and that more than one hand was gilded with it, which seemed to be threatening reaching out over the pig's head.

XII. Fourth Thieving Trip to Schleyten. October 1827.

The late police vigilant Samuel Jonas, who was already mentioned in more detail earlier, often stayed in Strehlen in Silesia. Opposite his residence, in a corner house,

The warehouse of a Jewish merchant of drapery goods was found. Jonas saw an opportunity for a theft and soon reported it to the police vigilante Joseph Adolph Royenthal.

He joined forces with the Betscher thieves to carry out the theft in October 1827:

Levin Aycher Royenthal, Levi David Kunstmann, Sey
lig Joel called Levin, Joyeph Nathan Stahl called Joyyef and Moyes Levin Altenburger called the black man, took the thieves with them from Bentychen:

WolU Moyes Ezarnower and Iyaac Levi Kunstmann whereupon they left for Silesia. In Leubus Monastery they remained Rosenthal, Levin Aycher Roythal and Levin David Kunstmann, wahy

while the rest

1) drove to Strehlen to commit the theft and to return to Leubus with the stolen goods, which were supposed to consist of money and goods. About four hours before Strehlen the thieves left the vehicle under the supervision of the man from Czarnew, wanted to break into the house of the person they were going to steal by breaking through the front door and from there into the warehouse. They had already broken off a strip with a crowbar when, as a result of the resulting

A noise, a window on the second floor opened and a voice called: "Werda!" On tiptoe—they were wearing felt slippers—the thieves crept away, abandoning their venture, and returned to Leubus empty-handed.

Czarnewer had now a theft from a guesty innkeeper at Beuthen a. O., whom the thieves decided to execute. Rosenthal, Levin Ro:

enthal, and Levin Kunstmann remained in the village of Klupychen near Glogau.

The rest drove

2. to Beuthen, through the town, on the way to Croyen. From there they returned, with the exception of Isaac

Machine Translated by Google

Kunstmann and Selig Joel, who stayed with the wagon, about

*) See page 32.

8 o'clock in the evening, back to the city. Czarnower led them to the Breslauer Keller inn, where money was to be stolen from a room on the ground floor. The front door stood open, Aly tenburger went in and opened the door by means of a key

Joseph Stahl then went into the open room and found a suitcase which, according to Czarnower, was supposed to contain the money.

He stole it and, with the help of his comrades standing guard outside, carried it to the carriage that was stopping in front of the city.

works. In a nearby grove, the KoUer was erectedy chen, a small box with currency inside, and a bag with some gold pieces, show coins and silver items taken outy men, and then the corpse was thrown into the heath. The amount of the theft was stated under oath at 400 thalers.

The crooks now drove on

3) to Freystadt. Here Royenthal and Samuel Jonas had once exchanged money with a merchant and noticed that they

She kept a large amount of money in a chest. This chest, located in a room facing a gateway, was to be stolen. In order to climb into the window, which was quite high above the ground, the thieves, around 11 p.m. on the 22nd, took a small piece of wood.

October to the city, a ladder from a garden. By means of it, Selig Joel climbed to the window, which was provided with strong outer shutters, and only by breaking down the window ytergeyimyes was to open. Just as he was doing this, the nighty

Guards arrived, and the thieves fled. With their wagon left outside the town under Czarnower's supervision, they returned, as agreed, to the village of Klupschen, where Royenthal, Samuel Jonas, and Levin Kunstmann were waiting for them, and where the division of the property stolen in Beuthen took place.

From there it went: N

4) to Sagan, to bring the, from Royenthal baldowerte, hery

to steal from the royal rent-caye, which was located on the lowest floor of a building on the market. In the midnighty

At an hour, the thieves arrived in front of Sagan, left the two wagons outside the town under the supervision of Roythal, Samuel Jonas, and Levin Kunstmann, and went under the Masematten. As they were about to break off the iron window rails with a piece of wood they had brought with them, the barking of a dog could be heard inside.

of what caused them to abandon their venture. They tried another one, also by Royenthal baly dowerten, theft at the cloth merchant Müller in Sagan, but were also chased away by a dog, and then drove

5) to Goldberg. Here, two months earlier, Royenthal and Selig Joel had exchanged some gold pieces at a furrier's, who was also a money changer, and noticed that the furrier had a considerable sum of money in a chest of drawers.

161

Machine Translated by Google

There was no bed in the room, and therefore no one slept in it, so they decided to commit a theft there.

Blessed Joel immediately carried out the local inspection from the courtyard and reported that by breaking through the courtyard door, one could easily get into the courtyard, then the poorly secured back door into the house and so with which to penetrate to the room in question, but open the door with a spare key, or, i

this failed, to gain access to the room itself without much difficulty through a window ne living room door leading to the hallway. In this way, the theft was to be carried out. N

In the village of Fahrhaus near Haynau remained Royenthal, Say Jonas and Levin Kunstmann drove with one wagon, the others drove with the other to Goldberg, left it in front of the town, under Czarnower's supervision, and went between

Between 12 and 1 o'clock on a Friday night to Saturday (i.e., on Shabbat!) under the Masematten. Already by hereditary

After having penetrated the courtyard and rear door into the room opened by a key, the damned man, who was sleeping in an adjoining room, awoke and the thieves fled.

The sworn witness Kirschner Schmidt tells the following story genders:

He had already gone to bed at 9 o'clock in the evening and had

but, because of the unrest in the house, | couldn't fall asleep.

At about 1 o'clock in the morning he heard the door lock of his living room unlock, as if with a key, and immediately afterwards, from his bed, through the open door of the bedroom

He saw a man, with a light in his hand, enter the room and approach the chest of drawers, which contained approximately 500 thalers in money. Probably drawn to the bedroom by the light, he went there.

enlightened, but at the same moment the damned man jumped out of bed at him, and, as the light went out, fled.

This guy was Selig Joel.

The thieves then returned to Fahrhaus, separated from their comrades who had remained there, but met up with them again in a village between Zillichau and Croyen on 1 November yom yat. Here Royenthal recounted that he had seen several loaded freighty wagons, which, as he had learned from the drivers, would probably spend the night in Hammer near Baizig. It was immediately decided

6) to follow this car in order to attempt a theft.

Not far from the inn, called Zum Hammer, they stopped. Blessed Joel went into the inn, assured himself that the drivers were in the same room, but the freight wagons were in the yard in stable, and returned with this news to the house.

noyyen back. They now drove a little further in the direction to Frankfurt, left the wagon there under Czarnower's supervision yight, and returned to the inn. From the rear outside, Selig Joel broke a hole in the wall with a crowbar, crawled through it into the stable, and stole from one of the cargo vans

by cutting open a bale, a quantity of linen, which

Machine Translated by Google

he handed out to his comrades who were keeping watch outside. With the

The stolen goods, which were worth about 100 thalers, were returned the crooks returned to Betysche, with the exception of Levin Kunsty mann and Noyenthal, who were sent to Franky for other thefts furt a. O. drove.

XIII. Burglary and theft in the royal customs office.
kayye at Granye. Night of March 17-18, 1828,

When David Levin Kunstmann heard at the beginning of 1828 about a robbery committed in Liegnitz, where he was arrested

When he returned to Betsche after leaving his companions, he received from Selig Joel alias Levin the message that the main customs amtskaye in Granye – by whom, has not been determined by the investigation – had been ytold. To carry out this thieving ytahls united

Blessed Joel, David Levin Kunytmann called Dovidchen, whose father Levin David Kunytmann, Michel Moyes called are Michel and Jacob lyaac Franke alias Jekof Urth, and drove on 12 March 1828

ona

three-horse carriage

ten, covered wagons from Betysche. In the village of Hohenfinow near Neuy

They celebrated Shabbat in the town of Oranienburg, continued on Sunday morning to Oranienburg, spent the night in a village not far from the town, and the following day war around near Gransee until they arrived at the designated zinc quarry around 9 p.m., four miles from the town. According to the agreement, Moses Levin Löwenthal and Moses Hirschberg, called Hirschberg, were to be there.

Brodbar, who had previously been involved in the Gransee theft

They were found, however, and therefore it was decided to proceed with the theft without them. The old craftsman remained with the cart on the Zinkplatze, the rest went into the city at 11 o'clock in the evening.

The business premises of the main customs office were located on the second floor of the town hall opposite the churchyard. Below this business premises was an empty, unused r the windows of which yster, 54 feet from the ground, also led out to the churchyard.

In the churchyard, where David Kunstmann was posted on guard, the thieves left their boots furs and coats behind, pulled Soky

ken and then went in front of the town hall. Through impressions.

163

Through a window pane, Franke and Selig Joel entered the first thought to be empty, ground-floor room; through a door, using a key, they entered the hall and from there, past the bailiffs apartment, into the courtyard. Here they opened the gate locked from the inside, and let in Michel Moses, who was waiting outside with the crooked head. All three went there.

up a staircase, where, from the corridor, a door into the shop room of the main customs office. This was done by Franke through opened with a key. Behind the business room lies the actual cash room, the entrance to which was locked by two doors.

The outer one, made of strong wood, was, apart from the usual ychluuyye, secured with an iron gear, which, in a bricked-up cram, which is attached to it by means of an iron fore-wall hanging shackles. These shackles were used by the thieves torn out of the wall with a crowbar, then with a chisel even a hole in the door joint, into which the crowbar inserted, and so the door lock, fastened from the inside, was in the shape forcibly blasted off, so that one could later break the locking hooks and nails found lying around broken. By breaking off the locking hook, the second iron door was opened.

Machine Translated by Google

In the cash room stood the money box, made of strong oak wood, covered inside and out with iron sheet, also with every bands and with one ordinary and two pre-laying locks. One of these padlocks was removed by breaking the clamp, but the other, by means of

The thieves were then forced to shove the crowbar into the gap between the lid and the chest, forcibly removing the locking hook of the third lock, and the chest was opened. With the money they found inside, which they had taken with them, After packing their sacks, the crooks returned through the gate to the churchyard, and when they no longer found the artist there, chased away by a passerby, they returned to their vehicle with which they drove to Cuytrin. There they camped in a guesthouse.

They built a separate room and proceeded to divide the booty, which amounted to no less than 3,714 thalers in gold, currency, and cash orders.

The size and violence of this theft made

The greater attention was caused by the lack of any trace of the daring thieves; and the government in Potsdam offered a reward of 200 thalers for the discovery of the perpetrators and the recovery of the stolen goods. The Jewish elder and notorious scoundrel Muel Pinkus of Betsche, annoyed that the thieves had left him empty-handed, reported them to the then mayor of Betsche, who managed to find so many grounds for suspicion against them that they were brought before the court authorities.

164

But here, various very significant charges were brought against them, in particular that they had made very significant purchases of goods immediately after the theft, and that they were found in possession of gold pieces, such as those stolen in Gransee.

the 8c., but they were completely acquitted, – because 8 bought witnesses swore their alibi in court!

XIV. Theft of money in the pub on the farm Wayyinne near AltyBeuthnitz. Night of June 1–2, 1828.

f To a thief caught by the police vigilante Noyenthal»

ytahl to carry out, drove in June 1828

Meyer Tiller alias Magazin and Rehmann Jacob Kb: nigsberger called Rachmiel

to Frankfurt a. O., where, however, since the opportunity was not favorable had to abandon their venture. On the way back, which they took via Beuthnitz to Sternberg, they returned, on

Machine Translated by Google

Afternoons of July 1st, at the Krugwirth Grünberg, on the Vory works Wayyinne near Beuthnitz. Meyer Tiller was already here often ters and was completely familiar with the location. N

While they were still sitting in the bar, 6 pigsy traders came in, each of whom was carrying a full bag of money around his body. They unbuckled them, sealed them, and gave them into the innkeeper's custody. Next to the bar, where this took place, was a small alcove without a door, where the innkeeper slept with his wife, and into which he carried the money boxes. Meyer Tiller had a hollow the alcove, next to the bed.

He had seen a chest standing there, and from this he concluded that the innkeeper's money were kept there. Determined to steal them, Tiller and Königsberger soon left for a village away. There they stopped at an inn, waited until it was completely dark, and then returned foot to Wasinne.

From the inn's kitchen, about a man's height from the ground, a window opens onto the street. It had been installed, but had not been chained by Junen. Tiller climbed into this window with Königsberger's help, crawling in the dark over a stone in front of the window.

the table set with glasses and dishes, without anything to throw under), then came from the kitchen to the house: hallway, and from there into the bar, where 10 pig dealers (4 had been added later) with 6 dogs slept on the straw.

f When Tiller entered, the room was dimly lit by the fire still glowing in the fireplace. He first sat down on a *) One does not know whether one should admire the luck or the skill of the thief more.

165

Bank, extinguished the fire carefully, so that the room became completely dark, and then crept on wolf's toes into the alcove to look for the key to the wooden box in question.

he, busy with it, on the bed in which the Griinberg's marriage people were sleeping, he noticed the strap of a money bag hanging out of the bed, examined matter more closely and found that under the pillow on which both spouses were sleeping, morey several money cats lay there. He first carefully pulled one of them out.

forward, crept to the kitchen and threw it through the fire to the person who Königsbergers who were waiting outside. Then he returned to the Aly koven back, practiced 3 more money cats under the pillow and then fled with his considerable loot, along the same route he had come. Upon reaching village where the wagon was parked, the thieves deposited the contents of the four money boxes, totaling almost 1,000 thalers, in a nearby forest, where they retrieved them eight days later.

Meyer Ziller rightly called this theft, committed with almost unparalleled audacity, his masterpiece.

| All 10 pig dealers had given their money boxes to the innkeeper for safekeeping, and the dismay on both sides was not small when 4 of them were missing in the morning. No one could suspect a theft from outside, since the way to the

Machine Translated by Google

Alcove only led through the bar, where, although 10 bedrooms

fending people would not have been a deterrent, but the 6

Dogs, as one had to close, prevent any intrusion would have defended themselves). Moreover, the thieves had been so careful as to close the kitchen window before leaving.

Suspicion therefore oscillated between the innkeeper and one of the robbed 4 pig dealers themselves, against whom he gained such consistency that he was able to transport the court order was handed over to the authorities. Fortunately, his innocence was soon established, thanks primarily to the fact that two of the money boxes, which the thieves had thrown away after emptying them, were found in a cornfield.

XV. Fifth Thieving Journey to Schlefien and the March. Oetoy

" about 1828,

1) Around Michaelmas 1828, the following people left Betsche on a chauffeur-drawn wagon: 7

*) The fact that these 6 dogs behaved so calmly when the thief began is indeed remarkable. Perhaps it can be explained by the circumstance that the dogs of such traveling cattle traders, the beytyndiy Accustomed to frequenting the inns, the instinctive feeling finally arose that they had no house. Certainly, if the thief had wanted to steal their masters' person, their vigilance denied.

166

Moyes Simon Bernhardt, called Zimchens Mauyche, Carl Friedrich Becker, Simon Jakob Schweriner alias Schmaie, Aron Berwitz Schumann, called Arendche Schnaufloch, Miychel Selig, called Krumnaas, Nathan Jakob Stahl, called Noyyen, Moyes Wolu Wolfram, called Mauyche Parch, Moyes Jakob Wolfram, called Jokeles Mauyche and Iyaac Wolfram, called Itzig Fuchs, to take part in the three-day conference to be held in Grünberg in Silesia in October daily markets to seek opportunities for theft. There were also on the first market day various profitable pickpocketsy steels were excercised; however, when Michel Selig was buried near one of them, the others preferred to leave Griinberg as quickly as possible. Schumann, Nathan Stahl, and Isaac Wolfram returned directly to Betsche, while the others continued on to Belzig to hold the market there, i.e., to commit thefts. Passing th Berlin on the way there, they asked the vigilante Royenthal whether he had any mascots in store for them, but when this was not the case, they continued on to Belzig. Before Beelitz, on October 12, they stopped at an inn, had one of their wagon's damaged wheels repaired, and then, continuing their journey, drove through the town around 6 p.m. In front of a grocery store, they noticed a wagon loaded with several large wooden crates. Th The suspicion that there were goods in it became a certainty when they learned, after careful inquiry, that the following day in the small town of Trebbin, two miles away, there be a market, and they confessed that a thief had stolen those boxes that same evening.

ytold to try. | The crooks stayed behind a barn near Beelitz until 10 o'clock in the evening, then drove back to the city, near the gate, and left the wagon there, under the supervision of Moses

Machine Translated by Google

WolU Wolfram, ytieren, and then went under the Masyematten.

The cart with the crates stood in front of the grocer's house, on the street, unattended. Becker climbed onto the cart, opened one of the locked crates, whereupon

Berny

Hardt emptied it, handing the contents, which consisted of cut goods, to his comrades. With stolen goods, the thieves returned to their wagon and drove to Berlin, the

Vigilante Royenthal, who also had an action here, the Waay ren for sale. Since he refused, they continued on to Wrietzen a. O., where they sold the goods to a supposedly unknown Jew at the market for 50 thalers.

*) To be buried or to be buried means to be arrested; to be buried means to be arrested.

167

yharpned, although such, according to the sworn statement of the robbed, ay had a value of almost 350 thalers.

In Wrietzen, Bernhardt was approached by a Jew, probably

His brother Aron Simon from Oderberg, a merchant at a merchant's in Lunow, where the cash register was to be stolen. Bernhardt inspected the location and found the theft possible. Since it was a Friday, the crooks held a Shabbat in a village near Schwedt and then drove to Lunow (a village) on Sunday night, October 18, to carry out the theft. Since their money

gen was a narrow-gauge one, which slightly changed the direction they had taken could advise, they left him, out of caution, almost a mile from Lunow, under the supervision of Moyes WolU Wolfram.

Insertion of a compartment in the house built of half-timbered structures, outside

They entered the materialist's shop and stole the cash register that Bernhardt had broken which contained 70 to 80 thalers in courant.

Returning to their wagon, the crooks drove on to Schwedt, where Moyes WolU Wolfram – an experienced Schottenfeldy ler – stole 5 pieces of cloth. On the way back to Betsche, it was sold partly in the village and partly to some sharp-sharpening merchants for 7 to 8 groSchen per yard.

XVI. Burglary and theft at the home of the merchant Mayche in Kélychen, Pomerania. Night of February 7-8, 1829.

At the beginning of 1829, the vigilante Royenthal wrote a letter to the notorious Carl Friedrich Becker in Betsche, in which he informed him of a theft that was about to be committed by a colonel in Soldin, and ordered him to carry it out, adding that he should choose a place where he would meet him. Becker also recruited Moses Simon Bernhardt, David Levin Kunstmann, and Nathan Jakob Stahl for the venture, and then informed Royenthal by letter that he was being held in the village of Thamy yel at Cuytrin. The four thieves went there on a wagon belonging to Bernhardt, but waited in vain both there and in the stone inn at Soldin.

ly awaiting the arrival of Royenthal, and finally decided to act against Masematten without

This also happened during the night

*) Eight days later, a vagabond named Perske, who had been brought to the school district Neuendorf, complained about his participation in that

Machine Translated by Google

Thefts, and persisted in this self-accusation with astonishing consistency. However, in view of the contradictions he had brought forward, including in relation to other accusations, he was acquitted by the judgment of the first instance, and in this judgment

He hid himself, although he was more innocent of nothing than this theft. This fact is one of the many inexplicable facts which the false self-accusations, which are more frequent these days, present in such great quantity.

108

on January 29, 1829. The thieves stole money and valuables totaling 180 thalers, then drove to Zielenzig, where they met the Jew Wolu Köhler from Schermeisel, to whom they sold the watch stolen in Soldin, and then went to Meseritz, where they celebrated Shabbat. Here, Becker suggested not returning to Betsche yet, but first trying to earn more money by stealing. He explained that Marcus Elias Cohn, like who had told him some time ago that he had a Masyematten in Pommern, and requested that Cohn be summoned to Schwerin a. W. to work with him there.

This project

The position was approved, a messenger was sent to Cohn, and they then set off for Schwerin where they found Cohn already present upon their arrival. He confirmed that he had taken the opportunity.

to a theft from a merchant in Pomerania, and was ready to join the Chawruse in order to support the same community to be carried out.

On the way there, the crooks attempted a break-in at the merchant Pick's in Landsberg am Lech on the night of February 5th, and had already smashed a window when they were caught by the night watchman. They escaped by hitting the watchman on the head. Since there was a lot of snow and the two horses were very weak, the further journey was very slow, and they were even advised to turn back when, shortly afterward, a large amount of snow fell again in the area of Friedeberg. In this emergency, they had to make do with the travel money. Finally exposed, Kunstmann brought a Masyematten at a purchase.

A man in Cologne, in waiting, received a proposal that had previously been made to him by an unidentified third party. The person to be robbed was the merchant Mayche.

The crooks accordingly turned to Cologne, arrived there on the morning of February 6, drove through the town, and there they met the return of Becker and Bernhardt, who had dismounted to take a closer look at the location of the theft.

These two achieved this by going into the shop of the mayche and drinking a schnapps. They discovered that the tway ytower house lightly built of timber framing, that one, behind the Lay

The room located there was uninhabited, but a door led into the shop from the corridor.

February 6th was a Friday, where the Sabbath was observed in the eveningy begins, at which Bernhardt declared that he did not want to steal. In this way, he determined perhaps less pious comrades, according to goalsy to drive to Jerusalem and celebrate the Sabbath there. At sunset, they harnessed their horse to a place led by a local innkeeper.

borrowed sledges, and arrived around 12 o'clock at night in front of Cologne—

While Marcus Elias Cohn stayed with the wagon, the others went into the village (such a village is Kélyschen) and 169

Machine Translated by Google

began the break-in by Becker using a crowbar to make a hole in the back wall of the house. VERNY crawled through the same hardt into the aforementioned uninhabited room adjacent to the shop, in which stocks of goods were located. This room as well as the

The shop was almost completely emptied. The stolen goods, which Bernhardt handed over to his companions, consisted of materials such as coffee, sugar, furs, ribbons, etc. Around 3 a.m., the theft was completed. The crooks returned to Zielenzig, boarded their wagon, and drove on without stopping to Schermeisel, where Kunstmann gave the Jew Samuel Schwarz a quantity of the stolen coffee and sugar, probably because he had been the first to report the theft. From Zielenzig, the thieves drove to Meseritz, but found no willing accomplice the Jew Heymann T...., and so they went to Schwerin. W. To those living therey ten brothers Moyes Levin and Jakob Meyer 3...., the entire stolen property (Samuel Schwarz had barely "1; of which hey hold) for 40 thalers. The value of the same was stated under oath by the damned person to be more than 350 thalers. –

XVIII. Burglary and theft at the merchant Borchardt to Frieyack. Night of March 2nd to 3rd, 1829.

In 1823, Hirych Heymann, alias Hirychgen Neu y

brick, and Rehmann Jakob Königsberger, called Rachmiel, both living in Neubrick, jointly owned a vehicle for their theftsy

In February 1829, Selig Joel, alias Levin, came from Betsche to Neubrtick and invited them to travel with him to Fürstenwalde, where he had a lucrative mascot. Both of them, willing to do so, completed their chawrus with Jacob Isaac Franke, called Furth, and Jacob Neumann Moses, called Schaf.

head from Neubriick, whereupon all five drove to Furytenwalde.

On Saturday evening around 5 o'clock, they arrived there, the vehicle

The work remained in front of the gate, but Franke and Selig Joel went into the town to reconnoiter. When they returned after about half an hour, Selig Joel remarked that if the soldier hadn't been there, they would have received as much money as the horses could have pulled. The plan was, in fact, to plunder the tax treasury in Fürstenwalde, a plan that was thwarted by the posting of a ship's guard in front of the premises.

This was because a staff soUicier had recently moved his apartment to the cash building.

On Tuesday, February 10, the thieves struck again in Neuy bridge, and Selig Joel returned to Vetysche, after a rendez-vous with him on the 24th of February in Ciytriny

the market, where the black Michel (Michel Moyes) was also supposed to come, was agreed upon.

On Monday, March 16, Königsberger, Hirsch Heymann, Franke, and

Jakob Neumann Mofes, all equipped with passports, left Neubrück, spent the night in the village of Hochzeit, and arrived in Reetz on Tuesday, the 17th, when the market the attend had already ended. Due to the bad weather, they stayed in Reetz on the 18th and then left on the 19th.

February to a village, a mile from Lippehne, but the following day to this town, where they watched the execution of a murderer, and then to Schönfließ, where Jakob Neumann Moses

Machine Translated by Google

They stayed in Schönfließ on February 21 and 22, and spent the night on the 23rd in a village,

2 miles before Cügtrin, and drove to the city on the 24th. Appointmenty

So here, on the Kietz, in a Jewish cookshop, they met Selig Joel and the black Michel.

Since there should be Berlin, where Selig Joel from his brother-in-law, the vigilante Royenthal, had been appointed, it seemed advisable to the crooks to set up a third

tes horse into their team, for which the money from the commony yciyional travel caye was taken. On the evening of February 25th, they left Cuytrin, traveled all night, and tray arrived in Berlin on the 26th, at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Having disembarked at a guesthouse in the Neue Königsstraße, Selig Joel and Franke immediately went to the vigilante Rojen-tbal, who, over a cup of coffee, showed them the depoyitorium of the cityy

court of Berlinchen baldowerte, described the location of the same exactly, and explained which the theft could best be to be carried out. That he would receive a full share of the spoils) had to keep, was self-evident.

Upon their return to the inn, Blessed Joel and Franke informed their companions of the destination of their journey. However, Blessed Joel stated that they must first go to Friesack, where, with a Westphalian, a good Mayematten could be obtained. Since Blessed Joel evaded subsequent investigation by fleeing, it remains unknown where he gained his knowledge of this theft.

On the morning of February 27, the crooks left Berlin for the village of Bredow near Nauen, where they spent the night.

and kept Shabbat the following day. On March 1st,

They then continued on to the village of Bradickow, a mile from Friesack. Here they stopped. Blessed Joel went into the town to reconnoiter and soon returned with the news that everything was fine and the theft would not be difficult to carry out.

On the morning of March 2nd, the crooks left the village, triedy

They drove around Frieyack with their wagons during the day and finally, around 9 o'clock in the evening, approached the town at a distance of a few minutes, where they took up post behind a brick barn.

171

From there, Selig Joel and Franke went back to the town to see which route the night watchman was taking on his patrol. After 10 o'clock, they returned to the wagon, which they parked near a newly built, still unoccupied, street house.

Jacob Neumann Moses remained with him. The others took off their boots, took crowbars and chisels from the wagon, and, led by Blessed Joel, walked to the city in their stockings despite the severe cold.

The Borchardt residential building, in whose ground floor the warehouse, abuts with one (gabled) side against an ice

ren place, where, in the same front, a second, not yet completed built, house. The square was bordered by a enclosed by a wooden fence. Behind this newly built house were two stable buildings, between which a passage led into a fenced garden. This garden lay on the field side.

When the thieves arrived at the city, the watchman had called for the eleventh hour. They entered the garden through the unlocked gate from behind, and from there, by climbing over the low en and damaged fence, into the aforementioned corridor, and then onto the square, against gable wall of the Borchardt front building.

In front of this gable wall, belonging to the new building, lay a quantity of may Stones were stacked 5 feet high. Franke and Blessed Joel climbed onto them and, using their crooked head, broke a hole in the timber-framed, brick-lined wall, through which Franke crawled into the shop. Blessed Joel remained outside, lit a fire, handed Franke a lit candle, and hung one of the sacks they had brought with them in front of the wall.

hole to prevent the light from shining through. Königsberger was in the square, Hirsch Heymann was near the stables, and Black Michel was stationed in the garden. As soon as they noticed anything suspicious, they were to give a signal by clapping their hands.

Through the opening in the wall, Franke handed the wares stolen from the shop to Selig Joel. He packed them in sacks and, when a sack was full, gave it to the Königsberger, who carried it to Hirsch Heymann, who in turn carried it to Black Michel, who placed it in the garden for the time being. When three sacks full of goods had been sent this way, Franke crawled back through the hole and said that there were more goods in the shop, but of too insignificant a value to be worth the effort of taking them.

It was now around two o'clock in the morning. During the watchy

The thieves had stopped their work after calling at 12 and 1 a.m. They now withdrew, dragged the three sacks to their wagon waiting at the ChanUeehaufe, and drove that same day via Nauen and Oranienburg to a following day, where Hirsch Heymann and Jacob Neumann had their passports visaed by Moses.

behind Neustadt they encountered thieves and thieves-fence dealers.

Jews lyrael Royenthal, Benjamin Rofenbaum and Hirsch Brodbar (Hirychberg)

from Joachimsthal, who,

According to the invitation, they went to the nearest pub. Here, in the stable, all the st were found, which, according to the

yecuring the stolen goods, which had a value of approximately 1400 thalers, were yecuritiz to 1 and Rosenbaum for the price of 170 thalers. |

After completing the deal, the crooks continued on to Berlinchen, where they found the city court depoyitorium, which the vigilante Royenthal had thought to be in use, during night of the 7th to the 8th.

March, by means of a break-in, for the sum of 2750 thalers yteel “).

XVIII. Fifth thieving expedition to Silesia, especially to Strehlen. May 1830.

In 1830, the Betscher Jews Moyes Levin Altenburger called Mauyche Leib, David Levi Kunstmann called Dovidchen, Neumann

Machine Translated by Google

Jacob Posener, called Nachmann, and Marcus Simon, called Mortge Gratzner, from Gratz, together formed a thieving group. They jointly owned a vehicle consisting of two horses and a covered wagon, with which they had already visited Breslau at the beginning of year and stolen there. The local vigilante, Löbel Philipp, who was always as helpful as possible in their thefts, had summoned them to Breslau for the next spring wool market, where he promised to provide them with good wool mats.

This wool market took place in the first days of June.

After the mentioned Chawruyye members still have to Any

After the farmer BeiBner of Rieyenitz near Seelow had been robbed of more than 600 thalers in money and taxes by a night-time burglary, they decided to travel to Breslau. Equipped with backup keys, scrabblers, and crooked heads, they left Betsche on Monday, May 17th:

1) Altenburger, 2) David Levi Kunstmann, 3) Neu-

*) The perpetrators of this theft were later discovered and made a confession, through which vigilant Royenthal was also implicated in the investigation.

chung was intertwined. Even before the first knowledge was given, however,

Hirsch Heymann, Franke, and the black Michel (Michel Moses) escaped from the prison in Berlin means of an escape. The latter was captured after a few years in Austria and taken to the Görlitz.

The files are currently located there for the purpose of further instruction of the investigation. The author regrets that he is therefore unable to provide an extract of their highly interesting man Jacob Pofener, 4) Moyes Jacob Wolfram gen.

173

Jokeles Mauchy, the latter of whom was only taken along as a temporary help and not Chay who was on the wagon. From 17 to 18 May they spent the night in the village of Sowade, not far from Gratz, and drove on the following days into Gratz, where

5) Marcus Simon joined them. In the afternoon they left Gratz and met on the way to Rakwitz, as agreed,

6) the Wolu Moses called Czarnower from Bentychen.

They spent the night of the 18th to the 19th in the so-called Kreuzkriigen, a farm on the road to Kontop, and on the 19th drove through this town, where they had their passp visaed, except for Kunytmann and Posener, who did not have them. After a few more nights' lodgings, the thieves arrived in the village of Altwassau, near Waldenburg in on Friday, May 21st. They celebrated Shabbat in the inn there, stayed the night from Sunday to Monday, and left on the morning of that day.

to have their passports visited. To pay the bill, Mary went

Marcus Simon, an experienced merchant, entered the landlady's living room and brought back 6 thalers for his traveling companion. However, fearing that the victim might realize their loss and start a chase, thereby preventing them from carrying out their lucky venture, they ordered Marcus Simon to return the money to her.

to re-settle in a clever way, ie to plan. Since this in

He reported that the room door was locked and the woman in the in

Machine Translated by Google

nern was busy counting money, the crooks drove off without this theft having any further consequences. The damnable never noticed her loss either, because during her judicial interrogation a few years later, she stated that to know nothing about the thefts committed against her.

Since there were still more than eight days to go until the beginning of the wool market in Breslau, the crooks decided to first hold the wool markets taking place in the surround area, especially in Schweidnitz and Strehlen.

The night of the 24th to the 25th they stayed in a village outside Schweidnitz, and the following morning they drove to an inn in the Schweidnitz suburb, where they left the wagon and then went individually to the town, in which Wolly market. They met there the great Kaddish from Gratz and Lyrael Byk from Rakwitz, the former a brother, the latter a brother-in-law of Marcus Simon, who, knowing that he was with his

nen comrades on the Mayyematten trade, to Schweidy

had come to burn them. WolU Moyes (Czarney who) had meanwhile baldowered a wool merchant living at the market, in the Zepter Inn, with whom he, under the mask

174

a broker. Since the great Kaddish and Israel Byk had deposited their passports with the police, who were thus aware of their presence, the crooks feared that the first noise caused by the intended theft would raise suspicions of them, thus causing inconveniences for both parties. Determined by these reasons, Kaddish and Byk took back their passports and left Schweidnitz, promising to have their shares of the theft sent to Gratz and Rakwitz. They subsequently did indeed receive them, namely, since the Mayematten was in Schweidy

nitz verlamdbete, from the ylater executed in Strehlen, a partem quotam of 30 thalers.

After their removal, the crooks proceeded to carry out the theft, which Czarower claimed was a burglar. According to his statement, the wool merchant had stolen a front room on the second floor of the so-called Altenburger and Moses Jacob Wolfram went there, while the remaining four stood guard in front of the house. Altenburger was a macadam by profession.

ner, but Wolfram a cabinetmaker. The former then tried to open the door of the room indicated to him by Czarower; however, the backup keys would not work due to a special construction of the lock, and in order not to have gone in vain,

He opened, at random, the door of another room. Therey

Wolfram went in, opened a small suitcase, but found only linen and clothing inside, which he considered unworthy of stealing. Both returned to their companions without accomplishing their task, and with them to their wagon parked in the suburbs.

Prompted by the emptiness of the communal travel coyt, Marcus Simon and Posener went from there once more to the city to seek some income through Chilfen. They succeeded

This also initially with a wool merchant, to whom Marcus Simon eiy a double Louis d'or. Soon after, they met a Han delmann, who wore a spiked money bag around his body. Mary cus Simon, approaching the man, asked him to give him a hard thay ler for small Couraut. Willingly, the man entered a house with the crooks and emptied his money

Machine Translated by Google

on which occasion Marcus Simon lent 30 thalers. Leaving the man from Poznay behind, he hurried away to his comrades at the suburban inn, where he gave the stolen money to Czarnower to count. While he was doing so, Marcus Simon called out, "Here comes the Balhei!" (the one who was robbed) and jumped out the back window.

The robbed, by a clumsy Marcus Simon

Wise (as his confessed comrades express themselves), left behind Coin, had become suspicious, and the Poy

yener to the police, which of course is not 175

He persuaded the Balhei to follow him to his quarters, and this was the cause of their unwanted arrival

The victim insisted on compensation for his loss, to which

After finding out, he recounted his money at the request of the rogue criminals. While th happening, Czarnower very cleverly and unnoticed managed to return the 30 thalers stolen by Marcus Simon to him, and so he realized with astonishment that his account was completely correct. Dismayed, he begged for forgiveness.

and, apart from a harsh reprimand, received from the Gauy
ner, perhaps even the belief in magic.

Meanwhile, Altenburger and David Levi Kunstmann had
The horses were harnessed in order to be ready to flee if things did not end well. Although flight was not necessary under these circumstances, they still left Schweidy

nitz, met Marcus Simon again not far from the town, and after a single night's quarters, reached the village of Niklasdorf on May 27th, situated about half a mile from Strehlen, where they again made their night's quarters.

The following morning, a carriage passed through this village on its way to Strehlen.

In Silesia, carriages are narrow-gauge; however, this carriage was wide-gauge, and from this, as well as from the fact that there was a wool market in Strehlen at the time, crooks correctly deduced that the traveler must be a stranger and carry money with him. To determine this further, the following ten Poyener and Czarower of the chaiye from afar, saw it stop in front of a taythaus located on the market, and a gentleman from

They climbed the stairs, and after a room on the second floor, a small but apparently heavy was brought, which presumably contained money. They reported this to their comrades, whereupon the unanimous decision was made to make a fuss about this incident.

Although May 28 was the first day of the Jewish Feast of Weeks, the loot was too tempting to deter them from their undertaking. At 10 a.m.

At noon they drove to Strehlen, through the town, onto the road to Breslau. Here, in a secluded inn, Posener and Marcus Simon stayed with the wagon; the remaining four returned to the town. Altenburger (who was the bean lord or balsamatten of the Chawrus) was the experienced yt Poychener, and Wolfram, as the most skillful burglar, were again responsible for the execution of the theft. The former carried the Klamoniy, while the latter carried the scythe. Arty mann and Czarower were outside on guard from different sides.

Machine Translated by Google

On the stairs of the inn one of the servants came to them.

They met him, from whom they learned, in response to their question, that the strange gentleman who had arrived that morning had gone out. They apparently turned around, the girl went into the kitchen, and then climbed the stairs again. Altenburger easily opened the guarded door and then went to continue the thief's execution.

Leaving the stolen goods to Wolfram, he returned to his comrades waiting in front of the house. This happened and still happens, sometimes because the lord of the bean either opened or stolen, but both are incumbent upon him, and secondly, so that he, as here Alteny burger, not with the aftermath, i.e. cross the border y

yhitt go when ythey get lamps, ie when stealing overy be rumbled.

Wolfram found the valuable coffer in the opened room, which was simply locked. With the chisel, he silently blew off the lid and was amazed at the wealth that lay before his eyes. He gathered together all the gold, currency, and paper money he could find (only a few hundred thalers).

remained behind) tied it in a handkerchief and hurried to his

Noyyen, to whom he, forgetting his caution in his joy, called out from afar that they could served. And indeed, they could. The booty, which the owners, the merchants Hundrich & Sehlmacher from Burg, had earmarked for wool purchases, amounted to no less than eleven thousand thalers.

The thieves hurried to their wagon and set off for Breslau as fast as their horses could run. In Breslau, they only took enough time to buy a few bottles of wine.

fen, whereupon they followed the route to Betsche, actually by special post; for they took three postal carriages to Liyya. Through Liyya, where they were known, they rode their own horses for political reasons, and in the village of Grunow beyond Liyya, the division of the stolen property took place. Apart from a considerable sum, the old peopley

burger and Wolfram embezzled the others, ie how fi? es neny

nen, undermakkent, and apart from a no less considerabley sum that is for some distillers, for the relatives and Friends of the crooks were put back, came to each one

Some of them were worth about 1400 thalers. They had already gotten rid of the stolen items just behind Strehlen, by putting them in a pile and throwing them into the water.

Since the vehicle could possibly have been stolen on the way, the Betsche thieves, as they themselves knew, had become quite notorious, and were therefore most likely to return to Betsche

hunting was to be feared, it required caution to also take care of that

") Gedin: honest; Gedinne Waaren: honestly acquired goods; ges din handeln: to conduct an honest business.

177

In the division of the booty mentioned above, the Mary, who were less suspicious in their places of residence,

Machine Translated by Google

cus Simon and Wolu Moyes Czarower and drove via Schmiegel to Gratz and Bentychen. The others, however, hired a farmer's wagon, which took them to Betysche on Sunday, May 30th, at 4 a.m. They had thus, regardless of the, partly, very bad road, the considerable distance of almost 40 miles in two nig one and a half days

and had also traveled over the Sabbath.

The news of this lucrative Mayyematten spread very soon in Betysche, and everyone came to burn the thieves.

Even one of the most respected inhabitants of Betsche extorted a considerable sum from them by threatening to report them.

By the way, the thieves were really, when they came from Strehlen mend, Breslau, was seen by two local Jews, Salomon Cohn and Götzel. They reported this to the police and now came to Betsche themselves to make further investigations into the matter; however, they let their zeal with 10 double

Louis d'ors and returned to Breslau. A police officer was dispatched from there to arrest suspects and search their homes. This plan, however, was betrayed to the thieves through a breach of duty, and therefore the searches proved entirely fruitless. The suspected perpetrators were arrested and taken first to M., and then to the transported to Breslau to be examined by the Inquiry

yitoriate to be taken for investigation.

Her two-day arrest in M. was unfortunately cancelled by the ence that their contact with their relatives was not barred. Thus, it happened that the matter was settled because of the Marrey

mokums could be arranged, and when the crooks went to Bresy

When they arrived, they all provided proof of their alibi. It was established that they had driven through Breslau on May 28th and that they had driven postal trains several times on the road from Breslau to Liyya.

taken; a farmer who, just behind Breslau, took them to the next

yt postyt station had given preyteam, had recognoycirt; nytyoy

Less than 14 people swore that the crooks had been present on May 28th, respectively in Betsche and Gratz!

Probably, under such circumstances, a provisional release

The discussion would have been the final result of the investigation, had the thieves not handed over to Berlin before its conclusion, where, as a result of the confrontation, they confessed. NN

Of the 11,000 thalers stolen, despite all efforts, only about 800 thalers have been recovered. 10,200 thalers have thus been recovered in barely four weeks, between the 1945 and the 1946

178

The perpetrators' liability lay, disappeared in smoke and haze. Freey

This theft has also given rise to remarkable intrigues that are difficult to publicize, and 44 people have shared in its benefits; furthermore, it is certain that the thieves themselves also possess money, which they could not be persuaded to provide proof of.

XIX. Thefts in Dresden and Stettin. June 1830.

For a long time, the Berlin thieves, especially the Jonas family, had been talking about going to Dresden

Machine Translated by Google

to travel to commit thefts there. This plan came to fruition as the wool market, which took place in Dresden in June 1830, approached. Hartwig Jonas was then serving a prison sentence for a youth burglary, in criminal arrest, and therefore it happened that only Hirysh Salomon Wohlauser and Moyes Levin Löwenthal that purpose. Since both had no money to cover the travel costs, Hartwig Jonas' wife found to pawn a coat of her husband. Jonas' mother did the same with a spare piece of cloth, and with the money earned from it, Wohlauser and Löwenthal boarded the express post in Berlin on June 7 and drove to Dresden, where they arrived early in the morning on June 8. Lowen thal, legitimized by a pass, entered the city, but Wohlauser, without a pass, disembarked at a short distance from the gate to await Lowenthal's report on whether the passage would be particularly difficult. After Wohlauser had taken the safes he had brought from Berlin, 12 duplicate keys and a stem

After the guard had laid a shovel under a bush not far from the Black Gate, Lowenthal returned to him with the news that he had nothing to fear because of his lack of a passport. Both then went into the city. Considering the fact that Wohlauser, who lacked a passport, could stay at an inn, Moritz Jonas from Berlin had sent them a letter of recommendation.

A letter to one of his relatives, who at that time lived in the Schlossgasse in Dresden and ran a stationery business. They went to this business and found a ready welcome, and it was understood that they were not reported to the police. After changing their clothes—the Berlin thieves were particularly distinguished by their outward elegance—Löwenthal and Wohlauser lurked at the Black Gate to retrieve the cabinets buried there. On the Elbe Bridge, they encountered the thieves Moses Simon Bernhardt, called Zimchens

Mausche, Jo: Yeph Joyua Fischer, called Joyef Rogayen, both from Betyische, and Moses Sachse, called Schmul, from Calbe an der Ilde, of whom the first two, from one to Grünberg in Silesia

179

They had arrived here on a covered wagon on their thieving expedition. From them they learned that Baruch Behrens from Calbe a. M. and the great Krause (i.e. Salomon Krause) from Neumallis, green in Bohemia, were also present, and they arranged to meet in the afternoon.

On the following day, a rendezvous was arranged on the Brühl Terrace (a public entertainment venue). Wohlauser and Löwenthal went there after they had first gathered their belongings and carried them into their apartment. They met Bernhardt, Fischer, Sachs, Baruch Behrens, and Ben Grosser Krause on the Brühl Terrace, as agreed. After mutually declaring that they had all come to Dresden solely for the purpose of theft, it was decided at a solemn meeting that, in order not to offend one another, they would all join together for a single chance of success, and wanted to divide the stolen goods among themselves equally. Nothing further was said for today.

After the crooks separated, another gathering took place on the following morning at the same place, arranging for the following morning.

Before Wohlauser and Löwenthal set out on the next morning for this Conference, they let a certain Schéppe, who was in Dresden who runs a stationery business, but also made a trade from pickpocketing, and from time to time also performed vigilante services, to see and asked him whether he could prove any specific mass meetings

Machine Translated by Google

He denied this, but assured the company that he
He did not want to stand in the way of Wohlauser and his associates, and only demanded a share of the booty, which was also promised to him.

Wohlauer and Löwenthal met on Brihl's Terrace

then, in addition to the people from yesterday, also a gey

Wilde and Butcher, two professional thieves from Dresden, who, however, did not take part in the alliance because they feared they were too well known in Dresden to dare to commit a theft in the city itself. The Chawruse now divided into two columns. One, from

Léwenthal, Bernhardt and Baruch Behrens, was for the old town, but the other, to which Wohlauer, Fischer, Saye and the great Krause belonged, intended for the Neustadt, in order to be able to use these two parts of the city. The first column, which was also those proven and locally described by Wilde and Slaughter to frequent the aforementioned inns and attempt thefts. The excursion to the Neustadt bore no fruit, because no suitable theft opportunity presented itself anywhere, and the column returned to Brühl's Terrace without having accomplished anything.

The other column in the old town was somewhat luckier. After they had already been in 4 guesthouses and had opened several rooms without finding any money – they didn't want anything else – they finally arrived in 1 same also to the Hotel de Russie. Bernhardt and Behrens went, while Lowenthal remained below, to the third floor, where, according to Wilde and Slaughter, a rich bailiff was supposed to be living. To open the door to a room, in

180

After they had previously explored the surroundings through a glass window above the door, Baruch Behrens had already inserted the skeleton key into the keyhole when a girl came out of one of the adjoining rooms and asked them whom they wanted to see. They named the first name they found, and, after receiving a negative response, left, but remained standing near the inn.

After a short while, Lowenthal was sent upstairs, and when he re

After being assured that everything was quiet and safe again, the first two also went back. Behrens now unlocked the door of that room without further disturbance and, out of caution, he took Bernhardt with the keys.

down, and followed him after a few minutes. From a

But in the open room he had stolen 165 thalers, which were divided on the Brihl's terrace in such a way that the savages, butchers, and Schéppe each received 5 thalers, while the remainder was divided equally among the 7 Chawruse members.

Business was over for the rest of the day.

On the following morning, June 10, the thieves' group met again on Brthl's terrace, as agreed.

to discuss further ventures. Savages and butchers also came, but with the news that the th the previous day had caused a stir and that the police were in action. After this informat Krause remained in Dresden; all the others preferred to make their escape as quickly as possible.

They left Dresden on the same day through various dene Tore. In the next village, on the road to Berlin, tray

Machine Translated by Google

They reunited and traveled together in Bernhardt's covered wagon to Liebenwerda. Here, Bernhardt separated as a result of an argument with Fischer and drove off to Betsche, accompanied by the thief Israel Moses Wilde from Meseritz, who had also been found in Dresden. The remaining five continued on their way to Berlin, where they arrived on June 12. It had been agreed among these five comrades to jointly visit the wool market in tin to visit in order to identify opportunities for theft. Schwedt a. O. was chosen as the rendez-vous.

Accordingly, on 12 June, Fischer, Sachs and Bay ruch Behrens with the ordinary post from Berlin to Schwedt a.

O., where Wohlauser and Löwenthal followed on June 14 by express post. On June 15, at 7 a.m., they arrived there, fen ythofe with their comrades who had traveled ahead

men, and drove on the afternoon of the same day on a gens rented boat, to Stettin. Upon their arrival there, on the morning of 16 June, they le after breakfast, without

181

to stop at an inn immediately after the wool market. Here they met the Jews Abraham Braun, Jakob, and Abraham Bauchwitz from Meseritz, known to be thieves. They informed Braun, who was reputed to be carrying out vigilante duties in Stettin during market hours, of the purpose of their visit and, to ensure his silence, promised him a share of the proceeds of the thefts to be committed, to which he agreed.

After the crooks, just as in Dresden, had already been in several inns, had opened a room in one of them, and had broken into a chest there without finding any money, Fischer suddenly arrested on the street by the police. This, as it turned out, was due to an anonymous report that Moses Simon Bernhardt, after his separation from the Chawruse, had written from Treuenbrietzen to the police authorities in Stettin, in which he had drawn attention to Fischer as someone who intended to commit thefts during the wool market in Stettin. The reason for this report was, as they believe that there was a dispute between Bernhardt and Fischer.

While Fischer was in arrest and only released the following morning was released again, his comrades did not let this deter them from their plans. Abraham Braun rejoined them, when they had just returned to the Green Tree Inn on a whim

He therefore remained, participating in the venture, with Fischer and Wohlaue in front of the inn to keep watch

At last, Löwenthal and Wohlaue went to the second floor

work of the same, where the latter has a room on the right

He took the backup key. Löwenthal, who entered, found several chests, chose the heaviest and opened it with the chisel. With a linen bag filled with money

At last, which he stole from this box, he returned to his comrades, and all of them, led by Braun, went into a room at the Bolly works, Kaueehaus, where the division of the loot took place.

It amounted to 140 thalers; of this, Wohlauser, Lowenthal, Sochfe and Baruch Behreus each offered 25 thalers, Abraham Braun 10 thalers, and the Bauchwitz brothers, who had stolen the cupboards from the thieves, gen, a total of 15 thalers. An equal sum was paid for deu very were liable to Joyeph Fycher, and after his release layyung, through Wohlauser, from Angermünde, by post to Bet:

Machine Translated by Google

yche geyent. – One trembles that the industrial knights were at least prompt payers.

XX. Thefts in Berlin, Potsdam, and Treuenbrietzen. No. August 1830.

On 9 November 1830, Wohlauser was appointed by Moritz Jonasy news that the thieves Elias Nelky from Magdeburg, Louis Nelky

182 from Wolmirstadt and Hirsch Moses Hirschberg, called Brodbar, from Potsdam, had arrived in Berlin. On Wohlauser's advice, they were summoned to a rendezvous at the new Friedrichsbrücke on the evening of that same day, from where they would make thieving raids through the city. Accordingly, the following gathered at the aforementioned location between and 7 p.m.: the Nelky brothers, Hirsch Moses Hirschberg, Hirsch Say

lomon Wohlauser, Moritz Jonas, lyrael Jacob Scha-cher and Moyes Levin Löwenthal.

It was initially decided to rob the auctioneer Wenzelmann, who lived at Kurstrasse No. 39, Moritz Jonas had already sought an opportunity. The thieves found the front door open, and Elias Nelky went into the house to open the office on the ground floor. He was unsuccessful, however, as the door lock was of such a peculiar construction that no key would fit. Their plan here ties, the thieves roamed the city for a few hours

but without being able to achieve their thieving purpose anywhere, and therefore, completely soaked by the falling rain, decided to

to go home today. On the way there, Moritz Joy standing in front of a building in Neue Friedrichsstraße (No. 61) and explained, pointing to the unlit ground floor apartment, that a rich grain merchant lived there, but a thief

it would be difficult because when the front door is opened, a noise is caused by a bell on it. Elias Nelky thought that it would be easy to suppress the ringing avoid, and so the Chawruse prepared to carry out the theft, with the exception of Wohlaue who, because he was

he didn't like it, went home.

According to the Baldowerung of Moritz Jonas, there was, as was actually the case, a door with glass panes on the left hand side of the hallway, which led into the grain merchant's apartment, and on the right hand side there was a similar door leading into the living room

The landlord's room. According to this location, it was agreed among the thieves that Elias (who is almost 6 feet tall) should open the door and hold the bell. While he then went into the grain merchant's apartment, Louis Nelky, in order to prevent any surprise, was to enter the living room of the house.

The innkeeper's door was to be held from the outside, while Lowenthal was to stand watch in the front door, and Hirschberg and Schacher were to stand watch on the street embankment. According to this agreement, the exit was also carried out in the conduct of the theft.

Entering the hallway through the quiet opening of the front door, the thieves saw the innkeeper and his family sitting at dinner in the room to the right (through the glass door). Louis Nelky crept up to the door and held the handle from outside.

Meanwhile, Elias Nelly had gone into the unlocked room on the left. After barely five minutes, he returned, saying that his pockets were full and that he could not carry anything else, although there was still a lot of money in the room. Upon hearing this news, Loy went went into it, lit it with a lighter he had with him

He turned on the light and noticed a writing desk standing open, with money in the middle compartment. He put about 50 thalers in the pockets of his trousers and was just about to pack his breast pocket full when Louis Nelky, through the Klimy

Lured by the money, he left his post at the opposite door and entered Lowenthal's house. However, he stumbled over the threshold, and as a result of the resulting noise, a girl who light immediately entered the hallway. When she saw the thieves, she called for help. Louis threw a recently stolen packet of valuable papers in the girl's face and escaped, as did Löwenthal, who, due to his shortsightedness, left Louis Nelky stumbling again in front of the front door, and ran through Heidereutergasse to Spandauerstrasse, where he found Schachtel and Moy and Jonas and Hirschberg. During this escape, Lowenthal had lost the money he had stolen from his pocket, except for 17 thalers. All four then went to Lowenthal's apartment where they waited in vain for the arrival of the Nelky brothers. Since they suspected that the brothers, who were present there with their own vehicle, had made off with the loot, they had to return to Magdeburg the following day.

and to use the 17 thalers remaining to Löwenthal for this purpose. This, however, was not necessary, because early the next morning, Louis Nelky arrived at Löwenthal's to collect his share for the division of the stolen goods. In a guesty

At their house on Krausenstrasse, they met Elias Nelly, who explained that he had to fetch the money first. After a few minutes' walk, he returned with the money, which he carried in a handkerchief. He casually replied to the astonished innkeeper: "That the money already has its owner," in which he was, of course, right.

Since the crooks could not divide the loot in the inn because of the many strangers present, they went to Löwenthal's residence for this purpose, where Wohlauer, Schacher and Moritz Jonas also came.

6 The proceeds of the theft, according to the sworn statement of the accused, the merchant Sobernheim, consisted of a gold watch and 600 thalers in cash. Wohlauer, Schacher and Jonas

in the aftermath

The residents of the burglar's estate had heard through the rumor that 800 thalers had been and therefore a great commotion arose when Elias Nelky only brought 250 thalers to be divided, which finally happened in the following way: First of all, Lowen

184

Wenthal and the Nelky brothers swindled their comrades 40 thalers

In addition, Löwenthal received 40 thalers for having given up his room for division. The brothers each received 38 thalers; Wohlauer, Schacher, and Hirschberg each received 20 thalers; and Moritz Jonas, since he was not yet as old a thief as the others, received 15 thalers.

The rest was distributed among some accomplices.

A few weeks earlier, Abraham Levi S. had already given Hirschberg, Moyes Hirschberg, a mascot at a silk manufacturer in Potsdam, and he in turn had given Hirschberg to the Berlin thieves.

Machine Translated by Google

in Potsdam, whose warehouse was sealed because he had gone bankrupt, and was therefore unsupervised and easy to steal. Wohlauer, Lowenthal, Schacher, and Israel Royenthal from Joachimsthal had already traveled to Potsdam to inspect the location.

yen. In addition, Hirschberg, the Berlin chawrusse, had proven two more thefts in Potsdam, at the merchant Epner and at the watchmaker Haaye.

These three thefts should now, in the community of the brothers Nelky, since they, as expected, have their own vehicle

Wohlauer refused the trip because he feared a house search, but Löwenthal and Israel Royenthal went to the Potsdam Gate on the morning of November 10th, where, as agreed, they met the Nelly brothers with their wagon, and with them to Potsdam. In front of the Berlin Gate, If

Rael Royenthal with the wagons, Löwenthal and the brothers

Royenthal, however, went into the city around midnight. Since the streets were still too busy, they returned and laid out fodder for the horses. However, they encountered one nighty guard, and to avoid his examination, they drove on through Potsdam to the Nauen Gate. From there, the three thieves left Israel Royenthal with the wagon.

yend, back to the city.

Since the thieves at the watchmaker were looking for something to luy kriren, they first turned to his apartment, at Brandenburgerstrasse No. 63. Mr. Haaye lived in a ground-floor apartment, whose windows were fitted with blinds facing the street.

yeen, but were secured from the inside with window shutters. Lowenthal broke some bars from the blinds, pushed in a pane, and had already blasted open the inner window shutter, when, due to the noise, Haaye, who was sleeping in the back room, awoke and

Thieves were chased away. They then broke in, also by means of impressions kens of a window, into the aforementioned silk shop, located on the ground floor of WaiyenytraBe 51, but found nothing but the empty walls, and then went on, along Nauener StraBe, to investigate the third, = Hirschberg baldowerten, theft at the merchant Epuery lead.

The Epuer'yche warehouse, in Nauener StraBe No. 32

185

Located on the ground floor, it has a shop window facing the street, which was secured on the outside by wooden shutters, but on the inside by two iron crossbars. Elias Nelky used his crooked head to break one of the wooden shutters and, with his hand wrapped in fine rod, pushed in the windowpane behind it. Here the thieves immediately found 9 to 10 pieces of various linen, which Löwenthal packed into a sack he had brought with him for this purpose and carried down to the canal.

The thieves then fetched lyrael Royenthal, who was waiting in front of the gate, packed the sack onto the cart, and then went once more to the place of the thiefy ytahls back. This time Löwenthal climbed through the vomited Schauy window, into the shop, handed Nelky several more pieces of lineny wall and gingham, and also stole the cash register, which contained approximately 100 thal

The thieves returned to Berlin in one go with the stolen money and goods.

In front of the Potsdam Gate, Elias Nelky and Löwenthal stepped off the Carriage to walk to the latter's residence, Louis Nelly and Royenthal, however, drove with the stolen goods to a guesty

Machine Translated by Google

house in Prenzlauerstrasse. Here Royenthal sold all the stolen goods for the price of 50 thalers, which, like the stolen money, divided into 4 equal parts. | =

On the following 12 November, the brothers Nelky, Hartwig and Moritz Jonas, Léwenthal, Schacher and Wohy lauer, a break-in at the lottery collector Caspari in the Grey nadierytraBe, but the thieves were stopped by the residents of the housey chased when they had already broken the filling out of the room door.

The Nelky brothers then informed Löwenthal and lyrael No: yenthal that they had found various mayy in the Magdeburg area

fematten, which would require several people to carry out, and, as was to be expected, the were immediately ready to join in.

Ready. On November 13, the Nelkys traveled to Spandau and awaited the arrival of Löwenthal and Israel Royenthal in a local inn, which arrived on November 14.

From 14 to 15 November, the crooks spent the night in Spandau, but on the morning of the 16th, they travelled to Magy on Nelky's wagon, consisting of a covered wagon drawn by two horses.

deburg. Elias Nelky had left home with the intention of stealing, along with his third brother Hermann Nelky from Magdeburg, agreed that they would meet on the way to carry out the

Since Elias Nelky believed that his two horses were not strong enough to transport five people quickly, he bought a third one in Plauen with the money he had stolen in Berlin, and also

After this trio, the ropes were changed. From Plauen
On the way to Genthin, the crooks met the 186

Hermann Nelly, who came with a Magdeburg haulage driver, and immediately climbed into the wagon with them. They drove through the night until they arrived in Burg at 5 a.m. on the 16th, after having attempted a theft half an hour before reaching the town. From a freight wagon that had stopped in front of a

a guesthouse, and was loaded with boxes and packages, Louis Nelky had stolen a package, but had thrown it away again, because when he opened it he found nothing but tobacco in it

In Burg, Israel Royenthal separated from the chawrus and returned to Joachimsthal because, not a proper thief by trade, he was too fearful of thefts. The other continued on to Magdeburg and arrived there on the evening of November 16. While

Louis Nelky went to his hometown of Wolmirstadt to recover the money stolen in Berlin and Potsdam.

single, Lowenthal, Hermann and Elias Nelky remained in Magdeburg.

Here the latter showed Löwenthal two thefts he had investigated, in the Royal Bank and at the merchant Zimmermann's, which will be discussed in more detail below.

On November 17, Louis Nelly returned from Wolmirstadt, and that same evening Löwenthal and the three Nelky brothers traveled from Magdeburg to Bernburg to rob a merchant whom Elias Nelky had hired. They reached the city at 11 o'clock at night, but could not carry out the theft, since, because of the that was taking place, many night watchmen were on their feet, and therefore drove off without stopping.

stop, continue, to a guesthouse, which is on the road between Bernburg and Halle. Here the stayed until the morning of November 18th, when they continued into Anhalt, to the main road

Machine Translated by Google

to Bitterfeld. The journey was now very slow, because the crooks had the opportunity to steal, especially from freight vehicles.

gen, yought. Without having found such an opportunity, | spent the nighty

They met from the 18th to the 19th in a village not far from Bitterfeld, and from the 19th to the 20th in a tavern on the road from Bitterfeld to Gray

fenhainchen, and from the 20th to the 21st in a guesthouse behind Witteny berg. They left here early on the 21st, passing through Bergy wit, and saw a loaded freight wagon standing in front of the inn, which they decided to st Two dogs guarding the wagon poisoned them with crow's-eye paste and had already cut through the wagon plan when the driver stepped out of the tavern and chased them away.

The crooks now turned to the road to Berlin, because it is the most frequented by freight trucks. A thiefy ytable on some freight wagons that were parked in front of an isolated guesthouse near Treuenbrietzen, failed because people also came herey when they had already cut through several tarpaulins. They drove hence to Treuenbrietzen, where Elias Nelky had already been 187

scouted out some of the mats at a cloth manufacturer's. It was about 9:00 p.m. when they a in the city. Elias and Hermann Nelky returned to a horse-drawn carriage with their wagon to feed the horses and let them rest a bit so that they could run faster after commi thefts. Meanwhile, Lowenthal and Louis Nelky patrolled the city, looking for further opportunities to steal from the freight wagons parked in front of the inns and horse-drawn carriages. After about two hours, they returned to Elias and Hermann Nelky, who were alrea waiting for them with their harnessed horses, and drove through Treuenbriet.

through, until behind the nearby Chauyéehaus on the road to Berlin, and this was done out so that, in case of pursuit, the escape could not be hindered by the barrier of the ChauUschan«. Hermann Nelky stayed here with the Fuhry works, but his two brothers and Léwenthal went to the city

They first tried to break into the cloth manufacturer, owned by Elias Nelky, but, after the already blown off the outer window shutter, they refrained from doing so because the man in the building opposite began to pump water from the nearby house. They then went to two freight wagons parked in front of the Gasthof zur Sonne, which Löwenthal and Louis Nelky had identified as unentdeckt. Louis Nelky carried a Kaut*) with him.

With this, he cut the ropes and then one of the bales that were secured in the belly of the wagon. Each of the three thieves took as much of the tinsel as he could carry.

could, went with it to the end of the city, and laid it on a a hidden place. After the thieves had made this route several more times, they were no longer able to carry the amount of stolen goods to their vehicle, which was waiting behind the highway.

works. Hermann Nelky was therefore brought along with the same, the stolen goods were loaded, and then another

They drove to the Gasthof zur Sonne. After they had transferred a few packages from the freight wagon to their own, they noticed a man lying in the window of a neighboring house and continued on the road to Wittenberg.

Soon, however, they considered that that eyewitness could easily have been mistaken about the case, and that they could then report it on the enclosed

This reflection determined them to drive back through Treuenbrietzen to gain access to the road to Potsdam. Before doing so, the wagon plan was lowered.

Machine Translated by Google

fen to give the vehicle a different shape, since they were in front of the

1) Kaut, as already mentioned, is the knife used for stealing freight wagons, for cutting passengers, ie for slaughtering the gose. It is a so-called knob with a, usually

ly round, wooden handles, and a short, strong inlaid blade with a sharp, sometimes rounded

188

They had to drive past the Gasthof zur Sonne again. When they actually passed by, the man mentioned was still lying in the window.

The crooks then drove, without stopping, to Nauen, where, in an inn, the division of the stolen goods took place.

From Nauen, they went directly to Magdeburg to attempt the theft in the local bank. After the insurance

Elias Nelly was about to steal a significant sum of money

„ten, but so yharsh to arrive that two of the most capable althmary

The two key thieves, Itzig Prenzlauer (alias Quitscher) from Gardelegen, and Baruch Behrens from Calbe a. M., had made futile attempts and had to leave without accomplishing their task because they were not able to make the necessary key.

Léwenthall was willing to look at the key, and so Louis Nelky, after their joint arrival in Magy deburg, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, when the officials are usually absent, into the bank building. Here he showed him a housey

The door on the left side of the corridor was the one that had to be opened, as it led to room in which large sums of money were constantly kept in bags. At the moment

Léwenthall approached the door to take a wax impression of the lock, an official stepped out to meet him.

who asked what he wanted. Léwenthall replied quickly ler version: he was a stranger, from Nowaweyy near Potsdam, wanted to deposit 80

Louis d'or in the bank and inquire about the form

under which this had to be done. He received a reply appropriate to this lie and left with companion. After both had wandered around the city for half an hour, they left, hoping the offices would be cleared by the officials.

ten would now be abandoned, returned to the bank, found that questionable. The rooms were now locked, and Löwenthal then took a wax impression of the lock, which had the shape of a Z.

From Wolmirstadt, where Löwenthal went the following day with Louis Nelky,

Löwenthal wrote a letter to Hartwig

Jonas in Berlin, who was very skilled in making duplicate keys was, packed the same, along with the wax impression and 9 thalers in Kayyeny's instructions that he and Louis Nelky gave in a sealed box and sent it to his wife in Berlin with the instruction, yet unopened, to Hartwig Jonas. In the letter sealed in the box, Hartwig Jonas was asked:

1) to make a key from the wax impression, 2) then to come to Magdeburg as soon as possible, 3) to use the 9 thalers found as travel money,

4) immediately, with the designation: post restant, to Magdeburg Nachy to say whether and when he would come.

On Friday this box was sent by Löwenthal to the post office:

Machine Translated by Google

189

ben, and the very next Tuesday, Hartwig Jonas's acknowledgement of receipt arrived. On Wednesday evening, Löwenthal learned that a gentleman in a Magdeburg inn had asked for him.

Immediately suspecting Hartwig Jonas, he went to Magdeburg and actually met him there in the apartment of Elias Nelky, who had given him shelter and already introduced him to the bank's location. Hartwig Jonas hadn't brought a key with him and wanted to retrieve it only in Magdeburg. The following preliminary arrangements were made regarding the manner of carrying out the theft:

The execution itself was to take place at midday, between 1 and 2 o'clock. Hartwig

Jonas was to open the door, and a second person was to enter the designated room with him. After both had filled their pockets with money, they were to leave the premises, the two others, who had been keeping watch in the meantime, were to relieve them.

Accordingly, Louis Nelky had already dressed in a fine down coat with special deep pockets to carry the money he wanted to steal, when the crooks' plans were thwarted by an unexpected incident. A police search took place unexpectedly at Elias Nelky's apartment. Hartwig Jonas, who had no credentials at all and was only released at the request of Löwenthal, who had a legal passport.

Then, he went with him to the inn "Zur Stadt Braunschweig," and since he did not consider himself safe there either, to the inn "Zum Anker" in the Neustadt. Here they met the thieves Jakob Geryon Léwenystein, Isaac Moyes Sachye from Bismark, Joseph Fycher from Betsche, Samuel Moyes Sachye from Calbe a. M., and Harry Lilienthal from Wolmirstadt. When a police commission appeared here that evening and demanded the passports of all these people, Jonas sneaked out of the room and fled, leaving behind his coat and cap, straight to Wolmirstadt. Harry Lilienthal took his documents and returned them to him the following day.

In this way, the planned theft in the bank was prevented, but only temporarily, because Hartwig Jonas promised to make the key in Berlin and to return to Magdeburg later.

At the same time, however, he had brought up the fact that the university treasury had been taken over by the vigilante Royenthal in Berlin, which, however, had to be stolen before New Year's because, as he said, that was when the salaries of the professors would be paid and would deplete the funds.

The treasury of the Royal University had already been raided in 1829 by the Jewish student Marcus , the vigilante Royenthal, and at the latter's event on March 3, 1829, at noon, by Hartwig Jonas and the Jewish thieves Moses Simon Bernhardt and Carl

Friedrich Becker had made an unsuccessful attempt to steal this cash register. Over time, a double door had been installed in front of the office door, which Hartwig Jonas had opened at the time, and the lock had also been changed. This same student had recently disclosed the location and the entire remaining location of the office and cash register to the thieves.

When Hartwig Jonas returned from Magdeburg to Berlin, Louis Nelky, Lowenthal, and Samuel Moses Sachs promised to follow him as soon as possible to carry out the theft in the quayside together with him. Two days after Jonas's departure, they set out or boarded the train there, and traveled to Potsdam. By then, they had run out of money. Samuel Sachs therefore went to his brother Abraham, who lived in Potsdam, borrowed a sum from him, and rented three seats for himself and his traveling companions on the passenger car traveling between Berlin and Potsdam.

As they were about to get in, Lowenthal heard the voices of two well-known sharpshooters from the car, and this determined Sachs and Nelky to stay behind and abandon their paid seats, as they did not want anyone to know that the three of them had traveled Berlin together; for this could subsequently give rise to suspicion against them. – Such was the caution of these sly crooks!

So on this occasion only Löwenthal left for Berlin, while Sachse and Nelky left on another ship at noon. They promised to follow the car.

Upon arriving in Berlin, Lowenthal immediately informed Hartwig Jonas that his two companions would be arriving in the afternoon, whereupon it was decided to carry out the theft that same night. Therefore, when, at about 5:00 a.m.,

At noon, Sachse and Nelky arrived at Lowenthal's apartment to report their arrival, he ordered them to come to the

New Friedrichsbrücke, the usual meeting place of the very famous Jewish thieves. Here the four comrades met for the festive set time, and from here they went to the university building. Lowenthal had the spare keys with him. Since there was still light in the university building, the thieves limited themselves to trying to discuss how to gain entrance.

The university building consists of a transverse building and two side wings. The resulting forecourt, facing the Opera Square, is enclosed by a high iron gate, which is locked at night. Beyond this forecourt, on the ground floor of the left wing, lies the auditorium. A corridor leads from the forecourt to the various rooms of this wing.

They passed, and he was at the far end of a room (auditorium), which is provided with 2 windows, which are small fenced garden, the entrance gate of which is about 100 paces from the main guardhouse.

191

The thieves first sneaked through a hole in the front of the wing connecting door to the corridor, open the door to the auditorium using a ratchet key, one of the mentioned

two windows, and now withdrew, hoping that the enemy

The window was not noticed and the entrance was left open for them. After a drill was bought in a hardware store on Königsstraße, Sachs and Nelky were taken to detached from the university building to keep an eye on who is leaving and enter, and whether everything would remain safe. Löwenthal and Jonas did not want to arrive until 11 o'clock, since the break-in had not happened earlier. It could be dared. Accordingly, at 11 o'clock Löwenthal picked up Hartwig Jonas from his apartment in the Rosenstraße by calling out the name "Müller" in front of the house, as agreed.

Machine Translated by Google

At the university they found Sachs and Nelky; however, it still seemed too early for their purpose, and so they walked up and down the linden trees several more times until it was almost midnight.

The previously opened window of the auditorium was still open.

Löwenthal climbed through it, found the door leading to the corridor unlocked, and then, walking along the corridor, to the entrance door on the opera house side, in front of which his comrades were waiting.

door (a double door) was closed and bolted. Lowenthal pulled back the bolts and the common

The four thieves' efforts succeeded in pushing the lock back, which isn't very difficult with double doors. Nelky remained in front of the door, while Sachs remained inside, keeping watch.

By opening a door using a duplicate key, they

The thieves entered the university court registry, from there, through a second, unlocked door, into the session room, and through a third, also unlocked door, into the university judge's study. In front of a door leading from this room into the bureau, stood a writing desk. They pushed aside and pried open by Hartwig Jonas with a chisel, but no money was found.

The attempt to open the connecting door with the spare key failed because the key was stuck in the lock from the inside.

Using the drill and the crooked head, the lower panel was removed from the door. The result was

The thieves crept into the quarey room. Here Löwenthal found a light, which he turned on by means of a chemical fire

stuff, lit,

In the room itself, the three existing lockers were first broken into in such a way that the thieves placed the crowbar between the door and the locker wall, into the resulting opening the previously mentioned wooden wedge brought by ytcher) and, reaching further with the crowbar, forcibly blew off the door and lock. Then the writing desks were broken open in the same way, and from all these containers the cash, consisting of treasury bills, gold, and current, was removed.

Löwenthal (Aby

192

In one of the broken desks, the thieves found several keys and, by shining a light around the room, discovered a door covered with sheet metal. Upon attempting to open it, one of the thieves found there unlocked it, and thus the thieves entered the actual safe. Here stood two iron chests, which the thieves opened with a crowbar, in the same way as the lockers.

One of these boxes contained two smaller tin ones, containing government bonds. The thieves left these behind. In the other box, however, they found one completely covered with a bag filled with bank money, and a smaller bag with Louis d'ors.

With all the booty, Lowenthal and Hartwig Foss returned the way they had come.

At the broken

They found Nelky and Sachse at the entrance door, and everyone

They now went to the home of the widow Jonas (mother of Hartwig Jonas) in Royenthalerstraße. Here, where Moy

After the arrival of Mr. Jonas, the division of the stolen money, amounting to more than 2300 thalers, took place, with the exception of 70 Louis d'ors and a few hundred thalers in cash and jewelry

and maritime trading bonds that Lowenthal and Jonas embezzled from their comrades.

Machine Translated by Google

As already mentioned, Lowenthal's share was still largely in his possession when he was arrested shortly afterwards; but with Hartwig Jonas, although his conviction

liability occurred no less than a few weeks later, no cash was found at all, and it is therefore highly probable that he lost his share, both in this and in the other, 14 days later

carried out, theft in the Nicolai's bookshop, somewhere nearby brought or buried. All investigations on this point have, however, remained unsuccessful. N

Samuel Sachs was born in 1831, when he was just in Magy
but should be arrested, and has not been arrested until now greetings.

Vi.

The Jewish

thieves' or Kochemer language.

Digitized by Google

The Gauner y or thief language has existed in Germany since time immemorial. It was invented to deny the widespread and rogue connections in the country, their otherwise lacking social ycent character, their destructive actions and activities the eiy

It is also intended to nurture and maintain the necessary caste spirit among the crooks and scoundrels.

ten; it is the vehicle by which they recognize each other, like the adepts of certain mysterious societies by their secret signs.

Knowledge of criminal language is therefore among the highest demands that one can place on a competent criminal and police officer, and it is not right that this branch of practical knowledge has generally been given so little attention. When faced with a criminal, an inveterate thief, as an inquirer, what use is all his learning to the judge?

ity, its penetration into the spirit of the general and ypecialy

len legislation; which gives the security officer fine theoretical knowledge Science? The rabble that so frequently touches upon its sphere of influence cannot always be brought under specific paragraphs, nor can it be judged by Pandects and Cameralia. One must lower oneself to their sphere, study their character, and especially make their language one's own if one wants to defend oneself against Ganner and handy factory thieves appear with vigor, and successes for public safety from inquisitorial or police official actionsy

what you want to expect.

The correctness of this is evident from almost every page of the investigation files kept here and has also been confirmed previously by several of the most distinguished criminalists and police officers office. The crook's second mother tongue is his societyy language, and where he can converse in it, he feels more at home than where he is confined to unfamiliar paraphrases.

He prefers to say Taltel instead of Nachschluyyyel or Dietrich, rather poychenen instead of aufyschlocken, rather ehren instead of

Machine Translated by Google

buy and the like. One only has to see the man, how his features, until now perhaps a wax mask of indifference, suddenly become animated, how his eyes flash, like a peacock.

A smile plays around his lips as soon as his ear hears the familiar sounds; he cannot resist the thrill to bern, to cuddle, to barlen; he becomes familiar, and, even if he still cuddles, he allows himself to be carried away by revelations that would otherwise never have happened.

_196

To say more about the usefulness of the knowledge of thieves'

language, especially about how with its help one can so often thwart the plans of criminals, the secret writing of their correspondence

After what I have already stated and what others have written about it, I consider it superfluous that this knowledge can alleviate tensions and prevent countless collusions. However, while von Grolman claims, and probably not unjustly, that knowledge of criminal language is beneficial and useful for every private citizen, even in the midst of civil society, it should not be lacking in any criminal investigator or security officer.

The German ("Gaunery, Diebesy, Spitzbubeny, Schurery or Kaloyscheny language, which are the general names for the jargon under consideration here, actually falls into two main sections, namely the Nothwelyschey and the actual Jeni-yschey or Kochemerylanguage.

J. The so-called Rothwelych is basically nothing more than a gruesome corruption of originally German words, arising from the fact that one either uses the initial letters of the words ter at the back, but the final letters at the front, or the vowels are doubled with consonants, or finally each word is given a specific end syllable. According to this, one distinguishes in Rothy which usually have four special divisions of word formation, they each has its own rules. –

Although it is a fact that this, in the German Spitz

bubenwelt formerly probably very common, language yince quite some time no longer belongs to the living, so it might not be unhelpful to get to know it a little better.

The first kind of emergency consists in the fact that all sily ben is pronounced twice, with the letter p interposed. There are four rules for this:

1) A syllable which begins with a consonant and ends with a self-sound is pronounced twice, in such a way that in the repetition it retains its front self-sound, as the beginningy letters, and in its place a p is placed in front of it; e.g. du: dupu; neu: neupeu;

wo: wopo; blau: blauplau yc.

2) If a syllable begins with a self-sound and ends with a consonant, its doubling occurs in such a way that when pronouncing the first syllable, the final consonant is omitted,

") | deliberately ask the German one, because in other countries too,
Mentally in France, a crook or scoundrel has been around for years

Machine Translated by Google

ypeyhment (L'argot) about which the Memoires de Vidocq in particular provide some inter:
rejections.

consonant in the Rieden-holten syllable. E.g., we – wipir, house – Haupaus, sack – Sapack, komm – kopomm, much – viepiel yc.

3) If a syllable begins with a self-sound, which has a or several consonants with it, it will be translated in this way double, that first the front vowel and then the whole syllable is pronounced with a p in front of it. E.g. as: Ast – Apayt, all – apall, Ochs – Opochs, als – apals etc.

4) A syllable that consists of only one self-sound or of two is first pronounced in its entirety, and then, at the repetition fetch, a p in front of it. E.g. au – aupau, ei – eipei yc.

This way of speaking certainly appears very simple and also sounds rather silly;

however, its peculiarity lies primarily in its fluent and rapid pronunciation, which must be incomprehensible to any uninitiated person. If, for example, one were to say quickly one and the other: Ipich biy

pin heupeutepe früpüh beipei meipeinepem Freupeundepe gepeweyepen (I was with my friend this morning), Yo an uninformed person would probably be able to ytidily understand this.

The second type of Rothwelychen is already somewhat ychiffiy ger and requires greater practice to achieve a tolerable level of language skills, although it only consists of the following two rules.

1) Every syllable beginning with a consonant removes the consonant from the front and places it at the back, where an e is then added. E.g., mich – ichme, dich – ichde, groß – roBge, dick – ickde ye.

2) If a syllable is not pronounced with a consonant, but with a begins with a self-sound and therefore has no consonant in front of it which can take the e with it, so the syllable is pronounced according to its natural sound and the letters we add at the end, where the letter w then takes the place of the missing consonant and takes the e with it, because all syllables in this type of Rothwelych must end in e. ZE ic ichwe, als – alswe, ach – achwe, ist – istwe ye.

If one wanted to say: the jug goes to water until it breaks, this would be expressed in Rothwelych as follows:

ausypronounced: erde Rugke ehtge oye auleege uze Ayy weerye, isbe erwe richtbez what only a very well-informed person would be able to understand, especially if the pronunciation is quick and fluent.

The third type of Rothwelychen is when each Kony

yonantly doubled, with the interposition of an 0; as: b – bob, f – fof, g – gog, k – kok,

The vowels remain undoubled and are pronounced as they sound, so that the whole language actually consists only in a vowel sound,

198

Machine Translated by Google

and is therefore quite boring and tiring. If, for example, one wanted to say:
a good word finds a good place, this would have to be expressed like this:
einon gogutot Woworortot fofy

inondodetot einone gogutote Soytotelollle.

A fourth type of Rothwelych consists in placing the letters myer after the first vowel of each syllable and addressing the syllable according to the resulting sound; as: ich – imyer, du – dumyer, stark – Ytamyer, yschwach

yschwamyer ye. a |

This type of Rothwelych is exceptionally easy to speak and understand, and was also very common among Berlin's youth several years ago.

Now, both the Jenisch (rogue) and the Gypsy language have often been understood under the general name: Rothwelsch, which, however, is entirely erroneous. The Gypsy or Romansh language, like the tribe that speaks it, is undoubtedly of Indian origin, related to Sanskrit, and must, in every respect, be considered a unique, independent language. For even if perhaps derived from the same

some words and names have passed into the Yenish language gen find, jo can fie nevertheless be regarded with this nothing less than for ynonim, as I will explain this in more detail in the following wants to set.

Il. The actual Jenische. (Thieves-y) or Kochemery

Language is a confused jumble of words, which, as v. Dydy czinski") very aptly says, the wit, the cheek and the villainy from almost all dead and living European languages together raUt, or perhaps chance has thrown them together. They are partly borrowed from the Gypsy language"), partly self-invented ), partly they are provincialisms f), partly finally, and most importantly, they are heretical Hebrew words, as can be seen from a closer etymoy logical investigation undoubtedly reveals this. Often, indeed most of the time, such words in the thieves' language have a completely different meaning.

but retain their original meaning. –

*) Police Commissioner von Dydezinski in Berlin. He wrote in his

"Contributions to Facilitating the Success of Practical Police," 2nd Year: Issue Nos. 34 and 35, a short, interesting treatise on the language of thieves.

delivered.

As: Schurer (from Tychorr, zigeunerifh) thief; Schuder, the town servant, police officer; Schukel, the dog; glitychen, ychliken ye.

) These include the words: Eimerling, Eimer; Eckbreh, Brucke; lyewie, Wieye; Esters weh, Schyter; Flatfu8, Gans; Hitzling, Ofen; Elfeld, Feld and many others.

+) 8. B. tubers (noodles), potatoes; batzchen, egg; blatteln, card playing; buckel n, carry; tobig, tobacco; kalatschen, cake etc.

The Jenifbe language can also be quite conveniently divided into two main sections, namely, as it is spoken 1) by the Jewish people, and | 2) by the scoundrels of written origin.

Machine Translated by Google

Just as by the nature and manner of their crimes, so differy

The Jewish crooks also distinguish themselves from their Christian colleagues through their terminology, as | have already mentioned. While the latter have different names for the same objects in almost every province, so that they often have difficulty understanding each other, the Jewish jargon is the same throughout Germany and is spoken on the Baltic Sea.

chen, such as on the Rhine and the Danube. The reason for this arises undeniably from the fact that almost all the words of these home language, to the Hebrew and Jewish-German language, which is known to be the same everywhere. The non-Hebrew, on the other hand, finds the Jewish dialect difficult; he Germanizes the words handed down to him in this dialect and pronounces them according to the dialect that is common in his native region); and this explains why the language of the Christian thieves in Germany is so different among themselves, and from generation generation

generation has deviated more and more from the idiom of the Jews, whether the same with the language of those who are confident that they have a basis.

The origin of the thieves' language in Germany is certainly very old, and probably dates back to those dark times of the Middle Ages of their early age, when the idea of a state and security police was not yet conceivable,

they were still in their earliest childhood.

As with the Tower of Babel, Germany, constantly torn apart by internal wars, was filled with reckless people and impudent thugs from all countries, serving any lord for money and occasionally robbing and plundering on their own. The border campaigns and later the Thirty Years' War may have contributed in particular to filling Germany with all kinds of foreign to flood the whole world, which, even after the restoration of civil order, left behind gangs and thieves as lasting monuments of their devastating presence. These scoundrels, however, belonged to the most diverse nations; they spoke just as many languages, and since each of them provided individual vocabulary, their mixture undoubtedly gave rise to gibberish, which still presumably used today as a social language in the world of rogues. Manu finds

) So says the Christian scoundrel, ytt gedin, ehrlich; G' Schock the market, ýtt Schuck; E the house, ytt Bajes; kiyndigen nnd koyniy

gen, kaufen, yatt kinjenen; Leben und Leagem, Brod, yt Lechem; Mas ches, high lord, yt Ma Lethyam, the muyikant, ýt Lezannim, the Mufifantens Kloben, the dog, yt Klobim, the dogs e still in it, besides Hebrew and Gypsy, also Tateinifche*), French), Dutch), and other words whose origin which one can often hardly recognize anymore.

200

The oldest known dictionary of German thieves' language is a small booklet, which was published in 1520 in Frankfurt am Main and appeared under the following title:

Liber vagatorum, the Order of Mendicants. Here follows a pretty little book called Liber vagatorum, dictated by a very reverend

Machine Translated by Google

yter nomine expertus in truyis to Adone to praise and ere, yibi in refrigerium et yolaum, to all men for a underwyung and lere, and to those who use this Ytuck for a

beyyyeryung and bey kerung e. N

This writing is divided into three sections, of which the two ytern describe the mischief of the beggars at that time, but the third Contains a vocabulary of thieves' language, comprising two hundred words. Most of these words are indeed outdated and have fallen almost entirely out of use during the more than 300-year period that has since passed; however, there are also some among them that can still be found in thieves' language today, and in this respect, this in itself constit interesting work in literature.

ture of that language, still occupies a noteworthy position.

The same has subsequently experienced several editions, in which the same Dictionary, and of which | have the following

both became known:

1) Report of the false beggar's roguery. First in a pleasant conversation

yc. Then in a detailed

A treatise, called Expertus in truphis, on all kinds of mischief and pranks of beggars, which Dr.

Martin Luther again prepared for printing, and adorned with a foreword and a short reminder

*) As: Patris (from pater) father; grannig (from grandis) big, good; Terra, the land, the earth uma

) The thieves' language possesses a large number of corrupted (Germanized) French words, which have probably only recently emerged through the combination of the former Rhe German and French

Zoyyiychen scoundrels, may have arisen. 3. B. Heloyche (from Horloge) the clock; Montann (C Montagne) mountain; Fene ter, window; Schany

dell, the light; Batum (from Baton) the stick etc.

) This might include: juverbo.oUen, swear, curse uma

+) 3. B. BoB, hauß (house); barlen, redenn (to talk); BreitfuyB, 0

(goose) or ent (duck); FloB ling, yiyh (fish); Galch, pfaU (peacocks); ,uien, hund (dog) ye. yc. Not to mention the Jewish scoundrel expressions that may be found among them, which, almost without exception, have been found up to now.

to have, as: to eat, to eat; to go, to eat...

"N

++) Preface by Dr. M. Lutheri, as in the above-mentioned book: "Report!"

yc. printed to read is:

201

God's Word, concerning the cousins. Also the accused Rohty whose grammar explains most of their language is now made known to everyone as a warning and a source of information. Printed in the year MDCXVII.

2) The Rotwelysche Grammatic, that is, from the Barlen of

Machine Translated by Google

Wanderyhaft, whereby the Weissshulmen were vopt, the Hautzin bey tied up, and the Horcken monied, so that Stetinger and Spety ling Gberkompt, in writingyBoB Johann to Yéchern and with Ribling to rüren. This is:

A guide and report of the country guides and beggars' language, who are called Rotwelych, thereby lying to the simple-minded, the Bewy rin beysch – and Bawren are cheated: so that one Gùlden and Heller vuberkémp, to drink wine in the common house, and to play with dice. Printed in the year Christ 1620.

Apart from these, as far as is known, only

Here are some more interesting treatises on the Nothwelysche and Gaunerysprache:

Detailed work on the main German language,

by Juyto Georgio Schottelio D. – Braunschweig. Printed and distributed published by ChristoU Friedrich Zilligern, bookseller. Anno MDCLXIII.

Strange and true faces of Phylanders of Sity

tewald, that is, StraUySchriUten Hans Michael Moycheroych von

This little book on beggarly roguery was previously printed by someone who calls himself a expert in truphis, that is, a truly experienced fellow in roguery, which this little book

if he hadn't called himself that. However, | considered it a good idea that such a little remain in print, but also become widely known, so that people could see and understand how the devil rules the world, whether it were to be believed, and become wise and beware of him that such a French language came from the Jews, for many Hebrew words are found in it, as seen by those who understand Hebrew. But the wisdom and right understanding, the faithful this little book, is certainly this: that princes, lords, councils in cities, and everyone should be wise and look out for beggars, and know that if one does not want to give and help the poor and needy neighbors, as God has commanded, then one can, instead of the devil's i through God's righteous judgment, give ten to such treacherous, desperate rascals.

times as much as we have previously thought of the monasteries, churches, monasteries, cha
The monks have also done this by abandoning the truly poor. Therefore, every city and vill rightfully know and acknowledge its own poor, as recorded in the register, so that they m However, foreign or strange beggars should not suffer without a letter or testimony. For t much wickedness because of this, as this little book reports. And if every city warned its such wickedness would soon be stopped and prevented. | myself have been so tempted and ten

by such

Vagabonds and tongue-thrashers, more than | want to confess. Therefore, warned, whoever wants to be warned, and do good to his neighbor according to Christy cher love, kindness and commandment. God bless us, Amen.

202

Machine Translated by Google

Wilytadt, in which all worldly beings, all human dealings, clothed with their natural colors of vanity, violence, hypocrisy, foolishness, are publicly displayed as in a gamey

gel represented and seen. Strasbourg. Printed and published by Josias Stadeln. MDCLXXVII.

Official news of a numerous gang of thieves, which a co-culprit imprisoned in Hildyburghauseny

The young thief was discovered. Along with an appendage, including the thieves Johann Georg Schwartzmiller and Friedrich Werner, who were executed here in 1745, seduced the Inquisition.

Also a list of words used in rogue language.

New edition, enlarged in the SpitzbubenyLexico. Hildburg hausen, 1753.

Rothwelysche Grammatic oder Sprachkunst, that is, inytruyons on how to speak and understand this language in a few hours.

Especially for the benefit and advantage of those who travel, find themselves in taverns and other social gatherings, to recognize the rabble of scoundrels who insinuate themselves to this language, in order to thereby escape their thieving attacks. Along with some historical imitations through which a beginner can more quickly attain perfection. Frankfurt am Main, 1755.

Valuable contributions to the knowledge of thieves' language were also made by the district administrator ScheUer of Stuttgart, in his in 1793 published book: "Outline of the crooks and beggars in Swabia, (Th. 1. Chapter 15.) then the news which in the year 1791 about the notorious thief arrested in Sulz am Neckar, Konytanzer Hans, appeared, and finally the clerk Mejer zu Hannover, in the general gazette of the Germans, year gang 1807 uf, some treatises on the thieves' language in Print have appeared, which, however, are not within my control arrived.

More important, however, than any previous period, was the nineteenth century for the literature of thieves' language. The outbreak of the French Revolution, as is well known, recalled in many respects the times of the Thirty Years' War and made Germany, for many years to come, a playground for foreign and native warriors. First, it was Suvorov, who, at the head of a Russian army, marched through Germany to the Rhine to fight the Jacobin armies. Following his and his successor's repeated campaigns, ten, in the form of sutlers, large swarms of Polish Jews

those who were, in essence, nothing more than crooks and scoundrels, who left their hideouts, the small, dark Polish Jewish towns, only in the hope of finding richer prey for their criminal talents in Germany's more blessed lands.

A large number of ihuen remained in Germany, and increased and 203

Machine Translated by Google

united the thieving rabble which the chaos of war had already begun to give birth to.

Napoleon's plans of conquest rekindled the war torch until 1815; French armies overy ywallowed the exhausted Germany and drained it dry. The military. tairherryschaft griU with iron arbitrariness in the patriotic inytituy tions, and restricted the bourgeois police to powerless limits.

The usurper's generals cared little about the social welfare of the occupied enemy country; they opened the discipliney houses, the cachots of the fortresses, and the dregs of humanity rushed joyfully back into the world to begin anew a life of shame, interrupted by the effect of the laws.

How admirable it was that under such auspices, where the arm of the law appeared paralyzed, even the law of robbers and thievesy yindel raised his head more brazenly than ever? The country roads were uny Certainly, the forests came to life, and crime no longer dreaded the day. The first fruit of this unfortunate situation was the infamous Schinderhannes and his gang, which, as is well known, consisted largely of Jews. He was followed, to name only the most striking phenomena, by the so-called Niey derlanderyBande, then Damian HeUel, ylater the Vogelsberger, Wety Terauery and Speyyartwald gangs; and finally there was a breaky from also the Horst's Thieves' and Arsonists' Lodge, which was prosecuted in Berlin in 1810 and 1811.

When, finally, after the pacification of the German states and the return of official power, those robbers and their societies were gradually broken up and captured, people first became acquainted with the true nature of thieving during police operations and subsequent painful interrogations, and were amazed at its barely imaginable danger. In particular, they now discovered the great importance of thieving language, which had previously been so little noticed, in police and criminal practice.

from all sides she suddenly received the attention she deservedy attention, and witty men held a closer examination research into them is no longer a waste of time.

Thus, apart from the notes on the thieves' language, which Rebmann'), v.
Grolman"), Herrmann") and Stuhlmily ler) have episodically woven into their works, especially eight ) Rebmann, Damian Heyssel and his fellow robbers. Mainz 1811.

) v. Grolman, Documentary History of the Vogelsberg and Wetterau Robber Gangs. Gieyyen, 1813.

*) Herrmann, Short History of the Criminal Trial Against the Firey ytifter Horst. Berlin, 1819.

+) Stuhlmiller, complete reports on a police investigation against 5 districts spread throughout Germany and its neighbouring statesy nerban n. 0

204

Collections of words which have appeared in print under the following titles, partly as appendices, partly independently; as:

Machine Translated by Google

) A documented history of the robber bands on both banks of the Main, in the Spesart and the Odenwald, by city director Pfister. Heidelberg, 1812. 3 vols.

The lexicon of the Jenisch language, which is contained in this booky ten is quite detailed, but also quite faulty; the gentleman

The author has also acted in his official position as an investigator

Judges of the Speyyarty and Odenwaldery gangs, found themselves almost exclusively dealing scoundrels of written origin, and his work therefore concerns almost exclusively the jargo was spoken at that time, in that region, by this class of criminals.

2) Alphabetical list of a number of robbers, thieves, and vagabonds, including an explanatory account of the various types, lifestyles, and language of these scoundrels, by CD Christensen, Royal Danish Justice and Police Master in Kiel. Hamburg, 1814.

In the dictionary which the author of this work provides, and which is also extremely rich linguistic and printing errors, he has made an excellent effort to demonstrate that his ex with the Ganner language, with those of the city director Pfister, are entirely consistent be completely different. It shows the more than usual interest that the author took in the subject, and his work, despite the many errors contained therein, is still very meritorious. It confirms what I have stated above as a fact, namely, that the language of the Jewish Jewish and non-Jewish crooks are quite different from each other.

For just as Pyivter had only come into contact with the latter, so had Christeniyen almost only come into contact with Jews, and hence the sharp differences of these two authors regarding their experiences with the thieves.

terminologies.

3) Attempt to present the different classes of thieves, burglars, thieves and stolen goods dealers, with particular regard to the most excellent means of gaining control of them, their

to discover and prevent breakage etc., by Carl Falkenberg,

To the Royal Prussian Court Councillor. Berlin, 1818. 2 volumes.

In the sixth section of the second part of this work, the author has dealt with thieves' terminology in seven paragraphs, and in it, besides some errors, has said much that is true and faithful.

Falkenberg's name takes an honorable place in the patristic

Police history; it was he, in particular, who rendered great service to public safety during the pursuit and capture of Horst's thieves and arsonists, and on this occasion, his observations on the mischief of the scoundrels and their language were also made. If I now, regarding

205

If I accuse the latter of some errors in his estimable work, as mentioned above, I do so not because I wish to pose as a critic, but only because the nature of the subject itself imposes this duty on me.

Falkenberg's next error is that he ignores the needy

Welychy, Jenischy and Gypsy languages are all declared to be synonymous, which, as I have already noted, is completely unfounded. Furthermore, the honored author correctly declares Kochem of the Christian

Machine Translated by Google

Spitzbuben, from whom the Jewish one is distinguished, he nevertheless seems to have taken little account of the Hebrew and Jewish-German usage when writing down his dictionary, which has given rise to many a qui pro quo.

4) The Kocheme Waldiwerei in the Reussian Market, or the scoundrels and their types in the Reussian Voigtland and the surrounding area; their tactics, their whereabouts, and their language; written by the Grand Ducal Saxon Church 5 Anna ol Allen: Dr. Bishop in Weida,

Neustadt, 1

This 81-page booklet is divided into four sections, from the

The last one deals with the thieves' language or the Kocheme Waldiwerei in the Reussische Martine. With greater intelligence than all previous

This dictionary has been compiled and testifies that the author has studied the subject with attention and love. Here, too, one frequently finds comparisons with Pister's dictionary, although very significant differences often become apparent. This, however, can be explained simply by the fact that

This is due to the fact that the language of Christian thieves is different in almost every province, but also because Pfister's dictionary is very inaccurate, and finally, that the language itself has changed several times since its publication. – Dr. Bishop also owes his experiences to moderately only scoundrels of Christian descent, and fine work 15 ne also exclusively had only their forestry as its object

5) Dictionary of the rogue languages common in Germany, by FLA v. Grolman, Grand Ducal Hessian Court Judge 7. First volume, containing the German rogue, Jenisch or Kochemer languages, with special reference

View of the HebrewyGerman Jewish language. Gieyyen, 1822.

The von Grolman's is one of the richest of all published to datey

The author himself says in a fine preface to it that he has spent eleven years (!) compiling it, and indeed, when one considers the quantity or vastness of the words contained therein, the question might arise for almost every new author whether he is not scattering oats among the wheat by bringing this topic anew under the heading of which takes. However, if one becomes more familiar with this opus, one will soon find relief from such concerns.

206

v. Grolman claims that his work is almost entirely the result of his own, more than twenty years of experience. If this is really the case, his official position during this time must have brought him into almost constant contact with professional scoundrels, especially those who were always compliant enough to share their trade secrets with him, where he was free to do so.

lich a special Schickytbegyt could ytrich boast.

Judeyyen, the esteemed author has certainly also expanded it in such a wayy

In the strictest sense, this does not refer to his own experience, as he himself has referred to Pfister's and Christensen's lists of words. The author, on the other hand, has made no mention of Falkenberg's meritorious work, although he has included it (even its errors not excluding it) in the nige alyt kompletyt included.

Machine Translated by Google

The v. Grolman dictionary has the language of Christian and Jewish thieves as its subject, and takes into account respect, as the title says, also to the "EbraiychyTeutysche Jndeny ypoyt language" reference. One finds, of course, among the words a lot of purely Hebrew terminologies, the plural of which the author himself has never forgotten to cite as a special word; however, the question arises whether the reader and those willing to learn, as well as the language expert will at all, thereby really something is gained? The Hebrew

German language of the Jews, the Loyhaun ha kaudiych, is all

However, it is closely interwoven with their thieving language, because this mostly originated from the former; but in a lexicon of the thieving language

it would also be possible to include such purely Hebrew expressions, for which yche present and which are not, by the use of language, to share the GanneryGeyschaftsytsprache find, that seems to me to be unprofessional and only to lead to misjudgment.

That errors and misunderstandings are also present in this book has been sufficiently demonstrated by others before me, especially von Dydczinsky. These can be found on every page, of which I will here select only a few of the more significant ones.

then wants.

For example, it says on the very first page: Akohtivisch Loy ychen, the Jewish language, ytill Loyschaun ha kaudiyisch; – Amhoy

5) 3. B. Bohre, Burr, Kuh, OchYe, (has pore;) Bonum, Geyache, (yt denim; Bekure (jt chawure) lay, bury; Blatte (yt platte)

Putty, thieves' den; on the capstan (Vt. pill) Ypurr (yt. ychnory

ren) to beg under the pretext of falling addiction; Blatt beyieg (instead of Platte Peyich or front door lock yc. Yc. Von Orolman included exactly the same errors in his dictionary, he reformulated even more incorrectly. For example, in Falkenberg's words: buche: Balboyt, innkeeper; but von Grolman translated: Balls doyt, the robbed!! Yc. Yc rez, failed thieft (), Ytatt: fool, lawbreaker y knowledgeable. Furthermore: baths, teachers, instead of: Bochor; – Bechay juss, by life and limb, instead of: Be chayeyy; – Bejazzof, place where thieves gather, instead of: Wiazzef; – Bekawle, ge feUelt, instead of: Bechaule caught; – Biyykebuh, excuse, exculpationy digung, Yatt: Piyyychenypeh; – Blathe, Freiheit, yatt: Pleite or Plete Yc. ic.

It is mole %chibbu ých in this book, and one will tell me let all the often meaning-distorting errors and inaccuracies, which yeen in it, to list them all here, since not its bey

1 but the creation of a new dictionary, my Intention i

The thieves' language is, by the way, compared to other lives y

the languages, is still to be considered as a very word-poor one, and one must therefore be astonished when one sees the exceedingly great richness of von Grolman's lexicon;

however, even regarding this apparent richness of words, one is only too soon enlightened closer examination. The author has given most words four, five, six times, and even more c as they are often pronounced according to the North German provincial dialects.

can be. So

Machine Translated by Google

Dog: Keilef, Keilof, Kehlef Kehblof, Kehluf.

